THE FORD WAY OF DOING BUSINESS

The Ford Motor Company was founded by a working-man for working-men. Its present officers began as employees of the Company. It was the first company to pay a minimum wage, beginning in 1914, at the then astounding figure of $5 a day. That was double the prevailing wage of the time. The Ford minimum is now $6 a day for all employees engaged in production work. And from that, the wages rise to $10.80 a day, with the average wage $7.25, exclusive of salaried employees.

The Ford Motor Company was the first large company to establish the 8-hour day—also in 1914. And the 40-hour week was inaugurated by the Ford Motor Company in 1926, years before any such laws existed.

The Ford Motor Company employs men without regard to race, creed or color. It is common knowledge that working conditions in the Ford shops are the best that science and constant care can make them. A square deal, a just wage and stabilized employment for a large proportion of our employees—and as fully stabilized for all as conditions will permit—enable our men to retain their personal independence.

In consequence of these policies the Ford Motor Company has one of the finest bodies of employees in the world. The larger proportion are mature men of long service with the Company—sober, decent family men. Hundreds of them have been with the Company for more than 25 years—thousands for more than 15 years. Their health record, home ownership and citizenship records are good.

All this is reflected in Ford products, whether cars, trucks or tractors. The work is honestly done. Materials are the best that can be made or procured. Less profit to the Company and more value to the customer is known throughout the motoring world as "Ford's way of doing business."

Henry Ford and Edsel Ford keep daily personal touch with all phases of Ford manufacture. In a conference with his staff, Henry Ford often says: "Go ahead—I'll sit here and represent the public."

Ford Motor Company was the first to make a motor car within the means of the average family—quitting the manufacture of what was then the largest selling model in the world to do so. Its chosen field in all the 30 years since that time has been the average American family—for which it has consistently provided car facilities which formerly only the wealthy could buy.

It is the policy of the Ford Motor Company to share the benefits of advanced methods and management with workers and public alike. Increased wages and employment over a period of many years have resulted in

A 300 per cent increase in the built-in value of the Ford car and a 75 per cent reduction in its price.

The SNOOPER SAYS...

Finishing school is one of the highlights in every young person's life!

This week marks the end of 11 of the happiest years in the lives of 72 graduates of the Littlefield High school. They have reached one of the greatest milestones in their lives, and after the commencement exercises are over Friday night, all of the boys and girls will have a feeling of regret. Some will not admit it—they will be too glad that the hard, daily grind is over, but they will miss the pleasant associations of teachers and students. Their faces will be smiling over the honors gained and well-earned diplomas.

Seniors, your achievement in this graduation is one of the best guarantees that Democracy is safe in America. As you embark upon a wider life, whether it be for more education, a business career, a homemaker, or a job, our best wishes go with you for your continued success.

But well wishes and congratulations will not carry you through life. To lick the problems that will face you, you will need to use grit, determination, "sticktoitiveness" and other qualities that make a success of anybody's life.

Life begins in 1940 for you!

Sunday night as I sat in the auditorium of my "Alma Mater" and watched the seniors take their places to hear the Baccalaureate sermon, I went back eight years and saw 17 happy seniors march down the aisle. Not one of us realized what life held in store for us. We had our ambitions, our ideals, and our dreams. Few of us have done what we planned to do with our lives at that time. This thought came to me Sunday night: A diploma is given in recognition of preparation having been made by the finishing student. Proper use of this preparedness in the right channels determine the attainments and pleasures of after-school existence. The plow in the hands of a farmer is not valuable until it has been used; a gun in the hands of a soldier will not whip the enemy until it is fired; an education in the minds and hands of a graduate will only return dividends when utilized by its possessor.

"I'm glad I'm an American" is heard frequently on the streets of Littlefield these days. . . . Niftiest pin I've seen is a small blue teakettle with two cups dangling on tiny chains, worn by a waitress in a local cafe. . . . People often wear pins, tie-clasps, and necklaces suggestive of their professions—a lumber yard manager wears a tie clasp in the form of a saw—most of us are wearing tiny boots on pins or tie-clasps, meaning that we are typical West Texans, and like to be reminded of prairies dotted with white-faced cattle. . . . Three young men named Jimmie have rooms at the Cooper Apartments—two with the same last names, James E. Wilson who is employed at Perry Bros., and James E. Wilson, who is employed at the Leader office—the other is Jimmie Allsup. . . . Wonder if that new green gasoline made by major oil companies will be good for summer only, for the color, green, is restful to one's eyes during hot summer days.

