PARENTS OF LOCAL MAN LOSE LIVES ENROUTE HERE

ARE KILLED IN TRUCK ACCIDENT TUES. MORNING

Were On Surprise Visit To Witness Graduation Of Grandsons

Enroute to Littlefield Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Latimer, Sr., of Joaquin, Shelby county, parents of Eugene Latimer of this city, lost their lives in a truck crash near Dallas early Tuesday morning.

Riding in Lumber Truck

A lumber truck in which they were travelling across Texas, said to be driven by D. I. Edison, 38, of Center, and a truck loaded with gasoline, reported to be driven by J. R. Berry of Dallas, collided at Northwest Highway and Lemmon. Mr. Edison, who is a personal friend of Mr. and Mrs. Latimer, said to be connected with the Harris Lumber company of Center, makes regular trips to this section. He was making a trip to the plains with lumber, and Mr. and Mrs. Latimer were taking advantage of the ride to pay a surprise visit to their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Latimer, and witness the graduation from the local high school on May 22 of their grandsons, Harold and Howard Latimer.

Mr. Latimer, 65, was crushed to death, and his wife, 56, died before an ambulance could arrive.

Notified by Telephone

Their son, Eugene Latimer, Jr., was notified by telephone early Tuesday and he and Mrs. Latimer left immediately for the scene of the accident.

Mr. Latimer was a trucker at Center, Shelby county.

Reports indicate that as Edison drove up to the intersection from the east, Mr. Berry was driving the convey truck south along Lemmon road. The impact from the collision jarred loose the lumber load, and scattered timber 50 feet along the

FARMERS URGED TO COOPERATE FULLEST EXTENT

$906,000 In Conservation Payments; $514,000 Parity Payments

Farmers of Lamb county are in a position to earn approximately $1,420,000 in AAA benefit payments by participating to the fullest possible extent in the 1939 farm program.

About $906,000 of this amount is offered in "conservation" payments, designed to reward farmers for soil conservation accomplished through adjustment of soil-depleting acreage, and for carrying out approved soil-building practices such as terracing, strip cropping, seeding legumes, establishing pastures and planting green manure crops and cover crops.

The other $514,000 of the estimated total for the county, is the maximum amount that can be derived through "parity" or "price adjustment" payments on cotton and wheat. The parity payment is so named because it is designed, as near as possible with the funds available, to make up the difference between the market price and the parity price of the given crop.

These two sets of payments are calculated according to two slightly different sets of rules.

W. O. Rieger, secretary of the Lamb County Agricultural Conservation committee, makes the following explanation of how these payments are made.

Conservation Payments
The conservation payment is 2 cents a pound on cotton, 17 cents a bushel on wheat, and tentatively $1.10 an acre, adjusted up or down according to the farm's productivity index, on general crops.

The rates on cotton and wheat apply to the normal yield of the farm's cotton or wheat allotment,

REGULATION IS CORRECTED FOR STRIP CROPPING

Notice Received This Week By County Agent, V. F. Jones

Notice of correction on the regulation relative to strip cropping has been received in the county office, according to V. F. Jones, county agent.

Information has been given out that the farmer who wanted to strip crop with fallow or soil conserving crops must have as many as four rows of soil depleting with four rows of soil building or fallow, in cases where the rows were less than forty two inches.

According to the correction it is not necessary to have four rows of soil depleting crops. From one to any number of rows may be planted so long as the fallow or soil building strip is four rows wide or if 42 inch rows, 3 rows wide. The acreage will count depleting according to the area occupied by the depleting row. For example if a man plants 2 rows to feed or cotton (soil depleting acres) and skips 4 rows, the acreage covered by this practice will count as one-third feed or cotton (soil depleting) and two-thirds fallow.

Super Highways At No Cost

The President has sent to Congress his approval of the plan of the Bureau of Roads for a system of "superhighways" traversing the entire nation, north and south and from coast to coast.

There is little question of the desirability of more and better long-distance motor roads, and there is the added appeal of the War Department that much better east-and-west transportation facilities would be needed in case of war.

The most interesting thing about the President's proposal, however, is the method he suggests to pay for more than 14,000 miles of new roads. He advocates the "excess condemnation" system of land appropriation, which works successfully in Europe but which is not used in this country.

Instead of taking for highway use merely a strip wide enough for the new road, the plan would call for purchasing a much wider strip, perhaps a thousand feet or more, which could be resold for a variety of uses after the new roads were in operation.

This method of turning back lots and farm lands into highway frontage of much greater value has heretofore worked solely to the benefit of individual property owners. It is in the nature of a gift from the government.

Perhaps the outstanding example of the excess-condemnation method was the construction of a broad highway through the heart of the city of London, before the World war. To build a street 150 feet wide the city took a strip a thousand feet wide. What had been back yards became front lots on a fine new street.

It is a general practice in America for state and local governments to pay very much more than the property is worth when a new road is projected. If the Federal government could buy land for the new highways at its actual value, and resell the frontage for filling stations, tourist camps, hotels or other purposes, it might be possible to build the new road system at little or no expense to the taxpayers.

