Rains Saturday and Monday Insure Big Crops for Plains

Rain mingled with hail and totaling one inch fell over Littlefield and surrounding territory last Saturday, relieving definitely the questionable moisture situation of this section. Monday night another rain of about one-half inch visited this section, falling in steady manner for about four hours and soaking well into the ground.

The hail accompanying the rain Saturday night is reported to have done more or less damage to young growing crops in the area located north and northwest of Littlefield. Around Olton and Earth, in the northern part of the county the damage is reported severe in some spots, the hail damage becoming greater toward Amarillo where eight inches is reported to have fallen, producing much loss of wheat in that section.

With the excellent underground moisture content, the recent rains will mean excellent crop prospects for this vicinity. Some of the cotton damaged Saturday night will be replanted and many more acres will be sown to feed and other row crops.

Reports coming in from daily newspapers indicate the recent rains to have been general throughout the South Plains and Panhandle sectors.

Tuesday night there was another rain of .87 inches, making a total of 2.41 so far during the month.

Pope Appeals Case to Court Criminal Appeals

John M. Pope, convicted in Garza county district court by jury, June 3, and sentenced to six years in the penitentiary, has been released on a bond of $7,500 signed by local citizens and friends of the defendant, who is charged with having accepted deposits in the Southland Bank when he knew the bank to be insolvent.

Notice of appeal has been filed by Pope's attorneys, Bills & Hazel, and the case will be heard in the Court of Criminal Appeals, Austin, probably sometime during the month of February.

It is understood that six other charges of a similar nature are pending against Pope, and it is likely a motion will be made by Pope's attorneys for a change of venue from Garza county.

Committee To Know Saturday If Offices Divided in This Co.

Saturday of this week is the last day for county and precinct candidates to file requests for their names to be placed on the ballots for the coming primary election. The following Monday the County Executive committee will meet at the court house in Olton to determine the order of names as they shall appear on the ballot and to estimate the expenses of the election, apportioning each candidate his pro rata part. Guy Willis, of Olton, is chairman of the Democratic Executive County committee, and Otto Jones, of this city, is committee member from this precinct.

In addition to formulating the ticket for the coming election, one of the important duties of the committee will be to determine whether the offices of Sheriff and Tax Collector and that of County Judge and County Superintendent of Schools will be separated, the law providing for such separation when the population of a given county has reached the total of 10,000. It is generally conceded that such a total has been reached in Lamb county and a statement of such population will be given out the latter part of this week by O. M. Unger, Plainview, who has charge of the census enumeration of this district in which Lamb county is included. Several candidates have already made announcements for these offices to be separated.

Republican Primary
Because of the large vote polled by Republicans in Texas at the last election, the law makes it mandatory that this party also hold primary elections this year, and such will be held concurrent with the Democratic primary on July 26th. Vic Nelson, of Sudan, is county chairman of the Republican committee. State candidates have been nominated by this party, but it is not thought that a county ticket will be named this year.

Ernest Hafer, residing in an east side Tourist camp was stabbed last Friday morning, and A. L. Hood, proprietor of the camp where Hafer lived is being held under bond of $1,000 on a charge of assault with intent to murder, according to County Attorney T. Wade Potter.

The affair is reported to have resulted from an altercation in which Hafer is said to have been in debt to Hood for camp rent. Hafer stated he offered to pay a note he had given Hood, but Hood insisted the entire debt be liquidated. Hafer was stabbed over the heart, the gash being about two inches long, and nearly three inches deep, according to the physician who dressed the wound. Monday morning he was reported in a serious condition. The examining trial of Hood was set for Tuesday afternoon.

Saint George Up to Date

LOOK AHEAD

"Eat, drink and be merry for tomorrow we die," has become apparently the most popular philosophy of the day. The Epicurean theory of living, broadened to include expensive cars, fine clothes, and all modern luxuries, is gaining adherents daily. The great majority of people seem to live with but one object in mind—to crowd every so-called pleasure into an uncertain period of existence.

The result is that many are living beyond their incomes and have become literally slaves, with the automobile companies, clothes shops and others owning their salaries for months ahead. The first of the month, with its flood of unpaid bills among which a pay check all too small must be divided, is an ordeal that is creating wrinkles and gray hairs.

Even the purchases cannot be fully enjoyed for worrying about how they are to be paid for. After the last installment is finally sent in, the articles are usually much worn or "Mrs. Jones" has a later model that one must have in order to keep up. What an existence!

Yet, the system of spending ahead is continually growing in favor. For instance, in the automobile field an analysis of the annual reports for 1929 show that there was an increase of approximately 12 per cent in the number of motorists purchasing automobiles on the installment plan. There was a total of 3,441,629 automobiles financed by the 411 companies. This increase would probably be shown in all industries whose products may be used for pleasure and purchased on the installment plan.

No doubt, many families are denying themselves the necessities of life that they may obtain the luxuries.

Too few people look ahead and provide for the future. The nest that once retained the nest egg has been discarded for lack of use. The probability of a rainy day has been forgotten. Because today the hen is laying and the sun is shining, the eggs are eaten and the umbrella thrown away.

What is to be the ultimate result if this or the succeeding generation does not adopt a saner, sounder basis of living? It should be recalled that all pleasure is not gained by acquiring luxuries. They often are a source of grief rather than joy when one cannot in reality afford them. They give only an artificial pleasure at the most and one should pause occasionally and plan for the future. Look ahead and avoid a possible wreck.

C. O. MOSER, VICE-PRESIDENT OF AMERICAN COTTON CO-OPERATIVE ASSOCIATION WILL BE IN LITTLEFIELD, FRI., JUNE 22 TO SPEAK

Since Lamb county men have been working for the past three weeks especially, in the interest of securing a branch office and federally licensed cotton classifier to be located in this territory, considerable progress has been made.

Friday of last week, six men, representing the different interests made a trip to Plainview to meet C. O. Moser, vice-president of the American Cotton Cooperative Association, who has charge of branch office locations in this part of the state at this time, according to J. W. Hammock.

Mr. Moser agreed at this conference to be in Littlefield Friday June 20 for two meetings. One meeting is to be held in the morning at ten o'clock with the business interests, and the main meeting to be held at two o'clock p. m., for all the people who will come to hear what it is all about.

"This branch office when established will mean a new day for every cotton grower in this section of the state," said J. W. Hammock, "for it will take the guess out of the classing and marketing of cotton as far as the farmer is concerned. The grade will be furnished to any one who may call for this service whether he is a member of any organization or not, and the world price will be furnished each day on all grades of cotton.

POULTRY FACTS

POULTRY BREEDS AND HOW CLASSED

Chickens are divided into classes, breeds and varieties. Birds with the same general characteristics are placed in one class. Classes are then divided into breeds. Each breed of poultry is distinguished from other breeds by differences in type. Breeds are separated into varieties. The different varieties of the same breed are designated by differences in comb or color. All varieties of the same breed should have the same general type characteristics.

There are four general classes of chickens that are common and other classes less common.

