Mancil Hall Second Lieut. In Air Corps

Mancil Hall, owner and operator of the Hall Motor Company, Ford dealers, announced Tuesday receipt of a wire from the War Department, Washington, notifying him of his appointment as second Lieutenant in the Air Corps, and ordering him to report to Randolph Field, San Antonio, Friday, for duty.

Mr. Hall stated that he hoped the company will be permitted to continue operation under other management, but that it will not be fully determined until he is assigned to duty, as it will be necessary to abide by military regulations.

Mr. Hall has been a resident, and been operating the Hall Motor Company for the past seven years, having purchased the business from the Griffin-Chesher Company on May 29, 1935, opening for business on June 1. A strange coincidence is that it is seven years to a day from the time he bought the Hall Motor Company to the time he is leaving for military duty.

Mrs. Hall and daughter, Diane, will remain here for the present.

Post Office Open On Memorial Day

The local post office will remain open all day Memorial Day, Saturday, May 30. The rural and star routes will not run, as is their usual custom on Memorial Day.

Special Drive On July 1 For Sale Of War Stamps, Bonds

Concerns Urged To Suspend Business 15 Minutes On That Day

Littlefield will join the nation in its drive on Wednesday, July 1, designed to help the Treasury reach its war bond sale goal of $1,000,000,000 in July, when all retail establishments are urged by B. H. Namm, chairman of Retail Advisory Committee of Washington, D. C., to suspend all sales or services between 12 noon to 12:15 p. m. on that day and devote this period to the sale of war stamps and bonds.

The Littlefield Chamber of Commerce received a telegram Tuesday from Washington asking that Littlefield merchants suspend sales and service for 15 minutes on July 1, for the purpose of selling defense bonds and stamps, and E. C. Cundiff, Secretary, wired a reply to Mr. Namm's telegram, stating that this city would cooperate. Mr. Cundiff is, therefore, contacting all business establishments in an effort to have them cooperate 100 per cent in this war effort.

Program Honoring Boys In Service To Be June 11

The patriotic program, sponsored by the Rotary Club, and honoring the men in service from this county, which had been originally scheduled for this Thursday night has been postponed until the night of June 11.

Attempts are being made to secure an out of town speaker for this program, which will be held in the high school auditorium, but no announcement as to who it will be has been made yet.

E. A. Bills is chairman of the committee in charge of this program, and of the other programs, which will be held once each month during the summer.

War Dept. Reports Lloyd Reid Missing

Word was received here this week by Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Reid that their son, Lloyd, who was either on Batuan or at Corregidor at the time of their capture, was considered missing in action.

His whereabouts is not known, nor is it known whether he is a prisoner of war or not. The letter they received from the War Department simply states that all men who were in the Philippines at the time of the fall of Batuan and Corregidor will be considered missing in action until some word is received through the Red Cross from Japanese authorities.

Lloyd has been in the Coast Artillery since a year ago last March, having left Littlefield at that time.

Bond Sales Show Increase For May

Bond sales by the local post office showed an increase of $4,000 during the month of May. During April $12,500 in bonds and stamps were sold, and $16,500 worth were sold during May. This increase is due to the drives which were put on in the city by the Bond Sales Committee, and in the rural communities by the AAA.

The Red Cross Disaster Service has been particularly active in the last 45 days. Since April 2, relief to sufferers from floods and tornadoes has been given to affected families in 60 counties spreading over nine states: Colorado, Illinois, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Texas, and Wisconsin.

In this period disasters have occurred at the rate of more than one every two days. In all disasters the Red Cross is providing the necessary assistance to the affected families.

These reports were contained in a letter from the manager of Disaster Relief Operations of the American Red Cross in St. Louis, Mo., to the chairman of the local Red Cross, F. A. Hemphill.

Of local interest is the report on the tornado at Crowell, Texas, in which 10 persons were killed, 125 injured, and 425 families affected. All were given assistance by the Red Cross.

Hockley County Man Suffers Gun Shot Wounds Fri. Night

D. G. Boyce, Step-Father, Arrested And Released On $3000 Bond Saturday

The condition of John L. Perry, 18, is reported slightly improved by the Payne-Shotwell Hospital, where he has been confined since Friday night in a critical condition with a rifle bullet hole through his chest. However, an attending physician states the youth is still in a critical condition.

The shooting is reported to have taken place about 8 o'clock Friday night at the D. G. Boyce farm home, in the Oklahoma Flats Community south of Littlefield, and 11 miles north of Levelland.

At Levelland, Sheriff Ed Hofack of Hockley county said D. G. Boyce, 45, step-father of young Perry, surrendered to him and Deputy W. C. Rogers when their cars met north of the Hockley county seat.

The attending physician said one slug entered the youth's right chest in the upper region and emerged from his body after ranging downward from the back.

Mrs. Boyce took young Perry, her son by a previous marriage to the hospital.

The Hockley County Sheriff said Boyce related the following story:

The two men had been planting cotton on the Boyce farm today and were starting to a nearby grocery store when young Perry proposed that Boyce go to Berger for Perry's bride of a few weeks.

Boyce explained that the crop planting required both him and his step-son, at least for a few days. A quarrel that ensued resulted in a fist fight at the side of the road, he said.

Summer Session At Local School

Summer school began with 30 Littlefield students on Monday of this week. Classes are meeting from 8 to 12 a. m. and courses in physics, plane geometry, Texas history, American history, and algebra are being offered. If the demand is great enough, other courses will be added later. Summer school will continue for eight weeks.

Classes are also being taught at night from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock in typing and shorthand by Arnold Richards, Commercial teacher of the Littlefield schools. Classes are open to everyone and are made up of about 60 per cent adults.

Summer projects in Homemaking which count a half a credit in high school work are being carried on between the hours of 4 and 6 p. m. under the supervision of Miss Katie Stith, Homemaking teacher. She also teaches a course in Home Nursing for girls 17 years and older who have finished the Sophomore year in high school.

PHYSICIAN IS MAKING BRAVE FIGHT FOR LIFE

Condition of Littlefield Doctor, Who Sustained Two Bullet Wounds When He Answers Midnight Call, Reported Improved Late Wednesday Night; Dr. W. R. Newton, Cameron, and Mrs. Newton, Accused of Shooting, At Liberty on Bond; Talk of Calling Special Session of Grand Jury.

