HIGHEST FFA DEGREE

Chip Melton 'American Farmer'

Second Top Award In Chapter History

Haynes Lee (Chip) Melton, 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Haynes Melton, west of the city, has been named to receive the American Farmer Degree, highest degree that can be earned in Future Farmers of America.

Only five such degrees are issued a year in Area I which encompasses 97 schools, according to Finis J. Branham, high school vocational agriculture teacher here.

Melton's award is the second ever earned by a Littlefield youth since organization of the Littlefield chapter in 1923, as far as records show, Branham said.

Other winner was Eddie Wallace, a Young Farmer at Bula, who received the degree several years ago.

First step toward the honor is to earn a Greenhand degree; second, Chapter Farmer; third, State Farmer (in Texas called the Lone Star Farmer degree), and the recipient must have been out of school 12 months and show a net profit of $1,000 from his supervised farming program.

Branham said Melton is to be checked by one more committee but his receiving the degree is "already a done deal," he added. The degree "probably" will be presented at the national convention at Kansas City, Mo., the second week in October.

Melton, a 1965 graduate of Littlefield High School, was taught his four high school years by Branham and the late W. W. Hall. He currently is a sophomore at Texas Tech, majoring in agriculture.

When his mother, who is associated with Littlefield Federal Savings & Loan, was asked for comment regarding her son, she answered, "Of course, parents always are inclined to brag on their children, but I would say Chip is simply a typical boy."

Chip's father farms west of the city.

TURN IN ORDERS BY MONDAY

BULLETIN--All salesmen are requested to turn in order blanks for prizes before 5 p.m. Monday.

Publisher Bill Turner said that prizes would be ordered at that time and there would be a delay in filling any orders coming in after Monday.

Turner said that he hopes to have all prizes ready for salesmen a week after they are ordered. Announcement will be made in this paper.

Extra order blanks may be obtained at the Leader-News office. Any salesman who is short a few points for the prize he wants may pay the cash difference if desired. Information may be obtained at the newspaper office. Any cash difference would be paid at the time order is placed.

Open House

begins Today

Open House is scheduled to Friday and Saturday at the location of Connell's Office Supply, 513 Phillips Avenue.

Connell and his wife, Mrs. Connell, proprietors, said the Open House offers two and one-half times as much space as the former building at 116 E.

Old and new lines are being added accordingly, Connell said, and the enlargement has added two more employees to the staff's personnel.

Additional stock and new lines included in office supplies, furniture and machines, and the department is being expanded extensively. Mr. and Mrs. Connell listed a wide assortment of party goods, greeting cards, social stationery, bridge supplies, etc.

"We will continue to increase our supply and to expand our staff," Mrs. Connell said.

For several weeks, the Connell classified ads that "Ambassador" was coming.

"Now," Mrs. Connell said, "The Ambassador arrived. 'Ambassador' is a card of greeting cards and party goods."

Connell's Office Supply has been in Littlefield since 1936. It was our first family business," Connell commented. He (see CONNELL'S, Page 11)

Industrial Arts

Awards Given

Littlefield High School Industrial Arts Club won first place in the high school division at the Lubbock Crafts Fair which was held at J.A. Hodges Community Center on May 12, 13, and 14. The fair was sponsored by the South Plains Industrial Arts Association.

Members of the industrial arts department entered projects at the fourth annual fair.

Littlefield entered projects in divisions of crafts, woodworking, and mechanical drawing.

Littlefield scored 55 points and gave them first place in the high school division.

First place winners from Littlefield were Ebert Ayres in wood; Larry Ruse, Larry Wiseman, Tommy Hood, Joe Hart and Bob Sanders in woodworking; Bob Richey and Johnny Richey in mechanical drawing; and above students were in different classes of competition.

How Many More?

ASKS VIET VICTIM'S BROTHER

(EDITOR'S NOTE -- The following letter from Littlefield resident Jerry Austin and poem written by his brother who was killed in Vietnam were brought to the News-Leader this week by Austin.)

Dear Editor:

How many more of our sons, fathers and brothers must die before the people demand 100% support of our troops in Viet Nam. I realize it is a difficult and dirty war but wars have always been fought to win and how can a battle be won if you draw lines and tell the commanding generals from 11,000 miles away how to run a war.

It's like playing a chess game and telling your opponent before he moves where your next move will be.

On April 21st my youngest brother gave his life in a place called Nui Lac Son near Da Nang. On April 9th he visited the ship USS England where another of my brothers is stationed. When he came aboard ship all the crew received him with open arms because he was in a position to know the situation first hand.

The crew of the ship were very frustrated because they cannot fight as they have been trained to do. They are under orders to run if PT boats come around, and not to fire until fired upon.

It's nice to know you can blow up a PT boat after he shoots a torpedo at you.

You do a lot of thinking when you lose a loved one over there and the thoughts can't help but turn your stomach a little sour.

Eddie wrote a letter the morning of his death and stated that the French, English and United States had tried to conquer Viet Nam without success. His feelings were if they wanted it that bad, why let them have it. He said the conflict could last 200 more years the way it's going.

Eddie knew what he was doing in Viet Nam and what he was there for. He wrote a poem last Fall entitled "A Marine's Prayer." It has been published in four California newspapers and we would like to share it with you. He wrote the poem about 1 a.m. on the back of a guitar by candle light.

Sincerely,
Jerry Austin

"A MARINE'S PRAYER"

"I sit alone in a far away land
"And think of the times that are past.
"I'm not the first to feel sorrow and loneliness.
"And I'm sure that I won't be the last.
"But for me there's a way that I can escape
"And leave this forsaken place,
"I can fall on my knees and cry
"Out to God
"And meet with my Lord face to face!
"A flood of love, joy and wonder
"Sweeps over my tired, longing soul,
"Pain and heartache, trouble and sadness
"Are suddenly turned to pure gold.
"With a voice soft as satin and eyes filled with love
"He comforts and makes everything right.
"All my fears are gone, only peace remains.
"That peace that He brought in the night.
"Dear Jesus, I prayed, 'Help me hold to Your hand;
"Help me stay on Your path at all costs;
"Give me the strength to prevail and the courage to stand;
"Please don't let me fall and be lost.
"There are millions of souls that I can assist "In giving their soul to You,
"Help me lead them today to Your blood-cleansing way
"So that they, too, might be born anew.
"And tomorrow, dear Lord, as the shells fall and burst,
"Bringing death, destruction, and fear,
"I will cling to Your promise that You will be there,
"Just as You are with me now, here.
"Please have mercy on all who have died in this land
"Please for what they believe!
"Fighting for what they believe!
"Let Your will be done for each Father and son,
"Their souls in Your hands I leave.
"In closing, O God, I leave
"All up to You
"My safety, my protection, my life.
"If it's my time to go, there is nothing I know,
"That could stop that V.C. bullet's flight.
"Let my folks understand that the race that I ran
"Has been finished, completed and won:
"Whatever takes place, I can look in Your face
"And say that 'Your will has been done.'"

ADDS 34 TO ROSTER

Chamber Drive Nets Membership Increase

Littlefield Chamber of Commerce membership drive, a spearhead project toward encompassing a broader representation of Littlefield farming and business interests, concluded this week with 34 new members.