Latest gag . . . Do right and fear no man, don't write and fear no woman! That's all, now. MARGIE.

Ladies' Auxiliary Plants Flowers Monday Afternoon

Thirteen members of the Presbyterian Ladies' Auxiliary met at the church Monday, May 13, at three o'clock for their regular meeting. After a brief business session and a devotional service led by Mrs. Casper Yesel the group adjourned to the church grounds to plant flowers.

Those present were Mesdames E. A. Bills, C. E. Barber, M. W. Brewer, Neal Douglass, Jim Etter, Charles Flescher, J. S. Hilliard, Bruce Porcher, Warren Rutledge, O. P. Wilemon, Ira Woods, Casper Yesel, and Miss Grace Perkins.

Mrs. Howard Is Improved; Returns Home

Mrs. Lena Howard, who has been seriously ill at the home of her niece in Port Arthur, was brought to Littlefield Sunday night and her condition is reported to be improved.

Her daughter, Mrs. W. G. Street, and Alice Lynn and Bill Street were called to Port Arthur last Sunday morning, May 12. Mrs. Howard returned home with them. She has made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Street since 1913.

Miss Luzelle Bryan, student at Tech, spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Bryan. Mr. and Mrs. Jess Seale visited in Fort Worth Sunday, and spent Sunday night with their daughter, Louise, who is a student in the Texas State College for Women at Denton. They returned home Monday.

PLENTY OF PARKING SPACE

FASHION for today BY PATRICIA DOW

DAYTIME FROCK It's a diagram design (8677) so you can be sure it's very easy to make. Just two pieces to put together—no joining at the waistline. This dress has a delightfully slim waistline, too, fitted in by pleats, front and back, and buttons mark the pleats that radiate from the high, round neckline. A simple style like this, with bosom fullness and a circular skirt, is becoming to practically every figure.

Tailored enough for street and runabout, it is also simple enough for home wear. Since the lines are so simple, make it up in bright-colored spun rayon or flat crepe or a bright flowered print. It's an ideal style for summer cottons, too. Pattern No. 8677 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 and 40.

Pattern 8692—Juniors who like a lot for their money will be jubilant over this pattern, which combines a tennis frock and a bolero. The flare-skirted frock with pointed straps looks adorable on slim young figures. It's comfortable for active sports, and has a lot of casual charm. With the bolero, it becomes as trim and tailored a street suits as you please. Make it up in pique, gingham or sharkskin, either in one color or with a bright or dark bolero. Pattern No. 8692 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17 and 19.

The Nazi drive toward the channel was pointed toward St. Pol and Montreuil-Mer a line toward the Straits of Dover, where only 22 miles of water separate the British Isles from France.

London—British admit gravity of the situation in France, but say troops will die before letting Germany take Channel ports; measure to defend English coast speeded.

London—Britain marshalled all her wealth and man-power today to save the empire from the peril of Nazi invasion.

The government demanded—and was swiftly assured parliament's consent to exact today a special emergency powers law giving it sweeping authority over all wealth, labor and resources.

All-powerful production councils would be set up to speed supplies of munitions, ships, aircraft, farm produce and minerals.

All labor and property would be at the Government's disposal. There will be a 100 per cent excess profits tax.

The object of the drastic bill was to make effective the whole resources of the nation "for whatever task may fall upon it."

Washington — The government called on capital and labor to "do their bit" in the national preparedness drive, relying on both to seek no advantages from the rearmament program.

President Roosevelt emphasized the urgency of preparedness by reminding capital and labor that refugee choked roads in France were being swept by the machine guns of sweeping enemy warplanes.

On Capitol Hill the Senate pressed toward a vote on the record breaking peace-time army bill of $1,820,841,000.

Washington — May 22, United States advanced on civil shipbuilding program. Contracts for the construction of 152 merchant ships to be built at a cost of $380,000,000 have been placed in the last two and one-half years, which was charged by Congress with the responsibility of providing this country with an adequate and well-balanced merchant fleet.

George Vaught on Highway 7, for the purpose of returning the hayrack, horses and equipment. When enroute to town, walking east on Highway 7, with a companion, Miss Gayle Etter, a truck is reported to have stopped, and the driver calling James and his companion by name, offered them a ride to town, which they accepted.

Unable to make the driver hear him calling for the truck to stop, James is reported to have jumped, after which Miss Etter followed.