The calling of a special session of the district court grand jury, to act on the Hunt case, was under consideration Wednesday.

Sheriff Sam Hutson left today (Thursday) for Cameron to make certain investigations in connection with the case. Cameron is the home city of Dr. W. R. Newton, and Mrs. Newton, charged with the shooting of Dr. Hunt.

Mystery continues as to a motive for the shooting of Dr. Roy E. Hunt, 35-year-old Littlefield physician. Police are conducting a vigorous investigation.

Dr. Hunt is making a valiant fight for recovery in a patient room in the Littlefield Hospital and Clinic, of which he is one of the owners.

Dr. W. R. Newton and his wife, Ruth Newton, of Cameron, Texas, charged with the shooting of Dr. Hunt, are at liberty on bond, $15,000 set by the court as the surety for the liberty of the physician, and $10,000 for the freedom of Mrs. Newton.

Condition Reported Favorable
Dr. Hunt's superior physique, together with the combined efforts of members of the medical fraternity, are providing for the Littlefield physician the long end in his fight for recovery.

At a late hour Wednesday night of this week the doctor's condition was reported as favorable.

With two bullets through his body, either one of which could have proved fatal, Dr. Hunt ran and crawled from his assailants in the density of midnight Wednesday of last week three miles from Littlefield east on Highway 7; made his way back to his automobile; piloted his machine to the Littlefield Hospital; directed the nurses on night duty as to first aid treatment, and as he lay on the operating table of his own hospital, where he had performed so many operations, discussed with fellow physicians the nature of his wounds and co-operated with them in their efforts to save his life.

Indignation High Over Shooting
Indignation is high over the shooting of Dr. Hunt, and hundreds of inquiries have poured into the Littlefield Hospital inquiring as to the physician's condition.

Dr. Hunt, within a short time after receiving treatment at the Littlefield Hospital, was, according to police, able to gasp out the name of a man and woman whom he declared were his assailants.

Dr. Hunt has informed Sheriff Sam Hutson, and other law enforcement officers, that he has no knowledge of a motive for the shooting.

Dr. and Mrs. Newton, when questioned by a representative of the press at the Littlefield jail Saturday, refused to discuss the case. Emory B. Camp of Cameron, their

Littlefield Baseball Club Defeat Oklahoma Flat 13-8

The newly organized Littlefield baseball club, paced by the heavy hitting of Virgil Ward, defeated the Oklahoma Flats team by a count of 13-8 on the Littlefield diamond Sunday afternoon. Ward collected two singles, a double and a triple in four trips to the plate, and sparked the Wildcats to a comparatively easy victory.

Rufus Williams was reported to have hurled the entire game for the locals with Burton behind the bat. Batteries for the visiting team was not learned.

$137,000,000,000 For War

Just to keep the record straight—the total amount spent or appropriated for this war now totals $137,000,000,000, or just about $1,000 for every man, woman and child in the United States.

Before Pearl Harbor the total was $64,000,000—and there was a lot of news and fanfare about each bill which was passed to reach that total.

Since Pearl Harbor, many of us sort of lost track of expenses and, with very little ceremony, congress passed additional measures totaling $73,000,000,000.

Those numbers are so big that they are meaningless to most of us. But we realize that, whatever they mean, most of them have to be approved to get the equipment necessary for assuring victory in this war. There may be a good deal of waste and unnecessary expense, but, to speed production to the limit, the appropriations have to be made and their expenditures analyzed afterward.

For those who like to give some attention to the use which is being made of these billions, here is a brief analysis of how our government is spending this huge war chest:

- $32,500,000,000 for ordnance
- $27,000,000,000 for airplanes and parts.
- $15,000,000,000 for naval ships.
- $8,000,000,000 for merchant ships.
- $14,000,000,000 for industrial production facilities.
- $18,000,000,000 for munitions and supplies.
- $7,000,000,000 for camps and fortifications.
- $4,000,000,000 for paying armed forces.
- $6,000,000,000 for building a stockpile of needed materials.
- $1,500,000,000 for housing.
- $5,000,000,000 for miscellaneous.

These figures include $18,000,000,000 for lease-lend funds and $6,000,000,000 on commitments of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

That's a brief story of the cost of war—and that may just be the beginning.

UNREST IN EUROPE

Germany has seen the close of the worst winter since 1918—a winter of privation, hardship and suffering.

The people of Italy are ready to aid the cause of the United Nations on the day American and British troops land on Italy's soil.

But it would be a mistake to assume that either the Fascists or Nazi are on the verge of collapse or revolution.

Such were the views of American diplomats, news and radio correspondents who arrived in Lisbon, Portugal, en route to the United States, following arrangements for exchanging them with Axis representatives in this country.

Hitler's declaration of war upon the United States was the greatest blunder of his career, according to the internees, who had spent five months as involuntary "guests" of Germany. After convincing his people that Germany's enemies were the aggressor nations, and that the conflict would end in 1941, Hitler did the unbelievable by declaring war on a nation who had a very convincing role in ending the first World war—disastrously for the Fatherland.

The German people are afraid history will repeat itself. They know that no other nation can match America in war production. They know, too, that Germany's leaders do not have the confidence they had a year ago. This was evidenced by Propaganda Minister Gobbels' Christmas Eve speech. He admitted that traditional Yule gifts were scarce and that all available supplies had been sent to the Russian front.

Then he warned the people not to forsake their army officials and soldiers as they did back in 1918.

Observers noted that this was extremely poor psychology. Just a few days after the declaration of war on the United States, Herr Gobbels admitted the possibility of a repetition of the 1918 defeat.

Repatriated correspondents point out that Adolf Hitler's greatest blunder may turn out to be his last blunder.

Allred Outlines His Platform In U. S. Senate Race

JAMES V. ALLRED

All-out support of the war effort, benefits to men in service and "planning now" for the readjustment to come after the war were set forth in the platform of James V. Allred in filing for a place on the ballot as candidate for Junior United States senator.

