Life More Complicated After Forty

From a literary point of view life may begin at forty, but from a health standpoint, life after forty begins to be more complicated for the average individual, than it was in his earlier years. According to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, the principal health foes confronting people in middle life are heart disease, cancer, kidney disease, high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, apoplexy, diabetes, and arthritis.

Middle aged people of today are healthier than were those of preceding generations, and the present generation, when they reach middle age, should enjoy even better health than their parents of today.

Medical care in middle life has two important phases. The first is going to the doctor at regular intervals for a complete physical checkup, whether or not there have been symptoms that suggest the need for medical attention. The second is prompt attention to any illness which may mean the difference between prompt recovery and continued good health and prolonged invalidism. It is difficult to say which of these phases is the more important.

It has been found that men and women who faithfully pursue the habit of regular health examinations and who follow the advice arising from them tend to live longer, more satisfactorily, and freer from disease than those who simply take a chance and go to the doctor only when pain or disability forces them to give up their normal activities.

It is also a fact that many diseases of middle age respond to treatment in early stages whereas if neglected until later stages they often cause permanent invalidism and even death.

Good advice for persons over forty is that they have regular physical examinations and obtain prompt medical attention for any and all illnesses.

Orient Jolted: Americans Take Over In Ancient Thailand

By MILTON MARMOR

AP Newsfeatures

BANGKOK—The face of this fabled Eastern capital of canals and porcelain temples, of smiles and easy-paced living is changing sharply. Something American has been added.

American aid now is spread over the very visage of the city. Big American-style automobiles jam the already clogged streets. Americans fill chairs in night-clubs and restaurants. Midwest accents dominate cocktail party conversation.

The American Embassy now has 101 on its staff, in contrast to 30 only three years ago. In the past year 79 members of the American Special Technical and Economic Mission (STEM) arrived.

Military Group Here

In the same 12 months 73 members of the U.S. Military Assistance Advisory Group took up residence here. In addition there are 13 Point Four representatives; 16 Fulbright Fellowship people. The U.S. Information Service (USIS) has expanded enough to branch into two offices and a library.

There are other Americans in such United Nations groups here as UNESCO, or ECAFE (Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East), the FAO (Food Advisory Organization) or UNICEF (U.N. International Children's Emergency Fund).

Once every one in the foreign colony knew each other. Now the favored Chez Eve, an air-conditioned eating place and night club, is crowded with strangers.

Reaction Against Newcomers

The general reaction of the old-time foreign resident here isn't hard to plumb. He doesn't like his chummy playground swarming with newcomers. He has lived here for almost nothing and was proud to be treated by the hospitable Thais as one of their own.

All is changed now. House rents have doubled and even trebled. Servant costs have skyrocketed. Everything for the foreign community jumped in price.

Those who were here before the influx of American aid blame the officials who arrived with big allowances for a "hardship post."

Ask the average foreigner and he'll say he liked it better before American aid furnished two generators so the power wouldn't fall every few hours. He doesn't care whether the Chao Phraya River bar has been removed by the American dredge, Manhattan.

Thailand's Attitude

The oldtime Bangkok foreign resident really can't be persuaded that the Thais will change their old pattern—yielding with the wind and waiting to come up again once the storm has passed.

The Siamese, the oldtimers say, want to be left alone to play their own peculiar brand of politics.

Many American observers dispute the oldtimers. They say a definite change for the better is taking place in Thailand under American aid. By helping Thailand attain stability and economic prosperity, these observers believe America is shoring up the defense line against Communist aggression.

Time will tell—but meantime, the old Bangkok hand fears a precious jewel is losing its lustre.

Charles Byrd Now In Training With U. S. Marine Corps

Charles E. Byrd son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Byrd of 304 West 1st St., Littlefield, Tex., is now undergoing training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, Calif.

The 18-year-old former Littlefield high school student enlisted in the Marine Corps at Dallas, Tex. recently.

During the eight-week "boot camp" as recruit training is commonly called, Private Byrd will become well versed in such basic military subjects as precision drill, first aid, Marine Corps history and mission and field tactics.

