MAY FETE WILL BE PRESENTED AT LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL FRIDAY NIGHT

TILDEN WRIGHT ATTAINS HIGH HONOR

AWARDED FIRST PLACE IN STATE SPEECH FINALS

Bill Carter Takes Fourth Place in 440-Yard Dash

Tilden Wright, 17, a senior in the Littlefield high school and a son of Mrs. Vernie Wright, was awarded the state championship in extemporaneous speech at the State Interscholastic league meet, which was held at Austin Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week.

This was the first time that any first place award in the State Interscholastic League meet was won by a Littlefield contestant.

Wright was awarded a gold medal and the cup for extemporaneous speech will be the property of the Littlefield high school until won by some other school.

Coached by Boles The Littlefield young man was coached by F. O. Boles, principal of the Littlefield high school, who has been instructing contestants in extemporaneous speech for the past four years. Each year he has taken a contestant to the state meet. One of these contestants was Carson Glass, who obtained a fourth place.

Littlefield is very proud of the new honor which came to the high school through the ability of one of that school's students. A large crowd of Littlefield citizens met Wright at the Santa Fe depot on his return home Sunday. This welcome included the Littlefield band, which rendered several numbers.

In many respects extemporaneous speech is the hardest contest among the State League events, because the contestant may be called upon to speak upon any one of about 40 subjects. He is allowed only 30 minutes after he has drawn his subject in which to prepare for the competition.

Many Enter Contests Twenty-seven district champions representing all parts of Texas competed in this year's events, which offers some indication of the quality of the competition encountered by the Littlefield young man.

Littlefield's track star, Bill Carter, also gave a good account of himself, when he won fourth place in the 440-yard dash. He was coached by John Tucker, coach of the Littlefield high school. This was the third time that Carter was a contestant in the State meet in track events.

Roy Young of Anson, former bookkeeper of the First National Bank of this city, returned to his home Tuesday after spending a few days in Littlefield visiting friends.

FARM BILL GOES TO PRESIDENT; FARM MORTGAGES WOULD BE REFINANCED

The Norris-Simpson cost of production amendment to which the administration objected was stricken from the farm bill by the senate Wednesday sending the bill to President Roosevelt.

The bill includes a section which gives President Roosevelt wide power to expand currency.

The president is expected to sign the mammoth bill without delay, and arrangements are being made to put the credit inflation provisions into effect by purchase in the open market of up to three billion dollars in federal bonds.

The measure seeks to lift farm income to pre-war levels by giving wide power to Secretary Wallace to make marketing agreements, levy processing taxes on basic commodities and compensatory taxes on competing products. It also proposes to re-finance farm mortgages at 4 1-2 per cent interest through the land bank system.

It lists as basic commodities: cotton, corn, wheat, hogs, rice, tobacco and dairy products.

Farm mortgages would be refinanced through a two billion dollar land bank bond issue.

To aid the farmer further, it provides $200,000,000 from the R. F. C., for loans to farmers to enable them to refinance other debts through compositions with creditors, as provided in the bankruptcy law.

Brain Shocks

THE TURN OF THE TIDE

Prices have begun to rise. That is the best news the country has had in three years. The rise has started where it ought to start, with the basic products of agriculture. Wheat, cotton, corn, hogs, tobacco, rice, dairy products, have all started upward. Some are rising faster than others, but all are showing an upward tendency.

We do not think that this is merely another "false alarm." We believe that factors have been brought into play which will put prices up still higher, until we reach somewhere near the level of 1926. That is what those in charge of the nation's destinies are aiming at we are told. That would mean that the average of commodity prices would be more than double present prices, in some instances, half to two-thirds higher in others.

Starting with the products of agriculture, the rise in prices is bound to extend to industrial products. For when the farmer begins to get a profit from his operations he can begin to pay up his back taxes and mortgage interest, to buy the commodities he and his family require. Money thus put into circulation enables others, in turn, to buy at prices which mean a profit to the seller. That means that manufacturers can start up their factories again.