Miss Etter assisted James to his home, which is about three or four blocks from the scene of the accident, and Dr. Thos. B. Duke was summoned, and the young man taken to the Littlefield Hospital & Clinic, where he is confined and his case is considered serious.

The occupants of the truck were two school students, one a local boy, and the other a resident of Spring Lake, who report that thinking James and his companion were enroute to the Jim Etter home, drove to this residence before slackening their speed. On arrival there and discovering that the young couple had left the truck they drove back some distance, but by that time James and Miss Etter were on their way to the Stokes home.

The hayrack party was given by the members of the Kapri Ki, girls High school club, honoring the members of the boys club, the Haat group. All gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Patrick at 7:30 o'clock. With Morgan Layfield driving, the group had an enjoyable evening and all returned to the Patrick home, where a number of them had left automobiles.

A group of seniors went to Vaught's to return the hayrack and horses, intending to walk back to the Patrick home. James and his companion, however, planned on walking home, and were opposite Morris & Son Service Station when the driver of the truck in question is reported to have offered them a ride.

Reports late Wednesday were to the effect that the youth was much improved.

According to Rev. Harris, the local Rotary Club appointed a committee to assist in the raising of this fund. In this group are Postmaster W. D. T. Storey, T. Wade Potter and Arnold Partell.

Assisting the Committee in a general canvass of the business and residential sections of Littlefield will be: Mesdames Paf Boone, C. E. Cooper, Oscar Wilemon, W. D. T. Storey, W. G. Street, P. W. Walker, W. J. Cheshen, and others.

In charge of the campaign for funds in Sudan will be Joe Salem, Dry goods merchant; in Amherst, Mrs. Lester LaGrange; and at Olton, Pat Campbell.

Rev. Harris in urging the Leader Wednesday to appeal to the residents of this city and district to answer promptly and generously this appeal for funds to mitigate the intense and horrible suffering of men, women and children in Europe, added:

"You and I must not fail to respond to that appeal. We are the outpost of humanity. If the Red Cross is to perform its duty in time to save lives, we must act now.

"This is one occasion when we can't let George do it. While we are trying to find George, a life may be lost and mercy blacked out. Let's give to the Red Cross War Relief without delay. Let's contribute through the local chapter, and show the country that our town still knows what the word humanity means."

Since California and the Panhandle of Texas are the only major blackeyed pea producing regions of the world, there is no danger of flooding the market.

"Edison, The Man" To Be Featured At Ritz Over Week End

Once more illustrating the fact that truth is stranger and more dramatic than fiction, "Edison, the Man," filmization of the career of Thomas A. Edison, opens next Saturday Midnight, at the Ritz Theatre continuing through Sunday and Monday, with Spencer Tracy in the starring role.

Biographies have proved among the most popular offerings in Hollywood history during the past few years and the story of Edison is replete with dramatic events which are so thrilling they might be considered the product of a fiction writer's mind. In fact, so many amazing events and so much intriguing humanness were found in the inventor's life that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's greatest job was in selecting the most entertaining and weaving them into a dynamic story. The picture affords Tracy with yet another great real-life role to add to the others with which he has won acting acclaim.

Rev. Don Harris Addresses Seniors At Spring Lake

Rev. Donald Harris, local Presbyterian Minister, addressed members of the senior class at Spring Lake Friday night, at the commencement program, held in the Spring Lake high school.

Forty-five seventh grade students participated in the graduation exercises held at the Spring Lake school auditorium Monday night.

Large appropriations by Congress would not be necessary as the money would be loaned by private capital, the Government supervising and guaranteeing the loans as is now the case in loans made by the Federal Housing Administration.

Mahon stated, "I have been cooperating with Marvin Jones, Chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, since the introduction of the bill last year, and I shall continue to work for the improvement and passage of the measure."

Mahon Urges Farm Tenancy Program

Washington—May 21, 1940. Declaring that a more comprehensive farm home-ownership program is immediately needed, Congressman George Mahon last week urged the Congress to pass legislation at this Session which would more adequately deal with the problem of farm tenancy. He spoke in support of two approaches to the problem. The first was a plan which would authorize the RFC to make loans up to $50,000,000 to continue the Farm Tenant Purchase program which has been in operation since 1937. The House approved the plan as a part of the Agricultural Appropriation bill.

He said that he felt a better approach to the problem would be through the so-called Farm Tenant-Mortgage Insurance Bill which passed the Senate last year and which has been approved by the House Committee on Agriculture. Under this plan loans would be insured by the Government for farm home purchases to the extent of a total of $350,000,000 at 3 per cent interest.

