Progress Pioneer Found Murdered; Robbery Believed to be Motive

Joshua Blocher, about 85, was found murdered in a cotton field about 11 miles southwest of Muleshoe about 2 p.m. Wednesday. Blocher, who platted Progress, a small community about seven miles northwest of Muleshoe in Bailey county, was severely beaten about the head and apparently had died after being tossed into the cotton field by his assailants. He was last seen alive Saturday.

Clifford and Cecil Mardis as being an intensive investigation. Blocher who planned the town of Progress and named its streets after fruit trees in 1908, only to watch the town wither, was found they were irrigating on the farm of their father, Harold Mardis. The body was barefooted, the shoes nearby.

Robbery was advanced by officers tonight as the motive for the brutal slaying. Blocher was rumored to have kept a large sum of money in a small shack where he lived at Progress. Although Bailey County Sheriff Hugh Freeman said he doubted Blocher had as much as $5,000 at the shack, stories to that effect had been circulated for years.

Blocher was first reported missing at 11 a.m. Sunday when a neighbor, R. A. Brooks, came to his house. An immediate search for the missing man was pressed by the sheriff's office and Texas Rangers. (Continued on Back Page)

Bailey County officers and Texas Rangers have since been pushing the investigation.

Tidelands Ownership and 'Oil for War'

Loudly the opponents of state ownership of the tidelands trumpet that these lands should be in the hands of the federal government because the oil they contain must be available to the nation in case of war. Assuredly this oil must be available for national emergency, just as every other thing in the nation of value in prosecuting war must be, but it does not follow that this necessitates federal ownership and control of the offshore lands. What this argument ignores is the fact that the tidelands oil would be just as available to meet the demands of war — and perhaps more so — under state ownership as under national ownership.

A favorite assertion of the advocates of federal ownership is that the oil must be conserved, must be "held in reserve," for war use. Just what is entailed in this idea of "conservation" is not clear. It could mean 1 or a combination of 3 things. One is that the federal government would lease the lands to private operators for exploration and development, as is done under state control, and the oil brought to the surface would be stored against emergency. Another is that the wells would be brought to production stage and then shut in until the time when their oil is needed. The third is that the oil in the submerged areas would be left untouched as reserves until such time as it is demanded by emergency.

Advocacy of any of these courses betrays ignorance of the necessities for maintaining adequate production and adequate reserves of oil. Oil brought to the surface can be stored only in such quantities as would be negligible in comparison with national needs in wartime. If either must be marketed in orderly fashion or not produced, and there is no reason to believe this can be done any better under federal than under state control—if as well.

Wells completed and shut in are liable to such deterioration and loss of production efficiency as to make them undependable sources of oil in future emergency. An example is the government's Elk Hills reserve, which, developed in this manner, produced only a comparative trickle of oil to meet World War II needs. The third of the courses advocated by the pro-federal group would be dangerous and mistaken. No one can be absolutely certain of whether oil will be produced in a given area, much less what the rate of output will be, until he has tapped it with a drill stem. Oil research and development is a time-consuming process, as witnessed by the fact that only a small fraction of the oil used in World War II came from pools discovered after Pearl Harbor. It is impossible to make sure of reserves except through constant, systematic exploration, and in time of war there may be neither time, men nor materials available.

Uncertainties raised by the tidelands dispute between the states and the federal government have brought new oil activities in the Gulf of Mexico to a virtual end. This inactivity will not end until the dispute is settled. A recent delineation by the Interior Department of the extent of its claims in Louisiana under last year's Supreme Court decision indicates that litigation will go on for years, thus prolonging the state of uncertainty. If Congress fails to pass pending legislation to restore tidelands ownership to the states, besides falling to right a wrong, that would do more than anything else to deprive the nation of tidelands oil in the event of emergency.

U. S. Japanese Get Better Deal

By Alexander R. George

WASHINGTON — Japanese in the United States are generally getting a much better deal than ever but the handicaps of racial discrimination are still heavy.

So says Mike Masoka, ex-GI and national legislative director of the Japanese-American Citizens League.

Mike and four of his brothers fought with the U. S. 442nd Regimental Combat team, famed Japanese-American outfit, in Italy and France. One brother was killed and the other four were wounded in battle.

