SEVERAL BANDS, MANY FLOATS TO TAKE PART

Parade To Form Near Water Tower On West 1st Street

The biggest and best parade in the history will formally open the 7th annual Jaycee Rodeo in Littlefield next Thursday afternoon at 4:30 p.m.

Leading this biggest of all, colorful parade will be the Queen of the Rodeo, Miss Ann Gibson, and immediately following will be the Junior Queen, Georgia Ann Matthews and Tiny Cowgirl Caroline Roberts and Tiny Cowboy Donnie Roper, all in cowboyland regalia, and mounted on the pick of horseflesh of all Lamb county.

Following will be several bands, and at least four are expected, a half dozen or more mounted sheriff posses, countless floats, which are under construction and planning now, as well as the boys and girls who will compete in and stage the rodeo, the riders, ropers, bulldoggers, and the funmakers.

Floats entered will compete for $100 or more in float prizes; marching bands will receive trophies, and there will be special awards for the always colorful sheriff posses. Anyone and everyone is invited to take part in the parade, and there will be dozens of mounted paraders not enumerated above.

As announced elsewhere in this paper the parade forms near the water tower on 1st street and is scheduled to travel Delano avenue, a roped-off Phelps avenue, and disband at the rear of the court house.

Immediately following the parade, the Littlefield Sheriff's Posse, who are also accepting responsibility for the parade, and are working hard to make it the most outstanding ever presented here. They will be host to all of the other visiting sheriff posses, and members of their family at a big outdoor picnic and accompanying feed at City Park.

The 1952 rodeo will be presented for the initial performance at 8 p.m., with gates opening an hour earlier.

The arena, stands and grounds have been put in tip-top shape, and advance ticket sales indicate the biggest rodeo crowds in history—and the biggest opening night of all.

Tickets are selling rapidly. Single admissions are $1.50 for adults, and half price for children.

And the show itself is under the direction of that great rodeo showman, and former champion cowboy, Bob Estes of Baird, now one of the nation's leading rodeo producers.

He brings with him a full complement of rodeo performers and handlers. He was responsible for last year's rodeo here, and rodeo fans will remember last year's fast action-packed performances, and this year Estes affirms, will be even.

He also brings the Lone Star rodeo stock, which has been featured at numerous Texas and Southwest rodeos, and the contestants for the arena prizes are going to find themselves with some real competition this year, from the best bunch of rodeo stock ever shown in West Texas.

All in all, if the weatherman will only smile and co-operate, it looks like 1952 will bring the banner rodeo, and the banner crowd.

Irish Potato Project Underway At Springlake With 300 Acres Planted

An industry that has promise in the Springlake area is Irish Potato growing.

J. B. Williams, G. W. Simmons, R. E. Simmons, Richard Etter, and James Deer have a planting project. This group have 300 acres planted to Irish potatoes, and expect to soon start digging the crop June 23 and harvesting same.

According to Mr. G. W. Simmons, the potatoes will be processed at Hart and Herford, and they will sell wholesale only to whomsoever they can.

Lamb County And Hale Properties Reported Sold

Sale of properties formerly owned by the Anton Oil Corp. of Fort Worth to the newly-formed Texas General Production Co. of Houston was announced Thursday.

E. H. Robertson of Fort Worth, who acquired 100 per cent of the stock of Anton, which he is liquidating, contracted to sell his 21.6 per cent interest in the Anton-Irish Clear Fork unit of Southeastern Hale and Southwestern Lamb counties for $7,500,000. A deposit of $250,000 was made by Texas General.

Robertson also contracted to sell undeveloped acreage in the Anton-Irish area. The deal is due to go through June 28.

To Attend Summer Session At Denver University

Thomas E. Ernest, Supervisor in Lamb County Schools, will leave Monday, June 16, for Denver, Colo., where he will enroll for the summer quarter at the University of Denver.

Mr. Ernest is doing work toward his Education Doctor's Degree in the field of education administration and supervision at this Methodist school.

He reports, after having spent the past three summers there, that summer study and recreation are greatly enhanced by the cool nights and days, and that the high range of the Rockies is an inspiring view from the University Park Campus.

He will report back to Littlefield on August 18 to resume his present duties.

WHERE TO BUY YOUR RODEO TICKETS

Jaycee Rodeo tickets are now on sale at the Chamber of Commerce office, Brittain's Pharmacy, Paul Pharris Gulf Service Station, Higginbotham-Bartlett Lumber Co., and Robbins News Stand.

SHOWN ABOVE IS AN EXAMPLE of some of the action you will see if you attend one of the performances of the Seventh Anual Jaycee Rodeo which will begin in Littlefield, Thursday night. Another performance will be held Friday night and the final show will be unreeled at the Jaycee Rodeo Arena at the Fair Grounds Saturday night. Tickets may be purchased now at several stores in Littlefield.

Last Rites Held For S. W. Cooper

Funeral services were held at 10 a.m. Saturday, May 31, in the Madera Funeral Home Chapel, at Madera, California, with Rev. Fred Rhehart officiating, for Samuel Whitfield Cooper, aged 90, who passed away at the Madera County Hospital Tuesday afternoon, May 27.

