Walters Drug Store at the corner of Phelps Avenue and Fourth Street, was burglarized sometime during Thursday night, and as this is written the total amount of loss and loot, is not fully known. More than a thousand dollars in diamond rings, a number of watches and other jewelry, and the cash from one register are known losses. A second cash register containing money was overlooked by the thief or thieves.

Entrance was evidently gained through the front door. The padlock had been broken and some of the door-facing and lock apparatuses, removed and broken, after which entrance evidently was simple. The loss was first discovered by Jackie Price, Star-Telegram agent as he delivered the daily Walters' order for papers at the store about 6:30 a.m. He immediately went to Mrs. Walters' house a block away and notified her of what he had discovered. She in turn came to the store and notified officers who are investigating, but no arrests have yet been made.

Due to the fact that insurance is not possible to be obtained, explanation of the loss is being made. (Continued on Back Page)

You and Your Congress

The shot that was fired by President Truman this week when he dismissed General Douglas MacArthur as Far East Commander will be heard around Congress for many months to come.

This matter promises to outdo even the "Great Debate" over troops-for-Europe, where verbiage and political name-calling are concerned.

The full effect in Congress of the President's explosive action cannot immediately be determined accurately. Most members, Republicans and Democrats alike, still have not recovered from their surprise.

But it would be difficult to over-estimate the probable consequences of Mr. Truman's action, especially in view of the political background against which it was taken.

Significantly, the immediate reaction from Congress was almost entirely along party lines, with Democrats supporting and Republicans condemning Mr. Truman.

This was a harsh blow for already weakened foreign policy bipartisanship in Congress.

There was talk of impeachment but the threats were not considered serious. Such proceedings to oust the President would have to be instituted in the House, where the Democrats hold a numerical advantage of 35. Actual ouster would have to be by a two-thirds vote in the Senate, where Democrats outnumber Republicans 49 to 47.

The MacArthur incident, meanwhile, was certain to delay Congress' work on legislation already in the mill or forthcoming—including that for appropriations and the inflation controls program.

Lengthy delay will come as questions are raised and answers to them are demanded.

Just what is the Far Eastern policy of the United States?

Many members of Congress were dissatisfied with President Truman's attempts to answer this question in a radio talk after he fired the general.

Exactly who makes this policy?

How much is it being influenced by our allies?

Noted in this connection are the general satisfaction in Europe with General MacArthur's dismissal, plus Britain's proposal that Communist China be consulted on the Japanese peace treaty and he given Formosa.

Those are some of the questions that will help generate this new great debate. There will be many others.

It appears that henceforth few pieces of major legislation in the 82nd Congress will escape the influence of feelings aroused over the MacArthur incident.

On balance, the incident seems to have done nothing to improve the Administration's relations with Congress. And, meanwhile, while they were greatly overshadowed, a couple of other things happened this week that seems unlikely to improve the Administration's position on Capitol Hill.

Sen. Tobey (R-N.H.) told the Senate that in two telephone conversations which he, Tobey, recorded, President Truman had first said but later denied that he had "good information that a great many" Congressmen "got fees for what they did" in helping to obtain RFC loans. Tobey declared that the President's original statement was a "serious indictment" of Congress.