The American class consists of birds that are of the general purpose type. They have yellow skin and legs, red ear lobes and legs free from feathers.

The breeds that make up this class are: Plymouth Rock, Wyandotte, Java, Dominique, Rhode Island Red, Rhode Island White, Buckeye, Jersey Black Giants and Chanticleer.

The Mediterranean class are smaller than the American class and are often known as the egg breeders. They are nervous in disposition, very active, compactly built, have white ear lobes and clean legs. The breeds that make up this class, are: Leghorn, Minorca, Spanish, Andalusian and Ancona.

Fowls that make up the Asiatic class are large and clumsy, have red ear lobes and feathers on their legs. They are often referred to as the meat breeds. Brahmas, Cochins and Langshans make up the breeds in this class.

The English class, while not as common as the other three already referred to, probably rank fourth in popularity. These birds are medium in size, have red ear lobes, clean legs that are pink in the buff and white varieties and black in the black varieties. The breeds making up this class are Orpingtons, Dorkings, Red Cape, Sussex and Cornish.

Selling Squab Broilers During Winter Months

Quite a number of the broiler plants make a specialty of squab broilers, which sell best during January and February. They are grown in about eight to ten weeks, the hatches coming out in November and December, and are successfully raised without any outdoor exercise.

The greatest demand for squab broilers is in spring, when game birds are scarce, and a small bird is in demand in restaurants. They should weigh from three-fourths to one pound, and must be plump. Many who ship squab broilers make a great mistake in sending bony, poor ones. Good returns cannot be expected from poor, scraggy birds, half dressed.

The broiler for the winter market must be attractive looking to command a ready sale at good prices. Plump chickens, neatly dressed, free from pin feathers, with unsold skin and with perfectly clean legs, will find a ready sale, while poor stuff goes begging. A fat broiler is quite a rarity. The best that can be done, generally, is to have them plump, for the natural tendency of the chick is to use all nutriment for growth and development. The main point is to grow them rapidly.

To grow good broilers there should be dry quarters provided, thoroughly cooked food, comfortable heat (not too high nor too low), regularity in feeding, cleanliness and good light. The chicks must be induced to take plenty of exercise.

Moving Pullet Flock

When there are many pullets to be moved it often pays to leave them in the crates over night and move the crates to the laying houses in the morning. Then the poultryman has a better light and can do a better job of culling and treating the birds for lice. As each pullet is taken from the crate, it can be inspected for weight, general health and vigor, and prospective laying ability. All birds that are poor prospects for winter profits can be isolated for future observation.

Improve Egg Quality

Much can be done to improve the quality of eggs produced by careful selection of eggs used for hatching purposes. All undersized, misshapen, off-color, and defective shelled eggs should be eliminated from the incubator. By following such a practice for a few years the quality of eggs laid by a flock should be materially improved. Egg dealers are willing now to pay a premium for high quality eggs. It is well to assort them according to size and color.

Feed to Help Pullets

Pullets must search for their feed on free range they will probably find sufficient food for body maintenance but growth will be slow and egg production will be impossible until late winter or early spring. Liberal feeding of grain and mash containing 20 per cent of high-grade tankage, or its place of tankage all the milk the pullets can drink, will not only reduce the amount of exercise but will hasten growth and stimulate fall egg production.

Experience of large fleet owners reveals the unusual reliability and economy of the new Ford

A SIGNIFICANT TRIBUTE to the value of the new Ford is found in its increasing use by Federal, state and city governments and by large industrial companies which keep careful day-by-day cost records. In most instances, the Ford has been chosen only after exhaustive tests of every factor that contributes to good performance—speed, power, safety, comfort, low cost of operation and up-keep, reliability and long life.

Prominent among the companies using the Ford are the Associated Companies of the Bell System, Armour and Company, The Borden Company, Continental Baking Corporation, Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, General Electric Company, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Kellogg Company, Knickerbocker Ice Company, Morton Salt Company, Pillsbury Flour Mills Company, The Procter and Gamble Company, and Swift & Company.

Each of these companies uses a large number of Ford cars and trucks. The Associated Companies of the Bell System use more than eight thousand.

Modern business moves at a fast pace and it needs the Ford. Daily, in countless ways and places, it helps to speed the production and delivery of the world's goods and extend the useful service of men and companies.

Constant, steady operation over many thousands of miles emphasizes the advantages of the sound design of the Ford car, its high quality of materials, and unusual accuracy in manufacturing. Beneath its graceful lines and beautiful colors there is a high degree of mechanical excellence.

An example of the value built into the Ford is the use of more than twenty ball and roller bearings. They are hidden within the car and you may never see them. Yet they play an important part in satisfactory, economical performance. Their function is similar to the jewels of a fine watch.

Throughout the Ford chassis, a ball or roller bearing is used at every place where it is needed to reduce friction and wear and give smooth, reliable mechanical operation.

At many points, as on the transmission counter-shaft, clutch release, fan and pump shaft, and front drive shaft, these ball and roller bearings are used where less costly types of bearings might be considered adequate.

Additional instances of the high quality built into the Ford are the extensive use of steel forgings, fully enclosed four-wheel brakes, Rustless Steel, four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves, torque-tube drive, three-quarter floating rear axle, and the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield.

The Ford policy has always been to use the best possible material for each part and then, through large production, give it to the public at low cost.

Home Demonstration Activities

The recipe as given below is the one used by the home demonstration agent and club women of Floyd county.

Making American Cheese

5 gallons of whole sweet milk.
1/2 of a No. 2 Rennet tablet.
1/4 of a cheese color tablet.
This amount will make better than four pounds of cheese. The following are necessary supplies that may be collected before making American cheese, a dairy thermometer; 2 round white pine boards or you may use 2 syrup bucket lids; 2 flour sacks; a one gallon syrup bucket; rennet and cheese color tablets which can be bought at the drug store, but if not in stock they will order them for you or tell you where they may be obtained. One rennet tablet is enough for 10 gallons of milk, and one color tablet is sufficient for 20 gallons of milk. A one gallon syrup bucket with the ends melted out, makes a fine hoop, and it is right size to use in making five gallons of milk. Two bucket lids inside the bucket, or two white pine boards cut to fit loosely inside the bucket are to be used in molding the cheese.

