Bond Salesmen Work To Bring Us Up To Goal

Big Spring has been canvassed many times, but never like it was today.

Salesmen for Uncle Sam—far more than 100 of them—were out to make a 100 per cent contact with the citizenship...

The tabulation was backing them up. The Third War Loan is one-third over; Howard county's figure is not yet to the one-third mark.

And even the $474,000 total doesn't account for many individual sales. A full $200,000 of it came in yesterday from the Cosden Petroleum corporation...

Drive leaders commended the Cosden organization, and at the same time pointed out that there aren't many $200,000 purchasers in Howard county.

The work of the two-day "over the top drive" will be closely watched, because it may determine how Howard county is going to fare before the month is over.

Talks in behalf of the War Loan are continuing daily over KBST, at 8:30 each evening.

The "Bonds for Buddies" program is gaining momentum. Those who purchase a bond—of any denomination—are permitted to name a service man whom they would like to honor in the purchase.

Howard county's rural people are at work in the drive. A rally has been held at Moore, and Elbow people have announced one for Monday evening.

It doesn't always take dollars—pennies will do the job. Campaign leaders Wednesday received a gallon jar containing 6500 pennies...

High Command Says 'No' To Delay In Drafting Fathers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—The army and navy will require 1,221,000 more men during the last four months of this year...

The deficiency of 446,000, Hershey testified before the senate military committee, apparently must be met from the pool of 5,586,000 married men of military age with children.

The chief of selective service appeared before the committee to give these statistics after high army and navy officials had voiced a stern "no" in response to the question whether congress should act to postpone or cancel the planned induction of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers beginning October 1.

Hershey stated that the October 1 draft order was issued "because we no longer had the assurance that in the manpower pool there remained sufficient men to meet our calls" for September, October, November and December, without taking fathers.

The 3,412,000 men in class 4-F are being "constantly reworked," Hershey told the committee, but he said the possibility of recovering many physically fit men from this category was slight unless the army and navy lowered present physical standards.

Neither did he believe, he said, that any great number could be obtained from the 1,715,000 deferred farmers or the 1,508,000 deferred because of their industrial occupations, without doing "great damage" to the war effort.

He asserted that local boards under the father-draft program, "undoubtedly" would give thorough consideration to occupation deferments for those making a substantial contribution to the war effort.

During the hearing Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) called for a congressional investigation of what he said was "wastage" of labor in west coast and other war industries.

The navy needs to draft 533,000 men to meet its manpower requirements the last four months of this year. Rear Admiral Randall Jacobs, naval personnel chief, told the committee.

This means selective service (See DRAFT, Page 10, Col. 4)

Japs Forced To Fight As Allies Advance Fast

Pillboxes, Trenches No Barrier In Push To Annihilate Nips

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sept. 16. (AP)—Backing the Japanese into a death trap where they are forced to fight, Allied jungle troops have battered through pillboxes, trenches and machine-gun nests with the aid of artillery and planes to bring nearer the fall of the big air base of Lae, New Guinea.

East of Lae, the Australians are only two miles from the center of the coastal town and are about to overrun the prized Malahang airfield.

On the west another force in the Markham valley is only five miles away.

To the south, Americans and Australians who annihilated most of a Japanese garrison in capturing the airfield and harbor town of Salamaua left behind patrols to hunt down the surviving stragglers and moved in force more than half way along the 18 miles of jungle trail separating the two Huan Gulf bases.

Today's communique reported the capture in the Markham valley of three defended plantations. The most bitter fighting was at Heath's. There the Japs had erected pillboxes, dug trenches, installed machine-guns, artillery and anti-aircraft.

From east and west, Allied artillery is pouring shells into Lae. Japanese artillery is returning the fire. Enemy resistance is reported stiffening everywhere along the line of advance.

Ahead of the Markham valley force, a path was blasted by Mitchell medium bombers through enemy defenses along the road and river. Above Lae, other Mitchell's destroyed or damaged most of 30 enemy barges at Hansa Bay, silenced machinegun and anti-aircraft posts and demolished warehouses.

Grade I Tires Among Approvals Granted

A quantity of Grade I and Grade III tires were issued by the local ration board tire panel in session Wednesday at the office.

Approved were certificates for 55 Grade I tires; 26 Grade III tires, 54 passenger tubes; and 46 truck tires. In addition, 45 truck tubes, four implement tires, and nine truck retreads were okayed.

Berlin; France Are Targets For RAF In Night Bombing

LONDON, Sept. 16 (AP)—American Flying Fortresses, following up an inaugural dusk raid on Hitler's Europe and probably the allies' biggest night assault on the continent, bombed naval installations at Nantes in France today in their second foray in two days.

LONDON, Sept. 16 (AP)—A heavy force of RAF bombers attacked a rubber factory at Montlucon only 94 miles northwest of Vichy in enemy-occupied France last night while other bombers hit targets in Berlin and northwest Germany, the air ministry announced today.

The Vichy radio said the town of Chartres, scene of one of the biggest battles of World War I, also was attacked, but the British announcement made no mention of this.

Last night's raid, first since the Sept. 6 attack on Munich, followed a few hours the first after-dusk assault by a combined force of American Flying Fortresses, Liberators and Marauders which raided the Paris area. Here the Hispano-Suiza and Caudon-Renault aircraft plants and a ball bearing works were the main targets.

At the same time German air raiders subjected suburban London to one of its severest bombings in months.

The raid on Paris marked the first time that Fortresses, Liberators and Marauders had joined in the same operation in the European war theater and the first time they had gone out and come home after dusk.

Premier Joseph Stalich disclosed the capture in a special order of the day, recorded here by the Soviet monitor.

Russian troops in the northern Caucasus cooperated with units of the Black sea fleet in the combined land and sea operation. The vital port was taken by storm today after five days of fierce fighting during which the Russians routed three German divisions, a Rumanian division and detachments of German marines, Marshal Stalin announced.

With the fall of the Kuban Delta port topped Hitler's faded hope of Caucasus oil.

There was no immediate indication of how much, if anything, the Germans were able to save from the Kuban debacle but with the complete rout of the four enemy divisions and marine detachments—roughly 50,000 defenders—there seemed little likelihood that the nazis had been able or would be able to pull much out of the wreckage of the defeat.

Presumably a small amount of the Kuban Delta remained to be mopped up, but Novorossisk was its great prize and the last strongly defended port.

We Have Ideals To Fight For, Grads Told

"As long as we have people with different ideals and different Gods, we will always have war, and since the struggle for freedom has been going on for thousands of years, we have no choice except to fight," stated Shine Phillips, local druggist and author of the book, "Big Spring," in addressing graduating cadets of class 43-13 at exercises which were held in the post theatre at the Big Spring Bombardier School today at 9:30 a. m.

Ranking as the largest class yet to complete the 12 weeks training course, 37 states were represented in the group.

In his philosophical manner which won him acclaim in his biography of a prairie town, Phillips said in his informal address, "If I should give you boys any advice, I'd just say a few words on tolerance. Religious tolerance is one of the big problems over the earth. About half of the wars have been fought in the name of some religion, and if there is a story (See GRADUATION, Pg. 10, C. 6)

Many Married Men In New Draft Call

Induction notices for the September draft call will be mailed to Howard county men this week and will include a large number of married men without children and some single men.

The group will be shipped to Lubbock for induction and will be granted automatic furloughs of 21 days to return here and wind up their business affairs.

Sweating Soldiers Beat Off Nazis To Clinch Foothold

BY WES GALLAGHER ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 16 (AP)—Sweating British and American soldiers of the Fifth army have lashed out at the Germans, driving them back from the Salerno bridgehead, and have clinched their foothold in Italy, Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark announced today.

Gen. Clark launched his offensive this morning on the eighth day of the biggest battle yet fought in the Mediterranean, and threw the German armored forces back between the junction of the Rivers Sele and Calore north of Altavilla in the central sector of the 27-mile front.

Simultaneously, Gen. Clark, in an order of the day to his troops, declared "our bridgehead is secure. Additional troops are landing every day and we are here to stay. Not one foot of ground will be given up."

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Eighth army, racing northward toward Sapi, but 39 miles from the southern anchor of the Fifth army's front, was mentioned by Clark, who said "in a matter of hours its presence will be felt by the enemy."

A military spokesman said the Germans were in flight in the Salerno sector for the first time since the original landings eight days ago and that this morning's assault was "the first serious offensive thrust we have been able to make since getting on the beaches."