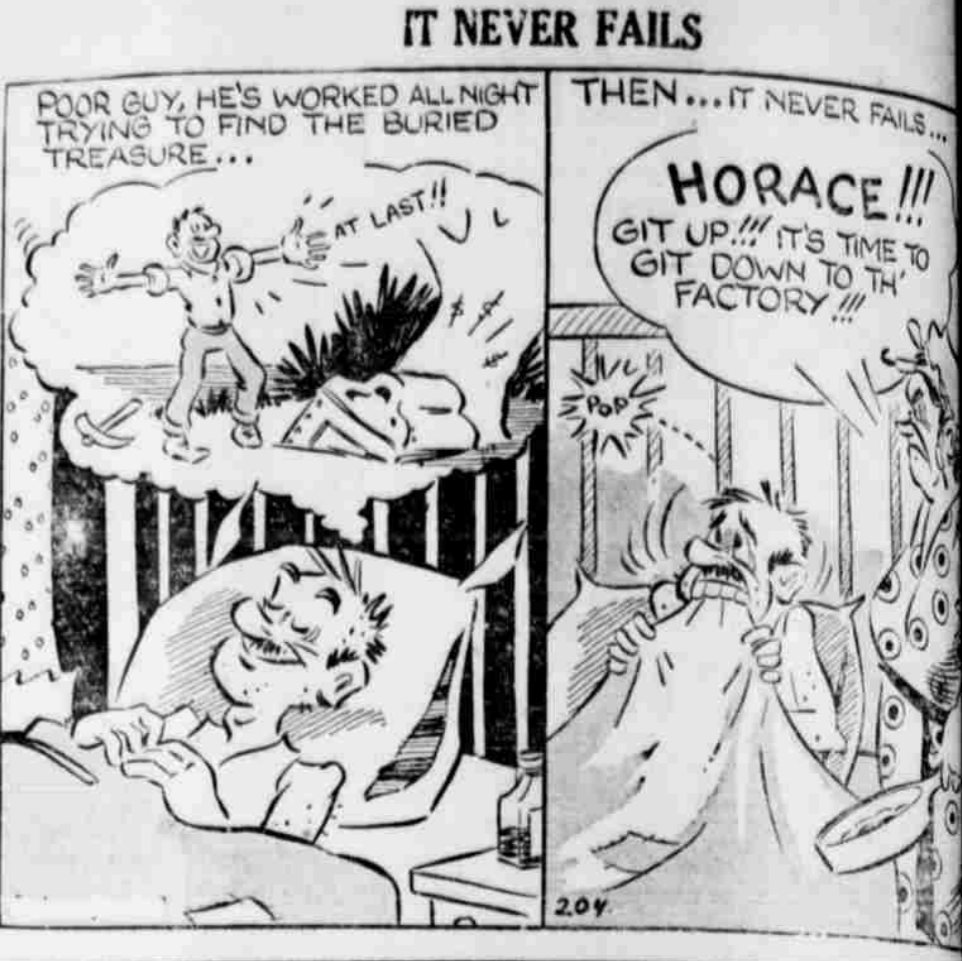

Immediately raised was the question of how many other legislators would agree with Tobey.

Meanwhile, former governor M. E. Thompson of Georgia, a Democrat who had supported Mr. Truman, announced he was resigning as an Officer of Price Stabilization consultant because he had no work to do and did not want to be a "parasite on the American taxpayers." In resigning, Thompson sharply criticized OPS Director Michael V. DiSalle's program.

Almost simultaneously, Chairman Maybank (D-S.C.) of the Senate Banking Committee said the committee will begin May 1 to review price and other inflation controls, which are due to expire June 30.

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON

BY TEX EASLEY
AP Special Washington Service

Washington, April 21—(AP)—The U. S. Navy Band managed by a Texan, is on a tour that will take it to 16 Texas cities this month and next.

Tour director of the famous musical aggregation is Gib Sandefer of Marfa, near Abilene. He has managed several towns for the navy band.

Sandefer's first experience in this kind of business was arranging appearances for the colorful Hardin-Simmons University Band when it travelled throughout this country and Europe.

On the current five-week tour, Sandefer travels in an automobile with Lieut. Commander Charles Brendler. They go ahead of the band to make last-minute arrangements.

Trailing in two brightly-painted special buses are the bandsmen. There are no Texans in the present band.

In the months between the usual spring and autumn tours of the band, the organization is kept busy here playing at official functions. The tours are on a self-supporting, non-profit basis as a good-will operation. Civic and patriotic organizations sponsor the band's appearances locally, signing a contract in advance with Sandefer guaranteeing the band an amount considered necessary to pay expenses.

Tickets vary in different localities, but usually run from about 50 cents for school children to $1.50. The sponsoring organization gets all the profits.

Most of the towns on the present itinerary are from 10,000 to 50,000 in population. The opening engagement of the present trip was in Denver on April 9.

In addition to the paid performances, the band plays free at veterans hospitals and other such centers.

"We find the keenest enthusiasm in these small cities and..." Sandefer said.

"Out in West Texas, New Mexico, and Arizona you'll find people driving hundreds of miles to hear the band."

One of the many ways Sandefer uses to stir up interest in advance is to encourage contests among the high school bands in the area

Information for Veterans

Q—Could I take two correspondence courses under the GI Bill at the same time, each in a different field?

A—No. You may pursue only one correspondence course at a time. Under certain conditions, however, the "course" may consist of more than one subject prescribed or recommended by the correspondence school.

Q—I intend to go to a VA hospital for a medical examination, which I need as evidence of good health for National Service Life Insurance purposes. I understand the examination will be given free, but will VA pay my way to and from the hospital?

A—No. Generally, you must pay travel expenses made in connection with a medical examination for insurance purposes. The only condition under which VA would pay the bill would be if VA specifically ordered you to report to the hospital for such an examination.

Q—I am totally and permanently disabled for reasons not traceable to my World War II military service. Am I eligible for training under the Public Law 16?

A—No. However, if you meet eligibility requirements for GI Bill training, you may take your training under that law.

Q—I am a World War II veteran, and after the war I moved to England to accept a job. Could I get a GI loan to buy a home in England?

