Brownfield Wins 5-A Football Crown; Beat Wildcats 34-6

Cubs To Play Merkel For Bi-District Title At Brownfield Friday

More than two thousand enthusiastic football fans jammed the Littlefield stadium last Thursday afternoon and watched the powerful Brownfield Cubs coast to a 34-6 victory over the Littlefield Wildcats.

Deverelle Lewis and Jiggs Tankersley formed the spearhead of the Cubs attack with Lewis galloping 61 yards for a touchdown before the game had hardly got underway. Tankersley put the Cubs well on the road to victory a few minutes later by scoring on a 16-yard dash around right end.

Littlefield first and only marker came in the second frame when Hugo Byers snared a long spiral pass from Quarterback Hammonds, which put the Wildcats back into the ball game.

During the remainder of the game Lewis scored two more touchdowns, both on approximately 36 yard runs, and Tankersley scored on a 49-yard pass from Greenfield. Harold Dalton's educated toe accounted for 4 of the Cubs points. (Continued on Back Page)

'LEARN TO TALK ON YOUR FEET'

Some years ago a girl was born on a farm near my old home in Missouri. Her father plowed and shucked corn and pitched hay; the girl led the life any girl on a farm does. Her name was Nellie Tayloe.

She fell in love with a young man named Bradford Ross, and her name became Nellie Tayloe Ross. Now you may recognize it. They moved to Wyoming; he was interested in politics and it was not long until he announced himself for governor. There was a whirlwind campaign and, when the votes were counted, he was the new governor of Wyoming. The ex-farm girl was delighted. A governor's wife!

And then things were not so well. The young governor became ill, died. His wife succeeded him as governor. She was qualified to do this, for she had talked over all his affairs with him and had helped him with his decisions. She became an outstanding success.

As the period came toward an end, her friends urged her to run for governor. She was intensely interested in managing the state, but there was a barrier between her and election. She would have to make speeches. She would have to meet the people; they would have to know her.

She had never made a speech in her life and she was terrified. What should she do about it? Well, she decided she would make the speech. She had the very first necessary qualification: she had something to say. She didn't know how she was going to say it; but she was going to say it.

She got up, she trembled, she literally shook. She took a drink of water, gulped, looked at her notes, and finally squeaked: "Good evening." A long, long pause. Then she got hold of herself. She forgot herself.

She was astonished when the chairman whispered, "Time's up." She made more speeches after that. She was elected.

In Wyoming, a governor is elected every two years. When her term was up, she spoke again. Elected. She became such a good speaker that she was outstanding. Clubs and organizations sought her out. She has made as many as seven speeches in a day. She has spoken in every state in the Union except one.

President Roosevelt heard of her. He was impressed; he appointed her director of the United States mint. The money you have in your pocket was coined under her supervision. She has 1,200 people working under her. Her name is engraved on the cornerstone of the federal building in Ft. Knox, Kentucky, where our government keeps its gold.

She inherited the first job as governor; but, if she hadn't learned to speak, she would not have been elected to it. It was the changing point of her life. It has made her a national figure, and one of the most influential women in the United States.

To the reader of this column: by all means, learn to talk on your feet.

Major Changes In Buick Organization

FLINT, Mich., Nov. 29.—Major changes and promotions in the Buick manufacturing organization were announced today by Harlow H. Curtice, General manager, growing out of the steadily increasing volume of defense operations undertaken by this division of General Motors Corporation.

The changes, which affect key positions and create new departments and manufacturing responsibilities "have been made to obtain the greatest organization strength in meeting today's unusual problems of National Defense," Mr. Curtice said.

Effective immediately, he announced:

O. W. Young, formerly general manufacturing manager, has been named executive assistant to Mr. Curtice in charge of all manufacturing, a new post which has been created to coordinate all Buick manufacturing operations, both automotive and defense.

W. N. Larke, formerly General Superintendent, becomes manager of manufacturing in charge of all Flint operations.

B. H. Newell, formerly assistant General Superintendent, is appointed General Superintendent in charge of automobile production.

A. R. Middleton, formerly Superintendent of the sheet metal plant, becomes assistant General Superintendent of automobile production.

Succeeding Mr. Middleton as Superintendent of the sheet metal plant is James Langford, formerly night Superintendent in the manufacturing department.

Fred Letts, for the past several months in charge of aviation engine manufacturing operations in Buick's Flint plants, becomes General Superintendent of all defense production in Flint, both on Pratt & Whitney operations as well as tank and other defense production.

Assistant General Superintendent of defense operations will be Fred W. Moore, formerly Superintendent of the Buick tool room.

Succeeding Mr. Moore as Superintendent of the tool room will be Norman Harvey, formerly assistant in the department, while Henry Jackson has been named assistant tool room Superintendent.

Fred Pyper, master mechanic, has been named General Master Mechanic, directing this important phase for all Buick operations, automotive as well as defense.

In the post of Master Mechanic of all Flint operations will be Homer Schultz, formerly assistant Master Mechanic. He will be assisted by James H. Nelson.

John A. Hoholik, formerly assistant Superintendent of the axle plant, is named to the new post of tank manufacture, while F. W. Hertrick is appointed divisional en-

F. F. A. And F. H. T. To Present Radio Program Next Tuesday

The F. F. A. Chapter and the Future Homemakers of Littlefield High School will present a radio program of chapter activities over Station KFYO Lubbock on Tuesday, Dec. 9, from 3:15 to 3:30 P. M. Everyone is urged to listen to the program. The boys and girls will be accompanied to Lubbock by their instructors, Miss Lois Wren and R. L. King.

Director of tank manufacture and Stephen A. Bendure, Chief Inspector of this division, Frank A. Henry, formerly General Foreman in the axle division, becomes assistant Superintendent of tank production.

Carl A. Savage is named assistant Superintendent of the axle plant replacing Mr. Hoholik in that factory.

That a maximum share of Buick's productive effort will be devoted to defense was indicated by the executive's announcement, together with the fact that this General Motors Division already is far into the development of its huge Pratt & Whitney aviation engine manufacturing project, involving production facilities both in the company's plants in Flint and in the new Buick Chicago Division at Melrose Park, Ill. In addition, this manufacturer will share substantially in the General Motors Tank program with plants for the production of major tank assemblies in its automotive plants.

