College To Share Trust Fund Set Up By Amarillo Couple

PLAINVIEW — Wayland Baptist College will share in the receipt of $200,000 in the trust fund set up this week by Mr. and Mrs. Ted Ferguson, Amarillo, according to President A. J. Owen.

A 643-acre irrigated farm near Hereford has been transferred to the Baptist Foundation of Texas by the man, who started an auto parts sales career in 1923 by selling a team carload of gears in Amarillo.

The Ferguson gift of more than $200,000 is made because of their "gratitude to God." Under a trust agreement the Fergusons will receive a life-time income from the transfer. After their deaths, three separate endowment funds will be established: $25,000 to Wayland Baptist College; $25,000 for the cooperative program through the First Baptist Church, Amarillo; and the remaining amount to Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth, for an endowment investment. Dr. J. Howard Williams, Southwestern Seminary president and former pastor of Amarillo First Baptist Church, initiated the trust gift.

Ferguson's career as a salesman in West Texas began shortly after World War I, when he went to Amarillo and volunteered 60 days of free work in order to get a job selling auto parts. Since then he has sold auto parts in almost every city in West and Central Texas and in the border area of New Mexico and Colorado because of his ingenuity in selling a carload of grease that no one else had been able to dispose of.

His investments have been in several West Texas areas.

Ted and Gertrude Fomby were married in 1921 in Childress. The young bride told her super-salesman husband, "I love you, but I don't want you ever to interfere with my church and work for the Lord." The bridegroom, son of a pioneer Okanama Baptist preacher, replied, "I'll always go with you to church."

During their 26 years of married life, the Fergusons have traveled together as he sold auto parts for the wholesale company he bought after two years with the F.I.M. Some of the time the Fergusons ate 5-cent hamburgers and stayed in 10-cent hotel rooms, but they never failed to attend prayer meetings and church services on Sunday.

Ferguson has been an active witness for Christ since he was 5 years old. For 18 years he has been a Sunday School teacher. His pastor, Dr. Carl Bates, describes Ferguson as "the best supporter as pastor ever had. He looks you straight in the eye and tells you what's wrong. Then he puts an arm around your shoulder and helps you correct the error."

Three years ago, Mrs. Ferguson became seriously ill with hardening of the brain arteries. A surgeon said there was little hope of recovery. Ted prayed, "Lord, I want you to use us together in your service, let her get well and we'll do our best." After seven weeks of severe illness, Gertrude Ferguson made a sudden, miraculous recovery.

Concerning this almost unexplainable event, Ferguson says, "What would you do for someone who saved your life? I expect you'd want to do all you could in a more tangible way. We can't do enough for the good Lord, but we're trying to do all we can."

At a recent meeting of the Junior 441 club, officers for the forthcoming year were elected. Sheryl Stevens as president; vice president, Patsy Angley; secretary-treasurer, Veta Allison; Carolyn Allison, reporter and gains leader; Kathryn West as song leader and adult leader, Mrs. Allan Haley.

The next meeting will be Nov. 16 in the home of Sheryl Stevens.

Miss Sandra Briscoe was crowned football queen of 1957 by Muldoon Mules during ballgame ceremonies Friday night at the Dalhart Muldoon game.

Her attendants were Mary Jo Holt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Holt and Sandra's sister, Miss Polly Briscoe.

Sandra and Polly are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Briscoe of the P.V. community.

Error of opinion may be tolerated, where reason is left free to combat.—Jefferson.

C-C Membership Campaign Stands At $5,200 Mark

Littlefield's Chamber of Commerce drive for memberships stood at $5,200 Wednesday as the CC urged workers to pick up the pace.

Goal of the drive is $13,000, enough to finance the CC through Jan. 1, 1958.

The Chamber also revealed that it is the mastermind behind the "Master Planner," which appears in each issue of the County Wide News and Lamb County Leader.

The "Planner" was drawn by a close friend of Chamber Manager Jack Lacy, Ed Irelan of Amarillo. The "Master Planner" will follow the CC as a mascot through 1958.

In other CC action, Lacy announces that the final session of the business climate appraisal of Littlefield will get some work in a meeting at Thornton's Cafeteria Friday at 7 a.m. Max Bagwell and Landon Grissom are in charge.

The CC's planning guide for Christmas will be mailed this week, with merchants scheduled to receive it Friday.

Another matter will go out today, W. G. (Bill) Street's state and national affairs panel will urge members to vote Nov. 5, and vote for proposal number three, the water development amendment.

Nine new members have been added to the CC since the membership campaign began.

New members include Javrel Giles of Giles Motors, Dick Salzman of Salzman Service Station, Cecil Hall of Cecil Hall Company, L. E. Sullivan of Sullivan Farm Supply, Melvin E. West of Tower Bob Shop, L. E. Sewell of Continental Oil Co., W. D. Gilder of City Barber Shop, Pete Shipley of Shipley Service Station and Ben E. Pordner of Pordner Produce.

Accident Totals $275 In Damages

An accident on Highway 81 near Meras Street in the city limits resulted in a total of $275 in damages here Monday.

An auto driven west on 81 by James Jenkins of Littlefield collided with a pickup driven east by Claude Downs of Roods as Jenkins started to make a left turn.

Investigating officers said the Jenkins auto hit the pickup on the left front fender. Damages totaled $200 to the Jenkins car and $75 to the pickup.

A Muffler Gets The Ear Of The Court

DETROIT—Traffic Judge John D. Watts listened intently as 18-year-old George Valentine argued against the two tickets he had received for "excessive noise—Hollywood muffler."

Valentine said he had purchased the car only a few days before receiving the tickets and had since changed mufflers.

Watts told Valentine to drive the car to a spot near an open courtroom window. The judge listened to the roar that filled the court and fined Valentine $20.

Dam Construction Creates Two Towns

DENVER, Colo.—Two new towns, one to have an estimated population of 10,000 persons, will be created on what is now waste land during construction of the huge Glen Canyon Dam in northern Arizona.

The Bureau of Reclamation here said the other town would rise in southern Utah near the site of the Flaming Gorge Dam. Both projects are part of the multi-million dollar Colorado River storage project. The town in Arizona has been named Page.

