

Adult Education Program Gets School Board OK

Mid Made in School Paying Job

Littlefield school board last evening heartily endorsed the Adult Education program now being in the city and recommended that $250 be set aside in the 1955-56 budget for partial financing of the program.

The board means the city will probably qualify for $50 in aid from the Ford Foundation, which is sponsoring the program nationwide. Under the program, adults meet in formal groups and take up various programs of study. A group on "World Affairs and Current Events" now meets once a week at the high school and it is planned to start another during the next school year to accommodate the needs. Some of the other groups available are "Great Men," "Your Country," "Ways of Mankind," "American Heritage," and "Music."

NOT IN ONE YEAR

The $50 for the Adult Education program will not necessarily be in one year of operation. According to Clarence Williams, junior high teacher, who spearheaded the movement here, the money probably last several years for the cost of instruction materials and manuals. There are now 19 adults enrolled in the study course.

The board of education met last night with Superintendent Ralph Schilling commented that "education can't stop at the end of high school and the program would give many citizens an opportunity to further their education."

CEMENT RELATIONS

President Jack Christian said that "the program is doing much to cement relations with our school systems as well as being beneficial to the community." He also mentioned the interest in enrolling in the program have been requests from Williams or attendants at the study session at the high school at 7:30 a.m.

Further actions the board acted on a bid of Buck Ross of Littlefield for paving the Westside school parking area. Ross's bid was $3,520, which included the removing dirt and trees; to remove present curb; $1,470 for approximately 700 feet of sidewalk at a cost of $2.10 per foot and $1,575 to lay approximately 1,550 square yards of pavement at $1.50 per square yard.

BUILDING PROGRAM

It is reported that the building program seems to be moving along ahead of schedule. The addition to the school now has the roof on and the floor has been poured. Windows may delay the completion of this addition for they are to be shipped until Dec. 15. Rest rooms are complete in primary building and all need material is on hand for the addition to this building.

Average Daily Attendance

The first reporting period for white students was 1762.73 compared to 1644.09 for the same period last year. This is an increase of 118.64. The average daily attendance for the Negro school for this period was 204.8 compared to 158 for last year, Schilling said.

Post Office Receipts Rise

Receipts at the Littlefield post office during October showed a $586.26 over October 1953. Postmaster C. A. Joplin announced that receipts for last month were $81 compared with $4,999.55 for October 1953.

Leases Locker...

Parrack, who for four years had leased the Littlefield Co-op Gin locker on the highway, has leased the Benlocker at Spade from H. N. Pett. On Oct. 21 purchased the little locker.

New Christmas Lights Ordered; City To Pay One-Third Of $1230 Cost

Christmas decorations for downtown Littlefield will be a new type of illuminated scenes on the streets. The order, according to a decision reached by the Chamber of Commerce retail committee in a meeting Monday, C. A. Miller is chairman of the committee. Date for the Christmas parade has been set for Nov. 28.

Meeting with the group was Mayor L. C. Hewitt who said the City Commission, in a meeting Wednesday night, would probably decide to furnish about one-third of the total expenses for the Christmas program. An estimate prepared by the retail committee on expenses for the new type of lighting and to cover the over-all Christmas program was $1230.30. The city will furnish $400 of this amount.

Retail committee members began this week contacting business firms for the remainder of the funds required to pay for the decorations and Christmas program. Firms will be asked to furnish 50 cents per front footage.

Members of the Littlefield Garden club will be asked to meet with the group later this week to discuss home decorations throughout the city. The new lighting consists of metal holders, 20" x 28", to be placed on the 42 street light standards on Phelps ave. The committee expressed appreciation to Southwestern Public Service company for allowing the holders to be placed in the light standards.

In the holders will be inserted colorful, translucent holiday scenes, including the nativity, the three kings, a Christmas stocking, snowmen, deer, the shepherds, the Flight, and Santa Claus. Two inserts will be placed on each street light. These will be illuminated.

Miller said the new decoration are of plastic construction and are weather-proof. Upkeep on the badly consisting only of replacing a few burned-out bulbs each year, whereas the light streamers across the street used previously required constant upkeep.

City employees will erect and install the decorations. Cost of the decorations will be approximately $30 per light. The order has been placed with Glenn A. Bishop of Chicago, who assured the committee by telephone Tuesday that the decorations will be delivered in about two weeks, in order that they may be erected by Thanksgiving.

Miller said "We want our city to look as good as we can make it for the Yuletide season. These decorations will eliminate wind damage, which last year kept Chamber of Commerce officials and city employees constantly busy replacing the lights and streamers."

Further plans for the Christmas program will be worked out at a later meeting of the committee. Attending the meeting were Mayor Hewitt, Miller, Chamber manager Jesse Everett, Joe Ferrell, Fly Thornton, Kenneth Hinkle, Thomas Land, Dock Wright, Harry Williams, Felix Halton and Bob Roden.

BULLETIN

Eight Mexicans were burned late yesterday afternoon at a butane explosion at the D. W. Bawcom Butane Co. All were taken to Littlefield for treatment. Three were released and five remained as patients. Their condition was not reported as serious. A spokesman for the company said one of the men lit a match in a truck as it was being filled with butane.

County Farm Bureau Receives State Recognition

Lamb county Farm Bureau received special recognition at the State Farm Bureau meet this week in Galveston, according to word received from county delegates.

The chapter was awarded a certificate for having more than 40 per cent of Lamb county's farmers signed up as members. Last year the chapter received a certificate for having 20 per cent.

County president Jack Yarbrough was awarded a pin for having sold 100 memberships. The county group was also recognized for having reached the membership quota. Ted Hutchins of Spade served as membership chairman this year.

The entry from District 13 was named Texas Farm Bureau queen. Miss Verna Lee Stephens of Abilene, representing District 2 of which Lamb county is a member, placed second in the queen contest.

Expect New Courthouse Completion By January 1

Springlake School Battle Still On; Vote Not Decisive

The battle is still in progress over the location of the new buildings voted last spring by citizens of the Springlake School district. Saturday's referendum was not decisive enough to end the controversy. The vote was heavy in that un-official election and the present site received 292 votes to 247 for moving to Earth.

But the group who have kept it tied up in litigation say that the vote in the Earth box indicates that the citizens in the west half board, refusing to locate or construct school buildings at Earth. Edgar ruled that the board acted within its discretion in voting to locate all proposed buildings on the present campus mid-way between the two towns.