Mr. Cooper was a native of North Carolina, and a former Littlefield resident. He had lived in Madera for the past five years, and was an active member of the First Methodist Church at that city. He is survived by two sons, William Harvey Cooper, Littlefield; Jack Cooper, Madera; two daughters, Miss Mary Ann Cooper and Mrs. Laura Shuman, both of Texas; two sisters, Mrs. Hannah Winter, Pomona, and Mrs. Laura Wadlow, Texas; three brothers, Robert, Henry and Jacob, all of Texas; five grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Interment took place in Arbor Vitae Cemetery with the Madera Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

The above information was furnished the Leader through the courtesy of Miss Dollie Lackey, a former Littlefield resident, and a subscriber of this newspaper.

Miss Lackey lived in Littlefield a number of years, and has lived in Madera, Cal., and been employed by the Madera Funeral Home for the past twelve years.

WINS AG AWARD—Charles E.

Fisher, superintendent of the Agricultural Experiment Sub-Station at Spur, received $5,000 and a gold medal for being the "Texas agricultural scientist who in the past three years has made the greatest contribution to agriculture in the state." The Hoblitzelle Award was presented the 41-year-old scientist for successfully devising a system for ridding the rangeland of mesquite. —AP Photo

Church Meeting To Consider Building Plans

A conference is scheduled for Sunday night by the First Baptist Church officers to consider the preliminary plans of the new auditorium, planned to be constructed in the very near future.

The floor plans are on display in the entrance to the Auditorium.

The new auditorium will seat 1000 persons on the main floor, with provision for a balcony and transept that will take care of an additional 500. There will also be additional facilities to take care of 250 more in Sunday school.

Some member of the Plans Committee will be in the Church office Sunday afternoon between 3 and 4 o'clock to explain the plans to any who may wish to see them.

IT'S READY

The "dipping" vat was hauled out and has been placed in service again this year. It's located next door to the Southwestern Public Service Co. offices (the usual place)—and the ducking in the tanks is the incentive that will convince local business men that it pays to wear rodeo regalia—to grow a beard or wear a badge. Take your choice—but do something—or a "dipping" you will go.

Seniors Of Enoch High School Visit Royal Gorge, Colo.

The senior class of Enoch High School visited Colorado's famed Royal Gorge on a recent tour.

Sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Dukes. Class members who enjoyed the trip included Wanda Hall, Janet Vestal, Patsy York, Pat Blackman, Ruby Tidwell, Shirley Green, Ralph George, Gary Nichols and Gerald Thompson.

Tuesday Deadline For Planting Cotton; Reports Due June 30

All Lamb county farmers having Federal Crop Insurance are reminded that acreage reports must be made before June 30, 1952.

June 10, 1952 has been set as the deadline date for planting cotton. If you lose your cotton on or after the 10th of June and replant to some crop besides cotton you will draw your indemnity. If you replant to cotton after the 10th of June, you will not draw your indemnity, but would still have insurance on your replanted acreage.

The PMA office is not taking acreage reports and farmers having Federal Crop Insurance that have not turned in their acreage are urged to do so at their earliest possible convenience.

ATTEND CONVENTION

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Ray left for Galveston, Texas, Monday to attend the Elks Club Convention, which convened Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. N. D. Ray.

Parkview Baptist To Host Bob Jones University Band

An unusual program will be presented at the Parkview Baptist Church on Monday, June 9 at 8 p.m. by the Bob Jones University Brass Ensemble. Six young people, representing five states, make up this outstanding group now making a summer tour of the western section of the United States.

The ensemble will offer an entire evening's program during which a brief Gospel message will be brought by William Liverman, leader of the group.

They present favorite sacred compositions in a unique fashion. The presentations of the old hymns range from traditional tunes to arrangements which are different from anything usually heard. Many of the beautiful adaptations were made particularly for this group.

The members of the ensemble are some of the Bob Jones University students who have been featured in many of the university musical productions, radio programs, Christian film productions, and university recordings of sacred and classical works. The university is located in Greenville, South Carolina.

During the summer months, the ensemble, which is one of four official Bob Jones University musical groups on tour, will be heard in churches and evangelistic meetings throughout the western states. Another brass ensemble is conducting a tour throughout the central states, while two other musical groups will be heard throughout the eastern and southern sections of the country.

The group under the supervision of Mr. Liverman and his wife come to Littlefield, driving from Abilene, where they will be in services on Sunday. They will be entertained in the homes of Parkview Baptist Church members.

The Parkview Baptist Church families will have a fried chicken supper in the local park at 6:30 p.m. Monday, entertaining the visiting musical ensemble.

The pastor of the church, Rev. John C. Taylor, says that extra seats are being placed in the main auditorium to accommodate the extra large crowd expected.

Every church in town has been extended an invitation and everyone is welcomed to this unusual program of Gospel music, vocal and instrumental.

Dark Horses Could Change Picture

at the Chicago convention in which a dark horse is needed it's almost a certainty somebody will trot out the Dewey colors.

Racket Buster

Dewey climbed to fame in the mid-'30s as a racket-busting district attorney in New York City, winning convictions against 72 out of 73 defendants brought to trial. This broke up a network of rackets. Later he prosecuted Charles "Lucky" Luciano, a king-pin of New York vice, who received a 30 to 50-year prison sentence and later was deported to Italy.

In 1940 Dewey was an unsuccessful contender against Wendell Willkie for the Republican presidential nomination. He won the honor in 1944 and again in 1948, being defeated first by Franklin D. Roosevelt and then by Harry Truman.