Use only the whole sweet milk; place it in a pressure cooker or any large container, and heat slowly to 86 degrees (Fahrenheit). Hold the thermometer with one hand, with the bulb in the milk. Stir the milk constantly from the bottom while it is heating so it will heat uniformly. (Watch the thermometer closely for it is easy to get the milk too hot, which will result in tough cheese. Be sure you do not lift the bulb of the thermometer out of the milk when reading). After the temperature reaches 86 degrees allow it to stand at this reading for one minute, remove from the fire, and mix in the cheese coloring which has been dissolved in 1/4 cup cold water. Stir (the milk will not look very yellow but will have the color of very rich cream.) Then add the cheese rennet which has been dissolved in 1/4 cup of cold water. Stir well. Cover with clean cloth and allow to stand for about thirty minutes. By this time the milk should have formed a firm even curd.
With a long knife (I have used a clean hand saw) cut in one inch columns each way, like you would cut home made soap. Let stand five minutes then the whey will begin to rise. Place the thermometer back in the milk, set back on the stove, and lift and stir the curd gently with your hand, each time going to the bottom of the container, to be sure that no part of the curd is allowed to stick to the bottom. The curd will break in particles about the size of a grain of corn. Heat slowly to 98 degrees, then after a minute remove from the stove, and pour off when by draining through a clean flour sack that has been ripped open and placed over a large pan (some container that will hold several gallons of whey). Drain a few minutes, all the time working it with your hands, to small pieces, to keep it from caking. At this time salt slightly, and it is ready to mold in the hoop. Place one bucket lid, or board in the bottom of the bucket, using the bucket upside down so the rim at the top will hold the board. Line the bucket with a flour sack, and firmly pack in the cheese while it is still warm, so it will press together firmly. Cover top of cheese with cloth, and place another board on top (or bucket lid).

A smooth rock or half brick must be placed under the bucket to push the bottom lid upward, so this way the whey can drain out between the lid and the bucket. Then apply 30 pounds of weights, anything heavy will do.

Let stand 5 or 6 hours, take cheese out of the hoop, change ends with cheese and place back in hoop. Add fifteen pounds additional weight. Let stand overnight, then remove from hoop. Place in another cloth and hang in a cool room (where there is no fire.) Turn morning and night for first week, then once during the day for second week. At the end of two weeks sew a cheese cloth around the cheese, and dip in melted paraffin. Let cure one week. It is then ready to eat when three weeks old, but each week age improves it. It is very delicious, and you will enjoy the clean fresh flavor.

It doesn't seem possible there could be so much unemployment in this country, with so many taking care of other people's business.

TAKE IT FROM DAD By Frank H. Cheley

Are All Politics Rotten?

The Smiththroughs, father and son, were seated in their usual after-dinner corners, Bob at his books and father with his trade journal, magazines and papers.

"Dad, I'm going to be a lawyer after all." Bob's opening shot!

"So," replied dad, laconically. "I was going in for public life—possibly be a senator," said Bob, seriously, "but I've about come to the conclusion it is not desirable after all. Dad, are politics rotten?"

"Been reading the papers a bit eh, Bob?" queried dad. "Well, I can hardly blame you for coming to such a conclusion with all the graft and scandal in high places, yet, Bob, the law is a very highly respected profession and just because here and there, now and then, a man high in public office sells his birthright for a mess of pottage you must not conclude that all of our vast army of public officials are crooks, by any means. America is what she is today as a nation, largely because of her type of government; a type of government which makes possible tremendous initiative on the part of officials, plus the fact that we still have vast natural resources easily exploited and wealth is so comparatively easily attainable by fair means or foul.

"Remember how we all enjoyed the box of salted nuts the other evening. They were unusually fine until you bit into a rancid one and then you didn't want any more. It would have been too bad to have concluded that you would never eat salted nuts again because of one bad one to a box.

"Let's go a little further, Bob. The strength of American life is the quality of its citizenry. Most men are honorable and honest. Of the probably more than one hundred thousand public officials, a large part of the leaders of which have a legal training, there is a very small per cent but that have rendered their day and time and constituency thoroughgoing honorable service, many, at large personal sacrifice. Here I was just now reading a splendid quotation from Roosevelt that has an exact bearing on the point.

"In our history there is now practically no mention of any great financier, of any great business man, who merely made money for himself. If at some crisis in the nation's history that financier rendered a great national service, or if he identified himself in useful fashion with some great movement for good, whether in art or philanthropy or otherwise, then his name remains. But even under these conditions it remains as a secondary value. America's contribution to permanent world history has been made by the statesmen and soldiers whose devotion to the country equalled their efficiency, by men of science, men of art, men of letters, by sane and honest reformers and social workers, who did great work and treated that work as in itself a great reward."

"The history of our growth and development as a nation is largely the story of the lives of high-minded men who have devoted themselves to the service of their fellows in some one of the thousand ramifications of our public life.

"True it is, my boy, that we have an oversupply of 'small fry' in the legal profession, but it is also true in the other professions. Human nature is no different in politics than in business or medicine or the other sciences.

"Some one has told us that the real value of great lives is to fertilize the imaginations of our youth. When you think politics, think of the great game that Washington played with his Continental congress; think of the great game that Lincoln played with millions of human lives at stake. Think of the great and fascinating game that Herbert Hoover played to feed the starving children of the world. Do not let your ideals and conclusions be reached by dwelling too much on the petty graft and mistakes of the greedy and overly ambitious few.

"True American citizenship means loyal service to God and country. Boys of sterling quality must be trained to enter politics—yes, to become fighting politicians; live-wire citizens who do their share of the public work, and Bob, you don't need to wait until you are a senator. Be a good straight-shooting, hard-hitting politician in school; in your club; in your camp; yes, in your gang.

"We must recognize that there are defects in our land and weaknesses in our systems; that our plan of things is not perfect; that all our institutions can be bettered; and that only by preparation and co-operation to make America the great democracy where there is less and less fear, more and more confidence in each other and a united hope for even better things, will a new day come.

"Good and bad politics, Bob, bring up another point, too, that it is well to consider. Good politics is simply loyalty. Everybody likes the fellow who stands up for his family and his school, his friends, his team, and his country—all of that is not so hard to do."

DeLONG WINS BUICK HONORS IN U. S. COMPETITION

Alex DeLong, whose buxom pomposity and loquacious disposition is widely known among local auto circles, has become puffed to the nth degree recently over a telegram from the headquarters of Buick Motor Co., which announced him as "master Buick salesman of Lamb county."

While sipping a "coke" Alex was condescending enough to explain that this was a preferred honor obtained by only 100 Buick salesmen throughout the entire United States of which he was one. It came about by selling a stipulated quota of new and second hand autos in eight weeks time, Alex doing the stunt in five of those eight weeks.

Incidentally DeLong, for his scientific salesmanship is in receipt of a beautiful quota button, a $160 wardrobe trunk and several other lesser prizes worth having.

"WE ARE HERE TONIGHT"

Salutatory, Graduating Class of Littlefield Grammar School by Freda Charles Bills

Mr. Principal, Teachers, Classmates, Parents and Friends:

I feel highly honored on this happy occasion in having been selected to speak to you on behalf of our class the usual words of welcome. The class appreciates the wonderful reception you have given us this evening by honoring us with your presence and showing an interest in our graduation program. We hope you are as really interested as your attendance indicates. This occasion reminds me of the little boy whose mother stepped to the door and called "Johnnie, Johnnie!" After several calls the boy poked his head around the barn and said, "Do you want me, Ma, or are you only jes' holerin'?" Do you who are here this evening really want us or are you here because it is just another place to go? We really believe you are here because you are interested in us and our future welfare.