We have never felt there was much to the argument that people have stopped wanting to buy things. The only reason they have stopped buying is lack of money to buy with. There is not and never has been "overproduction" in the sense that more commodities were produced than people wanted. Our whole social system is built upon multiplying wants and as money circulates again people will gratify those wants.

THE GREATEST FORCE IN THE WORLD

The other day Dr. George Crile, one of the most distinguished men in research, announced his discovery that the functioning of the human brain nature of electrical discharges. The brain contains millions upon millions electrical generators, deriving their energy from the body through the su glands, just above the kidneys. Mental activity depends upon the proper fun of those glands.

That is another illustration of the depths to which modern science has ed into Nature's secrets. It is more than that, however; it is an illustratio fact that nothing, not even the most serious economic distress, can keep m thinking. And as long as thought persists, and the human mind reveals nev from day to day, the human race is in no danger of lapsing back into barba

We go forward in the things which really count for something in the life race, regardless of our temporary money difficulties. Nothing can stop our progress. Imagination and courage still are more powerful than wealth, im more potent than war.

The other day a young man flew his airplane at a speed of 410 miles a more than six miles a minute, a mile in under ten seconds! Twice in the past daring young Britishers have flown over the peaks of Mount Everest, seen photographing a spot heretofore unseen by man. The great airship Akron wrecked, but the greater Macon starts out on her maiden flight with her c daughter. And astronomers discover cosmic lights in the distant realms o which may be unseen planets signalling to unknown worlds across the vastn the universe.

What Going Off The Gold Standard Means To Farmer

Enlarged Market, Higher Products Prices, And Ability To Pay Old Dollar Debts

By FRANK PARKER STOCKBRIDGE
Written Specially for The Lamb County Leader

The United States of America has "gone off the gold standard." That shocking to people who fear all change, and it takes some mental agility on the part of the rest of us who have not yet become accustomed to the rapidity with which everything is changing today.

In Sequence

The United States went off the gold standard on March 4, when President Roosevelt declared an embargo on the export of gold and called hoarded gold back into the Federal Reserve Banks. Since then we have shipped no gold abroad except in contracts already entered into before then nobody holding a gold certificate or other paper money call for gold payment in gold had been able to get gold for it. We still have the gold, nearly half of all there is in the world, more than four thousand million dollars of it in our Treasury and banks, but we have stopped using it.

The purpose of our action is, as President Roosevelt stated, to bring about higher prices. The first place it has affected prices is in our foreign trade, for the principal use of gold as money is in settling trade balances between nations. It is the one commodity which every nation in the world accepts as money.

Immediately we went off gold, commodity prices in international trade began to rise in terms of dollars. For as soon as any nation's paper money ceases to be redeemable in gold, people who have that money begin to look for something else—wheat, tobacco, cotton, lard, steel or other non-perishable forms of wealth—in which to redeem it. They begin to buy those things, and their paper money buys less of them than it did before. In other words, they bid prices up.

In Farm Products.

It may seem to some that we in America are not concerned with what happens in foreign trade. But it is from our sales overseas that a very large part of the money comes, which pays for our farm products. More than half of all cotton grown in America must be sold abroad if the growers of the South are not to suffer. In Texas alone, it has been figured out, the loss to the entire state from the low price of cotton in the export trade, has been over $400 for every family in the state.

Almost half of the money which tobacco growers get for their crop comes from foreign sales. We normally sell abroad from a quarter to a third of all the lard we produce, about one-sixth of our wheat and about the same share of our apple crop, more than half of our turpentine, gasoline and benzol, over a third of our copper, and from a quarter to one-half of our factory products in many important lines.

It seems highly important, then, to get the highest possible prices for these goods in the world market. But when foreign nations have let their money depreciate they cannot buy as much or pay as good a price, so long as we maintain our dollar on the gold basis. On the other hand, with their cheap money, they can produce at less cost than we can and sell their goods to us for our gold dollars cheaper than we can produce them when all our costs are measured in gold.