Reinforcements pouring into the bridgehead during the past 48 hours made the drive possible, he said.

While the terrific fight raged back and forth under the thunder of 15-inch guns from British battleships and the artillery of lesser warships, Allied naval might poured a flood of reinforcements into the area.

Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth army, composed equally of British and Americans, was now the largest Allied force engaged in a single battle since the Mediterranean war started, and it was supported again yesterday by more than 2,000 sorties flown by the powerful northwestern African air force and separate raids by Middle East heavy bombers.

The entire Allied air force thus joined the struggle for the second straight day and hurled hundreds of tons of explosives upon the Germans' positions with earth-shaking barrages.

With unchallengeable control of the sea, the Allies exploited the advantage to the utmost by moving their mobile naval batteries up close to the blackened, smoking beaches and hurling tons of screaming steel into the teeth of the Germans. The British battleships Valiant and Warspite with their 16-inch rifles joined in the bombardment.

Gen. Clark toured the fiery arena, clearing begrimed Tommies and doughboys with his presence at the advanced positions where he told the troops that every soldier must fight to the last and that there must be no withdrawals.

Casualties in this seven-day battle have been the heaviest of any in the Mediterranean fighting.

At least four German divisions had been identified in the action against the 27-mile front, and more were being brought up. It was probable that as many as five (See ITALY, Page 10, Col. 3)

Truck Delivery Restrictions In Effect On Oct. 11

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—Restrictions on motor-truck deliveries, in effect in the gasoline-starved northeastern states since last spring, will be extended to the entire nation Monday, Oct. 11.

Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation, said the action "is the best means of safeguarding the public's interest."

The order, announced yesterday, bans retail deliveries of packages weighing less than five pounds or measuring 60 inches or less in length and girth combined; prohibits Sunday deliveries except for ice, milk or cream; and restricts to once a week retail delivery of alcoholic beverages, tobacco, confectioneries, soft drinks, ice cream, magazines and flowers.

Bread and makers products, meat, poultry, eggs, fruits, vegetables and fish, may be delivered only three times a week. Laundries, dry cleaners and tailors are held to two trips.

Hollywood Trio Here On Saturday

Elliott Also To Appear At Friday Football Game

Three Hollywood personalities who rank at the top in western melodramas have dropped film work to serve Uncle Sam, at no charge, in the cause of the Third War Loan.

They're to swing through Texas to help sell war bonds, and Big Spring is their first stop.

Friday night and Saturday they'll be here—popular cowboy Wild Bill Elliott; his partner and comedian, Gabby Hayes; and his lovely leading lady, Anne Jeffreys.

Elliott, due to arrive by plane from Hollywood Friday evening, will be guest of honor at the Big Spring-Colorado football game Friday night (game time is at 8:30), and will make an appearance between halves.

Hayes and Miss Jeffreys arrive by train Friday night, and will join Elliott in heading up a spectacular "western" parade scheduled for 11 o'clock Saturday morning. The review will be climaxed with a special program on Main street east of the courthouse, in which the three film players will be featured.

All proceedings are open to the public, and a large turnout is requested to greet the visitors from filmland. Their only mission in the city is to stimulate the sale of war bonds—and their talents are to be pointed in that direction.

"WILD BILL" ELLIOTT and "GABBY" HAYES

In his youth worked at the Kansas City stockyards and competed in rodeos. Miss Jeffreys, the first singing cowgirl in films, was raised in New York where she was a Powers model, and did radio work before heading the call of Hollywood.

Milk Problem Is Critical

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—War Food Administrator Marvin Jones will lay before the senate banking committee Friday a critical milk production problem which, if unsolved, might lead to consumer rationing of fluid milk this winter and to higher ration values on butter, cheese and canned milk.

The food chief will suggest, aides said, the possible use of government subsidies during the winter season, when production costs generally advance.

Dairy experts of the War Food Administration estimated such subsidies might run between $140,000,000 and $160,000,000.

Many areas, particularly urban districts, already are running into milk shortages—a fact which last week led the WFA to inaugurate a program for eliminating sales of fluid milk through a system of dealer quotas.

The bureau of agricultural economics said in a recent report that milk production in 1944 might drop to 115,000,000,000 pounds, or 7,000,000,000 less than the WFA goal, unless steps are taken to encourage a greater output.

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. R. H. Jones, former Big Spring resident, in El Paso, early today.

Notes

MARY WHALEY

You don't think much about the star spangled banner during peace time or at least your feelings are well covered with layers of complacency and safety. But the other evening at the post when soldiers were standing "retreat" you got a feeling of reverence for the red, white, and blue.

Standing at attention the boys in khaki saluted while the band played the national anthem. Fluttering in the wind, the symbol of America and all it stands for, was slowly lowered, caught with careful hands and folded.

Even on a big field where there is always noise, there was absolute stillness. It lasted but a moment but it caught you somewhere about the throat. Then came the command and the soldiers marched away. Automobiles drove on, talk and laughter, scuffling of feet—the everyday sounds of everyday living filled the air but the feeling stayed with you.

No one mentioned the sight, no one discussed the fact. Men in soldier clothes talked on in soldier talk. But the light in soldier faces couldn't have all been caused by the sunset when the band played "over the land of the free and the home of the brave."

Words can't capture a spirit but eyes can't deceive either.

Cholera And Plague Wage Guerilla War Against Japanese

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 (AP)—Cholera and the plague are marching against the Japanese in the Southwest Pacific.

Diat compiled by the Netherlands information bureau here disclosed today that typhoid, malaria, dysentery and other epidemic diseases are waging guerrilla warfare against the empire-builders from Nippon.

Evidence of the serious difficulties encountered by health authorities in the Japanese-occupied areas is found, says the bureau, in recent Japanese-controlled news broadcasts in the Netherlands East Indies, French Indo-China and elsewhere.

A Domei (Japanese official news agency) reports from Bandung, Java, for instance, tells of alarming outbreaks of plague in western Java, where Japanese military authorities have ordered evacuation of the stricken districts.

Not only bubonic plague (the black death of the Middle Ages) but the more deadly and more infectious pneumonic plague has been spreading.

In the Celebes a malaria epidemic is reported raging. Malaria also is handicapping Japanese military operations on Southwest Pacific battlefronts.

Other reports broadcast by Japanese-controlled stations say that an epidemic of cholera which has been uncontrolled in Thailand since last June now has appeared in the Philippines.

Abaca, source of hemp, reaches harvest age about 18 months after planting.

Four Freedoms

NEW YORK—The Atlantic Charter's four freedoms already have paid off as far as 89 employees of the Bank of China in Wall street are concerned.

Regional War Labor Board Chairman Theodore W. Kheel said that the workers merited pay raises because of superior skills, but WLB rules did not cover the increases.

The board pondered, related Kheel, then a member said, "I know, let's give it to them on the basis of the four freedoms."

The vote was unanimous.

AAF Band Busy At Post And At Special Events

Whoever it was that said "music hath charms to soothe the savage beast" must have known what he was talking about. At any rate the army is certainly sold on the idea. There probably isn't an army post at home or abroad that doesn't have some sort of a band, and the Big Spring Bombardier school is no exception.

Warrant Officer Robert R. Bruner and his 24 crack musicians are the lads who keep the boys and girls at the bombardier school "whistling while they work." Aside from their regular exercises, special reviews and other formal military functions, the boys find time to entertain with music at affairs for enlisted men, officers, members of the NCO club, the USO and many other special gatherings downtown. They've even traveled as far as Sweetwater to serenade the young women of the Ferry Command at Avenger Field. Big Springers hear them often as they parade to boost War Bond sales.

The boys are all members of the 315th Army Air Forces band, but are attached to the 365th under the command of Major Joe J. Robnett. Many of the musicians have played professionally in civilian life, some having been associated with well-known "name" bands.

The leader, Warrant Officer Bruner of Bonne Terre, Mo., is the band leader. Bruner, a graduate of Central college, spent a year and a half as an enlisted man before being appointed as warrant officer at the army war college in Washington last May.

Cpl. Bill Mavromatis, a versatile youngster from Denver, Colo., is an expert on the accordion as well as the Glockenspiel (whatever that is). Bill, a veteran with ten years radio and dance band experience, directs the orchestra.