The New York Fair

New York City, the metropolis of superlatives in the way of skyscrapers, wealth, population and other elements of bigness, has opened its World's Fair which in size and cost eclipses all other expositions of its kind. The fair, costing $160,000,000, is expected to draw 50,000,000 visitors and $1,000,000,000 to its city by closing time, October 31.

It is, moreover, a symbol of the huge size of this country and of its resources. Significantly, because of the burden of armaments on others, the United States is the only nation today which can afford two World's Fairs, costing $50,000,000 and $160,000,000; it is the only country which stands apart as a champion of peace and friendly international relations.

The theme of the New York Fair — the World of Tomorrow — which gives it uniqueness is epitomized in a model Democracy which is housed in the largest globe ever built by human beings. In this exhibit there is laid out the imagined city of the future, based on careful calculations of skillful engineers and scientists. Such a prophetic display is founded upon faith in a better world in the future and the capacity of people to achieve it. If all the people of Europe could see the New York Fair, the course of history might be changed.

Howdy Folks:

Once again, a couple of million young men and women, are getting ready to don their caps and gowns, and step out into the world, or advance to higher institutions of learning. It is customary for editors to issue a lot of warnings and similar bologna, to the forward-marching youth. I shall waive this prerogative because I don't feel that they are facing one hundredth part of the difficulties and dangers that confronted you and I, way back there, when high class bookkeepers were raising respectable families on $12 a week.

I hope that some day, there will be established a Hall of Fame for the great Servants who have lived and died for us. How dear to us are the memories of the old-time darkies who worshipped their masters with every breath in their dark bodies; the stories of oriental servants who devote their lives to the well-being of those whom they serve — fill us with respect and admiration, and quite frequently, we hear of a noble servant completing a life-time of service and devotion, by leaving her all to those to whom she gave her entire life.

There is a nobility of service which transcends the blue blood of heritage. Do you remember Marie Dressler in the part of a housekeeper for a scientist? I think the play was called "Emma." As I read the account of Miss Boord's legacy, I wondered whether the author of "Emma" did not get his inspiration from a real-life character like Willa Boord.

I quote the following editorial comment by Frank Parker Stockbridge because it expresses very neatly, my own thoughts on the prospect of peace:

"I am convinced that there will never be peace among nations so long as one race or group of people regards itself as superior to all other peoples, and so considers it has the right to take whatever it wants that the inferior peoples have."

"No nation has a perfect record in that respect. We Americans, because our skins are white, have assumed superior rights over the Indians from the beginning. We enforced them because we had better weapons. The history of the world is that of nations believing sincerely in their own superiority, exploiting peoples whom they regarded as inferior."

"The followers of Mohammed believed and still believe that they are superior to all other peoples. They conquered Spain and held it for 700 years, and all but conquered the rest of Europe, nearly capturing Vienna in 1683."

"The Japanese believe that they are the only people whose ruler is an actual Son of God, and therefore they are superior to all other peoples. How can there be peace when there are great nations holding themselves to be better than others?"

A hospital in Reading, Pennsylvania, has popularized the idea of donating a day's hospital expense in place of flowers, candy or books. The patient receives a card which reads something like this: "Today you are my guest at the Reading hospital and I wish for you a speedy convalescence and recovery."

The card is furnished by the hospital and signed by the friend who donates the very practical remembrance.

THIRTEENTH INSTALLMENT
SYNOPSIS
 When the wealthy foster parents Marjorie Wetherill both die she receives a letter telling that she has a sister, that she was adopted by her own parents couldn't afford to support both of them and her real name is Dorothy Gay. In the world, but with a fortune of her own, she considers looking up her own family whom she never seen. A neighbor, Evan, tries to argue her out of it and tells her he loves her and wants to marry her. She promises to think it over but decides to see her family. She goes to their address, finds that they are destitute and gradually persuades them to accept things they need. The doctor calls to see her and she notices that he seems particularly interested in her sister. Marjorie goes to church in Brentwood where her family used to live, becomes very much interested in the young minister there. While Brentwood she sees the home her father formerly owned, buys it back and gives the deed to it to her father on Christmas morning. The whole family is very joyful.

Evan Brower finally finds Marjorie, she has lunch with him, refuses to marry him and clearly shows that she is interested in the minister and doesn't approve of Evan's views on religion.

"Father, I don't mind," said Marjorie. "There isn't a soul among my old friends that I would actually break my heart about if I didn't see them any more ever."

There was a choking in her voice and her father reached out his hand as she sat on a low footstool by her mother's side and laid it on her head tenderly.

packing or anything. But I did want to get the Brentwood house cleaned and you moved into it. I would hate to miss that."

The father's face softened and then grew reserved.

"Well, that's another thing, again, dear. We don't want to do anything about that, mother and I, until this other matter is settled."

The next morning after the breakfast work was done Marjorie wrote to the servants. She would be at home two days after New Year's. Then she had a talk with Betty.