Allred's platform calls for uninterrupted production of war materials 24 hours a day, seven days a week. He said he was against strikes or slowdowns by either capital or labor, unreasonable profits and cartel agreements.

For men in the service, Former Governor Allred proposes insurance without deduction from pay, transportation without cost from the training camp to the nearest town or city, laundry service without cost, employment and educational opportunities upon discharge.

He called for immediate efforts to provide for all persons or concerns dislocated under the war economy and extension of government credit to little businesses thus affected; and after the war a program to provide employment and readjustment to an industrial and agricultural economy.

"We must write and enforce a peace that shall insure our children against the recurrence of the tragedy of war," he said.

Allred opens his speaking campaign with a rally in his home town of Wichita Falls on June 2.

J. I. CARRELL IMPROVED

J. I. Carrell, who suffered a severe asthma attack, and was threatened with pneumonia, is much improved. Mrs. Carrell, who was on a trip to San Bernardino, Cal., visiting their son, Elton, who is in military service, doing police duty, was called home due to her husband's illness, and returned Thursday, Miss Ivadell Carrell, a daughter, also arrived Wednesday. Elton obtained a leave of absence and came to Littlefield Friday. Mr. Carrell is much better and able to be around again.

"HOW GREEN WAS MY VALLEY" WITH WALTER PIDGEON, DONALD CRISP AND MAUREEN O'HARA COMES TO RITZ THEATRE

"How Green Was My Valley" will be featured at the Ritz Theatre Saturday midnight, continuing through Sunday and Monday, which is one of the most faithful transcriptions of the best selling novel yet produced on the screen. Richard Llewellyn's popular novel received adequate treatment from the producers, and all therefore hold a great appeal to the many readers and admirers of the story in book form. For those who have never read the novel, it succeeds in bringing to life a collection of down to earth characters; a realistic portrayal of the life, ups and downs of a small mining community in the heart of Wales, England, which is even now undergoing still more hardships in the form of air raids. A gripping story, stars Walter Pidgeon, as the miner; Maureen O'Hara as the lovely daughter in love with him; young Eddy McDowell as Huw, the young son, by whom the story is re-

"THE SPOILERS" TO BE FEATURED AT PALACE THEATRE THIS WEEK END

"The Spoilers," Rex Beach's immortal saga of the Alaskan gold rush days, is still potent screen entertainment, which will be shown at the Palace Theatre Saturday midnight, continuing through Sunday and Monday.

There is plenty of action, suspense, thrills and a great amount of comedy. The romantic love angle is excellent and the story climaxes in a terrific fight which is a hum-dinger. There is little to choose in defining the best performances of the three stars—suffice to say that all are superb. Marlene Dietrich turns on plenty of glamour in a role that gives her plenty of opportunities. Randolph Scott turns in one of the finest portrayals of his career. He makes a menace role sympathetic and shows plenty of charm to win audience favor. John Wayne delivers an outstanding portrayal and one that will greatly increase his fan popularity. His distinctive acting and interpretation of the role is of the finest. Harry Carey, Richard Barthelme, Margaret Lindsay, Samuel S. Hinds and George Cleveland are all excellent.

BREAK O'DAY IRON

By Reginald Wright Kauffman

NEWS RELEASE

CHAPTER V SYNOPSIS

A man identified as Joseph Slinn is found drowned in the Hudson river near Albany, N. Y. Slinn was insured by the Protective Life Insurance company, and his beneficiary is a man named B. B. Twombly who lives in Troy. The company's Albany agent, Carlin, identifies the body, and the insurance money is paid to Twombly. But Jerry Glidden, suspecting that Slinn was murdered, goes to Albany to investigate. Learning that Carlin has gone to Maine, he goes on to the little Pennsylvania mining town of Ironburg to see an "Angela Slinn." She turns out to be an ugly recluse of a woman who lives in a shack near the abandoned "Break O' Day" iron mine. Rose Walker, granddaughter of the owner of the mine, runs the local store and post office. Jerry goes to Angela Slinn's shack. She denies knowing Joseph Slinn. Later he goes for a swim in the lake formed by water in the old mine pit and narrowly escapes drowning in a swift undercurrent.

His perils weren't yet past. He spent a long and frantic minute seeking some support, and did finally discover an outthrust rock. He drew himself up.

"I wonder," he gasped, "if the late Joseph Slinn felt like I did. In that case—sorry. Drowning's a rotten death."

The valley stretched away with neither house nor man in sight. The turquoise surface of the lake was unruffled.

"I'll bet there's a creek on the other side of here—somewhere back below Ironburg," said Jerry, gradually recovering his breath. "And that's where this underground spring empties. It may rise in a subterranean spring, but it's on its way somewhere, all right."

He was fit at last to regain his clothes. He had to swim across to them—the foot of these cliffs were too steep to furnish means for a shore promenade—and he dreaded committing his body once more to the lake's tender mercies.

However, the thing was accomplished. He dressed and returned upward to the clump of pines beside Angela Slinn's shanty.

The sickly garden parched under the noon sun. The makeshift chimney was still smokeless. The door remained sullenly shut.

He drew back among the trees—was attracted again and irresistibly of that fatal activity going on beneath it. Perhaps not unaccountably—he knew little of such matters—but certainly strange.

The turf, dry grass and tangled weeds, jutted out several feet into the void; but one stunted pine bent forward, appearing to offer some assurance of solidity.

Jerry flung a cautious arm around that thin trunk and leaned beyond it, far over the edge, gazing downward.

Sheer walls, of course. Blue-green water—yes, quite still. Quite still, yet unnaturally vivid. You could nearly believe that it beckoned to you, and that, in involuntary response, you bent toward it. Bent.

A ripping sound. A lunge, head forward. He was falling! From beneath his feet, as he had knelt there, the recently solid seeming earth crumbled away.

He tried to throw himself backward; his clawing shoe tips pawed nothingness. His free hand snatched nothing save thin air. The lake jumped up at him. Then dust filled his mouth, his nose, his eyes.

Then something jerked—wrenched his shoulder. His course was arrested as violently as it had been begun. He blinked upward.

He was holding by one arm to that pine sapling. The sapling held by a few roots to the still unbroken earth just behind the little landslide's starting place.