A—No. GI loan benefits are not available for properties or businesses situated in foreign countries.

Q—My eyes have been bothering me since I left military service. May I get eyeglasses from the VA?

A—VA will furnish eyeglasses only under three conditions: if VA judges they are necessary for service-connected disability; if they are needed as part of hospital or domiciliary care, or if they are needed for proper continuance of Public Law 16 training.

Q—I have completed four years of college under the GI Bill, during which time I received quite a large number of textbooks at Government expense. May I keep the textbooks, or must I now return them to VA?

A—The textbooks are yours, and need not be returned to VA.

Q—I was commissioned in the Army in 1935, and hope to retire in 1965, after 30 years' service. Will I be eligible for GI Bill benefits, since I was in service during the World War II period?

A—Yes. You are eligible for GI Bill benefits, since you were in service during the World War II period.

AUTHOR Of the Week

By W. G. ROGERS

EDWARD, Duke of Windsor, in his memoirs, "A King's Story," carries the account of his life to late 1936 when he gave up the throne of England to marry Wallis Simpson. He was born at White Lodge, Richmond Parks, June 23, 1894. Becoming a midshipman after studies at the Royal Naval College, he later went to Oxford, but his course there was interrupted by World War I, in which he served on the continent. After the war, he, as Prince of Wales, went as his country's good-will emissary to all parts of the world. Succeeding to the throne when his father died, he reigned from Jan. 20 to Dec. 11, 1936, the shortest reign in nearly five centuries.

Amherst Returns to League Play

ABILENE, April 16—McMurtry College's cindermen tackle their first out-of-state meet for this season, running in the Kansas Relays at Lawrence Saturday.

Before returning, the Indians will compete in the Drake Relays at Des Moines April 28.

These will be McMurtry's final meets before the Texas Conference Meet here May 10 and 11. Last week Vernon Hilliard's Indians defeated Texas Tech for second place behind Abilene Christians at their annual triangular meet in Lubbock.

McMurtry holds a 97-29 triumph over Texas Christian University of the Southwest Conference.

A—No. Under present laws, all GI Bill benefits will have expired before your release from active service. The deadline for unemployment and self-employment allowance is July 25, 1952; for education and training, July 25, and for GI loans, July 25, 1957. Veterans who enlisted or re-enlisted under the Voluntary Recruitment Act (between October 6, 1945 and October 5, 1946) are exempted from the deadlines, but the exemptions would not apply in your case.

Q—Where do I apply for institutional on-farm training under the GI Bill?

A—Apply directly to the school in your locality approved to offer the training. The school then will transmit your application to VA for approval of the agency.

FINISHES ADD CHARM

Special finishes are adding to the charm of many cotton fabrics this season. Resin finishes heighten resistance to wrinkling, soiling and spotting, thus cutting down the frequency of washing and ironing. Permanent finishes for such fabrics or plishes and cloques hold for the life of the cloth and eliminate the need for starching. Some finishes add sheen and other special effects to cotton materials.

Club Women Present "High Style Around The World" at Country Club Wednesday

A unique and interesting style show, "High Style Around the World," was presented by members of the Literary Department of the Woman's club Wednesday afternoon at Littlefield Country Club. Mrs. R. W. Badger and Mrs. W. G. Street were co-hostesses. Guests included members of the different departments of the Woman's Club.

Mrs. Roy McQuatters was narrator, with two local "travellers," Mrs. L. L. Massengill and Mrs. Mary Ruff, taking an imaginary air plane trip to all parts of the globe.

NEW YORK

In make believe, leaving Littlefield, the "travellers" went to New York, for a fashion study tour in our own country. In New York, most dresses, coats, and accessories originate—filled with shops where clothes can be found to satisfy all feminine desires; a city of bright lights, noise crowded subways and night clubs.

But fashion is a live and important thing in Littlefield, just as it is in New York. A large and highly important industry.

In the style show, modeling New York fashions were Mrs. Charles P. Pharris—looking smart and sophisticated in a black crepe dress and large picture hat; Mrs. Jay S. Fikes modeled a little afternoon dress of orchid pique, and white pique hat; while Mrs. Albert Lockwood showed off a plaid wool suit, with harmonizing accessories.

New York has three main and distinct shopping centers. Each model was as different from the other as the people who frequent those different centers. The first model had pretense to visit 57th Street, and 5th Avenue, where she shopped in a luxurious specialty shop, patronized by society women, actresses and career women.

Mrs. Fikes also probably visited the 5th Avenue downtown section where the club woman and the rising career girl buy their wardrobes. These stores cater to all income levels, but particularly to the women of middle and upper bracket income. Mrs. Lockwood portraying the third metropolitan shopper visited main Street Manhattan, the shopping mecca for the "Little Nell". Here are the world's largest department stores covering whole city blocks.

