

ORDINANCE NO. 77

AN ORDINANCE LICENSING AND REGULATING THE SALE AT PUBLIC AUCTION OF JEWELRY, DIAMONDS AND OTHER PRECIOUS OR SEMI-PRECIOUS STONES, WATCHES, CLOCKS, PICTURES, PAINTINGS, BRIC-A-BRAC OR SUCH LIKE ARTICLES AND PRESCRIBING A PENALTY AND PROVIDING FOR AN EMERGENCY.

WHEREAS, on account of the general complaint which has grown out of the practices of unregulated auctions and auctioneers of the hereinafter described kind and character of goods and the great amount of imposition made upon the public by misrepresentation and practices of deceit and fraud growing out of unregulated and irresponsible auctioneers and auctions it is deemed advisable by the City Commission of the City of Littlefield, Texas, to pass suitable regulations governing the same so as to secure honesty and fair dealing and avoid such evil practices that have grown up on account of the want of proper regulations, now therefore:

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COMMISSION OF THE CITY OF LITTLEFIELD, TEXAS:

SECTION 1: That it shall hereafter be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to sell, dispose of or offer for sale in the City of Littlefield, Texas, at a public auction, or cause or permit to be sold, disposed of or offered for sale at a public auction within the City of Littlefield, Texas, jewelry, diamonds, or other precious or semi-precious stones, watches, clocks, platinum, gold or silverware or plated ware, stationery, glassware, porcelain, bric-a-brac or such like articles, whether the same shall be their own property or whether the sale of the same shall be by and through agents or employees or others, without first complying with the provisions of this ordinance and obtaining a license from the Assessor and Collector of Taxes of the City of Littlefield, Texas, as herein provided, for ninety (90) days before the auction sale begins, and shall state in the said application the period of days any such person desires to hold said auction sale and the dates, thereof, and the said Assessor and Collector of Taxes shall issue to any such person a license upon complying with the terms of this ordinance for the period of time so designated, provided, that no license shall be issued for longer period than thirty (30) days.

SECTION 2: That any person desiring to hold an auction sale for the sale of the goods hereinbefore described shall make written application to the Assessor and Collector of Taxes of the City of Littlefield, Texas, as herein provided, for ninety (90) days before the auction sale begins, and shall state in the said application the period of days any such person desires to hold said auction sale and the dates, thereof, and the said Assessor and Collector of Taxes shall issue to any such person a license upon complying with the terms of this ordinance for the period of time so designated, provided, that no license shall be issued for longer period than thirty (30) days.

SECTION 3: Said application for a license shall be in writing and sworn to, stating the name of the applicant, his residence, the street and number of the proposed place of sale, the length of time for which the license is desired, and if the applicant has been previously engaged in a like or similar business, to designate the places where the sale was conducted.

SECTION 4: Said application for a license shall have attached to it a sworn inventory of such stock of merchandise setting out the quality, quantity, and kind or grade of each item thereof. To such inventory there shall be attached an affidavit that such inventory is in all respects true and correct. In the case of an individual, such affidavit shall be made by him as such; in case of a firm, it shall be made by one of the partners; and in case of a corporation, it shall be made by the president, general manager, secretary or treasurer. Such inventory and affidavit when so made shall be kept on file in the office of the Assessor and Collector of Taxes. No merchandise shall be sold at such auction sale except that referred to and included in the inventory made a part of the application. That whenever any extension of the license so granted hereunder is granted to any person holding an auction, an application shall be made therefor as provided herein, which shall be granted by the Assessor and Collector of Taxes, provided, that should it appear to the said Assessor and Collector of Taxes, from the application so made, that new or additional articles, commonly known as "fill ins," are added to the list of articles made by any such person, then it shall be the duty of the said person to furnish an additional bond in the amount as herein described for the sale of the additional articles, or as is required for the sale of the original articles.

SECTION 5: That all persons desiring a license shall, upon complying with the application herein provided for, and before a license shall be issued to any such person, tender a good and sufficient bond to the City of Littlefield, Texas, duly executed by the said applicant, as principal, and in the penal sum of $2,000.00, which bond shall be made payable to the City of Littlefield, Texas, at Littlefield, in Lamb County, Texas, and when in compliance with the terms of this ordinance shall be approved by the City Commission of the City of Littlefield, Texas, and shall be conditioned that the said principal thereon shall pay all losses and damages which may lawfully be claimed against him on account of any material misrepresentation, of fact and belief or any material suppression of facts concerning the merchandise to be auctioned at such sale, or which may grow out of a violation of any of the terms of this ordinance. Such bond shall be made amendable to any person who may sustain any loss or damage on account of any such misrepresentation and shall cover all auction sales of merchandise described in the inventory made and required to be filed with the Assessor and Collector of Taxes, and any such person sustaining any damage or loss may bring suit in any court of competent jurisdiction to recover the same and the provisions of the said bond shall be construed liberally in favor of any such person on account of any loss or damage sustained by any such person either directly or indirectly. All remedies upon or under such bond shall be in addition to and cumulative of all other remedies the parties may have at law or in equity for recovery of any such losses or damages. Such bond shall be signed by a surety company doing business in the State of Texas, and cumulative recoveries may be had on said bond to the full amount thereof.

SECTION 6: That the Assessor and Collector of Taxes may inspect and investigate any part or all of such stock of merchandise coming within the purview of this ordinance before issuing the license in order to determine the truth of the statements made in the application and inventory.

SECTION 7: That before any license shall be issued the applicant shall pay to the City of Littlefield, Texas, a license fee in advance in the sum of $12.50.

SECTION 8: It shall be unlawful for any person acting as auctioneer to make any statements which are false in any particular, or which have a tendency to mislead any person present, or to make any misrepresentation whatsoever or at all as to the quality, character or present condition, or value, or cost, or general selling price or whether new or second hand, or partly so, of any property offered for disposal by auction sale.

SECTION 9: That it shall be unlawful to sell or offer for sale any article hereinbefore described as a "fill in" unless in each and every advertisement of whatsoever kind with reference to said auction, there be contained a clear and unequivocal statement of the fact that goods and merchandise herein described as "fill in" have been added to the "stock on hand."

SECTION 10: That it shall be unlawful for any person as auctioneer to sell or offer for sale any article hereinbefore described as "fill in" without first stating such fact in a clear and audible tone of voice to any and all persons present at said auction.

SECTION 11: (Definitions) That a sale, or offering for sale, to the highest bidder of any jewelry, diamonds, or other precious or semi-precious stones, stationery, watches, clocks, platinum, gold or silverware or plated ware, glassware, porcelain, bric-a-brac, or such like articles, in any building, or in any of the streets or alleys, or in any other public place, where any and all persons who choose are permitted to attend and offer bids, shall be deemed to constitute a public auction within the meaning of this ordinance.

That by the words "stock on hand" as herein used is meant such jewelry, diamonds, or other precious or semi-precious stones, watches, clocks, platinum, gold or silverware or plated ware, glassware, porcelain, stationery, bric-a-brac and such like articles which a merchant usually and ordinarily carries throughout the year, and does not include jewelry, diamonds, or other precious or semi-precious stones, watches, clocks, platinum, gold or silverware or plated ware, glassware, porcelain, stationery, bric-a-brac and such like articles purchased or otherwise acquired especially and purposely for sale at public auction; and by the term "fill in" is meant such other jewelry, diamonds, or other precious or semi-precious stones, watches, clocks, platinum, gold or silverware or plated ware, glassware, porcelain, stationery, bric-a-brac and such like articles as may be added to the stock on hand as above defined and intended to be sold at public auction.

SECTION 12: It shall be unlawful for any person to act as by-bidder or what is commonly known as a "capper" or "booster" at any such auction or place where any such auction shall take place, or to offer or make any false bid or to offer any false bid to buy or pretend to buy any such article sold or offered for sale at any such auction.

SECTION 13: It shall be unlawful for any person to hold or conduct or take part in any auction sale of the articles hereinbefore mentioned between the hours of six o'clock p. m., and six o'clock a. m.

SECTION 14: That term "person" as used herein shall include and comprehend any person, firm, or association of persons or any corporation, their agents, servants or employees.