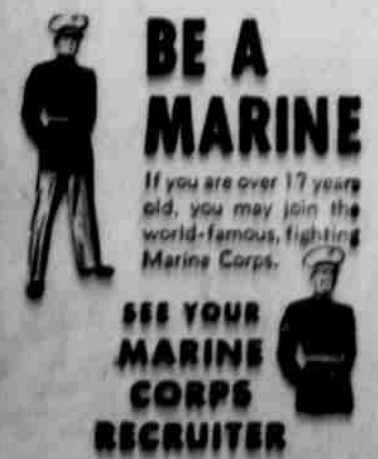

The Utah community will be developed on the site of Dutch John Flat, but so far has no name.

The bureau said population at Page is expected to stabilize at about 4,000 persons after construction work is completed.

LONG WAIT—H. S. Frank left, who farms south of Littlefield, checks his watch as he waits in line to have his grain weighed. Glenn Bess of Hamilton County, an out-of-town cutter, and Frank were among a long line of farmers who brought grain to town Monday as the weather turned off clear and warmer.

Farm Men --

Grain needs the sun, but a high wind would do considerable damage to it right now, the county agent said.

He urged farmers to get their grain in as soon as possible. He figures it will take two to three weeks to harvest the crop.

Maturity of the grain crop ran 14 to 16 per cent in grain brought in early this week at Lamb County Grain Co. Dew is keeping heavy moisture content up.

The Texas Employment Commission office here said there is a shortage of grain combines and operators in the area. A representative said farmers needing combines should contact the TEC. The weekend freeze, which hit Lamb County about 10 days earlier than normal, finished the vegetable harvest. Most of the crop was in, however.

The man who does his work on time, all the time has plenty of time.

Dr. A. B. Haynes, Former Littlefield Pastor, Succumbs

Members of the First Presbyterian Church received news this week that a former pastor, Dr. A. B. Haynes, 81, of Ingram, Texas, died Monday evening after having suffered a stroke the previous Thursday.

Funeral services were held Wednesday in the Presbyterian church he organized in Ingram and interment was in the Korrville cemetery.

Dr. Haynes had celebrated 50 years served in the ministry several years ago. At the time of his death he was moderator for the Presbyterian Synod of Texas.

Besides his wife, he is survived by two sons, A. B. of Waco, and Bernie of Illinois and 3 grandchildren.

Dr. Haynes was always interested in the development of youth and was credited with having organized the first Boy Scout troop on the South Plains.

N. D. Duck Eggs Get The Dye Treatment

BISMARCK, N.D.—Three broods of red, green and blue ducklings spotted by travelers in North Dakota this summer have been dyed in the interests of science.

The dyes were injected in duck eggs several days before they hatched in order to identify members of each brood for several weeks afterward.

In this way, game experts are able to track the movements of ducklings from one water area to another and to study the effects of weather conditions, vegetation and other factors on the young ducks.

Gray's car was struck by an auto driven by Larry Schriebar. Both men appeared before traffic referee John G. Canoy, and Schriebar pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving. Canoy fined him $0 dollars, but Schriebar said he had only $49. Gray contributed the other dollar.

"I don't want to see him get stuck here," Gray said.

LADIES GOLF CHANGED

Littlefield Country Club Pro Bob Hickson has announced that Ladies Day has been changed from Wednesday morning to Wednesday at 1:30 p.m.

The average city slicker has the idea that the farmer ought to grow cheap food for him whether the farmer makes a decent living out of the crop or not.

Study Of Management Levels Is Completed

BERKELEY, Calif.—Many men holding top management positions may not be in the proper place, and many middle-level men may be in top positions, a group of University of California psychologists reported.

In their studies, they asked men in top and middle management positions to give an estimate of their own personality traits.

Those in top position saw themselves as active and self-reliant persons, who are willing to take action on the basis of faith in themselves and their abilities.

Middle management personnel saw themselves as careful planners who are less willing to take risks and have less confidence in their own judgment. In general, the middle management person described himself as a stable and dependable individual who tried to avoid making mistakes.

Show Business Doesn't Bother This Holstein

OCENOMOWOC, Wis.—Plain View Unga is described as a "working glamour girl."

The famous all-American Holstein cow has maintained a production pace four times greater than the average cow despite long and frequent trips on the show circuit.

The Holstein-Friesian Assn. of America has cited her for a 1953 production record of 25,943 pounds of milk and 1,612 pounds of butterfat. It was the second time she had topped 3,000 pounds.

During that year, she competed in seven major shows and won grand championships in all. Milked three times daily, at home, in box cars, and in show barns in five states and Canada, she averaged 33 quarts of milk a day for the full year.

Only 13 months ago, she completed a record of 24,009 pounds of milk and 1,961 pounds of butterfat after campaigning her way to national recognition as the reserve all-American four year old for 1955.

A criticism sometimes does an individual more good than a commendation.

Brain Surgery On Emotions Of Beasts

LOS ANGELES—The surgery on animals can be beasts into house pets, versa, according to a team at the University of California here.

Wild animals can be destroyed of a tiny bit of brain cells and become made aggressive by brain surgery, according to Dr. Keith Killam of the school.

Killam said that emotion seems to be a term of checks and balances, specialized groups of brain cells or pathways. By destroying the brain cells or pathways, it is possible to make emotion dominant.

"Through such studies on animals we get a better understanding of what happens in man," he said.

They were charged with being found liable in an all-outlet in a hearing before City Judge W. E. Thomas 2.

PIONEER SUPER MARKET

THIRD and NTH

A DRAMATIC touch of boldness to the Swept Wing '58 Dodge is the completely re-front end. Dual headlights are arranged side-by-side, under flaring, fashionable hoods, night time driving. Parking lights are recessed in protective "bombs," placed to shield hatched grill from damage. Adding to the look are the straight lines of the front bumper, sturdy overbar.

Swept-Wing 1958 Dodge Come Out In November

Significant advances in engineering, fuel economy and engine performance distinguish the 1958 Dodge cars, which will make a name for themselves in dealer showrooms November.

The inner almp of each dual unit is designed exclusively for high beam operation, the outer lamp for low beam, with a secondary function of providing fill-in light for the "brights." The recovering more of the right-hand side of the road and extending farther ahead.

The dual units are standard on all 1958 Dodge cars.