"Help!" he yelled.

Even now the shale around the roots seemed to be slipping. A handful of powdered earth slipped toward him.

"Help!"

Could the creature in that shack behind the pines hear him? Would she answer if she heard? There was nobody else within a radius of at least a mile. Nobody.

"Hello!"

Underbrush snapped. Footsteps sounded—running.

"Where are you?"

"Here!" No, that was a senseless response; he added: "Here at the edge—falling." His first call had been loud enough; try as he would, their successors sounded in his ears like mere whispers.

"Hurry!"

"Hello!"

The bushes parted. A startled face looked down at him; the flushed face and staring brown eyes of the pretty postmistress from Ironburg.

"Here!" She moved with rapidly, but without panic. To a maturer pine behind her she lashed one end of a rope; its other end she hung toward him.

She was a good marksman. That rope brushed his shoulder, yet he dared use only one hand—must

He was thrown in toward the cliff's face.

Keep his hold of the sapling—and he missed the first catch.

"Don't lose your nerve." She might have been shoveling sugar behind her store counter.

She cast again. No trout fisher could have cast better. He got the rope.

"Will it—hold?"

"It's got to hold."

He released the sapling—none too soon. Exactly as he let go of it, its last root's parted. In a cloud of brown dust and powdered limestone, it hurtled by him. He heard it meet those hungry waters far below.

The rope went taut. He was thrown in toward the cliff's face. His feet scraped its surface and found enough roughness to brace them. Now, then, if only the rope did hold, he was safe.

Hand over hand, he went up the rope—not a great distance to climb, but every inch of it a hazard. He got an arm over that treacherous cliff-lip, and the girl, bracing herself, encircled it with both her hands.

"Don't come too near," she warned her. "It'll—drop you."

"I'm all right."

His fingers knotted around a thorny bush and never felt the pain. One knee up. The other—safe!

"Lie still a minute."

but less so when he observed that Rose Walker showed no scorn of it.

"I ought to do anything you say," he told her. "You saved my life, all right. I don't know how I can ever thank—"

"You haven't any sense." She was scornful enough at the last. "Couldn't you see that the ground was likely to give way?"

"That's so. I guess I haven't much."

"If I hadn't happened to've come out here to get Angela to tend store this afternoon—and if she wasn't sick—and if I hadn't got her bucket and rope and started to draw some water for her . . ."

Rose stopped for want of breath. Jerry nodded.

"Go on," said he. "Scold me some more. I deserve all you can hand me. And—I like to hear you talk."

She gasped at him. "And you call that gratitude!" said she.

"The evidence is all against me, and yet honestly," Jerry grinningly protested, "I wasn't trying to commit suicide."

Rose made him rest while she drew that water for the still invisible Angela and delivered it inside the shack. When Miss Walker had returned and man and girl were strolling toward Ironburg together:

"Is she very sick?" Jerry inquired.

"She seemed ready to take on Joe Louis when I saw her a while ago."

"You've been in there?"

"Been to the door."

"She prefers to be let alone," said Rose. "So do I."

"Then I bet you don't often get what you prefer. They tell me your Miss Slinn—"

"Not mine; not anybody's. She's independent or nothing. I see her most every day, and yet I don't know her a bit better than I did when she first came to Ironburg."

"Anyhow, she's lived here for five or six years. Hasn't she any relations anywhere? Doesn't she ever go away on a visit?"

"No, to both questions. At least, if she has any relations, I've never heard her speak of them."

"She must get letters, though," pursued Jerry hopefully.

"Mighty few," Rose commented.

The couple had left the barren tableland and turned along the fortable and lined turnpike. A natural hedge of wild roses ran at Jerry's right. He thought it wise to bend and his pluck one of the flowers so that his face was averted as he inquired:

"Any letters postmarked Albany?"

Rose made him immediately thankful that his telltale face was hidden. "See here! A postmistress isn't supposed to give away such information, and nobody has a right to ask for it except a postal inspector. Are you a postal inspector?"

"No."

"Then what's the idea?"

"Morbid curiosity."

The girl's throaty laughter heralded her comment. "I believe you're in love with Angie!"

"Not yet. I'm not that morbid. I'm only in love with you."

"Just the first stage of morbidity?" The rose hedge had ended. They were passing one of those neglected cemeteries which are still to be found throughout Doncaster county. Its fence had fallen; rank weeds grew high among its flat tombstones. "Here's a good place for a morbid person to rest," said Rose.

"I don't need another rest," Jerry was peevish.

"You've got to take another rest, anyhow, if you want to stay with me," she calmly replied, "for I need one."

A manifest deception, yet it succeeded. After what had befallen him—both what she knew and what he hadn't yet told her—the rest would be welcome.

Across that neglected burying ground she indicated a table-like tomb standing farthest from the turnpike. There she seated herself, long legs dangling amid the weeds, and there he sat beside her. He of his own good sense whether it was worth while to pursue any longer this wild goose chase.

He had never had anything but his lunch to justify his accusation of fraud regarding the Slinn policy. Wherever he turned, wherever he went, the evidence supported his superior's contention.

Better to quit while a little of his money remained in his pocket. Better to get some modest job—near Ironburg for choice. It was pleasant here close to this girl to whom he already owed so much.

"This range of hills that we're on must be a sort of water-shed," he suggested. "There ought to be creeks on both sides, running down to the Susquehanna. Is there one on the other side from that old ore mine?"

"Yes, a pretty big one. It runs along the other road to Americus. We call it Bruner's Creek."

"Before I jumped off that cliff this morning," said Jerry, "I had a dive or two into the lake over there . . ."

"Break O' Day Lake."

"Yes. Well, I found out something. I found an outlet. It's underground. The rocks must slope the other way down there, and the water's tunneled them."

"What of it?"

"Don't you see? If that could be enlarged—that outlet—the ore diggings might be drained."

She looked away, her lips parted, her brown eyes on the distance. But she shook her head. "That ore mine has swallowed enough of my family. I'm the last. It's not going to get me."

"Sure not. You get it."

