 Andy Wood, Miss Hanes, social worker, is May Belle Ayres. Others include "Rusty" Gowen, Marilyn Douglas, Marilyn Wheeler, "Buzz" Goertz, Bobby Manley, Nancy Montgomery, Kay McCormick, Priscilla Ivie, Jo Harmon, Eugene Reeves, and Kathy Stevens.

The explosive drama pictures a youth caught up in the torments of modern day life. Dino is a young boy, 17 years of age, who has just spent four years in reform school, because he was involved in a murder at the age of 12. He now finds it difficult to take his place in society.

Because of the attitude people take toward him and his sullen manner, Dino decides to enter his world of crime again. The entire story takes place in the slum area of a large city.

Of the 16 precincts reporting in the county, Tower led in seven plus capturing the majority of the absentee votes cast.

Olton, Sudan, Amherst, Pleasant Valley, Littlefield, Hart Camp and Springlake awarded the majority of their votes to the Gold-water-and-Nixon backed Tower.

Wright led in the balloting in Earth, North Sudan and Sod House while Blakley led in West Littlefield, Fieldton and North Littlefield.

Wilson carried Spade and Beck Gin and he and Tower tied for the top spot in South Olton.

The victory by Tower can be termed a defeat for the liberal forces in Washington as both men in the runoff term themselves as conservatives. Should Tower be elected in the runoff, he would be the first Republican Senator since the Reconstruction days of the 1870's.

Residents of Littlefield cannot decide whether or not they will be interested in helping get this

IT'S UP TO General Telephone Company now to do its part in determining what is necessary to get toll free service among the communities of Pep, Bula, Enochs and Littlefield.

D. P. Lancaster, Muleshoe manager of the Five Area Telephone Coop, and a group of representatives from Bula, Pep and Enochs has laid the problem in General's lap. Lancaster has explained that his company is ready to take care of its half of the problem and that residents of its service are willing to pay 25 cents extra per month for the extended area service.

Now it's up to General to figure its costs and make a presentation to the Littlefield side of the connection. Needless to say, Littlefield merchants want the toll free service, and residents of the above mentioned communities have indicated that they would rather trade in Littlefield of all the area towns.

RESIDENTS of Bula, Pep and Enochs would appreciate the convenience of being able to order merchandise and services by toll free phone calls into Littlefield. On the other hand Littlefield merchants want to continue to do business with the people in the 260 square miles affected by the need.

Another consideration is the some 60 families who have a p-piled for phone service northeast of Bula, who must wait until this problem is worked out. They will continue to be without phones until a decision is made on the connection of extended area service.

lished. It is not a revision of earlier versions, but a new bold translation in contemporary language.

Professor Charles H. Dodd, a Congregationalist minister from Oxford, general director of the project, said the ancient texts were translated into English which is as clear and natural as the subject matter will allow. One example: King James version, "A certain man made a great supper and bade many." The New English Bible: "A man was giving a big dinner party and had sent out many invitations."

Dr. Edgar Goodspeed, one of the world's foremost translators of the Bible, points out some differences in British and American usage of English, which may change the meaning of some passages. But he says, "Let us receive this book joyfully as a great achievement."

Members of many theological seminaries characterize it as a vivid, accurate translation which sheds light on many obscure passages. Written with beauty of language and simplicity of word, it has the freshness and strength of modern speech. It is a major publishing event.

THE CANCER crusade will not only be asking for funds, but it will attempt to remind our people that 80 per cent of curing cancer is discovering it in time.

I reprint herewith "Cancer's Seven Danger Signals" for your consideration:

1. Unusual bleeding or discharge.
2. A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere.
3. A sore that does not heal.
4. Change in bowel or bladder habits.
5. Hoarseness or cough.
6. Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.
7. Change in a wart or mole.

If your signal lasts longer than two weeks, go to your doctor to learn if it means cancer.

to vote on one of the prettiest voting days in years. So if you didn't take the time to cast your ballot, just don't come around complaining about the way our government is being run. . . you should have spoken up sooner.

The Courthouse voting place is about as private as a three ring circus. In a country that practices "secret" balloting, the precinct 12 voters pick up their ballots and then try to hide the way they vote the best they can while sitting in the seats of the county court room.