Why are we here tonight? We, the members of the class, are here tonight because we have just finished seven long years of work through the primary and grade schools. Though sometimes the tasks have been difficult and the way seemed long and hard, I am sure that now each feels proud of the fact that he, or she has come even this far. Many times the past few years we have all felt like Willie, "I wish I was twins," said Willie. "Why," he was asked. He replied, "I'd send the other half of me to school and this half would go fishing."

We are here tonight because we are graduating. Some tell us we have not graduated but have only been promoted, while we say that we have graduated, not in the sense that we have completed, or even a great part of our education, but in the sense that we have completed the first step toward an education. Webster defines graduation as "improvement, making progress, a moving upward, a climbing higher. In the light of that definition, we have graduated, just as the high school seniors graduate this week, as we will graduate again four years from now and again eight years from now, we hope, when we shall stand in some college hall and receive our diplomas. Even then we will not have finished all, and will then only be prepared the better to graduate still higher. We should never get through graduating but on the other hand should continue to improve and climb higher.

We are here tonight because of the kindness and patience of our teachers whom, because of their manifest interest in us we have learned to love. From the day we first entered upon the threshold of school life and first learned to lispingly repeat after teachers sweet lips the most simple words in the primer, we have been constantly watched and rightly guided through the maze of reading, spelling arithmetic, geography, physiology, history, grammar and other texts, until tonight when we are now ready for what seems to us the higher subjects.

We are here tonight because of the love and generosity of fathers and mothers, who have worked and sacrificed that we might come this far, and who are ready to sacrifice more that we may go farther. When we were tiny tots they watched our little feet as they left the home's door step and until out of sight, and anxiously looked for our return when time for school to be out, hoping and praying during each long day for our safety and welfare. Through the seven years we have been guarded and cared for, for all of which this night our hearts are full of thanks.

We are here because we have accomplished something, though it be very little. After all, without boasting, we say that we have learned a whole lot during these seven years. Our grammar school courses today are about as advanced as the college courses of several generations ago. George Washington was a great man and considered highly educated, but upon completion of his school career he knew less in books than this class knows. John Hancock, the first to sign the Declaration of Independence when he graduated from Harvard University in 1754, had completed a course of study very little higher than the course this class has finished. Truly education has made wonderful progress, and though we of this class have our minds stored with what seems to us much knowledge, we have only just begun.

True education means the preparation of the man or woman for the duties and responsibilities of life. We are too young to definitely choose the profession or business we shall follow after our school and college days are ended, and some of us who think we know what we will do when we are grown will change our minds, yet we are not too young to have discovered that God has made each of us for a purpose, and that within each lie powers that, when developed, will aid in finding that life work and in accomplishing that purpose for which such one has been created. We are here tonight because we can, if we will, and we will, accomplish that task Emerson said of us—

So nigh is grandeur to our dust,
So near is God to man,
When Duty whispers low, Thou must,
The youth replies, I can.

Classmates, let us make this class an exception to the rule, and next September re-unite one hundred per cent in the Freshman year of high school. Let us realize that each year properly employed in patience and industry will add another cubit to our intellectual stature. As we have taken and completed the first step, let us determine to take several others, and continue until we have made of ourselves men and women in the true sense, and then we will need not to worry about what life has in store for us.

One step at a time, and that well placed,
We reach the grandest heights;
One stroke at a time, earth's hidden stores
Will slowly come to light.

One seed at a time, and the forest grows;
One drop at a time, and the river flows
Into the boundless sea.

One word at a time, and the greatest book
Is written and is read.
One stone at a time, a palace rears
Aloft its stately head.
One minute, another, the hours fly.
One day at a time, and our lives speed
by
Into eternity.

One grain of knowledge and that well stored,
Another and more on them,
And as time rolls on your mind will shine
With many a garnered gem
Of thought and wisdom. And time will tell.
"One thing at a time and that done well,"
Is wisdom's proven rule.

Friends I have not at my command words to fully express our appreciation of your presence here tonight. During our exercises this evening I bid you listen to those who are chosen to represent our class on the program, and over-look our shortcomings and mistakes. To this scene you have come and honored us by your coming, and I can only say that the Grammar School Graduating Class bids you a hearty and friendly welcome.

Mud Has Advantages
A city built on mud has its advantages. New Orleans cannot have skyscrapers, as other large cities do, because it sits on "1,100 feet of mud," but the man in charge of the seismograph at Loyola university there, says the city has never been known to feel the tremor of an earthquake.

"OLD GLORY"

Saturday, June 14, will be Flag Day. All over the United States the "Gridiron Flag," as foreigners contemptuously called it when our nation was young, will float in the pride of its 153 years. It will symbolize then, as it has always symbolized, an ideal of human liberty, of self-government, of freedom of the individual to pursue happiness in his own way, within the law, which had never been put into practice before in the history of the world.

We may not have reached—indeed, we have not fully reached, as we must admit—the perfection of this ideal. But we have come closer to it than any other considerable body of human beings has ever succeeded in doing. And in making the effort to live up to the ideal for which "Old Glory" stands we have set an example which almost all of the rest of the world has been striving to emulate.

Every government in the world, except ours, has undergone radical if not revolutionary changes since that 14th of June, 1777, when the Continental Congress officially adopted the Stars and Stripes, designed by Betsey Ross, as the standard of the colonies which had so recently declared themselves free and independent states. With only two or three exceptions the American flag is the oldest flag in the world today. That is something to think about, when we talk of the United States as a "young" nation. Actually, we are one of the oldest nations, so far as our form of government and our flag are concerned.

Nations which were old when we set out upon our great experiment have undergone revolution after revolution. Most of them have completely altered their governmental forms. The British Empire has become a commonwealth of practically independent nations. Ireland has been annexed and detached again, though the cross of St. Patrick, added to the British flag in 1801, still remains there. France was an absolute monarchy when we set up our government. The royal banner of Louis XV has given place to the tricolor floating over the Third Republic since our own revolution, with another empire intervening. The Italy of today is quite a different nation, as its flag is different, from that of 1777. Spain, then the ruler of immense colonies, has shrunk to a tiny kingdom. Germany, Austria, Imperial Russia—all the "great powers" of the 18th century have changed, diminished, and their flags have changed. Even China no longer flies the dragon pennant and Turkey has abandoned the green flag of Mohammed.

Denmark's flag, dating from the 12th century, and Switzerland's, nearly as old, are the only flags flying today which are older than our own Stars and Stripes. The nation over which it was first flung has more than justified the hopes and beliefs of its founders.

A farmer at least has this advantage. He is never docked when he is late for work. Most every girl is positive that she would make a good match for the man with money to burn.

IT'S WISE TO CHOOSE A SIX

SIX reasons why it's wise to choose a "SIX"

1. It's Smooth! Chevrolet has a 50-horsepower six-cylinder valve-in-head engine that delivers its power with a smoothness and silence that are impossible with anything less than six cylinders.

2. It's Comfortable! Chevrolet offers modern spring suspension, roomy bodies, and a smooth-running six-cylinder engine.

3. It's Easy to Drive! Chevrolet provides an extra-easy ball bearing steering mechanism. And six-cylinder flexibility means unusual simplicity of control.