Brunette Beauties Get Judges Votes

BRANTON, May 14—Brunettes this year for the second time in the beauty selection at Texas State College for men, where not a single blonde won a beauty page in the year's 1939 yearbook. This year's beauties, presented by Russ Morgan at the annual senior prom in Bralley Memorial Library at T. S. C. W., are five brunettes and one lone blonde.

Chosen from the sixteen class nominees, the brunette beauties are Misses Janice Smith, Denton freshman; Darcas Harrison, sophomore from Tuckerman, Ark. Mary Elizabeth Cook, Houston senior; Beryl S. C. W., are five brunettes and one lone blonde.

Extension Service of Texas A. and M. College.

Previously the program had been limited to the 187 counties with home demonstration agents. Now, however, county agricultural agents will be responsible for informing the public about the program in counties without county home demonstration agents. Training of supervisors for the mattress making centers will be directed by district agents in charge of home demonstration work.

"This should make it possible for every eligible family in Texas to know about the program and have opportunity to make application for mattress making materials," Miss Horton commented in announcing expansion of the program.

Heretofore, when 120 applications for mattress making materials had been certified for a county by the county agricultural conservation committee, cotton was shipped from the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation in 12 bale lots. Under a late ruling, however, the FSCC has agreed to ship cotton in less than 12 bale lots and ticking in less than one-bale lots in a county where less than 120 applications are filed or where smaller shipments of cotton and ticking are necessary to complete the project in a county. These "clean-up" orders will be limited to one for each county, so that orders will be withheld until officials are certain that all eligible families who desire to apply have done so, according to information received by the State AAA office.

KEMGAS DELINTED

AND PLANT THE HEAVIER WEIGHT HIGHER COTTON PRODUCTION PROVEN SEED!

A Larger Kemgas Cottonseed Delinting Plant To Serve You

To care for increasing demands for KEMGAS delinted cotton seed from our plant we have spent thousands of dollars since last season increasing our facilities.

Leading Cotton farms throughout New Mexico, Texas and Oklahoma have brought us hundreds of tons of high quality seeds again this year to be delinted in our plant. Among our customers are many of this section's largest cotton experiment farms, State Agricultural Colleges . . . and we are also in position to give the farmers of this section the same profitable advantages of planting KEMGAS delinted cotton seed!

When your seed are brought for delinting they are culled without additional charge. This means the small withered seed are thrown out and you get only the heavy-weight seed that contain the stored plant food necessary to produce vigorous, rapid growing, disease resistant, high yielding plants. They are also disinfected—absolutely sterilized, killing all disease and germs common in cotton. The world's largest experiment farms demand KEMGAS delinted seed . . . why not profit by their experiments!

Germinates MUCH FASTER

For several years on the Plains KEMGAS delinted seed has germinated faster than fuzzy seed and with the aid of less moisture.

Kemgas Delinted Seeds Are Planted With Any Planting Machine That Has Corn, Cowpea, or Feed Plates.

COSTS ABOUT 10c PER ACRE

It costs about 10 cents an acre to have your seed Kemgas disinfected, and graded. We select the heavy seeds for planting and cull out immature seeds that make weak, sickly, unprofitable plants.

Tractors Plant Kemgas Delinted Cottonseed as Fast as Corn or Feed, and Have Planted Cotton All Night Without Any Skips.

FOR SALE — FINEST COTTONSEED

We sell Mabane, Acala, Paymaster, Bryant, Half and Half, Kasch, and Hi-Bred Seed. We trade these seeds for gin run seed, and Kemgas Delint your planting seed either for cash or part of the seed you save.

These Soil Conservation Practices Can Check Next Year's Dust

Agricultural workers in the wind erosion area of the Southern Great Plains point out that now is the opportune time to start the fight against dust storms of next year. This spring there are many thousand acres of barren land subject to both wind and water erosion like the area shown in the upper left. Contour tillage, strengthened by terraces where necessary, (upper right) will place the land in condition to catch and hold practically all available moisture during spring and summer. These contour rows and terraces hold the water evenly over the field (center) and result that a uniform and usually more profitable crop results (lower left). Stubble left on the land when the crop is harvested and protected from overgrazing (lower right) provides a safeguard against soil blowing during the winter and spring. The county agricultural agent will furnish additional information about wind erosion control practices which may be seen in actual use in Soil Conservation demonstration areas and soil conservation districts, and for which AAA benefit payments may be received.