For those of you that watched the story of Will Rogers on TV this week, I just hope you enjoyed it half as much as I did. Being an Okkie by birth, it did me good to see the story of one of the few Okies that made the big time. Living in the great state of Texas for the past two years, has made me lose sight of the fact that not everything of importance has come from this state. I also understand that Will used to visit this part of the country and more specifically the Halsey Ranch. Another thing I have decided about this country is that it is the place to live. My native state is of course "A good place to be FROM"

The weather this week has been about like some of the candidates in Tuesday's election. Conservative one day and liberal the next, Monday and Tuesday, the weather was as nice and warm and you could ask for but Wednesday came in with a windy cold blast that sent all of us back to the closet for our winter clothes. Today will probably be warm and nice again. . . but I learned a long time ago not to predict the weather for this part of the country.

I stand corrected about the statement last Sunday concerning the areas of "chronic unemployment." I said there were no such places in Texas, but since then I have been told that there are or were five areas that were suffering from the unemployment bug. I still do not favor the program.

COOK IN TOWN!

That's you — when Reddy's your helper. The real cooking economies come from an electric range. Because electric roasting needs no air, it doesn't draw the moisture from your oven when you're roasting. Result? Less meat shrinkage — more for your meat dollar. Again — because electric heat is accurately measured — you use less water when cooking vegetables. Result? More minerals and vitamins stay in the food — less heat is used to bring the smaller amount of water needed to a boil. Savings for you once more. And finally — the big economy from the cleanliness of electric cooking. You won't have to wash your walls and curtains as often — and you'll stretch out the time between painting and decorating expense. Thrifty cooking? Of course, it's electric.

Local Man Attends Washington Hearing On Airline Route Change

A Littlefield man accompanied a delegation of 42 South Plains Civic and business leaders who flew by chartered plane to Washington last week to head this area's efforts to get its long-sought direct single plane service to the West Coast.

E. J. Wicker, president, Security State Bank of Littlefield, made the journey to Washington with representatives from eleven other South Plains cities.

The delegation got background information from Washington sources that indicates this area may get the desired West Coast plane service on an adjustment in a present Continental Airlines route.

The journey to Washington was the most recent action in a series of efforts by Lubbock and the South Plains over the past 10 years to get adequate service to the West Coast.

The South Plains has learned from many sources that lack of this adequate airline service is a disadvantage in the area's efforts to attract new business and industry.

Action to acquire this needed air service has been led by the Lubbock Airport Board and Chamber of Commerce Traffic Department.

The group of 42 making the trip were met in Washington by eight other area representatives for the purpose of mapping the strategy which may overcome the recent CAB ruling that left Lubbock completely out of the Southern Transcontinental decision and again without single plane service to the West Coast.

The delegation met Tuesday (March 28) with Cong. George Mahon, Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn, Sen. Ralph Yarborough and Jack Dillard, Administrative Assistant to Sen. William A. Blakely, who as in Texas.

HB 73 - Relating to pensions for fireman and their dependents. This bill would cost the City of Littlefield approximately $64,263.00.

Recent bills in Washington: S 121 and HR 4970 - providing for public schools- subsidies part of administration educational aid program.

S 1241 and HR 5266 - providing for administration subsidies program for higher education.

Doubtless there are people in Littlefield who are both for and against each of these bills. Likely there will be men on the committees who do not fully agree on these bills. Maybe they will come to complete agreement after discussion and maybe not; but one thing is relatively certain: each man should be more intelligent in his position after the discussions.

We believe everyone of our elected representatives is entitled to know the deliberate thinking of each one of us on legislative issues.

If I ever came to accept the opinion of some that, it is wrong useless or not worth while to participate in our government; it would indicate to me that there is something wrong with our form of government. A government of the people, for the people and by the people depends on the participation of the people.

If you as a citizen refuse to participate in the affairs of government you have no choice other than to live according to the laws of the people who do participate.

Further, if you desire governmental changes on the local, state or national level, you will not bring these changes about by sitting on your fanny complaining — you must participate and urge others to likewise take part in Governmental Affairs.

'The Babe' Still Biggest Hero Baseball Goes Modern

In the summer of 1839, Abner Doubleday, an instructor at a military preparatory school in Cooperstown, New York, was alleged to have laid out the first baseball field and conducted the first game of baseball ever played.

On June 12, 1939, the National Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum was dedicated near Doubleday Field in Cooperstown.

Later research proved the Great American Pastime, in a form we'd scarcely recognize, was played at Valley Forge back in 1778! In 1781, the faculty of Princeton College forbade the students to play with balls and sticks in the back common of the college. Oliver Wendell Holmes told an interviewer that he'd played baseball while at Harvard in 1829.