4. It's Beautiful! Chevrolet is the only low-priced car with Body by Fisher. Hence, its style compares favorably with that of costly cars.

OWNING A HOME

In recent months many thrifty citizens have given up thoughts of home owning after they have embarked in it, and others have been discouraged from making any effort to own their own homes. This is not good.

The home should come first, with every family. At times the burden of carrying it under mortgage may appear to be very heavy. At such times the faint heart surrenders what it has won by thrift and self-denial. On the other hand, the strong carry on with determination and very often win out. They have a home to show for their pains in the end.

While it may appear to many that it is cheaper to pay rent than to own the individual home, as a matter of fact it is not, if all things are considered. It is cheaper if one is willing to live in a cheaper house and in a cheaper neighborhood. It is not if a good house in a nice neighborhood is demanded. Rents, like mortgage payments, mount up with the value of the investment. Dollar for dollar, the owned home will cost less and in the end the thrifty and determined saver will have something substantial to show for his money. Littlefield is a political subdivision in which the percentage of home ownership is very high. It should be kept so. Every town's strength lies in the homes of its people. These homes are a first mortgage on prosperity after the debt is paid. They should be given up only when there is no other alternative. If you have been planning to build, go ahead and carry out those plans and be sure that you will be showing good judgment when you do so. If you have not started planning to own your own home, begin now. Every minute you delay counts against you and leaves you with less in the long run.

One-fifth of the cost of a car is in the engine and most of the rest is in the back seat.

FUNNY THINGS HAPPEN

Don't let your auto bump an engine off of the track. It sounds like a foolish warning, yet we'd advise every motorist around Littlefield not to look at it in the light of a joke.

A few weeks ago Frank Cordera, of Bend, Ill., drove his car in front of a Big Four engine. The engine turned over when it hit the auto, and the engineer was killed. The engineer's widow sued Cordera and the court gave her $5000 damages. On top of that the railroad company sued Cordera in federal court and was awarded $10,000 for damages done to the engine.

Another motorist, driving over a railroad track at Oberlin, Ohio, had his car struck by a locomotive. The car became wedged under the engine, causing the train to leave the track. Passenger coaches turned over and two were killed and several injured. The railroad company sued the owner of the auto, and the case will probably eat up the car owner's home in lawyer's fees before it is finally decided.

You can't tell what's going to happen at a grade-crossing. A flivver that isn't worth ten dollars can cause a wreck that may cost the lives of train passengers and thousands of dollars in damages to the railroad company.

Now that efforts are being made to abolish the eagle on the American dollar, how would it do to substitute the bull?

A PETROLEUM PICNIC

Wonder how many of our readers ever pause to consider that there is far more to crude oil than gasoline for the auto and kerosene for the lamp. They ought to be interested in learning that, according to one of Uncle Sam's recent bulletins, more than 200 products of commercial value are now being made from crude oil. And science is at work trying to produce, in addition to the 200 products already secured, artificial rubber, a butter substitute, synthetic leather, dyes, inks and paints.

Government experts say the day will come when you can go on a picnic, the motor power in your car and the tires on which it runs supplied by petroleum; wearing rubber boots and rubber coats for use in case of rain, made from petroleum; your sandwiches spread with butter made from petroleum. And when you have finished your picnic dinner you will be able to wash your hands with soap made from the same substance.

Baltimore doctors removed portions of a man's brain without injuring him. His wife probably continues to do his thinking for him.

THE BAREFOOT SEASON

This is the season when young America suffers its greatest number of outdoor mishaps and when bandaged feet and toes are numerous. So it is timely to call the attention of Littlefield parents to the fact that it is dangerous to look on these minor injuries too lightly. We cannot forget that the death of a young son of former President Coolidge was due to an infection which followed a tiny blister on the heel.

The first thing to do for a flesh wound is wash it in clean water and soap to remove all dirt and foreign matter. Then apply two percent strength iodine. If the skin is broken or torn, a small dressing of cloth should be applied. Dye and germs from stockings may be carried into the wound so it is necessary to keep the injured places covered and free from infection. Many scoff at small cuts and burns and permit the children to run the risk of infection. That is a mistake. No matter how small a wound or bruise may be it should receive immediate attention.

A dentist is the only fellow we know of who finds it profitable to look down in the mouth.

LITTLE LEADERS

What Littlefield needs is a few less people trying to tell us what we need.

The good old days around Littlefield were those when the women folks used more baking powder than face powder.

It's a pretty good idea for Littlefield parents to teach their youngsters that the Primrose Path doesn't connect with Easy street.

Right now the average Littlefield father isn't figuring as much on where the vacation will be spent as he is on how much will be spent.

Somehow we can't help feeling that Littlefield people got along better back in the days when horsepower was furnished by the horse instead of by gas.

We've about come to the conclusion that a Littlefield wife is a good deal like an auto. If her husband takes good care of her he won't have to get a new one.

PAVEMENT PICKUPS

Most Drakes have very short legs, and unless they are web footed they should not try jumping ditches filled with water.

It has been suggested if John Arnett would apply some of his Ford fertilizer to a new Ford sedan, he might raise a flock of little runabouts.

Reading that a prehistoric skeleton has been found with its legs wrapped around its neck Harry Wiseman says he never knew that they had rumble seats back in the early days.

Reading that a Boston man has invented a fishing rod that will hold a pint of whiskey, A. G. Hemphill says it begins to look as though the fish that get away this year will be bigger than ever.

"Ma," queried a Littlefield lad, "didn't the preacher say that the savages didn't wear any clothes?"
Mother: "Yes, my boy."
L. L.: "Then why did papa put a button in the plate last Sunday when they took the missionary collection?"

Speaking of absent-mindedness, how about the young physician who in courting a girl forgot and charged her two dollars a visit?

Anyone can give advice, but the best advice we can give is never to start anything you can't stop.

HARTS AND SPADES

Tony Thomas of Harts Camp and Lester Ragsdale, of Spade, were Sunday dinner guests of Wayne and Truman Jackson.

Many of the Spade community and Harts Camp attended the community ice cream supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Yeager, Friday.

Eva Bertram, Leota Woody and Bessie Williams were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Darby, Sunday. They reported lots of eats and consequently a good time.

Miss Martha Barbarick, Lester Ragsdale, Wayne Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Patterson, Mr. Mahaffey, and daughter, Marcella, and Katherine Darby were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Yeager, Sunday.

Mr. Robinson, of Lubbock, could not keep his appointment Sunday to preach as the roads were too bad to travel.

The fruit and cake supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dyer, of Spade was called off on account of the rain Saturday night.

Ede Lee Shirley of Spade, attended singing Sunday night. Everyone is cordially invited to attend the singing to be held at Spade community Sunday afternoon.

The teacherage for the Spade school is finished and will be occupied by the superintendent and principal.

Travis Houk, of Spade, left Monday for White Deer, where he will work in the harvest.