Mike's main goal as a Washington lobbyist is removal of the citizenship ban on alien Japanese and other excluded Pacific peoples. It causes hardship, he says, not only to those who are denied citizenship but also to citizen-members of their families.

But Mike has been heartened by "an amazing decrease in anti-Japanese sentiment" in this country. He says it is now easier for them to get jobs and to take fuller part in community life.

He attributes the more friendly attitude to:

1. The fine record made by Japanese who served in the U. S. Armed forces during the war.
2. The loyal behavior of aliens and citizen Japanese Americans during the war.
3. The increased proportion of Japanese Americans who speak better English and adopt American customs more readily than their fathers and mothers.
4. A growing realization that fair treatment of Asiatic people in this country is a valuable weapon in the struggle against Communism.

Following the attack on Pearl Harbor, some 110,000 Japanese on the west coast were removed to internment camps in inland states. Mike's widowed mother was one of them.

Many of the interned Japanese lost their property. Others, who had to give up businesses and jobs, had a hard time getting started again.

There are now some 76,000 Japanese and about 3,000 other alien Asians in the United States and its territories. Besides the citizenship ban by the federal government, laws in several western states prohibit them from owning land, or buying a home, or even leasing residential property.

The Japanese American Citizens League reports that some 500 laws passed by one state or another restrict certain occupations to citizens or persons who have filed their first papers. All states require that attorneys be citizens.

Citizenship or declaration of intent is a requirement for physicians in 25 states, for teachers in 18 states, for architects in 22 states and for certified public accountants in 48 states. There are similar requirements for barbers in nine states.

"In California, where almost half of the Japanese on the mainland reside, alien Japanese are not authorized to receive old age pensions," said Mike.

"Thus, the mother of a post-humous Congressional Medal of Honor winner who receives the federal pension of a grateful nation cannot supplement that meager amount with a state old-age pension."

The California Supreme court now has under advisement the cases in which Mike and his four brothers purchased residential property for their mother. The state seized the property under the alien land law and the sons asked the California court to hold the law unconstitutional.

In another case, the state of California filed suit to seize the farm of a Japanese woman, who is an American citizen and the mother of three children. The reason for the suits was that her husband, an ineligible alien, had occupied the farm with his wife and helped her cultivate it.

Mike says that despite these old discriminatory laws citizens of the west coast now are in the forefront of those "seeking the repeal of racism" in naturalization statutes.

"Every west coast congressman voted for these principles at every opportunity in the last congress and it is expected that they will again be unanimous in their en-

Land Doesn't Produce Good; Plans For Improvement Made

...of the right hairy vetch. At the Temple Station in the blackland area, cotton, following Hubam sweetclover, which was harvested for seed, produced a five year average of 315 pounds of lint per acre as compared with a yield of 165 pounds per acre from cotton grown continuously without clover. The yields of corn, oats, barley and wheat following clover were also increased. County agent, Miller adds, report similar results from the farm demonstrations they have supervised.

Aside from increased yields, certain of the legumes also provide the best known method for controlling cotton root rot. The use of sweetclover in the rotation plan for the farm is Miller's suggestion for controlling this disease. The recommended varieties are Hubam, Madrid and annual yellow blossom—the later mainly in South Texas and the Gulf Coast Prairie.

Harry vetch, Willamette vetch, winter peas and other legumes also increase yields and reduce root rot losses but are not as effective on the blacklands as sweetclover. This may be due, says Miller, to the fact that the clovers with their extensive and deep root system opens up the soil and this in turn permits better soil aeration, allowing faster and deeper water penetration, in addition to adding nitrogen and organic matter. This leaves the soil in a very favorable condition to produce.

Now is the time, says Miller to secure the necessary legume seed and fertilizer that will be needed to put in the legume crop. He suggests that soil samples be taken

Wright who says the twins are the fourth set of twin calves born on his ranch in the last four years. (AP Photo)

Farmers Are Urged to Take Part In Farm Meetings Throughout State

Farmers and others interested in long time improvement of agriculture are urged to take part in the meetings now being held throughout the state for the purpose of reviewing the programs and policies of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

County Agricultural Mobilization Committees are in charge of the meetings and discussions in the counties. Membership on these committees is composed of representatives from state and Federal agencies who work with rural families. Officials of the USDA point out that the population of the nation is growing steadily and by the end of the century is expected to be near 200 million, or approximately double the 1900 total. Then too, most of the country's arable land already is under cultivation and the extra food and fiber needed to feed and clothe the growing population must come from increased acreage yields and more efficient production.