BULLETIN

President Leslie Watson of the Springlake School District yesterday at noon announced that the board Tuesday had signed a contract with the S. R. Duncan firm of Lubbock to commence work as soon as possible on the present school campus. He said the company had submitted a low bid of approximately $353,000. He said four other companies bid on the project.

of the district are four to one for the move, so it is going to continue until after next spring's school board elections.

The box in Springlake gave 179 votes for erecting the buildings on the present site, 5 for moving to Earth and 2 for moving to Springlake. The box in Earth gave 113 for the present site, 242 for moving to Earth and 2 for moving to Springlake.

Proponents of moving say that if the votes in the Earth box of those living in the east half of the district were subtracted, this box would have gone at least four to one for moving, and that the wishes of those people for their own school cannot be ignored. A spokesman for this group said a suit to enjoin any effort of the present school board to build at the present site before next spring's elections would be filed.

Meanwhile, the Associated Press reported from Austin that the State Board of Education upheld the decision of State Education Commissioner Dr. J. W. Edgar who refused an appeal by a group of Earth school patrons concerning location of new school buildings on the present campus.

The appellants had asked the commissioner to reverse the decision of the Earth-Springlake

Millwork Delays Building; Transition To Take 3 Weeks

Lamb county's pride and joy—the spanking new courthouse—will probably be completed and accepted by Jan. 1, it was announced this week.

Nearly News

Another indicator of how good business is in Littlefield this fall is the report that Bob Westbrook and Russell Weems were both in the top ten of C. R. Anthony salesman in this district last month. With 50 stores in the district, they must have had a lot of competition for the top 10 spots, but the other salesmen didn't have a chance at as many well heeled customers as Bob and Russell did. Of course, it's doubtful if the other salesmen had as much on the ball as those two either.

We've been kidding Albert Miller of the Penney store that he will soon have to take out a license as a professional solicitor. This week alone he was in two drives—to secure Christmas lighting and the Salvation Army solicitation.

It does our old ink-stained hides good to hear a fellow publisher—especially one whose hometown beat us in a football game—laud our Littlefield team. Publisher Forest Weimhold of The Levelland Daily Sun News wrote Sunday in his paper that he's convinced Littlefield has the best team he's seen all year, with the possible exception of Breckenridge. He singled out several players for special recognition but in Galveston, according to word player on the squad had rather play football than eat.

Spectators were kept constantly amused at the dry wit of Rev. Bill Pearce at the Littlefield-Andrews football game. Seems Pearce kept up a running commentary on the game, such as praising those "good clean bone-crushing tackles." When the Andrews dads lined up to welcome the Andrews team on the field, someone asked who they were. Pearce said, "Why, they are the honorary pallbearers."

Then there's the first grader who started to school this year. The teacher asked him if he could write his name. The child replied, "H— no, can't even write."

Car Overtakes Five Times On Bula Highway

Cesilo Charo, 29, of Austin, was fined $31 Sunday on charges of driving on the wrong side of the road and without an operator's license.

Highway Patrolman Bill Davenport said his car turned over about five times early Saturday evening when it failed to make a curve on the Bula highway about six miles out of town. He said Charo received slight injuries.

FINED $200

Buddy Cortez of Earth was fined $200 and costs by Judge Robert Kirk this week on a charge of violation of the state liquor law. Cortez was arrested by Deputy Shorty Randolph.

IN FRATERNITY

Ralph Schilling, school superintendent, and C. E. Williams, school faculty members, have been named members of Kappa Phi Kappa, honorary education fraternity. The national fraternity is composed of educators who have shown outstanding ability in leadership.

County Judge Robert Kirk said after a meeting Monday with the contractor and architects that the tentative acceptance date has been set for Jan. 1.

He explained that this date depends on arrival of millwork for the two courtrooms, which has been delaying construction. Judge Kirk said the transition from the old courthouse building to the new would probably take three weeks.

"We just can't move everything at once or we would be in confusion for months," he said. It is planned to move one department at a time.

Work on the building—which was financed through a $900,000 property bond issue in 1952—began in July last year. The first tentative completion was set for August this year and later moved forward.

Judge Kirk said the court would be informed within 10 days whether the Jan. 1 date can be met. B. F. Horn, contractor and Alvin Atcheson of the architectural firm of Lubbock, were present for the meeting.

When completed the courthouse will be of the most modern design in West Texas. Jail quarters will be "break out proof" and will feature the latest safety standards.

The building will provide facilities for keeping jurors overnight and space for a large number of veniremen if the need arises for them to be called in a major criminal case.

4-H Awards To Be Made Saturday

National 4-H Achievement Day will be observed Saturday morning with presentation of Lamb county awards at the Community Center at 9:30 a.m.

Assistant County Agent Austin Haney said Judge Robert Kirk would be principal speaker. The county has 23 4-H clubs with a membership of approximately 900.

Doyle Turner and Mrs. Oscar Allison, adult leaders of the Pleasant Valley community, will make the presentation of awards pins. Mrs. Hazel Hickman, county demonstration agent, and Haney will present 4-H year pins. There will be approximately 40 awards made. The Pleasant Valley 4-H club will be in charge of the program.

LHS Transferred To District 2-AA Football Circuit

School Superintendent Ralph Schilling said this week that he has received word that Littlefield will be transferred to District 2-AA football next season. The team now plays in the District 6-AA circuit.

Schilling said that the Inher-Scholastic League in Austin made the transfer because of distance to be traveled in 6-AA. Kermit is the southernmost and Littlefield is the farthest north, making necessary a trip of some 190 miles.

According to Schilling, other members in District 2-AA will be Tulla, Muleshoe, Olton, Lockney and Floydada, the last one still not decided, because it may be transferred to District 5-AA with Tahoka going to District 6-AA.

Schilling Tells P-TA To Promote Teachers' Welfare

School Supt. Ralph Schilling in his topic, "We the People Promote the General Welfare" told members of the Junior high school in a meeting Tuesday that the community should promote the welfare of the teachers.

He listed three points in which a community should be actively promoting the teacher: giving them social recognition; honoring the teachers; and giving them moral backing.

Schillings talk followed a program by the seventh and eighth grade choruses directed by Dick Daughtry. Special numbers were presented by the sextettes and quartets from each chorus.

During the business meeting, presided over by Mrs. Oscar Wilmon, the group elected Junior High Principal Forest Martin as a delegate to the P-TA convention in Corpus Christi Nov. 17-19.