How Producer is Helped

So in going off gold we have cheapened our dollar to meet the other cheap moneys of the world, and already commodity prices have begun to rise. In other words, we have started on a program of inflation of the currency, which is merely another way of saying increasing prices.

The gold embargo is a very mild form of inflation. It is certain to be followed by other forms, directly applicable to our internal affairs. It makes no difference, really, what the value of the dollar is in foreign money except when we deal in foreign trade, because a dollar at a low value will pay a debt incurred in dollars when they were at high value. So the farmer or producer who gets more dollars for his commodity can pay his dollar debts with them, even though they are cheaper dollars.

Inflation will help the debtor class because it will take less wheat, cotton, shoes or what have you to get the necessary number of dollars with which to pay. It will hurt the large creditor class because, although they will get their interest and principal repayments in dollars, as before, those dollars will not buy as much, will not represent as much real wealth.

We have as beneficiaries of inflation the farmers who will get more dollars for their crops, the wage-earners, who will benefit by increased employment, (although wages do not tend to rise as fast as the cost of living) business men whose goods on hand become worth more dollars, and whose sales in dollars increase faster than costs.

Time for Change

We have been going through an increasing process of deflation for more than two years. It had reached the point where debtors as a whole found themselves totally unable to pay. To have pressed deflation further would have resulted in universal bankruptcy, in which the creditors would have feared as badly as the debtors.

Just what form domestic inflation will take remains to be seen. The President's request for power to adopt any or none of various means of inflation indicates that he will be guided by conditions as they arise. It is probably that he will issue currency against Government bonds, for one thing, that silver will be restored to its former monetary position, thus increasing the volume of metal behind our money, and possibly he may decide, if it seems to be warranted, to reduce the amount of gold in the gold dollar by as much as one-half. That would not be the first time we have done just that in our national history, rather the fourth or fifth time.

We still have nearly half of all the world's gold behind our money, whatever price we put on the dollar.

Contract Bridge

Submitted by Mrs. C. E. Cooper

The writer, while pointing out to her pupils the necessity of understanding the mathematical principals back of the game of contract bridge, has at the same time urged them to be on the look-out for hands in which these principals cannot be followed. Hands in which almost, every rule fails to hold good. Hands which defy every convention.

When such an occasion arises, bidding methods must be cast aside and courage and audacity resorted to. The final declaration usually depends upon the temperament of the players.

The following hand, played in a recent duplicate tournament at the Cleveland Whist club is a striking example of this. A small slam was bid and made in each of the four suits at different tables and was doubled in almost every case.

Neither side was vulnerable. South had the bid and in every case opened with a bid of one diamond. No doubt most of those who bid the small slam did so for a sacrifice, expecting to be defeated. As can be readily seen the slam in clubs and spades might have been defeated by a freak defense but no player in the tournament was lucky enough to find it.

Cotton Carnival To Be Staged At Tech May 14-20

Cooperating with National Cotton Week, May 14 to 20, a cotton carnival will be held at Texas Technological College under the auspices of Phi Psi, national honorary textile fraternity. The object of the carnival will be to demonstrate the value of cotton and to encourage its use in wearing apparel.

Pretty girls, representing various campus organizations, civic and commercial clubs in Lubbock, and business firms, appeared in cotton costumes, will compete for selection as queen of the carnival. Types of garments may be sport, evening, informal afternoon, or house dresses, the only requirement being that they be made entirely of cotton.

When suburban New Yorkers miss the last train for home they can go to certain hotels where pajamas, tooth brush and razor are supplied at no extra cost. No baggage is required to register.

DRILLING OIL TEST

A test well has been started in the northeast part of Randall county, about 16 miles from Canyon. This will be the sixth test well which has been sunk in Randall county. The test will go a minimum of 4,500 feet and will be equipped to go to 6,500 feet if necessary. Twenty-inch casing will start the hole. This location is close to the center of a 20,000-acre block assembed by W. W. Woosley who, in connection with A. D. Devore, will drill the test. The test will be about four and a half miles, air line, from the plotted area of Amarillo.