Today, it's believed that the game was derived from the English "rounders" or "feeder", as it was called around London.

In the early days, baseball was played on the community "common", a tract of land open to the public. While women hung their wash, lovers picnicked and older folks sat sunning themselves, the young men ran the bases, obstructed here by a hedge and there by a clump of trees!

The game was popular among soldiers of the Union Army during the Civil War, when the first professionals played.

The Cincinnati Red Stockings, first completely pro team, was organized a few years later. Its star received a salary of $1,000 annually!

By the end of the 19th century, two major leagues were operating,

NOT VERY CHEERFUL—New York Yankee catcher Yogi Berra was a mighty angry man as he protested a third strike against him in a game played at Yankee Stadium last year. As the records show, Yogi is more frequently cheering on Yankee pitchers to get the third strike on opposing batters. He will be back at his old stand this year.

The National and the Western series competition, soon to become the American League.

The first post-season series were drawn up in time for the next year's series, which the Boston Red Sox won the later, the Boston Red Sox won the challenge (as was the practice) the New York Giants, National League champs, to a world series. The Giants refused, saying there were no formal rules and central supervision for a world

The third sacker threw the can to the catcher who tagged the runner in time, but the umpire ruled "safe", pointing out that a runner must be touched by the ball. Chances are, today's players would turn their noses up at fields like the old Ebbet's Field where gopher holes dotted the diamond and crab grass ran rampant.

Thousands of dollars and well-staffed maintenance crews keep today's stadium turfs velvet smooth, fields uncluttered and stands packed. "The House that Ruth Built" (123,000 square feet of it) was recently re-soiled with resilient, deep-rooted Merion Blue grass to guard against damage by baseball spikes or hordes of enthusiastic fans.

Overseeing the job was the Yankee's superintendent of maintenance a former usher at gopher-holed Ebbet's Field!

Fenway Park and Briggs Stadium, in addition to many lush private lawns across the country, golf courses and racetracks, wear a sleek carpet of Merion, baseball's blue grass.

Smooth, unobstructed terrain became even more important with the introduction of the lively ball in 1920. During the year following, favorite subject of baseball buffs was the spectacular skill of one George Herman Ruth.

In 1927, the "Babe" hit 60 home runs, baseball's biggest record—almost, but never quite, equalled by Hank Greenberg, Jimmy Fox, Hack Wilson.

Ruth, Ty Cobb, Walter Johnson, John P. (Honus) Wagner and Christy Mathewson were the first five players selected for membership in Baseball's Hall of Fame in 1936.

Baseball, ever-growing in popularity since the days of America's War for Independence, will see another major change in organization this year, when the old Washington Senators become the Minnesota Twins, the new Washington Senators and Los Angeles Angels are added to the American League.

In case you're interested in how the new teams will finish, or whether the Yankees will miss Casper Stengel, or the Giants can finish on top under new management, or in case you'd like to know who'll be competing in the '61 season, buy a bleacher ticket to a baseball game and just ask the fellow on your right!

Did you know Gasoline is Taxed at a Rate 5 Times as High as Diamonds?

IN TEXAS, YOU PAY 90¢ TAX ON 10 GALLONS OF GASOLINE

Gasoline taxes will be lowered— if the latest temporary Federal gasoline tax increase expires on June 30th as scheduled by the 1959 Federal Highway Act.

Along with all good citizens, we are in favor of building the roads that the motoring public needs. But, in the last 10 years alone, Federal and State taxes nationwide on gasoline have skyrocketed 51%—skyrocketed to a point where gasoline, a basic commodity, is actually taxed at a rate five times as high as luxuries like diamonds and mink coats.

Must gasoline taxes be so high? Most people believe that gasoline taxes are high because the money is needed to pay for our national highway program. This is not so. The fact is that out of every highway-user tax dollar collected last year by the Federal government, more than 40 cents was diverted to non-highway purposes.

If these highway-user tax revenues were spent for highways—as they should be—gasoline taxes could be lowered, and the highway program given a boost.

In fact, the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1959 provides that when the added temporary Federal gasoline tax expires on June 30th, 1961, as scheduled, some $802 million a year in highway-user taxes—now diverted to the U. S. Treasury's general fund—will instead be deposited in the Highway Trust Fund.