Mrs. L. E. Sullins, membership chairman, reported that the Junior High P-TA now has 160 members, an increase of 38 percent over the membership last year.

The P-TA heard a report on the carnival and was told that the group's portion of the proceeds is $612.27. They voted to pay a portion of the expenses for the national P-TA building dedicated several months ago.

Rooms winning the attendance awards were Mrs. Pearl Hutchinson's seventh grade room and Paul I. Jones' eighth grade room.

Howard Reese and Alvie Pearson of Littlefield returned Monday night from a hunting trip to Corona, N.M., where they met a group of friends to form the deer hunting party. Reese and Pearson each brought back a buck.

Predicting This Week's Games

By JAMES HINE

About the best word around the area this week was the Wildcats' victory over the Andrew Mustangs Friday which gave the Wildcats a district championship. There is some discussion as to whether or not Littlefield has been declared the owner of the district crown. If Brownfield defeats Littlefield, then we would be named co-champions with the winner of the Andrews-Kermit game to be played at a later date. In the event of a co-district championship, the Wildcats would still represent District B-AA in the playoffs since the Inter-scholastic league states that . . . "In event of a tie for district honors the team that has defeated the other co-champ will in turn represent their respective district in the State playoffs."

Coach Mayfield's boys came through again with flying colors Friday night in the district. A district championship will mean a lot to the players and the coach but to the entire city. May the team continue its efforts in furthering its status of Littlefield through good sportsmanship and mutual ability.

Schultz vs. Percz Debut Saturday At Littlefield Arena

To give him a warm welcome to the Southwest States Junior heavyweight territory, Dutch Schultz of Houston is to be joined by strong-armed Tom Percz of Amarillo in a debut at the Littlefield Sports arena Saturday night. Wrestling is sponsored by the Littlefield Lions club.

Percz, a handsome young man of Mexican extraction, proposes to "run a test" on this newcomer to the area.

Dutch Schultz, however, is a proven wrestler of high regard. He may make it very tough for young Percz, former Golden Gloves boxing champion of Texas and gradually getting ahead as a professional wrestler.

The introduction of Schultz indicates that he weighs 210 pounds and stands six-foot-one. He has been in Texas and admits to being some 30 years old, but is still making and defending some of the greatest Junior heavyweights. Schultz represented the amateur division for some years.

Since turning pro, several years ago, Dutch has met and defeated many of the best wrestlers in his weight division. He fights a rough, tough style, and will not be numbered among the fans favorites.

Percz, a favorite with Houston fans, figures to have a rough time, but if Dutch chooses to use his fists, Percz could make a name for himself as a real contender.

In the first contest of Saturday night's double main event at the Littlefield Sports arena, Jerry Jones of Houston and Lou Angelo of Amarillo will meet. Angelo is a member of the Scotty MacFarland of Glasgow, Scotland. He will be one of MacFarland's first matches since recovering from a shoulder injury several weeks ago. The big, muscular, red-headed Scotman had planned to resume wrestling, but hopes to return to the game and make a good showing against James.

EDITORIAL

Congratulations

Men who wrote and enacted the federal tax revision summer. Every Congress enacts tax laws. But the last did something which is unprecedented in modern times. It passed a law overhauling the entire federal tax code—the first such overhaul in 75 years.

Writing in the Saturday Evening Post of October 2, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey describes the purposes of the new law as being these: "To remove many hardships on business; to reduce restraints on the kind of enterprise which creates new business and new jobs; to close loopholes; to far as possible—to make the tax laws more simple, and certain."

Mr. Humphrey observes that the benefits of the new law are of two kinds—direct and indirect. We will enjoy the direct benefits next April when income tax returns are due and almost about everyone will be helped, from working men who will be allowed deductions for baby-sitter charges to farmers who want to buy new equipment. In this connection the Secretary adds that the government is eager to help taxpayers with their rights under the new law, and that anyone who has questions go to the nearest Internal Revenue office for help with his return.

The indirect benefits, for the most part, will not be felt until next year. But in Mr. Humphrey's view, they are by far the most important. He writes, "By removing restraints on business, working quietly but steadily to create new jobs, more and better jobs, new productive efficiencies, new payrolls and a healthily rising standard of living for 100,000,000 people of America."

The new law is worth a second reading. It clearly expresses the philosophy of the fiscal experts who wrote the 929-page bill, of the Congressional majority which voted for it, and of the President who signed it. This philosophy is rooted in the belief that the way to achieve the greatest good for the greatest number is to encourage initiative and enterprise—among individuals, and among businesses and industries of all sizes and kinds.

A practical example of this kind of thinking is found in the provision of the law which partially eases double taxation of dividend income. Mr. Humphrey points out that in manufacturing industry it costs an average of nearly $15,000 to buy the plant and equipment needed to provide just one job. Thus, the double taxation of dividend income has made it increasingly difficult to attract risk capital to create new jobs. So industrial expansion in late years has been paid for through borrowings instead of sales of stock. In his view, this is potentially dangerous, for a business heavily loaded with debt "moves timidly instead of boldly."

Finally, the Secretary ends with these bright words: "The tax revision of 1954 represents a mighty effort to bring our tax laws up to the needs of a modern America, a giant step forward toward economic health, growth and sanity."

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir:

Have you ever had an accident in the city limits of Littlefield? If so, how long did you have to wait for the city police to investigate it? If the weather had a chill in it, as it has lately, and your car was setting in the middle of the street and you had to stand there and direct traffic, how many different names did you call the city police?

You shouldn't have, you know, they can't always be setting under the police bell on Main st. If they did the rest of the city would not be getting proper police coverage. No, they are not the ones to cuss. Nor, indeed, is there need to cuss anyone. What should be done is this.

We must realize that Littlefield is no longer the size it was back in the days when that bell was put up on Phelps ave. We must realize Littlefield is growing daily and will continue to grow, calling for more and more work on the part of your city policemen.

In order for him to cover this larger area he must become a patrolling policeman and not a stationary one sitting under an outmoded bell waiting for crime to come to him.

The greatest help in crime detection since the fingerprint is the two-way radio. The radio has become a necessity with most law enforcement agencies. Your Lamb County sheriff's department covers the entire county efficiently and effortlessly with the help of their two-way system.

You find very few cities in Texas the size of Littlefield that do not rely on their radio to help them keep down their crime rate thereby cutting down a salary expense.

The need is urgent and the time

Stock Dental Check Up Time Now

Now is a good time for farmers to have a dental check-up for their livestock—while animals are being prepared for winter quarters and winter rations—the American Foundation for Animal Health suggested this week.