You have a famous doctor's word for this laxative. Dr. Caldwell's record of having attended over 3500 births without loss of one mother or baby is believed unique in American medical history.

Get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin from your drugstore and have it ready. Then you won't have to worry when any member of your family is headachy, bilious, gassy or constipated. Syrup Pepsin is good for all ages. It sweetens the bowels; increases appetite—makes digestion more complete.

Dr. W. B. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN A Doctor's Family Laxative

A COMMON SENSE REMEDY TO HASTEN THE RETURN OF PROSPERITY

This sound philosophy of that great American, BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, is worth reading and following:

"What signifies wishing and hoping for better times? We may make these times better if we bestir ourselves. Industry need not wish and he that lives upon hope will die fasting. There are no gains without pains

"Industry pays debts, while despair increaseth them. Diligence is the mother of good luck, and God gives all to industry

"Then plow deep while sluggards sleep and you shall have corn to sell and to keep."

The policy of the Littlefield Bank always has been, and always will be, to work for the best interests of Littlefield and Lamb county, and to serve depositors along sound and constructive lines.

"Sailor's Luck" To Have Showing Here At Palace Theatre

Fox Film's "Sailor's Luck," fourth co-starring vehicle of James Dunn and Sally Eilers, comes to the Palace Theatre starting with the Saturday midnight matinee and runs through Sunday and Monday.

Besides Dunn and Eilers, the complete cast includes Victor Jory, Esther Muir, Sammy Cohen, Will Stanton, Frank Moran, Lucien Littlefield, Buster Phelps, Curley Wright, Jerry Mandy, Germaine de Neel, Phil Tead, Frank Atkinson, Eddie Dillon and Matt McHugh.

"Sailor's Luck" probably leans more to comedy than any other previous team picture of the well-known screen pair. The story concerns a bunch of "gobs" on shore-leave and their romantic adventures while "dame-chasing."

Comedy, for the most part, is supplied by Sammy Cohen, Will Stanton, the tipsy gent in "Me And My Gal," and Frank Moran, former heavyweight boxer. All are cast as sea-faring pals of Dunn.

Raoul Walsh directed from the story and screen play by Marguerite Roberts and Charlotte Miller.

H. D. Club Members Invited to Attend Canyon Short Course

CANYON, April 26.—Members of the Lamb county Home Demonstration clubs have been extended invitations through Miss Ruby Mashburn, of Amherst, county demonstration agent, and Mrs. H. A. Sheffield of Littlefield, council chairman, to attend the fourth annual short course to be given at Canyon, May 11 by the Home Demonstration Extension division of Texas A. & M. College.

Representatives from all counties in districts one and two are expected to attend and participate in the day's events which will include lectures on topics of interest to club women and a trip through the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society Museum. Luncheon will be served at the College Cafeteria.

FARM NOTES

By D. A. ADAM County Agent

A great help in preventing grape leaf hoppers is cleaning up of rubbish old prunings, and fence rows, for these are the hibernating places. The first infestation will be light, and probably show up about June, and the use of Black Leaf Forty at the rate of 1 teaspoonful to the gallon of water to help control them. This is a contact poison, and must get on the insects.

Plans for all kinds of farm buildings can be obtained at the county agents office.

Roy McQuatters, Jr., of Spade 4-H club reports 820 pounds gain on his two calves. Initial weight was 825 pounds. Final weight was 1645 lbs. These calves consumed 4,384 pounds threshed grain at $2.50 per hundred; 750 pounds of cotton seed at a total cost of $7.50; 2000 pounds of bundles at $1.00 per ton; 39 pounds Limestone worth 50c; and total grinding expense was $8.22. Total expense feed and grinding, $24.34. These calves sold at Lubbock. One weighed 875 for 6c and the other 770 pounds at 5 1/2 making a total income for his gain of $47.29. Hauling expense was $1.25 leaving a profit of $21.70. Average daily gain was 2.1 pounds daily and feed cost was $2.96 per hundred.