"No. It can't be done. The water's not the trouble. The thing that killed my grandfather was the ore itself. It went wrong long before I was born—away back in 'Seventy-six or seven; but I remember my father telling me about it when I wasn't any higher than this tombstone. He said the quality of the ore had depreciated—too much phosphorus in it or something. It wasn't the kind that it paid to use in the furnaces."

She had touched the tomb with tanned fingers when she mentioned it. Jerry put out a hand to clasp them.

"No," said Rose again, but now she was speaking of that attempted contact.

He looked at the fingers thus denied him. They were near the stone's half obliterated inscription. Moss ran over it; the erosion of years had eaten away the old date. But there stood out plainly enough the name of him whose dust lay in this quiet corner:

LEST WE FORGET..

Memorial Day has always been something that the American people have cherished, and loved because it was a day especially dedicated to the memory of our loved ones. This year it is more than that, it is a symbol of all the American traditions and freedoms that we are fighting for; and we pause more reverently than ever to pay tribute to the heroes of other wars.

Now many of us are really seeing how much Memorial Day actually means to us, and it becomes a very precious tradition. We know that it will be one of those many things which will keep us united, and for which we will gladly fight.

Sunday will mark the close of my first year as minister for this church. While the amount of time given to preaching has been less than is done in most cases the work of the church has been marked with a great amount of interest. More work has fallen on the hands of others and that is what should be. Any preacher must have much help if he is to succeed. Two revival meetings have been conducted and a few visiting preachers heard. About 70 souls have placed membership with us, confessed failure to serve the Lord faithfully, and the remaining number have been baptized. The ancient walls were completed by Nehemiah, "Because the people had a Mind to Work." We are thankful for this good achievement and ask that you hear this lesson Sunday at 11 a. m. Hog Feeding Project Started At Lon Campbell Feed Store

A hog feeding project, sponsored by the Purina Feed Co., installed at the rear of the Lon Campbell Feed Store, got underway Monday.

Two Poland China pigs have been quartered in two modern pens at the Campbell establishment, and are to be used as living, grunting examples of proper hog feeding. One pig is being fed Purina Hog Chow, while the other pig is being fed ordinary grain as usually fed pigs on the farm. The demonstration is being made to prove the increase in the growth of the pig fed the hog chow over that fed ordinary feed. This project will continue for 120 days.

An accurate check of the weight of each pig will be kept monthly during the next four months, in order to demonstrate the advantage of Purina Hog Chow.

Records will be posted on the respective pens, for the public to see, and all farmers and others interested in raising hogs are invited to visit this project.

Mr. Campbell, in an interview Tuesday, said: "This will be a test to show that by use of the right supplement, the West Texas feed crops will make you a profit in finishing hogs for market. In order to make animals thrive and put on flesh in a shorter time it is necessary to add the proper supplement to the feed we can raise in West Texas."

Mr. Campbell also said: "Purina Hog Chow supplementing corn will give the help needed to build big meat racks on which to load the pounds quick and thick. Another thing, in doing this kind of pork-making job with the combination of Purina Hog Chow and corn, corn is worth more on the hoof."

"There's a difference in the price you can get for your corn when you market on the hoof—a difference that can mean almost twice as much for corn. It's the difference between feeding straight corn to hogs and supplementing corn with Purina Hog Chow. Assume that hogs are selling for $8.00 and see how much this difference means in dollars and cents."

"Get more money for corn... put more pounds on hogs quick... go to market ahead of the runs. This is what many outstanding hog men get when they follow the Purina Plan for Profitable Production."

At the end of the 120 days, both pigs will be weighed, and the weight of each pig posted at the project to demonstrate the value of proper feeding.

Lon Campbell Feed Store handle a complete line of Purina feeds, which include all kinds of feeds for poultry, hogs, cattle, etc.

The clipping had been sent to Mrs. McFarland by Mr. Moulton's daughter, Miss Ala Moulton. The clipping also contained the following: "Born in Summerfield, Kan., he had lived in Oklahoma for about 30 years and was a barber in Lamont before moving to Oklahoma City in 1929."

Cattle on the hoof, grain on the farm, minerals at the mine, oil at the well, goods at the factory—these cannot help our soldiers or our people until delivered where they are needed.

Our job is to "Keep 'Em Rolling"

Santa Fe is eager to do its full share of this huge wartime transportation job, military and civilian, throughout our territory. Years of careful operation, maintenance and expansion conditioned Santa Fe facilities for just such an emergency. But to meet every demand, existing equipment must be used to the limit!

You Can Help, Too

Last year you shippers did a lot to increase efficient use of existing freight equipment. Now we ask your continued cooperation to that end by doing these things:

Make every car you use carry a maximum load • Save every hour you can in loading and unloading cars • Order cars only for your actual current needs.

Your help will help us do a better job for you, as well as for Uncle Sam, whose needs must come first in war.

At Your Command

Besides all-out war service, Santa Fe is maintaining regular and efficient freight and passenger transportation vital to your community. Talk over your travel and traffic problems with your Santa Fe agent.

THEY'RE OFF!

COME IN AND HAVE A LOOK, FOLKS!

Our Pig Growing Contest is off to a roarin', snortin' start.

Just a couple of days ago, we picked out two frisky little porkers, both from the same litter. They were both fresh off their mama's bottle, and each a living image of the other.

We brought these two pigs into the store and put them in separate pens. There they will eat and eat until they make big hogs out of themselves. One gets all the grain he wants, and the other gets grain plus Purina Hog Chow, the pork-building supplement.

Now we have an idea, folks, that the "grain plus Hog Chow" pig is going to out-gain this other pig. Why don't you drop in and estimate what you think their difference in weight will be on the date that is set for weighing them in? It will be fun to watch 'em grow, and see just how much difference Purina Hog Chow can make.

Our door swings easy, folks, so come in!

Communist Party Leader After Release

Earl Browder, Communist party leader, is pictured being interviewed by a reporter upon his arrival in New York city. Browder was released from the federal penitentiary in Atlanta, Ga., after receiving a commutation of sentence from President Roosevelt. He had served nearly 14 months of a four-year sentence imposed for falsifying passport information.

The year 1901 marked the beginnings of large-scale industries of meat packing and cotton manufacturing in Texas.