Doyle Patton was first-place winner of $50 in the contest to gain new Chamber members. Tying and sharing $25 second-place honors were Jim Jones and John Tom Brittain, who were presented $12.50 each. Patton secured 12 new members and Jones and Brittain brought in four each.

Chamber Executive Vice-President Jim Kelly stated,

"We shall continue to seek new members through the membership committee. Although the drive is over, this does not mean we will not continue to solicit new members.

He expressed a special need for more farmers in the Chamber, pointing out the stronger ties that have developed between the farmer, business and the community during the past several years.

C. A. Duval, membership chairman, has expressed plans for a monthly meeting of the membership committee.

New members in the Chamber, as announced by Duval, are:

Bill Smith Electric, City Barber Shop, Bennie Claunch, B. D. Nelson, Rowe Abstract, Littlefield Frozen Food, Joe Pat Hart, Roy Wade, Drs. Perkins and Williams, John D. Smith, Smith Bros., Texaco, City Shoe Shop, Dan Heard, W. F. Farrington, James A. Gowdy, Otis Smith, Louise Dress Shop, Edward Elliott, J. D. Hagler, Tracy Perkins Roofing, Dr. Ronald Harlan, Joe Paul Owens, Littlefield Welding Works, Paul Manning, Calvin Price, Stitch-In-Time, Jerry Tunnell, Marvin Webster Cab Service, Paul Carmickle, H. G. Ferguson, Buster Owens, Lamb Co. Abstract and Dave's Humble Station.

CHAMBER WINNERS -- Checks and smiles are being exchanged by Jim Jones (left), Doyle Patton (center) and Charles Duval (right). Jones and Patton are receiving checks from Duval, membership drive chairman, for getting the most members for the chamber. Jones and Tom Brittain (not shown) tied for second place and will split $25 while Doyle Patton won first place for $50.

Will you pay the price of a Cadillac...and not get one?

Literally thousands of people are driving cars that cost as much as a Cadillac—yet provide far less in motoring satisfaction, distinction and lasting value. A few minutes with an authorized Cadillac dealer and a few miles at the wheel of a Cadillac can prevent you from making this unnecessary compromise. The fact is, if you're planning to buy in the medium-price range, an investigation could show that you are very close to a Cadillac in cost. And it is generally acknowledged that a Cadillac holds its value so well that it actually costs less to own than many lower priced cars. Right now, your authorized dealer has a fine selection of models and colors—with all the advanced engineering, superb performance and many safety features that make a Cadillac a Cadillac. Every year you wait is costing you its price in personal pleasure and satisfaction. Why not see your Cadillac dealer before the week is out?

1/2 cup 2 tablespoons shortening
1/2 cup 2 teaspoons salt
1/2 cup 1/2 cup sugar

RECIPE FEATURE -- Mrs. Lindsey Williams shown above submitted two of her favorite recipes for our feature this week. She is the mother of two daughters, sews, bakes bread, and is a Girl Scout leader. She is preparing the hot roll recipe she submitted for her family.

4 to 5 cups flour, add gradually Add dissolved yeast mixture to milk, water, sugar, shortening and salt, add flour until stiff dough is formed. Knead and let rise for 1 1/2 hours until double in size. Knead again and shape into rolls, let rise again 1 1/2 hours. Bake at 400 degrees until brown, approximately 15 minutes.

This also makes good cinnamon rolls. Instead of shaping into rolls, roll out flat, spread with melted butter, sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Roll like jelly roll, slice and place in greased pan. Let rise and bake. Then spread with powdered sugar icing.

Annual May Breakfast Held By Woman's Club

The 35th Annual May Breakfast of the Littlefield Woman's Club was held Saturday at the Crescent House Restaurant. Spring flowers gayly decorated the tables.

Mrs. Williams Given Shower

Mrs. Kenneth Williams was honored with a pink and blue shower in the home of Mrs. Sherrod Fielden, 1231 W. 14th Street, Monday from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Guests registered in the baby book and then saw the gifts which were displayed in a bedroom. The guests were served in the den from a table covered with a white lace table cloth. Pink punch, white cake topped with tiny blue booties, nuts and mints were served using silver and crystal appointments. The centerpiece was a white and pink ceramic bootie filled with an arrangement of artificial pink sweet peas.

Special guests were Mrs. D.L. Givens of Olton, honoree's mother; Mrs. Tom Williams of Littlefield, honoree's mother-in-law; and the honoree's grandmother, Mrs. E.E. Givens of Olton.

The hostesses presented the honoree with a diaper bag, a lace hooded wrap, a baby book, and the centerpiece.

Hostesses were June Stephenson of Anton, Poni Kaye McCaugh of Littlefield, and Mmes. Bill Blackman, Bob Davis, Sherrod Fielden, Starr Haile, Doss Maner, Jr., Ronald Miller, and E.O. Woollever all of Littlefield.

Mrs. Roy McQuatters, president, introduced several of the special guests attending. Among them was the Caprock District President, Mrs. Louis Cummings of Plainview. She spoke to the group about the State convention held recently in Dallas and presented Mrs. McQuatters with the club's awards received at the convention. Others were Mrs. A.T. Copenhower of Lubbock, past district president; Mrs. Bill W. Davis, also past district president; and Miss Pat Cannon of Girlstown, Pat is sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. McQuatters. She gave a message of appreciation for all the work that was done for Girlstown.

Mrs. Jessie Jones gave the invocation.

Following the meal, Mrs. Paul Manning introduced the special music brought by Mrs. Dwain Phillips accompanied by Mrs. Larry Sanders. Mrs. Kenneth Reast then presented Sharon Kim Harp with the scholarship award. Sharon is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Harp. Sharon plans to attend Texas Tech this summer with a major in psychology.

Mrs. J.R. Cowen then presented perfect attendance gifts to Mrs. Otis Bennett, Mrs. A.D. Brown, Mrs. Fred Dodd, Mrs. A.M. Dunagin, Mrs. D.C. Lindley, Mrs. Doss Maner, Mrs. Roy Taylor, Mrs. Winnie Hogan and Miss Emma Sell.

Mrs. Manning then introduced the speaker for the morning, Mrs. Roy Bass of Lubbock. She gave a very inspiring talk on "Life Can be Made More Beautiful." Mrs. Bass pointed out that a person must possess five senses for life to be more beautiful. First a person must have a sense of humor, be able to laugh at himself. Then a person must have a sense of values, both spiritual and material. A sense of confidence, physical well-being and a sense of appreciation complete the five. In closing she pointed out that, "Life would be more beautiful if we, forget yesterday, live today and trust tomorrow."

After singing "Blest Be The Tie That Binds" Mrs. McQuatters dismissed the group.

AMY'S ADLIBS

Saving What?

By Amy Turner

HICKORY, DICKORY, DOCK or what in the world time is it?

The obvious answer, of course, is daylight savings time but I have yet to figure out just what I'm saving.

In fact, I look back with astonishment at my total unconcern about this thing before it went into effect. It wasn't going to make one bit of difference to me, nosiree.

I would get up when I awoke, eat when I was hungry and go to bed when I was sleepy. Hal! Somehow I forgot to take into account that everyone else was going to change their clocks, too, and school officials frown on children being late to school.