Hawaii

In Make-believe Hawaii, the "Travelers" saw hula costumes, modeled by Mrs. Jay S. Fikes and Mrs. John E. Driskell, who portrayed a hula folk dance. Mrs. Doc Wright sang "Aloha Oh Farewell to Thee," accompanied by Mrs. Truman Jones.

Hollywood

Littlefield

Returning to Littlefield, the "travelers" were happy to be back home again. The narrator told the audience, that the first time you go out in the streets of Littlefield you will be impressed with the well dressed look achieved by the local business women, and that here also you will find the newest modes so recently seen in Paris—goodlooking serviceable clothing, priced to suit every purse as a part of our American way of life.

Tea

Following the show, refreshments were served to approximately 60 ladies, from a table laid with a hand embroidered cloth, centered with an arrangement of red carnations. Punch, dainty cakes, nuts and mints were served.

splendor constitute the charm of Japan, but the magic of Japan lies in its beauty... that this is a nation of gentle beauty, loving people, of cherry blossoms, wisteria, Chrysanthemums and Ming trees.

Mrs. W. D. T. Storey, Mrs. C. O. Stone and Mrs. C. S. Duncan modeled native costumes. The narrator stated these costumes were gradually being replaced by western style dress. She said the kimono is the national dress, but that they are scarce, hard to get and expensive.

In Make-believe Hawaii, the "Travelers" saw hula costumes, modeled by Mrs. Jay S. Fikes and Mrs. John E. Driskell, who portrayed a hula folk dance. Mrs. Doc Wright sang "Aloha Oh Farewell to Thee," accompanied by Mrs. Truman Jones.

Both styles are available in wide ranges of exotic decorator colors such as sunshine gold, peach bloom and cinnamon. Best of all, many types of cotton rugs are now available in wall-to-wall carpeting and in room sizes as well as in scatter rugs and smaller sizes. In addition, most of the new cotton rugs are easily washable, color-fast and pre-shrunk. Many feature late backings which prevent the rugs from skidding and slipping.

Accent Rugs Find Many Uses

Cotton accent rugs are in demand for many uses in the home this season.

Some homemakers like to use the small size rugs for entrance mats. They serve a double purpose, adding a touch of color and variety and also preventing the tracking of dust through the room.

Others use the small sizes as sun porch rugs. Some home decorators have found it a smart idea to use scatter rugs to prevent excessive wear on heavy traffic spots on floors and more expensive rugs.

Women Change Tastes in Color

Women's taste in colors are eccentric.

Recently a group of market research interviewers made an interesting discovery about women and color while they were making a study of cotton rugs. They found that shades women favor in fashions one year become the colors they prefer in cotton rugs about two seasons later.

Be that as it may, this year there is a trend to richer, deeper tones in cotton rugs. This trend is credited to the fact that cotton floor coverings are being used as frequently today in living rooms and dining rooms as they are in bedrooms.

This season designers have borrowed every shade from the artist's palette to weave into the luxurious textures of the new cotton rugs.

Interior decorators report that gray is still holding its own as the favorite rug shade, with the

Preserve That Flavor In Coffee

Since coffee is a favorite beverage in most American homes, home management specialist with the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service state that the coffee maker is important and it should have good care.

The home management specialists warn that good coffee can be made only in a clean coffee maker. After each use, wash the coffee maker with hot water and soap or other dishwashing detergent and rinse with clear water. A brush is a handy tool for reaching parts difficult to clean by hand. If stains appear they should be removed by methods recommended for the particular metal of which the coffee maker is made.

In choosing a coffee maker, specialists advise looking for one convenient to use and the right size for the family. When company comes coffee can be made twice or a larger coffee maker can be kept in reserve for such an occasion.

The handle should be comfortable to hold and placed so that the coffee may be poured easily. The top should be constructed so that it will not fall off easily. A lip or spout with a sharp point facilitates pouring and likely will not drip. Seams or crevices should be avoided because they collect sediment which becomes rancid and gives an off-flavor to coffee.

gunmetal tones especially popular. Green shade has captured first place. A brand new, serviceable color called copper has won favor with both decorators and home owners, for it is in keeping with the current trend to cocoa and brown in decorating schemes.

Snowy Shorties Mark Chi Lady

In olden times gloves were the mark of a lady. No lady would venture out of her home with bare hands.

Today, though a lady isn't ostracized for failing to cover her hands, white cotton shorty gloves mark a fashionable lady.

The trim little gloves, snowy white, add the finishing touch of chic to a smart outfit this season.

It's a Family Affair!

Fashion is a family affair this summer, with many children's cotton frocks being designed for big and little sister combinations, and mother styles frequently thrown in for good measure.