Dewey calls himself a "true liberal." In the present campaigning he has said he likes Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Dewey was born at Owosso, Mich. 50 years ago, the son of a weekly newspaper publisher who was a distant relative of Adm. George Dewey of Manila Bay fame.

Boom In 1943

There were "Mac for President" clubs as long ago as 1943, when Gen. MacArthur was overseas. In 1948 he received some votes on the first balloting at the national convention.

The fact that MacArthur, now 72, was fired as U.S. and U.N. commander in the Far East last year became a political issue. Even before he landed in San Francisco he was called a 1952 presidential prospect. But MacArthur has said he is not a candidate.

Besides being one of the most famous military men in the world, MacArthur is a brilliant phrase-maker and orator. He was top man in his class of 53 members at West Point in 1903 and at 50 became the youngest chief of staff. MacArthur was born at Little Rock, Ark., the son of Gen. Arthur MacArthur. He has a son, Arthur, now 14 years old.

Senator Dirksen served eight terms in the House of Representatives, retiring in January 1949. He was nominated for the Senate a year later and defeated the Democrats' Senate leader, Scott W. Lucas.

In campaigns he has said the Democrats are leading the nation down the road to socialism and bankruptcy. He calls himself neither isolationist nor internationalist, but a "moderationist," which he defines as taking "a moderate and realistic viewpoint."

Dirksen was a candidate in 1944 for the presidential or vice presidential nomination. He is 54 years old; was born at Pekin, Ill., where he still lives; is married and has one child. In World War I he served 17 months overseas and was commissioned from the ranks.

Business Executive

Paul Hoffman quit a well-paid job as president of the Studebaker Corp. to become director of the European recovery program. Later he was named president of the Ford Foundation but now is on leave to help direct the campaign of Eisenhower for the GOP nomination.

Once Hoffman corrected a friend who called him a "Republican and a liberal." He said he is a "Republican and responsible." He said a responsible man may find himself on either side of the mythical line that divides liberals from other classes of voting people.

While not an avowed candidate, Hoffman's accomplishments in business and his flair for statesmanship make him a qualified choice as a Republican dark horse. He made a name for himself as a "super-salesman," owned the Los Angeles branch of the Studebaker firm and in 1925 became corporation vice president.

The corporation went into receivership and Hoffman was named one of two receivers, working out a successful re-organization. He was made president in 1935.

Bridal Shower Honors Miss Johnnie Evans

Miss Johnnie Muriel Evans, whose marriage to Joe A. Walters has been set for June 14, was honored when several hostesses entertained with a bridal shower Thursday evening at the First Methodist Church. It was a "come and go" affair from 8:00 until 9:30 p.m.

Hostesses included Mesdames R. A. Brotherton, Paul Pharris, Cecil Plate, G. V. Smith, Sam Farquhar, Van Clark, Carl Arnold, Billie Dow, Djek Edwards, O. M. Robison, Willes Giddens, Tom Grant, Blanche Dodgen, J. D. Robertson, J. S. Boudston, W. P. Kirk, W. J. Boykin, M. P. Reid and Leonard Bridges. The hostesses' gift was a "Martha Washington" bedspread.

The guests were registered by Miss Pat Grant as they arrived and viewed the miscellaneous shower gifts which were on display.

A color scheme of red and white was featured on the refreshment table, where punch and angel squares topped with tiny red roses were served. White candlesticks, twined about with red rosebuds, stood at either end of the table.

Miss Margaret Ann Brotherton and Miss Mecca Grant presided.

A medley of piano selection was rendered by Mrs. Wayne Brown throughout the evening.

ATLANTA—A sweet little lady won a blue ribbon for a silk quilt a few months ago and thus indirectly began a club movement for women "three score and o'er."

Such a club had long been a dream of Mrs. William Gay Smith, president of the Fifth District, Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, but it took the blue ribbon to push the dream to reality.

Last fall she suggested that a neighbor, Mrs. W. L. Lyon, a spry 89, enter some of her needlework in a contest at the Southeastern Fair in Atlanta.

Mrs. Lyon protested that her work wasn't nearly good enough but Mrs. Smith finally persuaded her to enter. Mrs. Lyon sailed through the first judging, winning first prize for her lovely quilt and, eventually, the blue ribbon grand prize for the entire contest.

To Mrs. Lyon, who had sometimes felt, well, a little left out of life, it was wonderful. Her son said she quickly used up the prize money calling all her out of town relatives to tell them the news.

Seeing what a bit of recognition could do and knowing there are thousands of older women who felt left too much to their knitting, Mrs. Smith decided to take time in her busy life to found a club for women past 60.

She knew there are clubs for such age groups elsewhere but hoped the one in Atlanta would be different in that from it would spring a network across the nation affiliated with the National Federation of Women's Clubs.

Volunteers have been written in recent years about the aged, a steadily growing group. There have been efforts to meet their special problems but most social workers agree the efforts have been pitifully inadequate.

Mrs. Smith felt that what little has been accomplished stemmed from individuals who decided to help in their own small way.

So she called some older women she knew and helped them found the "three score and o'er" club. Twenty charter members attended the first meeting. None was under 70 and nearly half were in their eighties. Some were driven to the meeting at the home of one member by their children, who were glad their mothers were finding new interests.