Of course, I realize the necessity for some sort of order in a big concern like school or there would otherwise be complete chaos... sometimes, there seems to be anyway...and I have great respect and admiration for school officials (translation: they intimidate me).

I also forgot to take into account a number of other things, like Scouts, which must meet at a certain time and all are absolutely necessary to be All-American and thus vital (Good Heavens, what would the neighbors think?).

And piano lessons where the teacher's time is extremely valuable. I know this when I get the bill every month.

And Little League, and meetings, and meetings, and meetings...all properly set by that tyrant, The Clock.

CONSEQUENTLY, I arise from a fog of unslept sleep, feeling as though my head had hardly touched the pillow, and go to bed at midnight, wide-awake and owl-eyed.

What happened to 10 o'clock, I haven't yet figured out. It just isn't there anymore. Mysteriously, the night seems to progress from dinner about 8 p.m. to Oh-No-It-Can't-Be-Eleven-Thirty-Already.

This whole time business has convinced me of just one thing.

As much as I hate to admit it, I am a complete clock conformist.

And I suspect that I am not alone in this matter.

On the one or two occasions when I have managed to pry my eyes fully open before school time, I have noticed something rather startling about all those transporters of humanity to the education factory.

As they travel their old familiar route... turn right, turn left, stop here, go there... they all have one thing in common. They are sound asleep.

Let some joker get in the lead and the whole caravan would probably be in Lubbock before anyone woke up.

OR TAKE DINNER. There just isn't time for it anymore. Slap a bologna sandwich on the table, grab up an article on "Spending More Time With Your Child" and snarl:

"Leave me alone, you stupid child. Can't you see I'm busy with your enrichment and enlightenment and I must read this article for my study group and go to PTA and hear about all those underprivileged children who don't get all this attention like you do."

"And bake brownies for the Scouts and iron your Little League shirt and get this fact well programmed."

"YOU ENJOY THESE THINGS, I know you do because it says so right here. You ENJOY this because it is GOOD for you. Got that? Then hurry, hurry or you'll be late and look happy, you dumb kid. Do you want everyone to think I'm a failure?"

TIME MARCHES on, alright, and I'm right in step although I have a strong urge to bash in the face of that mocking clock. But, the truth is, I simply haven't the courage. It also intimidates me.

I find, alas, that I am a well-versed player in the game and the name of the game is What Makes Mother Run?

I am also sorely afraid that I may never recover from that hour I lost back there because I simply wasn't programmed for it.

The name of the character who thought up all this "saving" time nonsense in the first place eludes me but, if I ever meet him, there's one thing I know for sure:

I wouldn't give him the time of day.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

Preserve Our Homes

By BOB WEAR

According to recent reports, our nation holds the dubious record of the highest divorce rate in the world. This, related to the homes of the nation, is one of many sources of the diminishing strength of the home.

Another source of damage to the home is in the breakdown of discipline involving the widespread spirit of rebellion against rightful authority. General failure to protect the home atmosphere from the corrupting influences of a sick social order has damaged our homes, too.

- Protect The Home -

With advances in methods of communication, there has been greater need for wise home management including a much-needed censorship of the kind of influences that come into the life of the home. Harmful influences have had, generally speaking, free course to the extent of corrupting and weakening our homes. Mobility of our society has made preservation of the home a much greater and more difficult task.

Many people have risen to the challenge, but many (too many) have surrendered. Too many have forgotten the home is a Divine institution, and is successful only to the degree that Divine laws are honored.

- The Good Becomes Enemy of the Best -

In the complicated and confused social order we have created, there are various organizations (good ones) which have unintentionally weakened our homes. They have taken unto themselves many of the inherent functions of the home, and many are overlapping in purposes and activities.

Some of these good organizations actually compete with the home for the time, energy and devotion of children and parents. We must remember that anything, regardless of good intentions, which detracts from the home weakens the home.

Honesty demands we admit some of these organizations were created to do the job many parents would not do. Nevertheless, they should never have been permitted to compete with the home. There is no completely satisfactory substitute for a good home.

- The Home Is Important -

Homes should gladly accept their rightful responsibilities. It is impossible to over-emphasize the need for and importance of good homes.

Many forceful statements have been made about the importance of our homes. Educators, statesmen, ministers, sociologists and others who understand have stated the value of the home by such expressions as these: "It is the foundation of civilization" - "No nation can be better or stronger than its homes" - "A community is no better than its homes" and "The future of the nation and the church depends on the kind of homes we have now."

Lydia Sigourney said, "The strength of a nation, especially a republican nation, is in the intelligent and well-ordered homes of the people."

- Back To The Home -

Our entire social structure will disintegrate unless the home remains reasonably strong in its internal workings. It must continue to be the focal point in our activities; and, in general, our entire manner of life must be home centered. A good slogan for us to follow would be - "Back To The Home."

We will do well to give careful and prayerful thought to some of our ways.

DEAR EDITOR

Thanks School Board

Dear Editor:

A million thanks to the school board for the Easter vacation next year. I have been talking this and trying to get people interested in this for some time. I do hope that Mr. Smith and Mr. Barton will find that it is wanted and will see that they have not made a mistake.

We as farmers could never find a good time to take a vacation with our children because in August it was watering time, the rest of the summer was our busiest time. At Christmas it was either bad weather or the crows were not all in.

So many, many thanks to the school board for this time and I do hope they will continue it in the future.

Sincerely yours,
/s/ Mrs. Melvin Mears

The Countrywoman

By LIBBY MUGGETT

She sees one after the other of her country neighbors move from the land into the towns and into the cities. She watches the weeds grow up around their deserted dwellings and the emptiness take over their abandoned abodes. A great sadness fills her.

She feels the warm sunshine on her body. The beauty experts say that the sun ages the skin. And she wonders how many women miss the great blessing of sun kissed skin while they grow old anyway.

She watches two sparrows busy quarreling over a twig. Each wants it for her nest. Neither of them sees the cat slowly creeping nearer. Soon both sparrows are gone and the cat is licking its paws. She ponders over the great lesson in this drama.

OWNER'S REPORT

BITS AND PIECES

By Bill Turner

A LADY called in the other day to say we were "all wet."

We had quoted the county agent and SCS people as saying about "75 to 80 per cent" of the cotton in Lamb County had been planted.

"I don't know how they came up with that," said the lady, who lives south of here. "Nobody around us has planted...it's so dry they're afraid it would blow away."

Homalu Hood, our gal editor, says the county agent and SCS were referring to all of Lamb County, in general, so the heavier planting must be north of us.

Anyhow, I wish we were "all wet," with about a three inch rain!

INCIDENTALLY, we're having a tough time getting Homalu to write a story about herself.

She started work 10 days ago, taking Tex Rogers' place after Tex decided to head for a farm magazine job.

But, things have been really hectic around here, what with Mother's Day, the Keeton Felt and Supply opening a 14 million and one odds and ends on the news side.

"I would have written one," Homalu says, "because I'm not publicity shy at all."

In fact, she says she still will get around to it.

"If I just ever get time to interview myself...."

SPEAKING OF RAIN, we heard a good story the other day from a local businessman, who will remain unnamed.

He had received a note from a California man who owed him a delinquent account.

"I would pay you right now," the note read, "but we've had too much rain and things aren't going so good."