"You and I should go shopping," she said. "I want to watch you buy Betty flushed proudly and her eyes sparkled.

"We want you to be truly happy, and to have no regrets if you should decide to come and live with us. What we want is for you to go back to Chicago for a time and think the whole matter over. Will you do that?"

Marjorie was still a long time and then she looked up sadly.

"Yes, I'll do it if you will do the same thing. If you will honestly talk it all over with the other children, and decide whether you want me or not."

Her father looked at her mother, and they smiled tenderly over her bowed head.

"All right!" said her father, "we'll agree if you will."

Marjorie's face brightened.

"Well, then I'd better get it over as quickly as possible. I've got to go back of course and see to things. I came away without closing up or some pretty things for yourself, and there are things the children ought to have."

Betty, nothing loath, consented. So they went shopping. They had a lovely time and bought a lot of fascinating things. Betty said it was Christmas all over again. She looked very pretty as she waited for Marjorie who had gone to another part of the store.

Just then a long, lank, sallow youth with a dare-devil in his eye, and a loose handsome mouth, brought up standing before Betty and gave her a long admiring stare.

"Well, some baby-doll!" he exclaimed. "Am I seeing aright? Is this my one-time co-laborer in Old Jamison's musty office, or is it some millionaire's daughter?"

It was Ellery Aiken, who had been in the office where Betty worked before her mother was taken sick. It was he to whom Ted had referred as a "poor sap."

He grasped her hand in a long lingering clasp that expressed as much as the languishing look in his bold eyes.

Betty was delighted. Here was a chance to impress the young man who hadn't taken the trouble to come and see her after she moved. She had never been quite sure that Ted had not had something to do with that.

But now here he was and taking in her changed appearance.

She lifted her chin proudly and smiled, and he let his eyes linger on her pretty face with that intimate glance that all the girls usually fell for. A kind of triumph filled Betty's heart. She hadn't lost her power over him yet.

"Well, beautiful, you're lovelier than ever. Where did you get the glad rags? Struck oil or something?" His eyes roved boldly over her garments as if he had a right.

"How about a date, Baby?" he asked. "Got anything doing tonight or tomorrow night? How'd you like to go the round with me? Little supper, dance, and go to rounds of the night clubs? Like to show you something real?"

Betty flushed proudly and her eyes sparkled. Ellery had never asked her out before.

"Thanks, that's kind of you," she answered trying to feign an indifference she did not feel. It was going to her head to have attention. Two young men in one week, even if one had taken her to church.

Of the two dates she preferred the night clubs.

"Night clubs!" said Marjorie in a dismay she could not keep out of her voice. "Oh, my dear! Do you go to night clubs?"

"I've never been, but I've always been crazy to see one. Why? Don't you like them?" She almost glared at Marjorie. Was Marjorie going to high-hat her now when she had been so pleased that she had a social advantage to offer her?

"I've never been to a night club of course, but I don't think I would care to go," she said gently.

"But if you're never been how do you know you don't like them?"

"Why, I shouldn't care to go among people who are drinking," said Marjorie with a troubled look at her pretty sister.

"Drinking! Why, for pity's sake you wouldn't have to drink if you didn't want to, would you? And anyway, everybody drinks in society today. It isn't courteous not to drink, I've heard."

"Everybody doesn't drink, Betty, not in the society I know."

"For pity's sake, and I've been envying you all the chances you've had to see life."

"But I don't believe that's life, Betty," said Marjorie thoughtfully. "The people I've seen who go to

There's a difference in Gasolines, too

All dogs look alike to me, says the man who doesn't know much about them. All gasolines are the same, says the motorist who brags that he doesn't know anything about a car except how to drive it.

But those who love animals know that one dog may be a frisky bundle of steel and rubber, while another is sad-eyed and drowsy.

Experienced drivers soon discover similar differences between low test gasoline and high test Phillips 66 Poly Gas. This modern motor fuel demonstrates in your car, because every gallon contains the extra energy added by the scientific POLYmerization process.

You pay nothing extra. You get extra power and more mileage. And this plus performance is protected against change in weather, because Phillips 66 Poly Gas is more accurately customized, all year round, to the month by month changes in your climate.

Phill-up with Phillips for Greater Mileage

Of course the Doctor was much higher class than Ellery, who was only a subordinate with a very small salary, but she had always secretly yearned to see a real night club, and she had heard Ellery boast of his intimate acquaintance with them. "I don't just know what free time I shall have the next few days," she said casually. "My twin sister is visiting us. I wouldn't feel like leaving her."

"Twin sister?" said the young man, deeply impressed. "Lead me to her! Is she as pretty as you are, Baby?"

"People say we are alike," said Betty with a toss of her head.

"All right, bring her along," said the Lochinvar graciously. "Be delighted to entertain you both. Just phone me at the office and name the night and I'll be ready to go."

"Well, I'll talk to my sister," said Betty, flattered as she could be. Poor Betty had been bitter that she could not have nice things and go out like other girls.

Marjorie was longer being waited on than she had expected, and young Ellery's lunch hour was over-past, so he left a minute or two before Marjorie arrived.

