

Hard Work Got Kefauver Into Political Spotlight

By JOHN A. HARRIS
AP Newsfeatures

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—Estes Kefauver, a lanky Tennessee farm boy with a knack for handshaking, is making a determined effort to trade his Senate seat for a bigger chair—the one in the White House.

Kefauver has a record of going after things he wants with seriousness and energy.

Carey Estes Kefauver, who was born in Madisonville July 26, 1902, comes from pioneer Tennessee stock. His father—Robert Cook Kefauver—is a retired farmer and hardware merchant. His mother, who died four years ago, was a member of the Estes family of West Tennessee.

The Kefauvers for generations had been ministers, physicians and farmers. Estes is the first lawyer. Kefauver worked in the Kentucky coal fields the summer after he finished high school and that

Giant Speedometer Cuts Accidents

To make motorists conscious of speed limits, the Seattle, Wash. police department has put into operation a Powerglide Chevrolet with a precise speed clock mounted at the rear. Flashing red and amber lights on the giant exterior dial reflect the speed recorded by the car's speedometer. Police drive the car around the city an average of 90 miles a day and report it has reduced accidents appreciably. Two-way radio and a loudspeaker system to caution drivers are included.

The muscular youth—who stood 6 feet 3 and weighed more than 200—earned the nickname of "Old Ironsides" as a member of the football team. He also edited the student newspaper, won four letters in track, and was president of the student body in his senior year.

After his graduation, Kefauver taught mathematics and coached at Hot Springs, Ark., high school for one year. The young Tennesseean then entered Yale Law School, waiting tables and firing furnaces to help defray his expenses.

get to the levels where world affairs are decided."

In the 1948 Senate race, Kefauver stepped into the national spotlight when he defeated a candidate supported by E. H. Crump, Memphis political leader. Kefauver won the Democratic senatorial nomination—tantamount to election in Tennessee—by a 40,000-vote margin. It was in that race that Kefauver first adopted the coonskin cap as his campaign symbol.

Kefauver became familiar to the nation in 1950 when hearings of the Senate crime investigating committee, of which he was chair-

American Primary Elections To Saturday, July 29

Republican headquarters will be held in Texas on July 29, same date as the primaries are set.

The law is said to prohibit having cast less than two primary votes in the previous week earlier, but this has been ignored.

Man Injured In Fall From Horse

Rufus Mayfield who is employed on a ranch near Durango, Colorado and son of W. F. Mayfield of Amherst was injured Monday of last week when the horse on which he was riding threw him.

He is in a hospital in Durango with a broken leg and a punctured lung. It was reported that he was unconscious for about five hours before anyone found him.

Two Anton Gins Change Owners MAY REMAIN

Two gins in the Anton community have changed hands in the past few days.

The Olenbush gin south of Anton was sold to D. J. Peters of Plainview and a Mr. Dial of Lubbock.

Mr. Peters will be the manager of the gin and has already moved to Anton. He is living in the Clara Williams house near the school house.

Also a deal was closed the first of the week wherein K. D. Criswell of Lubbock purchased the Thomas Gin.

The new gin owner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Criswell and well-known in Anton.

Wiley McCaulley, the manager of the Thomas Gin will go to Portales, N.M., where he will continue to be associated with the Thomas interests.

The last active major league pitcher to win 300 or more games was Robert (Lefty) Grove who retired in 1941 with exactly 300 wins.

Bob Kiputh has been swimming coach at Yale University since 1918.

Anton Establish New Missionary Baptist Church

The Fellowship Missionary Baptist church of Anton was organized Thursday, June 12, in the high school auditorium at Anton.

Twelve came into the organization with letters, 12 by statement and three on the promise of letters from Bethel Missionary Baptist church, making a total of 27 members.

Representatives of ten Missionary Baptist churches from New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas were present to help in the organization.

Texas churches represented were: Hillcrest Missionary Baptist church of Lamesa, the Seminole Landmark Missionary Baptist church, Flower Groe Missionary Baptist church near Lamesa, Pettit MHA Baptist church and North Side Baptist church of Snyder.

Churches represented from Oklahoma were Springer Missionary Baptist church, Liberty Baptist church at Shawnee, and Mission Home Missionary Baptist church of Wewoka.

The Mission Home church sent Elder James M. Poyner, state Missionary of the Baptist General Assembly of Oklahoma to help in the organization. Numerous letters were received from churches throughout Oklahoma congratulating the Anton folks for taking a stand and organizing a true New Testament church.