LADIES BIBLE CLASS

Ladies of the Church of Christ met with Mrs. Clay Pumphrey, Tuesday for their weekly study. Song, memory verses, prayer and an interesting lesson of "The Conversion of the Samaritans," constituted the program.

Following the lesson, plans were made to help the "Boles Orphan's Home."

We are to meet Friday morning with Mrs. Sid Pace for an all day's quilting, each lady taking a dish. Anyone who enjoys quilting is invited. Mrs. Kimmel will take any donation one desires to give for the Home. We want to send the box this week.

Ladies present for the study were Mesdames C. C. Beebe, Jim Etter, S. L. Adams, E. J. Foust, Enloe Smith, T. L. Kimmel, G. W. Hargrove, B. A. Mills, Sid Pace, T. B. Duke, J. C. Hilburn, R. A. Bigham, Jim Davenport, S. B. Jackson, Scott, R. V. Armstrong, Arthur James, Bill Collins, Edd Beisel, Miss Inez Jackson and Mrs. Pumphrey.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. J. C. Hilburn at the home of J. W. Hale.

Lfd. Cats Will Play 2-Game Series With Memphis, Start Sat'y.

Next Friday morning the local baseball nine will pack up their baseball paraphernalia and drive to Memphis, Texas, for a two game series with the Memphis All-Stars.

Having played the majority of this season's games at home to date, and in order that fans here may be assured of some good ball clubs visiting Littlefield in the future, it will be necessary to make a trip of this kind occasionally, according to Captain Arthur Mueller.

The Memphis club is rated as one of the strongest on the Plains, and has won most of this season's games. Some of the stars to be found there will be Paul Wachtel, former Texas Leaguer, and only recently released by Dallas. Wachtel was one of the leading spit-ball pitchers in the Texas league for a number of years. Jack Knight, who has quite a reputation as an amateur pitcher in semi-pro ranks, will likely pitch one of the games against the locals. He has spent a number of years in West Texas and participated in the News-Globe tournament at Amarillo, also, the Denver tournament in recent years.

For the Cats the regular lineup will go that faced the fast Roswell club two weeks ago here, with possibly one or two changes. Leonard Rose and Newty Moore will be depended upon to do the hurling for the Cats. A three game series with this same club will be played in Littlefield about the second week in July.

The game with Amarillo last Sunday was postponed, because of the heavy rains and hail that fell last Saturday night making travel almost impossible in places.

First Civilizations

It is not possible to say definitely which is the oldest civilization on earth. The Chinese claim this distinction. As the early history of many of the ancient countries is largely legendary, it may be that there are other civilizations which antedate that of China, such as, for instance, that of Assyria or that of the Aztecs in Mexico.

HOT-PACK CANNING FOR STRING BEANS

Hot-Pack Method and the Pressure Canner Should Be Used for String Beans.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

There's no more delicious vegetable than tender, fresh, string beans, and if properly canned, the straight-from-the-garden flavor may be retained for winter days. Most people plant string beans at intervals of two or three weeks during the season, so there will be a constant supply. Of these, the youngest and most tender should be canned whenever they are ready. As there will be more from time to time, this plan makes the work of canning easier, for one may do a canner full at a time, instead of having to handle the whole crop at once. Beans that have become a little large may be used directly on the table, and if they are cooked as soon as possible after being gathered they will have a fine flavor.

The pressure canner is recommended for canning string beans, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Pick the string beans over carefully, wash them thoroughly, string them, and cut into pieces of the size you wish when they are served. A quick way to do this is to hold a bundle of beans in the left hand and slice them across diagonally with scissors or a sharp knife. By this method of diagonal slicing, the dry beans in the pods are cut in two and more flavor is developed in the canned product. Also when they are served, they take up the seasonings better.

Add enough boiling water to cover the beans and boil them for five minutes in an uncovered vessel. Pack them boiling hot into your containers, cover with the water in which they were boiled, and add one teaspoonful of salt to each quart. This short pre-cooking wilts and shrinks the beans so that they pack to better advantage. It drives out the air in the tissues and thus makes exhausting unnecessary. Also when the hot-packed containers are put at once into the hot canner the beans, even those in the center of the jar or can, reach the temperature required for processing sooner than if they had been packed cold. Process at 10 pounds pressure or 240 degrees Fahrenheit. Quart glass jars are processed for 40 minutes, pint jars for 35 minutes, and No. 2 and No. 3 cans for 30 minutes.

If you expect to do much canning this year, send to the United States Department of Agriculture for Farmers' Bulletin 1471, "Canning Fruits and Vegetables at Home." It is free while the supply lasts.

In the JUNGLE
With Cheerups and the Quixies
by Grace Bliss Stewart

POLLY PARROT'S DILEMMA

"GOOD morning, good morning, good morning!" screamed Polly Parrot at the top of her voice. "It's time to get up; it's time to get up!"

"Oh, dear!" yawned Cheerups sleepily, as he stretched himself and opened one eye. "What was that noise? I didn't tell the Quixies to call me. Oh, here's a visitor already. How do you do, Polly Parrot! I have seen some of your cousins in the United States and so I recognized you right away. I hope you'll excuse me for not being dressed. I'll just slip on this bath-robe, and Cheerups wrapped a large fern snugly about him.

"Of Course I'll Excuse You," Cried Polly, Flapping Her Wings.

"Of course I'll excuse you," cried Polly, flapping her gray wings and snapping her beak, "but why people are such lazybones is more than I can tell. And that, by the way, is what I have come to see you about—lazybones and how to cure them, I mean. But as you are one yourself, I doubt if you can tell me. You wouldn't go to the bat to find out how to see, now, would you?"

"Do calm down, Polly, and tell me what is the matter," said Cheerups in a gentle voice. "At least you can give me the chance to be of some help." "Well," began Polly more pleasantly. "Mr. Parrot and I build our nest—no, we don't either; we don't really build a nest at all, we just find some nice cozy hole in the trunk of a tree and there I lay my eggs. Then the trouble begins! For I do get so tired sitting on those eggs day and night, and Mr. Parrot never offers to help me out. It really seems to me that he ought to do his share."

"Have you asked him nicely to do so, Polly?" inquired Cheerups.

"Well, I've scolded a lot about it," replied Polly sheepishly. "That won't do," said Cheerups, with as nearly a severe look as his merry little eyes would hold. "That won't do at all. When you go home, just ask Mr. Parrot as pleasantly as you can if he won't sit on the eggs part of the time. Mention that 'turn about is fair play,' and say that you will fly off and find a juicy worm or a bit of fruit for his supper while he is sitting on the nest. And, mind you, here's another good idea which may come in handy sometime. If you ever think that danger is coming too near your precious eggs, call the rest of the Parrot flock to come and help you drive off the enemy. Mother Nature tells me that they will gladly do it."

"But the very best way, as you will find, To get your wish, is just be kind."

Polly was so ashamed of herself that she hung her head for a minute, then she screamed delightedly, "I'll try it, Mr. Cheerups, I'll try being kind and pleasant; and I won't forget what you say about asking the other Parrots to help me, either. Thank you very much. Now I must go home, for no telling where Father Parrot is and those eggs may be getting cold."