"The shelves and fixtures for the store have been built by local labor at lower cost than we could have bought factory made equipment, J. Ware owner, said, "and they have the same modern appearance of those in larger stores and in the larger cities."

Only local labor has been used on the extension and remodeling of the store.

The arrangement of the ready to wear department, piece goods, men's furnishings, shoe department and juvenile department will give much improved display of merchandise.

"We wish to thank our many friends and customers for their continued patronage during our expansion, and we hope to have soon completed a bigger and better Ware's Department Store to serve you in the years to come," Mr Ware said.

Dollars And Mercy—

For the first time since the tragic days of the World War the American people are being asked to contribute to a Red Cross war relief fund.

As one of the few remaining nations enjoying peace and security in a world of chaos, the United States is in a position to extend a strong hand of sympathy.

Fortunately, mercy is of a flexible nature. Unlike other forms of human expression it can be translated into effective action by dollars and cents.

path of marching armies are in need of purchasable succor—the simple necessities of food, clothing and medical treatment.

The American Red Cross is the logical channel through which the people of this country should express their deep concern for the plight of women, children and aged in Europe's war zones.

Already the American Red Cross has spent $1,500,000 for the relief of Europe's suffering. In doing so, it has received $800,000 in spontaneous contributions; the balance has been taken from its reserve funds.

With the invasion of new countries, overwhelming needs are being reported daily. They are manifest reasons why a general appeal must be made to the nation.

Lutheran Ladies Aid Meets At Church

The Emmanuel Lutheran Ladies Aid Society met last Wednesday afternoon for their regular meeting in the basement of the church. The session was opened with a song and a prayer. The third chapter of the book of Ruth was studied. Rev. Wm. Hannusch led the discussion. Three new members were received. They were Mrs. Ernst Sell, Mrs. Geo. Birkelbach and Mrs. Tommy Mauk. Mrs. Childress, Mrs. Chas. Ogerly and Miss Clara Will attended as visitors. After the business meeting the ladies busied themselves with some special work. This time they made utility stools. This was done by covering nail kegs with cretonne and padding the top with cotton. These stools are to be given to the needy who may use them as chairs. Mrs. Wm. Hannusch served a very delicious lunch to Mesdames B. Birkelbach, Ernst Sell, C. T. Boriack, E. Drager, E. Will, Childress, Tommy Mauk, Aug. Meek, Ed. Zybur, R. Ogerly, Chas. Ogerly, Geo. AMHERST METHODIST CHURCH

Due to the rapid increase of broken homes and dissolved marriage relation there is a call from the heads of the churches today, both Protestant and Catholic for a drive for the conservation of the home and family life.
 Short courtships in the largest number of cases mean a short marriage relation. Wrecks in marriage have gone from one marriage wreck in 33 in 1870 to 1 in 5 in 1940. At this rate how long will it be until marriage will be a performance and soon forgotten.
 The church should lead in all spiritual, moral and social activities. But not many ministers have any chance to help people in their love, courtship and marriage education. And most of them drive at this problem solution in sermons on divorce. But there is a great move on to educate people in this as in other factors of life.
 Where surveys have been made as in the National Preaching Mission a few years ago students call for sermons on Love, Marriage, the Home in a changing world. In most colleges and universities 78 per cent and more called for courses of study in curricula. In S. M. U. 87 per cent wanted such courses, 10 per cent against them and 3 per cent silent. Such courses are now taught in over 250 American colleges and universities. If this could be started in public schools with a specialist to teach it might be a greater help for many youths who never get to college.
 Next Sunday is a missionary ship. Your absence hurts all services.

Mr. And Mrs. J. W. Keithley Have Paper Of July 26, 1808

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Keithley "turned back the pages of time" Monday night, when they found a paper, the "Missouri Gazette," which was published Tuesday, July 26, 1808. It has been in their possession the past 32 years, and they found it Monday night among other papers that they had not looked through in several years.
 The "Missouri Gazette," that is in their possession was a supplement to the St. Louis Republic, publication of July 12, 1908. St. Louis in 1808 was known as St. Louis, Louisiana. They lived at Gainesville in 1908, and were subscribers to the St. Louis Republic. The paper was volume 1, No. 3, printed by Joseph Charles, printer to the territory.
 Terms of Subscription for the Missouri Gazette, three dollars paid in advance. Advertisements not exceeding a square, will be inserted for one dollar, and fifty cents for every continuance, those of a greater length in proportion.