Look-alike cotton sundresses and afternoon frocks are appealing both to the small fry and grown-up glamour girls.

The masculine side of the family follows the distaff's lead, with many father-son sports cotton outfits on the fashion scene. Brother-sister sets complete the family fashion group.

American Heads Ethiopian State Bank

ADDIS—(AP)—For the second time since Ethiopia established her new currency in 1945, an American's name is appearing on all paper notes circulating in the country.

The name is that of Jack Bennett, (Washington D. C.), former U. S. Treasury official and later financial adviser on the staff of General Lucius D. Clay in the American Zone of Germany.

Crisp new paper bills just put into circulation now bear his signature. Bennett is governor of the State Bank of Ethiopia. This is the bank of issue of all Ethiopian legal tender. The first American's name to appear on Ethiopian paper money was that of George Blowers, former head of the Bank of Monrovia (Liberia) and governor of the State Bank of Ethiopia until 1945.

All of Ethiopia's paper money is printed by the Security Bank Note Company of Philadelphia. The metal coins also are minted in the United States.

12,000 Airmen Now Attend 115 Services

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., April 21—The men of the U. S. Air Force are turning to religion. An average of 12,000 airmen now attend the 115 services offered by Lackland Air Force Base chaplains in the ten chapels on the base. There are more than 30 chaplains, representing all faiths. So that all can attend, Sunday services are held from early morning until late evenings. Because the chapels won't hold the crowds, two theaters and a large assembly tent are used for religious services. More than a thousand men confer personally with chaplains each week.

If Your System Lacks Vitamins B₁, B₁₂, Niacin and Iron, Which HADACOL Contains

When a nasty cold leaves you in a weakened and run-down condition, HADACOL can help build you up if your system is lacking in Vitamins B₁, B₁₂, Niacin and Iron, important elements contained in HADACOL. Many folks have found that this formula helps overcome these deficiencies and soon they feel again.

Mrs. A. Jimenez, 141 East 13th St., Port Arthur, Texas, gave HADACOL to her young son, Floyd, after he had recovered from a bad cold when she heard how HADACOL was helping folks suffering from deficiencies of Vitamins B₁, B₁₂, Niacin and Iron. It helped him so much in regaining his strength and energy that Mrs. Jimenez says she is always going to have HADACOL on hand for Floyd.

Here is Mrs. Jimenez's statement: "My son Floyd was very subject to colds. He's eleven years old, and he was run-down, didn't seem to have an appetite at all, and just simply lacked energy. I heard about HADACOL on the radio, and it was about this time that Floyd was just recovering from a stage bad cold. He was very run-down, lacked an appetite, and I started giving him HADACOL. After about a bottle and a half, Floyd could notice an improvement. His appetite picked up and he increased strength. I had HADACOL has done wonders for Floyd, and I praise it enough. I have continued to give him HADACOL, and intend to have it on hand for the future."

SPORTS

National League Born of Desperation Quarters of a Century Ago

FRANK ECK Features Sports Editor
The National League's predecessor, in 1874-75. The practice was indulged in by club officials as well as players, says a clipping on file in the baseball archives of New York's Public Library. A character known as Boss Tweed of Tammany Hall owned the New York Mutuals. This newspaper account said all the Eastern Clubs from 1870 to 1876, with perhaps the exception of Boston, were making money in questionable ways.

Travel Like Princes
"These clubs," continued the report, "travel from city to city like princes; sport diamonds; pay hundreds of dollars for board bill in a day; have champagne every time they sit down to dinner, and carry rolls of bills as thick as your arm."
Western backers of the National Association were disgruntled at conditions during this mustachioed era. Only seven of the 13 Association clubs finished the season. Many clubs lost money for their backers and drunkenness prevailed among many teams.
(FIRST OF A SERIES)
Something had to be done to get the sport on better footing. And William A. Hulbert, a Chicago businessman about to become president of the Chicago White Stockings, was the man to do it.

An Offer Made
When Boston's four-time association champions visited Chicago late in the 1875 season, Hulbert, then 44, approached Pitcher Albert Goodwill Spalding, ace of the Red Stockings—and incidentally, their only pitcher. Hulbert offered A. G. the then fabulous sum of $4,000 to leave Boston and join Chicago for the 1876 season.
Spalding accepted. Hulbert also signed Cal McVey, Ross Barnes and Jim White, the rest of Boston's Big Four. Along with this fine nucleus, Hulbert lined up Adrian (Cap) Anson from Philadelphia for $2,000.
The contract jumpers—it was illegal then to sign with another club before the end of the season—were expelled from the Association.
Hulbert's Plans Revealed
However, Hulbert had another ace up his long sleeve. He wrote the owners of the Cincinnati, St. Louis and Louisville teams in the west, inviting them to a conference in Louisville. He unfolded his plans "which would pull the game out of the disgrace into which it had been pulled by Eastern gamblers."