"Like human beings, animals need their teeth examined occasionally if the rest of their bodily functions are to perform efficiently," a Foundation spokesman said. "Quantity and quality of rations are important but it is equally vital for the animal to chew and shred this food so it can be digested properly," the Foundation added.

Dental troubles in meat-producing animals are of three principal types, the Foundation pointed out. They include difficulties associated with erupting or shedding of teeth; injuries sustained from biting on hard objects; and anatomical irregularities, such as misshaped jaws, unopposed teeth, and more teeth than it is normal for an animal to have.

Symptoms of dental difficulties include frequent drooling; slow, deliberate chewing, indicating pain; and sudden drawing back from cold water while drinking.

The best part about it is the cost. The government will pay for half, I repeat, half, of the cost of installing the radios.

In order to help their county seat the county might possibly help with the other half. What is this City waiting for, "Strike It Rich" to give them radios? It is rumored that Olton is thinking about putting a radio in their city car. Maybe we should pack up that new modern court house and send it back to a modern city.

We have established a need... we have suggested a way... the rest is up to you. See or write your mayor and city officials about this vital need.

Patiently Yours,
A Citizen.

Making Peace

By TOMMY WILLIAMS, Minister

This week presents to us a season in which our minds are led to think in a special way about the sacrifices which have been made for liberty and peace.

Our prayer is that through the wisdom of God, the human race may be brought closer and closer to the realization of "peace on earth and good will toward men." The ideal of world peace is vitally important to people of all nations.

There is a peace, however, that is even more important. That is peace in the relationship of man to God. This supremely vital matter is approached in the New Testament from two standpoints: peace WITH God, and the peace OF God.

"Therefore being justified by faith we have peace

WITH God through our Lord Jesus Christ" (Romans 5:1). Wandering, sinful man makes peace with God as he comes to God in faithful submission to his will. For this purpose, God has provided a mediator between himself and man (1 Timothy 2:5). He has also provided ambassadors of peace that man might be reconciled to God in Christ (2 Corinthians 5:19-20).

Those who make peace "with" God will know the peace "of" God as it fills their hearts and lives. "And the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus" (Philippians 4:7).

Definitely a "feather in the cap" of President Guy Walden and directors of the Sudan First National Bank is the bank community room. Recent kitchen facilities were installed in the room that is available for community meetings. Installed were a refrigerator, cooking range, chrome dinette set, and a new hot water system.

Sudan First National Bank Adds Kitchen Equipment To Club Room

By EVELYN M. SCOTT

Officers and directors of the Sudan First National Bank "spare no expense" when it comes to being the good host to citizens of the Sudan community.

Some two years ago the bank made available to the public a room for civic and community meetings.

But—not content with just providing the room—the bank officials planned ways to make it a more interesting and enjoyable meeting place and recently added new kitchen facilities in order that refreshments might be an added feature for meetings held there.

Bank president Guy Walden states that pop, coffee, cream and sugar are kept on hand for those using the room. Other items also kept in the room for the convenience of meetings are a typewriter and stationery.

A bulletin board has been placed on one wall for the purpose of displaying pictures of outstanding community enterprises, events, and dignitaries that visit the town. Hardly a week goes by that some organization doesn't meet in the room. It has been used by the Chamber of Commerce, school organizations, clubs, art shows and is used as the United Nations Headquarters during the annual Fall Festival.

Walden states that the aim of the bank in providing the room is to be of service to the community. And—that any civic organization or club may use it free of charge.

Miss Paula Bley, Wayland Stephens Wed In Formal Ceremony At Olton

Mr. and Mrs. W. Wayland Stephens are at home in Slaton, where Stephens is engaged in farming and completing requirements for a B. A. degree in music at Texas Tech after their wedding Oct. 30 at the First Baptist church in Olton. The bride is the former Miss Paula Bley, daughter of Mr. and C. E. Bley of Olton.

Stephens is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stephens of Slaton.

The formal ceremony was performed by Rev. W. F. Ferguson of Lubbock. Setting for the exchange of double-ring vows was an altar archway flanked by baskets of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums, greenery and candelabra.

Organ preludes, "Schubert's Serenade," "Berceuse" by Gode, "Traumerie" by Schumann, and "Salut d'Amour" by Elgar, were played by Harold Carson.

Carson accompanied Miss Gloria Snell of Lubbock as she sang "How Do I Love Thee" by Elizabeth Barrett Browning and "Oh, Perfect Love."

As the bride entered on the arm of her father, C. E. Bley, the bridegroom sang "At Dawning" by Cadman. The Processional, the Bridal Chorus" from Wagner's "Lohengrin," and the recessional.

Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," were played by Carson.

BRIDAL GOWN

Miss Bley wore an original wedding gown of white imported French lace over net and taffeta. The fitted lace bodice was fashioned with a standup collar framing the high neckline, long sleeves tapering over the wrists, and a deep terminating waistline at center front. The flowing lace skirt was trimmed at intervals with ruffles of pleated tulle down the front and in the back held a full circular panel which became a chapel train outlined with an applique of lace.

Her fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a crown brim of embroidered seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis showers.

Miss Erna Branch of Rotan served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Betty Bell Smith of New Braunfels, Mrs. Gerald Allcorn of Olton and Mrs. Patsy Tate of Dallas.

The attendants' gowns were identical of crystalite and nylon tulle over taffeta in shades of tangerine. Small silk boleros covered the strapless bodices which were designed with soft tucks over the fitted bustlines of stirred tulle and soft drapery. From yokes of pleated crystalite to the hipline emerged full skirts of shirred tulle.

Their headresses were coronets of miniature bronze mums.

Junior bridesmaids, Misses Carolyn and Paulette Bley, nieces of the bride, wore full length gowns of cinnamon colored crystalite. Their dresses were fashioned with boatnecks, puffed sleeves and bouffant skirts. Their headresses were of yellow chrysanthemums and they carried similar bouquets.

Miss Shannon Traugott of Amherst, niece of the bridegroom, served as flower girl. She wore a ballerina length gown of ivory crystalite and a headress of white chrysanthemums. She carried a colonial bouquet of bronze baby mums.

Tapers were lighted by brothers-in-law of the bridegroom, G. A. Kirk of Ft. Worth and Jim Traugott of Amherst. Groomsman were Wyatt Heard, Houston, Robert Hoard, Waco, G. A. Kirk of Ft. Worth, Jim Traugott, Amherst, Glendon Dawson, Slaton, and Mac Hudgens, Lubbock.