The businessman said he felt like replying:

"Send the money....or the rain!"

ONE THING about it; everyday it doesn't rain is a day closer to the time that it will.

OUT AT KEETON FELT, where they are planning a big open house this morning, Manager Bill Damron has been having his troubles.

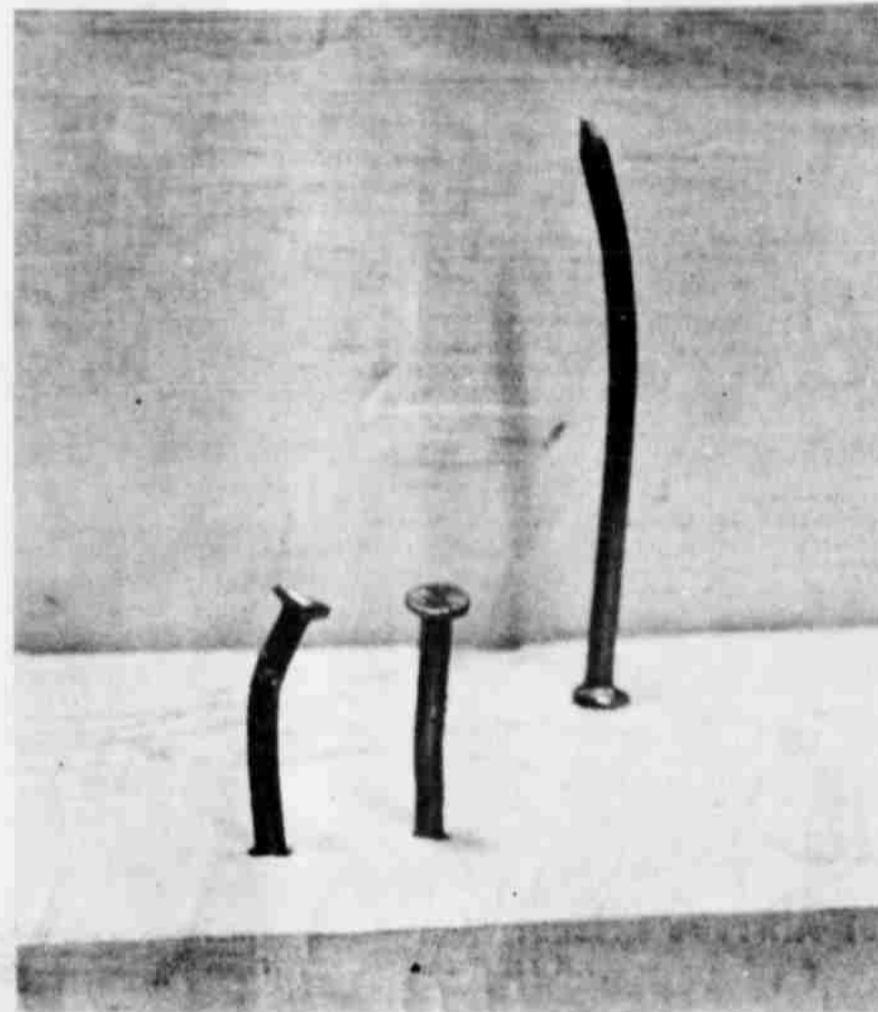

He's been trying to get everything spic and span for the opening, all the while working on equipment to get it ready for production.

The company's first carload of cotton batting is just about ready for shipment, but it's been a job to get it going, what with training brand-new employees on just-pu-together machinery.

We heard by the grapevine that one part in the blender went in backwards at the beginning and caused all sorts of delay.

Another machine went on the blink and they lost a full week.

So I guess you could say...."When it rains, it pours!"

"I JUST CAN'T STAND A SHOWOFF"

Work They Call A Game

By PAUL HARVEY

Golf is a four-letter abbreviation for masochism.

Golf is an unending duel between a big man and a little ball, which no man has ever won. Some have died trying.

Once upon a time, industrialist Sewell Avery, on the tenth tee at Chicago Golf Club, after four drives into the water, threw down his club, stomped off toward the showers, livid with rage, shouting to the remainder of his foursome this deathless phrase: "I'm a rich man; I don't have to put up with this!"

Golfers are powered by the alternating currents of frustration and exhilaration. Nor rain nor sleet nor snow nor dark of night can stay them from their appointed rounds.

The Earl of Sandwich is said to have said: "I was playing golf the day the Germans landed."

"Our troops were scattered, all our ships were stranded."

"And the thought of England's shame... very nearly spoiled my game."

Golf: A goofy preoccupation invented by a divorce lawyer. Even when a golfer is home he is not home.

If a man is a saint or a cheat, golfing will bring out the worst in him.

Golfers fuss, fret, fume and get ulcers on their ulcers if they are delayed two minutes by the foursome ahead.

Then they return to the nineteenth hole and kill two hours.

Golf is a jealous mistress.

If a man can't shoot golf in the eighties, he has no business playing golf. If he can't he has no business.

In golf, you hit down on the ball to make it go up, hit easy to make it go far.

In golf, you shout, "Fore!" shoot six -- and write down five.

And that is the truth.

Not everything about the game is. The golfer who says he shoots his age, more likely shoots his weight. Unless he is negotiating a wager, in which case the ratio is reversed.

An amateur golfer works years to get to be a pro -- then works harder as a pro to try to save enough money to retire -- and play golf.

Golfers buried on Wednesdays, Saturdays and Sunday afternoons have very small funerals.

But for all the anguish of it, not in any avocation will you find more compatible companions, for the sport itself keeps its participants healthy, humble and poor.

I don't know where good golfers go when they die, but I've an idea the worms will open their eyes in a hereafter of warm sunshine and yawning fairways and small bunkers and velvet greens and no waiting at the first tee -- for there will be NOBODY WITH WHOM TO PLAY.

That will be Hell.

(Copr. T-M, 1967 Gen. Fea. Corp.)

The Upper Room

"Quench not the Spirit." (1 Thessalonians 5:10)

A lad found it difficult to waken in the morning. His mother gave him an alarm clock. This seemed to work well for a few days, but once more he began to oversleep.

"Johnny," his mother asked, "why don't you use the alarm?"

"Oh, I do," he replied, "but when it rings, I shut it off and go to sleep again. Sometimes I hardly hear it."

The ear and mind can become so accustomed to sounds that they make no impact, and the mind is not really aware of them.

If we disregard the call of the Holy Spirit, the "ears" of the soul become dull, and in time quite deaf. It is to our hurt if we quench the Holy Spirit in our lives. If we listen and obey, we become more and more receptive to His voice and direction. He will never force Himself upon anyone, but the persons whose mind and heart are open to His call will receive His blessing.

PRAYER: Dear Father we thank Thee for the gift of the Holy Spirit. We pray that we may have always an open mind and heart to receive His word and wisdom, grace to obey, and Thy guidance and blessing in all phases of our lives. Help us to manifest the fruits of the Spirit. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: The refining fire of the Holy Spirit consumes the dross in our lives.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

Money In Right Places?

By Larry Fuhrmann

Our State Capitol Correspondent

Funds haven't been appropriated and Texas hasn't been redistricted -- and it's late. With only two weeks remaining in this legislative session, lawmakers in the Capitol City have plenty to accomplish if they are to finish without going into a special session.