Jab at Der Fuehrer

The camera spotted a new gadget on President Roosevelt's curio-littered desk as he greeted Egyptian minister Mahmoud Hassan Bey. The statuette appears to be a bending fuehrer (lower left) who offers the seal of his pants either as a match-striker or a pin cushion.

With South Plains Men In U. S. Service The Leader is in receipt of a letter from Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lynn of near Sudan whose son Kenneth left Littlefield February 23 with 21 other selective service men, and who has been stationed at Camp Barkley in the Medical Corps, and likes his work fine. His parents enclosed a portion of a letter from Kenneth, which will be of interest to his many friends, and which is published as follows:

Dear Folks: Fri. May 15 "Well I have been riding ever since Wednesday at noon, and still riding. I found out a few minutes ago that we are stopping in San Francisco, Cal. We ate breakfast this morn in L. A.

"We have been driving along the coast all day. It's a pretty good sized pond. I tell you I have seen more pretty country the last two days then I ever saw in my life—

"From L. A. north are ranch after ranch, with the prettiest herds of cattle I ever saw. I just sat here and looked out of the window until my eyes hurt. We came through Arizona, it is prettier than I thought it would be. I have almost forgotten that there is a war on. Just as well make a pleasure trip out of it. If I go across that will be another place I have never been. So I will have a lot to tell you when I get back.

"Now Mama, I don't want you to worry for the Lord can take care of me across just as good as he can here, so why worry.

Letter finished Sunday, May 17, at Camp La Salle, Stopping Area, Port of Embarkation at San Francisco.

"I went to church this morning. They gave us a three hour pass. We went to a Lutheran Church. Everyone was sure friendly and nice to us. They made us feel at home. It was a real small church, not even as large as Bula.

I will write you every day I am here."

"Loads of Love" Kenneth

In a letter written his parents, Kenneth stated he was still with five of the boys who left Littlefield with him, and they were all happy to be together.

Lieut. E. L. Davis of Esler Field, Pineville, La. left Littlefield Saturday after spending several days in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Davis. He was accompanied by his wife.

Private First Class Elton Carrell has been transferred from San Bernardino, Calif., to Atlanta, Ga. He obtained an emergency furlough due to the illness of his father, J. I. Carrell, and arrived home Friday. Mr. Carrell is much improved, and Elton plans to leave Saturday for Atlanta, and report at Camp Sunday.

Private First Class L. C. Strawn of the Air Corps, Lubbock, after spending several days here, returned to duty Tuesday morning.

Kenneth Houk, who has been stationed at Abilene since going into Army service, was transferred recently to Tucson, Arizona. He is connected with the Medical Corps at the air base at Tucson, and likes his new location fine. According to his brother, Vernon, Kenneth expects to get a furlough and come home soon.

The many friends of Volos Jones, former cotton broker in Littlefield, will enjoy reading the following letters he has written to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Jones, of Littlefield.

He left here on January 25 of this year, and was stationed at Fort Bliss, Texas, and then Camp Crowder, Mo. He is now a clerk in the supply room of the Signal Corp at Drew Field, Florida.

"Dear Folks: "Well, I've just been assigned to the 564th Sig. Bn. Sept. It is a new battalion just being formed. I am five miles from Tampa, and one mile from the docks where we ship out. It will probably take a month to get the battalion formed and everything ready. Of course I don't know when we will take off. It is certainly a beautiful spot here.

"We get to sleep two hours after dinner every day. Of course that suits me fine.

"There were five hundred boys on the train that came down from Crowder. Didn't see the Chisholm boy at Crowder, but met him just after we got here. We came down on the same train. His bed is only three beds down from mine here in the barrack. A lot of company. He said he was home a few days ago.

"Climate is wonderful here. Don't use any cover at night. It rains every day. We ride in trucks three miles to eat. Ate out of our mess kits on the train, and will do so from here on. It is real life. Every man washes his own kit. Just dip it in scalding water. I'm enjoying every bit of it.

"Guess you are planting cotton by now. Sure hope you get a good stand. "I'm glad I came when I did and got that part of it over. It isn't so bad as everybody thinks. One thing about it, I've got plenty of company. "Better close. Don't worry about me because I'll look out for myself. Will write more later. Love, "VOLOS."

Sat. Evening 5-16-42

"Dear Folks: "Just thought I'd drop you a line. Of course I haven't heard from you since I've been here. We are just taking a vacation you might say. We were all glad to get out of school. They take us on hikes, drill, and other details to get us in good shape physically. Think I've gained a few more pounds since I've been here. Some of the boys can't hardly go the idea of eating this chow out of mess kits etc. I like it. Really it is a lot of fun. Sure do sweat a lot here. Don't get so hot, but there is a lot of moisture in the air, and it makes me feel good. We had on our O.D. clothes when we came down. They told us to get out of those hot things and get comfortable. We wear khaki tans.

"We aren't getting along very fast about forming our battalion. From what I find out now, we may be here several months. I'm going to ask for a furlough right away. Don't much think I can get it, but might. If I do I'll catch a plane and come as close to home as I can, and come on in on the bus. We are really not supposed to get a furlough until we have been in four months, but I am going to do my best to get one. If you would send my letters by air, I can get them a lot quicker. I've got to get some stamps so I can do that.

Love, "VOLOS."

Leaving Morton were: Thomas Rayford Simpson, Edgar Stasus Lahman, Ralph Eugene Gardner, Wilburn Wesley Wallace, Dee Warren, (Chick) Anderson, and William Howard Scoggins, who was transferred from Harris County, local board No. 7.

The following Sudan men who recently entered the Army, have been transferred from Fort Sill, Okla., to Fort Knox, Ky., the Sudan News reports: Nolan Parrish, Eldon Nichols, Cecil Testerman, Billy Lee Bowling, Loyd Chisholm and James Brown.

Clyde Henderson and E. A. Jenkins have been sent to Camp Crowder at Joplin, Mo.

Reagan W. Ormand, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Ormond of Sudan, who is an instructor in a bombing and gunnery school of the Royal Canadian Air Force, at Alberta, Canada, has recently been notified of his promotion from Flying officer to Flight Lieutenant, which is equivalent to captain in the U. S. Army, his parents here have been advised. The promotion was retroactive from February. Reagan has been a member of the RCA for about two years.