The bridegroom's father, Fred Stephens, attended him as best man.

Mrs. Bley chose to wear for her daughter's wedding a blue crepe dress with rose hat and black accessories. Her corsage was of baby pink orchids.

Mrs. Stephens wore a light green silk dress with black accessories. Her corsage was of green baby orchids.

RECEPTION AFTERWARD

Mr. and Mrs. Bley were hosts following the ceremony to a reception at their home. Centering the bride's table was an arrangement of bronze chrysanthemums and fall leaves lighted by ivory tapers in silver candelabra. The table was covered with an Alencon orlon lace cloth. Serving the four tiered wedding cake and spiced tea were the sisters of the bridegroom, Mrs. Jim Traugott of Amherst and Mrs. G. A. Kirk of Ft. Worth.

Members of the houseparty included Miss Viola Stinson and Miss Betty Whitaker, both of Olton.

The receiving line was formed by Mrs. Bley and Mrs. Stephens, the bride and bridegroom, and the honor attendants.

For a wedding trip Mrs. Stephens wore a charcoal gray suit lined in gold, black and gray accessories, and a white orchid corsage. She is a 1950 graduate of Olton high school where she was Lions club sweetheart and FFA sweetheart. She received her B.A. degree at Baylor university, where she was a member of Alpha Omega social club. She is teaching in George C. Wolforth Elementary school in Lubbock.

Stephens is a graduate of Slaton high school and received his B.B.A. degree at Baylor university, where he was a member of Delta Sigma Pi.

-CHURCHES-

Take your problems to Church this week — millions leave them there!

He restoreth your soul...

Here's Dave Lusk and Bill Miller. Good friends for a good many years now. They hardly ever "talk" religion—they just always find time to get to Services each week.

There's Susan Brown. She's brought Mary Lou up all alone—her daddy was killed in the war. Susan's a slight little thing, but a pillar of strength. And she's not at all ashamed to admit—she leans all right—on the strength of God.

Janet and Bill were married right in this church—and they come back every week. "Just selfishness on our part," Bill says. "After all, our life together got off to a happy start here... and we want to keep it that way!"

And the Wolf family here—will you look back at those boys? They're finding very grown-up and proud as punch, going to a Service with Mom and Dad.

We are well blessed. The doors of our churches and synagogues are wide open... waiting for us to enter. Set aside a time each week... a time apart from the "busyness" of living. You'll find more joy in each day, if you give some time each week to worship.

Pete Taylor sure has grown! Being in the Service has helped him grow up inside, too. As Pete puts it, "A guy's never so big, that he wants to go it alone."

Ever been a stranger in any town? Then you've known loneliness. And you know how comforting it is to come upon a church or synagogue... where the doors are always wide open to everyone.

Start Your Christmas Knitting Early

and who tends to her knitting in luck this fall.

For home knitters are used and as highly styled as a couture collection. The girls who starts her knitting now can solve most of her Christmas gift problems with handsome hand-knit fashions sure to make a hit with everyone on her list. For there are few people who don't appreciate the special compliment of a hand-knit sweater or accessories, shrug sweaters and boleros that are quick and easy to knit. A few evenings of knitting in front of the television set can result in a finished garment.

Many new yarns now available widen the scope of home knitting. There are feather-weight yarns for the new open, lacy effect that are so popular, and bulky yarns for the new "bulky" sweaters beloved by the outdoors.

For cocktail or dinner wear, there are glitter yarns that are effective in evening sweaters, and wraps.

Some of this season's smartest fashions are short, boxy jackets, made especially for her — or for him.

Many women have found that it's possible to knit and watch television at the same time—which may account for the growing popularity of home knitting.

Snow can fall in temperatures as high as 37 degrees when the flakes come from clouds in cold air high above the earth.

A Personal Column Lady Writer In Press Box Would Furnish Many Laughs

By DON PERRY

Dear old Harvard university now has something to crow about since its traditional opponent, Yale university, banned a woman sports writer from the press box Saturday. We figure Harvard should get increased enrollment from mothers who resent such action against the distaff side.

It all sounds rather silly to us by his personal appearance and that Faye Loyd, United Press woman sports writer, wasn't admitted to the press box. It would have probably given the male scribes something to laugh about.

Don't know how good a sports writer Miss Loyd is, but we'd venture the average woman would write copy about like this:

"Tall, handsome number 13, natively attired in blue jersey with sparkling gold trousers, almost got mud on his pants as he received the football, thrown through the air by curly-haired number 6. The other team showed they had little sportmanship by trying to push him down.

"Jim . . . believed he is what is called a fullback, flexed his mighty shoulders—at least six inches wide—and knocked down three of those bad Army boys. Girls, he was probably the most handsome man on the field as he finished a 15-yard trip to the post at the end of the field and took off his dainty helmet and showed his wavy blond hair."

And when Bill . . . kicked that ball over those two lovely white posts, you should have seen the sparkle on his shoes. You can always tell a good football player about the game.

We don't think too many women will want to cover a game from the press box after one try. Male language sometimes gets a little rough; smoke is worse than the backroom at a political convention and when the reporters take off their shoes, none but the strong can be within 15 feet of the box.

New Hats Show the Hair

HAIRDO HATS . . . Here are two typical examples of Lilly Dache's "drop of a hat" collection designed to dramatize the coiffure. Left, a helmet of sable feathers following the upswept lines of the hair; right, brown satin cap split in the middle to show the chignon, worn well back to give full play to the softly waved hair.

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Women's Editor

This fall the hat should be part of the parade, says Lilly Dache, who first won fame as a milliner and now is taking on a head-to-foot glamor job for American women, because, as she puts it:

"A woman can wear a beautiful hat and a stunning gown and still be a mess, if her skin is lifeless, her hair drab, her figure lumpy and her spirit bored."

Branching out into the fields of cosmetics, hair grooming and perianes, the dashing Dache now designs practically anything a woman wears or uses, from hats and costumes to bras, stockings, accessories and even shoes.

For this fall, the designer advocates "a drop of a hat"—a mere punctuation mark in satin, velvet, fur or felt, perched on the head, with outfits through which the hair shows. She matches the hat to the hair color, also, and shows small tripsters in blonde hues for blondes, coppery tones for redheads, tawny browns for the brown-haired girls and shiny black for brunettes.

In a season of "more hat", as advocated by most other milliners, the Dache "drops" are dramatic and undeniably flattering.