"You just missed meeting an old friend of mine," said Betty.

"Oh, I'm sorry. Who was it?"

"Oh, just a fellow that worked in the same office with me on my last job. Maybe you wouldn't have thought much of him, but he's awfully good-looking. He's asked us to go out with him some evening this week. I told him you were here and he's crazy to meet you. Would you like to go? His name's Ellery Aiken."

Marjorie had a sudden memory of Ted saying "he's a poor sap from the office where she used to work." Could this be the same one?

"Why, that's very kind of him," she faltered. What should she do? "Where is he going to take us?"

"Why, he'll take us somewhere to supper and then the round of the night clubs," said Betty enthusiastically.

"Night clubs!" said Marjorie in a dismay she could not keep out of her voice. "Oh, my dear! Do you go to night clubs?"

"I've never been, but I've always been crazy to see one. Why? Don't you like them?" She almost glared at Marjorie. Was Marjorie going to high-hat her now when she had been so pleased that she had a social advantage to offer her?

"I've never been to a night club of course, but I don't think I would care to go," she said gently.

"But if you're never been how do you know you don't like them?"

"Why, I shouldn't care to go among people who are drinking," said Marjorie with a troubled look at her pretty sister.

"Drinking! Why, for pity's sake you wouldn't have to drink if you didn't want to, would you? And anyway, everybody drinks in society today. It isn't courteous not to drink, I've heard."

"Everybody doesn't drink, Betty, not in the society I know."

"For pity's sake, and I've been envying you all the chances you've had to see life."

"But I don't believe that's life, Betty," said Marjorie thoughtfully. "The people I've seen who go to for that sort of thing look to me more as if they'd been seeing death than life. It always fills me full of horror to see people under the influence of liquor."

"Oh, I don't mean really drunk," said Betty glibly. "people don't need to drink too much."

"Don't they? I wonder why so many of them do, then?"

"Oh, you don't see so many drunk! They're only a little gay. They say a little drink or two makes you bright and interesting."

"It makes people utterly silly," said Marjorie, "and entirely disgusting. I've seen girls coming home from parties, sometimes in the public railroad station, acting like fools."

"Then you won't go?" said Betty vexedly.

"No, Betty, I couldn't. I wouldn't feel at home in a night club."

"I didn't know you was strait-laced."

"Is that strait-laced? I thought it was only a kind of refinement. Just plain decency."

"Well, I'm sure most young people do those things today. All except fanatical people. Religious cranks, you know."

"I guess a good many do," said Marjorie, "but I don't like such things. I can't help it."

"Oh, heavens! You sound just for all the world like Ted!" said Betty almost angrily. "Here I thought I had something nice, to show you a good time, and you've spoiled it all."

"I'm sorry, Betty, but I couldn't help it. I couldn't go to places like that. I just wouldn't belong. I wouldn't feel it was the right thing."

Betty sulked almost all the way home, with stormy eyes averted, looking out the other side of the taxi. At last as they were nearing home Marjorie said sadly:

"Well, now I suppose you won't want me to come back and live with you, since you've found out I don't agree with you on the way to have a good time."

"Oh, forget it!" said Betty unhappily.

That night before they went to sleep she had the grace to apologize to Marjorie for being disagreeable after Marjorie had got her so many lovely things.

But Marjorie lay wakeful through several hours, and in her heart began to pray for her sister, the first prayer she had ever made for anybody else.

How she would like to talk it over will enable us to buy appliances and equipment, so one piece of constructive work makes the circle over and over again.

"Farm to market hard surfaced roads, as well as many state and nation highways, has helped the farmers as well as others.

"The Texas Agricultural association has done its part through the leadership of its present president, 'Cliff Day,' formerly of one of our neighboring counties to further all the good things that the farmer is now enjoying. Imagine three horses running a race, one named 'organized industry,' one 'organized labor,' the other 'individualism,' how would you expect the race to end? They are winning in the manner mentioned. The one named individualism was of course, the farmer riding a snail."

"The following manner is how the $2 per year membership fee is used:

"Community agricultural association, 20 cents; County Agricultural association, 30 cents; Texas Agricultural association, 50 cents; Subscription to Farmer's Banner, 1 year, 50 cents; American Farm Bureau federation, including subscription to Nation's Agriculture, 50 cents.

"We are aware of other walks in life being organized, and give you below some comments made by Clyde Hilbun, president of the First National bank, Littlefield:

"Co-operation is just a little brother or sister to the more familiar word 'organization,' because the two are so closely allied and linked, that it often takes microscopic examination to tell one from the other.

"And the result — because, after all, what we all seek and ask for is the result, be it from planting cotton, raising hogs and chickens, the number of bales we are able to gather and sell, or the number of chickens and what they produce, and the hog who is properly fed and properly bred, produces twice as much and twice as fast.

"Yes sir, the raising of a hog is a co-operative enterprise — it takes co-operation between the hog and the farmer to get results — the farmer must plan and feed, but in turn the hog must do the eating — if either one fails to do his part, you know the result.