Sergeant C. W. Coley and Mrs. Coley have been visiting his mother, Mrs. Anna Coley, for several years. Sergeant Coley is in the Medical Corps, stationed at Camp Bowie, Brownwood. He has been in the Military service for about a year and a half.

Vernon Houk, who is operating the Houk's Grocery & Market, reports he received a letter from Payne Wood Saturday, who is in the Medical Corps, and that Payne has been transferred from Fort Sill to Abilene, and is carrying on the same duties, and occupying the same room as Kenneth Houk did at Abilene Camp.

We cannot understand the cross
We're called up on bear.
We only know we cannot drift
Beyond God's love and care.

We cannot direct our destinies,
We've got to stand the test;
Have faith and courage to believe
Whatever is—is best.

Our strength may falter,
Our hearts may bleed,
In anguish for "this one,"
Yet will we pray for guidance
And hope to carry one.

Yes, carry one quite bravely,
The way that Bill did.
Patient, smiling and cheerful,
With pain and suffering hid.

Beneath a trusting countenance,
With love for friends and kin,
Waiting for the Master's call,
"Well Done . . . enter in."

Your deeds of good I'll not forget,
They are rewarded still.
Bee of good cheer, look up, faint not,
I'm with you always, Bill.

We know you had a host of friends
Who loved you to the end.
Yet, you wouldn't have us weep nor grieve
O'er the things we cannot mend.

But have the faith and try to meet
The trials of each day
That tangle up the threads of life
And sore beset our way.

Our lives are like a piece of cloth
Woven on the Loom of Time;
Let's trust the Master Weaver—
He planned the whole design.

Notes From County Agent's Office

Texas has been called upon to make the greatest increase in egg production of any state. The reason being that we have more egg drying capacity in Texas than any other state. We have a big obligation and a great responsibility in seeing to it that these plants are kept running. There are two major questions in the minds of egg buyers, namely—"Will we have the production, and if so, will we have the quality?" We must maintain the quality this summer if we get a good market price for our eggs. Following are a few things that will help keep up our production and quality of our eggs.

Rain plus warm days are increasing worm infestation in most poultry flocks. If the flock has not been recently treated for intestinal parasites, it is well that they be wormed, using a reliable powder in the mash for two or three days. Follow instructions of the manufacturer as to amount to add to the mash. Repeat the treatment in about 30 days. Keep 'em healthy and you can keep 'em laying.

Green feed is a balance—it picks up where management may fall short. See that they always have plenty. If tender green feed is not obtainable, feed alfalfa hay. Two pounds per day per 100 hens is sufficient. Soak it over night in water. This makes it tender, restores color and adds to its palatability. Feed in a trough or shallow box.

Laying hens don't need as much grain in the summer as they do in the winter. An easy way of figuring the grain for the days feeding is 1 quart for each 25 hens. Hens over-fed on grain store it up in excess fat which undermines the health of the birds. Excess feeding of grain reduces mash consumption and retards egg production.

Keep 'em eating mash. This one food stimulates egg production. Don't try to be "scotch." Let her have all she wants. Give her a wet mash at noon—3 pounds dry weight per 100 birds, mix with milk or water until crumbly. A good home mixed mash of home grains and concentrates simplifies the feeding program—can be fed growing stock and laying hens. A good mixture is as follows: 100 pounds (32-36 per cent) protein concentrate, 100 lbs. yellow corn or maize, 100 pounds reground oats or barley, 50 pounds wheat grey shorts or ground wheat, and 15 pounds alfalfa meal if green range is not available. Grain is to be fed with this same as any other mash.

Now is the time to open those ventilators on the poultry house. A cool house will result in more eggs, less colds and fewer losses in the flock.

Losses from fertile eggs are costing poultry farmers of the United States $15,000,000 annually. This money would buy 15,944 Brownings Machine Guns or 857 runs of 155 m.m. class for the Army. To stop these losses by removing male birds from the flock and cull only infertile eggs.

In caring for eggs remember:

1. Keep a clean litter in the nest box.
2. Provide one nest for each hen.
3. Gather eggs at least twice during the summer.
4. Keep eggs in a wire basket in a cool place.
5. Market eggs at least twice a week.

Broody hens left on nests eat egg quality, break eggs and cut the profits. Be sure and confine broody hens.

Keep clean oyster shell or limestone available in open form. If shells are thin, sprinkle a full of oyster shell on top of feed every few days until condition is corrected.

Hunt—

Lubbock, and Rangers Levi Duncan and Norvell Redwine, also of Lubbock, were on hand.

Members of the state highway were seen at the preliminary hearing.

Sheriff Hutson, in his official capacity, had charge of the Newtons at the preliminary hearing.

Other officers present included Deputy Sheriff Hopping and City Marshal Ab Anderson.

The preliminary hearing was before Justice of the Peace, S. J. Farquhar, and was held in the small police office where Mr. Farquhar, has his desk. This room soon filled with those who wished to attend the hearing and a large crowd overflowed into the corridor at City Hall and on the grounds east of that building.

Court was opened by Mr. Farquhar shortly after 1 p. m.

A hush fell over the tiny court room as Dr. and Mrs. Newton came down the narrow stairway leading from the jail and were seated to the right of the justice of the Peace.

They sat stoically calm during the brief hearing, their attorney handling the entire matter for them. Dr. Newton was dressed in a neat blue business suit, and Mrs. Newton was wearing a white silk jersey turban, white jersey dress, white shoes and tan hose. They scarcely raised their eyes.

Council for the Newtons waived the formality of examining trial and asked the court to fix the bond.

District Attorney Martin then read the complaint against the Newtons, which reads as follows:

"IN THE NAME AND BY THE AUTHORITY OF THE STATE OF TEXAS.

"I, Sam Hutson, Solemnly swear that on or about the 21st day of May A. D. 1942, in the County of Lamb, State of Texas, W. R. Newton, and Mrs. W. R. Newton, alias Ruth Newton, then and there, did unlawfully with malice aforethought, shoot Roy E. Hunt with a pistol with intent then and there to murder the said Roy E. Hunt, against the peace and dignity of the state."