Mr. Curtice said that Buick also is seeking other defense manufacturing operations which will turn the factories here into one of the nation's largest "arsenals", at the same time providing for motor car output consistent with curtailed levels.

Petroleum Tax Bill More Than A Million A Year Says Oilman

FORT WORTH, Texas, Dec. 2.—The Texas petroleum industry's tax bill is now more than $100,000,000 a year, not including gasoline taxes paid by Texas motorists, Arch H. Rowan, Fort Worth oilman, told members of the standing tax committees of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association here Thursday morning.

Texas oil producers alone are paying $54,000,000 a year, an average of over 11 cents a barrel on all the oil they produce, Rowan reported. They recently received an increase of $10,000,000 a year in State taxes, he noted.

"As an employer, I look at the ten million dollar increase in terms of what that much money would mean to the men and women employed by our industry," Rowan said. "If that sum had been added to the payroll of the 40,000 Texans employed in producing oil, they would have given every worker an extra pay-check of $250 a year."

"In looking beyond today, it is necessary to consider the effect of retrenchment of industry upon the men and women who look to such industry for their living and also what would happen to the community when industry is forced by excessive taxation to retard its operations. When we oilmen fight efforts to increase our tax load, we are not fighting for ourselves alone. We are also fighting to keep on our payrolls the men and women who have made it possible for us to operate our producing properties."

While oil production tax rates have been raised 45 per cent since 1935, total State and local tax revenues collected from Texas oil producers have jumped 90 per cent, Rowan pointed out.

"The fact that revenues have increased twice as fast as tax rates should make it evident to even the most skeptical advocates of higher tax rates that continued expansion of the Texas oil industry assures an automatic increase in tax revenues," he added. "Furthermore, as oil development spreads to new sections it provides local tax revenues many years to come through establishment of proven ground reserves with taxable value. "Next year, when nearly every one will be paying federal income tax, a more sympathetic understanding of our State and local problems. Many citizens who have voted for various bond issues to provide new roads, courthouses, schools and other civic improvements will begin to realize that somebody has to pay the bill for higher taxes. Many who have been tax conscious in the past begin to take a more active part in preventing unnecessary local expenditures and demanding more economical administration of government."

Man about to become an owner of the electric company

WAIT a minute—this man is taking a medical examination, isn't he? That's right—and what's more he is passing it.

But what in the world does that have to do with owning an electric company?

It's this way:

The man is applying for life insurance. And when he becomes a policy owner he will automatically become a part owner of some electric company. The same thing would be true if he were depositing money in a bank. For every one who has a bank account or a life insurance policy is part owner of some electric company.

How is that? Because the money you put in the bank, or buy a life insurance policy with, is invested in various businesses, including electric companies.

This makes you one of the millions of people who have a personal stake in the electric companies—an extra "plus" benefit to you from a business operation which has not only steadily improved your electric service, but has also succeeded in reducing your electric rate about 50% in the past 10 to 15 years. And it is the aim of the people who have accomplished these things—the employees of your electric company—to keep on bringing you more and more of the benefits of electricity at less and less cost.

Purchase Of Farm Machinery

Farm machinery becoming difficult to purchase because of increased costs, farmers in Lamb County are being encouraged to consider the plan of joint purchase and ownership of equipment that has aided many small farmers in this area, according to L. Nix, rural rehabilitation director for the Farm Security Administration.

plan, it was said, is in line with suggestion made recently by the Department of Agriculture, Claude R. Nix, encouraging both the practical custom work and the joint purchase of farm machinery to obtain maximum use and efficiency.

the Farm Security Administration's program of assisting families, community and cooperative service groups have been organized and are operating successfully. Joint purchase and ownership of expensive machinery is possible for small operators. The use of the labor services at a cost within the means of the small farm unit to purchase machinery has been estimated to be next year would buy, if it were available, 40 percent more machinery than they purchased in 1940 but that it was probable only 90 percent of the 1940 amount would be available because of the shortage of metals.

"This means farmers will have to get along with 50 percent less machinery than they figure they'll need to carry out their operations in the Food-For-Freedom program," Mr. Nix said. "And that means we'll have to buy together and work together to get the maximum use out of what we have," he continued.

"By buying and using heavy equipment in groups, the supply should be sufficient to go around and enable us to meet the increased production goals."

Although farmer in Lamb County may not need new machinery until Spring, the FSA Supervisor said now is the time to plan to purchase.

"We don't know what the future holds for us, but we have every reason to doubt that machinery will be less costly or as plentiful as it is at the present time," he said.

To help small farmers, who cannot get adequate credit elsewhere, the Farm Security Administration of the United States Department of Agriculture, makes loans for necessary farm equipment and supplies. These loans are made only when farm and home plans show the equipment is needed and that the farm income will be sufficient to repay its cost over a period of Students from Lamb County are Charles E. Heathman and Avary Jackson Sullivan of Littlefield.

Mrs. W. C. Campbell Hostess Women's Missionary Union

Mrs. W. C. Campbell of Fieldton was hostess Monday to the ladies of the Women's Missionary Union of the Fieldton Baptist church in her home at 2:30 p. m.

A short business session was held with the president of the organization Mrs. Carrie Tomlinson, presiding during which plans were made for the Christmas social which is to be held December 9th.

Mrs. Patterson was in charge of the lesson and taught the remaining part of the study book, "Three from one to five years at five percent interest. Where farm machinery needs are purchased and financed jointly by two or more farmers, the rate of interest is three percent per annum. Frequently farms unable to carry the whole cost of a needed piece of equipment can support a share of the cost.

"In the cases, even machinery is plentiful, it is more practical for two or more farmers to buy the equipment together and spread the cost over the farms," Mr. Nix said.

To assist the small operators who will need additional equipment for the next season, Mr. Nix will be glad to discuss the FSA's plan for financing these purchases on a group basis. He suggested that interested farmers contact him at his office in the City Hall, Littlefield, Texas.

The closing prayer was led by Mrs. W. G. Street and those present were: Mesdames Pat Boone, Viggo Peterson, Roy Shahan, W. E. Lowe, W. G. Street, A. F. Dunnigan, W. C. Redell, Herbert Dunn, Homer Sewell, T. A. Henson, and Earl Hobbs.