As a result, if the latest Federal temporary gasoline tax increase expires on June 30th as scheduled—the national highway program will actually get $225 million more each year than it now receives from the latest Federal temporary gasoline tax increase.

In January of this year, after an exhaustive 2-year survey of national transportation policy, a special U. S. Senate study group confirmed the wisdom of this decision.

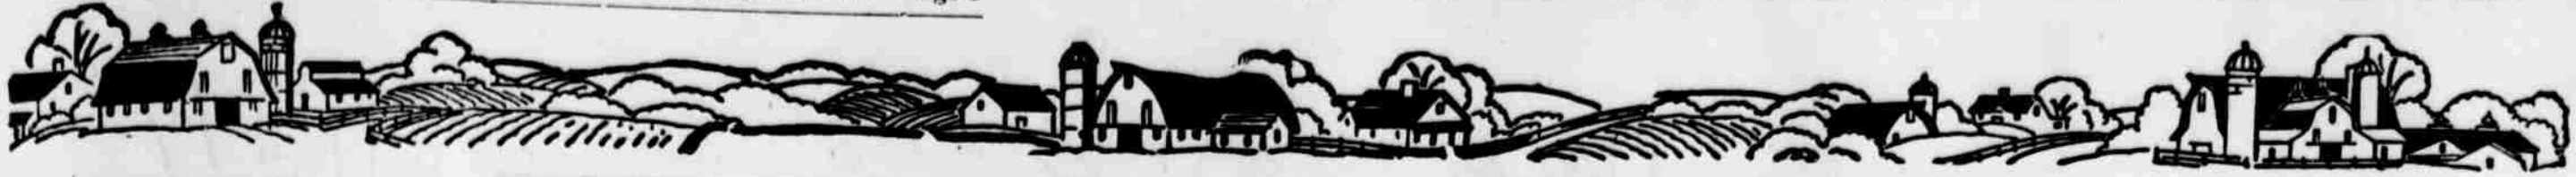

This will be good news for you. You will be able to enjoy a steadily improving highway system, at a lower gasoline tax-rate.

HERE ARE THE FACTS ABOUT TODAY'S HIGH GASOLINE TAXES

- In Texas, you pay 90¢ tax on 10 gallons of gasoline.
- You pay 9¢ tax a gallon—4¢ in Federal taxes plus 5¢ in State taxes.
- Gasoline is taxed at a rate 5 times as high as diamonds.
- The average Texas motor vehicle owner pays $78 a year in gasoline taxes.
- Since 1951 there have been three increases in the Federal gasoline tax alone.
- In the last 10 years, gasoline taxes nationwide have skyrocketed 51%—yet the national average price of gasoline itself has risen only 5.5% during the same period.

CATTLE WINDBREAK—Elms provide protection for the pen-feeding cattle shown above on the Erwin Hassell farm four miles west of Earth, SCS officials say that now is the time to plant windbreaks in order to get full benefits from them during the windy season.

Say SCS Officials Condition Favorable For Planting Of Windbreaks

Conditions for planting windbreaks are now very favorable, according to local SCS officials and they urge that people interested plant them in order to get them established for Spring.

The uses of windbreaks can vary from multi-faceted ones to single purpose jobs. They can be extremely useful in landscaping the farmstead, and, if properly planted, will protect lawns, flowers, and fruit trees from blowing sand and whipping caused by direct winds.

Windbreaks afford some protection for fruit trees against late frost and freezes. Too, in hot weather they tend to lower temperatures by shading and help to maintain an even temperature in the house.

The beauty they offer the homestead the year round is another important feature of windbreaks.

Protection for livestock, especially when pen feeding is being done, is another top selling point of windbreaks. They shade in the summer and break the velocity of windbreaks around farmsteads and feed pens, they should be planted along the north and west side of the area.

For farmsteads, the SCS office recommends Arizona cypress red cedar or some type of evergreen using a four to six-foot spacing for single rows. Where two or more rows are used, the trees should be eight feet apart in staggered rows 12 feet apart.

A combination of trees are recommended by the SCS for livestock windbreaks. Evergreens combined with such trees as elm, mulberry, desert willow, apricot or even pecan if irrigation or some outside water is available.

Further information concerning windbreaks can be obtained by contacting the local SCS office in the basement of the courthouse in Littlefield.