Other interesting things about the edition are the type that is used, with the letter "f" used instead of "s" in most words stories about ships that docked in eastern ports, and the goods brought from Europe letters from Paris and London; and a list of letters remaining in the Post Office at St. Louis, quarter ending June 30, 1808.

A sale at auction published, read as follows:

"To the highest bidder for cash, on Tuesday the 3rd of August next, at 10 o'clock A. M. at the house of Mrs. Labady, in the town of St. Louis, an invoice of goods amounting to between 7 and 800 dollars, viz: Best Cognar Brandy, that has been more than three years in the cellar at this town, Dry Goods, consisting of clothes, Strouds Chint's, Calicoes, Muslins, Irish Linen, Saddlery, Cheiving Tobacco, etc. And a large quantity of well assorted castings and Hardware. As the object of sale is to raise the aforesaid sum of money, the goods must be sold, fetch what they will; therefore great bargains will be given. —Jerb. Connor, Auctioneer."

Former Littlefield Girl Critically Ill

Twins, a boy and a girl, were born to Mr. and Mrs. Everett Buck in a hospital in Richmond, Va., Tuesday, May 14. Mrs. Buck, the former Della Mae Shipley of Littlefield, is reported to be in a critical condition. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Shipley of Amherst, and a former teacher in the Littlefield school. Her brother, Bennie Shipley, who is employed in Littlefield, reported late Wednesday that her condition was still very serious.

Dust Storms Are On Decrease On Plains

AMARILLO, Texas, May 21.—Dust storms definitely are on the decrease in the Southern Great Plains, but constant vigilance on the part of every farmer is necessary if these gains in controlling wind erosion are to be maintained, according to H. H. Fennell, regional conservator of the Soil Conservation Service.

Records maintained on the Guymon, Okla., Soil Conservation Service demonstration project in the heart of the wind erosion area show there were 101 dust storms of 655 hours duration from July, 1937, through June, 1938. During the same period in 1938-39, there were 42 dust storms of 301 hours duration. From July 1939 through April 1940, there were only 28 storms of 199 hours duration.

"These figures are especially significant when it is considered that the service drought last year placed 3,500,000 acres in condition to blow as compared to only 1,300,000 acres that were not protected against wind erosion in 1939," Fennell said.

This reduction in the number of dust storms during the last three years is due to a great extent to the progress that farmers are making in protecting their land against soil blowing, the conservator believes.

Through erosion control demonstration projects and by working in cooperation with CCC camps, the Soil Conservation Service has been demonstrating soil and water conservation practices for six years, Fennell stated.

Farmers now are organizing to cooperate in carrying on the fight against erosion through formation of soil conservation districts, it was pointed out. Twenty-five soil conservation districts, organized under provisions of state laws, now are functioning in the Southern Great Plains in addition to eight county wind erosion districts in the Texas Panhandle.

"Winter snows undoubtedly have made timely tillage operations more effective this year by making the soil moist so a cloddy surface to resist soil movement was created," Fennell pointed out. "Also, there has not been as many long periods of high winds as in some recent years."

"Farmers should remember that dust storms can come at most any season of the year," the conservator said. "The Guymon records show dust storms in every month since February, 1936, with the exception of November, 1939, and January, 1940. There were 17 dust storms in May and June, 1938, and eight during the same months last year."

"This means that every effort must be made to maintain a protective cover of vegetation on the land at all times. Farming operations on the contour this spring will hold most of the water on the land where it falls and give better chances of producing a protective cover.

"It is only through such soil and water conservation practices that the necessity for costly emergency tillage operations during periods of high winds can be eliminated and agriculture placed on a sound, long-time basis in the Southern Great Plains," Fennell declared.

CHAPTER IX

SYNOPSIS
The story grows complicated for the women of plucky Anne Phillips who has supported them since her husband's death. Her married daughter, Berenice, quarrels with her mother. Jim, Anne's son, is engaged with the rich Helen Sanderson. Anne suspects that Cathy, her little dancer, is in love with Jim. Janet, Anne's younger daughter, is unhappy because her friends neglect her. She is commissioned by Tony Ryan to restore the old Phillips home which he has bought. She goes to Stephen Hill there and invites him to dinner.