SECTION 15: That any person, firm, association of persons, or any corporation, their agents, servants or employees violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall, upon conviction, be fined in any sum not exceeding One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars, and each and every day that a violation of this ordinance occurs shall be deemed a separate offense.

SECTION 16: That should any portion or part of this ordinance be held for any reason invalid or unenforceable, the same shall not be construed to affect any other valid portion hereof, but all valid portions shall remain in full force and effect.

SECTION 17: Whereas, on account of the promiscuous sales at auction made by traveling auctioneers, as well as on account of the many acts of extortion and oppression growing out of misrepresentation and deceptions practiced on the public by unregulated auctioneers engaged in the sale of articles hereinabove described creates an urgency and an emergency in behalf of the preservation of the public peace, health and safety that requires this ordinance to become effective upon its passage and it is therefore accordingly so ordained that this ordinance shall become effective immediately upon its passage as by law in such cases made and provided.

ORDINANCE NO. 78

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF LITTLEFIELD, AMENDING SECTION 5 OF ORDINANCE NO. 10, AND AMENDING ORDINANCE NO. 55, AND AMENDING ORDINANCE NO. 62, OF THE CITY OF LITTLEFIELD, FIXING AMOUNT OF CITY OCCUPATION TAX OF AUCTIONEERS; PRESCRIBING OFFENSE; FIXING PENALTIES; REPEALING ALL ORDINANCES AND PARTS OF ORDINANCES HERETOFORE PASSED IN CONFLICT WITH THIS ORDINANCE; AND DECLARING AN EMERGENCY.

"SECTION 5. AUCTIONEERS: From every auctioneer, an annual tax of Twelve and 50-00 Dollars ($12.50)."

SECTION 2: Whoever shall pursue or follow the occupation, calling or profession of auctioneer, without exhibiting and displaying the tax receipt issued to him in the manner required by Ordinance No. 10 of the City of Littlefield, Texas, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction fined in any sum not exceeding Fifty Dollars ($50.00).

SECTION 3: All Ordinances or parts of Ordinances heretofore passed by the City Commission of the City of Littlefield, Texas, which may in any way conflict with this Ordinance or any part of same, are hereby expressly repealed.

SECTION 4: The fact that the City of Littlefield, Texas, now has no valid ordinance regulating the amount of occupation tax to be paid to the City, and the fact that all previous Ordinances passed by the City Commission regulating the City occupation tax to be paid by Auctioneers to the City are in conflict with the General Laws of the State of Texas, and the fact that it is necessary that the City have a valid Ordinance regulating the amount of City Occupation tax to be paid by Auctioneers, desiring to pursue such occupation within the corporate limits of the City of Littlefield, and desire to pay the legal tax to said City, creates an emergency and public necessity requiring that the rule that Ordinances shall be read on three separate days or meetings, prior to final passage, be suspended, and such rule is hereby suspended, and shall be passed as an emergency Ordinance, and shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage, approval and publication, as required by law.

8703 FROCK AND CALOT

Pattern 8703—Leanin' on the old top rail—isn't she a fetching picture, with her crisp, flare-skirted frock darted in at the waistline, and a calot perched on her curls. Your own daughter will look much more charming than this picture, if you send for design No. 8703 and make her the same outfit.

It's truly a love of a frock, with action back, pointed yoke, and buttoned pockets that repeat the line of the yoke. Just the kind she'll adore for vacation days, both in town and in the country.

This sports-and-day fashion makes up smartly in plaid or checked gingham, striped linen, or plain colored chambray or sharkskin, with calot to match and bright buttons in contrast.

You'll use the pattern the year round, when you see how beautifully it works out; it's stunning in flannel and wool crepe, too.

Pattern No. 8703 is designed for sizes 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16 years. Size 10 requires 3 1-2 yards of 36-inch material without nap for dress and calot.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
 Roy Shahan, Pastor
 Sunday is "Laymen's Day." Men have stood at the head of civilization, kingdoms, governments, homes. When Christ established his church, men were the first to be recognized as leaders in this great institution. Men have not always lived up to this great place of leadership and responsibility. The need of the hour is for men to be "real men."
 The pastor will speak Sunday morning on the subject, "The Man Who Failed."
 Let every man in Littlefield find his way to God's house for worship this Lord's day. We give you an invitation and hearty welcome to our services.

METHODIST CHURCH, AMHERST
 The issue of the Forum last July was devoted entirely to the subject of New York City. Nothing was said about the church.
 Last December issue of McCall's Magazine announced the record of a youth forum by the magazine on the subject of "Religion In Democracy." 28 young men and women of the Boston area participated. Two-thirds of them felt that American democracy could function better if the existing church system could be liquidated.
 The best selling book about the South in recent years is "A Southerner Discovers the South." If the author discovered a church he does not report it.
 Cannot the church make greater impressions on people than this or are these accusers of the church impervious to the power and spirit of the church?
 October 20th is a new Missionary day for us under the new set up of unification. We wish to make the most of it and get into the spirit of the day observed by more than twelve million people.
 At night we shall preach on "Three Great Facts." We want to keep before our people a glorious closing of the year November 14, and all reports are well prepared for October 27.

WOMAN'S SOCIETY OF CHRISTIAN SERVICE
 The Women's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist church met in a social meeting on World Outlook at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Hemphill with Mrs. Hemphill and Mrs. Paul Pharris co-hostesses.
 The meeting opened with the song, "More Love To Thee" followed by a scripture reading by the leader, Mrs. W. H. Gardner. The theme of the lesson was Stewardship. Another song, "Work For The Night Is Coming", after which Mrs. J. H. Sharp and Mrs. Van Clark gave interesting reports of dividends in different countries. A prayer by the leader, Mrs. Gardner, and talks by the two delegates to the Missionary conference in Memphis, Texas last week closed this most interesting meeting.
 Dainty refreshments were served to the following ladies, Mesdames Joe Aven, J. H. Lippard, J. H. Sharp, W. H. Gardner, Fred Wright, S. McCash, L. T. Green, Everett Arnn, B. L. Cogdill, H. R. Bildersback, M. Lair, and the hostesses.

Cousin Of W. C. Thaxton Passes Away Saturday

Funeral Services Conducted Sunday Afternoon At Levelland

W. T. Thaxton, 65, passed away at his home in Levelland Saturday night, about 8 o'clock, as a result of a heart attack.

Mr. Thaxton was a cousin of W. C. Thaxton of this city, and had been in ill health for sometime, suffering from a stomach ailment.

He was one of Levelland's most prominent citizens. He was in charge of the C. W. Post land interests in that section for the past 15 years, and a highly regarded business man.

Funeral services were conducted at the First Baptist church, Levelland, at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, with Rev. Gantz, pastor of the First Christian church, Lubbock, officiating. Last rites at the grave were in charge of the Masonic Lodge, of which the deceased had been a member of long standing. Interment took place in the Levelland cemetery.

Hart Thaxton Funeral Home, Littlefield, was in charge of arrangements.

Mr. Thaxton is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Bob Hurst, of Levelland; and three sons, Ernest of Lubbock, Leon of Levelland, and Willard of the U. S. Air Corps, stationed at Denver, Colo., and a brother, Will Thaxton of Kemp, Okla.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Thaxton and Mr. and Mrs. Ewing Thaxton attended the funeral services from Littlefield.

Raymond Hutton Suffers Injury In Truck Mishap

Trailer With 35 Cattle Turns Over On Plainview Highway Monday

Raymond Hutton, 25, of Littlefield, truck driver, suffered painful face and head injuries, and two fractured ribs, about 2 o'clock Monday morning in a truck accident on the Plainview highway.

Mr. Hutton was driving a truck, attached to which was a trailer loaded with 35 head of cattle, which he was taking to Plainview for the Garlington Brothers.

The trailer is reported to have turned over, causing also the truck to turn over and into a mud hole. Mr. Hutton was pinned under the truck, and it was only after much effort that he was able to dig himself out. A farmer nearby came to his rescue, but was unable to be of any assistance to him, but stated he would take care of his cattle, which were running loose. A hitch-hiker that Mr. Hutton had given a ride left the scene unhurt.

The injured man was obliged to walk to his home in College Heights Addition, after which he was taken to the Paynt-Shotwell hospital, where he was rendered medical aid.