In some cases a hat is designed to cover a chignon in back, leaving most of the rest of the hair showing. In other cases the small cap is worn on the crown of the head, but almost always back of the hairline. A few big hats are shown, but these, too, are made to frame and dramatize the hair as well as the face. Says Lilly:

"A woman's hair should be one of her best points—so why not show it?"

Lamb County's Underground Water . . . Where From And How Replenished?

Lamb county residents are living on an underground water supply which has been estimated to contain 16 times more water than the total capacity of all man-made reservoirs in the State of Texas.

But since this water flows underground from New Mexico as some people believe, or is the supply replenished entirely from precipitation on the Southern High Plains?

Answers to these questions are set according to an article published in the October issue of West Texas Today.

Chief Hydrologist W. L. Broadhurst of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District, stresses these points:

The Llano Estacado, or Southern High Plains, extends from the Canadian river in the Texas Panhandle southward to the Edwards plateau, in the vicinity of Big Spring, and from the Caprock east of the Pecos river in New Mexico eastward to the Caprock in Texas near the 101st meridian.

COVERS 21 COUNTIES

The High Plains Underground Water Conservation district covers a large portion of the Llano Estacado in Texas, including all or parts of 21 counties extending from Amarillo southward into Lyon county and from the New Mexico line eastward to the Caprock. It embraces approximately 6,800,000 acres of fertile land.

Permian, Triassic, or Cretaceous rocks underlie the entire district at depths ranging from a few feet to several hundred feet. These rocks are composed chiefly of consolidated sandstone, shale, limestone, gypsum and salt. In general, they are relatively impermeable and are of minor importance as sources of fresh water.

The Ogallala formation of Tertiary age, which overlies these older rocks, is the principal aquifer or groundwater reservoir beneath the district. The Ogallala consists chiefly of unconsolidated clay, silt, sand, and gravel.

The land surface of the Plains is relatively smooth and in general slopes southeastward at the rate of about ten feet per mile; but the bedrock on which the Ogallala was deposited is much more irregular than the present land surface. Consequently, the Ogallala formation ranges in thickness from only a few feet on the tops of the old redbeds of Cretaceous hills and ridges to more than 500 feet in the ancient stream valleys.

STREAMS MEANDER

The Ogallala formation consists of sediments that were brought to the Plains area chiefly by streams that headed in the mountains of New Mexico. These sediments were deposited first in the ancient valleys, but as the valleys became filled, the streams meandered back and forth from one valley to another.

Some material, of course, was washed into the valleys from the surrounding hills, which accounts for layers or lenses of red and yellow clay within the Ogallala and above the true redbeds. After many centuries the valleys were completely filled, but deposition continued until all the hills and ridges were covered with Ogallala sediments.

During more recent centuries, the Canadian river has carved a deep gorge across the Plains, and erosion along the Pecos river has removed the Ogallala material between the foot hills of the mountain and the western escarpment of the Plains. Consequently, the Ogallala formation beneath the Llano Estacado is isolated geologically from the Plains on the north and the mountains to the west.

ONLY PRECIPITATION

Since the Ogallala formation beneath the Southern High Plains is geologically separated, so is it hydrologically separated from any important source of fresh water except precipitation on the surface.

Records show that the average annual precipitation over the district is about 20 inches. That, however, is a relatively large quantity of water. Twenty inches over 6,800,000 acres is equal to about 11,000,000 acre-feet, the actual quantity of water that falls within the bounds of the district during each year of average rainfall.

Records further show that the surface run-off within the district is less than one inch, most of which drains into the thousands of depressions to form temporary ponds on the Plains. The run-off that contributes to stream flow below the Caprock is only a small percentage of the total run-off.

CONSERVATION NECESSARY

The rapid increase in the number of large capacity wells that have been drilled and the corresponding increase in withdrawal of groundwater in the High Plains of Texas has not only caused people to advocate conservation of water, but has resulted in the formation of underground water conservation districts which are now actively engaged in water conservation programs.

The overall geologic and hydrologic problems of the Plains are relatively simple compared to underground water reservoirs in other parts of the country. The Southern High Plains stand up like a great island surrounded by a sea of undulating redbeds both on the west and on the east. Throughout most of the region, the water table slopes southeastward, but along the north edge it slopes toward the Canadian river, and all along the western edge it slopes toward the Pecos river. Therefore, the underground water does not come from the mountains in New Mexico but is replenished entirely from precipitation on the Plains themselves, chiefly during exceptionally wet periods.

Information that has been collected during the first half of the twentieth century shows conclusively that the supply of groundwater in the High Plains is definitely limited and is replenished from precipitation. The amount of annual replenishment is not definitely known, but beyond any question of doubt, it is only a fraction of the annual withdrawal.

One fourth of pedestrians killed in U. S. traffic accidents in 1953 had been drinking, says the National Safety Council.

The Hideaway Table

There are dozens of ways to make entertaining a lark instead of a chore during the coming holiday season. One of the most delightful hostesses we know serves breakfast, luncheon or after dinner coffee just any place fancy dictates . . . in front of a log fire, or beside a fireplace.

If the idea pleases you, you'll find a variety of "carry about" tables in the store. The Hideaway table shown here folds to quickly hideaway in an area just four inches deep; opens to a full round, 39 inches in diameter. Its design, patterned after a fine 18th Century original, is handsome enough to warrant an important spot for year 'round use; hide away only when the decks are being cleared for a teen-age dance.

Americans spend about 300 million dollars a year on eye care.

The U. S. air force has developed a method of reversing the thrust of a jet airplane engine so that it can be used as a brake in the air or on the ground.

Farm Tips

Roughage in some form should be available to livestock at all times. This doesn't necessarily mean it must be of the highest quality but the higher the feeding value the better. Roughages very low in nutritive value can be fed with success if supplemented with about two pounds of cottonseed meal per day.

Hunting season always takes its toll of human lives. Most could be prevented. Two-thirds of all hunting accidents are caused by humans in the line of fire, humans mistaken for animals and hunting with a gun's safety catch off.

Treat every gun as if it were loaded and never carry a loaded fire arm in an automobile. Never point a gun at anything you don't intend to shoot and never pull the trigger until sure of the target. Safety pays.

Nov. 13 is National 4-H Achievement day. Membership in this rural youth organization now numbers more than 2 million more than 120,000 are in Texas. 4-H is conducted as the youth of the program of the Agricultural Extension service. Join the members in your area in achievement observance.

