Three men and a woman were taken by FBI agents to city jail here for fingerprinting, then to the county jail. Commissioner Neff said a preliminary hearing would be held Aug. 16.

As they left the office of Comssioner Neff, all except Mrs. Bary, smartly dressed in a blue dress and sporting a boyish Italian hairdo, were handcuffed.

Everybody Seems To Be Addicted To Dieting Except Heftier Ones

In one of his excursions into the minds and attitudes of the American people Dr. George Gallup has discovered that practically the whole adult population is addicted to, or interested in, dieting.

The adult population is figured at 102,00,000, of which 35 per cent is interested in reducing, 14 per cent in gaining, 51 per cent in staying the same and only one per cent undecided which way to jump.

For every 45 women interested in losing wight, there are only 12 who want to gain, the Gallup survey disclosed. For every woman undecided, there were 42 who wished to keep their current weight.

and only 20 years ago, the American people were dominated by the single thought of how to get something to eat: Today, the principal worry is over-eight, but about twice as many women men do the worrying.

Despite their complaints to the contrary, most anyone can put off or take on weight he really makes the effort, and can ad the right formula for his particular type. And for everyone who wishes to change his weight for health reasons, there must be a dozen who wish to change it for appearance's sake. That is why dieting is an obsessive factor in the lives of most women. The average man decides to diet only if his doctor shoves him into a corner and tells him he'il be dead in six months if he doesn't.

The most famous and effective, and difficult, form of exercise for the overweight consists in placing both hands against the edge of the table and shoving yourself

Before And After Views About Indochina Are Very Interesting

sport reproduced, without comment, the sefore and after" views of President Etower respecting Indochina. The magane quoted from the President's press atement of April 7, reduced to para-trase in accordance with White House

As to Indochina's importance to the free orld: This question (said the President) ould be approached both specifically and could be approached both specifically and generally. x x There is the specific value of a locality in its production of materials that the world needs. x x There is the possibility that many human beings could pass under a dictatorship that is inimical to the free world; and, finally, there are broader considerations that might follow the "falling domino" principle.

Indochina, the President went on, produces two items that the world uses, tin and tungsten. x x Asia has already lost some 450 million of its peoples to the Communist dictatorship. He asserted that the U. S. simply can't afford greater losses. x x It is possible that the loss of Indochina would set off the loss of Burma, Thailand, of the Malay Penninsula and Indonesia. This would not only multiply the disadvantages the U. S. would suffer through loss of materials, but it would involve millions and millions and millions of people. x x It would turn the so-called island defenses chain of Japan, Formosa and the Philippines x x and to the southward it would move in fo threaten Australia. ward it would move in to threaten Austrailia and New Zealand,

On July 21, Mr. Eisenhower's press statement was released for direct quotation as "I am glad that the agreement has been reached at Geneva to stop the bloodshed in Indochina, in which thousands of brave men, while defending freedom, have died during the last seven years. The United States has not been a belligerent in this war. The primary responsibility for the settlement in Indochina rested with those nations which participated in the fighting. nations which participated in the fighting. x x the United States has not itself been a party to or bound by the decisions tak-en by the conference, but it is our hope that it will lead to the establishment of peace consistent with the rights and the needs of the countries involved."

But in Asia peace is even more viatal and necessary than elsewhere, for we have to build our nations and we want to utilize all our energies in the task of construction and not of destruction. There are divisions and differences in the world, but there is also a sense of unity and of growing energies. I earnestly trust that our minds will be directed toward this growing feeling of energies and to the pursuit and realization of the common ideals that animate humanity today instead of laying stress on divisions and differences.

Apparently the commens of Asia is to be achieved by the piece-meal reduction of Asiatic countries by the Kremiin until nothing is left in freedom but India.

Finnish-Style Bath

WAUKEGAN, III. III— To the Steve Hutnicks, there's nothing like a hot bath to keep cool. It's an old story to Finns who like steam baths. Mrs. Hutnick invites neighbor women to use the Finnish-style hath with her on hot days. It is built of cement blocks, covered with knotty pine, tarred to prevent rot. A wood-burning stove is covered with smooth-round stones. The steam bather reciines on a bench. With a dipper he pours cold water on the hot stones to create steam.