Cpl. Earl M. Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Baker of route 2, Big Spring, graduated from Garden City high school in May of '41, and last worked for the Cosden firm before his enlistment in September of '42. Baker plays a wicked clarinet, and during his high school days grabbed first prize as drum major in a national contest.

Cpl. Stan Baugh of Kansas City, Mo., can beat a piano or a bass drum with equal skill. Stan has played with some of the best bands in Kansas City, and when he starts tickling those ivories, his magic fingers can hold you spell-bound.

S/Sgt. Vernon L. Barnes of Birmingham, Ala., has tooted that golden tenor saxophone of his in some toponth bands in his home state, but since April of '42 Vernon has been giving out with music for his Uncle Sam.

Sgt. Winslow R. Chamberlain, the boy with the red-hot trumpet, hails from Anoka, Minn., where he made quite a name for himself in music. In addition to having his own dance band, Chamberlain played for two years with the municipal band. During his high school days he was student director of the school band.

West Texans Included

Pfc. Milton F. Cox, son of Mr.

and Mrs. Jim Cox of Garden City, Tex., was quite an athlete during his days at the Garden City high school, and was for several years a member of his school band. He plays the French horn.

Cpl. Ben Crow of Gatesville, Tex., graduated from the local high school in June of '41 and attended North Texas Agricultural college at Arlington until '42 when he enlisted in the army. Ben can coax some mighty sweet music from his baritone saxophone and has five years of experience in his high school and college bands to back him up.

Sgt. Ed Finck, son of John Finck of 606 Bell street, Big Spring, was a clerk for Cosden Petroleum Corp., before his enlistment in October of '42. Ed attended Miles high school, John Tarleton college, and Tyler Commercial college before tooting his baritone horn for the post band.

Pfc. Gerald Glass, the master of the alto saxophone, hails from St. Paul, Minnesota, where he's had quite a bit of experience playing in many of the local night spots. He enlisted in October '42.

Pvt. Forrest Hansen, another Minnesota boy, calls the thriving metropolis of Pipestone his hometown. Hansen has blown his big bass horn for many dance bands in his neighborhood before landing here to make music for the local jitterbugs.

Sgt. Hal Harris, better known to the Texas radio audience as Happy Hal, has spent at least 12 years singing cowboy songs and strumming on his guitar for his enthusiastic listeners over the Texas State Network. Hal now plays his guitar and sings in the post orchestra as well as blowing on his French horn for the post band. Before his enlistment in September of '42, he last sang over stations WFAA and KGKO in Dallas.

Another Big Springer

Pfc. John Hensley of 425 Willa street, Big Spring, is an old time horn tooter from way-back, and the "father" of the band boys. John graduated from the high school in Jacksboro, Texas, back in 1911 and has been blowing his big bass horn ever since.

Pfc. Donald Higbee of Palisade, Minn., worked as a steam fitter for a shipyard in Seattle, Wash., before his enlistment in October of '42. In between his steamfitting, however, he used to fit in very well with local bands at some of the best hot spots in town. Donald can really handle a trombone the way it should be handled.

Pfc. Sidney Kirsch, a New York City lad, was a combination furrer, comedian and hot-shot drummer in civilian life. He now confines himself to beating the skin off a snare drum in the band.

Sgt. Joe Kling is a former University of Alabama lad who hails from Mobile. In addition to his golden crooning tenor voice, well-known in the Big Spring area, Joe is a painter, a designer, a first class pianist and a torrid clarinetist for good measure.

Sgt. George B. Miller, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Miller, Sr., of 505 East 12th street, Big Spring, graduated from the Big Spring high school in '38, attended North Texas A. & M. for awhile, worked for Consolidated Aircraft in San Diego, Cal., and enlisted in October of '42. George plays the alto saxophone in the band and is also the drum major.

Pfc. Antonio Rodriguez, son of N. R. Rodriguez of 105 East N. 3rd street, Big Spring, plays the cornet in the band. He enlisted in October of '42.

Cpl. Hartley C. Sausser of Princeton, Minn., a combination woodcraftsman, painter and musician plays one of the hottest trombones in the neighborhood.

Pfc. Erick Schrock of Detroit, Mich., is a drum maniac, and Jimmy (Red) Sheehan, another Detroit boy, burns you up with his super-duper trumpet playing.

Sgt. Harry Tosch of Cleveland, Ohio, is an accomplished violinist and all-round man of arts. Harry is a clarinet fiend.

Pvt. Roy Tubb, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Wright of 1400 W. 6th street, Big Spring, plays clarinet, and Le Roy Wilkins of Glencoe, Minn., is one of the clarinetist-corporals in the army.

Pfc. Art Williams of Ellinwood, Kansas, is another first class trombonist with lots of experience before his enlistment in the army.

The slate-gray dipper, a bird, is able to dive beneath the surface of the water without getting wet, because of its water-resistant plumage.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as lively as a Youngster— Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the gross acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, hip pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Lacking Polish Steers Meet Wolves At 8:30 Friday Eve.

The Big Spring Daily Herald

Softball Series Starts Friday

DETROIT, Sept. 16 (AP)—The annual "world series" of the Amateur Softball association, bringing together 30 regional winners from the United States and Canada, opens tomorrow night under the lights at University of Detroit stadium in a two-game program featured by the first appearance of the New Orleans Jax, 1942 women's champions.

The gal champions meet the Detroit Ford Bomberettes, and in the men's division Camp Wallace, Tex., one of four service teams seeking the title, opposes the Detroit Briggs Bombers.

8:30 Kickoff For Game Friday

The kickoff for the Steer-Colorado City Wolves high school football game has been called for 8:30 Friday night in Steer stadium, announces John Dibrell, Big Spring mentor.

The coach also reminds the public that season tickets are on sale at the tax office. The tickets good for six home games sell for $5.10. General admission for the game will be 30, 55 and 85 cents.

The Steers went through a rough workout last night under the lights in an effort to polish up the defense play, punting and place kicking.

Tonight will find them going through a pretty good dummy scrimmage and practicing lots of passes in preparation for the encounter with the Wolves who are gunning for the district top slot.

The Colorado squad promises to be anything except a set-up and Dibrell, when asked his opinion said: "We are in good condition but showing little polish, the team will not be clicking at its best before Oct. 1 when we meet Lubbock but I hope to get by this game without looking too bad."

When the kickoff is called at 8:30 Friday night the fans will see two light teams pitted against one another. The Steers averaging only 157.

Officials for the game will be Prentice Walker, Tahoka; Jim Maedgen, Midland and Pat Murphy of Big Spring.

General admission will be 30, 55 and 85 cents. Season tickets covering six home games are on sale at the tax office for $5.10.

Dempsey Says 'Stage Fights For Bonds'

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF DALLAS, Sept. 16 (AP)—Jack Dempsey thinks some of the energy of the nation's young fighting men could be turned toward making money for their Uncle Sam and at the same time building them into better soldiers.

The old Manassas Mauler, now a lieutenant commander in the coast guard with the duty of coordinating its physical training program, envisions great fight shows in the metropolitan centers with war bonds as the admission price—the bigger the bond, the better the seat.

Dempsey was here today to help Dallas in its war loan drive by presiding at a bond auction luncheon. He had just come from Houston where he referred to a war bond boxing tournament for service men and defense workers that drew over $4,000,000.

"That illustrates just what I have in mind," said the former heavyweight champion of the world. "If we could match name fighters like Joe Louis and Billy Conn in the major cities we would raise half of the next war loan. I would say Louis and Conn would draw $100,000,000 in New York."

Jack for the past 18 months has been teaching young men of the service sportsmanlike conduct.

"We have to forget sportsmanship now," he said grimly. "We need soldiers who will not only shoot a Jap but go back and run a bayonet through him to be sure he's dead. We have to fight to win and we can't do it under standards of sport."

Dempsey said he found some good fighters in the service—many of whom would be topnotchers if given the proper training.

"Boxing is at a pretty low ebb now and present champions won't be champions when the war ends because they'll be too old. Listen, we've just scratched the surface. This war is going to last four or five years and we've got to get our men tough and rugged, and while we're at it we can develop some fighters, build morale and put cash into the till."

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR. NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (AP)—The hottest golfer in Northern Africa.