Hopefully, it won't come to this. Lawmakers -- including our own Bill Clayton of Springlake -- are more than slightly anxious to get home. They will be back in Austin again next year, however, for a special session to appropriate funds for another fiscal year. The new method of appropriating funds set down by Governor Connally will require annual sessions.

Just getting money to the right places is a chore in the two houses now. The House of Representatives is working on its own appropriations bill, hopefully getting money to some of the State's agencies that appear to be needing more funds than the Senate wants to give them.

A bill put together by the Senate raised the ire of Governor Connally, who lambasted the august body for slighting parts of the government whose needs are quite pressing.

Governor Connally wasn't the only one to be upset over the senate appropriations bill -- the House of Representatives has its own retorts to be made, and they are being worked into the form of another appropriations bill at this moment.

Rep. Clayton explains a central point in the hassle can be seen in the teacher pay raise which senators were ready to ramrod through; unfortunately, according to the Senate version, the extra money for teachers might have to be taken out of the hands of state health agencies which are in bad shape as it is.

Teachers are not being forgotten, however -- not by any means. If all goes as expected, Rep. Clayton foresees surplus of $30 to $35 million which will go to teachers' salaries. But there are going to be a few other people considered first....

One of those agencies which needs more of the State's money includes the Austin State School for the Mentally Retarded. Its condition is what Rep. Glenn Vickery of Houston would call "shocking."

The school, with its 2,500 patients crammed into old buildings, understaffed by employees who are underpaid, was "one of the most shocking experiences of my life," the Texas lawmaker said after making an unexpected visit to the premises.

The description of the school is "pretty realistic," says Supt. Dr. Phillip Roos. "Our physical facilities are inadequate and overcrowded. There are not enough attendants and they do not get enough salaries."

People in the institutions are not forgotten, however, Roos claims. "Our attendants, as underpaid as they are, are tremendously interested in trying to help our residents."

Describing his visit to the school, Rep. Vickery said, "The odor of human excretion was nauseating... My first encounter here was a blind boy of about nine, feces covering his back and legs, stumbling along, bumping into walls and other children, helpless and forgotten."

The superintendent of the school said special classes are being held for the blind and the deaf -- but apparently funds are not enough to get the job done the way this legislator would like to see it.

Roos said funds to completely renovate the school and build new facilities had been requested of the legislature but he had little hope of getting them. Crowded conditions -- and improper ones -- were cited by Rep. Vickery. He reported seeing a student (who had once attempted an escape) "locked behind bars in a small cubicle with a cement floor and mattress."

Only increase seen in funds immediately will be an upgrading of salaries, which may help the employment situation somewhat.

Citizens don't need to think, however, that Texas has completely turned its back on these unfortunate persons; new schools have been proposed for Richmond, Lubbock and Corpus Christi, which may alleviate the situation.

Getting the complexly structured agencies in the State of Texas satisfied is no easy job for a legislator; he just has to hope that citizens will take the time to find out why taxes sometimes have to be changed, why spending has to go up.

A problem with voters was listed as an issue against the Governor's plan for making appropriations annually -- people react when politics hits them right square in the pocketbook. The State has to spend just as much money -- maybe more -- despite the fact elections may be just around the corner.

This is when lawmakers may have to decide which is more important -- getting re-elected or going ahead with programs that might take a bigger chunk in taxes. Your legislator not only has to represent you; sometimes he has to convince you that he knows what he's doing.

And speaking of getting re-elected -- Rep. Clayton will in all likelihood have a few changes made in his district again this year. The redistricting edict handed down by the courts has to be carried out right away throughout the State. The district is currently "out-of-bounds" in being over the 5 percent tolerance; every district should have 65,000 population.

Bailey County may be returned to his district, with Oldham being dropped, or perhaps Hartley County may be added to the present district.

All boundaries will be defined before legislators cut a trail at the end of the month.

Lions Win, Move Into 2nd Behind Rotary In LL Play

The Lions moved into second place in Major League play here Tuesday night with a narrow 2-1 victory over the Optimists.

Rotary maintained its lead with a 2-0 record, with the Lions in hot pursuit at 2-1.

LIONS 2, OPTIMISTS 1
Some alert base-running by Larry Hobratchsk gave the Lions a final inning victory over the Optimists here Tuesday night.

Hobratchsk singled and stole second, then moved in to score when the ball got away from Optimist fielders.

Larry also was the winning pitcher, as he allowed the Optimists only two hits. H. Perez was the losing hurler.

Terry Bryson had two singles for the Lions, while J. Cox had a homer and R. Cook's double for the Optimists.

WOW 5, BATSON 1

In Major League action Monday night WOW downed Batson Insurance 5-1.

Ricky Sanchez put on a fine show for WOW allowing only one hit to the Batson team. Randy Dayton, the losing pitcher, pitched a close game allowing only five runs to WOW.

Dayton also gave his team his best effort at bat, making Batson's only run.

Billy Ledbetter led the WOW hitting with his first inning homer.

Littlefield Butane 16-5

Littlefield Butane took a 16-5 win over the Lions in Saturday night's Major League action.

The lead was taken by Littlefield Butane in the second inning at 4-2 and held it throughout the game.

Frank Yohner was the winning pitcher allowing only five hits. R. V. Armstrong was the losing pitcher.

Leading from the batters box for Littlefield Butane were Ricky Richards with two doubles and a single and Connie Bowman with three singles.

Terry Bryson with a double and Randall Parker with two singles led the Lions' hitting.

Amherst Takes Lead In Pony League Play

Amherst edged Ware-Richey, 9-8, last Saturday night at Amherst to take the lead in the Littlefield Area Pony League.

The Amherst nine sports a 2-0 record, followed by KZZN and Dairy Queen at 2-1.

KZZN walloped Dairy Queen, 20-5, Saturday night to move into the second place tie.

Robert Tijertina was the winner for KZZN, while Author Johnson took the loss.

Michael Holmes led the KZZN attack with two home runs and a double. Jerrell Haberer had a homer for Dairy Queen.

WARD PUMP, 14-10

A 13-run fourth inning brought Ward Pump its first victory of the season Tuesday night, and dropped Batson from the league lead.

The Pump Men came through with a 14-10 win, with Jerry Don Dickson the winning pitcher. Ricky Hodge was the loser.

Batson had an 8-1 lead going into the bottom of the fourth, when the Ward Pump team sprang its big inning.

Dickson and Frank Cavazos each had two singles for Ward Pump's attack. John Joe Baise had a double and two singles while Tommy Batson had a double and single for Batson Insurance.

VFW SCORES, 14-6
A seven-run fourth inning gave VFW its 14-6 win over Security State Bank.

The Vets were down, 6-4, and pushed into an 11-6 lead with the big inning.

Danny Brockington was the winning pitcher, while Jim Bob Harris took the loss.

REV. LEON HILL
Junior-Senior Banquet Held

ANTON — Juniors of Anton High School honored seniors with their annual banquet Friday night at the Crescent House in Littlefield, with an "Evening in Paris" decorative theme.

Rev. Leon Hill, Amarillo, widely known public speaker, gave the main address of the evening. The theme of his address was "What is America - Anyhow?" He gave a down-to-earth talk on the habits, tendencies, traditions, laws and feelings that are America.