Artificial Well Recharge May Answer Shortage

"Artificial recharge of runoff water into the underground Ogallala formation on the High Plains is one of the answers to the problem of a declining water table", stated James Valliant, Assistant Water Engineer at the High Plains Research Foundation in a report on recharge results during 1960 issued to Foundation supporters this week.

Mr. Valliant continued, "A total of 145 acre-feet of water was recharged into the Ogallala formation during 1960. Of this amount, 134 acre-feet was from rainfall. The remainder came from runoff water from surrounding irrigation. According to the High Plains Water District, approximately five million acre-feet of water per year is pumped from the Ogallala formation for irrigation."

In reporting on the study of the acceptance of recharge water in the underground sand, Mr. Valliant said that "water from the lake should be allowed to flow into the underground sand at approximately 85 per cent of the pumping rate." During the past year and a half, the water from the lake at Halfway has been allowed to flow into the well by gravity at 850 gallons per minute for twenty-three hours, then pumped for one hour at 1,000 gallons per minute. By surging the well every fifteen minutes during the hour of pumping, approximately 73 per cent of the silt was removed. The pumping period will be increased to one and one-half hours in the 1961 experiments. "If the well pumps sand, a high rate of recharge will allow the water to rise to lake level and might thereby cause a well 'cave-in'. By keeping the water in the well at Halfway at approximately 55 feet below the surface, there was little or no trouble with sand caving in, Mr. Valliant reported.

Methods under study to control silt presented in this report will be outlined in a subsequent news release.

Mrs. O. W. Testerman spent two days last week at Crosbyton with their son, Rev. Otis Testerman and family. The Rev. Testerman had just moved to Crosbyton from Glen Rose. He is pastor of the First Baptist Church in Crosbyton.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lott, Whitehall and Mr. and Mrs. Solon Lee and Mike, Shallowater, were Sunday visitors of the Glenn Leggits and son.

Terry Cowan and a friend David Payton, Lubbock, spent the weekend here with Terry's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Cowan. Mrs. Cowan took the boys home Monday.

Mrs. T. M. Moore was dismissed from the South Plains Hospital at Amherst Friday.

The United States Geological Survey estimates that from 1.4 to 2.5 million acre-feet of water is caught annually in the 37,000 playa lakes in the High Plains. "If this amount of water could be saved for future irrigation by storage underground, instead of being lost through evaporation, the irrigation period would be prolonged throughout the area."

A recharge well was established at the Foundation in 1957 to study the problems connected with artificial recharge. Two main problems are: (1) the rate the formation can accept water, and (2) the silt content of the water being recharged and how to control it.

Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Cowan, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Bush, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Johnson and Ricki, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. James Johnson, Olton.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Short and sons, spent the weekend fishing near Paducah. They also visited with an aunt of Bobby's.

One of the decisions confronting a home owner who wishes to sell this house is whether he should give a single real estate broker an exclusive listing.

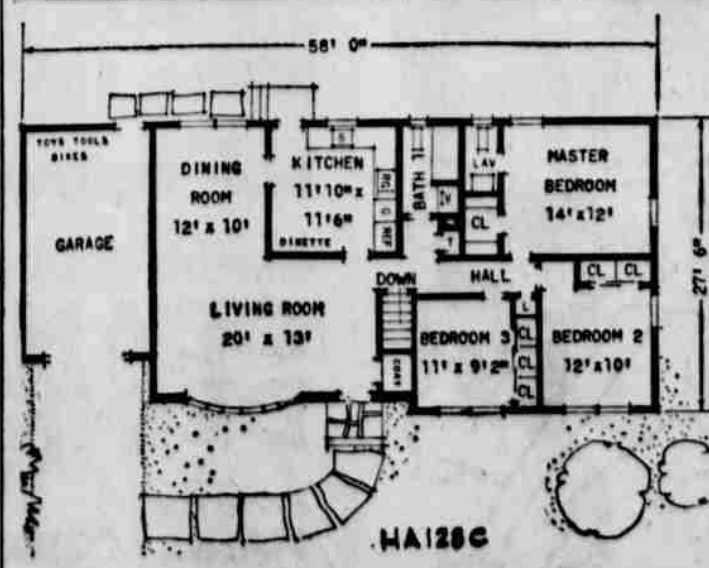

Such an arrangement has advantages and disadvantages. A broker will devote more time, effort and advertising money toward selling a house so listed than he otherwise would. On the other hand, if the house is sold at any time within a specified period of time, even if the sale is negotiated by the owner, the broker is entitled to his commission.