At last report, seems to be Fireman First Class Herb Johnson, U.S. Navy . . . Corp. Howard L. Dupont of Pinehurst, N. C., relays the results of the first Moroccan open tourney, played Aug. 14-15, and an amateur-pro event two weeks later. Fireman Johnson, former Hinsdale, Ill., pro, won them both . . . He shot 78-150 in the open over a course that "was built inside of a race track and up to two months ago was a camp for our troops" and playing with golf balls which, Dupont says, "some caddies at home would throw away as useless." . . . In the pro-am tourney Herb teamed with Victor Bellinconi, Moroccan banker, and they turned in a card of 65-62-127. . . . Corp. Dupont seems to think the tournament committee, including Sgt. Dugan Aycock of Lexington, N. C., and Corp. Ben Banks of Dallas, Tex., did a good job—they even got the Pasha of Marrakech and his son, Si Ahmed Glaoui, to play—but he asks, why can't they get some good golf balls in Africa? The latest quotations at Gibraltar are $10 apiece if you can get one.

SHORTS AND SHELLS

Story from the southwest is that conference coaches put through a rule that graders who had used up their three years' eligibility in the circuit couldn't come back as service trainers and be eligible because they thought it would be easier to deal with Texas' Roy McKay that way than on the field. Roy, who played a lot of fullback for three years, was assigned to the Austin campus by the navy . . . Tommy Colella, Detroit Lions' halfback, recently was discharged from the marine corps because he was allergic to 25 different foods, three weeds, two trees and feathers . . . Wonder how he reacts to Redskins and Bears?

Beckloff, formerly of Temple U., and Platoon Sgt. William McSherry ex-Columbia player, played forward on a marine basketball team that won 11 of 13 games somewhere in the South Pacific—and it was only runner-up in its league.

Yanks Eye Pennant As Wins Roll In

By JUDSON BAILEY Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Yankees are riding the crest of an eight-game winning streak, matching their longest previous victory string of the season, but the team is just coaching.

Ignoring the fact that the campaign has two weeks to run and they haven't clinched the pennant yet, the Yankees simply are taking their day to day business in stride and concentrating on the World Series.

In their clubhouse before the games the players are autographing baseballs by the dozens and striving to round up series tickets for their friends. Also before the games Charley Keller and Nick Etten, the heavy armament of the bombers, are taking special batting practice—not because they need it for the American League opposition but to get ready for the big test against the St. Louis Cardinals.

Yesterday Keller hit for 20 minutes before most of the players were on the field and then, when the tussle with the Philadelphia Athletics got under way, he hit his 27th home run with two aboard in the first inning.

Arthur Beauregard (Bud) Metheny hit his second homer in two days and Joe Gordon notched his 14th of the season while Hank Borowy pitched six-hit ball to overpower the A's 7-3. Borowy had a shutout till the eighth, when he made the mistake of grooving a pitch to Rookie George Staller, who socked it for a three-run homer.

About the time this was going on James J. Carroll, St. Louis betting commissioner and nationally known odds-maker, disclosed that he had established the Yankees as overwhelming favorites in the series, quoting 13 to 20 against New York and 13 to 10 against St. Louis. This meant a bettor must put up $20 to win $13 if taking the Yanks, or lay $10 to win $13 if taking Cardinals.

The Redbirds, although idle, moved within three games of clinching the National League pennant when weather forced cancellation of the second-place Brooklyn Dodgers' final game with Boston.

In the only senior circuit activity of the day the Phillies divided a doubleheader with the New York Giants. Jack Kraus pitched four-hit ball as the Phils won the first 1-0 on Ray Hamrick's triple, but the Giants bagged the second game 6-3.

Washington strengthened its hold on second place in the American League by shutting out the Boston Red Sox 5-0 on John Niggeling's three-hit hurling while Cleveland dropped another decision to the St. Louis Browns 4-2 through Al Zarilla's three-run homer in the seventh.

Detroit downed the Chicago White Sox 8-2 with Rube Gentry pitching a six-hitter.

Sulfa Drug Effective In Halting Diarrhea

CHICAGO, Sept. 15. (AP)—One of the new sulfa drugs produced remarkable improvement in 11 cases of epidemic infant diarrhea, a highly fatal disease now reappearing in the Midwest, the journal of the American Medical Association reported today.

The drug is succinylsulfathiazole, a comparatively new sulfonamide, which has been used mostly for treatment of bacillary dysentery and for preparation of patients for surgery of the large bowel.

A typical division of 15,000 men uses about 2,000 motor-driven vehicles.

Golfers From Air Field In Angelo Event

The event, a 72-hole medal affair, will be run off Friday, Saturday and Sunday, and is expected to attract a large field of outstanding shotmakers. Winners will share $2,500 in war bonds as prizes.

Leading the Big Spring aggregation will be Lieut. Al Escalante, who recently tucked away championship and medal honors in the Big Spring country club invitational. A former golf pro at Brownsville, Lieut. Escalante at one time was Panama Open champ.

Others on the AAFBS squad will be T/Sgt. James Moon, whose home is at Gilmer, and who won championship consolation at the recent tourney here; Sgt. Nicholas Stasola, who calls Waterbury, Conn., home and who annexed the Connecticut state title in 1938; and Sgt. James Pys of Belmont, Mass., who also picked up a recent trophy in winning the Winchendon, Mass., country club crown while he was at home on furlough.

College Players On Salt Lake Team

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 16 (AP)—Halfback Jimmy Smith of the University of Minnesota's 1942 football team is expected to make the wings of the Salt Lake Army Air Base a formidable combination this season.

He'll team with Halfback Bobby Wilkinson, formerly of West Texas State Teachers' College.

Others on the AAFBS squad will be T/Sgt. James Moon, whose home is at Gilmer, and who won championship consolation at the recent tourney here; Sgt. Nicholas Stasola, who calls Waterbury, Conn., home and who annexed the Connecticut state title in 1938; and Sgt. James Pys of Belmont, Mass., who also picked up a recent trophy in winning the Winchendon, Mass., country club crown while he was at home on furlough.

Baseball Teams To Tour The War Zones

CHICAGO, Sept. 16 (AP)—The Japs took to baseball a few years ago and now baseball is "taking after" the Japs.

It's going to transport a little bit of America to the service men who are slugging it out with the Nips in the Pacific war zone.

Approval of the tour was announced by army officials in Washington yesterday, but the personnel of the two 18-man squads representing the American and National leagues has not been chosen. Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis said he assumed the players would be selected by a vote of the managers in each league.

Whiskey-Making Resumption Denied

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16. (AP)—Synthetic rubber got the blame today for a war production board ruling against a brief resumption of whiskey-making.

Distillers, along with many officials of the WPB itself, expressed surprise at yesterday's decision not to grant a two-week "vacation" from the uninterrupted production of industrial alcohol, in which all distillers have been engaged exclusively since last October.

Less than 24 hours before the official veto, a high WPB source had stated the proposed "far-lough" was getting favorable study, since it appeared that four-fifths to five-sixths of the beverage whiskey industry's capacity would be sufficient to meet requirements for industrial alcohol.

The other releasing distillers from full-time work on industrial alcohol had not then been signed by WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson, however, and it never was. Members of the industrial alcohol industry advisory committee who met confidently here yesterday were notified that a "substantial increase" in military requirements had to be met and that the stockpiling of alcohol must continue. No release could be given this year, they were told, nor any assurance of what 1944 might bring.

Moisture Not Yet Enough To Break Drouth

AUSTIN, Sept. 16 (AP)—Scattered showers in the week ended Sept. 12 aided pastures and some late maturing Texas crops but were not sufficient to effectively break protracted drouth in a large part of the state.

The U. S. department of agriculture reported today that pastures, range grasses, fall vegetables and later maturing crops of cotton, sorghum, peanuts and sweet potatoes benefited to a limited extent from rain.

The general situation was spotted. Driest areas were in the low rolling plains, the Cross Timbers, the western half of Edwards Plateau and the Trans-Pecos district. The areas most completely relieved are in the central, southern and eastern districts.

Precipitation received in the upper coastal area was not needed and delayed rice and cotton harvest operations. Harvest progressed satisfactorily in most other areas. Some progress was made in the seeding of wheat in the northwest but most of the acreage still remains to be planted. Some early planted acreage was up to a stand. Showers were helpful in seed-bed preparation but moisture is generally needed.

Late sorghums in the northwest somewhat in localities favored by the scattered rains. Harvest on the high plains was becoming general.

Corn harvest was generally well advanced, although varying considerably between areas.

Rice harvest was delayed by showers during the week. An above average rice crop was maturing and the need for additional harvest labor continued to be a serious problem.