A few days later, Hulbert and Charles A. Fowle of St. Louis met in that city and rewrote the constitution and by-laws.
Hulbert then wrote the Boston, Philadelphia, New York. Not until the meeting did the Eastern backers realize they were to sit down with the idea of forming the National League.
"A storm then ensued," to quote a yellowed clipping.
The Eastern clubs refused at first to join the new league, but they finally surrendered when the west announced it would play in the new circuit, even if only with four teams. Before the meeting adjourned all eight teams—Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Louisville, New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Hartford—had signed the constitution and the National League was born.

athletes were used up when Brooklyn sent him to Mobile in 1946.
Manager Charley Dressen thinks King might be the answer to his relief pitching problem. Thus, at 25, King is making a comeback. He won't be 26 until May 23.
After three years at North Carolina, King reported directly to Brooklyn at the age of 18. He came here with a little black bag which bore the label: "Beat Duke."

The story went that King left his home at Goldsboro, N. C., in a hurry, borrowed a friend's bag and used it just for his shaving equipment. But King is a grown married man now and he's willing to admit the story was one of his own concoctions.
"It was my own bag," says the scholarly Clyde. "I left in a hurry all right, as any college kid would."

"It's around the horn when the Bajo hitter gets an Arlie Latham the ash heap fouled up."
Chances are you won't be reading anything like this come baseball season. Sports writers have switched to the English language in recent years, but this is a part of the colorful talk of baseball.

Translated it means: A side-arm curve was pitched to the batter with the count 3 and 2. The batter, who can't hit a long ball, hits a ball to an infielder with a nice easy hop but a rough infield turns it into an error.
There are some fascinating phrases in baseball's vocabulary. For instance:

- Apple comes up—Falls in pinch (shallows his adams apple)
- Baltimore Chop—Bouncer that hits the late and bounces high in the air.
- Batsey—Veteran player who has seen his best days.
- Big Tent—Major leagues.
- Bill Klem—Person who is never wrong.
- Bleeder—Scratchy single.
- Boneyard—Last resting place for washed up pitchers
- Box-car Town—Extra small town, usually for exhibition games.
- Busher—Raw recruit
- Can of Corn—High, lazy fly
- Chicagoed—Old term for shut-out
- Cigar Box—Small field
- Coffee and Cake—Low pay
- Cunnythump—Player who is awkward, all thumbs, in fielding ball
- Dick Smith—Player who keeps to himself and never treats
- Hogan's Brickyard—Rough diamond
- Jesse James—Any umpire
- Old Rubber Belly—Veteran player with bulging waistline
- Rabbit Ears—Player who tries to hear everything said about him
- Tree Full of Owls—Smart fellow who says little and looks wise
- Willie Keller—"Hit 'em where they ain't," coined by Keller

Basketball is Most Popular Sport in America
Statistics prove that basketball is the most popular sport in America, though this might be subject to a little static in New York City now.
No one to dispute statistics—for figures do not lie—it would seem the Southwest, or more rightly, Texas, might not be aware of the fact.
This is reasoned by a look at the winners of the annual sports awards voted by Texas sports writers. Just one basketball coach—O. P. Adams of Lon Morris Junior College—has ever won one. As a matter of fact, no one else but football coaches, players, or referees have won anything.
The top award, "The Southwesterner of the Year," has gone to two University of Texas coaches—Dana X. Bible and Blair Cherry—to two Southern Methodist University football players—Gil Johnson and Kyle Rote—and to a football referee, Jack Sisco.
It is interesting to note that the Oklahoma-Texas football game has been the reason for two awards.
Sisco won it for his conduct after the 1947 game, when a near riot resulted over a decision by the referee, and for his forthright statements about "soreheaded" fans the remainder of the season.
Cherry was honored this year for his conduct after the Oklahoma-Texas game, when the grandstand critics howled because the Longhorns didn't win.
Feeling was so high after the 1947 game, that much talk was heard of transferring the tilt from Dallas and putting it on a home and home basis. Such talk has long since died, and supporters of both institutions are just as glad nothing ever came of it.
It does point up the fact that this game is probably the high

"Poor Man's Konstanty May Be Dodgers' King"

By FRANK ECK

AP Newfeatures Sports Editor
BROOKLYN, N. Y.—Clyde Edward King, bespectacled right handed pitcher, has made the Brooklyn Dodgers for the fifth time. He was up in '44, '45, '47 and '48—and now he's back.
You might call him the "poor man's Jim Konstanty."
Konstanty, too, had a job crashing the majors. He had two flings with the Reds and a couple of cups of coffee with the Braves and was at Toronto when Eddie Sawyer brought about the rejuvenation to make him the best relief pitcher in major league history.
It's a bit different with King. He has always been a Dodger, either with the varsity or in the chain at Richmond, Mobile or Montreal. They never gave up on him although the options on the ex-university of North Carolina spot of the Southwest football season, though you'll get argument from those who point to the SMU-Texas; Texas-Texas A and M; and SMU-TCU games.