(Sd.) Sam Hutson

District Attorney Martin said that the state had no evidence to offer at this time, and asked that bond of $10,000.00 each guaranteeing the appearance of the defendants at subsequent proceedings be set.

Released On Bond

Justice of the Peace Farquhar then announced that he was fixing the bond for the doctor at $15,000 and for Mrs. Newton at $10,000.

County Attorney J. R. (Billy) Hall appeared at the preliminary hearing in his official capacity.

E. A. Bills, Littlefield attorney, has been employed as special prosecutor. He was present at the preliminary hearing.

Immediately on the completion of the preliminary hearing, Dr. and Mrs. Newton were returned to the jail, details in connection with their release were carried out, and within 45 minutes they were on their way out of Littlefield by automobile, accompanied by Milam county officers.

After the hearing there was some delay in taking the Newtons from the jail. This was occasioned by reason of the fact that it was hoped that the crowd on the grounds at the east side of City Hall would disperse. It was finally decided that the crowd would not leave until they had a glimpse of the Newtons leaving the jail.

When the Newtons finally emerged from the east door of City Hall they were preceded by Milam county officers and were hurried into a waiting automobile.

In releasing the Cameron couple on bond, they are bound over to await the action of the grand jury at the August term of District court, which convenes at Olton August 3.

Five Shots Fired

Dr. Hunt was shot about 12:30 midnight Wednesday of last week on Highway 7, about three miles east of Littlefield, and opposite the J. M. Blessing farm, according to his statement to police. He had made the trip out on the highway at the summons of a woman by telephone. She called him three times, from Lubbock, from Shallowater, and from a service station in Littlefield.

Dr. and Mrs. Hunt were hosts to friends at bridge when the last telephone call was received, the woman on the other end of the wire saying that his professional services were required on the roadside east of Littlefield. Dr. Hunt excused himself from his guests and left his home.

Approximately at 1:00 o'clock he returned in his car to the hospital, staggered into the building, and told of having been shot.

Dr. Hunt told police that as he approached a car on the side of the road he was greeted by a woman and that a man came from behind the car and commenced firing.

Five shots were fired, two entering his body and passing out. They were steel jacket bullets, believed to have been fired from a .38 pistol. The first bullet entered his right shoulder and punctured the upper portion of his right lung. The second bullet entered his body about the center of the abdomen and came out in the right hip. Three intestinal punctures were inflicted. Wounded he ran in an easterly direction into a roadside field on the Blessing farm. Dodging and crawling, Dr. Hunt hid himself from his assailant.

The assailant, unable to see in the darkness, returned to his automobile and turned on his spotlight and began sweeping the field in an attempt to locate Dr. Hunt's hiding place.

Honor Students—

Taylor. John Estle Willingham received recognition for outstanding work in agriculture.

The Senior Study Club presented their annual scholarship to Ilene Phillips. This scholarship of $25 is awarded on citizenship, scholarship, personality, and participation. Mrs. Wiseman, vice president of the club, was introduced and presented the award.

Kathryn Winston, the salutatorian, received a medal, a scholarship from Simmons University and is eligible for others.

Travis Allen, valedictorian, with an average of 93.5 over his junior and senior years, received the medal, a year's subscription to the Reader's Digest, the Simmons scholarship and he is eligible for a scholarship in any state supported school.

The presentations were made by Elmer J. Moore, high school principal.

Hockley—

The older man said he reached the house first and that Perry entered the Boyce bedroom through another entrance from the bathroom. The shooting happened in the bedroom.

Sheriff Hofack said Boyce displayed several bruises on his face and head he said had resulted from the fight.

Boyce, who is under charge of assault with intent to murder was released Saturday under $3000 Bond.

Dr. Hunt returned to his automobile and drove to the Littlefield Hospital.

Dr. Ewell Hunt, Dr. O. W. English and a nurse, of Lubbock, left that city almost immediately after being informed of the shooting. The Lubbock physician has remained at his brother's bedside almost continuously since that time.

Receives Several Transfusions

As soon after the shooting as was deemed advisable, the injured physician underwent surgery at the Littlefield Hospital, performed by his associates, Doctors T. B. Duke and J. R. Coen; Dr. F. W. Jones of Olton, a personal friend; and his brother, Dr. Ewell Hunt, and Dr. O. W. English, both of Lubbock.

"If the shock does not develop to have been too much, there is a fair chance of Dr. Hunt's recovery," it was announced at the Littlefield Hospital at mid-morning Thursday of last week.

A Plasma transfusion was given calculated to relieve that condition, it was announced.

Loss of blood, while considerable, was not so great as might have been had not steel bullets inflicted the wounds, it was suggested.

The plasma transfusion was given before surgery, followed by a blood transfusion after surgery. In addition to these two transfusions, Dr. Hunt also has received two other blood plasma transfusions and a blood transfusion. Blood for both the blood transfusions was furnished by a brother, Homer Hunt of Lubbock.

Dr. Roy Hunt was graduated in 1924 from Lubbock Senior High school and was president of his senior class. He was enrolled in the University of Texas and later transferred to Texas Technological college, where he completed his pre-medical requirements in 1930. He then went to Galveston, where he is listed in medical directories as having been graduated in 1933 from the University of Texas Medical school. He has been practicing in Littlefield for five years, coming here following the completion of his internship in a Houston hospital.

Dr. Hunt is married and the father of two daughters, three months old and several months old.

Dr. Newton who, with his wife, is accused of the shooting of Dr. Hunt, was graduated from the University of Texas Medical School in 1934. Dr. and Mrs. Newton are the parents of three children. Both Dr. Hunt and Dr. Newton served their internship in the same Houston hospital.

Dr. Hunt is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Hunt of Lubbock. In addition to Dr. Ewell Hunt, the Littlefield physician has two other brothers in Lubbock, Homer E. Hunt and Alvan B. Hunt, and a sister, Miss Ruth Hunt, who recently was graduated as a nurse from the John Sealy Hospital in Galveston. He also has a step brother in Lubbock, J. K. Cannon.