Three weeks of the training period is spent at the Camp Matthews rifle range, situated 15 miles north of San Diego. While there, Private Byrd will fire the 30 caliber Garand rifle, .45 caliber pistol, carbine and Browning Automatic Rifle. He will also receive indoctrination firing with the light and heavy machine guns, 60 and 81 mortars, flame throwers, and the latest type bazookas. Under a newly adopted training program he will also receive instructions in throwing live hand grenades.

Byrd was employed by William Chesher in Littlefield, before reporting for service with the Marine Corps.

Upon completion of recruit training he will be granted a 10-day leave, and, if he has maintained a good record, will be promoted to Private First Class. He will then be assigned to a Marine post or station for duty or to a Marine Corps School for advance training.

Ticket Makers Give No Tips

AP Newsfeatures

WINNIPEG—Millions of tickets, but nary a tip, come out of a Winnipeg printing plant that produces pari-mutuel tickets for most Canadian race tracks.

Bulman Brothers have been in business since the early 1920s when the firm started supplying Winnipeg's River Park with the multi-colored receipts. Their present production of 150,000,000 tickets now turns up at all Canadian tracks with the exception of a few in Quebec, in Panama, South America and Nassau.

Harold McLennan, a Bulman employee for 27 years, says the business started with a conversation. Someone asked why tickets, which were imported from Chicago, could not be made in Winnipeg.

Tickets are manufactured in 14 colors plus white. Each has a small design or serial number to designate the track. The serial number prevents doctoring of duets which some enterprising persons have tried in the past.

It would be hard for anyone to collect money from a wicket on a doctored Bulman ticket. Each number is hand engraved and has a slight change in character.

A six can't be inverted or inserted as a nine with the aid of a hot iron. People have tried it. Superimposed spelling of the number doesn't help either.

Tickets are checked for missing numbers, then shipped in such a way that the fellow at the mutuel window can tell at a glance if everything is all right. No waste paper from the manufacturing process is sold. It is consigned to the furnace.

In assessing terms to Preston and Mauldin, both young men, Judge Bills said from the bench, "I wish there was a law permitting punishment for parents who neglect to give children proper discipline."

Continuing, Judge Bills said parents and school teachers would do well to mete out more punishment to children who wilfully and knowingly do wrong. Judge Bills' remarks, made in the presence of the parents of the youths, left no doubt that he was an exponent of the "spare the rod and spoil the child" school of child training.

Two Men Get Prison Terms At Plainview

Prison terms were meted out to three men who made pleas of guilty in 65th district court at Plainview Wednesday. One of the trio was placed on probation.

J. C. Preston, Plainview, pleaded guilty to five charges of defrauding with worthless check. He was assessed three-year penitentiary terms in four of the cases and a four-year term in one case. He will serve the other terms concurrently with the four-year term. District Attorney Joe Sharp, Plainview, said, Preston recently drew a suspended sentence on similar charges at Amarillo.

Are On Prison Terms — Donnie Mauldin, of Plainview, pleaded guilty to three charges of burglary and one of theft. Judge E. A. Bills, Littlefield, presiding judge, assessed Mauldin three years in the penitentiary on each plea. The terms are to run concurrently.

Marlo Salerno was assessed a three-year penitentiary sentence which Judge Bills probated. Salerno testified after entering a plea Camera News . . .

The story is told of the home movie fan whose pet subject was flowers. Came the day of a local flower show in a top floor solarium. The sun shone through the skylight, lighting the flowers beautifully. But our movie fan was heart-broken because she couldn't take pictures. Her camera, she explained was loaded with "outdoor film" . . . and this is indoors!

If the fan were familiar with the correct terms for the films . . . daylight and artificial light . . . she might not have been so easily misled in that particular instance. It would be very simple: use daylight type film when daylight of any sort illuminates the subject; use Type A film when artificial light illuminates the subject.

IT'S CHILD'S PLAY—taking outdoor movies with daylight-type film. But take your fingers off the lens, Barbara!

"Terrifying" --- That's What The Maid Of Cotton Thinks Of Honors Awarded Her

DALLAS, Tex., Mar. 10 (AP)—"Terrific, you all, no kidding." That's what the Maid of Cotton thinks about the honors that have come her way already. She recently left Dallas on her 65,000-mile trip over three continents with the blessings of the city fathers upon her. For the pretty little (size 12) blue-eyed brunette who was chosen Maid of Cotton at Memphis in January is a citizen of Dallas. "We could have no better representative than we have in Pat Mullarkey," said Mayor J. P. Adoue Jr. at a luncheon given here in her honor. "An ambassador with character, grace and intelligence," Tom E. Braniff, airline president from Dallas, said.