This increased agricultural production must come from the family farms for they make up almost 98 percent of the Nation's total. These are the farms which are operated by family units and supply the bulk of the family's income with the family providing most of the labor needed on the farm.

It is the family farm operators and their families, therefore, that are now being asked to make suggestions for improving the services and programs of the USDA. The best suggestions for dealing with local farm problems come from local farmers and all are urged to attend and participate in the meetings being called in the communities. The recommendations from these meetings and discussions may form the basis for improved farm programs and assurances to the millions that America's family farms can provide the nation's future needs of food and fiber.

tain or tall bluebonnet of West Texas, sandy land or Texas Bluebonnet, the rock or purple bluebonnet of Central and West Texas and a "pink" bluebonnet. The pink bluebonnet is a perennial in the Western and Big Bend areas.

PLANT BLUEBONNET SEED NOW FOR NEXT SPRING GROWTH AND BLOOMING

Take a tip from Mother Nature and plant bluebonnet seed before September 15th. They can be planted later but they may not bloom well. Bluebonnet seeds are small but tough, so it's a good idea to soak them for 24 hours before planting, says Sadie Hatfield, Extension specialist in Homestead Improvement of Texas A & M College. Planted early they normally come up in October. They grow all through the winter except during extreme temperatures.

The state flower thrives in many soils, but does best on light sandy soil. One of the beauty spots of Texas is Old Indianola or Matagorda Bay near Port Lavaca where the variety adopted as our state flower grows. The soil at Indianola is course white sand with an abundance of shell fragments. In rich well fertilized soil, bluebonnet stalks will grow tall with many large leaves but few blooms. Acid soils of East Texas could grow bluebonnets nicely if sweetened with alkali. Adding one pound of lime or ashes to each ten square feet of soil will counteract acid, adds Miss Hatfield.

Bluebonnets should have plenty of sunshine and good drainage. They can be transplanted in late winter but will do better if planted where they can be left to bloom. In the coldest areas of the state, it will be necessary to start bluebonnets in greenhouses or small flower garden pots. The bluebonnet has few insect and disease enemies.

Bluebonnets are soil building legumes. They seem to be of little or no value for grazing.

The well known Texas botanist, H. B. Parks, has described four blue bonnets; the Chisos Moun-

20,000 Persons Visit Palo Cayon State Park During July; Oklahoma Leads

More than 20,000 persons attended Palo Duro Canyon State park in July, 1951 with more than 1100 cars being from out of state and foreign countries. Oklahoma led the list with 243 cars, New Mexico had 102 cars, Illinois 72 and these three leaders were followed by Kansas, Louisiana, California, Missouri, Ohio, Michigan, Mississippi and neighboring Colorado. More than 4,000 exas cars entered the park.

Attendance since the start of the tourist season has been far ahead of a year ago. The week of July 4 saw more than 7,000 visitors at the park and the attendance in August is increasing to an average of more than 4,000 each week.

The park is the world's most colorful Canyon and offers a seven mile scenic drive through a virtually unexplored wonderland. Buffaloes, Longhorn steers, deer, a wild horse herd, Mexican, Indian and American cowboys, service buildings, and corrals of the 1890 vintage add a real touch of the Old West.

The attendance last year was 110,000 and park officials believe it will go above 150,000 this year. All facilities at the Canyon are open the year round.

The principal areas of red soils are in Africa, South America, southeastern Asia, the Pacific islands, and southeastern North America.

Apprentice Jockey Now In Racing Lead

NEW YORK—A couple of young apprentice jockeys have stolen the spotlight in the racing world. As of July 25, Ralph Borgemenke with 149 winners and Charlie Burr with 145 were leading the pack. And many veteran riders were trailing in their dust.

Borgemenke, from Cincinnati, rode his first winner at Beulah Park, Ohio, Sept. 16, 1950. He arrived first in the last race of the day with a 59-1 shot, Vicky Step.