A broker has dozens, perhaps hundreds, of houses which he is trying to sell. Naturally, he would like to sell all of them, but he won't. Other brokers will sell some of them. The owners will sell others. Thus, the broker must decide which houses should get special attention. That attention, including advertising, will be given to the houses on which he has exclusive listings. He knows that somebody else will not come along and sell the house, and collect the commission, after he has spent much time and money on it.

Some home owners prefer to scatter their shots and give their listings to one and all brokers. Over a given period of time, this will result in more persons looking at a particular house and of ten is an effective way to make a sale. It has this disadvantage: many of those who view the house are lookers and not buyers, and they are not screened ahead of time the way a broker with an exclusive listing is likely to do.

Still other home owners, in the minority, put their houses up for sale without listing them with brokers. While some sales are made in this fashion, the owners find it a lot more work, since they must take the prospective purchaser's from room to room no matter how inconvenient it might be. Also, because a third party always can bargain more effectively, home owners usually get less than a real estate broker would have been able to obtain. The savings in commissions are thus nullified.

Incidentally, Headlines, the weekly publication of the National Assn. of Real Estate Boards, told of a recent case where a customer claimed that the broker said he could get $25,000 for property when he knew he could not. The owner charged that this was part of a practice designed to obtain an exclusive listing. The charge may or may not have been true. But we do know that conscientious brokers frown on such practices. They feel a home owner should be told honestly what price his house is likely to bring.

Special Handling Fees Explained By Postmaster

"Contrary to popular belief, payment of a 'Special Handling' fee does not mean that parcels will be processed more carefully than other mail, nor does it provide for 'Special Delivery' at the office of address," says Postmaster Joplin.

According to Postmaster Joplin, payment of a "Special Handling" fee provides only that a fourth-class mail (parcel post) will receive the same fast transportation as first-class mail when traveling between post offices. So those who are anxious for their parcel post to go quickly to its destination may pay a "Special Handling" fee and receive first-class transportation at less cost than would be involved by mailing a parcel at the first-class rate of postage.

Both "Special Handling" and "Special Delivery" mail receive the most expeditious surface transportation possible between post offices. "Special Delivery" mail is delivered immediately upon arrival at the office to which it is addressed. "Special Handling" parcels are not delivered until the next scheduled trip of the regular carrier.

These two special services have other distinguishing features that are not generally known," said Postmaster Joplin. All classes of mail may be sent by "Special Delivery," but only parcel post may be sent by "Special Handling." When it is necessary to forward "Special Handling" mail to another post office, this mail continued to receive first-class transportation without payment of an additional fee; however, forwarding postage at the fourth-class rate is collected on delivery. "Special Delivery" mail does not continue to receive "Special Delivery" service at the office to which it is forwarded unless a forwarding order has been left by the addressee at the original office of address in advance of arrival of the mail.

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

Texas Senate bill -- one designed to cut about half the deficit when the new fiscal year begins September 1.

Measures must be passed by the House before the upper chamber with little patience to send it some-thing.

By the House "logpole bill" makes Ballman of Bor-able to agree to them.

Meanwhile, the House Revenue and Taxation Committee still has a lot of other tax bills in the mill. Three sales tax bills were sent to subcommittee, as well as a hotly debated proposal to levy a 10 per cent tax on trading stamps.

A trading company spokesman said there is only a three per cent profit on the operation and that a 10 per cent tax would put them out of business.

On the other hand, stamps were attacked as "counterfeit money" and an unnecessary burden on both merchant and consumer.

STRIKE THREE - Texas Supreme Court made short work of a 1959-passed tax law that many lawmakers had hoped would be a potent future revenue raiser.

Without issuing an opinion, the high court agreed with the trial court and civil appeals court that the severance beneficiary tax on gas is unconstitutional.

Although three state courts have turned thumbs down on the gas tax, the last chapter remains to be written by the U.S. Supreme Court. As passed in 1959, the gas tax was low (1 1/2 per cent of market value), but supporters had indicated that if the law survived its court battles, the rate would be raised to bring in more money.

LADIES SCORE IN HOUSE - House has passed and sent to the Senate a proposed constitutional amendment that would automatically erase all statutes that treat women differently from men.

Rep. Ben Atwell's very brief amendments states that "equality under the law shall not be denied or abridged because of sex." It passed the House 135-10.