"Won't you stop for a bit of bread-fruit with us?" called Cheerups.

"No, thanks, too much of a hurry," chattered Polly and was gone.

From that day to this the rule in the Parrot family has been share and share alike.

Sweet or sour milk seems to give equally good results in chick feeding.

Colds and roup are preventable diseases. If we remove the causes the diseases will not occur.

Watch for the pullets that lay early, and mark them. They make the high producers—the ones to get next spring's hatching eggs from.

A chicken may now be hatched by electricity, raised and grown with an electric brooder and electric light, and finally cooked for your table by the same energy.

The vitality and vigor of the stock must be conserved. If one breeds from weak and diseased stock there will be constant trouble with colds and roup.

Leghorn pullets should not begin to lay until they are from five to six months old. General purpose breeds take about a month longer.

McCASKILL HEADS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE FOR COMING YEAR; OTHER OFFICERS NAMED BANQUET AND ANNUAL MEET TUESDAY NITE

R. E. McCaskill was elected president of the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce at the annual meeting of the organization held Tuesday night in the Methodist church.

Following an excellent menu prepared by the ladies of that church, retiring President J. E. Brannen read a very favorable report of the successful accomplishments of the chamber during the past year, after which McCaskill was unanimously chosen to head the body for the coming year. The other officers were also unanimously elected, as follows:

J. H. Cain, vice-president; J. E. Brannen, J. C. Hilburn, G. G. Hazel, and J. E. Norman, directors.

McCaskill and Cain made speeches of acceptance, and Hilburn spoke in behalf of the newly elected directors. Mrs. F. G. Sadler made report for the Women's club, and Joe Watson and Dr. R. M. Walthall spoke in behalf of the coming celebration July 4 and 5.

J. T. Elms stated he had been in communication with parties contemplating locating a cotton seed oil mill here, and they assured him a mill would be constructed sometime during the summer months.

J. W. Hammock, of Sudan, reported favorable action regarding locating a branch cotton weighing and classing office of the American Cotton Cooperative association in Littlefield, and stated that Vice-president C. O. Moser, would be in Littlefield Friday of next week to give address and hold consultation meetings.

County Agent D. A. Adam and Ruby Mashburn reviewed recent achievements of their accomplishments. District Home Demonstration Agent Miss Myrtle Murray was present in a pleasing address regarding the work of her department.

Very interesting readings were given by Miss Helen Romback and Mrs. Ike Griffin, and a well rendered solo, "King of the Forest Am I," was given by O. H. Brown.

Secretary J. W. Hale spoke of the fine spirit of co-operation existing among the membership toward bringing about the many forward accomplishments of the community, after which the meeting was adjourned. There were about 75 present.

NEWSPAPERS AND MAGAZINES ARE READ BY PEOPLE IN AND AROUND LFD.

It would state there were 750 families served by these four routes out of Littlefield, and, according to these figures, each family reads an average of 879 1/2 newspapers and magazines during each 12 months. The proportion in town runs a little larger.

Perhaps the average citizen if asked "What is a rural mail carrier," would simply reply that he is a man who delivers mail out into the country but he is evidently much more than that. He is, in fact, a kind of middle man government representative, for besides delivering and collecting mail, selling stamps, envelopes and money orders, handling parcel post shipments, etc., he is often called upon for numerous other chores about the houses of his patrons. It may be to help the housewife fix the stovepipe that is about to fall, letting soot all over the parlor carpet, or to catch a fleet footed young Leghorn for dinner, put feed in the manger for bossie or be called upon to wait "just a minute," which may be 10 of them, until grandma finishes a letter which just must get in this mail.

Then, back at the post office before he starts out he has quite a bit of work to do. All the mail has to be sorted according as it is delivered on the route. Between the 31st of one month and the 12th of another month the mail all has to be counted, each class separately, both the mail delivered and that received being counted. First class mail includes letters and sealed packages; second class, newspapers, magazines, etc; third class, circulars; fourth class parcel post; registered; insured parcel post and C. O. D; all classes of special delivery mail of foreign origin; and "penalty" and "Franked" mail are counted separately.

There are two Star routes and two rural routes out of Littlefield, and they serve about 750 families in the surrounding country.

Paul Vause is carrier of Star route No. 1, a daily route 91 miles long. After July 1 this route will be carried by Thos. J. Romine, the recent successful bidder. This route serves the post offices of Morton, Bula and Enochs, also the families living between those offices and Littlefield.

James Foster is carrier for Star route No. 2, a daily route 71 miles long, which serves Olton post office, the Fieldton community and families along the route.

After July 1 this route will be served by Sam H. McCarston, who was the successful bidder for the next four years.

M. L. Garrett is carrier for Rural

Most Great Fortunes
Develop as a Result Of Steady Savings

By S. W. STRAUS, President American Society for Thrift
There are a great many substantial business men in America today who could tell you interesting stories about how they spent their early years in the accumulation of a few dollars.

Had they continued all their lives to save only the small amounts they were able to lay by at first, they never would have become well-to-do men. But their small savings and the discipline which was necessary to build up these sums, put them in a position to earn more money and occupy more important positions as the years went by.

"I don't think I could live long enough ever to be rich at the rate I would be able to save money."

This sentence in a letter received recently is typical of the viewpoint of many who lack the patience to build up their personal resources through the painstaking methods of thrift. Now and then someone does strike it rich, so to speak, but where one person may gain sudden wealth, a million others, trying the same thing, may lose their last penny.

Look up the histories of most of the large fortunes in America and you will find that the vast majority were started with small sums of money and grew to fabulous accumulations of wealth through the normal processes of sound business and investment. The possession even of a small sum of money was necessary before the larger amounts could be built up.

It is always to be remembered that one of the great elements in thrift is patience. It is hard for an ambitious vigorous person to exercise this rare quality. The temptation always is strong with such persons to take chances and plunge. But patient saving and the slow, steady accumulation of funds will win out in the long run. The great book of human experience is eloquent in its assertions of fact.

CONSISTENCY, THOU ART A JEWEL!

An Editorial

Will H. Mayes is widely known throughout the state as a columnist of considerable import, his column entitled "Texas and Texans" appearing weekly in hundreds of papers published in the Lone Star State. Recently he had an article of interest about the "home merchant" who preaches "trade at home" and then spends his money for stationery and other supplies, which the home printer could furnish as good and as cheaply as they are bought from the "glib-talking traveling salesman."

Most Littlefield merchants are loyal to all the home enterprises, including the newspaper, but we can name two or three of the most "prominent ones"—those who preach loud and long about trading at home and "keeping Littlefield money in Littlefield," who are guilty of the very charge that Mr. Mayes makes in his article.