Others, like Mrs. S. R. Dull, 88, author of "Southern Cooking," a book widely used by housewives for years, came on busses.

Mrs. J. C. Mellichamp, also 88, was elected president and promptly set the tone of the meeting with the thought, "You are not old until regrets take the place of dreams." Another member suggested the group consider as a motto, "Not 300 years to our lives but life to our years."

The club has held the first two of its monthly meetings now and the list of those interested in joining has grown so fast other local clubs may be formed. The women plan to take turns discussing hobbies and are considering presentation of some sort of "playlet."

Some of the women are wealthy, others are not. Some suffer from such complaints as arthritis, others are as active as their grandchildren.

The women soon will have to consider whether to admit one applicant who called Mrs. Smith to say, "I am not yet 60 but I would like to join the club. I want to learn how those women reached that age. And surely anyone who has lived that long has much to teach us."

Sudan Couple Wed In Ceremony Held Friday Morning

Mrs. Esther Ruth Allan and Joe H. Henson of Sudan were married Friday morning at 9:30 a.m. in the home of J. S. Smith, with Rev. D. D. Dennison, pastor of the First Methodist Church, officiating.

The bride was attended by Grace Roberson, with the groom's brother, J. M. Henson acting as best man.

After the ceremony the couple went to Santa Fe and Raton, New Mexico on a short wedding trip.

Mrs. Henson is owner and manager of the Allan Drug Store at Sudan.

Anton Study Club Elects Officers

The Anton Study Club met May 31 in the home of Mrs. Ed Hart for their final meeting of the year.

Twenty members and six visitors were present for the coffee and a very impressive election of officers held by the outgoing president Mrs. Al Herrin.

The guests were Mrs. Carl Harrington, Miss Carla Jean Harrington, Miss Billie Lyda, Mrs. Gossett Greer, Mrs. Nell Herrin and daughter, Miss Ricky Herrin.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: Mrs. Harlan Black president; Mrs. Earl Fisher vice president; Mrs. Alma Tate, recording secretary; Mrs. Orville Bailey secretary; Mrs. K. W. Wells treasurer; Mrs. L. S. McCarty parliamentary; Mrs. Clifton Grundy critic; Mrs. H. M. Christian reporter.

Miss Billie Lyda sang the club collect accompanied by Mrs. L. S. McCarty.

The club presented Mrs. Al Herrin with a gift for her wonderful work this past year as president.

Rev. Henry Haup And Family Complimented With Shower

A reception was given at the home of Mrs. Art Chesher Wednesday night, honoring Rev. and Mrs. Henry Haup and family, by members of the Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Haup and his family recently moved here from Chicago, Ill. He is pastor of the First Presbyterian Church. The family is now occupying the newly redecorated Manse on West 10th Street. Rev. Haup filled the pulpit for the first time as resident pastor last Sunday morning.

Home-made ice cream and cake were served to a large number, who called between the hours of 8 and 10. The party was held in the yard at the Chesher home on the edge of southwest Littlefield.

Methodist Congregation Honor Pastor And Family With Farewell Shower

Last Tuesday night, members of the First Methodist Church honored Rev. Frank Beauchamp and their family, with a farewell surprise party at their home.

A covered dish supper was served in the back yard at the parsonage on West 10th Street.

Rev. Beauchamp has been transferred to the pastorate of the First Methodist Church at Shamrock. He and his family moved to their new location the latter part of the past week.

Smooth Start For Bare-Leg Season

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Newfeatures Beauty Editor

Now is the time for all beach smoothies to defuzz their legs. Most women abhor that little beauty chore, which seems necessary all too frequently, particularly during the bare-leg season. During the winter we get by that extra day, postponing the leg-smoothing task until we are in the mood, perhaps. But not so in warmer weather, when we might get and accept an invitation to swim or play tennis at a moment's notice.

The method of removing superfluous hair from legs and arms depends on you. There are many good, safe ways to do the job, some speedier than others, some more effective.

Many women prefer the razor—safety or electric—as a good quick method of removing leg fuzz. The razor does the job in a jiffy, but must be done at more frequent intervals than other methods.

Creamy depilatories which dry on the legs and are removed (along with the hair) by washing the legs under warm water or with a sponge are effective, also, and many girls find these quick and easy to use.

The hot-wax method of hair removal has been a favorite for a long time because it seems to discourage the hair for a longer period of time than other depilatories. Some girls find it difficult, however, to apply the wax, themselves, at just the right temperature for comfort, or to remove it properly. The job can be done in a beauty salon, but often the price is prohibitive for the average girl.

This season we have in addition to the aforementioned hair erases, a cold wax which can be squeezed directly from tube to skin. This French formula, new to Americans, is said to be water soluble and harmless to the skin, and can be applied at home. It is supposed to remove the bulb of the hair root along with the hair, and regrowth is discouraged for from six to eight weeks, say users.

This cold wax is applied in a different way from others. It is spread on the skin in as thin a film as possible. Hair should be at least one-eighth of an inch long. Then the cloth which accompanies the tube is pressed smooth over the wax and stroked in the direction in which the hair grows. The cloth after it has adhered to the hair is then pulled quickly and firmly in the opposite direction to the hair growth to remove the fuzz.

COLD WAX—A new method of hair removal. It is blotted with cotton cloth, removed in a jiffy. Easy to use.