Postpone Home Service Appeal

The Salvation Army Advisory Board met at the Army hall for a short business session on Tuesday night.

It was decided in consideration of existing conditions, to postpone the Annual Home Service appeal, usually held earlier in the fall, until early in the new year. Mr. Lowell Short, president, said he hoped it would be possible to have a meeting of the full Board soon after the holidays when definite arrangements would be made.

CHRISTMAS

Again, as Christmas Day returns, Most folks will do their best To give nice things to those they love But what about the rest?

I'm sure we'd all be happier If somehow we could spare A little more for some of those For whom none seems to care.

Don't you agree that it's all wrong For anyone to spend His money — that could feed the poor Upon a wealthy friend?

This year as we observe his birth Let's copy him in deed And give a trifle less to friends

F. F. A. Members Cull Poultry Flocks

The first year Vocational Agriculture classes made a field trip last week to the homes of Edsel Hauk and Billy Jim Evans to cull and treat the boys home poultry flocks from worms. The morning class went to Edsel Hauks home and culled about 400 fowls, and the afternoon class went to the home of Billy Jim Evans and culled about 200 hens. The boys have been studying how to do these jobs in class.

And more to those in need.

Fleet Of Boats Operate In Corpus Christi Waterfront

Corpus Christi, Texas, November 26, 1941—The fleet of boats operating in Corpus Christi Bay in conjunction with the U. S. Naval Air Station here was increased to a total of 15 recently with the addition of a new, 36 foot crash boat.

Painted the traditional battleship grey of all Naval vessels, the new boat is a sister ship of one which has been on duty at the "University of the Air" for several months. Two powerful Sterling gasoline engines drive the sleek rescue craft through the water at a top speed of 30 knots. Carrying a crew of four, the craft is fully equipped to handle any emergency which may occur in the waters adjacent to the Naval Air Station. Stretchers, a two-way radio, and complete first aid equipment are aboard; and a jib on the stern could be used to prevent disabled aircraft from sinking before additional help arrives on the scene.

Of the 15 boats detailed to the world's largest Naval air station, all but three are power driven. This small but highly efficient fleet comprise an integral part of the immense organization which soon will be producing Naval aviators at a rate of 300 per month.

Break All Records In Boll Snapping

East Texas boys, Charles Blackshear, 15, and his brother Billie Joe, 14, are break-records for snapping bolls in 1941. Charles has the record of snapping 1,007 pounds in eight hours, while Billie Joe snapped 1,004 in the same time. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. W. Blackshear of five miles north of Honey Texas. The record of boll snapping was set on the Bob Crawford farm, five miles east of Amherst, and north of Littlefield, where Charles and his two sons are assisting in the harvest of the cotton crop. An interview Saturday with Charles, he said that this was the cotton than he had ever seen boys the age of his sons snapping and added, "I don't believe there is another boy of that age in Texas who has snapped as much cotton in the same amount of time." Mr. Blackshear is a farmer in East Texas, and after harvesting cotton from his farm they started out here, arriving on November 1. He said his boys had pulled cotton since they were big enough, and that each year they come to the Plains to work in the cotton patch. Charles and Billie Joe are both in the seventh grade of Forest Hill School. Mr. and Mrs. Blackshear have five other children, as follows: Mrs. O. D. Hineman of Cottonwood, Texas; Curtis Lee of 3 miles north of Petty, Texas; and Rex Burland, Wallace Wayne, Wanza Lou and Paul Davey Blackshear all of whom live at home.

Star-Telegram To Have No Cheap Rate After December 31

The Leader has been advised by the Fort Worth Star-Telegram that there will be no cheap rate on this newspaper after Dec. 31. Other years there have been an 11 months offer after the first of the new year, but this newspaper states emphatically that the present cheap rate of $7.45 for the Star-Telegram, daily and Sunday, for one year, and the rate of $6.45 for the Telegram daily only, will not be extended further than Dec. 31, 1941.

The Leader passes this information on to the readers of the Telegram and this newspaper, so that all who desire may renew their Star-Telegram and Leader at the low combination rate of $7.45 for both Star-Telegram (daily and Sunday) and Leader for 1 year; or $6.45 for Star-Telegram 1 year daily only and the Leader 1 year.

The information also comes to the Leader that due to the higher cost of production and materials, the Star-Telegram are seriously considering raising the regular price of this West Texas newspaper, so this would also indicate that it is to the advantage of the subscriber to renew his newspapers now.

Mrs. Webb Outlines Work Done On Her Livingroom Project

Below is a story written by Mrs. Charlie Webb, living room demonstrator for the Sodhouse Home Demonstration Club.

"Dr. Frank Crane says, "The deepest hopelessness is the soul that has lost its enthusiasm," and certainly no soul or family either could have much enthusiasm in the drab living room my family inhabited. Its arrangement was in a stage of chaos most of the time.

With this thought in mind, I sat down to vision my ideal living room. This vision consisted of finished woodwork, papered walls, new furniture, venetian blinds, and long, flowing draperies hanging to the floor. My desire for these things mounted until I was determined to make this vision into something of lasting beauty and permanent happiness.

"My house is only three years old, but the interior was still unfinished. The first thing I did was to attack the woodwork with clear varnish and brush. My family and I transformed the walls into a background of exquisite beauty and loveliness by hanging tan paper with a very narrow pastel border to give the ceiling height.

"We spent three weeks in the cotton field, and with our earnings we purchased a two-piece living room suite of soldier blue. Just to look at my new platform rocker was peace and contentment for my work spirit. The divan is a folding type that makes into a bed.

"We had an old hand made desk that was beginning to show every year of its age. I took off its old "dress" and refinished it to match my other furniture. I renovated an old cane bottom chair, which is now an attractive study chair of dark oak with natural twine bottom. I have two children in school, so with this important factor in mind, I arranged the desk to give proper lighting at all time.

"An old table was refinished for the radio and around it I created my relaxing center. In this place I try to spend a small portion of each day thinking beautiful thoughts and refreshing my mind. Here also is a magazine rack and my sewing table.