Dickey Van Hoose, president of the junior class, acted as master of ceremonies. Invocation was given by Danny Markham. Miss Patricia Sneed provided piano selections for dinner music. Drue Dunaway, president of the senior class, gave the response. Scott Cate gave the class will and prophecy for the class of 1967. Tom Landers gave the benediction.

Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cummings, superintendent, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. M.C. Gary, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Spradley, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Goen, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Glasscock, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas James, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Teague, Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Hodges, Mr. and Mrs. Zade Hooper, members of the faculty, and junior class.

PAINTING HINTS
You can avoid a cluttered look in smaller rooms by painting the trim the same color as your walls. On doors, door frames and window sills that collect finger marks and receive more wear, it is best to use a matching semi-gloss enamel.

HART CAMP

WHO WILL PAY YOUR LAST DEBT?

The last thing you'll do on earth is create a debt for someone else to pay. Could your family afford the doctor and hospital bills, funeral expenses, attorney's fees, court costs and current bills? Or would the money have to come from the insurance you had figured would pay off the mortgage? Or from the kids' education fund? A Woodmen of the World "Cleanup Fund" is a far better answer; a life insurance plan for the special purpose of paying your final expenses. Call today. Check the low cost and get the full story on Woodmen of the World's outstanding fraternal and social benefits.

Also investigate Woodmen's Health and Accident and Income Protection plans.

Band Parents Elect Officers

Officers were named at the recent monthly meeting of the Band Parents organization. Named to fill the post of president were Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Joe Wiseman; vice-president, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Black; secretary, Mrs. Bobby Jack Markham; treasurer, Mrs. Bob Drake; and food chairman, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Rogers assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Ray, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wiseman, and Mr. and Mrs. Billy Mack Templeton.

Presiding at the meeting was the outgoing president, Jerry Ray, when plans were made to sponsor parties for the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grade band students.

The next band parents meeting will be held in September.

Try Camaro—"The Hugger"

Camaro hugs a road closer, straightens a curve easier because it's the widest stance sportster at its price. It's lower, heavier, too...big-car solid and steady. You get a better ride, more precise handling for your money. Ask any Camaro owner, he'll tell you.

Now, during the Camaro Pacesetter Sale, you also get special savings on specially equipped sport coupes and convertibles. Save on all this: the 250-cu.-in. Six, whitewalls, wheel covers, bumper guards, wheel opening moldings, body striping, deluxe steering wheel, extra brightwork inside. And, at no extra cost during the Sale, get a floor shift for the 3-speed transmission and the sporty hood stripe! Compare Camaro. See your Chevrolet dealer now. (Sale savings, too, on specially equipped Fleetside pickups, Model CS10934.)

Students Council Conducts Flag Disposal Ceremony

ANTON -- The Student Council of Anton Junior-Senior High School conducted a flag disposal ceremony at Bulldog Stadium, May 17 at 3:15 p.m. This ceremony honored the United States Flag which has flown over the Anton schools until recently. In contrast to some of the "flag burning" in other parts of the country, this was a solemn ceremonial flag burning to do honor to the flag which has served as a symbol of our American freedoms, justice, and democracy.

Witness, Charles D. Jones, Clerk of the County Court of Lamb County, Texas.

Given under my hand and seal of said Court, at office in the City of Littlefield, Texas, this 16th day of May, A. D. 1967.

VISION IN BLUE -- Arthur Duggan Jr., who was president of Littlefield Chamber of Commerce during negotiations for Keeton Felt & Supply Co. to be located here, referred to the completed plant as a "vision in blue." Major structures in the plant are two large steel buildings with exteriors in a shade of international blue. Duggan apparently thought of the venture as industrial vision solidified in blue steel. Entrance to one building is pictured above.

Batting Industry Enriches County

Scheduled ribbon cutting at 9 a.m. today officially opens Littlefield's new $300,000 cotton batting industry, Keeton Felt & Supply Co., located at the north edge of the city on S. 34th.

Although the plant already is in operation, city and out-of-town dignitaries, including Harry H. Keeton Jr., chairman of the Board of Keeton Industries and Keeton Felt & Supply Co., with headquarters in Oklahoma City, Okla., will conduct ceremonial ceremonies and events including guided tours of the Employing 25 persons in its early stages of operation, the plant is expected to pour between $100,000 and $200,000 annually to area economy.

Product to be manufactured is cotton batting for use in furniture, mattresses and auto upholstery. Plans also have called for the manufacture of blankets.

Raw material used in the manufacturing will be cotton motes, a waste material obtainable from gins in the area. Availability of the motes was a major factor in choosing the Littlefield site. The plant will clean and felt the material.

Products will be sold to mattress, upholstery, furniture and auto manufacturing companies through Keeton Industries.

The plant is comprised of two all-steel buildings with 45,000 square feet of floor space and is constructed on a 10-acre tract in the Littlefield Industrial Corporation's industrial area.

Littlefield Industrial Corp. supplied $60,000 of the $300,000 construction cost for the plant and Small Business Administration provided the remaining $240,000.

No grants are involved in the transaction. The $300,000 is a loan in the form of a 20-year lease-purchase contract with an interest rate of five and one-half per cent.

While awaiting approval of the SBA loan, persons involved in the project proceeded with preliminaries and the SBA's okay came in mid-October within two days of deadline for acquiring the financial aid. Construction began Nov. 14, 1966.

IN LITTLEFIELD AREA

Manager Recognized Business Potential

Littlefield is a long hope from California where Bill Damron, plant manager at Keeton Felt & Supply Co., lived from the time he was about 16 years old until moving here in 1962.

What brought him here? "Visits to Earth and this area," he explains. "I saw business opportunities to be pursued here and did so."

As for his visits to Earth, he explains further, "I married a girl from Earth." His wife is the former Marjorie Danforth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Danforth of Earth, a pioneering family there. He and Marjorie have a daughter, Pamela, age 16.

It came about in this way. His older sister married a man from Earth and moved there. Damron began visiting his sister frequently and first met his future wife when he was about 10 years old.

In this manner, Damron became sold on the Littlefield area, and it was Damron who interested Harry H. Keeton in the project of building a cotton batting plant here.

Damron said he has known Keeton all his life. "My father was in the mattress business and Keeton's father in the bedding supply business. My father brought supplies from his father."

Keeton's headquarter plant is located at Oklahoma City, although other plants operate in several cities and states. The time came when he needed either to enlarge his Oklahoma City plant or build another one in a new location.

EXPERIENCED PLANT MANAGER -- Bill Damron, shown studying batting material for quality, says he has been in mattress business "all my life." He merged his mote cleaning plant here with the Keeton plant and became manager of Littlefield's new Keeton Felt & Supply Co.

PLEASED CHAIRMAN -- Enthusiasm and pleasure were registered by Harry H. Keeton Jr., chairman of the board of Keeton Felt & Supply Co., a subsidiary of Keeton Industries, when he participated in ground-breaking ceremonies at the site of the now completed new cotton batting industry here.

Meanwhile, Damron was operating a mote cleaning business at Littlefield and selling mote to Keeton. He suggested this area to Keeton because of availability of the raw material, cotton mote, from area gins and because of his belief in the area's future.