Bethel Missionary Baptist church of Clovis represented and Bro. B. R. Teague, a deacon of that church, led in the song service.

From Arkansas came representatives of the Central Baptist church of Fayetteville.

This church also sent a letter of greeting congratulating the new church on its standing for the faith and in the organization of an old time Missionary Baptist church.

Also the state Young People's Assembly of the Missionary Baptist churches of Arkansas sent this greeting and statement: "The state Young People's Assembly of the Missionary Baptist churches of Arkansas by unanimous vote of some three hundred messengers and visitors pledge to your prayers and cooperation in this great undertaking of establishing a New Testament church. We trust that the Lord shall greatly bless you. You are to be greatly commended for your faithfulness."

Irv Noren, recently obtained by the Yankees from Washington, hit safely in 11 of 14 games against the Yankees last year for a .345 batting mark.

Unable To Return To District Prior To Primary

Congressman George Mahon of this district, writing from Washington, has advised friends in each of the counties which he represents that he will not be able to return to his district prior to the primary elections July 29, due to the fact that Congress is still in session, and that he deemed it more important to remain on the job at this time.

Mahon has no opposition for his tenth term as Representative for this district, and an active campaign was therefore considered unnecessary.

The Congressman will be in Texas and his home district prior to the general elections, and following precedent will probably visit Lamb as well as all of the counties in the district at that time.

Congress is tentatively scheduled to take a short recess, both in observance of the national holiday, July 4th, and to permit members to attend the two national conventions.

Hail Damages Cotton Friday

Several hundred acres of cotton were damaged by hail late Friday afternoon and Friday night as brilliantly lighted thunderstorms spotted showers over the South Plains area. Damage was done north of Amberst and in the Fieldton Community.

Rain, accompanied by thunder and lightning, fell in Littlefield Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock, and nearly one half inch was recorded. According to reports good showers were received in spots from Hampton Gin east to Littlefield, Spade, Fieldton and south of Anton.

An inch rain fell at Loveland, an inch and half at Sundown, and over three quarters of an inch fell at Lubbock. Only a tenth of an inch fell at Amberst, no rain fell at Sudan, Pep or Springlake.

County Agent David Eaton said the spots where the rain fell will blossom out, and cotton seed and feed will begin growing. Farmers who haven't planted or must plant over, will be able to put feed into the ground now. Those in the irrigated belt who received as much as a half inch are in top shape for the season.

Trouble Shooter Harriman Shows How to Put up Fight

By RELMAN MORIN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK—In the comparatively short time since he entered the lists for the Democratic presidential nomination, W. Averell Harriman, of New York, has radically re-drawn the portrait his best biographers had painted.

Harriman has been in public life for nearly 20 years, but he was a behind-the-scenes worker, a trouble-shooter, a man of special missions. As such, he stayed out of the public eye, seldom spoke or wrote for publication, and rarely made a speech. He was regarded as a shy and reticent man.

Last April, the New York state Democrats presented him as their candidate for the Democratic nomination.

Now He's Fighting
Since then, Harriman has seemed like a man transformed. He has been travelling around the land, making speeches, discussing issues, banging away at the Republican Party and some of its candidates, and boldly declaring himself.

In Boston, he pictured himself as the only candidate with more experience in foreign affairs than Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

On a television program, he said the policies of Sen. Robert A. Taft "are the kind of things the Kremlin would like to have us do."

In Washington, he lashed out at the lobbyists against foreign imports, calling them "a new kind of five percenters."

Contrasts Ike and Taft
On foreign policy, he said his discussions with Eisenhower led him to believe "there's not much difference in our attitude." But he said that if Taft makes foreign policy an issue, "We'd have a fight right straight down the line."

A report of one of his conferees says "he pounded the table for emphasis."

Harriman has been known to pound the table before, but never on such occasions. He admits that he used to argue so furiously with Premier Josef Stalin that, in one instance during the war, a colleague intervened. "He thought we were about to come to blows," Harriman said.

Harriman is a tall, handsome man, 60 years old, lean and almost boyish in appearance. He is the heir to a great fortune, and a successful business man in his own right. During the first World War, he built ships. After the war, he obtained a manganese concession in Russia, closely studied the effects of the Bolshevik revolution—and Grover Cleveland Alexander holds the National League record of the most shutouts during his career. He hurled 96 of them.