"But results of Co-operation are what you are seeking maybe in a larger way. Well the most recent example of the good that can come from real co-operation is the fact that right now, here in Lamb county about 2,700 farmers who have co-operated with the federal government are cashing checks at the different banks of the county for almost one million dollars, $925,000 to be exact — and just a year before, when only about one-third so many co-operated the amount of those checks was reduced to something like $290,000, and the cotton surplus was further increased.

"Every single worthwhile thing which we have in this country is secured by co-operation — Co-operatively we elect our officials, build our highways, brought rural free mail delivery, builds automobiles.

"A carpenter can build a house but it takes the cooperation of the plumber, painter, electrician, the craftsman, and even often the banker to make that house possible.

"The present and future outlook for cotton would indeed be dark, were it not for the fact that cotton farmers are beginning not only to believe implicitly in co-operation, but are preaching that theory among their neighbors and friends. And there is no problem on the face of the earth including the cotton problem that cannot be solved, and solved rightly if the men, all of them who produce it, agree to co-operate in a good and sensible program, and then keep that promise.

"It is possible, entirely probable that many changes are yet to be made in the Farm program, but each of them which is to be successful is going to require not less, but more co-operation.

"And no plan is a failure, co-operatively until it is proven so, and the failure of all to co-operate is the thing that makes it fail — and the desire to co-operate unselfishly, is the thing which is most likely to make it succeed.

"Even a banker, and the bank he operates is a co-operative institution. When the banker, the borrower or the lender do not co-operate — when either one of the three refuses to co-operate, sooner or later that bank is likely to pass into other hands — and the borrower and the lender will go down along with him and it.

"It takes co-operation to make anything go right. Co-operation is team work, whether between two or two millions.

"Co-operation more than anything else won the world war, and if another comes in the future, co-operation will likely be the winner of it.

"Marriage, family and children, the home — they're the greatest co-operative enterprises in the world.

"Practice co-operation — study co-operation — preach and teach co-operation, and strive for the best in co-operative thought and enterprise — if farmers will do that — yes until they do that very thing, sensibly and sanely — the farmers problem of over-production, under consumption, low prices and kindred hardships, can never be solved.

"And let's build co-operative societies to weed out the bad — to build up the good — and co-operation can and will do both.

J. C. Hilbun."

"To be sure there are many others, in fact nearly all walks of life are organized. Think this proposition over; talk it to your neighbor, and then may we try to do something about this business. The time may not be far away when we may see the necessity of laying down that rugged individuality and seek more to co-operate.

"Organization and cooperation go hand in hand. Sometime in the very near future you will be called together in a mass meeting for the forming of an association of this kind."

Wishes To Announce

and all working together much can be secured for the farmers of the territory.

In explaining the benefits which would be derived from such an association, Mr. Bowling said:

"Farmers of the Littlefield community joining the county in forming a Texas Agricultural association would mean what to Littlefield?"

"It would mean that we were merely falling in line with most other communities of the county to help, through community organization, solve some of our local problems as well as contribute to the solving of national problems in our small way. Possibly true when said that Littlefield could do very little toward solving national problems.

"But if every community in the nation took that attitude about our business, what would agriculture be today? Are we contributing our small share to the development and growth of the largest industry of the nation? Whether our present farm program be right or wrong there is surely something that can be done that can help, and there is something that is being done by organized farmers that is helping our present administration do more and better things for the farmer.

A Few Things That Have Been Done

"Agriculture was saved from bankruptcy back in 1933 by the raising of farm prices to at least a price to where there was earnings enough to keep us on the land, pay most of our debts and start the wheels of industry to rolling again once more.

"Rural electrification, which not only will help us directly, but indirectly will put the mines to mining ore, (copper) factories to finishing the product, contractors to constructing the projects, men to work that buy our commodities; in the form of food, clothing, etc.

"The selling of more commodities with Gideon Reaver! And then she fell asleep and dreamed that it was Gideon Reaver who had sat across from her at the hotel table and handed her the blue diamond and watched her while she opened the box. Even in her dream a thrill of joy went through her heart.

When she awoke in the morning the first part of the dream was vivid, and the thrill in her heart was there whenever she thought of it, but it was Gideon Reaver's eyes who looked into hers above the blue diamond, and not Evan Brower's eyes, and that troubled her. She must not allow her thoughts to wander off to absurd things like that.

As if Gideon Reaver had any special interest in her, a stranger, to offer her diamonds, and touch her hands with that strange wonderful thrill.

But Betty had slipped down to the store on some pretext a little after nine that morning and telephoned Ellery Aiken in the office. She told him that her sister could not come and therefore she would not be able to. But she had finally let him persuade her that she could come for just a little while.

She came back to the house with a shamefaced look, and worked madly all day doing little extras for everybody, to make up for what she meant to do that evening.

After the dishes were done that night she hurried upstairs and came down in the pretty velvet dress that Marjorie had bought her.

Marjorie looked up surprised. "How lovely you look, dear? Are you going out?"