Now the Littlefield plant has become reality, with official opening ceremonies today, and already future expansion is in the air.

Damron said within a year or so the plant expects to employ at least 25 persons with an annual salary output ranging upward between $100,000 and $200,000.

He continued, "By next year we have hopes of adding multi-quilt machines to manufacture quilted bedspreads. We might later process a bonded felt or bonded cotton sprayed with glue or chemical to bind the fibers into a really tough merchandise which would broaden our market. Our far-reaching plans are to continue expanding consistently."

Currently, eight men are employed at the plant. "Our problem is to train employees," he explained. "When we get these people trained, we plan to add eight or nine more. Maybe go on two shifts. After training the second group, we plan to add more, and so on."

At the time Damron became manager at Keeton's he said he merged his mote cleaning plant with the local Keeton plant in order to give full attention to the new industry.

Damron said his recreational interest is camping and fishing. "We have a camper and like to camp and fish, but there has been little time for it these last few months with activities here so pressing."

The Damrons attend First Baptist Church.

Cotton, Water Meetings Set

One of the prime topics of discussion in cotton circles today, from producers through the textile industry, is the possible need for increased cotton production in 1968.

The subject is slated for its first formal treatment by producers May 23 when American Cotton Producers Associates meet in Washington. ACPA is made up of representatives from virtually all of the nation's regional and state cotton producer associations, including Plains Cotton Growers Inc., Lubbock.

Shippers, mills and some producers began calling on the Department of Agriculture to permit additional production in 1967, basing the need on a possible shortage of good quality cotton stapling 1-1/16 inches or longer.

Stock of such cotton in Commodity Credit Corporation is about gone and those advocating increased acreage for 1968 contend privately held stocks plus 1967 production will be inadequate to meet market demands.

V.A. Maudr, president of the Houston Cotton Exchange, said last month "The surplus of longer staple cotton in desirable micronaire is now nearly exhausted and we are faced with an extremely serious problem for this coming season...Not only shall we not have enough desirable cotton for our domestic mills but also for export to our traditional customers...."

Different Light

USDA staff economist Frank Lowenstein views the situation in a slightly different light. Speaking to the Cotton Buyers Division of the South Carolina Textile Manufacturers Assn. recently, he said "During the 1966-67 season we estimate that about 39 per cent of our supply will be 1-1/16 inches and longer. This is the smallest proportion of the supply in these staple lengths since 1958 and represents about 10.2 million bales."

After stating the 1966-67 supply of shorter staples, under one inch, was about 32.6 per cent of the total, or 8.5 million bales, he said "These proportions are significant, but they do not spell a shortage for the longer cotton during the current season. We expect the carryover of cotton which is 1-1/16 inches and longer to be well over 2 million bales on August 1, 1967, but CCC will own little of this cotton."

Lowenstein went on to say that the proportion of longer staple cotton in the 1967 crop is expected to be greater, and that together with the carryover should "provide a sufficient supply of cotton 1-1/16 inches and longer."

Even so, at the conclusion of his address he conceded the 1968 cotton program would likely be modified. "If developments next season (consumption developments) are as good as in the current season, a larger cotton crop and more acreage may be needed in 1968," he said.

Producers naturally favor acreage and production increases if they can be had without disrupting the anticipated benefits from declining surplus stocks. So their greatest concern is that the method or methods used to achieve an increase be one which will not adversely affect income, if and when such an increase is found desirable.

Under the Food and Agriculture Act of 1965, there are various routes USDA could take. It is generally accepted that an administrative revision of the rules to permit skip-row planting without penalty would bring about a larger crop as well as an improvement of overall quality, and some observers feel such a change is definitely coming.

Reducing the current 12.5 per cent of allotments which producers are required to divert in order to participate in the program might also lead to greater planted acreage. But there would be no guarantee of increased plantings unless this move were coupled with a reduction in the payment for diverted acreage to make them economically attractive.

Another method which has been mentioned would be reducing the payment rate on only that acreage, between the minimum 12.5 per cent and the maximum 35 per cent, which producers may voluntarily divert. This would be a substantial blow to producer income and many believe would create serious administrative problems.

The law requires payments on mandatory diversion be at least 25 per cent of parity, which this year comes to 10.78 cents per pound times projected yield. On acreage voluntarily diverted, the Secretary may set the payment rate anywhere between zero and 40 per cent of parity.

It is considered possible, but not very likely in view of the language of the law, that the domestic allotment percentage, now 65 per cent of total allotments, could be raised. In effect this would reduce the maximum permissible diversion with payment. But it is difficult to see just how the Secretary would justify such a change under the formula he has given in the law for calculating domestic allotments.

These, and perhaps others, are some of the possibilities that ACPA will be considering on May 23.

May 24 Meeting
The program now is set for a public meeting on May 24 to form Water, Inc., a planning organization which will work toward the importation of water to the West Texas area for use in agriculture, industry, cities and recreation, according to J.D. Smith of Littlefield.

Smith, president of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., is serving as chairman of the Membership and Organization Committee of the new water organization. He said the meeting would begin at 2 p.m. in the KoKo Palace, Lubbock, and emphasized the importance of the meeting to all who have a stake in the future of West Texas.

Purpose of the meeting is to inform the general public of progress made toward securing imported water, to formally adopt a charter and by-laws for Water, Inc., and to elect its directors.

QUITE AN ACCOMPLISHMENT -- Chamber and City officials are wearing happy smiles because of the new industry in Littlefield -- a dream come true after months of hard work. Arthur Duggan, Jr., not shown, was president of the Chamber when groundwork was laid for

BIDS SUBMITTED -- Mancil Hall, second from left, secretary-treasurer, is shown when he reported bid figures to members of Littlefield Industrial Corp. for construction of the city's new cotton batting industry, Keeton Felt and Supply, in October, 1966. Plains Steel Buildings Inc. of Lubbock was granted the contract. At time photo was made, approval of a $240,000 loan from Small Business Administration still was pending. Industrial Corp. added $60,000 to the lease-purchase contract. Pictured, left to right, are Kenneth Reast, Hall, E. J. Wicker, R. B. Chandler and Arthur Duggan Jr. Duggan was Chamber of Commerce president during efforts to secure the industry here.

Quality Improved By Block Ginning

One of the major problems in marketing cotton produced on the South Plains is the lack of fiber uniformity -- within the bale and from bale to bale.

Fiber uniformity can be improved through block ginning; and thereby, create a greater market demand for the area's cotton, say Area Agronomist Robert Metzger of Extension Service and Levon Ray, associate professor, Texas A&M University.

What is block ginning? This concept is the ginning of cotton from a single variety and with similar fiber properties in large lots (40 to 50 or more bales). One variety gins or communities would be classified, of course, as block ginning. However, this program can be carried out without all farms within the community being involved or even the total acreage of the participating growers.

Cotton grouped within a block should be not only of the same variety but also produced under similar conditions -- soil type, irrigation practices, planting date, etc. Hail, insect or disease damage should be considered. It should be remembered that the main objective is to obtain bales of uniform fiber quality to better supply and meet the demands of the market.