Burr, who hails from Kansas City, won his first race on Thomas at Fairmount Park on Sept. 9, 1950. Then he jumped aboard Ginny Beaver and won the very next race.

Trailing the youngsters are such veterans as Steve Brooks, Johnny Longden, Willie Shoemaker, Howard Craig, Eddie Arcaro and Ted Atkinson.

Both Borgemenke and Burr will lose their apprentice allowance in September.

Vocational Nurse Training To Get Underway At Amarillo College

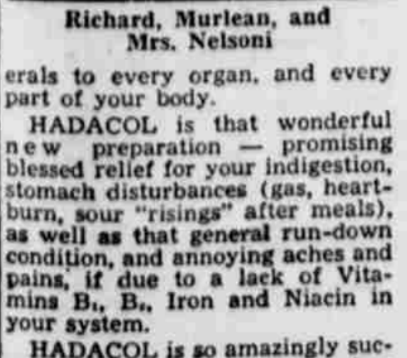

The first Panhandle class in vocational nurse training will get under way with the fall semester at Amarillo College, Amarillo, Texas, according to Dr. A. M. Meyer, College President. Need for such a course has been stressed recently by doctors, hospital authorities and the nursing profession.

The one year course—to be conducted in co-operation with St. Anthony Hospital and Northwest Texas Hospital—is the first to be organized in this area under a new state law to train a student to become a Licensed Vocational Nurse. The law requires that all "practical" nurses be duly licensed by a state board of vocational nurse examiners within a period of approximately the next six years.

The Amarillo College course should qualify such nurses to be licensed by the state board. It does not qualify students to become registered nurses, nor will it conflict with present nurse-training programs for registered nurses.

Under the program, a 12 months course will be offered with eight months of actual clinical instruction in the hospitals. The first four months of the program will be offered as pre-clinical training at the college.

Vocational nurses will be allowed under present state law to nurse in the home or in institutions under the direction of a licensed phy-

Oldest U.S Woman In Germany

By Donald Doane

MUNICH, Germany — Mrs. Mary Catherine Lewis of Baltimore, Maryland, is the oldest American woman in Germany. She is 93.

Mrs. Lewis flew here last May to live with her daughter, Mrs. Martha Ada Claypoole, and her son-in-law, Lt. Coy. Christian L. Claypoole, who is stationed with the U. S. Army in Munich.

Despite her age, Mrs. Lewis is in good health, walks unaided up and down the stairs, and has adjusted herself easily to life in a foreign country.

But she misses American television—and the 13 grandchildren, 30 great-grandchildren and 28 great-great-grandchildren she left behind in the United States.

Mrs. Lewis has outlived six of her nine children. Besides Mrs. Claypoole, her surviving daughters are Mrs. Ida Myers, 6015 Carter Ave., Baltimore, and Mrs. Anna Frost, also of Baltimore.

One of the largest national military parks is at Chickamauga, Ga., near Chattanooga, Tenn., marking the site of the battle of Chickamauga in the Civil War. It covers 8,127 acres.

ician or registered nurse and may be employed by physicians, hospitals, the lay public, public health agencies, industries and custodial homes.

Dr. A. M. Meyer, college president, announces that Miss Auden Gray will instruct the course. A registered nurse with a B. A. degree from Panhandle A & M College, Goodwell, Oklahoma, Miss Gray has been employed as school nurse in Amarillo Public school system. Before coming to Amarillo, she taught at the Panhandle A & M College. She received her nursing training at the St. Anthony School of Nursing in Oklahoma City.

Applicants for the course must be in the 18 to 55 bracket and must have completed two years of high school or its equivalent. Tu-

FROM THE GRANDSTAND By WILBUR MARTIN Associated Press Staff

If Bill Veeck wants to add more fuel to his apparent feud with St. Louis Cardinal owner Fred Saigh he can hire Rollie Hemsley as manager of the St. Louis Browns.

Hemsley wants the job. Now managing Texas City of the class B big state league, he admitted the other day he had made formal application for the job.