"Cream venetian blinds are on the windows, but the beauty of these windows are the long, rose draperies flowing gracefully to the floor.

"The last and perhaps the most enjoyable task was the framing of two pictures above the divan. One, "Sweet on My Moran", the other a hand painting done by my children's father.

"My children caught my enthusiasm and shared all the joys of this achievement because they had a part in every task and even helped make the money for the purchases. So on down the trail of year, we shall always share the memory of building together something of lasting beauty that shall mean much to our lives because a Home Demonstration Agent gave a mother a new vision.

"A YANK IN THE R. A. F." TO BE SHOWN AT PALACE THEATRE THIS WEEK END

The first story of Britain's fighting R. A. F. will zoom across the screen of the Palace Theatre Saturday midnight, Sunday and Monday when 20th Century-Fox's new production, "A Yank in the R. A. F.," will be featured.

With Tyrone Power as the Yank and Betty Grable as the Yank's sweetheart, this story of England's men of the skies follows them as they live, love and laugh on land and perform deeds of heroism in the air as part of their everyday job. Production Chief Darryl F. Zanuck received the full consent and cooperation of the British government to show many of the events of the war—flights, kirk, forced landings in enemy territory; and on the lighter side, pilots' efforts at relaxation.

The story follows Tyrone, American flyer in Britain who the R. A. F. to get some action and the routine of his life he does not get along well with fellow pilots or his commanding officer, played by John Sutton, his romance dancer in London receives a setback when Sutton poses marriage to her.

Of Interest Is Large Collection Of Elephants

Most people have heard of Collectors of old coins, stamps, paper matches, and what not, but here is something new—a collector of elephants.

Mrs. O. K. Yantis, Jr., better known as "Mary Edith" by her many friends, and customers of her beauty shop, has been collecting elephants for the past three years. When any of her friends go place far distant, or interesting, they bring her home an elephant. In her collection she has something over 200 elephants of all sizes and colors. With the exception of a very few she has had all of her elephants given to her.

In her collection are: one from Honolulu made of Teck wood, two from China town in San Francisco, hand carved out of ivory; one from Gallup, N. M., made by the San Ildefonso Indians in Black pottery; one from New York City carved from bone and one from Tula Juana, Mexico, of a silver color. In fact "Mary Edith's" elephants have come from far and near, including Oklahoma, Louisiana, Georgia, and Mexico.

The elephants about Mary Edith's suite and beauty shop multiplied greatly about a week ago, when a friend, Miss Helen Burt of Pep, presented her with an elephant necklace, which is of white pearl, with 30 little white elephants dangling from the strand. Therefore, Mary Edith just adds 30 more elephants to her large collection.

Brownfield Wins—

kicking four points out of five attempts.

The Wildcats, though somewhat demoralized by the Cubs early lead, played their hearts out but most of their ground gaining attempts, especially the line thrusts, were stopped as cold as yesterday's potatoes. Only when Bradshaw and Hammons were passing with such uncanny accuracy in the second quarter did the Wildcats look good.

Hammons in the backfield played a heads-up game for the locals but the little guy that really took the cake was the nimble-legged Wildcat center, Calvin Lippard. Calvin played the greatest game of his career, and more than one touch-down-bound Cub found himself suddenly sitting unconcernedly on the seat of his pants. Gene Clark also did some outstanding broken-field ball-carrying for the Wildcats in the twilight of the game, however most of his gains were made over subs who had been sent into the Brownfield line after the game had been put on ice.

Last Thursday's tussle with the Cubs was the Wildcat's final game of the year and furnished the finale to a very colorful season, and all Littlefield is proud of their accomplishments.

So in closing, we take off our hat to the 1941 District Champions; the Brownfield Cubs, who in our estimation is one of the best schoolboy teams that the South Plains has ever produced.

West Texas District C. A. Annual Convention Held Here

Over 300 Attend Two Day Session Thursday, Friday

The West Texas District Christian's annual convention was held at the local Assembly of God church in a two day session Thursday and Friday, with Rev. A. J. Williams, as host pastor. Rev. Fred E. Ball, of Olton, District Christian Ambassador, presided over the convention. Over three hundred were in attendance at the meeting from points in Texas, New Mexico, and Oklahoma. Approximately 45 churches were represented by 60 ministers. Rev. Ball opened the meeting at 9 o'clock Thursday morning, followed by a number of special songs; and welcome addresses by the host pastor, Mr. Williams; Rev. A. A. Slaughter, former C. A. president; and Rev. H. M. Reeves, District Superintendent of Plainview, Texas, after which Rev. A. C. Slaughter, District Superintendent, brought the message on "A Man of God." Lunch was served during the noon hour to approximately 350 people.

The service re-convened at 2 o'clock P. M., and immediately thereafter Rev. John Hart of Roswell, N. M. delivered a missionary message to the gathering. Following the sermon Rev. and Mrs. Fred E. Ball, newly weds, were honored with a lovely linen shower by the churches of the District. They were the recipients of an array of beautiful and useful gifts, as well as a cash offering. Following the lunch hour Rev. A. A. Daly, pastor of the Hereford Assembly of God Church led a songfest which was followed by a message by Mrs. Huntsucker, evangelist of Oklahoma, using as her subject "The Need of Spiritual Life." After some time was spent in scriptural quotations the closing message was brought by Mrs. A. A. Hunt of Quitaque, using the subject, "Being Faithful" which was ably handled.

Farmers To Elect AAA Committeemen

The State AAA Committee has set Friday, December 19, as the date for election of community committeemen and delegates to the county convention. The same procedure will be followed in the committee elections this year as previous years, George Slaughter, state committee chairman, said. Farmers in each community will elect three committeemen who will serve during the coming year. At the same time, they will elect a delegate and alternate delegate to a county convention which will be held the following day. The convention will elect the county committee of three members and two alternates. "Selection of the right men to serve as committeemen is more important this year than ever before," Slaughter, a Wharton county farmer, declared. "The Food-For-Freedom campaign has resulted in more work for committeemen, and it is expected that the follow-up on the campaign will require that committeemen spend more time working with the program than in previous years." The AAA official emphasized the added importance of electing the right man as county committee chairman, especially since he serves also as chairman of the county USDA defense board which administers the Farm Defense Program. "County chairmen should be good organizers and leaders, capable of obtaining the fullest cooperation from all board members and farmers," Slaughter said. MR. AND MRS. BATES MOVE TO MORTON Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Bates have moved into Morton from near Baileyboro. Mr. Bates is mechanic for Josh Randolph, M. M. tractor dealer.