After a switching with a bunch of twigs and a cold shower, the bath devotee emerges cooled and refreshed.

There Are Plenty Of Cats, For Children, Dogs To Play With

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are sately those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald.—Editor's Note.

The urban dwellers, especially those in the newer areas and specifically those in the newer areas around 12:30 s.m., might argue differently, but cats in the United States considerably outnumber the canine population.

The tabbies are in the majority by about 35 millions to 22 millions, give or take a few hundred.

They didn't join the "back-to the farm" movement. They led the way. Maybe the movie cartoons which forever are making monkeys of the cats had something to do with it or perhaps the felines just like the

At any rate, they're welcomed on most farms. The average rural family the country over keep anywhere from two to a dozen of the creatures around a place.

No doubt, they get more peace and com-mand more respect around the farm than they do in town where their natural enemy. the dog, is not allowed to regularly chase them up trees.

Cats around a city take a beating, too, from the small fry, who regard them with affection but at the same time look upon them as indestructable.

The cats probably think there ought to be law against it but the toddlers accept as common practice to drag the squawking felines around by their tails.

If you've got a cat that's a poor mouser, don't blame the individual but rather the species. The felines hunt rats and mice for sport and not for food. They'll eat them, sure, but only when there's nothing more delectable available, like your best singing canary or that two-pound bass the master of the household just brought in

Matter Of Fact - Joseph And Stewart Alsop

Leaders Have Bamboozled Selves On Seriousness In The Far East

WASHINGTON - The sudden renewal of tension in the Far East ought to serve as a warning. If the warning is taken, which it probably will not be, the country will begin to object to the high percentage of fraud in our foreign and defense policy-making.

High officials are not knowingly lying to the country about the national situation, as they did in the period of the Truman-Louis Johnson disarmament that led to the Korean War. All the same, the country is being outrageously bamboozled about the national situation.

So far as one can judge, the leaders of this administration are bamboozling the country because they have achieved a happy state of self-bamboozlement. They do not want to believe that efforts must be made, money must be spent and risks must be run. By a kind of official Coueism, made possible by concealing all the basic facts from the country, most of the policy-makers have ended by concealing the basic facts from themselves.

The main point about which the great men of the National Security Council have so wonderfully bamboozled themselves is their own inevitable reaction to a time of total peril.

Two events of the last twelve months asure that the time of total peril for America is now not very far away. The Soviet hydrogen bomb and the new Soviet long range jet bombers radically change the whole picture. The danger to this country is no longer to be calculated in terms of a slowly accumulating Soviet atomic stockpile, and a Soviet Strategic Air Army equipped with slow, rather shortrange TU-4s. The big, economy-sized H-bomb with lithium hydride cores can be turned out rather rapidly. The new Soviet bombers, the TU-37 and TU-39, are already in quantity production. We have no air defense, and we are building no air defense, to protect this country against the Kremlin's modernized strategic air power and hydrogen bombs.

Thus the moment is fairly near—the official estimates vary from eighteen to thirty-six months-when the N. S. C. planning papers will begin with the grim sen-

"Assumed that the Soviet Union has the capability to destroy the United States." The key question is, very simply, how our highest policy-makers will behave when they see that ugly sentence in offi-cial black and white. In the abstract, they know already that they are going to see it fairly soon. But the facts have been hidden from the country. There is no public pressure on the policy-makers to think about the facts. So they have shoved the whole ugly problem under the rug.

Meanwhile the key question has al-

POTOMAC FEVER By FLETCHER KNEBEL WASHINGTON-The Senate prepares to debate the subject of Joe McCarthy. The Senate has made a pretty good record this year — it's too bad the needle gets stuck so often.

The House votes $10 billion to handle farm surpluses. Things are so bad that every time Agriculture Secretary Benson sees a victory garden, he's tempted to call J. Edgar Hoover's sabotage agents.

The Navy says it will build a new super-carrier in Brooklyn. The Giants will continue to string along with Willie Mays.

Twenty-five hundred friends toes a ban-quet in honor of Joe McCarthy's man Roy Cohn — and 185,000 tons of Niagara Falls tumbles into the river.