Latest reports are to the effect that although he is suffering considerably from a head and face injury, and bruises about his body, he is getting along nicely.

An unused 1924 model automobile, so maintained that its buyer says that it is as good as the day it was built to sell for $1,685, recently went to the highest bidder for $40. Modern cars selling for less than half of its original price, can run rings around it.

them do not like to think of leaving their families and jobs for one year's military training, they all admit they are ready to go, when the time comes. Persons registering yesterday will see service in the next four or five years unless they get deferment through draft boards.

Scenes at the registration places were typical of the last draft.

Register From Sickbeds

Three or four men were registered from hospital beds and one man signed papers at his apartment, as he was unable to go to the appointed place.

Several persons couldn't read nor write, but they scrawled their big X's. One man couldn't remember the month he was born, and kept answering "the 18th" to the woman registrar. Finally he remembered that his birthday came on October 18 every year.

Then there was the man who was asked who would always know where he was, when Uncle Sam was ready for him, and he answered "GMAC", who are partners with him in the ownership of his car.

Transients Register

Transients registered here who gave their permanent addresses all the way from New York City to California. "We were not particular where they came from," the registrars declared.

One youth brought his church certificate to show to the registrar. A colored man, after he had registered, returned to the lobby of one of the voting places and asked if there was a doctor around.

He specified that he wanted an eye specialist. When told he would have to go down town, he said, "I want to have my eyes in perfect shape, so that I can be sure to get Hitler."

Several men hesitated about giving their home addresses, as they did not want their wives to know where they were. One man from New York City gave the name of his grandmother, rather than his wife.

Many men in Lamb county who answered the same call 23 years ago last June 5 saw their sons step into line for registration at election precincts and schools.

"It is a day of deep and purposeful meaning in the lives of all of us," President Roosevelt said in a brief, early-morning address Wednesday.

16,404,000 Register

From the pool of 16,404,000 registering yesterday, selective service officials expected to draw 5,000,000 men ready and able to undergo military training in the next four and a half years — nearly 750,000 more than were mobilized to fight the war of 1917 and 1918.

The President made another distinction, too, between this call and that of 1917, when he stated in his message: "We prepare to keep the peace in this new world — It is a program obviously of defensive preparation only."

Section 7 also provides that before a license shall be issued, the applicant shall pay to the City of Littlefield a license fee in advance in the sum of $12.50.

Voting Procedure Will Be Same As Used Last Year

All Cotton Producers To Have Opportunity To Decide Question

The voting procedure in the cotton marketing quota referendum December 7, will be the same as was used in the referendum last year, according to an announcement just received from College Station. All cotton producers in the state will be given the opportunity to vote in the referendum to decide whether quotas will be in effect in 1941. George Slaughter, state AAA committee chairman, pointed out in his address at the referendum, 82 percent of the cotton producers voting in 1939 favored quotas, while 91 per-

Directors of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association have accepted the invitation of Texas A. and M. cent of the producers in the nation voted "yes."

A national cotton marketing quota of approximately 12,000,000 bales, the same as is in effect for the current year, has been proclaimed by Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard.

The county AAA committees will be in charge of all arrangements for the referendum in the various counties, the chairman said, and the voting will be handled just as in any regular election. The committee will choose three local farmers to serve as election officers in each community. Voting places will be provided for all communities where cotton is produced, the county committee designating the places and providing ballot boxes. Voting places will open at 9 a. m., December 7.

All voting will be by secret ballot, each farmer marking his ballot and casting it in the customary manner used in secret balloting.

To be effective in 1941, cotton marketing quotas must be approved by two-thirds of the farmers voting in the nation. If approved, quotas will apply to all states, counties and communities where cotton is produced.

FORTY THOUSAND TRENCH SILOS FOR 1940, SAYS A. & M. DAIRYMAN

It seems like he might be stretching it a little, but E. R. Eudaly, dairyman with the Texas A. and M. Extension Service, looks for 40,000 trench silos in Texas by the end of 1940.

At that he has a pretty good basis for his estimate. In 1931, there were 18 trench silos in the state. By 1933 there were 435; by 1935, 1,187. From then on, by years the story is 1936, 5,841; 1937, 9,483; 1938, 17,048; and 1939, 28,831.

To reach the 40,000 estimate, Texas farmers and ranchmen would have to build and fill 11,169 trenches over and above what they did in 1939.

Eudaly admits that the weather from now on will have a lot to do with it. For instance, an early freeze might kill several hundred thousand acres of late sorghum, and make it almost worthless for grain or bundle feed. On the other hand, experience has shown that frost-bitten feed makes good silage.

Some cotton yarn is so fine that 50 miles of it are needed to make one pound according to studies made at the Southern Regional Research Laboratory.

NATIONAL DEFENSE PROGRAM ON THE FARM

Farm Security Helping To Improve Nation Manpower

Farmers Due To Play Major Part In Nat'l Defense For Country

"Farmers, as usual, are due to play a major part in the national defense program in this country," according to Fred L. Nix, rehabilitation supervisor for the Farm Security Administration in Lamb county. He said the American farm family to fulfill this defense role, needs good land, economic security and adequate income, health, security of tenure, happiness and contentment.

"Already it is apparent that the impact of the war is falling more heavily on the farmer than on any other group in this country and that it is striking with the greatest force on that part of the farm population which is most handicapped and least able to withstand it," he said. Mr. Nix believes the rehabilitation loan program of the FSA constitutes a first line of defense for hundreds of thousands of needy farm families which are suffering most severely from the economic dislocation of the war.

"The FSA," Mr. Nix said, "through its loans to low-income farmers and, in some cases, work grants to impoverished families, is doing much to improve and preserve the manpower of the nation."

"For example," he continued, "family-size farming is a deep-rooted American tradition, and no good citizen wants to see it swept away. That is one reason the FSA makes loans to groups of small farmers when they cannot raise the money elsewhere to buy equipment and services they need and can use cooperatively in order to remain on their farms and maintain a desirable standard of living."

Mr. Nix explained that along with necessary credit to low-income farm families with which to purchase feed, seed, equipment, livestock and supplies, the FSA has given families needed advice in the setting up of sound farm and home management plans. It has helped in the adjustment of overburdening debts, in obtaining security of tenure and in establishing a means for small farmers to compete with large scale and costly mechanized operations.

He said that 201 farm families in Lamb county are actively cooperating with this supervised lending agency. During last year they had an average net worth of $1,011.00 per family as compared to $750.00 the year previous to joining the program.

"When you strengthen national resources," Mr. Nix said, "you strengthen national defense. Secure, self-dependent farm families will help save our soil. They will be ready to raise food if we ever need it to feed an army at war. They will educate and rear healthy children. No group is of more vital factor in any defense program than the farmer."

Need For Mules In War Lessens

OMAHA, Neb. — Even a Nebraska mule farm is a target for the repercussions of Europe's war.

Since 1918 Frank F. Simpson has raised mules on his ranch near here. He sold them to foreign governments by the thousands and achieved a reputation as one of the leading mule exporters in the United States.

Now, for the first time in 22 years the mule lots on his farm are almost empty. The British government has suspended its purchases, due to the difficulty of transoceanic transportation.

Great Britain, to do business with Simpson, would have to accept full responsibility for shipments and would have to transport the mules in British ships to India, where they would be used.

But Britain in wartime has more urgent demands for its ships than carrying mules to India, and orders with Simpson have been cancelled.

In June and July of 1940, the Nebraska rancher sold only 100 animals, to South America. During the World war, the Allied governments purchased 72,000 mules from him.

Simpson recalled that in 1923, shipping losses were so high the British informed him he would have to take the entire transportation risk.

Unperturbed, he put the animals through a long and expensive feeding process to acclimatize them to ocean conditions, and subjected them to shipping fever in his own feed yards. When they had recovered, he shipped them.

On seven shipments to India, one to China and two to the British Isles, he did not lose a single mule.

Simpson was the first mule exporter to ship the animals without tying them on the vessel. Untied, they have a better chance to familiarize themselves with the ship's roll, he found.