Cold wax is applied in shorter strips than the hot wax and like other depilatories should be done in one fell swoop—rather than doing one area of a leg today, and another tomorrow.

To prepare broiled peaches to accompany a meat course, put a small piece of butter or margarine in the center of each canned peach half; broil until peaches are hot through.

Grilled sausage cakes make delicious luncheon sandwiches. Serve them on round toasted rolls with apple rings and cole slaw.

Homemade Cookies For Pop On His D

SPECIAL FOR DAD—Cookie-mix treats

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

One way the youngsters in your family can show Dad their appreciation on Fathers Day (June 15) is to make him a box of special cookies. Have some packages of cookie mix on hand and let your small fry go to work. Recipes for rolled cookies are right on the box—all you have to do is to get out your fancy cookie cutters. Because this packaged butter-type cookie mix is blended by machine, the dough is so plastic that youngsters can handle it successfully; it does not stick, and it re-rolls easily.

For your own contribution to Dad's Cookie Box make up these delicious Roly Polies or Chocolate Nut Squares.

ROLY POLIES
Ingredients: One 14-ounce package cookie mix, 2 tablespoons water, one 6-ounce package (about 1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate pieces, 1/2 cup walnut meats, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon.

Method: Empty cookie mix into large mixing bowl; sprinkle with water and add chocolate. Chop nuts fine and add. Knead well with hands. Take a rounded teaspoon of the dough and roll between palms of hands to form into small balls. Place on ungreased baking sheet about 1 inch apart. Bake in moderate (375 F.) oven 12 minutes, until lightly browned. Cookies will spread and flatten in baking. Allow cookies to cool slightly on baking sheet. When cookies are slightly cooled, place on cake racks to cool completely. Makes 60 cookies in these crisp cookies in the 6-ounce container.

CHOCOLATE NUT SQUARES
Ingredients: 1 egg, 1/2 cup water, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, one 6-ounce package cookie mix, one 6-ounce package (about 1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate pieces, 1/2 cup walnut meats, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon.

Method: Put egg, water, vanilla in mixing bowl; beat till yolk and white are combined. Add cookie mix and chocolate; with wooden spoon until blended. Turn into a 9-inch square pan; spread with spatula to cover bottom. With sharp knife chop 1/3 cup chocolate so that it is larger than a small walnut in same fashion; with chocolate; sprinkle over. Bake in moderate (375 F.) oven 20 minutes. Cool; cut squares; store in tightly covered container.

Folies Bergeres Clothes Handy

Charles C. Lane
Folies Bergeres, a show of feminine clothes—lots of...

CLOTHES like these bring more applause than nudity in famous Paris show.

lavishly dressed show I've ever seen.

Star of the small portion of nudity in the show is France's slinky Yvonne Menard. In one scene, wearing only a sparkling leaf, she voluptuously struggles against the lure of opium, only to lose in the end and be carried by evil looking characters down into a smoking pit.

In another scene she, lightly costumed as before, depicts Lucretia Borgia in amorous situations with panting princes.

But if today's Folies disappoint American tourists who remember Minsky's burlesque in New York and GIs who have heard their fathers talk of the Paris of yesterday, it is no disappointment to the management.

The audience, mostly Anglo-Saxon and on the far side of forty, gave little applause to the nude scenes. The big applause came when the curtain went up on highly costumed and complicated still lifes on revolving stages.

But the management has better proof than applause that clothes make the show. Although the program is changed only about once a year, the 2,000 capacity theater is nearly always sold out several days in advance.

All the show is not on the stage. Equally a part of the experience of going to the Folies Bergeres is the ruckus in the lobby during intermission.

Stands sell ham sandwiches as long as your forearm, lemonade, beer, coffee, and souvenirs. There is even an art gallery, presided over by a man in tuxedo. His calendar style paintings of Paris scenes are priced at 5,000 to 20,000 francs (about $14 to $70).

Cutting through the beer and tobacco laden air is a loud speaker's blare of Arabian music coming from the basement, where for another 100 francs you can see la dance du ventre (belly dance).

The belly dance is ground out by tired, veiled women who must have been doing the same thing when Lindbergh landed in 1926. The spectators sit on long benches peering through the smoke in the dim, low ceilinged room.

When they climb back to the lobby and head for the auditorium they pass a sign in French and English saying: "AWARE! Do not drop chewing gums on the carpets. Thanks."

Cpl. Thurman Lewis Graduates From Officers School

MUNICH, GERMANY — Cpl. Thurman H. Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Lewis, Earth, Texas, recently graduated from the Seventh Army's Non-Commissioned Officers Academy at Munich, Germany.

The six-week course emphasized the use of weapons, army administration, tactics, supply, physical fitness and organization. Students were carefully selected by their organization commanders before attending the school.

Lewis, who entered the Army in March 1951, arrived overseas in August and is serving as a member of Battery C, 63rd Antiaircraft Artillery Gun Battalion.

In civilian life he graduated from Spring Lake High School in May 1947.

Last Rites For Infant Held 4 p. m. Sunday

A baby girl born prematurely to Mr. and Mrs. Buster Farley Friday, May 30, at the Littlefield Hospital, passed away Saturday night at 10 o'clock. The child weighed only two pounds, three ounces, and was named Connie Fern.