Market For Only Half U. S. Cotton

Markets for less than one bale out of every two bales on hand. That's the situation cotton farmers are facing as they vote in the cotton marketing quota referendum Saturday, December 13, when they go to the polls for the fifth consecutive year to decide whether they want to continue the marketing quota system. The total supply of American cotton in the world on August 1, was about 23,800,000 bales as compared with 24,900,000 a year earlier, Bert Tankersley, state AAA committeeman and Kaufman county cotton farmer points out. Of that amount, 23,000,000 bales, including a 12,000,000 bale carry-over and on 11,000,000 bale crop, were in the United States. Export markets will take about one bale in every 23 now in the United States, the farmer-committeeman said, while the domestic market will take about 10 bales in every 23. Thus combined export and domestic markets will use about 11,000,000 bales of the 23,000,000 bales available. "With supply more than double demand, American cotton farmers must consider carefully the importance of their vote in the referendum," Tankersley declared. "They must take into consideration the effect such a huge supply would have upon cotton prices if the supporting loan were not available. Rejection of quotas in the referendum will mean no loan in 1942." Last year quotas were approved by 92.3 percent of the growers voting in the referendum.

APPLICATION BLANK

Application blanks are the bane of many people's existence.

It would be interesting to know how many men and women have decided against a government career because of mental rebellion against filling in answers to quantities of complicated questions, but undoubtedly, if the Civil Service Commission checked up, it would find records of million of blanks which were sent out on request, and never heard from again.

Even in large industrial concerns, where the questionnaires are simple compared with a government questionnaire, there is a high rate of applicants for jobs who never are heard from again after they are given an application blank.

The personnel manager of a large industrial concern, whose department sees several thousand girls each month who are seeking jobs, said that when he first began that work he became greatly embarrassed over the number of girls who never came back. He thought it must be something he did or said which made them decide. "I'll never work for that company!"

For, he explained, he would interview one girl after another who seemed to be a likely prospect for his company, she would seem to want a job and he would then give her an application blank to take home and fill out. That's the last he would ever hear from her. Later, he found this was the experience of all personnel men. Application blanks, they agree, are one of the biggest hurdles a job hunter must get over.

Part of the reason for that probably is physical laziness. But there's more to it than that. There is a feeling of rebellion on the part of most people toward being classified or catalogued, or regimented. We don't like being little frogs in big puddles or small cogs in a big machine.

LOVE THY NEIGHBOR

When no one in this town squabbles with anyone else in town for the period of a year, I think it is safe to predict that the world can from then on look forward to lasting peace.

For most of the cause of war, if reduced to simplest terms, grow out of the same kind of ill-temper, poor sportsmanship, misunderstanding, greediness and bullying which make neighbors stop speaking, wives and husbands seek divorces, and boys start swinging at one another's jaw.

Nations have the same characteristics as the people who make up those nations. So long as people are impatient, easily angered, quick to jump at wrong conclusions and anxious to get revenge, nations will continue to play those same roles.

Ignoring for the moment the issues of this war or any other war, there is little doubt that the permanent end of war awaits the time when all people will live according to the commandment, "Love thy neighbor."

How can we expect nations to remain at peace as long as many of us are unable to solve the petty problems of keeping peace in our homes, our towns and among rival groups in our own nation?

CHAPTER VII

SYNOPSIS
Harley Longstreet, broker, dies on a gully from poison scratched into his hand by a needle-pierced cork in his pocket. He and his guests were on their way to celebrate his engagement to Cherry Brown, an actress. The other guests were his partner DeWitt, DeWitt's superstitious wife Fern—with whom Longstreet had had an affair—Jeanne, DeWitt's daughter and her fiancé Christopher Lord, Cherry's friend Pollux, a friend of DeWitt, Imperiale, middle-aged Lath, and Michael Collins, a brassy Irishman. Questioned, each member of the party seems unfriendly toward the dead man. Bruno and Thumm, investigators, think DeWitt guilty—Longstreet had a sinister hold on him. Drury Lane, retired Shakespearean actor, says he knows who the murderer is, but will identify him only as Mr. X. One night the investigators and Lane go to the Weehawken Ferry, where a man in an anonymous note, a man is murdered on an incoming boat. He is identified as Charles Wood, conductor of the murder car—writer of the anonymous letter. DeWitt denies killing Wood, but in Wood's pocket is a cigar bearing DeWitt's private mark. Guinness, motorman of the murder car, identifies Wood by an ugly scar on the leg. DeWitt offers no explanation. Lane's attendant Quacey disposes the actor with makeup. They start out together. Inspector Thumm appears at Wood's boarding house and finds his bank book. Thumm tells the officer stationed at the boarding house to phone him next day at 2:30. They go to a waiting automobile and rob it of some makeup. It is Lane. He also interviews DeWitt's butler.

"I gather then, that you and Inspector Thumm believe DeWitt killed Longstreet also?"

Lane walked to the desk. "Will you please direct me to Dr. Morris, your Club physician, then to the Club secretary."

An hour or so later, Drury Lane entered District Attorney Bruno's office and found Inspector Thumm hunched over a telephone, his face a study in incredulity. Thumm jerked a heavy eyebrow in greeting, his ear hooked to the receiver. "Now listen," said the inspector, his face so red it seemed about to burst from impotent rage. "Let me get this straight . . . Shut up, will you? You say I told you to call me at half-past two this afternoon and remind me to give you something to do? You're drunk! What? You helped me pick up the rug? What rug, you jackass? . . . Maybe—" His eyes focused on Mr. Drury Lane, who was watching him with affectionate amusement, and his jaw sagged. A surly grin spread over his face and he growled into the telephone: "Okay. I changed my mind. Just hang around the room." He hung up and turned to Lane, plopping his elbows on the desk. Bruno looked from one to the other in bewilderment. "Well, Mr. Lane, that's one on me, hey?"