"Proud of her," said Cullum Thompson, president of the junior chamber of commerce. When all the nice things had been said, Pat got up in her brown (cotton) velveteen dress and hat, hung on to the microphone with her white (cotton) gloved hands and took a deep breath. "Well," she started off. "Why, honestly, I could almost cry. I'm so happy to be here. Boy, honestly, it sure is good to be home. I'll be back home in August. Then I guess I'll take my exams I missed. "I'm going to be an ambassador, and I hope I can make people see just how wonderful cotton is. Cotton really is 'It.'" Pat is the 20-year-old ambassador of an industry that involves 13 million persons from the farm level to the huge textile mills. At the farm level alone, it's a $4 billion industry. The first Maid of Cotton was named in 1939 by the City of Memphis, Tenn., to go around to the cities of the south and advertise its annual cotton carnival. In 1940 the National Cotton Council took over the promotion. It's grown bigger every year. Pat will tour larger American cities this year, run over to England and Europe, pick up some cotton dresses in Paris, made by top Paris designers (dresses made of American cotton) and then swoop down to South America. In her wardrobe are 40 creations—all of cotton—from America's top designers. She'll get to keep them when it's all over. And that includes the 21 hats, made of cotton materials, too. At that luncheon, Pat sat back and watched while some co-eds from Southern Methodist University who were classmates before the maid whirl began modeled some 15 of the creations. There were swim suits, beach clothes, town suits, date dresses, coats and evening dresses. Most of the beach clothes were of denim. One of the loveliest of narrow-ribbed terry cloth was a denim camisole top with a hox-mo-tight jacket. One of the evening dresses was of plain gingham in pale blue and white with an over-design of blue over. The last dress modeled was an unofficial addition to the evening dress with a frothy skirt and strapless bodice. It was all made of sequins. It was all made in design at SMU in the same class where Pat was a student. "Boy, I really appreciate what I took sewing and how hard all that hand-worrying about a lawn or garden until this is cleaned up.

Accumulated leaves and papers around a house dry out quickly in spring winds and offer a sinister invitation to fire as soon as a neighbor's grass-burning gets out of control. The National Board of Fire Underwriters says grass fires and brush burning rank among the leading causes of home fires, especially in outlying rural locations.

The fact that fire insurance companies don't want your house to burn down, because it will cost them money, doesn't mean that you can risk a fire. Therefore, some of their suggestions, based on very sad experiences, can be a big help.

For the spring clean-up season, the underwriters recommend that you start with the basement where one-third of all home fires begin. People who have new houses with no basements know very well that the habit of storing that broken chair, an assortment of old magazines and cardboard cartons is not necessary or prudent after all.

So the men who know fires advise:

1. Clean out all combustible rubbish from basement, cellar, attic, closets, garage. But if you take it out to burn, don't burn your house down in the process.
2. Dispose of all explosive liquids—inflammable cleaning fluid and left-over paint. Just don't keep combustible materials in the house.
3. Throw away oily rags and paint cloths that are notorious for spontaneous combustion.

4. In closing down the heating plant for the season, have it cleaned and put in shape for another year.

5. Before the heat is off, check the ceiling and walls around your heating plant and chimney. If they're hot to your hand and built of combustible materials, you have a danger signal.

6. Make a resolution never to permit wooden or paper boxes to be piled near a furnace or stove.

7. Give your lamp cords and all electrical equipment the once over. Frayed or damaged cords should be replaced, faulty electrical appliances repaired, fuses of no more than 15 amperes used for ordinary household circuits.

When your clean-up and inspection is completed you'll be ready for the paint-up and fix-up chores.

You're off in a Swirl of Power!

WE'RE willing to wager that not one person in a hundred knows what really goes on inside an automobile engine—so let's take this by easy stages.

The instant you nudge Buick's Fireball 8 Engine into action—a whole string of things starts to happen.

Eight sparks begin to crackle in well-timed sequence. Eight pistons start gliding up and down with rhythmic precision. Eight pairs of valves dance open and closed—to let fuel charges in, exhaust gases out of cylinder after cylinder.