Funeral services were conducted at the grave in the Littlefield Cemetery, with Rev. Scott, Pastor of the Baptist Church, Rocky Ford, officiating at 4 P.M. Sunday, June 1. Interment was in charge of Hammons Funeral Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Farley have no other children.

Relatives present for the last rites were: the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Farley, Mr. and Mrs. Junior Farley and two children of Tucson, Ariz.; Mr. and Mrs. Sunny Farley and family of Lubbock; F. N. Miller of Littlefield; Mr. and Mrs. Junior Miller of Plainview; Mrs. R. R. Miller of Littlefield; and a number of friends.

Joe Di Maggio was named the most valuable player in the American League in 1952, 1951 and 1950.

For Father's Day, why not do something special for Dad's hair—stay out of it!

A "Be Kind to Father" Day will appeal to the youngest or graying Dad. It will be as invigorating to his tired bones as the strong hands of a masseur, as relaxing as a day at the circus and as exhilarating as a meeting with his poker club.

If you're stuck for ideas to carry out an ingenious one-day plan for making father happy, lend a leer to some things all good fathers dream might happen to them some day before Gabriel blows his trumpet. True—wrapping up these delicacies in one delicious package might shock father into a coronary thrombosis, a risk he'd probably be willing to take in exchange for these things which will make his cup of joy brim over—for one day at least.

Here's the pitch!

1. Let the poor guy have first crack at the bathtub or shower, even if you must forego that soaking session (which always includes manicure, shampoo, pedicure and facial to tie up the bathroom for hours.)

2. Just this once let him have the Sunday papers intact. (So that he need not hunt for the sports section until dinner time.)

3. Instruct your friends not to telephone you. (And don't hog the phone calling your friends, either, in case Dad should want to make or receive a call just once.)

4. Restrain that heckling note in your voice. Flatter him occasionally. (Instead of telling him how old-fashioned he is, or a tightwad compared to other fathers.)

5. Lock the record player up in your hope chest or family safe so you won't be tempted to play boogie-woogie. (Nothing grates on the family nerves more than the same record played over and over.)

6. Make this Pop's day—front row, center—at the television. Maybe he'd like to see a baseball game for a change. (Instead of cowboy or space cadet movies.)

7. Remove your shoes from places where Dad is sure to trip over them.

8. Hold that laundry. Or if you do rinse out stockings and lingerie, remove it from the wash-basin. (So that Dad can wash his hands without draining the basin, removing the lingerie.)

9. He might even like to sleep late—for once. (So don't stomp around the house, slamming doors.)

10. Keep the gang away from the house. (Father's Day is a family affair, so don't invite the crowd to romp in the living room.)

11. Maybe he'd like to take Mom for a spin in the old flivver, so don't beg for the car. (And if he suggests that you use it, leave it perking with a bit of gas.)

12. Even if you're stone broke let this be one day when you do not beg for an extra dime, quarter or dollar. (Borrow from a friend or do without.)

If you manage to carry out these suggestions, you'll probably find diamonds in your halo at the end of the day. And of course, you may be called upon to help nurse Dad, who probably will be in a state of jitters as a result of his super-quiet confinement. But he'll recover the next day of course when your pent-up energies are unleashed and once again shake the household.

Is there a bigger favor you can do for the man-of-the-house than treating him to these special favors? Why, yes, maybe there is—If you really want to make Dad divinely happy, you'll spend the entire day with a friend—away from home.

The first opening game in major league history was played on April 22, 1876 between Boston and Philadelphia in the National League.

Dad Is Tops To Daughter

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Your daughter has quite a complex job of growing up in these days. Fathers have an important share in determining whether this growing up is a challenging, expanding chain of events or a frightening, inhibiting series of experiences. Let's look for a moment at some of the ways in which Dad is important—now and later.

Writing in the Camp Fire Girl Magazine, a typical father, Ronald Lippitt, points out five ways in which he is important to his daughter and where he'd like to do a better job. He says:

"The first way is by being a target for observation—as a husband. Our daughters are actively building their images, positive and negative, about future husbands. For example, I think it is pretty important for us to express our affection spontaneously and openly as a part of family life.

"The pattern of household sharing of responsibilities is another thing a daughter learns from watching mother and father, as well as from her own participations. I'd hate to have Daughter learn that 'the woman always gets all the dirty work to do around the house.'

"Second is being a target for the practice of social skills. Our daughters need a chance to practice influencing our opinions and actions. Such successes can give them a positive feeling about taking initiative to express and sell their ideas

The third way, says Lippitt, is sharing and thinking about others. Fathers can help daughters learn to think about and appreciate the needs and ways of life of other persons and groups and nations.

A fourth way is "Mind stretching," he says. Creative thinking—solving problems by working actively at them—needs to be challenging and successful.

He adds: "We had some good practice the other day when Daughter was invited to two parties the same afternoon. Several alternatives were weighed before she hit on the solution of dropping in at A's birthday party first to leave a present to stay a little bit and then going over to B's party. I think one of our biggest challenges is to show how intellectual and social problem-solving can be fun and rewarding."

Finally, he says, fathers can help in the great out-of-doors. He gives as an example:

"When Daughter put a new casting reel on her Christmas list I knew I was making progress. And canoeing is becoming first choice for a Sunday afternoon activity. Not only are these healthy activities, and a good basis of present family fun, but I think they provide a broad base for skills and interests which some other man will one day appreciate and enjoy sharing. . . . Let's keep on looking for new ways to collaborate in the lively job of living and learning with Daughter."