WTCC ANNOUNCE 4 POINT PLAN TO REDUCE PUBLIC EXPENDITURES

Local political subdivisions are leading the way this year in curtailing public expenditures and in installing budget procedure, says the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The conclusion was based upon report from the WTCC's budget analysis staff, appearing in the October issue of the organization's monthly magazine, WEST TEXAS TODAY. The report shows 1940-41 and 1939-40 budget totals, comparative tax rates and valuations from 47 political subdivisions of West Texas.

In many of these political subdivisions, local citizens tax committees formed under the sponsorship of the West Texas chamber of commerce have done fine work in budget analysis and recommendations, always in constructive and friendly cooperation with the taxing bodies. Twenty-six of these citizens' committees have been organized and are operating in the following cities:

Abilene, Albany, Ballinger, Balmorhea, Benjamin, Decatur, Eastland, Floydada, Fort Stockton, Knox City, Lamesa, McCamey, Muleshoe, Olney, Post, Pecos, Ralls, Ranger, Roscoe, Seminole, Stephenville, Tahoka, Tulla, Vernon, Waco, and Midland.

From the 47 political subdivisions — 29 counties and 18 cities — reductions in budget totals for 1940-41 are shown in 36. The following in the way of curtailment of public expenditure, were deemed worthy of special mention:

Brewster county, cut $6,745, an 8 1-2 per cent saving. Coleman county, cut $11,733. And Deaf Smith county, valuation slightly increased, yet budget for next year trimmed by $18,085.

Ector county, a remarkable showing: tax rate cut 30 cents and budget by $86,665. The city of El Paso, valuation decrease of $470,000 and budget down by $68,000.

Hardeman county, valuations and tax rate unchanged, budget saving of $28,400, or 23 per cent. Johnson county, tax rate cut 10 cents, valuations $150,000 less, budget saving $16,000.

Lampasas county, budget cut $25,000. Mills county, $10,000 cut. Terry county, $14,000 cut. Yoakum county, $8,155 cut after providing an increase of $10,500 for courthouse and jail improvements.

The city of Waco, budget cut of $4,265. Hale county, budget reduced by $13,967.

In its long-time program, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is announcing a four-point plan, for submission to the people of Texas and to the legislature, for (1) providing centralized control and up-to-date budget procedure of state receipts and disbursements, (2) giving greater standardization to and mandatory requirements for budget making in local political subdivisions, (3) setting up adequate provisions for the collection of delinquent taxes and basing of local budgets upon 100 per cent collections, and (4) modernizing and improving for local governments the debt-incurring and debt-paying practices, all for the benefit of tax-payors. Already drawn and approved by officials of the WTCC is the plan submitted by Dr. Geo. C. Hester, counsellor of the Public Expenditure commission, and D. A. Banded, manager of the organization, for reorganizing the financial management functions of the state. Complete breakdown of the plan will be pamphletized, and a bill is being drafted, for submission to the legislature.

Four Out Of Ten Tenants Will Move

Soon thousands of Texas tenants will be on the move and thousands of Texas landlords will be selecting new tenants for 1941.

Four out of ten Texas tenants and sharecroppers will move this year.

At least part of the blame for this situation can be placed on the forms of leasing or rental agreements in use in Texas, almost all of which have four common faults: failure to put the terms of the lease on paper; short—usually one-year — leases; heavy emphasis on cash crop farming; and failure to encourage improvement of the farms.

The need for introducing or adding cattle, sheep and swine on tenant farms, the necessity for soil conservation and soil improvement measures in most sections of the state, and the need for crop rotation extending over a period of years all make it imperative that the turn-over in tenants be slowed down.

That is the way Tyrus R. Timm, extension economist in farm management, sums up the situation in announcing that the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Texas A. and M. Extension Service have worked together to prepare five lease forms calculated to meet almost all situations.

Copies of the agreements can be secured free from county agricultural agents, he said.

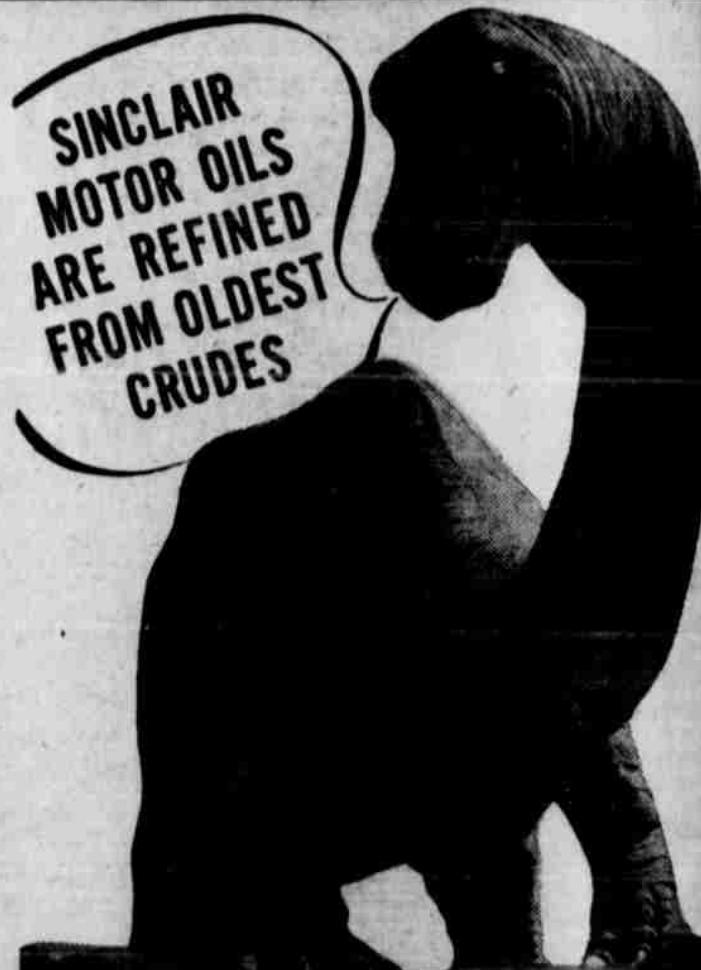

The forms include a Standard Flexible Farm Lease, a Flexible Share Lease, Flexible Sharecropping Agreement, and supplements to the share and sharecropping agreements.

"We realize, of course, that these lease forms are not in themselves the solution to the tenant problems which these problems can be approached in a definite and concrete way," Timm pointed out.

Canada Has 16,600 Men In Air Corps

When in September, 1939, Canada declared war on Germany, it had an air force of only 4,061 men, a navy of 15 ships and 1,774 men and a standing army of 4,492.

Now, Canada has more than 16,500 serving in the Royal Canadian Air force and the British Commonwealth aid training plan will soon have 40,000 men training to become pilots, gunners, air observers and ground crew men.

The Royal Canadian navy now has 120 vessels and 10,000 officers and men. In a few months 215 vessels will be in service and the personnel may exceed 15,000. In addition to Canadian crews on Canadian vessels, more than 450 men are serving with the Royal navy, or in training with it.

Canada's army today has an active service force of 152,842 and another 100,731 in the non-permanent active militia, making a total strength of 253,573. According to plans it will continue to grow under the national mobilization act at the rate of 30,000 a month until 1,000,000 men have been trained. Canada has 39,839 serving with the C. A. S. F. overseas.

The Canadian navy has had its full share of onerous and dangerous duties since the outbreak of war. Some of the ships are assigned to the Atlantic patrol. Other vessels have seen duty in the Caribbean. Still others served in the evacuation of troops from France. One of these ships, H. M. C. S. Fraser, was lost.

Since the outbreak of war, the navy has supervised the conveying of more than 15,000,000 tons of cargo, with losses of less than one-quarter of 1 per cent.

Many naval men have been serving since boyhood.

Canada has sent two army co-operation squadrons and one fighter squadron to England. These men are playing their part in the defense of Britain. At home, nine squadrons of the Royal Canadian Air force are stationed at strategic points on the Atlantic and Pacific. Soon 12 squadrons will be in service in the Dominion. On these men rests the duty of defending Canadian shores against attack, and of protecting convoys of ships approaching or leaving Canadian ports.

These fliers and thousands of others entered the air training schools with varied backgrounds. At training camps, where they were sent immediately after enlistment, each man was uniformed and was taught the rudiments of military training. He received a brief series of tests in a Link-trainer. Those who showed exceptional ability in handling the trainer were selected for a pilot's course, others went to observers' or gunners' school.