Complementing the dual headlight styling is a strikingly different grille design built of stainless steel. Upper grille bars wrap around the front fender edges and end at the edge of the cross-hatched grille in "bombs" which house the circular parking lights. The lower bumper bar has a new center crossover bar for additional protection of grille and license plate.

Looking over the low, clean sweep of hood on all 1958 Dodge convertibles and Lancer hardtops is the compound-curvature "picture" windshield, which wraps around not only at top and bottom, but across the roof line, offering unobstructed visibility at the corners and sides, as well as at the top.

Accentuating the low, lance-like profile of the 1958 Dodge are the styling accents of the sides and rear end. The jet-age rear fins are reminders that this car was designed with directional stability in mind. Wind tunnel tests have shown that the "wedge" shape reduces steering corrections in crosswinds by as much as 20 per cent. Tail light lenses have been redesigned to dramatize the distinctive rear-end styling.

A completely new line of engines, headed by the rugged Ram Fire V-8, powers all 1958 Dodge cars. Combining light weight, compactness, quiet operation and economy, the Ram V-8 is standard on all Custom Royal and station wagon models in the 350-cubic inch version.

A 361-cubic inch version of the Ram Fire is available on all Dodge Eights with the D-500 engine package.

Ram Fire "350" uses a single four-barrel carburetor for high efficiency and low fuel consumption. Lighter in weight than any engine of similar size, it requires less space under the hood, and is easier to service. Featuring a 10-1 compression ratio, it is of a deep block design. The new off-center rubber mountings effectively reduce engine noise and vibration.

A completely new power steering gear called Constant Control is available on all 1958 Dodge models equipped with Torque-Flite or Power-Flite automatic transmissions.

Embodying the all-important feature of full-time operation, Constant Control affords unexcelled ease of maneuvering, requiring only three and one-half turns of the steering wheel from extreme left to extreme right.

Southwestern Public Service Honors Littlefield Employees

Six Littlefield residents, all employees of Southwestern Public Service Company, were honored Thursday night, along with 49 other Plains Division employees, at the ninth annual service awards dinner held by the company at the Hilton Hotel in Plainview.

Together, the six employees account for 30 years of service. Leading in service years is E. G. Alexander who, since 1937, has worked for 20 years of service. Next is Harry Heckard, who is employed at Plant X, the company's giant electric generating station. Heckard received a 10-year service award.

Five-year honorees were Frances Allison, Mack Tucker, William Weige and Cecil Wood. Tucker and Wood are also employed at Plant X.

Jim Collins, Plains Division manager, presented the awards and was honored for 30 years of service.

Following the dinner and presentation of awards, the honorees and their special guests, including company officials from Amarillo, participated in a skit entitled, "Where The Money Goes," a dramatic portrayal of how the company's revenues are paid out in wages, fuel costs, supplies, taxes, depreciation, interest and dividends.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY DR. KENNETH L. FOREMAN
Background Scripture: [Corinthians 11]
Devotional Reading: [Matthew 23: 17]

In Worship

Lesson for November 3, 1957

WHY do people go to church? There are very poor reasons, such as showing off a new hat, or keeping up a respectable front. There are reasons which are only middling good, such as enjoying the music, or going to please your wife. There are also very good reasons; the best of these is simply to worship God.

There are different ways Christian churches use in worshipping God, and it is rarely that one particular service makes use of one way alone. Hymns are one way, and prayer is another, and offering is another. But the way of worship which most churches feel to be most sacred is the observance known by the names of Eucharist, Lord's Supper, Holy Communion.

Long Years, Wide Road

What is the right spirit of worship? In particular, how can we make the most of Communion? Saint Paul offers us some plain and valuable hints in the letter he wrote to the church at Corinth. That church needed some plain-spoken help, for two reasons. For one thing, the Christian religion was hardly thirty years old. There was no long tradition, no prayer-book, no New Testament to go by.

For another thing, many of the Corinthians Christians had been outright pagans till recently, and pagans had some very odd notions about how to worship their gods, such as getting drunk in their temples. So Paul had to make some things clear. One is that the worshippers of the Lord's Table are not alone; there is a tradition behind them, there are hosts of other churches also at worship in this way. We worship best when we are mindful of the whole church of Christ. We are travelers on a road stretching through two thousand years now, not thirty years only—a road wide enough to take in worshippers from every country in the world. Remembering this, we shall be solemnly grateful that we too can share in this age-old Remembrance of Christ.

"In Remembrance of Me"

For this Lord's Supper is a rite of remembrance. How shall we best approach it? To come carelessly, thoughtlessly, is to cut ourselves off from its meaning and its blessing. We should come to it remembering the One in whose Name it is celebrated. But how shall we remember him? There is something more here than simple memory. We do not well remember a good mother's birthday by getting drunk, or by polishing off a shady deal, or by being hateful to members of our family. We best remember Washington not by making speeches about him but by being patriots ourselves. So we can best remember Christ not by being suddenly reminded of him by seeing that this is Communion Sunday, not by merely recalling that once such a Man lived and died. We come and worship in his name rightly when we come remembering, and praying for, his spirit in our lives. Those who get most out of Communion are usually those who have been keeping closest to their Lord.

Remembering Others

Protestant churches take seriously another thought in Paul's lines about the Lord's Supper. That is, that this is not something we can best do alone. There is room for private worship of God, and a necessity for it. But there is also room and necessity for the public worship of God, and the Holy Communion is public, social, communal, corporate, rather than private and individualistic. That is the way theologians would put it. For the plain worshipper, the point is this: In coming to this sacred highpoint of worship, we shall get the most out of it if we give thought to others not less than to ourselves. We need to remember the Church in whose company this feast is kept. We need to remember the Body—not only the broken body of Christ, but the Church which Paul (in the very next chapter) calls the body of Christ. We need also to remember those who are in need. Most congregations use the Communion-time for special offerings for the poor or otherwise needy. So again, the right way to approach this hour of worship is to come already in the spirit of usefulness. It is a poor sort of Christian who has to wait for the Communion service to remind him to love his neighbor as himself.

THE TOWN WAS IN AN UPROAR

The high school had burned down, and we had to build another—everybody agreed on that point. But the problem of money almost caused a brawl. Should we raise taxes to build a new and bigger school to accommodate our rapidly expanding enrollment? Should we use the insurance to rebuild our old-fashioned plant?