Most of the cotton crop was out in South and south Central Texas, with stalks being destroyed, or livestock being turned into fields. Frequent showers slowed up harvest in the coastal counties and delayed remnant harvest in south central counties. Peak harvest operations were still under way in northern and eastern counties, and had begun in extreme West Texas and in many northwestern counties. Scattered showers were of some benefit to late cotton in favored localities in the northeastern areas, but damaged open cotton in other areas.

Public Health Notes

J. A. Olean, M.D., Director
Big Spring - Howard
Midland-Ector-Howard County Health Unit

PUBLIC EATING PLACES
Big Spring-Howard county health unit officials and local health officers are making every effort to improve and maintain the sanitary conditions of public eating places. Moreover, there are laws and regulations requiring the use of approved equipment and methods in such establishments. Schools are conducted to instruct foodhandlers. Nevertheless, one of the most forceful influences for sanitation and cleanliness is the public's reaction and opinion.

The public reacts very unfavorably toward dirty and unsanitary places; loss of business and often illness result. People tell their friends, even strangers, what they think about this or that eating establishment and in no uncertain terms.

The public cannot do the job entirely nor can health officials bring about desirable and essential practices without the help of the public. The health unit invites complaints and criticisms about any establishments—provided they are written and signed. Dozens of cases of dysentery are reported each week to the health unit; undoubtedly, many of these are contracted in eating places through eating leftover food, salads or pastries which have been contaminated with disease-producing germs. Unwashed hands, flies, roaches, mice, exposure of food, and lack of refrigeration are all factors in making food unsafe and dangerous for patrons.

As for hygienic practices, persons serving food and drink should be clean; should not cough or sneeze over the utensils and food served; should keep their hands away from the mouth, nose, hair and face; should handle all utensils by the outside instead of putting their fingers on the inside of service utensils; should not touch the eating end of spoons and forks. These are things the patron can see; if such safeguards are not practiced, disease may easily result.

The patron can also appraise the serving of milk. Texas law requires that a milk bottle cap state grade of milk and whether it is raw or pasteurized. If milk is brought to a patron in a glass instead of the original container, he is denied the information on the cap which he has a legal right to know. Many patrons are unwilling to drink strange milk.

The patron should note sanitation conditions in food establishments. Are the floors, walls, ceiling clean? Are tables and counters clean? Are pies and other ready-to-serve foods protected from dust, dirt and flies? Are flies prevalent? If what he sees is insanitary, what must the kitchen and other things out of sight look like.

Public opinion is strong! The public wants only the best!

AAFBS Notes— Promotions And Transfers At Air Field

Several promotions and transfers are announced by the public relations office of the Big Spring Bombardier school. Promoted to major was James A. Reynolds, San Antonio, post technical instructor.

Advanced from second lieutenant to first lieutenant were Henry B. Copeland, Mexia, Tex., bombardier instructor; Alfonso Escalante, Brownsville, bombardier instructor; Allen J. Hoover, Du Bois, Pa., pilot; Edwin C. Humphreys, Jr., Jackson, Miss., bombardier instructor; Laeie C. Neighbors, Davis, Okla., pilot; and Joseph H. Uhalt, Jr., New Orleans, La., pilot.

Second Lieut. John F. L. Reed of San Jose, Ill., has arrived to be stationed here as weather officer. Sent to various fields for courses in specialized training were the following enlisted men: Sgt. Robert A. Stepp of Cicero, Ind., is on detached service to Randolph Field; Sgt. William G. Hammond, Jr., and Pfc. Herman W. Loebis were placed on detached service to the enlisted men's army administration school at Brookings, S. D.

Sent to the Army Air Forces Administrative Officer's Candidate school at Miami Beach, Fla., was S/Sgt. Joseph G. Bryant of Austin.

Given an honorable discharge from the army by reason of physical disabilities was Sgt. Eino N. Walled of Gilbert, Minn.

In one year, 8,500,000 theatre tickets are sold in New York City.

It's Christmas Mailing Time For Boys Overseas

It may not look or feel like Christmas over here, but if boys and girls in the service overseas are to have any Christmas at all, packages must be mailed now. Mailing season for those overseas extends from September 15 to October 15, but the earlier the better is the word from post office and servicemen.

Remember the maximum weight must be five pounds and the package not over 36 inches in length and girth combined. The packages should be in metal, wood, fiberboard, or strong double face corrugated cardboard containers and firmly packed inside. Bear in mind—in tying—that each package must be inspected. No perishable matter may be accepted and no poisons, intoxicants, inflammables or other matter which might imperil other mail.

Only one package from a person may be mailed weekly and the military reminds that it provides food and clothing and suggests that something else be sent. Christmas packages should be labeled as Christmas gifts. For those with men in the navy, parcels and cards may be mailed as late as November 1, but prompt mailing to all branches of the service is urged.

Wastage in the home is estimated to cause a loss of 5 percent of the protein, 24 percent of the fat, and 20 percent of the carbohydrates of all foods provided.

Most adults need 1.3 grams of phosphorus a day.

17-Year Youths May Be Cadets Now

Youths of 17 years, formerly barred from aviation cadet detachments, may now, with consent of their parents, wear the silver wings with the "AC" on a blue center which identifies them as members of the Army Air Forces, according to Lieut. Col. Marvin B. Durrett, commander of the West Texas Recruiting and Induction district.

When young men are called up as aviation cadets, they continue with their education, first with pre-flight training at selected colleges, then at one of the more advanced air bases like Randolph Field.

In addition, Col. Durrette states that men can still become aviation cadets if they have reached their eighteenth but have not passed their twenty-sixth birthday. These men can volunteer for induction.

Youths and men interested in enlistment should contact the Aviation Cadet Examining Board at 1114-10th Street in Lubbock for further information.

Air Onslaught Hits Record Proportions

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 16. (AP)—The Northwest African air force hurled every plane in the command over the Salerno bridgehead from dawn yesterday to dawn today in the biggest air attack in the history of Mediterranean flying.

More than 2,000 sorties were made. A sortie is one flight by one plane.

Even flying fortresses took part in pounding the German positions in front of the Salerno bridgehead, with bombers of the strategic air force alone flying more than 600 sorties.

Ginning Rates Put On Regional Basis

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16. (AP)—An order which becomes effective Sept. 18 has been approved delegating to regional OPA offices authority to fix cotton ginning rates under price ceiling regulations, Office of Price Administration officials disclosed last night.

They said the approval came after ginners in the Lubbock, Tex., area complained that existing rate ceilings were inequitable.

(Earlier, at Dallas, the regional OPA office said the regional administrators had been authorized to establish a ceiling available to any ginner in any designated zone the average ceiling price now prevailing there.)

THE WAR TODAY: Revival of Fascism No Help To Hitler

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

One of the finest services Fuhrer Hitler could render the Allies is his revival of the fallen and dishonored fascist regime under the control—or so the nazis say—of its old master, Mussolini.

The United Nations had carried out their aim of smashing fascism. The collapse of the incompetent and corrupt government exposed the fascist rule to the world for exactly what it was—a dictatorship of gangsters who not only waged cowardly war on small and helpless countries, and against their grievously wounded neighbor, but made themselves and their mistresses vastly rich by plundering their own people.

The vast majority of Italians, while heart-broken over the straits to which their country has been reduced by Mussolini's wickedness and stupidity, nevertheless have been rejoicing that they finally have been rid of this nasty old man who personifies the "soft underbelly of Europe." No price is too great to purchase freedom from such a tyrant.

Now along comes the arch gangster of them all and sets up a little puppet government in the name of fascism. He tries to give it life by announcing that Mussolini himself is the quelling of the revival—a statement which certainly requires ocular proof before the world will accept it as truth. At this writing the whereabouts of the ex-dictator is a great mystery, and it's even rumored that he's dead. If he is, the devil has a new pal.

Anyway, dead or half alive in his terror, the duce's usefulness is about the same. This puppet "government," which is a stage-play affair, will drag out its brief existence, to provide a further striking demonstration of the folly of Mussolini's fascist agencies. It will clinch the argument for the overthrow of fascism and nazism and the establishment of democracies in their stead.

NAZI CORRECTS CODE USAGE
KANSAS CITY—A TWA plane heard a strange radio call one day in mid-Atlantic, relates Otis Frank Bryan, vice-president of Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc.

"A clear voice in English advised our radio operator he was using the wrong code of the day," Bryan said.