After 50 hours flying time, the recruit moves into the service flying training school, where he learns the elements of acrobatics and aerial combat. After 100 hours flying time he usually receives his "wings" and moves into the advanced training squadron.

Eventually he may be drafted to the Royal Air force or to the Royal Canadian Air force, depending on requirements.

Our Danger From War

The greatest danger the United States of America faces in looking forward to possible war, is not the destruction of property and lives, the enormous burdens of taxation which our people would have to pay in or lose, none of those material evils which concern so many people very deeply.

What we stand to lose is individual liberty whether we win the next war or are defeated.

Every time we have taken part in any way we have lost some of the liberties which we had cherished, and some which we never fully regained.

It is necessary, if a war is to be conducted successfully, that the whole national life shall be geared into the war machine. There must be a central authority, with power to make and carry out rules by which the whole populace must abide. There's no time to take a vote on whether to do without sugar or gasoline or on such more serious matters as talking too much about the possibility of being licked. When there's a war on, the Government takes command of the people's liberties—for the time being.

That's the real point of danger. "For the time being" is too apt to be stretched into "forever." There were war measures enacted in 1917 and 1918, intended to be used only for the period of the emergency, which have never been repealed and are still on the statute books. Almost all war statutes infringe to some degree upon peace-time rights of citizens. It is never easy to get men in power to let go of the right to dictate to the people, after the war necessity for such dictation has passed.

We are preparing for war. We believe we may have to fight to save democracy. We must beware lest we lose it in trying to save it.

Clear Thinking On Democracy

Five hundred of the world's most able and distinguished thinkers met in New York for three days and evenings the first week in September for a purpose almost unheard of in history.

They met to discuss science, philosophy and religion in their relation to the democratic way of life.

Preparations for this conference had been under way for more than a year. More than one hundred and seventy-five learned societies, universities, and religious bodies were represented in what was perhaps the greatest brain trust ever assembled. There were philosophers and mathematicians, political scientists, physicists, technologists, teachers and clergymen of every denomination and creed, Protestants, Catholics and Jews.

Probably never before has such a group been able to meet and discuss any subject without serious dissent. The amazing thing about this meeting is that there was complete agreement on the general proposition that the most dangerous weapons by which nations conquer each other are not guns but ideas; that the war in Europe is an outgrowth of ideas and that the Belgians and the French were defeated as much by thoughts as by tanks.

These five hundred thinkers found themselves able to agree upon at least one fundamental principle. That is "that modern civilization can be preserved only by a recognition of the supreme worth and moral responsibility of the individual human person."

That is the supreme essence of democracy.

Feeding A Milk Substitute To Young Dairy Calves

O. C. Copeland, Chief Division of Dairy Husbandry

In a calf feeding experiment at the Texas A. and M. College, a total of 19 calves have been successfully raised on a milk substitute. The milk substitute mixture used is as follows:

- 20 lbs. skim milk powder, protein 6.62.
18 lbs. 54 per cent protein C. S. meal, protein 8.75.
15 lbs. soy bean meal, protein 5.66.
15 lbs. linseed oil meal, protein 4.59.
10 lbs. whey, protein 1.19.
7 lbs. alfalfa leaf meal, protein 1.13.
6 lbs. red dog flour, protein .91.
7 lbs. hominy feed, protein .55.
1 lb. salt.
1 lb. oyster shell flour.
29.40 Apprx. N. R.—1:1.74.

This experiment is still in progress and there are 13 calves being fed this milk substitute diet at the present time. The calves receive their mothers' milk for the first 4 days after birth, then are fed whole milk from the herd until they are 25 days of age. Between 28 and 42 days of age the calves are gradually changed from whole milk to the milk substitute and fed the milk substitute until they are weaned at 6 months of age. As a check against the growth and health of these calves being fed on the milk substitute each calf has been paired at birth with another calf in the herd which receives the same treatment and feed except they are fed skim milk in place of the milk substitute.

This experiment is being conducted because of the many requests received by the College for information on calf feeding without the use of either whole or skim milk from milk producers selling to cheese manufacturing plants. In the older cheese producing areas of the country many research investigators have already experimented with various milk substitute formulas some of which have proven fairly satisfactory. It was the object of this experiment to formulate a milk substitute from ingredients more readily available on the feed markets of Texas and also one which would be more palatable than most of the milk substitute formulas already proven.

While we do not have sufficient information to warrant definite conclusions at this time, we believe a few observations are worth mentioning. The milk substitute being used is fed as a gruel and has very definitely proven equally as palatable as the skim milk. Very little scouring of any marked degree of severity has been observed in any of the experimental calves. Growth as measured by live weights and certain skeletal measurements has been slightly more rapid in the calves fed skim milk than those fed the milk substitute. The weight of the calves fed the milk substitute was 97.3 per cent of normal for Jerseys and 95.2 per cent of normal for Holsteins. The Jerseys were 98.3 per cent of normal height and the Holsteins were 98.2 per cent of normal height. This growth information indicates that the calves fed on the milk substitute were almost of normal size at weaning age.

It is also interesting to note the difference in the average feed costs between the two groups of calves. These costs were calculated by using the current market prices of all the ingredients used in the skim milk substitute, as compared with the current market price of skim milk powder which incidentally has been abnormally high during the progress of this experiment. The average feed cost for all calves which have finished the experiment from birth to 6 months of age for those fed the milk substitute was only 65.7 per cent of the feed costs of those fed skim milk.

Dairymen should not be misled by these comparative feed costs. Those who have skim milk available should use every ounce of it that is needed for calf feeding and all in excess should be utilized in the feeding of swine or poultry, because in many instances skim milk has very little if any market value and is a very excellent feed for livestock and poultry especially growing animals. Only those dairymen who sell their whole milk and do not have any skim milk available should consider the use of a milk substitute for calf raising. Even then one should not consider the use of milk substitute if skim milk powder can be purchased at the same price as the substitute because any milk substitute will only approach skim milk as a feed for young calves.

Many dairymen visiting the A. and M. College during the progress of this experiment have exhibited quite an interest in this work at least to the extent of requesting the formula of the milk substitute and directions for feeding. While the data of this experiment are not sufficient at this time to warrant definite statements as to the value of this milk substitute the leaders of the experiment are willing to

Ginnings Lower Than Last Year

A total of 34,880 bales of cotton had been ginned on the South Plains as of October 1, as compared with 88,501 bales to that date last year, according to figures released by the bureau of census, department of commerce.

Total is 38 per cent of last year, with but three counties, Bailey, Cochran and Hockley ginning as much as they did in 1939.

Garza county is probably the hardest hit, ginning but 416 bales compared with 5,015 a year ago. Lynn county ginned but 3,138 bales as compared with 20,703 last year at this time. Hale county ginned 846 bales compared with 3,968 a year ago.

Lubbock had ginned approximately one third of its last year's figure, totals being 7,139 compared with 21,314 bales.

Lubbock county leads the area, with Dawson, second; Hockley, third; Lynn, fourth; Scurry, fifth; Crosby, sixth; Lamb, seventh; Terry, eighth. Last year Lubbock led, Lynn was a close second; Dawson, third; Crosby, fourth; Garza, fifth;

Olton Mustangs Win From Muleshoe 14-6

Olton won its second conference game in District 5-A, defeating Muleshoe 14 to 6 in a rugged game last Friday.

Willard Hedges scored for Olton in the first quarter, culminating a 70-yard drive, then plunged for extra point. In the last ten seconds of the first half, he intercepted a Muleshoe pass and ran 40 yards to score, and again made extra point.

Muleshoe counted in the fourth period of a pass. Standerfer to Thomas. Try for extra point was missed. Standerfer, 180-pound quarterback, Warren and Thomas, halfbacks, and Clark, tackle, while Captain Sanders, Willard and Willis Hedges and W. H. Jackson stood out for Olton.

Sudan Rallies Late To Defeat Morton

The Sudan High school griders pulled a typical "story book finish" Friday, scored three touchdowns and made two extra points in the fourth quarter to defeat Morton, 20 to 18 in a District 5-A contest.