When the argument was at its height, the Chamber of Commerce decided a little more light and a little less heat on the subject were needed. We got together our Education Committee to co-ordinate with and advise the School Board. We hired a hall and held meetings to get the facts. We discussed the town's future and heard the proponents for rebuilding the school to meet our future needs. We also heard the proponents for duplicating the old school in its original pattern.

A decision was reached. The local Chamber had started the ball rolling and saw to it that it kept rolling until the job was done.

It is on just such problems that your local Chamber of Commerce can help devise a worth-while solution. But to be of maximum usefulness, the C. of C. needs the support of you and every other businessman, merchant and professional man. So join us. Support us with your time and effort. And as you help the community, so too you will help yourself.

Experiments On Sesame Begin At TRF High Plains Station

One of the 50 experimental plots of sesame is under way at High Plains Station of the Texas Research Foundation at Littlefield.

These varieties are of different types and forty different strains. These were cut and put on dry-land, when all but a few of the leaves had fallen and the seed 75 per cent matured. In 14 days drying, the seed will be threshed.

Standing plants in each plot of a variety or strain are selected for further development. Dr. Earl Collister, director of the plant science department of the Texas Research Foundation, and Charles Julian, assistant, selected the of the experimental varieties of unusually high pods and more of pod. Of unusual interest are six feet tall large pods, three pods of seed. These were of semi-shattering and non-shattering varieties. Their development will be watched closely by sesame growers. Of the imported varieties, the one that proved to be of no value and will be discarded. The ten acres of Renner 15 combine type, non-shattering seed production field will be harvested later.

The new experimental strains of sesame being tested at the High Plains Station have been developed at the Texas Research Foundation at Renner, Texas. This research program was initiated in 1947 in the program of new crop development for Texas farmers. Several hundred strains of sesame are received on a continuous basis from countries all over the world. In some areas sesame has been grown since about 2000 B.C. These different types are observed very carefully in the test plots. Those possessing desirable characteristics are used in the sesame breeding program.

Dr. Collister and his associates have already developed three varieties of sesame. The first variety, Renner No. 1, introduced in 1953 is still the most popular variety being grown in Texas, consisting of about 95 per cent of all the commercial acreage of sesame.

Another improved variety, Renner No. 2, was introduced in 1955. Both are semi-shattering types. The third variety, Renner No. 15, a paper shell non-shattering type, is being tested in large scale field trials this year. Two of these are in the High Plains area. If these trials are successful, Renner No. 15 will be released to farmers in 1958.

The sesame market is expanding faster than the supply. There are no restrictions on acreage. Dr. Collister said, "The steady increase in acreage in the High Plains indicates a bright future for sesame as a permanent profitable crop in this area."

can make a crop, water heavily and have good grazing all through the winter.

Most plots of grass were in the irrigated sections of the High Plains. The growers plant the grass seed in a small ridge, cover it very shallow and irrigate. Previously, plantings in the bottom of furrows, planted very moderately successful, since more light rains would wash the dirt and bury the seed too deeply.

Grass farming is sound, profitable, and will bring the soil back to its original fertility. The days of intensive profits may be numbered but the production of that grass will spread year by year over many parts of the country as a money crop.

Some growers have proved that grass will fit into money-making rotations. A farmer may grow a seed crop and get several months' grazing as well. He can graze the grass in summer, pull off the live stock and make a seed crop. Or he has paid off handsomely.

In spite of the high prices, the growers had no trouble selling all the seed raised. From a total of around 800 acres in grass seed production in the Panhandle during 1956, the acreage is expected to increase by leaps and bounds.

Most growers agree that the price of seed will moderate after a few more big crops. This may be a "left-handed" blessing for all concerned, however.

At present, the cost of buying and broadcasting this seed on over-grazed rangeland can run as high as $15 per acre. For many ranchers today, this cost is prohibitive. Cheaper seed of good quality will be in even greater demand than at current price levels, however.

Two acres of Blackwell switchgrass in Hockley County threshed 400 pounds of seed at $1.25 per pound, grossing $250 an acre.

These, and other trial plots, point up the fact that grasses may soon become an important part of every crop rotation. Although the price of $1.25 per pound will not hold up long with successive good crops, those few far-sighted farmers gambled on grass and it can make a crop, water heavily and have good grazing all through the winter.

O'Dell Takes Part In 'Cool Dip' Alaska Operation

KODIAK, Alaska (PHTNC)—Marine Pfc. Oscar L. O'Dell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. O'Dell of 809 Williams St., Littlefield, is taking part in Operation "Cool Dip," a First Marine Division cold weather landing exercise on Kodiak Island, in the Alaskan Gulf, during October.

While on cold, windswept Kodiak, the 1,600 man task force is testing recently developed or adopted cold weather clothing and equipment and becoming familiar with combat under cold and wet conditions.

Highlights of "Cool Dip" will be an amphibious destruction raid against installations and a weather station, with D-Day scheduled for late in October. Later, Division units will execute a pre-planned tactical withdrawal to amphibious shipping off shore before returning to Camp Pendleton, Calif. in mid-November.

Cultivated Grass May Boost South Plains' Farm Economy

By JOHN WHITE, Agriculture Commissioner

AUSTIN—Cotton and grain crops are the major money-makers on the Texas South Plains but a third commodity looms on the horizon whose possibilities are just now being explored.

That commodity is cultivated grass. A few farmers have been reaping large profits from grass as a seed crop. Indian grass grown on a farm near Morton produced 12,500 pounds of seed on 14 acres which sold for $1.25 a pound in 1955.

Two acres of Blackwell switchgrass in Hockley County threshed 400 pounds of seed at $1.25 per pound, grossing $250 an acre. These, and other trial plots, point up the fact that grasses may soon become an important part of every crop rotation. ## Bickering Among Three Services Would Help

It moved fast after the Soviet launching of Sputnik "baby moon"—coming as it did, hard on the heels of the claim that they had perfected some form of intercontinental ballistic missile.

The initial reaction to the earth satellite, naturally enough, was generally one of surprise and shock. The ballistics claim could and has been discounted to some extent. It was something else again. It was no communist trick. Scientists and others around the world were watching the satellite—whizzing around the earth at 18,000 miles an hour at a height of more than 300 miles—and its radio transmissions.