crumbs of your divine charity to Stephen Hill, I get the giggles." He put an arm about each of them. "Dear sweet innocents," he explained, "don't you ever read the bylines in the newspapers, haven't you ever listened to the radio, did you ever see a travel book?" "Oh, my sainted aunt!" cried Janet weakly. "He isn't the Stephen Decatur Hill!" Jim nodded and Anne clutched his arm. "The famous war correspondent!" "The guy," said Jim, "who knows more celebrities intimately than any man in the world, the guy who's covered every important news event for twenty years." "And we set him down at a glittered with thin crystal and fine silver and gleaming damask. The centerpiece of exquisite pink asters completely screened Jim from Janet's view, but she did not need to see her brother's face. She knew exactly how furious he was, wedged in between the opulent and extremely décolleté figure of Mrs. Henry Leigh on one side and the gurgling Myra West on the other. "Where have you been keeping yourself lately, Janet?" murmured Gordon Key. Anne was having a marvelous time. She did not believe anyone could fail to be plucked out of the doldrums if Stephen Hill took a nation to dispel them. Down the table Priscilla was lean-with Janet. "I'm breaking the unwritten law taking you away from that bird, or so I've been given to understand," he said with a grin. "I can stand it if you can make your peace with your fiancée," she stammered. Tony glanced at Priscilla who was glowering at them. "Do you believe everything you hear?" he asked lazily. "I've never got around yet to asking any woman to be my wife."

Janet had infuriated conviction that he was amusing himself at her expense. "I don't believe Priscilla would take everything for granted unless she had something pretty definite to go on," she said hotly. "Don't you?" drawled Tony Ryan as if he did not care at all what she believed. The bridge game of the older guests broke up at eleven when Mr. Henry Leigh announced with a bleak smile that it was time for all good people to be in bed. Norma protested that it was barely the shank of the evening and Priscilla, preparing to dance again with Tony, agreed with her. "Naturally the young folks aren't ready to go," murmured Mrs. Leigh and smiled poisonous at Anne. "That's our penalty for getting on," Anne smiled. "I must admit we're not so skittish as we were." She rose and Myra clutched Jim's arm. "You can't run off and leave me odd man."

a bunch of keys at Steve Hill. "Use my car," he said. "Thanks," said Steve and reached for Anne's short silver-brocaded evening wrap. She was laughing softly when he tucked her into Tony's elongated black and silver machine. "I'm afraid you've made an enemy of Jennie Leigh," she said. "She doesn't approve of middle-aged widows who can still wear a size sixteen dress."

Steve smiled and put the big coupe in motion. "From the way you look now you were a mere child when your husband died." "I was twenty-nine." "And you never remarried." "No. There were several men who tried to be nice to me after I'd been widowed a couple of years," explained Anne.

"Jim wasn't quite thirteen at the time. He began to act strangely. He's always thought me perfect, but he took to staying away from home as much as possible. Berenice on the other hand shunned her playmates. Janet was crying when I came home from the store one night. She told me that all the kids at school were making fun of her and Jim and Berenice. The other children had invented a song, you know how children do, and they chanted it at my children every time they got a chance. Something to the effect: Your mother's got a beau! Jim and Berenice's mother has got a beau-o!" Steve Hill smothered an expletive. "Little savages!" "Yes," said Anne, "but it wasn't worth it. The candy and flowers and theater tickets, I mean." Steve Hill chuckled and then his face sobered. "You're warning me that your children come first with you."

"But you can't keep them always. Have you never realized how lost you'll feel when they've left you?" "I've been staring that in the face for quite a while," said Anne in a low voice. He had stopped the car outside the flat building, but he sat there motionless gazing straight before him, a crease like a wound between his eyes. "There's no emptiness so ghastly," he said, "as having nobody to go on for. I had a son, Anne." "Yes?" "His mother died soon after he was born. I banked everything on the boy. I was a struggling young reporter in those days, having the devil of a time to get by. I had a dream of being able to retire someday. In the meanwhile I boarded him with a family, good people, only he wanted to be with me. "When the war broke out and the paper sent me to the front I couldn't see him at all, of course. After the war I had my passage-engaged to return to New York when the office cabled me to cover a flare-up in the Far East. Then, before I knew it I was in Australia interviewing the Anzacs. It was four years before I saw the boy again, and I had lost him."

patched tablecloth," mourned Janet. "I don't believe he minded," said Anne with that odd breathless note in her voice.

The sixteenth day of August began unpleasantly for Anne Phillips. She had not slept well the night before. It was very hot and she rolled and tossed.

"If only I knew exactly what I am afraid of," she told herself. "You can fight anything after it comes out into the open."

She was nervous the next morning. She let the toast scorch, something she had not done in years, and burned her hand on the oven. "The ingenuity with which you can do everything wrong on some days really should be utilized," snapped Anne, snatching at the box of baking soda.