All right, you say, what's so complex about that? Can't anyone build an engine that does this to perfection? Well, we'd better add, these things happen at the rate of more than 10,000 times per mile—and that's 100 times per second at 35 miles an hour!

So—it's important to know that Buick uses a deep-breathing valve-in-head design that shoots a fuel charge in—cleans exhaust gases out—in a hurry.

It's important to know that all the power released by the fuel concentrates its driving force right on the head of each Buick piston. (Everyone who has recently built "new" high-compression engines copied this "Buick first.")

But most important of all—Buick adds one more twist which others still haven't copied.

Every charge of fuel rushing into a Buick engine becomes a twisting, swirling, high-compressed ball that flashes with sudden, consuming completeness the instant the spark sets it afire.

And to add this all up: clean, complete combustion—10,000 times per mile—is the secret of getting more power—more miles—from each gallon of gasoline.

So we're not simply using picture words when we tell you that Buick—and only Buick—has a FIREBALL ENGINE—or that you're off in a swirl of power with one of these high-powered performers under the hood.

1952 has brought a lot of sparkling improvements which you'll want to see and admire when you come to our showrooms.

But the thrill of thrills is still what you want and a Buick—and a Fireball 8 Engine—can do out on the road. When do you want to try a sample?

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

Sure is true for '52

Southwestern Associated Telephone Company Securities Attract Interest

Southwestern Associated Telephone Company's offering of 75,000 shares of 5 1/2% Cumulative Preferred at its par value of $20 per share has created considerable interest in financial circles.

Unlike most offerings, the stock is being offered by the company, instead of by underwriters, through a selected group of investment dealers who are acting as its agents. The company is assisting dealers by mailing to its users, as well as residents in adjacent territory, cards informing them of the issue. The recipients may secure a prospectus and supplementary information by signing and returning the cards to the company. Such inquiries are then turned over to dealers who, in turn, contact the prospect with the view of consummating a sale.

A plan similar to this was originated by Associated Telephone Company, Ltd. which serves in Southern California and which is controlled, as is Southwestern Associated, by General Telephone Corporation. During the past five years, Associated Telephone Company has had phenomenal success using this method, having disposed of approximately 10,000 stockholders, a large percentage of whom

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Mar. 8 (AP)—Several Texas congressional wives, Mrs. Tom Connally among them, will be in the thick of the campaigning with their husbands this year.

Mrs. Connally, a congressional wife since the early 1900's, has seen a lot of campaigning. And she expects to help her husband, veteran Texas senator, all she can this summer in what is shaping up as a heated contest.

Mrs. Connally's first husband was the late Morris Sheppard of Arkansas, who served in the House from 1902 to 1913 and then in the Senate until his death in 1941. She and Connally, then a widow, were married in 1942.

"Campaigns were different back in those days," she recalls in telling about pre-World War One days.

"When politicians came to town to campaign it stirred up a lot more excitement than it does now. The streets were plastered with banners and practically everybody in town turned out to hear the speeches."

There is no less interest in politics now, she adds, but the radio and television have changed things.

Recalling campaigns of old when big crowds gathered for debates between candidates, she told a reporter:

"There were yells, calls and heckling. I remember once Morris was debating a man named Jake Walter in Athens. Everytime Morris started to make a point, a man up in the tree would yell 'Hurray for Jake Walter!'

"Once, just as the man started to yell again a donkey in the next yard began to bray. Morris turned to the man in the tree and said: 'I'm glad you've gotten together at last.'"

That stopped the heckling, she said.

Six years ago Connally had no fight for re-election, so his wife didn't need to take a hand. She says she doesn't know exactly what she will do in this year's campaign but may address some women's organizations.

She says her campaigning has consisted mainly of standing up to be introduced, then sitting right down again.

Mrs. Connally keeps a diary, or a series of them. She has 15 "little black books" which she hopes will someday be of interest to her nine grandchildren.

Social life in Washington isn't nearly as formal now as it was when she first came here, she says, recalling that in her early days here congressional wives customarily spent a day or two each week, between 3 p.m. and 6 p.m., in calling on people and leaving their cards if no one was at home.

"It was all pretty silly," she adds.

Many of the Texas congressmen have families with small children, so their wives do not have time to do much campaigning.