"And we were using the wrong code."

The voice was that of a German submarine commander, he added.

They Don't Fly But Do As Much

AT A U. S. FORTRESS BASE IN ENGLAND (Correspondence of the AP)—Master Sgt. Leon Tribby and his crew have never flown back from the target with two engines out and part of their nose shot away.

They've never destroyed any German fighters and never have come home to a breath-taking belly landing.

But they have done as much as any men who have to make the American bombing campaign against Germany a success.

They've accomplished the impossible.

Tribby and his 35 men are the sheet-metal crew at this base. They repair battle-damaged bombers.

During the Eighth air force's recent six-raids-in-seven-days blitz on Germany, they fixed 120 fortresses in a week.

Consider a little one-inch flak hole. It not only has to be patched, the metal around it has to be pulled back and the structure underneath examined for damage. Nearly every section of a fortress' metal skin covers a complicated array of braces, struts, spars, cross-members, usually also damaged. Fixing them up is about as tough as installing them at the factory.

Then the original hole has to be patched with metal fastened on by rivets.

That's one flak hole. They don't consider a fortress really damaged unless it has several dozen. After that come shell holes, a foot or more across, with correspondingly severe structural damage underneath, and many other injuries. They do just about all repairs except to engines, propellers, radios and instruments.

They worked about 20 hours a day that week, grabbing time out for naps on benches, and living mainly on coffee and sandwiches.

The crew members are products of the air force's technical school at Chanute Field, Ill.

A nucleus of 15 of them have worked together for nearly two years.

They were so good they were kept in the United States for a year as a unit to train others.

Two members of the crew are Texans, Sgt. Charles Buffington, Carmona, and Pvt. Glendyl Fleming, Sherman.

In most of the lower animal forms the female is larger than the male.

GIRL THANKS BILL ROBINSON

SAN DIEGO, Cal.—At the close of one of his theatrical engagements here, Bill Robinson met for the first time Rosemary Wagner, a 12-year-old girl for whom he and Shirley Temple bought a wheel chair six years ago. At that time he and Shirley, then playing at Los Angeles, heard a radio appeal for a wheel chair for Rosemary, stricken with infantile paralysis. A telephone number was given, which Bill took down, and quickly a chair arrived with a note, "From Shirley Temple and Bill Robinson." Rosemary wanted to thank him in person.

Food Problem Is Under Study

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16. (AP)—Both the White House and congress took up the 1944 food output problem for minute examination today, and perhaps some action to insure an adequate diet for the nation besides meeting huge foreign commitments.

Marvin Jones, war food administrator, accepted an invitation to outline for the house agriculture committee next Monday his ideas for next year's farm program—production, distribution and price fixing.

From another angle, price incentives so farmers are encouraged to turn out the maximum in crops, the food subject occupied the attention of President Roosevelt, who met with his advisers and with leaders of the major farm organizations yesterday.

A 1944 program involving a somewhat lower level of guaranteed farm prices—and hence fewer government subsidies—may be the outgrowth of the those discussions.

The farm leaders brought from the presidential meeting assurance; they said, that subsidies—which most of them opposed—would be used sparingly and only in cases of emergency.

SHRIMP CURRY: Zestful meat alternate.

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE, AP Food Editor

Don't forget that fish can do a good job of providing variety to your menus, saving ration points and keeping meals up-to-par in nutrition.

How good fish is as an alternate for meat depends a great deal on how well it is prepared and garnished.

For dinner on short notice a FISH GRILL is delicious. To serve 4, place 4 small individual fish fillets, washed and dried, in a shallow greased baking dish. Add 4 halves, firm, peeled tomatoes, 4 cooked white potatoes, 4 cooked onions and 4 cooked carrots. Brush the tops lightly with 3 tablespoons French dressing. Cook 6 inches below a glowing heat or in a moderately hot oven until well browned. Turn and brown the other sides. Baste every 5 or 6 minutes with 2 tablespoons margarine or butter melted in 1-4

Shrimp Curry
1 7-oz. can shrimp, or freshly cooked (1 1-4 cups)
2 tablespoons salad oil
1-4 cup chopped green pepper
3 tomatoes (medium-sized)
2 cups thin white sauce
2 teaspoons curry powder
4 cups cooked rice
Green pepper strips
Drain shrimp. Heat salad oil; add shrimp and chopped pepper. Sauté gently until lightly browned. Cut tomatoes in wedges; add. Cook 5 minutes. Blend a little white sauce with curry; add to remaining sauce. Arrange rice in ring on serving plate; garnish with green pepper strips. Pile shrimp mixture in center; add curry sauce. Serves 4 to 6.

cup boiling water with 1-4 teaspoon each salt, paprika and celery seed added. It will take about 15 minutes to cook this dish.

Browned or baked fish usually needs a tart sauce to set it off to better advantage so I have given you 3 sauce selections:

1. TARTAR—Mix together 4 tablespoons stiff mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon each minced pickles, pimientos and celery, 1-2 teaspoon each minced parsley, onions or chives, 1 teaspoon lemon juice and a speck of salt. Chill and sprinkle with paprika.

2. LEMON BUTTER—Mix together 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley, 1-8 teaspoon salt and a speck of paprika or cayenne. Chill.

3. LENOX—Mix together 2 tablespoons each chopped pickles (sour or dill), horseradish, 4 tablespoons stiff mayonnaise or salad dressing, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1-8 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and a dash of paprika.

STUFFED FISH STEAKS are almost a meal in themselves as they combine many wholesome foods in one main dish. Select 2 fish steaks weighing about a pound each and of an uniform shape and size as possible. Wash in cold water and wipe dry. Set one steak on a shallow, greased baking dish and spread it with melted butter or margarine and sprinkle lightly with salt and paprika. Cover with stuffing. Top with the remaining fish, slice and sprinkle it with melted fat, salt and paprika. Add 1-4 cup boiling water and 2 tablespoons lemon juice to the pan. Bake 30 minutes in a moderately hot oven (375). Baste several times with the drippings in the pan. Serve with a tossed green salad and cornbread and baked fruit pudding for dessert.

Here is the stuffing: Heat 4 tablespoons fat in a frying pan and simmer 5 minutes, 2 tablespoons each green peppers, celery and onions. Add 1 cup cooked corn, 1-2 cup cooked green beans and carrots, 1 cup soft bread or boiled rice, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 1-4 teaspoon poultry seasoning, 1-4 cup hot cream and an egg. Mix lightly with fork. You can also fill a fish, to be baked, with this stuffing.

Nurse Who Braved Bataan, Corregidor Is Ready To Get Into Combat Again

By FRANCES LONG, NEW YORK, Sept. 16. (AP)—Those of us who worry about not being able to get enough meat, nylon, and a hundred and one other items we have, for years, taken for granted, should meet Lt. Eunice Hatchitt, who escaped from the Philippines, just before the fall of Corregidor. (Lt. Hatchitt is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace D. Hatchitt of Lockhart, Tex.)

Tall, slim and smartly uniformed, it is hard to believe that Texas-born Lt. Hatchitt went through the stark horror of the battle of Bataan and Corregidor. But looking into—the reality of her eyes and hearing her talk, I found myself losing touch with the large airy room we were in, the relaxing chairs, the blue carpet. Suddenly I was carried across the miles to Bataan.

"I left United States in 1940 to go to Manila. I was excited because it was the first time I had been overseas." When war broke out I was stationed at Sternburg hospital in Manila. She was silent for a moment.

"But as everyone knows now, it wasn't long before we were retreating to Bataan. The nurses left by a small river steamer. It was under bombardment every moment. But I will always remember the picture of the soldiers who had come by land, straggling into the base on Bataan. There was one small trail and they had to march single file, their backs piled high with everything they could hold. They looked dirty, tired and hungry. I thought that was a terrible sight but when the Japs started bombing and strafing us—" her voice trailed off.

Living in the dense jungles of Bataan with only a few scattered tents for the wounded, eating when they had time, under bombardment 24 hours in the day, this small group of nurses fought bravely to save the lives of our soldiers.

"I hardly had time to think. I believe that if I had had a few minutes rest and started thinking, I would have gone crazy. Then abruptly came the fall of Bataan on April 10th at six o'clock in the morning.

"But we were still caring for the wounded and did not get away from Bataan until ten o'clock. It's a miracle to me how we missed the Japs.