"Inspector," Lane said gravely, "if I have ever entertained doubts concerning your sense of humor, 'What is all this about?' demanded Bruno. 'Yesterday I went to Weehawken, interviewed Mrs. Murphy, searched Wood's room, found a bank-book under the carpet, assisted, mind you, by a man who has known me for six years, then I walked out.' Thumm replied. 'It's something of a miracle, because at the same time I was in my office jawing with you.' Bruno stared at Lane, broke into a laugh. 'That's a little unfair, Mr. Lane. And a little dangerous.' 'Not at all. My familiar is the world's premier make-up man, Mr. Bruno. I must humbly ask your pardon, Inspector. My reason was serious and peremptory. Perhaps my instruction to your operative was a childish prank, but even that was dictated by a desire to inform you, unconventionally to be sure, of the impersonation.' 'Next time you might let me take a look at myself,' grunted Thumm. 'Frankly, I don't like—Well, let it go. Let's have that bank-book.' 'My visit,' said Lane in a brisk tone, 'really is induced by a desire for a copy of the complete list of ferry passengers.' Bruno explored the top drawer of his desk and handed Lane a thin sheaf of papers, remarking: 'The other day you said you'd like to be informed before we take definite action . . . ' 'The ax falls,' murmured Lane. 'What precisely?' 'The arrest of DeWitt for the murder of Wood. Thumm and I are agreed that we have a case. When the Commissioner heard my story he told me to shoot. It won't be hard to secure an indictment.' Lane looked grave. 'I gather, then, that you and Inspector Thumm believe DeWitt killed Longstreet also?' 'Naturally,' said Thumm. 'This Mr. X of yours is behind the whole business. The two crimes were committed by the same hand, with motives that fit like gloves.' 'A remarkably astute phrase,' said Lane. 'And when is this step to be taken?' 'There really is no hurry,' replied Bruno. 'We'll probably arrest him within the next day—if something doesn't happen to change our minds.' 'It is too premature,' said the actor. 'You have a case, but how strong is it?' 'Listen,' snapped Thumm, 'this isn't getting us anywhere. You've heard our side of the story. What's yours?' 'I find, gentlemen,' Lane said, winking about to face both men, 'that you make the identical error in your attitude toward crime and punishment that many producers make in connection with drama and its interpretation. Periodically we are reminded of the immortality of the one dramatic immortal by some producer's announcement that he will once more stage 'Hamlet.' What is the first thing he does? He scribbles about drawing up impressive legal documents, all timed to a nicety with the publicized intention to star the eminent Mr. Evans or the great Mr. Gleiguld. The public responds in exactly the same manner—going to view a man and overlooking the witchery of the play. The emphasis is misplaced. You commit the identical error when you shape a crime, redesign it to fit DeWitt, instead of measuring DeWitt against the fixed specifications of the crime. The problem should be attacked always as an unalterable bundle of facts; and if a hypothesis results in conflicting loose ends, it is the hypothesis that is wrong. Do you follow me, gentlemen?"

"My dear Mr. Lane," Bruno's whole manner was subtly altered. "It's a brilliant analogy and I don't doubt it's basically true. But, how often can we use the method you suggest? We're pressed for action. If a few things are cloudy, it's not because we're wrong but because they're unexplained, perhaps irrelevant, odds and ends."

"Matter of fact, Mr. Bruno," replied Lane abruptly. "I agree with you that the law should take its course. Arrest Mr. DeWitt by all means." He rose, smiled, bowed, and quickly left the room.

That evening Quacey reported he had phoned most of the South American consulates and learned nothing. Most of the consuls were on vacation. "Quacey," said Lane, "Did you try the Uruguayan consul?" "Uruguay?" squeaked the old man. "Is that a country in South America?" He made a face, and pattered out. Ten minutes later he was back, grinning. "A noble suggestion, Mr. Drury. The Uruguayan consul won't be back until Saturday, October the tenth. He's gone back to Uruguay and no one in his consulate can—or is willing to—supply information. His name is Juan Ajos. And Inspector Thumm just telephoned that he has just arrested John DeWitt. He said he will get a quick indictment but the trial will not come up for about a month, as the Court of General Sessions does not convene before October."

"In that case," said Lane, "we will permit Mr. Juan Ajos to spend his sabbatical in peace. You have earned a rest, Calliban. Off with you!" Mrs. Fern DeWitt paced the floor of the reception-room of Lyman, Brooks & Sheldon like a leopardess with lashing tail. Lionel Brooks' eyes were filled with dark worry. "Sit down, Mrs. DeWitt. Sorry to have kept you waiting."

Brooks plunged ahead. "I visit Mr. DeWitt every day in his cell. Yesterday he commissioned me to advise you that, if he is acquitted, of the murder charge, he will institute divorce proceedings immediately."

Something in the depths of the woman's large Spanish eyes began to simmer, and Brooks went on hurriedly: "He has authorized me to offer you a settlement of twenty thousand a year for the remainder of your unmarried life, if you will not contest the action. Under the circumstances, it is a very generous offer."

Mrs. DeWitt said in a hard voice: "And if I fight?" "He will cut you off without a penny. Without a word she arose and left."

A week later Drury Lane was being ushered by a Japanese into Frederick Lyman's duplex apartment. A rather handsome man of medium height, in dinner clothes, came forward and shook hands. "I take it you are encountering difficulties in your defense, Mr. Lyman?"

A Bank Check

A bank check is the best medium of exchange. Most business is transacted that way.

Because a check is a receipt; it shows to whom, when and for what purpose all money paid, it is a protection against loss both to the giver and to the receiver; it saves carrying money on the person; it eliminates change making and avoids the necessity of keeping accounts. Small payments, it is convenient and the best evidence of progressiveness. A checking account can be opened at this bank for any amount. It is not necessary to deposit a fortune, although you may come out of it.

And, at the end of the year, your bank statements will make very convenient records for working out your income tax reports. Be sure you get all sources of income on your deposit slips, and make a note on every check what the payment is for.

Acree Allotments Reason For Increase In Price Of Cotton

Cotton acreage allotments, strengthened by marketing quotas, which made 85 percent of parity loans possible, is the triple reason for increase in the price of cotton this year, according to Ben Cann, vice-chairman of the Lamb county AAA committee.