Janet who was preparing the grapefruit for breakfast gave her mother a startled glance. It was unlike Anne to be irritable.

"You're worn out with the heat. You ought to take a month off and rest."

"With the August fur sale just beginning? Be your age, darling!" "At least," murmured Janet, "you won't have to worry about dinner tonight."

"No?" murmured Anne uncertainly. "You must wear your new ivory lace," Janet was saying. "It's perfectly luscious on you."

Anne made a grimace. "If I can get my mind off how many coats we moved today and the minimum number of sales we have to make by the end of the week, and remember that a lady at a dinner party is expected to be a fount of inconsequential conversation, I'll be lucky."

There were sixteen around the Poole dinner table—a table that ing a little forward in order to transfix Janet with a peculiarly brilliant smile. "Darling," she said in a high, carrying voice, "I do hope you are doing right by our house."

Janet's hand had tightened on her glass. So they are engaged, Priscilla and Tony, she really is going to marry him and live in my house, Janet was thinking. All around the table there was one of those ghastly silences that happen even in the best society.

"I wouldn't know of course," said Janet at last in a slow painful voice, "exactly what you'd expect of your dream house, Priscilla."

Priscilla looked up into Tony Ryan's inscrutable blue eyes. "I suspect it's all right," she said. "I mean I could go for anything that includes Tony."

"Sure," he murmured with an ironical grin.

Janet turned a little blindly to Gordon. "You asked me if I'd save you every other dance," she said quite loudly, "I'd love to."

"Thanks," murmured Gordon in a startled voice. They danced to the radio. Janet wondered miserably why she had promised Gordon so many dances. He had asked her for them and she had refused. That was why he looked startled when she changed her mind, but she was certain that everyone present believed she had invented the request in order to clamp Gordon to her side.

Janet went on dancing with Gordon, wretchedly self-conscious because her friends beamed every time they looked at her in his embrace. Not one of them would have cut in for the world, but Tony Ryan did without even a by-your-leave. He merely tapped Gordon on the shoulder and waltzed off

Please make yourself comfortable. Janet said, smiling, as she pulled down her hat. "I shall have to do something about food. We have no more than a few sandwiches left." Stephen Hill was staring around the room, at the couch which had been covered with flowered cushions, at the ivory book shelves which had been built in between the windows, at the glass basket of fruit on the drop-leaf table by the easy chair, at the colorful hook-rugs which Janet had made for the painted floors. "Anybody home?" called Anne from the front door. "Neither, this is Mr. Ryan's car," Stephen Hill, stammered. "How do you do?" she said, putting out her hand. "I was not the words, it was her gracious tone which removed the strain from the situation. "How's your cat?" demanded Janet, hanging the front door behind her. "My brother, Mr. Hill," said Janet, started forward with outstretched hand and tripped over a cord. "Sorry," he said with a grin. "I'm the blunderbuss of the family." Janet's remaining qualms were removed by the unobtrusive manner in which her guest fitted in at the table. They sat for two hours, they finished eating. Janet's glowing, Jim looking more relaxed than he had in weeks, Anne leaning forward, her cheeks bright, of them waited out of them on the Magic Carpet of Stephen Hill's fascinating drawl to the and strange places of the earth, the Peacock Throne and the lacy carpet of the Taj Mahal, to crocodyfered tropic jungles, to Piccadilly on a balmy May afternoon, the boulevards of Paris on a moonlit night. "Isn't he wonderful?" cried Janet when he had gone. "I don't know if he is just another one of the Earl of Jersey calls a bit of a nut on the beach of fate, but he's precious." "I began to laugh. He laughed moderately. "I can't help it," he said, "it's just that when I think of two determined to feed the

NAGGING BACKACHE
May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action. Don't Neglect It!
Modern life with its ceaseless hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking, exposure, contagion, crowded, keeps doctors busy, hospitals crowded. The after effects are disturbing to the kidneys and oftentimes people suffer without knowing that disordered kidney action may cause the trouble.
After colds, fever and similar ills there is an increase of body impurities the kidneys must filter from the blood. If the kidneys are overtaxed and fail to remove excess acid and other harmful waste, there is poisoning of the whole system.
Symptoms of disturbed kidney function may be nagging backache, persistent headache, dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of strength and energy. Other signs of kidney or bladder disturbance sometimes are burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide approval than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. They have been winning new friends for more than forty years. Be sure to get Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.
THE REASON DOAN'S ARE FAMOUS