"The retreat from Bataan was—horrible. Rowboats, small steamers, anything, were scurrying back and forth, taking the retreating soldiers to Corregidor. Although we had huge Red Cross signs on ships carrying the wounded, the Japs strafed and bombed indiscriminately. It was a mess. Some frantic people even tried swimming across but they didn't get far—"

It was soon apparent that living on Corregidor was no better than Bataan. An island of 20 odd miles, it possessed two large underground tunnels. But these were hardly enough for thousands of people to sleep, cook and tend wounded in. The wounded were placed in one of the tunnels, but more men, many sick with malaria and dysentery were pouring in.

"There was just no room to take care of them. We had two meals a day consisting of rice, tea and carabau meat which was slowly undermining our health. Sanitary conditions were terrible, our medical supply was running low and our ammunition, too. There was about one cigarette per person a week."

Working in dirty G.I. coveralls, or "monkey suits," as Lt. Hatchitt called them, the handful of nurses, staved off starvation by death day in and day out.

"We couldn't let ourselves get depressed because we had to keep the wounded soldiers' spirits high. They were such a bunch of wonderful kids.

"All we seemed to talk about was the day when we would be free from the Japs and have food. Whenever I had time to catch a wink, I dreamed of huge steaks melting in my mouth."

Lt. Hatchitt had been on Corregidor only three weeks—"they seemed like years"—when she and nine other nurses were ordered to leave. They boarded a navy plane and flew to Australia.

Lt. Hatchitt hopes soon to get into combat again. She would like to be stationed in England although "I have such a seething hatred for the Japs, sometimes I feel I could fight them with my bare fists."

Five Texans Are Given Awards

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16. (AP)—Five Texans in the United States army tenth air force in India have been awarded the distinguished flying cross or the air medal, the war department said today.

Those receiving the distinguished flying cross were First Lieut. Clarence A. Roltsch, co-pilot, of LaGrange; Second Lieut. John E. Thornton, navigator, of Olney, and Second Lieut. Bill Wright, pilot, Commerce.

Staff Sgt. Tommie A. Cromeens, a gunner, of El Paso, and Staff Sgt. Clarence A. Pawkett, also a gunner, San Antonio, received air medals.

Kate Smith swaps stories with Mr. Dedman of San Diego, California
"I WAS NEVER a fancy cake maker," writes Mr. N. A. Dedman of San Diego, California. "But for over thirty years I have been cooking under all conditions—with coal, wood, electricity, gas, and kerosene—and Calumet has been my constant companion. Not once has Calumet let me down. "When you have to turn out enough biscuits, muffins, or corn bread to feed a small army, you can't be bothered with 'temperamental baking powder.' Calumet has always proven a worthy ally."

Try Kate's recipe for BUTTERSCOTCH NUT ROLLS
2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons shortening
1/4 cup milk (about)
8 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/4 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 tablespoon water
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1/4 cup broken nut meats
* Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder (notice that small, thrifty proportion) and salt, and sift again. Cut in shortening; add milk gradually, stirring until soft dough is formed. Turn out immediately on lightly floured board and knead 30 seconds, or enough to shape. Roll into 12x10-inch rectangle 1/4 inch thick. (Calumet is the "double-acting" baking powder, you know. Works once in your mixing bowl—then waits till it hits the oven before working again. You can count on dependable Calumet—every time.) Cream together butter and sugar and spread on dough; roll as for jelly roll and cut in 1-inch slices. Melt butter in 8x8 1/2-inch pan; add water and sugar. Cook over low flame until mixture bubbles, stirring constantly. Remove from fire and sprinkle nut meats over mixture. Place rolls in pan, cut-side down. Bake in hot oven (400° F.) 40 minutes, or until done. Remove at once from pan. Makes 16 to 12 rolls. All measurements are level.

Editorial -- We Need To Salvage More Waste Fats

In one recent Pacific aerial raid on a Jap base, 900,000 rounds of machine-gun bullets were fired by American warplanes. (One cartridge equals one round.) In every one of these 900,000 cartridges, a certain amount of kitchen grease from American homes and army cook houses made up an indispensable ingredient: glycerine.

A new campaign to coax kitchen grease out of the home, into the hands of retail butchers, thence into war industry, is under way. Newspapers throughout the country will carry urgent pleas from the Fat Salvage Committee of the glycerine and associated industries, reminding housewives to pour up their waste fats and turn them over to their butcher, who will pay them the going rate for grease not fit for anything else is the kind wanted; nobody is asked to give usable fats. It's the waste product that goes into glycerine which goes into explosives which drives the bullets that play havoc with enemy personnel, installations, planes, ships and whatnot.

In July, 1942, when the first campaign for waste fats got under way, a total of 3,770,423 pounds was gathered. Seems like a lot, but remember that it's only a drop in the bucket, for by June of this year the total for the month was 10,808,250 pounds—and still not enough. That's for the first year of household fat salvage was 92,000,000 pounds.

But 275,000,000 pounds will be required to maintain the fats and oil stocks required in the production of glycerine. Kitchens of the various armed services yield a great deal of it—the soldier and sailor cooks are careful to account for every available ounce—but the homefront must make up the difference.

It's such a little thing to ask of America's housewives. But it is a vital part of the war effort in spite of its apparent insignificance.

Take care of your waste fats and deliver them regularly to the nearest collecting station.

Texas Today Texas Encyclopedia For Texas People

By HOMER OLSEN Associated Press Staff

This is a report of a history of the people, by the people, for the people of Texas.

Work has just begun on the ambitious task yet undertaken by the 46-year-old Texas state historical association—a two-volume, authoritative encyclopedia of Texas history, culture and biography which will require at least five years for completion.

"It will be a people's writing of their own history," says Dr. H. Bailey Carroll, acting director of the association. "At the same time it will be primarily for the people, not just the scholars."

Patterned after Frederick Webb Hodge's monumental Handbook of American Indians, the association's encyclopedic work will be called the Handbook of Texas, containing accounts in factual detail of the people who have been connected with the state's development since it was a province of Mexico more than 100 years ago.

Contributors to the Handbook, Carroll believes, will represent literally every county; the association will seek an authority, wherever possible, for every subject considered. Already on file are 15,000 tentative subjects.

In Texas there are many amateur historians—lawyers, doctors, merchants, oilmen and others," Carroll says. "Their information is sound. For example, L. W. Kemp of Houston, on oil man, is the authority on the men of San Jacinto."

Dr. Eugene C. Barker, head of the University of Texas history department of which Carroll is also a member, is expected to write the Handbook's material on Stephen F. Austin.

Scientific topics in the book will come under the editorial supervision of Dr. S. W. Geiser of Dallas.

Dr. Walter Prescott Webb, director of the historical association, will contribute a piece on the Texas Rangers.

These and many others will compile a mass of Texas facts which Carroll and his associates must sift and arrange before the final product is ready. It will be for sale to the public but nobody yet knows when, or what the price will be.

Meanwhile the association continues publishing its Southwestern Historical quarterly, the oldest periodical of its kind in Texas; and the comparatively new Junior Historian, which was first brought out a few years ago to interest young Texans in their heritage.

"The purpose of the Junior Historian is not to make antiquarians of our youth but to encourage the love of their homeland, the basic of true patriotism," says Carroll, its editor.

There are now about 60 chapters of junior historians in Texas schools, averaging 30 or more students, mostly high school seniors, in each.

The next contest in historical writing for the juniors starts this September and continues into April. This year a prize of $150 was awarded the contest winner.

The Rockefeller foundation, says Carroll, has been sufficiently impressed by the association's work to contribute $15,000, part of which is to be spent on the junior movement.

The historical association was organized on March 2, 1897, by the late Dr. George P. Garrison, first head of the history department at the University of Texas, and other distinguished Texans. Among them was the legendary John S. "Rip" Ford, ranger captain, editor and soldier, who among other feats brought peace to the Rio Grande valley.

Since the organization was founded—it now has 1,100 members not counting the 2,000 junior historians—members of the university's history department have edited its publications as a sort of extra-curricular service without pay.

official force in seeing that veterans get all that is coming to them under the law in the way of a chance to work.

The committee is headed by L. J. Fenlon of the American Legion and among those who participated in its organization and whose members will serve on the great network of state and local committees are the Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Disabled American Veterans, the two major affiliated labor unions, junior and senior Chambers of Commerce of the United States, the National Association of Manufacturers, the National Grange, the National Farm Bureau Federation, and a number of other of the nation's largest trade and civic organizations.