Collapse of foreign markets, a drastic drop of from 6.2 million bales to 1.1 million bales in exports, and enough cotton on hand to the present time to fill an extra year's needs, highlight the cotton situation, he said.

The loss of foreign markets is partially offset by the fact that the domestic consumption of cotton for the 1940-41 season is the highest on record. Consumption was approximately 9.6 million bales, or about 2 million bales above the preceding year, the AAA official said.

Since the export slump is due primarily to naval and war blockades, there is little reason to believe that the export market will increase to any great extent, he declared.

For the fifth consecutive year, cotton farmers of Lamb county will vote in a national cotton marketing quota referendum Saturday, Dec. 13. Voting places located at strategic places in the county, and names of referendum officials will be announced in a short time, he said. Last year, Lamb county cotton growers voted 82.2 percent favorably on quotas. Texas farmers approved quotas by 88 percent.

Former Enlisted Men Eligible For National Guard

Former enlisted men of the Army, who have had eleven months' continuous service and who are within the Selective Service registration age brackets, are eligible for enlistment in the National Guard or in the Enlisted Reserve Corps, General J. Watt Page, State Selective Service Director, pointed out today, instructing local boards to so advise such men when they are registered.

All enlisted men who were in the registration age brackets on October 16, 1940, or July 1, 1941, and who are not already registered under the Selective Training and Service Act, must register when discharged from the military establishment, General Page said, and he emphasized that those eligible for induction under that Act who do not enlist in the National Guard or the Enlisted Reserve Corps will be inducted. He said:

"Former enlisted men of any component of the Army of the United States within the age limits for Selective Training and Service registration, who have had more than eleven months' continuous active Federal service, and who have been honorably discharged, may be enlisted or reenlisted in the State Detachment of the National Guard, or in the Enlisted Reserve Corps.

"Application for enlistment in the State Detachment of the National Guard should be made to the Adjutant General of the State of Texas, at Austin.

"Information relative to enlistment in the United Reserve Corps may be obtained from the office of the Eighth Corps Area Commander, Fort Sam Houston, Texas, or from the nearest Army Recruiting Station.

"When a former enlisted man in the Army presents satisfactory evidence of enlistment in the National Guard or the Enlisted Reserve, his local board will put him in Class I-C, upon receipt of his Form 166. On the other hand, any former service man who does not so enlist, or who is not eligible for enlistment in the National Guard or the Enlisted Reserve, shall be delivered for Selective Service induction provided he is not exempted by his former service and if he has not been placed in a deferred classification for any other reason."

The Selective Service Act, as amended, General Page believes from liability for training and service and only those Regulars who formerly served as officers listed men for at least consecutive years in the Regular Army, Marine Corps, Navy, or Coast Guard, or any enlisted man discharged from the Army or the Coast Guard six months prior to the date of his regular three-year enlistment.

Third, he must earn his soil-building allowance. These three points were emphasized by W. E. Bentley chairman of the Lamb County AAA committee, last week.

A farmer falling below the 20 percent minimum requirement will earn only a proportionate part of his cotton, wheat, peanut, and Irish potato payments.

The soil-building allowance may be earned, as in previous years, by carrying out approved soil-building practices, the AAA official explained.

Payments for planting within allotments include cotton at 1.25 cents per pound; wheat, 10.5 cents per bushel; and peanuts, 7.25 cents per 100 pounds. The rate on Irish potatoes, for which allotments were established for the first time under the 1942 program, is 2 cents per bushel.

Crops meeting soil-conserving classification include biennial and perennial legumes and perennial grasses; sudan, millet, and annual ryegrass for pasture; seeded cover crops of which a good growth is left on the land; summer-fallowed acreage protected from wind and water erosion; planting forest trees, and Austrian winter peas or vetch grown for seed.

Land uses include approved terraces constructed on idle cropland, and sweet sorghums, oats, rye, sudan or millet cut green for hay, provided a strip one rod wide is left standing between each five-rod strip harvested, the AAA official explained.

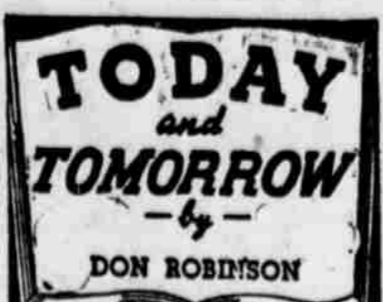

Last Rites Saturday
For Siebert Cowen

Siebert Edwin Cowen, four year old son of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Cowen of eight miles north of Littlefield, passed away about 4:30 P. M. Friday at a local hospital, after an illness of two weeks. He had been confined in the hospital two days.

Funeral services were conducted at the Church of Christ, Amherst, at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, with Bro. T. L. Kimmell of Littlefield, Church of Christ minister, officiating. Interment, in charge of Hammons Funeral Home, took place in Amherst Cemetery.

The child is survived by his parents and one sister, Clara Faye, aged 10.

The Cowen family have been residents of the Amherst section for the past fifteen years.

LEWIS . . . enemy

Right now, if the American people were asked to vote for Public Enemy Number 1, there is little question that John L. Lewis would win hands down. The most notorious gangsters, the crookedest politicians and the loudest isolationists wouldn't have a chance in competing with the head of the mine workers for this dubious honor.

For Mr. Lewis has gone further than any of them would dare to go; he has openly and boastfully "slapped the face" of the President of the United States; he has declared war on our government; and he has acted without regard to overwhelming public opinion against his stand. For the month of November, he certainly deserves the distinguished service award for the American who has done most for Hitler.

If I were a member of a union I would, for my own good as well as for the good of my country, want to sever all relations with Mr. Lewis.

Knowing that public opinion, congress and the President are the factors which make democracy, I would not want to be tied up with a revolutionist who writes to the President that he won't listen to an umpire because one could not be found "whose decision would not reflect your interpretation of government policy, congressional attitude and public opinion."

In other words, Mr. Lewis will only listen to an umpire who will say, "Everybody else is wrong but you!"

MINERS . . . grateful

If a group of coal miners were asked to vote on the American who has done the most for them, they would undoubtedly cast an overwhelming vote for the very same Mr. Lewis who has recently plummeted himself into the position of Public Enemy Number 1.