"Why, yes," said Betty apologetically. "I have to, just a little while." Marjorie looked after her in dismay, her heart sinking. Was she really going out with that young Aiken? Going to night clubs after all? But—who had come for her?

The doorbell hadn't rung. Marjorie slipped into the dark parlor and looked out the window. A shabby little runabout was just pulling away from the door. Betty must have been watching for him out the window and gone down at once.

Meantime Betty was discovering that Ellery was cross at her for not bringing her sister. He wanted to see her. Ellery was great for new girls. Also he sometimes got commissions from men he knew for bringing new attractive girls for the evening, and his exchequer was low just now.

For Large Women

This design (8459) has all the details that large women like and look well in. The paneled skirt, cut high in front, has lengthening slenderizing lines.

Half belt that fasten in the back tend to make the waistline look slim, because it can be made to fit so exactly.

This will be charming in flat crepe, georgette, chiffon or silk print in small, precise designs. And this is a delightfully simple pattern to make; with the step-by-step sew chart, you can turn it out in no time.

Pattern 8217—If you're planning gay week-ends at the seashore or in the country, a play ensemble like this is just as necessary to take as your toothbrush!

The slacks are nice and ample round your ankles, but fit with the proper degree of slimmness at the hips. The bolero has such smart, jaunty lines that you can wear it with your tub frocks, too.

Use denim, gabardine or jersey for the bolero and slacks; printed percale or broadcloth for the topper. (Enclose this coupon-box with your pattern order.)

APPENDICITIS

It is often said, the appendix has no useful purpose to the body at all. That a person can live just as long and enjoy perfect health after it's removal.

PLEASE

... isn't it a fact, a person may have their right arm removed, live just as long and enjoy perfect health after it's removal? But please, isn't it also a fact, that person may find some useful things to do with that right arm before they might die?

So it is with the appendix. The appendix has just as much use to the body as the right arm. I am positive, if this statement should be incorrect, our Maker would not give us something we did not need.

... there is only one thing that causes appendicitis, and that is constipation. Get rid of your constipation and your appendix will take care of itself.

UNTIL

... the appendix has bursted, an operation is not necessary. An operation for appendicitis never did and never will correct a case of constipation.

Very often times, after an operation adhesions grow so large and in such a way they obstruct and interfere with the action of the lower bowels —causing a person to become more constipated than before.

This is written by Dr. Glen Simmons, For your better health, who has successfully treated hundreds of cases of appendicitis and constipation —reducing the swelling of the appendix to it's normal size in from 15 to 45 minutes, advising operations only when the appendix has already bursted.

Sales 9 Percent For Period the steady upward that has marked public the 1939 Chevrolet, a rise of 15.9 per cent in the sales graph was reported at Detroit May 1 by the motor firm for the period ending April 20. The gain over the previous period, which closed April 10, is represented by 3,453 more units sold at retail, according to the figures released. A total of 25,196 passenger cars and trucks were sold by the industry's repeating leader during the ten-day period.

Hewitt Chevrolet company are local dealers for the Chevrolet.

Although March was hailed by William E. Holler, general sales manager, as "one of the company's greatest sales months," the April 29 period eclipses the records established last month by 4.1 per cent, indication that increased public approval is being expressed for the 1939 models.

A gain of 19.1 per cent is shown over the same period in 1938, when Chevrolet had retailed 21,164 passenger and commercial units from April 1 to April 20.

Total sales for the first 20 days of April were 46,939 units, the report revealed, as against 38,633 sales in the same period of 1938. This represents a business gain of 21.5 per cent.

Truck sales for the period totaled 5,291 units, an increase of 25.6 per cent over the figure reported April 10, and 24.1 per cent over the April 20 figure for 1938. A total of 9,503 commercial jobs have been sold during the month to date, which is 26.7 per cent above the 7,872 sales made during the same period last year.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks pink. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25 cents. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

Tenth Annual Texas Cowboy Reunion To Be Held At Stamford

Governor W. Lee O'Daniel is one of half a dozen outstanding men of the State and Nation who already have accepted invitations to attend the tenth annual Texas Cowboy reunion which will meet in Stamford July 3, 4 and 5.

Lieutenant Governor Coke Stevenson also has said he will be here. Federal Judge James V. Allred, who never missed a session during the four years he was governor, will be back this year, as well as Edward Clarke, former secretary of State, another annual visitor.

Paul Whiteman, famous orchestra director who has taken up horses as a hobby, has accepted an invitation for a second visit to the Reunion. He attended in 1937.

With Whiteman will be Amon G. Carter, Fort Worth publisher, who has become an ardent Reunion enthusiast since his visit here last year. Carter is said to be practicing up on his riding in order to make a good showing with the cowhands.

All of these notables have been given honorary memberships in the Texas Cowboy Reunion Association, but Frank M. King, associate editor of the Western Livestock Journal, Los Angeles, is a member of the oldtime cowboys' organization in his own right, being a former Texas Cowhand. He attends the Reunion every year and has written Chas. E. Coombs, secretary of the association, that he will be back this year "if somebody don't shoot me."