Mrs. Jerry Lucas of Grapevine usually manages to help distribute some campaign literature and put in some good words for her husband, even though their five small children otherwise keep her very busy. Incidentally, the cost of domestic help is so great she has a maid only one day a week. Not long ago she was ill and her husband, Rep. Wingate Lucas, did all the cooking for a week.

Funeral Sunday For J. H. Farrar Today At Anton

Last rites will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. from Anton Church of Christ, for John H. Farrar, 69, a retired farmer, who passed away Thursday night at 6 p.m. at his home in Anton. Lynn Shelton of Lubbock, minister of Lawrence Street Church of Christ in Anton for the past three years will officiate.

Mr. Farrar suffered a heart attack and death was said to have followed immediately. He suffered a similar attack about six years ago, and was a patient in a Littlefield hospital for several days at that time. The family have been residents of Anton for the past 8 years.

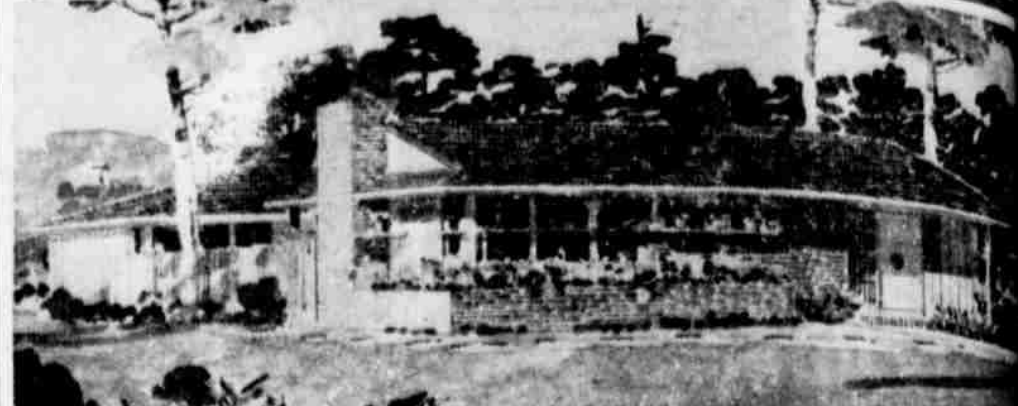

Deceased was born October 28, 1882, in Benton county, Arkansas, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam A. Farrar. He was united in marriage to Miss Lottie Kelley, December 21, 1906 at Dunn, Texas. Three children, two daughters and one son were born to the union, who survive, as do his wife. The daughters are Mrs. Neva Morrison of Needles, California, Mrs. P. L. Swan of Anton and the son, Fred Farrar of Seminole. All of the children will be present for the last rites.

Four grandchildren and two great grandchildren also survive, as do two brothers, J. D. Farrar of Portales, N.M., and G. L. Farrar of Lubbock, and four sisters, Mrs. C. A. Williams of Dunn, Mrs. Roxie Kelley of Plainview, Mrs. Myrtle Tate and Miss Florence Farrar of Huckabee.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Beyer and two children, Donna and Vickie, moved to Dimmitt Thursday to make their home. They have leased a farm near Dimmitt, where Mr. Beyer will carry on farming operations.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

THE CALIFORNIA PATIO is setting a new style in house design with rooms arranged around a secluded garden, affording complete privacy even on a small lot. This plan 276-T by Edward R. Tyler, 586 Macon Place, Uniondale, N.Y., shows how California indoor-outdoor living, wide roof overhangs and broad window walls can be incorporated in a compact small house. An outdoor barbecue fireplace on the porch, a kitchen breakfast nook facing the garden, front and side vestibules, two baths with one of them compartmented and 11 closets feature this plan. The house can be turned to face the street either as shown by the plan, or from the right. If built without basement, the cellar stair space provides for a heater room. The house covers 1,411 square feet—a guide for local estimates on building costs. Roof pitch is enough to accommodate asphalt shingles.

placed now, "stays put," and will only be released through plant growth (except surface) and usage. In other words the moisture so applied will be in the ground if soaked down to caliche depth, when planting time rolls around.

For a higher cotton yield, all farmers are urged to store the maximum amount of water possible on their acres, now.