And what's that got to do with the Veeck-Saigh situation? Well, there's been reports that the reason Hemsley quit the Cardinal organization was because he didn't get the job of managing the Cards when Saigh gave Eddie Dyer the sack.

Hemsley, you know was named minor league "Manager of the Year" last year for guiding Columbus, a Card farm, to the American Association pennant and Little World Series title.

There were some top hands in baseball who figured Hemsley had the inside track on the Cardinal job. He didn't and quit the outfit to take over a class B club.

Saigh and Veeck have been quietly—Zvia subtle digs in the newspapers—feuding up in St. Louis. Saigh has advertised, in effect, the Cardinals play baseball only and don't need any sideshow as an attraction.

It's no secret that both club owners want St. Louis fans to go tion of $10.00 per month will be charged. During the clinical periods, the hospitals will pay the students $75 a month during the first four months and $85 a month during the last four months of the clinical training.

During the clinical affiliation, the trainees will get practical training in medical and surgical nursing; obstetrics, nursery, pediatrics, diet kitchen, and operating room.

Amarillo College will issue certificates on satisfactory completion of the course. Prospective students are urged to make application for admission immediately. For further information contact the Vocational Department at the Amarillo College.

to the ball game — when it's their fuel to his apparent feud with St. Louis Cardinal owner Fred Saigh he can hire Rollie Hemsley as manager of the St. Louis Browns.

Hemsley would make the Browns a good manager, for he knows baseball and has been a spectacular success as a minor league manager. But he probably won't get the job. Veeck, evidently, is going after some "big name" like Lou Boudreau or Ernie Stanky. Still, don't be surprised if Hemsley does turn up in the major leagues one of these days.

The success Paul Richards had made at Chicago with the White Sox may cause some club owners to toy with the idea of bringing in a man who hasn't been in and out of managerial posts in the majors.

New Archeological Discoveries
CAIRO — (L.P.) — Wendell Phillips, American archeologist of Concord, Calif., told reporters here he would soon open a display at the Carnegie Museum, Pittsburgh, of objects found in the ancient city of Timnah buried under Arabian sands.

One will be a gold necklace dating back more than 2,300 years. A number of bronze and alabaster statues will also be shown. An expedition led by Phillips found the buried city in 1949.

Registrants May Choose Branch of Service They Desire

Selective Service Registrants who have not received their notice to report for induction but who have received their pre-induction physical may now choose the branch of the Armed Forces they desire. In order to take care of any young men who may want to take advantage of the TEMPORARY RESCISSION in that part of the Selective Service Act the Navy Recruiting Office in Post Office Building, Clovis, New Mexico will remain open from 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

This announcement was made to the Lamb County Leader by Chief Walter I. Leichty, Petty Officer Recruiting Station.

Present suspension of the order which previously prohibited persons who had received orders to report for pre-induction physical examinations to select the Service of their choice commenced June 15 and will expire August 31, 1951. This however, will not effect college students and graduates who have received notices to report for induction and who have had these notices cancelled for the purpose of enlisting in the Service of their choice. They may still enlist in the Navy in accordance with previous instructions.

Sudan Santa Fe Agent Sustains Heart Attack

Raymond Bowman of Sudan suffered a heart attack Sunday night while vacationing at Red River, New Mexico. His condition is reported to be satisfactory. However, he is still under an oxygen tent at the Holy Cross hospital in Taos and the doctors advised against moving him for ten days. In a phone call to Mrs. C. A. Verreen, her mother, Mrs. Bowman said she would move him to a hospital in Albuquerque when the doctors thought it was advisable. Mr. Bowman is the Santa Fe Agent in Sudan and he and Mrs. Bowman were on their summer vacation at Red River when the attack occurred.

FERTILIZER BAG FORMAL

This eye-catching dancing frock has a fascinating background. It didn't come from a high-fashion salon, though it is as chic as can be. Instead, it came from the barn. Fertilizer now is packed in gaily printed cotton bags — and this thrifty-wise young lady took advantage of seven of the 100 lb. print cotton sacks to make this fetching formal!

After he was reported missing, a search by sheriff's deputies disclosed $195 in small bills hidden in fruit jars on the premises.

Freeman said he believed robbery was the motive. He said tracks in the field indicated Blocher was left there by two men. Two sets of footprints lead away from the grisly scene, one set of footprints smaller than the other.