Senators have misgivings about causing such sweeping changes in the law. Some 44 statutes would be affected.

LOAN FIGHT SHAPES UP - House members are coming to grips with one of the session's toughest issues -- regulation of small loan companies.

House Committee on Banks and Banking reported to the floor a bill authored by Rep. Criss Cole of Houston. It is being subjected to widespread criticism, but Cole, long-time veteran of the loan regulation effort, declared that no bill was going to satisfy all the interested factions.

Cole's bill sets up a sliding scale that would allow interest rates of just under 40 per cent on loans of $100 and dropping gradually to about 11 per cent on a $3,000 loan. It also allows for "reasonable insurance charges" at rates set by the State Board of Insurance.

Abner McCall of Waco, spokesman of a statewide committee for sound loan laws, said the interest rates were too high and that the limit on credit insurance charges should be clearly defined.

BREWERIES (PRO & CON) - Legal restrictions on breweries and the desirability of having breweries at all came up for spirited discussion before the Senate State Affairs Committee.

Rep. Don Kennard of Fort Worth is author of the House-passed bill that would give brewers of ale the privilege, as beer makers, to continue their operations in a territory after it is voted dry. It would also increase from one year to three years the time allowed a brewery to begin production after it got its license.

A large out-of-state manufacturer of ale is planning to build a $20,000,000 plant in Tarrant County. Any change would, of course, affect the whole state.

Supporters of the bill emphasized the new jobs and payroll it would create. Opponents, mostly ministers and church leaders, declared it would contribute to the problems of alcoholism.

PHONE RATES STUDIES - House State Affairs Committee is studying a bill by Rep. Dan Struve of Campbellton that would place regulation of telephone service, within the state's borders, in the hands of the Texas Railroad Commission.

Representative Struve says Texas is one of two states that do not have this sort of regulation and that other states have lower rates.

Other witnesses testified that a long distance call within Texas borders costs more than one of the same distance that crosses the state line.