Ike offers food to hungry people behind the Iron Curtain. America's policy of feed-ing its enemies before, after and between wars works fine. We've never run short of enemies yet.

Senator Smith of New Jersey thinks Vice President Nixon should head a committee to investigate "McCarthyism." Smith wants a prompt report — not a minute later than 90 days after the last voting booth closes.

Red China rejects America's protests over attacks on Allied planes. The Reds didn't bother to write us a note. The com-missar for insulting foreigners was still tied up on last year's file.

ready been answered, not in Washington but in London, Last December, one of these reporters passed through London on the way home from Indochina. At that time the leaders of the British government plainly understood the uncontainable dangers of a Far Eastern Munich, And prevent it, if this country would only give the lead. they were ready to take great risks to Instead, this spring, the British leaders rejected our tentative lead, and actively worked to bring about a Far Eastern Munich. The reason was simple. Between December and March, the British government had suddenly become aware of the total peril of the British Isles.

How this happened is a curious but long story. It is enough to say that two trivial accidents-a speech by Rep. Sterling Cole and the hydrogen bomb fall-out on the Japanese fishing boat, "Fortunate Dragon"-suddenly waked up the British Cab-

They too had closed their ears to the experts. They too had shoved the problem of their peril under the rug. But when they abruptly faced the fact that the Soviet could quite literally destroy the British Isles-which is already the case-they went all out for appeasement at any cost. Thus, their peril paralyzed their policy.

It may be unmannerly to say so; but there is no reason in the record to believe that President Eisenhower and the members of his Cabinet are much braver and tougher than Prime Minister Churchill and his colleagues. Hence there is every reason to expect that the specter of total it is upon us, will have the same paralyzing effect on American policy as it has already produced in Britain.

Meanwhile it is already clear that even a partial paralysis of American policy is going to be desperately dangerous. The ink was hardly dry on the Indochinese treaty, when Ho Chi-Minh announced his determination to grab the rest of Indochina for communism. If there is no push in Indochina, there will be a push somewhere else in Asia; and if not in Asia, then somewhere in the Middle East or

And what will the American policy-makers do, if the push comes after the be-ginning of the time of total peril? Will they say, "Yes, we are willing to risk the destruction of the United States for the Burmans, or the Berliners, or whoever it may be?" Or will they duck the challenge, and so permit the Kremlin to begin gobbling up the free world on a piecemeal system? There are other ways of phrasing the key question. Whether the idea of "massive retaliation" is a serious answer to this question, deserves careful study in a subsequent report.

The cowboys and cowgirls who of Everett Colborn, producer of the ride in the Quadrille are seasonal rodeo, the performances of which followers of the Colborn-Autry-profollowers of the Colborn-Autry-prowill start promptly at 8 p.m., Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings at the Rodeo Bowl duced rodeos, and many of them have ridden in this event for the last several years. Colborn him-self worked out the complicated in the southwest part of Big Spring.
Colborn has spent considerable time and money searching the country over for the perfectly matched pairs of horses that are used in the quadrille. After these horses have been found, he explains, they must be well trained in the intricacles of the dance roudance, patterning it after a real old-time square dance, and adding an ending in which the riders dash full speed through a thread-theneedle figure eight for extra thrills.

The riders are jed through the entire performance by Colborn on his favorite borse, Blaze.

The Quadrille is made up of eight couples, who wear colorful matching shirts and chaps decorated with the Lightning C brand.
They ride with speed and daring through the do-si-do and a-la-man lefts that make up one of the most exciting events on the rodeo program.

Among the broncs that were ex-pected to be trucked in last night are some of the toughest performers that have ever pitched into a rodeo arena. These include Super Chief and El Capitan.

Super Chief is considered the top of the Colborn-Autry string by the producer. He is an exceptionally big, regal-looking brown horse that Colborn discovered in Canada when he judged the bronc riding contests at the Calgary Stampede in 1952, Until Colborn and Gene Autry acquired him he had never been ridden. In three attempts he bucked off Casey Tibbs, world's champion saddle bronc rider, and it was only on the fourth try that Tibbs was successful in making a

The other outstanding bronc, El Capitan, was the 1953 champion bucking brone at the Calgary Stampede, and is a horse that is fast making a name for himself in the Inited States.