It is generally conceded that a newspaper, at last of high quality such as is the Leader, does as much if not more than any other one agency to build up the community, bring in more people and increase property values. It pays taxes and never kicks about its rendition values to the assessor, contributes to the upkeep of the schools, churches, athletic programs, charity, and everything else that comes along in addition to giving away free in its columns yards and rods and miles of space in boosting the town, community and county. Should not the local newspaper, which is admirably equipped to turn out first class job and commercial printing at very reasonable prices, be considered when "keep Littlefield money in Littlefield" is being preached, and demand the same consideration that the grocery stores, dry goods stores, confectioneries, filling stations and every other line of business in Littlefield is demanding. We believe such is only right and fair. Read Mr. Mayes' article and think about it:

"Home Pride First. The citizen without pride in his own community has no pride in his state and mighty little patriotism. One's first duty is to home enterprises. An editor of one of Texas' best weekly newspapers—a man who has all his life given more time to work for his town and country than to his financial interests—recently told me that some of the business concerns of his town that have much to say about "mail order business" and who would boycott a citizen who orders goods in their line out of town, are getting their stationery and job printing from glib talking traveling salesmen, instead of buying it at home. Putting it down plainly, in terms that can't be misunderstood: The business that doesn't support in every possible way home enterprises, including the home printing plant, doesn't deserve support."

Consistency, thou art a jewel!

Home Demonstration Activities

Ruby Mashburn

Saturday was a record breaking day in attendance as far as County Council is concerned, 152 women being present for the dress form and cheese demonstrations.

The women purchased dairy thermometers and rennet tables sufficient to make 480 gallons of milk into cheese, which will be 384 pounds.

The home demonstration agent wishes to thank each of the women who furnished milk, utensils or material for either of the demonstrations.

Milk is assigned its high place among foods because of the value of its protein, its mineral content especially lime and phosphorus, the value, abundance, and variety of its vitamins, the energy which its fat and sugar yield, and its mild flavor. The food substance called protein is used in building new muscles and other tissues also repairing old ones. Of all protein foods whole milk is most highly recommended for both boys and girls. Here in America we have this slogan: "A quart of milk a day for every boy and girl." For the sake of variety try these recipes.

Egg-nog made by heating together a glass of milk, one egg, one tea spoon of sugar, and a drop or two of vanilla, is a particularly nutritious drink. It combines two foods high in energy, rich in minerals and muscle and bone building material, and essential in building up resistance to diseases.

Milk shake, mix one glass of milk with grape, raspberry, or strawberry sirup. Use not less than four table-spoons of one of the juices from canned fruit, adding more sugar and flavoring to taste. For a chocolate milk shake use chocolate sirup.

Philadelphia Ice Cream (vanilla) 1 quart of thin cream. 3-4 cup sugar, 1 1-2 teaspoons vanilla. Mix ingredients is an improvement to any ice creams and freeze. A few grains of cream mixture. For the best texture use 1 part salt to 8 parts ice in freezing the mixture. The mixture increases in bulk during freezing, as the can should never be more than three-fourths filled.

Women and Age

There is a tradition that women are loath to tell their ages; and it is the tradition also that this reluctance is because they fear to confess the departure of youth. Perhaps its origin lay otherwise; that they knew that a woman, or a man, is what she or he is, looks, acts, knows, does, believes—and that enumeration of years may be less truthful than that which appears to the eye and understanding.—Exchange.

Whale Not a Fish

One of the commonest popular errors of zoology is the notion that the whale is some sort of fish. It is not; it is a mammal which went to sea. The whale is warm-blooded, has a well-developed brain, and in all other respects shows a far higher organization than any of the fishes. Its young are born alive, and are suckled and cared for by the mother as with land mammals.

THE WAY OF LIFE

By Bruce Barton

TEETH

I wish I knew how many millions of dollars are being spent annually on the teeth of Uncle Sam's men and women; I imagine the sum would be staggering.

Doubtless tons of human teeth are extracted each year, regardless the age of the victims. That most of these teeth are diseased, I do not doubt; there may be excellent reasons for the massacre of the molars; but, it would seem to be high time for a study of the conditions underlying the "why" of the dental necrosis, the abscess, the caries, the pyorrhea.

It is a fact that our progenitors and racial neighbors long before us had better teeth than we have. Explorers into darkest Africa have told us of the beautiful white teeth of the natives; in fact about the only beautiful thing about the Hottentot, the Arab, the Zulu and others, seemed to be their teeth. Why? They lived on the coarsest foods imaginable; "tooth paste" was unheard of—and tooth brushes! Dentists! A Congo maid would be crazy to think of such an utter absurdity!

No,—it has been allotted to civilization to visit on its adherents the tragedy of the teeth, not to mention dozens of the more serious diseases. How has the feat been accomplished?

First, as to food. Rough coarse food is an excellent substitute for a tooth brush. A bag of wholesome popcorn is a good dentifrice; eating apples the old fashioned way is a mighty good tonic for teeth and gums. The mastication of the right kind of substances was, doubtless, intended by the Creator to be all the treatment the teeth and gums needed. It is generally when man tries to improve on His methods, that the traitor falls down.

There is no doubt in my mind that, the dirty tooth brush is responsible for more cases of pyorrhea than any other one thing. More than this, the incessant scrubbing of the teeth is harmful to a most pronounced degree, and a neglected bowel is a most prolific source of disease that may extend to the remotest part of the human structure.

Not Always Fatal

A wound in the heart is usually but not always fatal. The hospital records for the war reveal many interesting cases in which soldiers lived with bullets in their hearts. One soldier lived two months with a bullet in the interior of his heart. Many others lived after bullets had come in contact with the heart and injured it.—Pathfinder Magazine.

"Things I Ate Hurt Me"

"I HAD a severe case of indigestion," says Mrs. Beil Buckheiser, 7 River St., Piedmont, S. C. "So many things that I ate hurt me, I almost quit eating."

"I would burn in my chest. I had severe headache, and such a tight, smothering feeling. I would be obliged to eat a little, then it would hurt me."

"A friend said to me: 'Why don't you take Black-Draught?'"

"I was just too weak then to do my work. I began taking small doses after meals and in just a few weeks I could eat anything I wanted to, then take my small dose of Black-Draught and feel fine. I soon regained my health and strength." Costs only 1 cent a dose.

AN OLD FAVORITE

It is told of Mark Twain that when, in his early days, he was the editor of a Missouri paper, a superstitious subscriber wrote to him saying that he had found a spider in his paper and asked whether that was a sign of good luck or bad. The editor-humorist wrote the subscriber and also printed the reply in his paper. The letter read: "Old Subscriber: Finding a spider in your paper was neither good nor bad luck for you. The spider merely was looking over our paper to see which merchant is not advertising so he can go to that store, spin his web over the door, and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterwards."—Washington Newspaper.

Bill Der Says

We used to paint the town red—
Now reformers paint it blue.

YOU EARN IT!

When you spend your money for farm improvements, why not get the most for it?

A dairy barn made of brick and tile will save you bushels of feed each year, keep your cows in proper condition for full milk flow, and maintain the right temperature both winter and summer in your barn.

You earn it, and we can give you the most for your money in brick and tile, or lumber, paint, fence posts, the supplies that a good farmer needs.