Kidney Slow-Down May Bring Restless Nights

When kidney function slows down, many of the commonest signs of backache, headache, dizziness and loss of pep and energy, don't suffer restlessness? A little restlessness if reduced kidney function is getting you down—due to such common causes as stress and strain, over-eating, or exposure to cold, dampness or wrong diet may mean getting up nights of frequent passages. Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 60 years. While often otherwise caused, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 million of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

got out when he spotted the drift of events there. The experience was to be invaluable, years later, when he went to Moscow as a special representative of the President, charged with the task of expediting aid to the Russians and getting as much cooperation as possible from them, in exchange. On the whole, he feels he was successful.

He Bosses Foreign Aid
He also served in England, headed E.C.A. until it finished this year, and now is director of its successor, the Mutual Security Agency.

Before that, he held a long series of important offices in Washington. They were all appointive jobs. He has never held, nor sought, an elective office.

He joined the Democratic party in 1928 and gives three principal reasons. He says he was a "great admirer of Woodrow Wilson's wisdom," a friend of the late Al Smith, governor of New York, and a believer in the policies of the Democrats as they related to tariff barriers.

His knowledge of foreign affairs has convinced him, he said, that foreign and domestic policy, today

Humphrey is a native of Wallace, S.D. He was valedictorian of his Doland, S.D. high school class, having also found time for football, basketball and debating.
He enrolled at the University of Minnesota, but depression conditions forced him to leave after a year to work in his father's drug store. Except for time out to win a pharmacy degree at the Denver College of Pharmacy, he stayed in South Dakota until 1937. Then he returned to the University of Minnesota.
A Phi Beta Kappa Scholar
Humphrey had married in 1936. Both he and his wife worked until the future Senator was awarded his degree—along with the University's forensic medal and a Phi Beta Kappa key emblematic of high scholastic achievement.
During the next few years Humphrey did graduate work at Louisiana State and the University of Minnesota, held administrative posts with WPA and the War Manpower Commission, taught political science at Macalester College, St. Paul, Minn., and did radio work.
Mrs. Humphrey is the former Muriel Fay Buck. The Humphreys have four children—Nancy, 12; Hubert, Jr., 10; Robert, 8, and Douglas, 4.

Olton School Head Tenders Resignation

J. T. Jones, superintendent of schools for the past four years at Olton, has tendered his resignation there and accepted a similar position in the Goldthwaite independent school district of Mills county. He was chosen over a wide field of applicants for the new job and is awaiting the choosing of a successor in Olton before moving to Goldthwaite.
Mr. Jones told me that his prospects at Goldthwaite were very bright as construction of a new school plant is high on the agenda of work there where an election will determine the increase of school revenue that will make the project possible. Building will not be new to Supt. Jones since he has promoted school building projects in each district of his administration as superintendent, including two at Olton, one each at Wellman, Springtown, Brook and Jermyz.
Mr. Jones reports that he will move with his family to Goldthwaite on July 1, if his successor has been chosen. Efforts to select a man is going forward and the field of applicants was narrowed somewhat in a called meeting of the Olton school board Thursday night. Selection of a high school principal awaits the election of a new superintendent as well as the final filling of other existing vacancies.

One day last week 2,223,000 gallons were poured through the city mains, and City Engineer Ralph Douglas stated that the city is using only five of its six water wells.
Barring accidents or breakdowns, Littlefield will have ample water for all purposes.

State Aid For City Streets

It will come as a surprise to most Texans when they learn how far the state has gone to the aid of cities in building and maintaining city streets. It has been a relatively short time since city municipal and civic groups were less concerned about the thoroughfares within their corporate limits than they were about getting an all-weather road from those limits to the edge of the surrounding towns.

As soon as all cities and towns were connected up with a paved road of some kind there was a gradual diversion of civic influence on behalf of the idea that the state should share some of the expense for city streets over which highways were routed. A modest step in this direction was taken in 1943 when the Highway Commission adopted a policy of joint improvement with cities. From time to time that policy has been expanded and liberalized. During the last five years the state has spent a total of $89.5 million for maintenance and construction of streets in cities of 25,000 population and over. A substantial amount was also spent in smaller towns.

The breakdown of this figure reveals some amazing facts and trends. Of the $89.5 million spent in all Texas cities, $51 million was spent in the four largest—Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston and San Antonio.