The concern, of course, was not over the satellite itself, but over the weapon, and there was no reason to fear that danger—in Western eyes—is that Soviet science is a big lead on the rest of the world, most particularly in the field of rocketry. The satellite, according to the Russians, must have been launched by a staged rocket—a rocket which is almost unbelievably complex and difficult to launch. Such rockets, once they are sufficiently developed, are able to launch guided missiles of great accuracy and limited range. And it is no secret that this country is in a grim race to produce practical intercontinental missiles with H-bomb warheads.

President Eisenhower, a few days after Sputnik's launch, went to considerable length to discount the military importance of the satellite, and to reassure this country as to its stand. Soon, he said, we will send up a series of satellites, and in March launch one scientifically to the Russian's. And he stressed that we are giving priority to missile development.

President Eisenhower, a few days after Sputnik's launch, went to considerable length to discount the military importance of the satellite, and to reassure this country as to its stand. Soon, he said, we will send up a series of satellites, and in March launch one scientifically to the Russian's. And he stressed that we are giving priority to missile development.

Ever, there is no doubt that the satellite has given us a great deal to think about. The new Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy said at his first press conference that it may be necessary to speed the missile program. The satellite, he added, proves that Soviet science has made great gains with missiles.

It brings us a really big three-pronged question—are we behind in the missile race; if so, why, and what can we do about it? Numerous experts think we may be behind one reason is frequently given. The Portland Oregonian puts it in these words: "... the U. S. missile program is lagging chiefly because of jealousies and bickering among the three armed services competing in this field, and the U. S. Defense Department has failed to force the three services to work together amicably." Here is small doubt that the Navy, the Army and the Air Force, have all tried to take a share of the spotlight—and to obtain the lion's share of the funds involved in missile research, testing and development. The result, say many observers, has been a waste of money, materials, manpower and what may be the most important of all—time.

Oregonian proposes a simple solution—that we put all our brains in the same laboratory, and quit worrying about the color of the uniforms." If the Soviet satellite is bringing that about, our cold war enemies will obviously be us a big favor.

New York City Cabbie Goes All Out For Comfort

A cab driver in New York City is setting some sort of a record for comfort and service provided his passengers. Raymond Roma, a former butler.

Roma keeps cigars and cigarettes in the back seat, and not only offers them to his passengers, but also keeps a variety of them. He has at least three brands of cigarettes—imported and domestic cigars. He also keeps mints, chocolates and cleansing tissue.

When all this service Roma charges nothing extra. He charges extra if his passenger wants to shave.

His passenger an electric razor, explaining that he has a solution he keeps in the car trunk. After the passenger provides after shave lotion and powder.

Roma mentions this as a gratifying example of an individual giving service to his customers. But it may be due to some of the cab companies in some of the cities. If one of the fleets for example, would install conveniences in the back seats of their cabs, and keep them available for passengers, it is highly likely that passengers would begin to hail the cabs of this fleet, and the business would pay for the comforts provided.

Highlights and Sidelights From Your State Capitol

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN—It's time for a showdown, says the Senate investigating committee.

Our Texas Legislature has gotten a black eye, the committee feels, and it wants to find out why. Said the committee's chairman, Sen. Charles Herring of Austin, "There's been a tendency on the part of the public to blame the Legislature for everything that happens."

He attributed this to: (1) Acts of a few lawmakers who discredited the entire branch, (2) loose and irresponsible talk and (3) a tendency of other state agencies to blame the Legislature in an attempt to cover up their own shortcomings and "even dereliction of duty."

Herring promised a three-pronged attack against these sources of discredit. Grand juries and the legislators themselves have already done "able work" in the first area, said Herring.

In its "loose talk" attack the committee called on the carpet Riggs Sheppard of Hobbs, manager of the Medina Electric Co-ops, Inc. Riggs said The Texas Co-Op magazine misquoted him in saying he's been "told to see old so-and-so and he'll get your bill introduced for $500." He said a national magazine article on alleged corruption in Texas triggered his remark.

In the third phase of its operation, presumably designed to show that state agencies have fallen down on their jobs, the committee began by subpoenaing three insurance executives.

First on the stand was Largent Parks, president of Preferred Life of Dallas. Parks was closely questioned about State Insurance Board charges that he owes the insurance firm some $134,000. Senate committee questioning emphasized that Parks' firm had been given a routine examination last March and another special examination in June, but that the report had never been made public. Also subpoenaed were Pierce Brooks and Lester Hall of National Bankers Life in Dallas.

FEDERAL FORCE DENOUNCED—Despite difficulties among themselves, pro-segregation representatives pushed through a strongly worded resolution against enforced integration.

By a vote of 112 to 24, House member criticized President Eisenhower's action at Little Rock. It did not, said the resolution, "reflect constitutional government deriving its powers from the consent of the governed."

Further, it asked the President not to send troops to Texas to enforce "modern sociological concepts" or interfere with the constitutional right of the State of Texas to provide, operate, and discipline the public schools of Texas.

Difficulty came with Rep. Joe Pool's efforts to push through demand-to-the-governor resolution. Pool's proposal would call on Gov. Price Daniel to say a word when he will open the legislature for segregation bills.

Many East Texans joined in the postponement move, thus indicating they had faith in the governor's intentions.

MARRIAGE OF MANY—Local control proposals are going through the "agonizing reappraisal" stage.

Eight widely varying bills—four in the House, four in Senate, were sent off to subcommittees. Each sub-group is to make a four-way marriage of the proposed bills in the hope of arriving at something that will be acceptable to all.

Some points of difference: whether "controls" should apply only during sessions or year around, only in Austin or any where in state, whether public officials should be exempted from church spokesmen, etc. Each speaker contents the rival bill have "loopholes."

A new proposal by Sen. Henry B. Gonzalez of San Antonio that the law should provide for a special enforcement agency. It would be a "disclosure board" which information on who is lobbying for whom and how much it being spent would be filed.

MUD-YS ROAD—Proponents of a statewide water planning bill are having slow going too.

They're having to slog through waters muddied by scores of amendments and objections from various area groups who fear a overall state plan might short change them.

House members have to struggle with two different bills and 35 proposed amendments. Rep. W. A. Stroman of San Angelo introduced a substitute which cuts out the provision for the state to buy storage space in federal reservoirs. It also would require the water planners to report to the Legislature in 1959 and would not allow the Water Board to have final say on a state plan.