The only way any farmer can be sure that he is getting his irrigation water down to caliche level, is by usage of a soil probe, or digging down to fully observe the depth of moisture penetration.

Under proper irrigation, cotton planted by May 12 will have first blooms on or about July 10. Since the heavy fruiting of cotton that will go to the gins this fall, is due to put on fruit from July 1 to July 29, the hottest and driest portion of the summer, on an average.

This early pre-planting irrigation is a necessary safeguard, to carry cotton plants through the extreme heat days, the fruiting days of July and August.

On an average the number of days between the planting day of May 12 and the date of the average first frost is approximately 149 to 160 days, a none-too-long growing season at best.

Reunion

bers, as the reunion took place.

Gene is now in the armed forces, and goes by his adopted name Private Gene D. Luttrell. He has been stationed at Ft. Meade, Maryland, and was recently given a leave of absence. He decided to utilize his leave time, by paying a visit to two brothers, one Odas, in California, and with his young brother, Joe, now of Oregon—and with his only sister—Vondée—of Littlefield, stopping off enroute to the West Coast. His visit here was planned as a complete surprise—and it was just that, and a joyful one, you may be sure.

Upon her arrival here, he simply called at the school, and asked to see his sister, Vondée, and his request was immediately granted, as she was called from her classes.

The young lady, when school officials were apprised of the details of the unexpected reunion, quickly granted her leave of absence from school, and brother and sister, happily went to the home of her foster parents, who live at 1632 Freeman avenue, where they spent a happy day, talking over the things that have happened all through the years since the tragic accident.

Gene's furlough is of limited duration, and he left late Thursday afternoon for California, where he will visit with brother Odas and his family, and for Oregon for a visit with brother Joe. He hopes to later, to have a visit with his third brother, Earl, who now lives in South Dakota.

There have been many reunions of brother and sister, one in uniform, in Littlefield during the past years—but none that brought more happiness than did the happy reunion of Vondée and her brother—Gene—a reunion that will never be forgotten by either.

Chief Leads Tribe Toward Better Life

By MURRAY SINCLAIR

TUCSON, Ariz.—Tom Segundo Indian chief in the United States, has a dream that soon his people will be able to cut many ties with the federal government and assume the full responsibilities of citizenship.

To achieve this end the tribesmen are agreeable to the virtual dissolution of their reservation that sprawls across 4,400 miles of sun-baked southern Arizona desert. Their trouble stems from the deterioration of the range which can no longer support all of them.

Segundo is plugging a plan developed by the Papago Tribal Council, the Indian Agency at Sells, Ariz., the Department of the Interior, and others interested in the Papago problem.

The plan, started in 1943, calls for about one-third of the 7,400 tribesmen to eventually leave the reservation for the white man's world.

To Become Farmers and Cattlemen
Another third would be diverted into farming, an occupation that has all but disappeared among the Papagos. The remainder of the tribe would continue as cattlemen, backbone of the tribe's economy at the present time.

The federal government provides the Papagos with their health services, educational facilities, keeps up the reservation roads, and supervises law enforcement. The plan calls for these responsibilities to be shifted to the State of Arizona and Pima County as the Papagos begin paying land and other taxes from which they are now exempt.

Segundo, the chief who looks and talks like an astute businessman, works at getting the plan put into effect like a politician. He may become one before the year is over.

In January he was in Washington, illustrating his arguments with graphs and charts. He was one of the tribal hosts when Oscar Chapman, Secretary of the Interior, visited the reservation late last year.

Have Right to Vote

It is less than two years since Arizona's reservation Indians were permitted to vote. Now Pima County, in which the reservation is located, is things of making the reservation a legislative district. If this is done, Segundo stands a good chance of being set to the Arizona legislature as its first representative.

Segundo is a chunky, energetic, quiet-spoken, bespectacled Indian who stands about 5 feet 10. Born on the desert, Segundo was educated at agency schools, finished high school, and then enrolled at the University of Arizona. He took a war-time job in San Francisco's ship building industry. In 1946 he was holding a supervisory job.

He returned home and became an assistant road engineer for the Indian service in 1946. Indian custom had dictated that only the older men were qualified to be leaders. Even so, within a year youthful Segundo was chairman of the council.

It has been estimated that the loss from worthless checks runs as high as $300 million annually.