As a result of uniform fiber quality, several advantages can be realized under this program. A few are listed below:

1. By approaching the market with a large supply of uniform fiber, the producer is in a better position to market cotton from a quality standpoint.
2. The fiber properties -- length, strength, etc. -- can be represented to the mill with a good degree of reliability.
3. The movement of two-sided bales into market is avoided.
4. Ginning in large lots enables the producer and ginner to meet mill demands. Specific markets may be attained through variety selection, production control and custom ginning.
5. As a group, quality problems which may arise between the producer and the mill are solved more effectively, assistance from county specialists and other agents can be more effectively used.

6. Production of good seed is simplified. Natural mixtures of seed are reduced by ginning in large lots.

7. Group action by producers can accomplish better and disease control in the community.

Employing the block ginning concept will usually be done by producer groups in a community.

The program may be (1) cooperative effort by producers and ginner working through cotton buyers and seed producers, (2) cooperative organizations working independently with users.

1. The producers must investigate the market potential for the variety to be considered. This and the environment at hand -- insects, diseases, available irrigation water -- should be considered as the basis for selecting the variety.

2. Producers under this program must agree on major cultural practices to be common to their selected variety. This involves a similar planting schedule, similar soil type, similar irrigation schedule -- and the amount of water, particularly, a starting and ending date for irrigating should be agreed upon.

3. Planting seed must have high viability and variety purity and from a reputable source.

4. Cotton subjected to age from hail, insects, disease or late-planting should be excluded in the block ginning.

5. To be successful, participating producers must themselves to exclude quality fiber or cotton of any variety in order to market uniform, high quality pro-

Serving All Your Financial Needs

FIBER, METER, BLENDER -- First step in converting the raw material, cotton notes, into cotton batting at Keeton Felt & Supply Co. plant is the fiber meter and blending machine. Fiber meter sets weight scales indicating percentage of grades desired -- perhaps 25 per cent of each -- then the prescribed cotton is metered to a conveyor which in turn meters it to the blending portion of the machine.

GARNETT FEEDER -- After blending, fibers then are metered into a garnett machine and into the machine's saws which maneuver all the fibers so that they run in the same direction. The process is similar to a combing or carding machine. After combing, the blended fibers are ready for processing into bales of varied thickness determined by the particular use which it is designed.

MOVING APRONS -- From the garnett machine, the fiber is fed to moving aprons. In approximate center of above photo is seen a sheet (which can be the thickness of paper toweling if desired) being lowered to slow-moving floor apron. Sheets are folded back and forth. The layers then travel through a series of compression rollers which press them into inch-thick padding.

AUTOMATIC BAT FOLDER -- From the rollers, the padding goes onto an automatic bat folder. Fingers of the machine, shown at right, are in process of folding as the padding comes off an apron. After folding to three-layer thickness, bats are automatically cut off. Shown here is Ronny Smith, office manager, cutting a bat as it falls. All personnel are helping with every plant operation at this time.

Santa Fe Aids Plant Layout

Industrial Development Dept. of the Santa Fe Railway, headed by Joe S. Clark, provided much of the planning for plant layout of the new Littlefield branch of Keeton Felt and Supply Co.

Officials of Littlefield Industrial Corp. said the Santa Fe assisted on the layout and participated financially by assuming a portion of the track cost at the plant.

Littlefield's location on a main line of the Santa Fe aided materially in locating the industry here, officials have explained.

SHOULDERED FINANCING RESPONSIBILITY -- Littlefield Industrial Corp. took over the financing responsibility of Keeton Felt & Supply Co. after the Chamber of Commerce Industrial Committee had completed groundwork negotiations to bring the industry here. Pictured are the corporation's officers, left to right, Kenneth Reast, vice president; Mancil Hall, secretary-treasurer, and E. J. Wicker, president.

Industrial Corporation Uses Sound Practices

Sound business principles have been practiced in considering new industry for this city by Littlefield Industrial Corp. since receiving its charter March 6, 1963.

Purpose of the corporation is to serve as a financing agency for new industry. Initial proposing and negotiating are the responsibilities of the Industrial Committee of Littlefield Chamber of Commerce.

Littlefield's new cotton batting industry, Keeton Felt & Supply Co., was secured through the efforts of the Industrial Corp. which provided $60,000 of the $300,000 lease-purchase loan, with Small Business Administration furnishing the remainder. Interest rate for the total 20-year loan is five and one-half per cent.

Current officers of the Industrial Corp. are E. J. Wicker, president; Kenneth Reast, vice president; and M. L. Hall, secretary-treasurer.

Directors are Arthur P. Duggan Jr., Virrell Roberts, R. B. Chandler and O. J. Mangum.

Upon organization of the corporation, Littlefield Development Corp. was in the process of dissolving and agreed to stipulate $62,500 of its funds to launch the new corporation's funds.

A goal of $125,000 was set for the new fund and those purchasing stock exceeded the total.

Organizing officers were Jerry Sanders, president; Troy Armes, vice president, and Jack Wicker, secretary-treasurer. After successful completion of stock sales, Clyde Hilbun was elected to the presidency.

Both the corporation and the Chamber's committee have given fair and careful hearings to industrial prospects for this city.

SBA Aids Programs To Boost Industry

Small Business Administration which provided $240,000 of a $300,000 lease-purchase agreement to finance construction of Keeton Felt & Supply Co., now a functioning industry in Littlefield, is an agency of the federal government that helps communities who help themselves.

Communities of all sizes can be aided in strengthening and increasing businesses through the agency.

By forming a "local development company" communities may receive financial backing from SBA up to $8 for each $2 raised by the company. Through organization of Littlefield Industrial Corp., an SBA loan was secured for the new cotton batting industry here.

Average interest rate is five and one-half per cent, but if a bank participating in a loan charges less, SBA will reduce its rate, although not below five per cent unless a community is hard hit by unemployment. In the latter case, SEA will go to four per cent.

SEA has assisted hundreds of communities, creating about 33,000 new jobs and increasing income and tax revenue.

Keeton Story Began Seventy Years Ago

How did Keeton Felt & Supply Co. come to Littlefield? It's a long story that began almost 70 years ago and winds through several cities and states, with Littlefield the latest stop on its course.

In 1898 Keeton Industries was begun as a family operation in the Texas city of Fort Worth. Being an "industrious industry," it grew.

Since then, it has expanded to plants in Oklahoma City, Houston, Texarkana, Chicago, Phoenix and Atlanta. Headquarters have been established in Oklahoma City, although a plant remains in Fort Worth.

Keeton Felt & Supply Co. is an individual corporation, subsidiary to Keeton Industries.

Then came the 1960's, and Bill Damron, now the Littlefield plant manager, introduced Harry H. Keeton Jr., chairman of the Board of Keeton Industries and Keeton Felt & Supply Co., to the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce Industrial Committee headed by Mancil Hall.

Along with Arthur Duggan, Chamber president, and other members of the committee, Hall began negotiations.

In accord with the guidelines laid down when Littlefield Industrial Corp. was established, when negotiations reached the point of financing, the committee introduced Keeton to E. J. Wicker, president of the corporation and a final agreement was reached.

Result -- today a new Littlefield industry has its formal opening.

And -- the result proves the wisdom and feasibility of original planning in which the Chamber's Industrial Committee serves as a prospecting and negotiating team only.

In turn, the Industrial Corporation's only function is to provide the funds and financial "know-how" to culminate construction of new industry for Littlefield.