Merrill Brigrance of Olton reports 1890 pound gain on five calves. These calves consumed 14,655 pounds whole heads, 1306 pounds of meal and cake; 600 bundles; $3.15 worth of pasture; $2.26 worth of limestone and other miscellaneous expenses, making a total feed bill of $41.88. These calves were fed unground feed with plenty before them all time. Total income for the gain was $102. One half of hauling expense at $1.75 per head was $4.87, leaving a profit of $56.09. Average daily gain per calf was 1.91 pounds per day, and feed cost per pound of gain was $2.21 per hundred.

Thirty nine Lamb county 4-H club boys and vocational boys received a total of $1538.25 or an average of $16.72 per head income for the gain on 92 calves fed by them on a cooperative agreement with the Halsell Cattle of Amherst, states D. A. Adam, county agent.

Ninety four calves were received by the boys on September 8, at an average of 456.6 pounds per head. These calves were fed 197 days, with an average feed bill of $9.46 per head, including heads, threshed grain, and bundles, limestone, cotton seed and cotton seed meal. Calves sold at an average price of $5.33 per hundred, with a sale weight after 24 hours shrinkage and a three day show at Lubbock, of 754.7 pounds, making a total income per calf of $40.22. These calves fed by the boys showed a total average gain per calf of 298.1 pounds per calf, and a daily average gain per calf of 1.5 pounds per day.

Jesse Money of the Spring Lake 4-H club showed real spirit when he took two calves to feed last fall, with no equipment at all, being a tenant's son, and having to haul water for his two calves two miles every day, and then when the county show was held, this boy led out the grand champion calf weighing 790 pounds.

Merrill Brigrance of the Olton club, reported with largest gain for a boy who fed five calves or more with a total gain on his five calves of 1890 pounds, averaging 378 pounds per calf, making a daily average per calf of 1.91, after shrinkage at the Lubbock show. Feed cost per pound of gain was $2.21 per hundred. This boy fed whole heads, cotton seed meal and cake, and bundles.

Quitting The Radio For Newspapers

Broadcasting companies are worried over reports during the past week that the cigarette companies have decided to withdraw from the radio field and concentrate on newspaper advertising in the future. Word has been passed along of the change in policy, and it is expected to cut heavily into the revenues of the broadcasting chains.—Olton Enterprise.

Panhandle Wheat Crop Below Normal

Grain men have estimated the 1933 Texas Panhandle wheat crop at 8,000,000 to 12,000,000 bushels, which would place the yield from two to six million bushels under the short crop of 1932, generally estimated at 14,000,000 bushels. It will be the shortest crop since the Panhandle came to be known as a wheat country.

Walter A. Barlow, vice-president and manager of the Great West Mill & Elevator company, Amarillo, set the maximum for this year at 12,000,000 bushels. This figure applies to the Panhandle-Plains territory above the caprock, and does not include eastern New Mexico or the Oklahoma-Panhandle.

Clothing Specialist Explains How To Stretch Income

"To dress better in bad times than in good, on far less money, not only stretches the farm income; it increases the capacity of the individual to make and enjoy an income," declares Mrs. Dora R. Barnes, clothing specialist of the Extension Service of Texas A. and M. College. She points out that 23,658 Texas farm women and girls dressed well on less than $25 apiece last year, and more appropriately than ever before in their lives.

"It was not just a matter of making their own clothes, although they made 250,446 garments, but of making them artistically, fittingly and economically," says Mrs. Barnes. "About one-fourth of these women and girls made foundation patterns by which they could fit themselves perfectly, and with ease. Clothing accounts were kept by 3,078, and on the basis of these accounts and others made in previous years, clothing budgets were made by nearly all the demonstrators and cooperators. That was one chief reason why they could make a little money do a lot of work.