The first running of the famed Belmont Futurity race was won by Proctor Knott on Sept. 4, 1888.

farmer, through no particular fault of his own, loses many dollars annually because of the lack of coordination between agricultural production and industrial development in the state.

Texans are like the country boy who swings away at that strength-impregnated and ring the bell. But we're so proud of our crop production records that we don't stand behind us with his hand in his pocket.

The raw farm and ranch products are processed in the state. These are later processed in other parts of the country. Texas has received a much higher return and profit on the semi-finished and finished products. Cotton—the king of Texas agriculture—is the nation's leading cotton producer. One-fourth to one-third of the United States crop of cotton is processed by Texas.

Over 4 million bales of cotton were produced in 1951. Of these bales, 2,000,000 remained in the state and the rest went to eastern domestic mills. A minimum of $1.95 to ship 100 pounds of cotton from Galveston to the nearest eastern market, then the staggering sum of more than $17,687,000 was paid in freight charges alone. This money would have meant a lot to the Texas cotton farmer if the mills had been in the state.

Texas also leads the nation in dollar volume of annual farm sales. But it ranks low in per acre income. The rate in the last year of record was only $12.65 per acre as compared with the income of some states such as California, New York, Michigan and Illinois, which were in some cases as high as $47.67 per acre—or four times that of our own.

It is, after all, the per acre income that counts in profits. These states outrank Texas partly because the farmer is closer to the processor.

Perhaps the development of some particular industries in Texas would not be in line with the economic realities of the area. But to the extent that it is possible, the farm products of Texas should be made into finished products within the state. This kind of regional industry, taking full advantage of our resources, would result in a well-rounded economy and help increase the income and standard of living of Texans.

Father's Day Cards . . .

and Achilles were country bumpkins, in contrast to the modern Dad whose virtues are characterized on the 1952 Father's Day cards.

There are no marble statues to honor him as in the past. On Sunday, June 15, the family's "unsung hero" is lavishly praised as were those legends of long ago.

Love and understanding, guidance and comfort are keywords to a father's place in our lives. The cards point out these themes in brightly colored designs, and elaborated on in verses which have a sincere, heart-to-heart quality. Something like this—

POP can feel bright
When his kids are polite,
And obedient as can be . . .
But the POP worth while
Is the one who can smile
After raising a BRAT like me!

The new designs suggest how Father's Day is spent. Several show Dad going hunting and a few picture him out on the golf course, in the bowling alley. One shows a father paying baseball, over a verse that declares—

I'm in there FITCHIN'
For the man who often
Goes to BAT for me . . .
A man who strictly
Big League stuff as any Good Sport will agree!

These years, Father's Day cards have given special attention to Dad's domestic chores. He is represented as the family's financial wizard, the first class, and a guy who would fix the entire kitchen sink just to replace a single washer.

There have even been greetings showing Dad as he crawled out of a dog-house in the backyard. Nary a word, however, on such familiar scenes this year. Instead, the trend is towards completely unrestrained compliments for, as one card puts it, "The swiftest POP in the whole darn POPulation!"

The main exception to this general trend is a fairly large number of Father's Day cards that feature "Kings for a Day" sentiments. One fondly adds that "Kings can do no wrong." But most of these cheerful greetings simply promise a 24-hour ban on all worry and care, with someone catering to Dad's every whim.

A typical design shows Dad perched in an easy chair—monarch of all he surveys, but with a pile of ashes from his pipe on the floor. Yet, Mom overlooks the mess, while giving him the Sunday papers and a Father's Day kiss for luck. Its greeting begins: "To that Wonderful HUSBAND of Mine." Another card pictures Dad snoozing in the backyard hammock, and bears this affectionate verse—

It's your day, DAD,
So take it easy!
Dern it—You've earned it!

Novelty cut-out cards, it seems, are especially popular this year. One is patterned after an old-fashioned pocket watch, for "Wishing the BEST of DADS the 'TIME' of his life on Father's Day!" And a pair of moccasins will remind Dad that "No one else can fill your shoes!"

Appropriate designs and verses have also been created for your grandfather, father-in-law, or "To the Father of My Sweetheart." As the father of someone dear to you, they'll rate warm-hearted greetings on Sunday, June 15.

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas
A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

Many people have good ideas about new or improved machines or gadgets, but never do anything about them because they don't know how to protect their rights while perfecting such items and going through the necessary patenting procedure. Here's what you can do to protect your invention before you have it patented.

Under the patent laws of the United States the person who first conceives of a new and novel patentable idea is entitled to it. Therefore, if conflicting claims arrive as to who is entitled to a patent, it is necessary to establish who first had the idea, not who filed the first application for patent.

Of course, it is always advisable to make application for patent as soon as possible in such cases. But don't forget to protect yourself while you are completing your final drawings and ultimate plans and making such tests as may be needed to perfect your patent. To do this, you should, as soon as you conceive the idea, make a written record of the facts, dating the same, including a general statement of the nature of your invention, and a rough drawing if possible. This should be witnessed by two persons who could be called on later on to certify that they witnessed the same on the dates set out in the instrument you have drawn.