But for sustained interest, you can't beat the Longhorn-Sooner tilt and Ed Price, the new University of Texas football coach, is no doubt thinking about it.
This year's game will have both teams running off the split T formation. But you'll be able to tell which is which quite easily, and not because one is dressed in orange and the other in cardinal.

April 30 Deadline For Compliance With OPS For Cafes, Groceries, Many Others

Three large groups of retail establishments—restaurants, groceries and consumer goods outlets which are subject to Ceiling Price Regulation 7—face deadlines for compliance with Office of Price Stabilization regulations on April 30.

A reminder of the deadlines came this week from W. Victor Womack, regional price executive for OPS in Dallas.

The deadlines affect 32,000 restaurants, 51,000 groceries and approximately 31,000 other consumer goods outlets in Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas and Oklahoma.

Here is the way each of these types of establishments is affected:

Restaurants, soda fountains and other food and drink establishments—By April 30 they must file base period statements of food cost per dollar of sales with their district OPS offices.

Groceries—Must have their ceiling prices in effect by April 30. Also, by April 28 they must notify OPS what category, based on 1950 gross sales volume, they are in: Independent stores with less than $75,000; independent with $75,000 to $375,000; non-independent with less than $375,000 or a retail store, independent or otherwise, with $375,000 or more.

Sellers of CPR 7 items—Must file pricing charts by April 30. Many merchants not originally affected by Regulation 7 now are affected. About 15 new items were placed under the regulation two weeks ago. Sellers of the new items must be in compliance by April 30, along with those originally affected. Wormack said.

Items under Regulation 7 now include musical instruments, radio and television sets, phonographs and records, housewares, garden tools, light hardware, some paper products, notions, luggage, sporting goods, silverware, chinaware, glassware, jewelry, watches, clocks, and other items. Wearing apparel, floor coverings, furniture, specialty shop items and certain other merchandise have been under the order since it was first issued.

Merchants should send their price lists to the district OPS office serving their areas. Womack said. District offices are located in Fort Worth, Houston, San Antonio, Lubbock, Oklahoma City, Tulsa, Little Rock, Shreveport and New Orleans. Northeast Texas merchants are still being served directly by the regional office in Dallas.

but the bag contained my clothing. I was too young to shave."

In 1944, King's first year up he had a 2-1 record with the Dodgers before being shipped to Richmond where he won six of nine decisions.

In 1945 he was back with Brooklyn and split 10 verdicts. The following year at Mobile he had a 13-9 mark. On the strength of this he made the Havana training camp in 1947.

It was there that Branch Rickey remarked:

"King is the most likely of our young pitchers to succeed. His head, at 22, is two years ahead of his arm."

That season King had a 6-5 record with Brooklyn.

That was a good year for King. He compiled a streak of 31 straight

FFA Banquet

This was the highlight event of the year for the Future Farmer, boy organization, whose membership grows with each succeeding year. Each boy was proud to be accompanied by one or both of his parents, as guests, by brothers, sisters, or by especially invited guest from outside the family. They looked proud, they acted proud and they had ample reason to feel proud, of their work, their achievements through an active year, and proud again that night in the tastefully and appropriately decorated banquet hall.

As the guests were seated, all officers had assumed their stations. They include: Eldon Gohlike, president; Burley Faver, vice president; Don Lynskey, secretary; Jimmy Bitner, treasurer; Ethel Macha, reporter; Roger Sell, Parliamentarian; Robert Lunsford, sentinel; Clinton Byers, historian; Melvin Mears, 2nd vice-president; Donnie Rogers, 3rd vice-president; W. W. Hall, Advisor.

Also seated at stations of lesser import, were the Junior officers, which include: Ernest Gohlike, Edward Brantley, J. Cunningham, Barton Spencer, Doyle Gunningham, Wheeler, Jackie Price, Alvis Grove, Earl Simpson, Boyd Mears and Bill Brantley.

All officers of both the Senior and Junior FFA had speaking parts on the program, which included short ceremonies before the serving of the banquet and the major portion of the program, followed the serving.

The banquet menu was beautifully served and consisted of Fried Chicken, gravy, creamed potatoes, English peas, vegetable salad, hot rolls, butter, cherry pie a la mode and iced tea.