A cow nursing a calf will eat about 60 pounds of corn or sorghum silage or 20 pounds Johnsongrass hay feed with pounds of cottonseed meal or daily for winter maintenance.

Dec. 14 is the day cotton producers will vote in a referendum on the cotton marketing question.

A Stuffed Chicken for Every Pot

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

NEATEST COOKING TRICK
We've come on lately: stuff a stewing chicken with pre-cooked rice, just as it comes from the package, and steam until the bird is fork-tender. The rice cooks just right during the steaming of the chicken. Bring the whole chicken to the table on a platter and listen to the applause from delighted eaters. To give the rice delicious flavor, it has onion, celery, parsley and poultry seasoning added. But one caution: don't use regular raw rice in this recipe because it will not work the way pre-cooked rice does.

To take advantage of thrifty stewing chicken—otherwise known as hen—and do try this recipe. Although the hen has firm muscles, the moist-heat method of cooking assures tender juicy meat. Just be sure you use a tight cover. The rice stuffing is economical, too, because it does not call for butter or margarine. Weight-watchers will like this feature!

This chicken and stuffing is of delicate flavor. So pickled pears are perfect contrast to it—so pretty, too. If you serve them around the chicken with sprigs of green parsley. If your pickled pears are not already stuck with cloves you might insert some of the spice. Offer the pears cold, as they come from the jar, or heat them in their own syrup.

Or you might choose pickled crabapples instead of the pears to serve with this chicken. We notice these crabapples are available in jars in supermarkets.

Prunes, often suggested with poultry in Scandinavian recipes, are another good choice with this chicken and rice. We like to add a thinly sliced small lemon to a package of prunes, cover with water and simmer until tender. Then we put prunes, prune juice and lemon slices in a covered container, and refrigerate for several days—sometimes longer. You'll find time helps blend flavors and gives delightful results. If you can find a lime at your market, use it sometime instead of the lemon for a delightful surprise. Both lemon and lime slices, prepared this way, are delectable eating.

Canned peached and apricots may also be heated in their syrup to which whole cloves and a stick of cinnamon are added and used as the fruit accompaniment. Choose yellow cling peach halves or unpeeled apricots.

After tasting the rice-stuffed chicken at our house, our Girl Friday promptly tried the recipe for a company dinner and rated compliments. She accompanied it with steamed frozen broccoli and lemon butter. She also had a big salad: romaine; thin circles of carrot, cucumber and radishes; tiny cauliflowerets; and a dressing of olive oil, tarragon vinegar and Roquefort cheese. For dessert she offered one of our favorite nut loaves made with graham crackers.

For second-day lunch eating, make a sauce with the wonderful stock left after the chicken is steamed. This stock is rich because you have used a whole chicken for it—and researchers now find it is the chicken meat that contributes real flavor to broth. Bone and skin, food testers say, give only minor amounts of flavor. Add milk or light cream to the stock and thicken with butter or margarine and flour.

We suggest you use 1½ tablespoons each of butter and flour in a cup of liquid stock. Cook the sauce. Blend the butter and flour together and add it to the hot liquid; cook and stir constantly until thickened and bubbly. If the sauce is a little thinner than you like allow it to cook slowly, after it has thickened, so it reduces and concentrates. Taste the sauce for salt, add an herb you like with chicken and freshly ground pepper.

Ingredients: 1 cup packaged pre-cooked rice, ¼ cups finely diced celery, ¼ cup minced celery leaves, ¼ cup finely diced onion, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon poultry seasoning powder, 1 stewing chicken (3½ to 5½ pounds, ready to cook weight), water, salt.

Method: Mix rice, celery, celery leaves, onion, parsley, 1 teaspoon salt, pepper and poultry seasoning. Spoon into body cavity of chicken. Truss chicken, as for roasting, with skewers laced with chicken cord or sew with strong white thread and large needle. Place stuffed chicken breast side down in heavy kettle. Add ¼ cup water and ¼ teaspoon salt for each pound of chicken; put gizzard, heart and neck in water in kettle. (Do not add liver—cook it separately.) Bring water to boil quickly; reduce heat, cover tightly and simmer until tender—about 3 hours. Turn chicken when half cooked so breast is up. Test the chicken for tenderness by inserting a fork into the thickest part; the fork should pierce the meat easily to the bone. Remove chicken from kettle, drain well and place on platter. Makes 5 to 6 servings. Refrigerate strained broth, gizzard, heart and neck for later use.

NOTE: If the small size of chicken specified in recipe is used, some of the stuffing may be spooned into the neck cavity; after stuffing, pull the neck skin back and fasten with a skewer.

Electrical Wiring Standards Revised

Anticipation of extraordinary new levels of lighting and appliance use in American homes has moved an electrical industry committee on interior wiring design to raise its 1953 standard for adequate wiring to a minimum of 100 amperes for the service entrance capacity. Howard Horne, manager of Southwestern Public Service in Littlefield said this week.

This new standard, making 24,000 watts and 240-volt as well as 120-volt service available to the average householder, will apply to all housing with up to 3,000 square feet or floor area. For larger homes, even more capacity is needed.

Previously, service entrance equipment in houses of 1,000 square feet floor area could be considered adequate if such equipment rated at 60 amperes for switch and fuse, and 70 amperes for circuit breakers. At 240 volts approximately 14,000 watts formerly were furnished for household use.

The new 'floor' for wiring adequacy goes into effect Jan. 1. Detailed requirements for all elements of a home wiring system

Grow Christmas Flowers with Bulbs in Bowls

Growing flowers for Christmas in a living room is not easy, but it can be done if Paper White Narcissus bulbs are started Nov. 1, and grown in carefully regulated temperatures.

Jumbo hyacinth bulbs will flower in hyacinth glasses, filled with water.

"Forcing" is the florist's word for making a plant flower out of season; and the formula for accomplishing this is much the same with all bulbs.

Paper White narcissi, planted in bowls filled with gravel or perlite chips and water, should be kept in a temperature below 60 degrees for four weeks.

When top growth begins, these bulbs must have all the light you can give them. They should be kept near windows, in a sun-parlor or room where ventilation can be given and temperatures kept down.

Large bulbs of hyacinths can be grown in water in special glasses. The glasses support the bulbs just above the water, into which their roots drop.

18,000 Expected For Tech-Tulsa Game Saturday

Lubbock—Having spoiled University of Arizona's homecoming, Texas Tech's Red Raiders play at their own homecoming, against the University of Tulsa in Jones stadium at 2 p.m. Saturday.