Morton had scored all three of its touchdowns in the third period, after the teams had played a scoreless first half, but failed to convert. Brock, the outstanding back for Morton, was a power in the touchdown drives.

Trailing nothing to 18, the Sudan team fought back for three touches in the fourth, Buddy May taking a lateral from Horace Blanchard to score the first, Blanchard running for the second and taking a pass from May for the third. May converted two touchdowns to win the game.

Mr. and Mrs. Wade had formerly lived at Arch, N. M., and were visiting a niece of Mr. Wade at that city when Mrs. Wade took ill.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Assembly of God church, Arch, N. M., and interment in the Arch, N. M. cemetery, took place immediately following.

Deceased is survived by her husband and seven children.

Attending the services from Littlefield were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wade and Mrs. Oscar Hollingsworth.

Loyd's Drug Store Purchased By Local Business Concern

A deal was closed this week whereby the Walters Drug Store of this city purchased Loyd's Drug Store at Amherst.

The local drug store is a pioneer business concern, having been established by Oscar Walters in 1928, since which time it has enjoyed a splendid patronage.

The Walters Drug are to be congratulated on their progressive spirit and expansion program.

AMHERST METHODIST CHURCH

In a meeting with the District Superintendent recently at Plainview, he insisted that in most instances we use governmental set up of the new 1940 Discipline in the work for the church and that this quarterly conference, October 27, be held and nominations be made by it. One exception was the matter of reporting members on the roll.

The hour of church services at night have been changed. Group meetings are at 7:00, and church at 7:30. Milking, supper etc. will need to come to this hour.

Many people have aspirations in many ways, desires and wants. But what of the spiritual aspirations each day? Spirituality is a vital spark that animates the whole human nature, body, mind and soul, into a worshipful duty towards God and a neighborly attitude towards man. Think of the parable of the Good Samaritan.

That day may be well accounted amiss which does not harbor, in the human heart, at least one charitable thought and that gives birth to a devotion of entirety of human nature to the welfare of society. The church is the generator of an atmosphere where such may be born.

The SNOOPER SAYS...

I learned a lot of things about our school teachers at the annual banquet given in their honor by the Rotarians. The young women were all very attractive in their formal, and the men looked nice, too, especially the single men teachers!

I would like to pass this along to the teachers; who had jokes told on them Thursday night — I can tell you some choice low downs on those Rotarians, as a way of getting even for their sleuthing and snooping about your private affairs the past few weeks!

is necessary because the fleet game animals will not jump fences higher than three feet. Experiments by game managers in attempting to turn antelope in any direction desired, by the use of an airplane has proved successful, it was reported. With a plane flying no lower than 500 feet, antelope can be directed.

Soon, I guess, ranchmen will use airplanes for their annual round-ups on large ranches.

You remember that song, "I'm an old cow-hand, from the Rio Grande," — and, "I rode the range in a Ford V-8" —

Well, cowboy, the V-8 is obsolete now — you'll have to get an airplane.

I saw this sign on the back of a car last week, "Keep Smiling, There will always be an England!"

Woman's vanity has long been the subject of literature and song. More recently it has been a dripping force that keeps both doctors and scientists busy as never before. There is an increasing trend, nowadays, when a woman is homely, to depend not on her beauty parlor, but on her surgeon to do something about her beauty.

Ugly women can make up in disposition, charm, and brains what they lack in beauty, but, says an anonymous writer in a current magazine, "I've got all this. I'm still ugly and it's getting me down. So I'm off to the hospital with jaws wired tight, and I know I won't be able to taste a steak for moons, but I'd rather give my money to a facial surgeon now than later to a psychiatrist. Maybe after it's all over I'll be presentable enough so that I won't have to work the charming personality overtime to make people forget what sticks out from under my hat. Do you think I'm crazy?"

Well, well — We can't understand why some women have beautiful faces, while the rest of us have such ugly homely faces — but maybe our Creator intended that it should be that way, I wouldn't know.

God gave us tonsils and appendix, and doctors can remove them to give us health. God gave us doctors — so why not let them do something about our ugly faces —

Seldom do we see the same group of cotton pickers on the South Plains that were here last fall, but one thing is certain—

As sure as the ginning season starts, the same group of cotton buyers are with us.

Cotton buyers always have interesting stories to tell about their experiences during the summer in South Texas, and we're glad to see them, comes fall again.

Scrap iron and publicity poured in on Seagraves' "Patriotic Scrap Iron Yard No. 1 for National Defense Purposes" last week as patriotic-minded citizens of Seagraves began dumping scrap iron in the yard and spreading news of the undertaking.

As soon as a carload of the scrap iron is gathered, it will be loaded on a freight car and sent to whatever point the U. S. Government designates. The iron will then be made into armaments and munitions for the welfare and defense of the United States of America.

The campaign was launched by Gus Theodore, Seagraves Restaurant owner.

I remember Mr. Theodore as being a good business man, and a very likeable fellow. He is a native of Greece, coming to America when he was a young boy, and he has enjoyed the pleasures and freedom that our country has offered him. He is a citizen of this country, but recently he offered to have his fingerprints taken, stating to the postmaster that he was very glad he lived in America.

He is a friend of Bill Valles, that pleasant restaurant owner in Littlefield.

I sold several ads, with pictures of a dog house in them. We had only one mat, so the "caster-upper" had a time fixing those ads.

I don't mind being in the dog house now, and printers are cussing again this week, and merchants

Food For Farm Dogs

Proper feeding of the farm dog is becoming as much of a science as the feeding of other farm animals. At least it should be, for the well trained dog on a Texas ranch or livestock farm fills a real need and works as hard as anybody.

In Louisiana a dog lover initiated the practice of filling a canning budget for her dog at home butchering time, and numbers of other homemakers have followed her example in providing for the farm dog.

Work done in the last four years by the Alabama Experiment Station has revealed that the home mixing of a dog's rations is both practical and economical.

These rations have been found to be complete for the growth and maintenance of dogs:

- (1) 58 pounds of ground yellow corn, 20 pounds of wheat shorts, 20 pounds of meat scraps, 1 pound of salt and 1 pound of cod liver oil or—
- (2) 46 pounds of ground yellow corn, 20 pounds of wheat shorts, 20 pounds of peanut meal, 2.5 pounds of bone meal; 1 pound of salt, 1-2 pound of limestone and 1 pound of cod liver oil, or—

(3) 55 pounds of ground yellow corn, 20 pounds of wheat shorts, 10 pounds of meat scraps, 10 pounds of peanut meal, 1 pound of salt, 1 pound of limestone, and 1 pound of cod liver oil.

The cod liver oil may be omitted from these rations if the dogs are mature. These dry mixed rations may be moistened and fed raw, they may be baked in the form of bread. The food is more palatable when baked and is utilized more efficiently than when fed raw.

Nearly half of all the feed grown on Texas farms is wasted in one way or another, but a trench saves over 95 per cent of the feed for farmers.

CHAPTER V SYNOPSIS

Audrey Swan, nicknamed "Cygie," the only child of a highly respected horse trainer. His farm belongs to Judge Castel, whose only son, Jeffrey, has been Audrey's friend since childhood. Now Audrey is home to work in his father's office in Parville. Audrey meets Jeff's college friend, Vic Quinn, and Olive Cooper, whom she met abroad. Olive is thrown from a horse and is recovering from a sprained ankle at the Castel home, where Audrey visits her. Audrey, who has been with them, excuses himself for a moment.

"Isn't he precious?" Olive asked with a light laugh. "He reminds me of a little boy. Cygie . . . ?"

"Yes."

"Has Jeffrey told you about us?" Audrey Swan was conscious of a curious sensation. It was almost as if her heart had skipped a beat at the girl's smilingly demure: "Has Jeffrey told you about . . . us?"

"I don't believe so. You mean . . . is it congratulations?" Olive nodded and lowered her eyes. The admission came shyly: "We're engaged." With the news, her hand came out and Audrey clasped it firmly.

"Congratulations!" she exclaimed cordially. "I think it's wonderful."

"So do I," Olive admitted, withdrawing her hand somewhat hastily. "Imagine Jeffrey's breaking the news to his parents now."

"I'm sure they will be very happy."

"Hope so," Olive's smile vanished. "Of course, darling, you understand why we are not making a formal announcement. I haven't a decree. At least, I don't think I have."