There is no doubt that Mr. Lewis, over a period of many years, has done a remarkable job in improving the lot of coal miners. He is primarily responsible for getting them shorter hours, better pay and more tolerable working conditions.

For the miners suddenly to turn against a man who has spent most of his life working for their interests would, in ordinary times, be a most ungrateful act. They have long respected him for his honesty, his fearlessness and his unshakable determination to help them.

But when the whole American way of life is threatened, and Mr. Lewis used that fact to force them to choose between being patriotic to America or to himself, there is only one decision to make.

DICTATOR . . . impatience

The first time I saw John L. Lewis, just after he had been made president of the C.I.O., I remember being struck with the frightening thought: "Some day he is going to be President of the United States."

The idea frightened me because it was obvious that he was not the kind of man who could tolerate the democratic processes of government.

But he was obviously a forceful leader, a man who knew just what he wanted and who seemed destined to shove aside all obstacles in obtaining his goals. In addition, labor was a more organized force than it ever had been in this country before—and labor was all behind John L. Lewis.

But it was Mr. Lewis' impatience with the democratic process which caused his downfall. He wanted changes to be made faster than they can be made in a democracy. He wanted them made without regard to public opinion and without regard to his country's welfare.

Americans have been looking for someone to blame whenever anything goes wrong with our defense program. Now they have found their man.

HITLER . . . lesson

When German troops first marched into Poland most Americans blamed Hitler. We felt that the German people couldn't want another war, that the German people were nice people who were being forced to fight.

But as the war continued and the Germans remained loyal to Hitler, we gradually began to feel almost as much hate for them as for Hitler himself.

There is a lesson in this for members of the coal miners union and for the rest of the C.I.O. membership. If public opinion continues to be aroused against Mr. Lewis, and if the C.I.O. members remain loyal to him in spite of this, the whole organization will gradually become a target of public indignation.

It didn't help any when, at the recent C.I.O. convention, Phillip Murray, C.I.O. president, said that he wouldn't let the defense program interfere with getting better conditions for C.I.O. members.

It didn't help when, at the same convention, the delegates of the miners refused to approve a resolution pledging support to the President's foreign policy.

I don't think it is possible that John L. Lewis ever can get back into the good graces of the public. But the C.I.O. can if its members who are loyal to the welfare of our country hurry up and grab the reins and tell the world that freedom means more to them than a closed shop.

Last Rites Held
For Infant Son Of
Mr. and Mrs. Tremain

Funeral services were conducted at the First Baptist Church, Portales, N. M., Friday afternoon for Abram Cartright Tremain, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Tremain, who was born the previous day at the Portales Hospital.

The remains was brought to this city by a Portales Undertaker, and interment took place in the Littlefield Cemetery, following a short service at the grave about 5:30 o'clock Friday afternoon, with Rev. Roy Eshahan, local Baptist pastor, officiating.

Mrs. Tremain, who has been spending the past month with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. Joe F. Grizzle, at Portales, is reported as getting along nicely. Mr. Tremain, who is employed at the Air Port at Brownsville, has been at his wife's bedside since Thursday. He returned to South Texas Monday. Mrs. Tremain will remain at Portales until Christmas, when she will be joined by her husband, and they will return to their home at Brownsville.

Texas Farmer Have Two AAA Programs

Texas farmers will have two AAA farm programs in 1942, according to Fred Rennels, assistant administrative officer of the state AAA.

In west Texas, farmers will have the minimum conserving acreage plan and farmers in east Texas will have the erosion-resisting plan, he said.

The principal difference in the two plans, the AAA official said, is that under the conserving-acreage plan a minimum of 20 percent of the cropland must be devoted exclusively to soil-conserving crops during the crop year, while in the erosion-resisting area at least 25 percent of the cropland must be devoted to erosion-resisting crops or land uses at some time during the crop year.

The method of payment will be substantially the same in both plans with payments being made for planting within special allotments, such as cotton, wheat, rice, peanuts and Irish potatoes, and carrying out approved soil-building practices.

Percentage deductions in net payments will be made for failure to meet minimum requirements under the two plans, and a deduction of ten times the rate applicable to a farm will be made for exceeding crop allotments will be applied against payments earned under the range program, he said.

Specialist Advises How To Cook Duck

This year during the duck season many county home demonstration agents and other home economists in Texas have been asked: "How do you cook a wild duck?"

To help hunters and hunters' wives, Hazel Phipps, specialist in food preparation for the A. & M. College Extension Service, offers the idea that recipes for wild fowl are quite similar to recipes for preparing any poultry.

Wild birds have a better flavor and are more tender if you hang them a few days before cooking, the specialist says. She adds the warning that the ducks must be kept at a fairly low temperature, otherwise they might spoil. Pluck them dry, remove all pin feathers, and then rub the down off. Remove the head and feet, and draw the bird.

Whether or not you use highly seasoned stuffing depends on the way you like your duck—whether you want to feature the "gamey" flavor or disguise it. Instead of stuffing wild duck, many people cut down the wild taste by putting a sliced apple, an onion, and a piece or two of celery inside a duck when roasting it. All should be removed at serving time. Most people like wild duck roasted well done. A few like it rare.

is 4 years of age, a son of Joe, bird dog belonging to Mrs. Addie Hewitt, and a brother of Frank, bird dog owned by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Barnett.

Miles was white marked in brown, with brown spots and slick hair similar to Joe and Frank.

A strange feature of Miles' disappearance is that Joe disappeared the same day, but Mrs. K. W. Wells, formerly of Littlefield, but who now lives in Anton, phoned Mrs. Hewitt soon after that Joe was roaming around Anton, and Mrs. Hewitt went to Anton and got him.

Texas Cotton Growers Receive $25,116,779

$25,116,779 has been received by Texas cotton growers during the first three months of the current season, it is stated by Bennette Wallin, Secretary, Texas Cottonseed Crushers' Association. The estimate is based upon reports of two Federal agencies, the Bureau of the Census and the Agricultural Marketing Service.

Texas farm income from cottonseed so far this season is about 65 per cent greater than during the same period last year. October income of $13,500,000 showed an increase of $4,000,000 over the same month in 1940.