A good turnout of approximately 18,000 is expected, but tickets are expected to be available through game time.

With a 28-14 crushing of Arizona's hopes last week, the Red Raiders moved into a two-way tie with Arizona State for the Border Conference lead.

For the season Tech now has four victories, two losses, and a tie. Tulsa is winless, but the sophomore-led Golden Hurricane has been improving since mid-season.

Tech's upset of Arizona, one of the nation's leading ground-gaining teams, was definitely a "team victory". Coach DeWitt Weaver said, "Hard charging by the Red Raiders' line had a lot to do with Tech's stopping Warren Woodson's vaunted attack."

Other homecoming activities of an athletic nature include a freshman-varsity basketball game at 4 p.m. Friday, a freshman game with Hardin-Simmons at 8 p.m. Friday, and the annual Ex-Double T association breakfast at 7 a.m. Saturday at Luby's Suburban cafeteria.

Urban Turban... Hat With a New Twist

... Dolores DeMonde, former Ziegfeld Folies girl, adjusts her hat of all moods on the set of the movie "Vera Cruz." Denise tries other versions, the pigtail and the chignon, and a good time is had by all. The turban can be worn as different ways as a girl can change her hairdo.

DOROTHY ROE

Press Women's Editor
Miss girl with a sense of fashion is carving out a new career as a designer of hat whimsies.

Dolores DeMonde, who has worked with Ziegfeld Folies and many other Broadway shows, is deserting the spot-light.

Her designing career is a collection of hand-drawn sketches. Miss DeMonde now has a yarn-trimmed turban that can be worn in many ways, according to the occasion.

By a close-fitting wool hat with a long yarn ponytail, or by twisting, twirling, or tucking the yarn in different ways, a variety of hat-dos may be made.

At all moods comes in many styles and budget priced.

Miss DeMonde occupied Britain's fashion scene 40 years early in the 1910s.

Her designs grows 60 per cent a year in the U. S. cranberry crop.

She has 400,000 or more hats a year for a population of four million.

The pictures that hang on our walls, like as not, got there by default.

This one little Jackie gave us, 20 years ago on Christmas. He chose it because it had a dog in it, and cost only 50 cents. Yet long after little Jackie has moved to Timbuctoo and couldn't remember the incident to save us, it keeps its place on our walls.

Another was a wedding gift; a better print, of course, its donor loved green, so she chose a subject decked out in her favorite color. The fact that we prefer reds and yellows doesn't matter. We keep that picture hanging.

A glance at our walls recently disclosed four such gifts. Another we bought, sight unseen, because we knew the artist. An enlarged photograph of a cathedral was presented by a World War I soldier. Two others were purchased when our taste was, to say the least different.

Yet there they all hang—literary map of England, Cowboy, French miniatures, Audubon print, and Kansas watercolor. Year after year they stare at us and at each other, apparently as permanent as death and taxes.

Interior decorators have long encouraged an occasional change in picture diet. Yet the average homemaker would as soon change husbands as replace the familiar prints. She never really looks at them, either; they're part of the living habit, like a bathtub, venetian blinds, and aluminum cooking utensils.

Recently the spouse asserted himself as head of the house and moved a couple of new prints into the old frames. After the first shock, we've got such a lift from them that we're thinking of lobbying for a National Change-Pictures Week with the next session of Congress.

Swing aBck To Single Wing Is Seen For Next Season

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

Look for a swing back to the single wingback style of football next season. There's nothing quite so successful as success and any football coach adopts the formation he thinks he can use to win. Clark Shaughnessy produced a champion at Stanford in 1940 using the T formation. It was undefeated and untied and won the Rose Bowl.

That caused a shift to the T and when, a few years later, Don Faurot invented the split T, which always ate up huge chunks of yardage without having to throw the ball, the single wingback became so scarce it was a novelty to see it.

Now we find teams having great success with the wingback formation. Arkansas, rattled last in all reference, is undefeated and untied title and play in the Cotton bowl.

Out on the coast UCLA is unbeaten and unbothered and is probably the best team in the nation. It uses the single wing probably in more purity than any other team hanging onto this so-called ancient formation. Southern California, the second best team on the coast, also is a wingbacker.

It isn't that the T formation isn't a good one and that a team can't win with it any more. But Arkansas, UCLA and Southern Cal showed it wasn't the ONLY formation that could be used effectively.

BEST FROM WEST

Nick Kerbawy, general manager of the very successful Detroit Lions in the national professional league, was quoted the other day as saying the best pro players came out of the Southwest. "Players are best in the Southwest because they play the type of ball that goes in the professional ranks," Kerbawy declared. "They don't look for that old-fashioned grind-it-out kind of play. They shoot for the works."

Obviously, Nick hasn't been watching Southwest Conference football this year and is judging the league by what it used to be.

Wide open football includes passing the ball. That's something the Southwest Conference isn't doing these days. In 25 games played by conference teams this season exactly 575 passes were thrown by them—an average of 61-plus.

In other words it's been a head-knocking season and the guys with the hardest heads—and noses, to quote Bear Bryant of Texas A&M who won't play anybody but the "hard-nosed guys"—have come out best.

But it produces dull, stolid football. In the first place, the fan can get little thrill out of watching a big bruiser smash into the line and be covered by defending players.

SINGLE WING

However, the strange thing about football in the Southwest Conference has been that Arkansas, the team with the single wing, the style that's best suited to passing, is the team that does the least passing. And Texas, the split-

T team that plays the dullest football of them all, is the most prolific thrower. Texas has tried 110 passes, Arkansas only 49.

The difference arises from the fact that Arkansas uses the pass only when it is absolutely necessary and when it has been set up to the extent that there's not much chance involved. Texas has a completion average of only 391, Arkansas 510.

Thus, while there is bound to be a swing back to the single wing because of Arkansas' success, there won't be a swing back to the forward pass, for which the Southwest Conference became first noted. The single wing without the forward pass still will be dull football.

Early-day American bison herds had one white individual for about every 500,000 animals and the Indians considered the white ones sacred.

Dear Sir:

My Player of the Week is Paul Yarbrough. I think the center position is a very important one. Paul made some excellent tackles Friday night and that interception was great. He does some good centering and always plays a clean game, but Friday night was especially good.

All of the Wildcats were great but especially I say "Hats off to Paul Yarbrough" this week.

Phonelle Brantley,

Amherst, Texas.