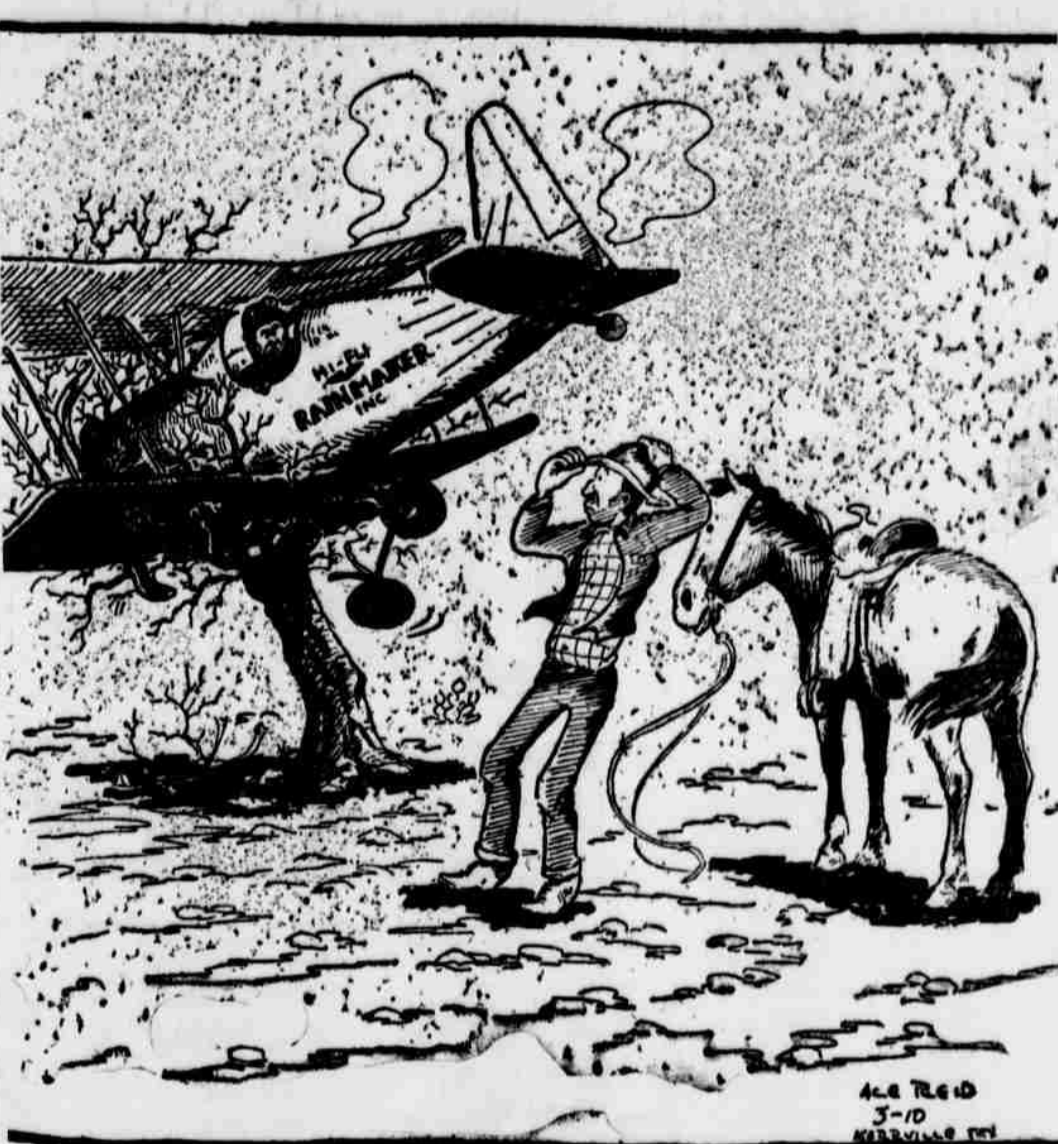

PRE-PAID FUNERALS DEBATED - Funeral directors and cemetery operators clashed before both House and Senate Committee over a bill to restrict pre-paid funeral arrangements.

Funeral directors declared that their only desire was to protect the public by requiring that money paid in advance for funeral expenses be put in a trust fund.

Cemetery and mortuary operators retorted that the funeral directors wanted to discourage pre-paying of funeral expenses. They contended that families who make funeral arrangements at the time of bereavement spend more money than if arrangements are made in advance.

SHORT SNORTS - A test vote in the Senate indicated that Sen Dorsey Hardeman's proposal to abolish the Court of Criminal Appeals and transfer its duties to the State Supreme Court, is short of enough support for passage.

Sen A. R. Schwartz of Galveston says he will introduce a bill to allow nurses registered in other states to practice in Texas, thus to help alleviate the shortage of registered nurses.

About Your Health

The next time Johnny comes home crying, "Mom, I got something in my eye!" - here's what you should do:

Lift the upper lid, and pull it down over the lower lid. This will give the tears a chance to wash out the offending speck. Tears are nature's own eyewash.

But if the speck doesn't come out, wash the eye with drops of lukewarm tap water, using an eye dropper. While doing this, be sure to hold Johnny's head so the water will run away from his nose, toward the side.

If this doesn't dislodge the speck, put a light bandage over the hurt eye to prevent Johnny from rubbing it. Then take him to a physician or an eye clinic.

Keep this in mind: Never try to rub a speck from the eye. It can cause an infection that may scar the cornea, resulting in partial loss of sight.

Ever hear someone say, "My eyes are simply worn out!" That's nothing but a figure of speech. You cannot wear out healthy eyes by overuse.

If your eyes feel strained the trouble may be eye or other disease, a need of glasses or improperly fitted glasses, or failure to heed the rules of good lighting.

Under the right conditions you should be able to use your eyes as much as you want to without "wearing them out." They function with greatest ease and comfort when you sit erect, with your work arranged at 45 to 70 degrees from the horizontal. Tilt-top desks or book easels are best for children because reading material can be kept at the most comfortable eye focus.

Read in bed if you like, so long as you obey the rules of good reading in sunlight, even when your book is shaded.

Watching television won't hurt your eyes provided the picture is clear and steady and there is enough light in the room to prevent too great a contrast with the screen. Don't sit off center watching TV and don't sit too close.

Protect your eyes from long exposures to sunlight, but don't wear sunglasses merely to be Hollywoodish. Never wear them at night, especially while driving. They reduce your vision to the point where you cannot distinguish dark objects.

Close work calls for eye muscles to work overtime. You can give them the rest they need by closing them for a moment from time to time as you read or do close work. Looking off into the distance occasionally will help.

Persistent eye fatigue may indicate you need an eye examination, in spite of having good distance vision. (A weekly feature from the Health Education Division, Texas State Department of Health.)