Annual Banquet Expected To Be Large Affair

The date for the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet has been set for Tuesday night, June 13, president E. O. McIver announced at the regular monthly luncheon Tuesday at noon. At this time the officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

Mr. McIver named Dr. Ira E. Woods chairman of the nominating committee, to be assisted by Lester Walters and J. W. Keithley. A president, vice president and four directors will be elected.

Dr. Wm. N. Orr, David Schein, Pat Boone and J. S. Hilliard were named members of the program committee for the banquet, by Mr. McIver.

L. R. Crockett explained a change in the route of the East-West highway, and he suggested that the local Chamber of Commerce go on record in favor of another change to be made, leaving the highway as it was originally mapped out, that is, by way of Spade.

J. H. Barnett of Fieldton again asked that the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce encourage the building of the Lamb County Club house.

Sister To Mrs. H. W. Wiseman Heard Over WOAI

Mrs. M. C. Rosenthal, sister of Mrs. H. W. Wiseman of Littlefield, was presented in the skit, "Listen Ladies," over the radio station WOAI in San Antonio last week. Mrs. Rosenthal is chairman of the Dramatic Roundtable in San Antonio. She visited here last summer in the home of Mrs. Wiseman.

Another sister, Miss Blanche Barr, who is a teacher in one of the San Antonio schools, will leave Texas on June 8 for a trip abroad. She will visit in Russia, Finland, Norway, Sweden, and London, and will return via the World's Fair in New York City. Miss Barr has also visited Mrs. Wiseman in Littlefield.

Lamb County—

however the case may be. It is figured by multiplying the payment rate, times the normal yield established for the farm, times the acreage allotment.

For example, if a farmer has a 1939 cotton allotment of 20 acres and the normal yield established for his farm is 200 pounds of lint cotton per acre, the payment is 2 cents a pound on 4,000 pounds (20x200) or $80.

A similar example would hold in the case of wheat.

The rate on general crops applies to the number of acres in the general allotment.

Soil Building Payments

A part of the conservation payment is in the form of assistance for carrying out soil-building practices. Each practice is measured in units. For example, construction of 200 linear feet of terrace counts as one unit; seeding an acre of alfalfa qualifies as two units; and an acre of green manure or cover crops rates as one unit. And the rate of payment, or assistance, for carrying out such practices is $1.50 a unit. However, each farm is given a maximum soil-building allowance. That is, the farmer is paid at the $1.50 rate up to a certain limit, the limit varying according to the farm.

Parity Payments

In addition to the conservation payments, the 1939 program provides for price adjustment or "parity payments" of 1.6 cents a pound on cotton, and 11 cents a bushel on wheat.

The rate applies to the number of acres in the 1939 allotment for the given crop.

Example: If a farmer's cotton acreage allotment is 20 acres, and the normal yield established for his farm is 200 pounds an acre, the cotton price adjustment payment is 1.6 cents a pound on 4,000 pounds, or $64.

A similar example would apply for wheat.

If the farmer exceeds his allotment by any fraction of an acre, he forfeits a right to any parity payment on the crops.

Layfield, Mrs. Nina Young, Miss Oval Lytle, W. L. Sanders, Miss Gladys Jones, W. H. Erazier, and Misses Eloise Hanes, Thelma Killough, Mary Perkins and Maxine Fry.

Elected to teach in the grade school were, Misses Katherine Schellenberg, Mildred Wharton, Geraldine Potter, Sally Belle Beane, Lois Riggins, Hilda Miller, Laura Virginia Bills, Della Mae Shipley, Louise Jacobsen, Alleane Lynch, and Fern Holland, and Mrs. Audie Collins, D. C. Lindley, and R. E. Penecast.

Primary teachers for the 1939-40 term will be, Misses Johnnie Pace, Myrtle Woodfin, Mary A. Kimball, Eddythe Walker, Velma Cook, Ruth Matthews, Lois Kirkpatrick, June Glasscock, Rachel Shields and Doris Schein.

J. C. Coger and Thresa Graves will teach in the colored department.

In an interview with Supt. F. A. Hemphill Tuesday, he said that Mrs. Earl Hobbs had not been considered for re-election because of the fact that she is a married woman and was employed only on an emergency substitute basis. He also added that the school board had voiced their unanimous approval of her work.

Both drivers were thrown clear of the wreckage and escaped serious injury.

Funeral services were scheduled to take place at Joaquin Wednesday afternoon, but further details were not available at going to press.

vention in Fort Worth 10 days ago, handed over the charter to the Littlefield organization.

Both men were introduced by Binford Arney of Amarillo, regional vice-president of the Texas organization.

Cooper and Hughes outlined briefly the aims and purposes of the organization and urged the new unit of the civic group to "build for a better Littlefield, a firmer Texas and a greater United States."