Balloting in next Tuesday's constitutional amendment election may have an effect on legislative efforts. In their vote on the proposed $200,000,000 water bond issue, Texans will indicate just how strong they are on statewide water programs.

Governor Daniel told the Senate committee he would not want to see the whole water planning bill ditched because of the storage buying feature. But he didn't want to "suggest you drop it."

"MURDER CAPITAL" CITED—Crime study and state practices act—the two other items in the governor's special session call—are generating less legislative talk.

A House hearing on the crime study bill brought strong pleas for better law enforcement from Houston civic leaders. Houston (109 murders last year) has been called the "murder capital of the

Sen. A. M. Aikin has introduced in the Senate the bill to regulate legal practice before state agencies. A similar bill already is in the House mill.

The Sandhills Philosopher

Are Red Farmers As Happy As Bosses Over Sputnik?

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm reviews the satellite situation once more, with a different slant, his letter this week reveals.

Dear Editor:

You may think I'm in a rut writing about the Russian satellite for the third week in a row and I may be, although if I am I got there on my own without the help of the Russians and any way I don't mind, being in a rut is a lot safer than being on most highways I know about, but I have been thinking some more and have come to the conclusion the reason the Russians were in a hurry to get that satellite up into space was to take the Russian farmers' minds off their share of the earth.

Now I don't know anything about the Russian farmers personally, but I have an idea the average farmer over there, working the land for the government and being told how many hours a day he has to work and how much of his crop he can keep, had just as soon believe the earth is flat and own some of it, than to work for the state and conquer space.

Kruschev may chortle when that satellite goes hurtling around the globe, but I imagine a Russian farmer, looking up in the twilight from his job of milking a government cow, would enjoy the sight of Sputnik more if the cream went to him instead of Moscow.

Understand, I'm in favor of the United States getting on a little faster with its guided missile program, and I have an idea it will, now that Washington has heard from the folks at home, but I'd like to point out that science is not the complete answer. The man who thought up the idea of a system that allows me to own a piece of land out here and I've on it like I please, with nobody able to take it away from me as long as I pay the taxes, well, he was a pretty smart man, but he wasn't a scientist.

Science makes freedom more fun, but science without freedom is like a penitentiary with air-conditioning—it's still a penitentiary.

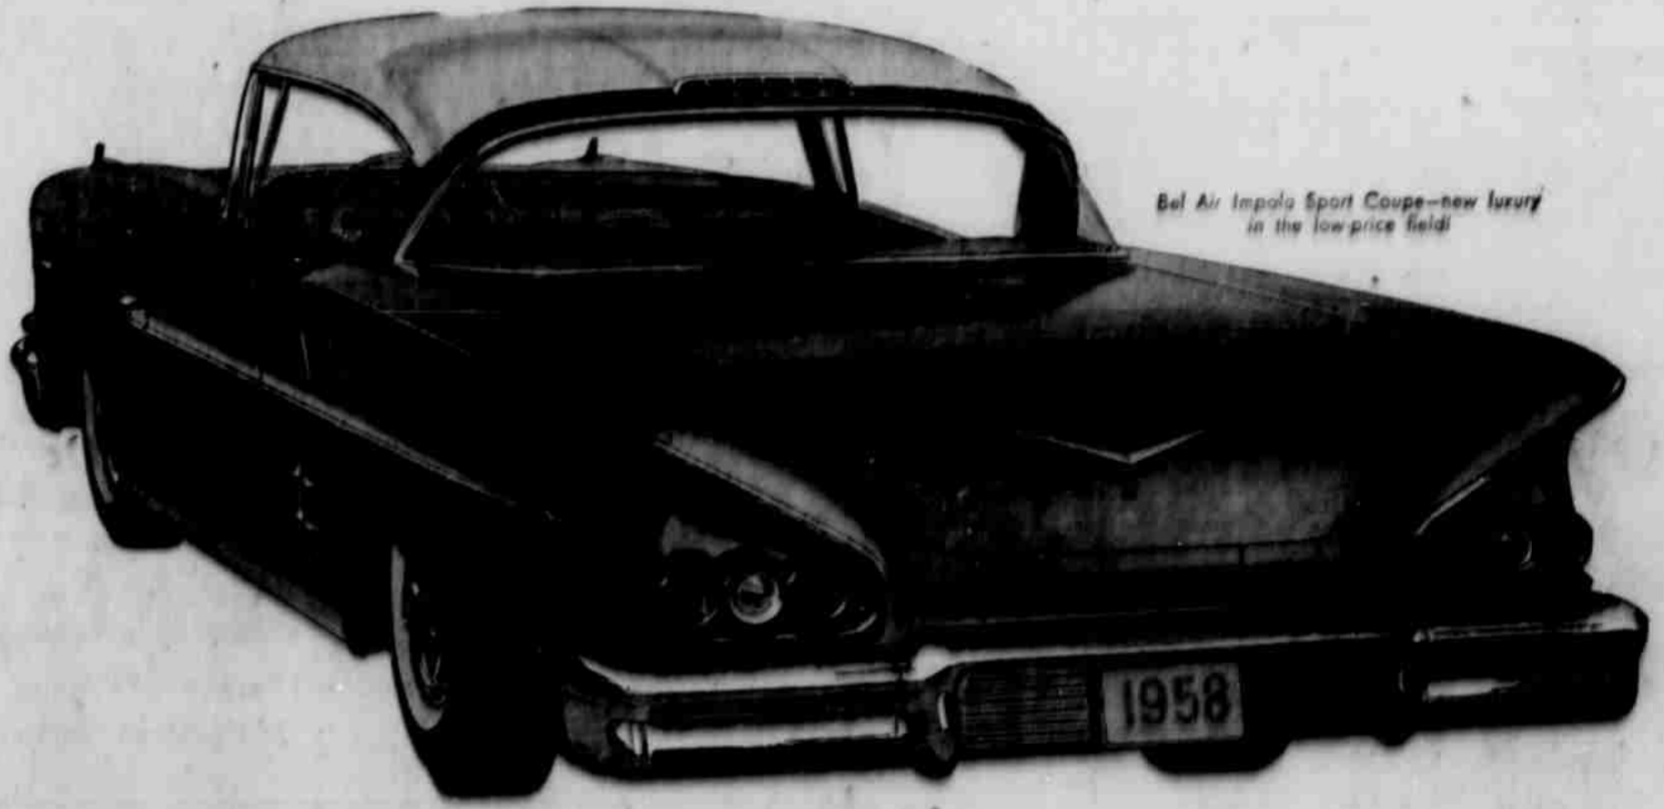

I wouldn't swap my farm for a dozen satellites, but I have an idea there are a good many Russian farmers who'd swap all the Sputniks the Communists can launch for one little piece of land they could call their own. But they needn't be looking to me. This Johnson grass farm out here is not for sale or trade.