Audrey experienced another shock. The explanation had no matter of fact. "I see," she said simply.

"And are you properly appalled," she supplemented good-naturedly. "It's only a matter of form. My father has been free for a long time . . . that is until I met Jeffrey in Europe."

Audrey nodded. The smile on her face felt frozen.

"I think marriage will be very good for Jeffrey," his fiancée went on complacently. "He has lived a very life, after all. That's the advantage of us 'only' children, don't you think? He never has had the advantages of a social life of his own. I'm selfish enough to think that it isn't really necessary for him to work for a living . . . I mean. Clubs and sports meetings the right people will wonder for him. I don't believe he is cut out to be a business man, do you?"

Audrey admitted slowly. "But his father's lawyers have been lawyers for several generations, I understand. I figured that he would follow his father's profession and take his place . . . at least that is what everyone here has always thought."

"Well, a connection with some important law firm in the city might be an asset . . . like Vic's. But he has been dreadfully hard, and it will take him years and years to get where there's no point in Jeffrey's keeping his nose to a grindstone."

"Then you don't plan to live with me?"

"My dear child! I'm planning to live a week or two at a time in Parville, but that's enough."

When Olive spoke again there was a earnestness in her voice that made it almost sharp. "There is one thing, Cygie, I want you to understand . . . believe, I really love Jeffrey."

"Why, of course you do!"

"The door opened at that moment and Jeffrey thrust in his head. "Secret session over?" he wanted to know. He kept his eyes on Audrey as he entered, closed the door behind him and leaned against it.

"The rose, went to him with her hand extended in a frank gesture. "Congratulations, Jeff. Lots of love. And happiness."

"Thanks, Cygie. Hoped you knew. Like it?"

"Of course."

"Think it's pretty swell my own self."

"What did your mother and father say?" Olive asked abruptly. "They bore up very nicely, I thought. They'll be up shortly to welcome you into the clan. Of course I told them there was nothing imminent, and all that." He turned to Audrey. "You're the only one in on the dark secret."

"And I shall be very discreet," she smiled. "I appreciate the honor. Best of luck to you both. I really must be going."

Jeffrey went down to her car with her. "I wanted you to know first thing, Cygie," he exclaimed boyishly, once they were out of the house. "Told Olive that you were long, are you?"

"You mean when I go to the city?"

"I understand that you are taking Mrs. Cooper home."

"I haven't planned definitely. Olive spoke as if she is expecting me to stay a few days . . ."

"Well, I shall have to make due allowances, I presume. However, I will ask you to return as soon as possible. Miss Dodds, my secretary, is leaving me."

"Not really! Why? Not on my account, I should hope!"

"No. She tells me it is according to the doctor's orders."

"Bord! That's a horse of another color. Why, I was . . ."

"And so was I," his father finished grimly. "What is still more to the point, she wishes to be relieved from her duties as soon as one of the family and if she didn't tell you today, I would. I'm a lucky guy, don't you think?" He was wistfully anxious that she should agree with him.

"I wanted you to know first thing, Cygie," he exclaimed.

"And how! Best of luck, Jeff. Goodbye."

Judge George Castel, retiring to his library after lunch, hailed his son. "A moment, Jeffrey, if you please."

"Want me, sir?"

"Yes. Sit down. I wish to talk to you. I believe, as matters now stand, you expect to marry Mrs. Cooper before New Year's."

"Why, yes. That's the arrangement, providing—"

"I am quite aware of the proviso. Her father is Harvey Harrison of the Harrison Products Corporation. From all accounts, he is a very wealthy man. A millionaire several times over. I should imagine."

"It wouldn't surprise me."

"I should judge . . . rather, I am convinced . . . that you would have a low opinion of a man who was content to live upon his wife's bounty. Had you given the matter any serious thought, may I ask?"

"Why, no." Jeffrey was a little taken aback at the direct question. "Of course I had always thought that . . ."

"That you would be associated with me in a business way. Such an arrangement was in my mind when I sent you to law school. You know that has always been my hope and intention."

Jeffrey, for the first time, was tempted to insinuate that his father's success had not been particularly handicapped by the million-dollar dowry brought him by Louise Langdon. He contented himself with: "That is the matter you wish to discuss, sir?"

"There is nothing particular to discuss," the Judge retorted. "In view of a long vacation and your intention to support a wife, I assume that you are ready to settle down and think of a professional career. In that event, I am ready to arrange a partnership with you. More than that, I am willing to guarantee you a substantial income from the start. Doesn't that appeal to you as a fair proposition?"

"Very." The quiet agreement had its effect.

"Now see here, my boy." The Judge's heavy features relaxed in a frosty smile. "I need you. In fact, I need you particularly just now. You are not planning to be away possible."

The following Saturday, Audrey received a telephone call soon after dinner. When she heard the voice at the other end of the line she laughed. It was Victor Quinn. "Don't tell me. Let me guess. It's the old smoothie himself."

"How right you are. Checked in at the village inn, had my supper and everything. If you're not going to take your bath for a bit, how about coming up?"

"I can wait a while. I'll be very glad to see you."

Audrey discovered that she was unexpectedly glad to see Vic when he sprang from his car and came something reassuring in his rugged smiling face.

Victor sat down at Audrey's side, lighted a cigarette without offering her one, and remarked: "Now start in and tell me all about yourself. Everything."

"Well . . ." she mused, "it's been a long time since we've met, but to the best of my knowledge and belief I've been nowhere, done, seen, and heard nothing. Oh, I've eaten and slept and tried to be a good Girl Scout."

"Hm . . . m. That sounds innocent enough. Almost vacuous. By the way, I dropped in at the Castle office this afternoon. I scarcely expected to see Jeff on a half holiday, so I wasn't disappointed. The busy elderly lady holding down the place told me he was out of town. 'If I had seen him,' Vic went on, watching Audrey's face through half closed eyes. 'I was going to congratulate him.'"

"About what?" Audrey wondered how he had found out about the engagement.

"Olive got her decree. Or perhaps you knew it."

"No, I didn't know. Then you assume . . ."

"If they weren't engaged when he left for the city. I'll stake my reputation they are now. I'm wondering what it may do to old Jeff. If he turns out to be the sort of guy who lets his wife support him, I'll walk all the way from somewhere and back for the express pleasure of kicking him!"

Audrey pondered this in silence for a moment. "I guess they'll muddle through," she decided carelessly. "Which is a deft way of reminding me that I should worry over my own affairs," Vic chuckled. With that, he changed the subject and talked lightly of other matters.

"How I have been running on!" he exclaimed in dismay when the clock in the hall chimed eleven.

"Why didn't you tell me to toddle on long ago?"

"Because I have been having a good time," Audrey answered honestly. "It isn't often I have a chance to sit at the feet of a man of the world and snatch pearls of wisdom. Mother suggested that if you were in town tomorrow I might ask you to have Sunday dinner with us. We usually dine at one or a little after."

"I'll be here on the stroke. Thanks, and good night."

When Victor strolled in at the appointed hour, Audrey thought he looked unusually attractive in his fresh white suit, a rose in the lapel of his double-breasted jacket. He carried a sheaf of newspapers under one arm and deposited them on the porch swing after greeting his host and family.

It was not until after dinner that Vic had an opportunity to speak to Audrey alone. "Say, Audrey," he said, "there's a release in the society news that may interest you—here we are." He held out an open page.

"Oh!"

It was a two-column portrait of Olive. Over it a caption: "Her Betrothal Announced." Audrey skimmed through the accompanying account. Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Harrison were announcing the engagement of their daughter to Mr. Jeffrey Langdon Castel. The wedding was scheduled for September.

There was a mischievous twinkle in Victor's eyes, but he kept silent until Audrey remarked abruptly: "How would you like to go for a stroll?"