Washington—Post-War Plans For Service Men Already Moving

WASHINGTON—Observers returning from the war fronts say that the question most asked by American fighting men is "What's cooking for us when we come marching home?"

It isn't that they're selfish or want anything handed them on a silver platter, these observers say, it's just that they want to be sure they'll get a slice of those Four Freedoms they are sweating and bleeding for. And according to the men who have known them best, they consider most important the freedom to work and earn a decent living for the missus and the kids.

This much assurance can be given them right now: If all or part of the war ended tomorrow, they would find the program of demobilization, rehabilitation and reemployment already functioning.

A survey discloses that these agencies and organizations are operating:

(1) The Reemployment Division of Selective Service, whose chief is Col. Lewis Sanders. This division in time will have one committee member on every Selective Service local board to each 20 or 30 men to be demobilized. It will be their duty, briefly, to see that the soldier gets his old job back and that all rights and benefits specified under the Selective Service law are allowed him. If his job isn't there or he doesn't want it, the committee member will direct him to the other channels of employment.

(2) The Veterans Employment Division of the U. S. Employment Service, the clearing house and placement agency for all veterans who want jobs.

(3) The Vocational Rehabilitation Division of the Veterans administration, whose duty it already is to see that no veterans with any disability go without employment for lack of training or education.

(4) The Vocational Education division of the U. S. Office of Education, which, in cooperation with state vocational education departments in the last three years, has trained more than 7,000,000 war workers and has a program this year for training 50,000 physically handicapped.

(5) The Red Cross, which will be the final buffer in hardship cases and will act both as a relief and advisory agency.

(6) The National Clearing House Committee.

This last group hasn't even the semi-official status of the Red Cross, but if it achieves its aims, it may become the most vital un-back into his expression. "Take it easy, boy," Scott said softly, quietly. "When you feel up to it, you can tell us what happened."

The story came slowly but coherently. The Japs had struck four days ago—the night she had first reached the Porter cabin, Bette computed swiftly. They had hit with everything they had and no holds barred. The Americans outfought them man to man.

"But there were too damned many of them," he said, slumped back against Scott's arm.

"Where is—I mean, did everyone—were they all killed?" Bette managed finally.

"Hell, no!" The soldier tried to raise up again. "We got the wounded and the nurses and the hospital staff into the dug-out the first night. Eight of the boys hauled out of their planes all right. We got maybe seventy men all told."

Bette winced. Seventy out of a total—

"Seventy wounded, I mean," the soldier went on. "The rest of them are hiding in foxholes all around the valley. We aren't licked yet."

"How come you're not up in the dug-out with the rest of the wounded?" Scott asked him.

"The Nips picked me off when they came round for their first call this morning. But they didn't get my gun, did they?"

Bette noticed then the machine gun concealed cleverly in the grass.

"You've been lying here, wounded, since morning?" Scott demanded. "Where's the hospital detail?"

The soldier shook his head. "Boys had orders to keep out of sight during daylight. We aren't sure we've cleaned out all the snipers the Nips sent over by parachute yesterday." He closed his eyes. "I'm all right, anyway."

He wasn't all right, Bette knew unmistakably. If that wound bled much more, it would cost him his life.

She looked up, found Scott's eyes on her, read there the question she had just answered with in herself.

"I'll stay with him. You go on," she said calmly and began quietly to make her patient as comfort-

And Janet Blair's first self-earned money? "Two-bits from my parents for taking car oil."

Chapter 21

For what was probably five hundred yards and seemed to Bette like that many miles, they dragged themselves across the sand, up the gradual incline to where they could see the charred remains of the post's buildings. They lay motionless, searching for some sign of life.

"Damned queer," Scott muttered. "I don't like any of it."

"Well, if everyone is—" the word stuck in her throat. "I mean—if they've gone and the Japs are hiding up there waiting for us, what chance have we?"

"None," grimly. "We've got to hope everyone isn't gone."

"But they must be," Bette's heart had drained empty of all hope now. Only a dull feeling of despair and resignation was left. That and weariness. Every bone, every muscle felt crushed with fatigue. "Let's get it over."

"Okay. When I count three, make a dash for that brush there."

He nodded toward a clump of tall salt-grass. "If the Japs are waiting for us—" He hesitated, looking at her steadily a moment.

Bette felt her heart stop a long moment, then pounced furiously against her ribs. Of course. A Jap prison camp was no place for a white woman. She met Scott's blue eyes steadily.

Scott nodded toward the powerful gun he'd taken from the Jap sentry. "Can you shoot one of these?"

"I think so."

"Good." He pushed it toward her.

"But what about yourself?"

He grinned. "Don't worry. There's so much of me even a Jap couldn't miss."

Bette's eyes stung with hot tears

Man Who Tried To Kill Roosevelt In 1912 Is Dead

WAUPUN, Wis., Sept. 16 (AP)—John Flammang Schrank, 67, who attempted to kill Theodore Roosevelt in Milwaukee in 1912, died at the Central State hospital here last night.

Schrank was found insane by a sanity commission in Milwaukee municipal court in November, 1912, when tried on a charge of assault with intent to kill and murder. He was committed to the Winnebago State hospital on November 22, 1912 and transferred to the Central hospital here two years later.

Theodore Roosevelt was shot in the chest in front of a Milwaukee hotel a short time before he was to address a rally in his Bull Moose campaign for president. A

MISTAKES COYOTE FOR DOG

NAPA, Cal.—The government, in its efforts to negotiate a contract with Mexico that would insure absolute protection of Mexican laborers in the United States, overlooked one very important point, and that is that Mexicans are not well acquainted with California coyotes. When Juan Broyo, "good neighbor" farm laborer, saw a big "dog" he and his pals cornered it, and Bravo affectionately threw his arms about it. An American foreman rushed out just in time to shoot the giant coyote, and Broyo was rushed to the hospital.

Italy

had been employed in the all-out effort to smash the Allied grip. The magnitude and fierceness of the battle undoubtedly was draining German strength even more rapidly than Marshal Erwin Rommel's effort in Africa.

Gen. Montgomery's Eighth army, racing dramatically up the Italian west coast, passed through Scalo, approximately 50 miles southeast of Agropoli, the southern anchor of Gen. Clark's positions, Allied headquarters announced.

Gen. Montgomery's warriors were meeting no opposition in the dash that had carried them more than 15 miles in the last 24 hours.

Although Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters communique said the Fifth army had strengthened its hold on its bridgehead and was being reinforced and supplied, it was not considered likely that the critical phase would pass until it had been joined by the Eighth army to form a great unified force.

Meanwhile, the communique had nothing further to report of the British force which landed at Taranto and sliced off the Italian heel with the capture of Brindisi and Bari in a flanking drive on the east side of the peninsula. These troops were believed to be fanning out through the lower backbone of the Apennines, however.

The shifting nature of the hard-fought engagement was indicated by earlier field reports that the Germans had been forced to make a limited withdrawal from the wedge they had driven at the center of the Allied bridgehead near Eboli and, apparently spent, were digging in in the higher ground, and by later reports that the German attack still was on the increase.

(A DNB broadcast from Berlin said German troops had stormed Fersano, at the mouth of the Sele river, indicating a claim to the splitting of the Allied front. Seventeen American tanks were destroyed and 700 prisoners taken, the broadcast declared.

(The German communique made no such claim, but declared "landing heads were further narrowed."

"When storming Altavilla, Americans lost numerous dead and prisoners," the communique said, adding that the German air force destroyed an 8,000-ton transport and damaged 11 more ships of the landing fleet.

Students Must Be In Last Semester For Deferment

A student 18 or 19 years old entering school this fall, who will graduate at mid-term in January or February, may be considered for postponement of induction because this semester constitutes the last half of his academic year, the local draft board was informed this week by state headquarters.

On the other hand, a student entering high school this fall, who will not graduate until next spring in May or June could not be considered for postponement of induction because such a student would be in the first half of his academic year and not his last half.

However, a student does not have to be in his senior year to be eligible for postponement if he meets other requirements in the regulation.

Now overseas somewhere in the South Pacific, he writes his brother, Jim Abreo, "there is still a lot to do before this war is won." In his outpost, men try to tune in church services from Australia along with newscasts and music. They have plenty of smokes and food for "Uncle Sam is good to us!" However, Little Jim said letters were always at a premium.