He also said he believed Blocher was alive when he was left in the field. This was substantiated by the elder Mardis who said the man had apparently thrashed about and knocked down cotton stalks. He may have crawled as far as eight feet, Mardis said.

Blocher's clothes which were usually tattered, were torn and bloody, a reporter from the Muleshoe Journal said. Blocher was lying on his right side.

Following an autopsy, Dr. L. T. Green of Muleshoe indicated Blocher died of shock and exposure after he had been beaten with a sharp instrument and tossed into the field. The autopsy revealed his skull had been fractured and his shoulders bruised.

Definitely Case of Murder
Justice of the Peace R. J. Klump returned a verdict of death by shock and exposure and said "it definitely is a case of murder."

Earlier, Sheriff Hugh Freeman of Muleshoe indicated he believed that robbery possibly was the motive for the brutal slaying—another in a number of puzzling slayings which have plagued South Plains officers during the years.

Blocher, something of a recluse who did not mind expressing himself on various subjects—especially on political foes and population fights with neighboring Muleshoe and Farwell—was rumored down through the years to have kept large sums of money in the small shack in Progress where he reportedly owned some rent houses. He had been slugged and robbed of a small sum about two years ago.

It was not known whether Blocher's attackers got any money, Freeman said. The man's shoes were found about five feet from his body indicating Blocher may have been thoroughly searched for money. Tracks indicating a car had stopped on the road recently were found, the elder Mardis said.

Only survivors were a niece and a brother in Kansas whom had not been contacted late tonight, he said. Blocher's whereabouts from can do it easily with Warfarat, a new Dr. Hess rat killer containing warfarin*, which you can get at REESE DRUG. When you use Warfarat*, rats do not become bait shy. Neither do they develop a tolerance for it. Warfarat is a prepared bait that is more attractive to rats than their usual diet of farm grains. It is packaged in a container that serves as a bait station—just put it out and let rats help themselves. Rats don't die from a single bite, but from continuous feeding over a period of 3 to 5 days. With Warfarat, you can get the last rat on the farm, and keep the farm free of rats. Stop in at REESE DRUG for War-

Legal Safecracker Solves Eight Year Dilemma

MURPHYSBORO, Ill. — (AP) —

A safe expert opened a Masonic safe which members had been unable to open since their late secretary died in 1943 with the memorized combination.

Lodge members had been all but ready to break into the safe to see their records.

But the job was done in 10 minutes by Tobe Monday who only twisted the dial and listened to the safe's inner workings. He did the trick in front of awed Masons who had requested the traveling safe expert to have a look at their safe.

Palo Duro State Park Has New Cave Recently Found

AMARILLO, Texas, Aug. 17 — (AP) — Palo Duro state park has a new cave—largest yet found in the park.

It was discovered recently by accident. The entrance apparently had not been uncovered long. Probably rains washed away enough earth to reveal the opening.

It was discovered by Louis R. Neugabauer of Amarillo, Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Clayton of San Antonio and Roy Clark of the Amarillo

Texas Farmers and Ranchers Warned To Start Killing Skunks Before Winter

Texas farmers and ranchers in the Red River Valley region and in Southwest and Central Texas have been warned to begin killing skunks — lots of them — before cold weather brings an increase in rabies cases.

The grim warning is contained in an animal morbidity report compiled by the State Department of Health. The idea is to pin point rabies infested areas as warning to people in adjacent areas.

State Health Officer George W. Cox said Texas had areas bigger than most states, which are completely free of rabies.

"From now on we're going to call our shots by county of occurrence. It isn't going to be 'Texas rabies' any more," the health official declared.

"Livestock owners . . . should have active skunk killing programs, especially in the Red River Valley area, when winter approaches and skunks hole up with livestock in dilapidated barns," the report cautioned.

Current focal points of skunk rabies are, the report indicated, in

Probability of finding Rattlesnakes kept the discovery party from further immediate exploration

The cave is on the east wall of North Cedar canyon in a seldom visited part of the park.

Existence of one or more large caverns in the canyon has long been suspected by observers of bats in the area. However, the geological formation of Lalo Duro is not of the type in which large caverns usually are found.