This $51 million is 54 per cent of all funds spent by the state during the five years throughout the entire period in which these four cities are located. Expenditures by the state in Dallas, Tarrant, Harris and Bexar counties for all rural highways, farm roads, and city streets as well totaled $94 million during the period.

The $51 million figure becomes more impressive when compared with the $55 million which is the estimated amount received into the state highway fund from the gasoline tax generated on all city streets, all rural highways and all farm roads in the four entire counties during the period.

In addition to the $51 million spent in the last five years, the Highway Department has scheduled a stepped-up program for the next years in these four cities—Dallas, Fort Worth and San Antonio. This four year program calls for an expenditure in excess of $89.2 million.

This $89.2 million will equal or exceed the total paid into the state highway fund from gasoline taxes generated on all the city streets in these four cities.

It is true that the city dwelling owners of motor vehicles pay a substantial sum into the state treasury in annual registration fees. And this contribution must not be minimized. On the contrary.

Yet if every city in Texas had a model system of streets, adequately financed and maintained, it would become worthless within a matter of days if all rural highways leading into such cities were suddenly blocked. To stop the daily shipments of food and other necessities coming by motor transportation would create immediate chaos. Even gasoline to propel vehicles over these model streets would immediately run into short supply.

Today the rural road networks are as necessary to the survival and progress of cities as they were when all energies were converged on the basic problem of linking the cities with any kind of a paved road. And this necessity makes it proper that city dwellers continue to pay a fair share of the cost of that rural network.

Texas now faces a crisis in its highway program. The future of our state depends on finding a solution not only to the problem of adequate city streets, but rural highways and farm roads as well. The benefits of solving one without solving the other two would be of questionable value. And certainly any improvements in one of these areas at the expense of the other two will bring a negative end result.

Texas Parade calls on all interested Texans to view this crisis in its whole and work together to find a solution to the entire problem. There can be little progress in solving the overall problem of adequate city streets, rural highways, and farm roads until the exponents of each of the three systems unite behind a common effort. A division of purpose will spell failure for all.

Judges get the law by which they decide the legal questions arising in a lawsuit from three sources: federal and state constitutions; federal and state statutes; and from previous judicial decisions and legal writings. Previous decisions state the public standards of rights and duties in matter not covered by constitutions and statutes.

Lawyers say that if judges and juries were not bound by law and precedents—if in each lawsuit, the judge or juror could set up a private standard of rights and duties as a basis for deciding that case—no one would know in advance of the decision how he should have acted in a particular situation. Cases arising out of similar circumstances would not be decided on settled principles but on the personal ideas of the trial judge or juror.

Because cases must be tried and determined on established and recognized public standards of right and wrong, we call ours a government of law and not a government of men.

Judges have access to statements of the law and know which apply to the situation involved in any lawsuit. So that justice may be done according to the law, it is imperative that the jurors in each case accept the law as the judge gives it to them. They are therefore required to base their verdict on his instructions as to the law, rather than on their own notions of what the law is, or ought to be.

For somewhat similar reasons there are rules governing the way a case is to be tried in court. These rules prescribe what must be stated in the pleadings, in what order evidence must be presented, what evidence is proper, what questions must be asked, in what order lawyers are permitted to argue, what is permissible and what is not permissible argument.

Eight Points In Combatting Polio

A long-range battle plan against rampaging polio was outlined recently by the State Department of Health.

State Health Officer Geo. W. Cox recommended these eight points of action in combatting the disease which this year is striking harder at Texas than at any other part of the nation.

1. Spot spray insect breeding places after they have been cleaned up and destroyed. Spraying indiscriminately might kill a few insects on the wing, but it won't do the job. It might kill valuable plants and create a false sense of security.
2. Get rid of animal shelters in urban areas. They cannot be kept clean and consequently create a health hazard as fly breeders.
3. Get rid of dump piles, tin cans, old tires, and accumulated debris which breed flies and mosquitoes and provide harborage for rats.
4. Provide a properly operated sewerage system, and get rid of all surface toilets. Dr. Cox believes surface toilets constitute one of the major health hazards facing Texas.
5. Provide a source of pure water.
6. Protect food supplies in wholesale business houses, retail shops, and in private homes.
7. Make regular inspections of all premises to see that no possibility exists for fly breeding. If you have flies, somebody is maintaining a breeding spot.

8. Garbage should be placed in fly tight garbage cans until time of disposal. Tubs, boxes, lidless garbage cans, etc., are of no value.