Yours faithfully,

J. A.

Daniel Asks Voters To OK Water Amendment Nov. 5

AUSTIN—Gov. Price Daniel today urged all eligible Texans to go to the polls on Nov. 5 and vote for the water development amendment, which is Proposal Number 3 on the ballot.

"The urgent need of dams and reservoirs in the state is evident to everyone," Daniel stated. "Proposal Number 3 will make possible such projects. It is a self-financing plan and the water amendment does not call for an additional tax."

Daniel pointed out that all of the state's public officials are backing the proposal. "Furthermore the amendment has been endorsed by a multitude of state associations and other organizations, manufacturers and chambers of commerce."

Actively supporting the water amendment are the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, West Texas Chamber of Commerce, South Texas Chamber of Commerce, Rio Grande Valley Chamber of Commerce, the AFL-CIO, and the Texas Manufacturers Association.

"Here is Texas' opportunity of a lifetime," the governor added. "Here at our finger tips is a potential $600,000,000 for water projects to be paid out of revenues."

Texas' chief executive also cited the flood damages and the tremendous loss of lives and property that have resulted from uncontrolled waters.

"Why should Texans continue to suffer millions of dollars in property damage every year? Why should good water that can be used by citizens, by industries and by agriculture be allowed to flow unrestricted off our rich land and on into the Gulf of Mexico?"

"The recreational advantages that would follow the addition of more lakes and reservoirs naturally will be of interest to hunting and fishing enthusiasts as well as those who enjoy boating and other outdoor sports, but most important to the State are the financial aspects of the program. And they are vitally important," Daniel stated.

Then, as if to answer all questions, he summed up his remarks with the statement that "the water development amendment, which is third on the Nov. 5 ballot, is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for Texas and all Texans to have what is greatly needed and without taxes. For this is a self-financing program that not only will pay itself out, but eventually may mean millions of dollars in revenue to the state."

While discussing the water amendment the Governor also tossed in his recommendations of the other two proposals appearing on the Nov. 5 ballot.

"It is my sincere hope," he concluded, "that Texas voters also will approve the two other proposals—the old age pension increase and the state employees retirement plan."

Daniel will make a statewide TV and radio broadcast on the night of Nov. 4 in support of all three amendments.

He will make a special broadcast to the aged citizens of Texas, in behalf of the old age pension measure on Friday afternoon, Nov. 1, and will urge all to go to the polls and cast their votes for all three amendments.

SS Benefits To Be Told Here Nov. 7

Do you know which members of your family would be eligible for social security benefits if anything should happen to you?

John G. Hutton, district manager of the Lubbock social security office, said that many questions received in the office indicate that workers and their families do not understand survivors benefits provided in the social security law. Consequently, families may lose benefits in the event of the death of the worker.

The law now permits widows to draw monthly benefits at age 62. Widows who are younger may draw monthly benefits if they have in their care a child of the deceased worker who is entitled to benefits.

Hutton said most people know that a child of a deceased worker is entitled to benefits until age 18. Many people, however, are not aware that a disabled son or daughter over 18 may now qualify for a child's benefit if the disability began before age 18. Under certain circumstances a widower who was dependent on his wife may qualify for monthly benefits. Dependent parents may qualify if the worker was not survived by a spouse or a child entitled to monthly benefits.

Hutton pointed out that in almost every case a lump-sum death benefit can be paid to survivors. This payment is in addition to any monthly benefits the family may get. He emphasized that benefits are not paid automatically; families must make application for them.

The social security office recommends that every worker find out what payments may be due his family in the event of his death. Workers need this information to plan effectively for the financial security of their families. A representative of the office will be in Littlefield Nov. 7, at 9:30 a.m. in the Courtroom, and will be glad to assist in all matters pertaining to Social Security.

First In A Series

Water Resources Have Been Developed In Texas On A Local Pressure Basis

Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of six articles prepared by the Texas Society of Professional Engineers on Texas' water problems and what may be done about them.

Texas water resources have been developed in the past on a demand basis.

That is to say, development has followed local pressure to meet current needs or to boost property values or stimulate trade. It has rarely run ahead of that pressure.

So observes the Texas Society of Professional Engineers' Water Committee in the first of a series of articles on the state's water problems.

Texas' first water works, writes the TSPE committee, date back beyond 1540, when Coronado found Indians operating full-fledged irrigation systems in the El Paso area. Franciscan priests built diversion structures (primarily canals) in San Antonio in 1716. As the town grew, the Mexican governor ordered a central supply system.

So the diversions from streams continued for domestic uses in other areas—and grew as more know-how was introduced on use of water for milling and larger-scale irrigation.

Rights to use stream waters were included in land grants along natural watercourses during the Spanish, Mexican, and Republic of Texas periods.

Problems and conflicts inevitably began to arise.

Soon after Texas emerged as a state, its legislature passed the first laws to regulate—and sometimes encourage—use of water. Among the earliest acts: chartering of the Colorado Navigation Company to clear a channel along the Colorado River to the Gulf for steamboat navigation, and the 1852 irrigation property act permitting development of water resources by private enterprise under state supervision.

Water laws of Texas generally have been developed because of needs demonstrated during periods of drought.

So the present State Board of Water Engineers was born in 1913 after the 1909-1912 dry years.

From 1913 forward, appropriations of public waters could be made only for beneficial use and on permit from the water board. The agency was designated as administrator for Texas water laws and has remained as such.