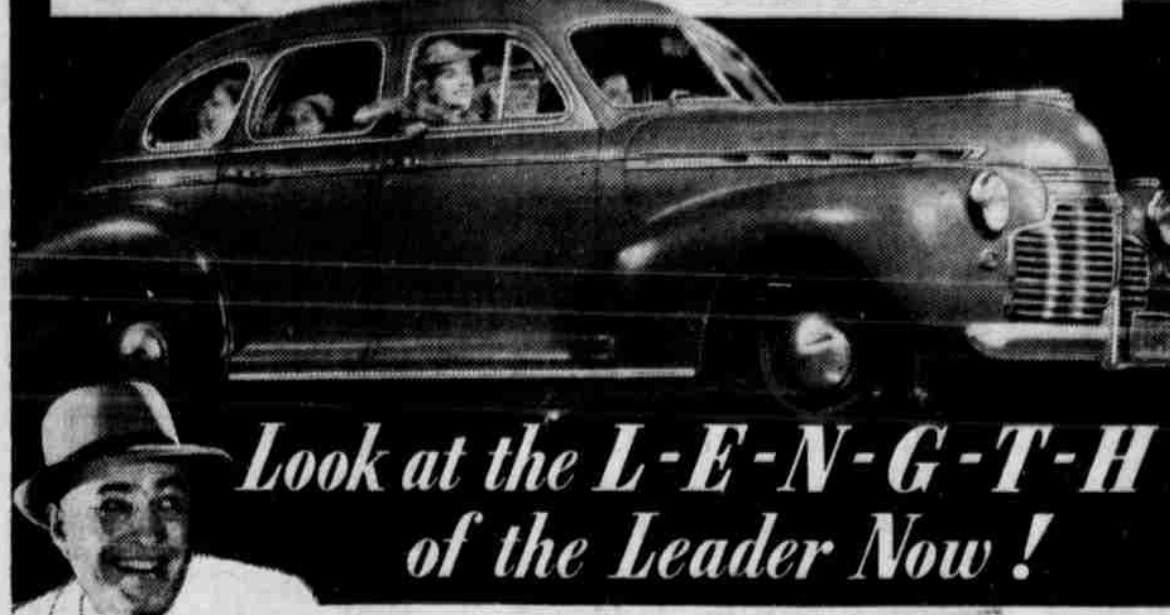

"Very much of a good idea, I'd say. Where away?"

Almost involuntarily Audrey directed their course to her favorite big tree. "I always liked this place when I was a youngster," she explained as they stood on the shady bank. "My idea of a real time was to come here with a good book and a couple of apples."

Improved Wildcat Team Off To Brownfield Friday

Their morale bolstered by two consecutive victories, the Littlefield Wildcats face their steepest test of the current season at Brownfield
Friday night when they tackle the undefeated Cubs, reputed to be the best Brownfield team in years.

The game will not count in conference standing as Littlefield is in the northern circuit of the 5-A league, and Brownfield is in the southern half of the conference.

Last Friday night the Wildcats were downing Anton 32 to 14, while the Cubs were finding themselves overwhelmed to manage a 6-6 tie with the tough Levelland Lobos.

The fray in which the locals defeated Anton was a free scoring contest, typical of Texas schoolboy football.

LAMB RECEIVES $383,318.55 1940 COTTON PARITY CHECKS

Farmers in Lamb county have received to date $383,318.55. 3232 checks are covered by this amount. The 1940 Cotton Parity checks are still averaging $120.00 each.

"We are urging all producers who have not signed their 1940 Cotton Parity applications to please call by the A. A. A. Office at their earliest convenience in order that their signatures may be secured and the applications submitted to the State Office," stated A. W. Bingham, Sec'y Lamb county A. C. A., who added:

"We are beginning the signing of 1940 applications for Conservation Payments and as the application is executed, the producer is immediately mailed a card requesting that he call by the A. A. A. office to sign the application.

"All producers who have not carried out their soil-building practices to earn their maximum soil-building allowance will be unable to sign their application for Conservation Payment until after November 30th or an earlier date set by the State Committee. Please be advised that the County Committee is urging all producers to attempt to carry out their maximum soil-building practices in 1940 in order that full benefits due Lamb County in the form of soil-building payments may be received. In 1939 producers in Lamb county carried out approximately 84 per cent of the maximum soil-building practices, therefore, earning 84 per cent of the soil-building payments due Lamb county. It was possible in 1939 to earn $9,000.00 more for carrying out soil-building practices than were actually carried out and it is hoped that in 1940 the per cent of soil-building payments earned will be higher than in 1939.

"All practices that are to be carried out, in connection with the 1940 Range Program should also be completed by November 30th. All range applications under the 1940 Range Program will be submitted at the time the practices are carried out or after November 30, 1940."

"T WAS GOOD HUNTING — Two South Plains sportsmen returned home Saturday from western Colorado where they found the deer hunting well up to, if not above, expectations. Pictured above with the deer are, left, J. C. Davis of Lubbock, and Ray Nix of Littlefield. They bagged two of the biggest deer taken out of Colorado this season, an 8-pointer and a 10-pointer, and they're shown here with their trophies. Each deer weighed 350 pounds. "And there are more where these came from," the hunters grinned.

Hunters Bring Home The Bucks After Week's Stay In Colo.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Nix of Littlefield, accompanied by J. C. Davis of Lubbock, returned home Saturday night after a week's hunting trip in western Colorado.

Mr. Nix and Mrs. Nix bagged two of the biggest deer taken out of Colorado this season, an 8-pointer and a 10-pointer. Each deer weighed 350 pounds. They found plenty of game in the high country, between Rifle, Colorado, and the Utah border, which they described as "A Hunter's Paradise."

As they filed out of the state, the state game warden appraised their trophies and announced they were the two biggest bucks taken all season in Colorado.

Mr. and Mrs. Nix came to Littlefield from Rifle, Colorado about 5 months ago, and they are familiar with the country there, having enjoyed hunting each season. Nix is a mechanic for Garland-White Auto Supply.

Farmer Praises Leader Want Ads

Another score probably will be marked up for Leader Want Ads this week end, as V. J. Estes expects to sell his farm after inserting a FOR SALE ad in the classified section of this paper.

Mr. Estes, who wants to sell his 160-acre farm one mile east of Hart Camp, is certain that he will, after the Leader reaches the many readers in Lamb county.

In the spring of 1937, Mr. Estes advertised a tractor for sale in the Leader, and after the second issue of the ad, the tractor was sold.

Last summer he had 100 hens to sell, so he inserted a small ad in the Leader, and on Friday morning, after the paper was published on Thursday a buyer came to his farm for the hens, bringing the ad with him.

Moral: Lamb County Leader Want-Ads get results and "It Pays To Advertise."

Motor vehicles traveled 287 billion miles in 1939 and carried passengers ten times further than all other forms of transportation combined.

Since the first Automobile Show, the wages generated by the use of motor vehicles have amounted to more than 85 billion dollars, or five times all the monetary gold now held in the United States.

Littlefield Total Nears 1200; Sudan Registers 633

First Draft Registration Ever Conducted With America At Peace

Lamb county's young men placed themselves at their country's call for military training Wednesday, as they registered in the first draft registration ever conducted with America at peace.

They were waiting at the various voting boxes in the county, long lines of them, as the places for registration opened at seven o'clock yesterday morning, and registrars were rushed most of the day, as

3,000 REGISTER

Total number of men registering Wednesday in Lamb county for selective service will probably reach the 3,000 mark, according to reports from several election precincts late Wednesday night.

In Littlefield the total reached 1126 with 857 registering in election precinct 12 at the Methodist Church, and 269 at the south Littlefield box, at the high school.

Earth reported 212; South Sudan 530, and North Sudan 103, with a total of 633 at Sudan; Amberst 298; Precinct 1, Olton, 371, and south Olton, 39.

Complete totals were given late Wednesday night from the places named above, and these are the larger voting precincts. However, the number registering at Spade, Hart Camp and Fieldton might cause the total for Lamb county to be more than 3,000, due to the large number of cotton pickers in the region at this time.

the men from 21 to 35, inclusive, spent approximately 20 minutes filling out Uncle Sam's questionnaire for selective service, one year's military training.

150 Wait In Line
"Just one big family" someone declared at the Methodist church, where at least 150 young men waited in line early in the morning.

Those who registered came from all strata of society—preachers, doctors, school teachers, those who work with their hands to those in the highest economic brackets.

There were no exceptions. Negroes and Mexicans registered here along with the rest of the men.

All Ready To Go
Good-humor persisted among all the men, and although most of (Continued on back page)