Stacy Hart was toastmaster. Invocation was by E. B. Hobbs. Mayor Homer Hall welcomed the visitors to Littlefield. Mrs. Chester Hufstelder gave a very clever reading, and Charles Heathman, accompanied by Miss Maxine Cash, entertained the group with two vocal numbers.

At the close of the program, E. O. McIver, president of the senior Chamber of Commerce, pledged cooperation with the younger group.

Fifteen members of the Brownfield Junior Chamber of Commerce were present, and application was made for the state and national charters. They plan to stage a similar affair in the near future, and a large delegation from the Littlefield chapter will attend. Ray Christopher, president of the Brownfield club, and Vernon Brewer, secretary, were among those who attended.

Frank Monroe, president of the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce, was present, with other out-of-town delegations, including ten from Amarillo, four from Levelland, three from Pampa, five from Lubbock and two from Earth.

Attending from Lubbock were M. D. Fanning of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce staff; Dr. Harry Miller, Russell Myrick, A. S. Meinicke, and C. W. Ratliff of the Avalanche-Journal staff.

spent the night at Fredricksburg. They arrived in Galveston about 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

The contests were held last Thursday, in which more than 2,000 girls participated. A Beach party was enjoyed in the evening.

One of the highlights of the program during the convention was the inspiring address made by Dr. L. A. Woods, state superintendent, "Possess Your Possessions," at the general assembly Program Friday morning.

Miss Lytle attended a luncheon with the 300 other teachers from schools in Texas at the Hotel Galvez.

Miss Craig Gammon of Waxahachie was elected state president at a meeting Friday afternoon. Miss Doris Allen, president of the Littlefield Homemakers club attended this meeting, and all phases of club work was discussed.

The girls were guests at a banquet at the Buchaneer hotel Friday night.

Perhaps the most enjoyable affair was the three mile boat ride Saturday morning, when all of the girls were special guests of the Galveston Chamber of Commerce, for a trip on the blue waters of the Gulf of Mexico.

Alumni—

Improvements Underway At Garland-White Auto Supply; Extending Front Of Building

Work is being done on the front of the building. The improvements will represent considerable expense, and add much to the appearance of the business as well as provide large space for the display of various lines of merchandise. The service station, which heretofore has been operated by the White firm, of which B. White and Jack White are partners, has been discontinued, and the building is being extended parallel with the sidewalk. J. H. Wells has the contract for the work. The Garland-White Auto Supply have occupied their present building for the past five years. The additional space, said Mr. Garland, will be used for display of their Frigidaires, Philco radios, and automobile parts. Large new stocks of merchandise are being purchased, and it is to store and display same that the improvements are being carried out. It is also the plan of the Garland-White organization to discontinue the handling of tires, and in this week's edition of the Leader, they are advertising the closing out of all tires and tubes at cost prices, including their entire stock of Goodyear, Gates and Star tires. Plans also include remodeling the entire interior of the building.

Spade P. T. A. Sponsors Health Program Thursday

Observing National Youth and Health Week, the Spade P. T. A. sponsored a health program Thursday night. This program followed an examination by Dr. Hunt of all children from the first through the seventh grades. Featured on the program, which was begun by the group's singing of "America," were two talks, by Dr. Orr and Dr. Payne. Dr. Orr discussed the care of the teeth and Dr. Payne talked on general health of the school child. An unusually interesting playlet, "Midnight in the Vegetable Garden," was presented by several members of the fourth grade under the direction of Miss Robbie Rivers, their language arts teacher. Mrs. Clifton Patterson played two piano selections, "Nola," and "Little Sir

MYRNA LOY-ROBERT TAYLOR CO-STAR FOR FIRST TIME IN "LUCKY NIGHT," MGM'S NEW ROLLICKING COMEDY

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer presents this newest starring team in "Lucky Night" as its answer to the demands of thousands of fan sof these two popular screen figures, opening at the Palace Theatre Saturday midnight, and continuing through Sunday and Monday. The picture also reunites one of the greatest Producer-Director combinations in the industry, Louis D. Lighton and Norman Taurag. Their unforgettable "Skippy" still is one of the entertainment milestones in motion pictures. Separated, Lighton made "Captains Courageous" and "Test Pilot." Taurag added to his directorial laurels with "Boys Town." "Lucky Night" is a modern comedy with New York's gay life as a background. It is the story of Cora Jordan, a millionaire bridge-builder's daughter, and Bill Overton, a handsome young ne'er-do-well, who never won a bet in his life.

AT THE RITZ—
Headed by Bing Crosby and Joan Blondell, one of the most capable casts ever found in a single picture was assembled for Universal's "East Side of Heaven," which opens at the Ritz Theatre on Saturday midnight and continuing through Sunday and Monday. Bing and Joan are co-starred in this film which features hit songs, romance and comedy against a strong human background. And they are surrounded by a galaxy of players who already are knocking at Hollywood's carefully guarded portals leading to stardom. Mischa Auer, often referred to as the mad Russian, tops the supporting cast. "Sandy," 10-months-old baby of a Los Angeles milkman, does such a surprising job that studio executives already have the parents' signatures on a long term contract.