Some inventors place such witnessed statements and drawings in an envelope. This they seal and mail to themselves by Registered Mail. Their post office stamps each seam of the envelope in such a way that any opening of same can be detected. Upon receiving the registered envelope and its contents, the inventor merely files it away in a safe place unopened. Then, if a contest should later develop, postal records will lead additional support to the testimony of his witnesses.

By taking the above precautions, you will establish a preliminary date showing the time when your original idea was conceived. After that you can continue with your work, perfect your idea, and after the same is perfected, make application for a patent, if you feel that you have a patentable idea.

One should not just make a preliminary sketch and put it away and think that is sufficient to protect his rights. That is just one additional bit of evidence to help him establish his right to the patent. The patent should be sought as soon as one possibly can after conceiving his patentable idea and working out details of the same.

(This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts, because the facts may change the application of the law.)

When you are roasting a chicken for Sunday dinner you can prepare the stuffing ahead of time if you like but don't stuff the bird with it; refrigerate the chicken and the stuffing separately. Put the prepared stuffing into the bird just before roasting time.

Lt. John W. Gunter Serves As Artillery Forward Observer

WITH THE 3D INFANTRY DIV. IN KOREA—First Lt. John W. Gunter Jr., whose parents live at Enochs, is serving as an artillery forward observer in Korea with the 3rd Infantry Division.

A member of Battery A, 10th Field Artillery Battalion, the 23-year-old officer works in close coordination with the infantry and adjusts artillery fire in support of their missions. Gunter performs a highly technical job as the eyes of the artillery. He lives right with the infantry, usually on a forward outpost located on a prominent terrain feature where he can get the best possible look at the enemy terrain.

He is a graduate of Threeway High school, Enochs, and Texas A&M College. He entered the Army in March 1951, and was graduated from the Basic Officers Course, at the Artillery School, Fort Sill, Okla., before coming to Korea.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

"Good Neighbor Policy"

Remember one time when I told about the old loose-stone wall that separated Easy Roberts' property from Handy Peterson's?

That was when they decided they really didn't need the wall between them in the first place—so they simply stopped repairing it.

Now I hear where a fellow, who bought the old Johnson place, wants to buy all those stones. It seems he figures a stone wall is just what's needed on his property.

From where I sit, if that fellow wants to build himself a stone wall, that's his business. But if it's not really serving any useful purpose he may sooner or later discover—just like Handy and Easy did—that he'd be just as well off without one. Even some old-fashioned walls of prejudice are disappearing—like those that would deny a person's right to a friendly glass of beer now and then. Most Americans are learning that "walls" can get in the way of the persons inside as well as the persons outside.

Big Colorful Annual Jaycee Rodeo To Open Thursday

This is the big week, rodeo week, with the opening now only four days away. Thursday, June 12, when the annual Littlefield Jaycee Rodeo gets underway, for three big days and nights, three big colorful days and nights to close and end a big and colorful week.

And if those three days and nights, don't mark the advent of the biggest crowds ever to gather here, and the best rodeo ever to be staged on the South Plains—it can only be the fault of the weatherman, and nothing else can prevent or stop those bustling, bustling, busy Jaycees for attaining that goal—goal of the best rodeo the South Plains has ever staged or produced.

You've heard folks say, "Oh well, when you've seen one rodeo, you've seen them all." But if that remark was made to include this year's Littlefield rodeo, it would be wide of the mark and wrong because this 1952 rodeo will offer a variety of entertainment, and a lot of it brand new, exciting, and colorful enough to satisfy the hardened experienced rodeo attendant and fan—or the juvenile who knows all about cowboys—and practices what he knows.

The three "R's" of rodeo are Ridin', Ropin', and Rassin', everything and anything that has four feet and a tail, of the bovine family, and the more they've been fed on hot pepper and garlic, the better the rodeo.

And that's just the kind of rodeo stock that has been contracted for the local rodeo, and that stock will be arriving here early next week.

Then there's the fun department, which is not being overlooked, and the "Kazan Kid" from Louisiana way, rodeo clown de luxe, who has been signed to appear here this season, and is a guaranteed attraction on which the rodeo boosters are pinning justification for their promise of not a dull moment. This rodeo clown, is also plenty clever atop a steer or a bucking bronc, only he works for laughs, and not for medals.

The rodeo will get underway Thursday afternoon, when the rodeo parade forms at the water tower, marches down to Delano ave., to Phelps, thence up Phelps avenue to end and disband at the rear of the court house.

The parade committee is going all-out this year, and this year's parade is going to be a fitting opener for the best rodeo ever staged in this section.

Dancing every night at the Coen Cola plant, including opening night has already been announced.

Make a date—make a three-day date with Littlefield on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 12, 13, and 14, and if you don't have a great, big time, each of those three days and nights, it will be no one's fault—but yours.

Quick way to make a delicious sauce for boiled carrots: Add a half cup of milk to a can of condensed cream of celery soup and heat. This will make enough sauce for about two cups of sliced cooked carrots.

To cook chicken breasts from fryers or broilers, brown them in a little hot fat, then add a few tablespoons of water and cover the pan. Cook the breasts over low heat just until they are tender.

Beetles Chew Up Homes

These bugs are carpet beetles which do half the damage to woolens in U.S. homes. But they are little known because moths get the blame. Albert Miller of the laboratory (Gulf Oil) where these pic-