Actual collection of factual data on stream flows was launched with birth of the water board. Flow information since obtained has been used for design of irrigation projects, flood control structures, city water supply systems, highway and railroad bridge and embankment construction, hydroelectric plants, steam power plants, dams, reservoir capacities and in the formation of compacts between Texas and engineering states for sharing of waters of the Rio Grande, Pecos, Canadian and Sabine rivers.

Since the amount of silt carried by streams may materially affect feasibility of any project, the board launched silt sampling studies more than 30 years ago.

State studies of irrigation water needed for crops began in 1915.

Extent and location of ground water supplies is the subject of another long-running study. Since its beginning, the board has granted more than 2,000 permits for use of state waters—ranging from two or three acre feet a year to over a million acre feet for others.

Another duty of the board in recent years is approval of plans for water control and improvement district projects—ranging from rural irrigation systems to city water works.

About 20 topographic maps—valuable in judging feasibility of proposed reservoir sites—were provided by the State between 1924 and 1926. The state master plan now being proposed before the legislature would provide further outlays for topographic mapping.

The board has been making quality of water studies since 1937, maintaining 30 sampling stations.

To insure uniformity of results, mapping and stream gauging studies were performed through the water board. Ground water and quality of water studies were done in cooperation with the U. S. Geological Survey.

Washington News Letter:

In two world wars we have paid a high price for the complacency which preceded them. Are we about to pay an even higher price a third time?

That is the life or death question that our top political and military leaders are pondering this week in Washington. Our survival as a nation and your own personal survival could hinge on the answer.

Russian scientists have placed in the hands of the Communist dictators the intercontinental missile which we, at the present time, can neither defend against nor match in retaliation.

It no longer needs to be a military secret that we had ample warning of this as far back as 1948. I can now report from personal knowledge that story for publication.

It is a shocking story that lays bare the smug complacency that lulled us into a false and dangerous sense of unwarranted security. This is the story. Names are withheld to protect, even now, those who took part in one of the most daring and successful espionage efforts of our time.

Shortly after the end of World War II a well-known manufacturer of planes for our military went to Germany to talk some of the scientists who had worked on jet planes and missiles for Hitler.

Two of Germany's best scientists in that field returned with him to work on the development of similar projects in this country. There was no question, after two years, of their loyalty to America.

They volunteered to go behind the Iron Curtain to find out what Russia was doing. Our officials knew and approved of the plan. The two returned to Germany and soon were "imported" by Russia to work with other German and Russian scientists.

The fact that they had worked in the United States was not known to the Russians. For six months they probed the secrets of Russian progress in the science of military weapon development.

Then, one day in 1948, they slipped back into Berlin. A friend, not knowing of their work in Russia, jokingly remarked to them that he had heard that Russian agents were looking for two "escaped German scientists."

"Could they, he asked, be you? It could, they conceded. So, without going back to their hotel, they headed directly for the airport and were whisked out of Germany and back to the United States.

Their report was the most comprehensive and reliable we had had from back of the Iron Curtain. It included a statement that, even then, Russia had jet planes that were much faster than ours. I mentioned this in a news letter to business friends in 1948. They scoffed at the idea. It was absurd, they argued, to believe that a nation dominated by Communists could match the unfettered genius of scientists under our democratic, free enterprise system.

And so the report went unheeded.

The two scientists went back to work for the U.S. aviation firm. Then, three years later, Chinese pilots in Russian Migs demonstrated in Korea that Russia did have faster jets than we.

Later, President Truman announced that it would take Russia two years to perfect an atomic bomb, but a few weeks later Russia exploded one. Now comes the 5000 mile Inter-Continental Ballistic Missile followed by Sputnik. It does not pay to underestimate one's enemy.

Now that we have been shaken out of some of our complacency isn't it time for a crash program in an effort to catch up?

58 FORD
COMING
NOV. 7

Nothing newer!

AROUND THE WORLD

The 58 Ford has been proved around the world. This is the most dramatic and most grueling test ever given a new car before its public announcement.

The whole world was used as a test track for the 58 Ford. The car drove through England, France, Switzerland, Italy, Yugoslavia, Greece, Turkey, Iran, Afghanistan, Pakistan, India, Malaya, Thailand, Cambodia, Vietnam, and finally back to the place it started—Detroit, Michigan, U.S.A.

The Ford powered over the great mountain ranges of three continents: from the Alps to the Himalayas and the Rockies. It crossed the great rivers of history: the Thames, the Seine, the Tiber, the Arno, the Tigris, the Euphrates, the Indus, the Ganges.

This car stood at Buckingham Palace, rolled up the Champs Elysees to the Arc de Triomphe, and paused at the Eiffel Tower. It was greeted by the great Paris couturiers at the famous fashion salons where its "sculptured in steel" styling was applauded by the most style-conscious audiences in the world.

The 58 Ford rode smoothly down the rugged, beautiful seacoast of Tito's country, to a festival in Dubrovnik, and into Greece to Athens, where this newest classic met such ancient classics as the Parthenon and the Temple of Poseidon.

Into Turkey: and the 58 Ford passed the great white lacework palaces of the Sultans along the Bosphorus and the Golden Horn. Then the Ford went where few but nomads travel, up into the hot days and chill nights of the ancient mountains of Afghanistan. And thence along the route Alexander the Great followed with his chariots to cross the historic Indus river.

On and on the Ford moved, down into the heat of mysterious India, through New Delhi to the Taj Mahal, and to the great pink palace of the Maharajah of Jaipur.

This great new car met the challenge of the monsoons—rains that for centuries have stopped all road movement throughout Indo-China, but didn't stop the 58 Ford. It drove on to Penang in Malaya, and then north to Bangkok.

Further on came Saigon, the Paris of the Orient, at the farthest tip of Southeast Asia. Finally, it powered across the great Rockies and plains of North America and back, at long last, to Detroit, Michigan.

The 58 Ford . . . has been proved and approved around the world. A natural question arises. Why did Ford go to such great lengths with its 1958 model? Why spend so much money and time and go through all the problems of negotiations, customs, border transit, diplomacy in so many countries?

The answer: in the competitive automobile market of today, only the best in all-around value can survive. And this round-the-world test is the most decisive possible demonstration of the best.

The 1958 Ford is value: hard-dollar value. It is also style, power, performance, and a dozen great new features. But above all, it is value.

This is the car you've been waiting for. See it November 7—there's nothing newer in the world than the 58 Ford!