The program from first to last was outstanding, but a high point was reached when President and secretary announced the election of two new honorary members, Supt. Joe Hutchinson, and principal Troy Armes, and they were installed and proudly made members.

Future Farmers of America, of its Littlefield Chapter has held an annual banquet for more than a dozen years past, but certainly none of its predecessors has been more successful than this week's event.

Much credit goes to all of the boys, to the officers, but probably even as much or more should go to W. W. Hall, advisor, and leader of the group. As their leader and as Vocational Agricultural teacher at Littlefield schools, he has the boys love and respect, and is doing an outstanding job and the achievement awards which the group has attained, and holds, are quite proof of success and progress.

The program rendered during the evening was as follows:

- Invocation—J. C. Hutchinson
- Opening Ceremony—Officers
- Toastmaster—Burley Faver
- Welcome Address—Roger Sell
- Response—Ernest Sell
- Recognition of Guests—Toastmaster
- Music—Keith Streeby and Barbara Ferguson

scoreless innings in relief and had a 2.76 earned run mark. His only starting assignments came during the last three weeks and he beat Ewell Blackwell, 8-1, and Dave Koslo, 2-1.

In 1948, King didn't have it. He appeared in nine games for the Dodgers, failed to win and lost once.

month ago and was taking a refresher training course.

Before his recall to duty, he was employed by H. N. Roberts and Associates, Lubbock engineering firm.

Ligon, on whose farm the crash occurred less than one-half mile from his house, was the first to the scene of the crash. He said the plane had been going through "routine maneuvers at a height of from 1,000 to 1,500 feet" and suddenly went into a "diving spin" from which it never recovered.

The plane crashed almost straight into the ground, with the head of the fuselage and right wing striking first. The tail section apparently never touched the ground. The propeller and engine were completely buried by the impact.

Victims Trapped in Plane

Both victims were pinned in their cockpits and workmen cut metal for nearly two hours before freeing the men. A crowd of several score people gathered at the scene.

Death of the two men marked the first fatal crash of a training plane from RAFB since the base was re-activated in September, 1949. Members of the 3500th Pilot Training wing at the base had flown 102,147 flying hours during that time without a fatality of officials said.

Legion said he hurried to the scene of Thursday's crash as soon as he saw the plane hit the ground. He was joined almost immediately by Virgil Teague, another farmer living nearby, who had been informed of the crash by a Latin American hired hand. Teague did not see the crash but had observed the plane minutes before.

Both Ligon and Teague said the plane seemed to be in normal flight up to the instant it went into the ill-fated dive. A watch on one of the victims was stopped at 1:36. Partly cloudy skies and moderate winds were the weather conditions in the area at the time of the crash.

Investigation Is Set

"The plane took six or eight turns in the air," Ligon said.

A board of qualified officers was appointed to investigate the cause of the crash. In charge of the immediate investigation at the scene was Capt. Robert Tyrell, operations office at the base, who reported there were no apparent causes.

"We may never know the cause," he said.

Bibles Presented

In presenting the 183 Bibles, Commander Rutherford said:

"Our organization is made up entirely of men who have faced death in mortal combat with our nation's enemies on foreign soil, in the air and at sea. These men often needed and implored the help of the Almighty, and know better than any other group, perhaps, the necessity of Divine guidance.

"As state commander of this grand group of men it gives me great pleasure to present the members of the 52nd Texas Legislature these Holy Bibles, and it is our sincerest wish that you use the Bibles as intended and that you refer to the teachings of the Great Master and follow his guidance in debating and determining the important issues that will confront this august body."

In accepting the Bibles for the Senate, Mr. Ramsey said: "It is most thoughtful of the VFW and I know that all our members will sincerely appreciate this gift from your grand organization."

Speaker Senterfitt, a past commander of VFW Post No. 1276, San Saba, said, "I do not know of a finer gesture than this, and I am confident that members of this Legislature and those of future legislatures will treasure their copies of the greatest of all books."

Governor Shivers was equally appreciative and thanked Commander Rutherford for the Bible presented to the governor's office.

The Bibles are permanent property of the House and Senate, and will remain at assigned desks for future members of the State's law making bodies.

Lettered in gold on the front cover of each Bible is "Presented by the Department of Texas, Veterans of Foreign Wars," and inside the front cover is provided a place for signatures of those using the Bibles during the 52nd and through the 62nd sessions of the Texas Legislature.

An all-around athlete, he entered track meet competition, and placed second at the regional interscholastic league in his junior year.

In addition, all through his school years, or since his seventh year in school, he has found time to work before and after school hours and on Saturdays, and his earnings have financed his personal expenses, and provided savings. For the past two years, he has been employed at The Food Basket in Littlefield, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Anzeline, who speak more than highly of him.