He urged each home owner to assume responsibility for keeping his property clean inside and out. This will help protect you and your neighbor. More people have been struck down by polio this year than ever before.

He said it takes months and months to clean up a city, and that it "takes forever to keep it that way." The program must be continuous. "It will take from one to five years to really clean up our larger cities," Cox said.

"This is the same program we have followed and published for the past ten years. People have got to get over the notion that spraying alone will keep their city fly-free," Dr. Cox declared. "The only way to kill flies is to do it methodically, block by block, by eliminating their breeding places."

"They carry many diseases—diarrhea, typhoid fever, cholera, trachoma, just to mention a few. I firmly believe that if this 8-point program is invoked, we'll see a lessening of polio incidence in the future."

goes change, too, becoming smaller. When the part that a bone supports becomes heavier, bones become thicker and stronger.

About two-thirds of a bone is a fiber, a dense elastic sort of thread and cell which makes the bone flexible and tough; this is called organic matter. The other third of a bone is made up of inorganic salts, calcium, which makes bones hard and rigid. That calcium can be removed from the bone by placing the bone in a mineral acid, leaving only the organic material; without the inorganic salts the bone can be tied in a knot, springing back into bone-shape when it is untied.

On the other hand, the organic material (elasticity) of the bone is removed from buried bones, leaving only the salts; this leaves brittle bones that will break unless carefully handled, the kind that archeologists study. Bones that have been buried a long time in limestone caves become petrified and those that have been buried in rich mineral soils usually retain some of their firmness, not becoming as brittle as those buried in common earth.

"Most-Wanted" of Them All!

It will probably occasion no surprise on your part to be told that the Cadillac car is the most wanted and sought-after automobile on the American highways.

But you might be surprised to learn how widespread the desire to own this great motor car has become during recent years.

Statistics indicate, for instance, that there are more than twenty million motorists in America who would like to call a Cadillac their own. And were the whole of the world's motorists to be considered, this number would grow well-nigh beyond comprehension.

There is reason to believe, in fact, that Cadillac may be wanted by more people than any other product manufactured in America today. It might well be called the great desideratum of the American people.

Naturally, a motor car has to offer many wonderful things in order to occupy such a unique position the hopes and aspirations of so many persons.

It has to offer great and distinguishing beauty, luxurious comfort... brilliant, masterful performance... and wonderful prestige.

And, of course, in order to have become the ambition of so many millions, it would have to be practical to own, as well as wonderful to drive. And it would also have to offer—extraordinary economy.

If this sounds like the description of the car you, yourself, would like to own and drive, then let us in and see us—soon.

Perhaps the time has come for you to join the hundreds of thousands of motorists who have started wanting a Cadillac—and started enjoying one!

We'd be happy to see you any time.

Health Talks

Prepared by the State Medical Association of Texas

Action of the body ultimately lies in the power of the bones of the body to move and create locomotion. The bones may be considered the tail end of a chain reaction, a chain set off by the cranial nerves, carried to the muscles, and then carried to the bones, which act.

When they're not acting, the bones have plenty of other work to do. They are the framework of the body, the girders and cross beams and such that keep the structure together and intact. The bones are the armor for parts of the body, the brain, the spinal cord, the heart, the lungs, the liver and the bladder all having bony shields which protect them. The bones are part of the blood manufacturing system of the body, with their insides, the marrow, the factory for blood cells. And the bones are the storehouses for calcium and phosphorus.

Bones can be described in many different manners but for the most part the ones that make up the main frame are called axial bones and those that are struck on to the frame are called appendicular bones.

The axial bones are the skull and face bones, the spinal bones, the ribs and the breast bone. They are usually flat bones of irregular shape.

The appendicular bones of the arms and hands, legs and feet, are usually called either long or short bones. Long bones are tubular shafts which are mainly used as levers for the muscles. Short bones look more like dice, having six sides and being cube-shaped. Flat bones are sandwich-shaped, two layers of solid bone with spongy bone and marrow in between.

Bones are not like pillars of cement stuck around to hold up a building. If you can visualize the pillars of cement as growing things and the building as a constantly changing structure, then the similarity between cement pillars and bones is a bit closer.

Thus, bones are living things, constantly undergoing change, constantly receiving food from the body and depositing waste to be eliminated from the body. Bones have blood vessels, lymph vessels and nerves. They grow. They are subject to disease and injury. When they break, they heal themselves.

When the part that a bone supports becomes paralyzed or fails to function properly, the bone under-