"Emphasis was laid on having a roomy, well - equipped and well-arranged clothes closet, because therein lies the secret of making clothes last a long time, and keeping them always looking well. There were 1932 clothes closets built ne wand 5668 completely equipped with hangers, shelves, pockets and the like.

"All told, this small army of women and girls made for themselves and members of their families clothing valued at $341,233 at a cost of $142,104. The average net saving on clothing made was $8.60 per person."

Woman's Study Club Honor Mrs. Harrison At Club Breakfast

One of the most delightful events of the season was the farewell breakfast which was enjoyed by members of the Woman's Study at the Dinner Bell at nine o'clock Saturday morning, May 6.

The table was laid for 28 guests and was beautifully decorated with cut flowers, iris, tulips, etc. At each plate was a nosegay of iris and fern.

After the invocation was pronounced by Mrs. Howard, the guests were seated and Mrs. Boone, the toastmistress, took charge of the program. As there is only one more meeting in this club year, the breakfast was given for the purpose of getting together socially for the last time and of naming Mrs. B. M. Harrison, who is leaving Littlefield as honoree.

Mrs. Boone made the opening address, "The Time to Part Has Come," in which she gave a brief resume of the year's work; expressed her appreciation of the cooperation which the various club members had given, and bade farewell to the members for the year. She then introduced Mrs. W. D. T. Storey, Mrs. B. L. Cogdill, Mrs. J. C. Hilburn and Mrs. J. E. Whicker, who gave brief talks, on which, in their estimation, had been the outstanding programs of the year.

Mrs. R. E. McCaskill was then introduced and gave a very clever sketch of each member of the club in rhyme.

Mrs. W. H. Gardner, the outgoing president, gave her farewell address and expressing the club's love for Mrs. Harrison and regret that she was leaving, presented her with a farewell gift.

Those who enjoyed the breakfast were Mesdames Boone, Harrison, Storey, Wright, Wiseman, Barnett, Hendrix, Shaw, McCaskill, Gardner, Stockton, Davis, Hewitt, Riley, Badger, Potter, Cooper, Hilburn, Cogdill, Sadler, Rowe and Coen.

AWAKENED WOMAN

by LINORE BARRY

With Installment

so far: Joyce Ashton, poor girl, in a skidding taxicab in Chicago, suffered loss of two years later she woke after a fall from her married to Neil Packard, a fruit packer. From her desk she learned some of her life in the two-year and realized that she had carelessly, recklessly young woman that she is seriously involved with a man named Frills Packard. She decided that at all costs she would end it, but she found it hard to manage. Her further complicated when a letter referring to a baby "hers"—that the writer, So-night Frills ought to have much to the surprise of her husband's employ, she a dog and he got her one.

after ten o'clock Sam the car to the front door and away her two suitcases. A teller at the bank greeted a friendly smile. "Good-morning, Mrs. Packard. Say, that was a tumble you took. How do you feel?" "I'm all right," replied Joyce. She pushed her check in at the counter and stood on tiptoe with breathlessness while he deliberately put the money. Then she thanked him abruptly and ran out to the car again. They were well out of the humming swiftly along the roads. Joyce felt her nervous nerves under the stimulus of a slightly mounting spirit of adventure. This was going to be fun, she felt happily.

was sitting at the table she had occupied, and she was disconcerted to find that he had picked up her book.

"I say, is this yours?" He was on his feet in an instant. "Please sit down. I want to talk to you about it. This is really very extraordinary." Joyce sat down, her embarrassment vanishing. She felt at home with this man, as if she already knew him well enough to be casual about the meeting. Why should she feel like that with a man she'd never seen before? He grinned at her with such informal friendliness that Joyce thought he must, surely, be a friend of Frills Packard. And yet—and yet—he was so unlike the Manzanita men! She stared at him, frankly curious.

He was much taller and looked almost as young as Neil. She guessed his age as about thirty-one or two. A splendid physique undoubtedly, with eagerly with her opinions of Robert Ainsworth, whom, he said, he "re-ferred above all other moderns." He praised Ainsworth so lavishly in fact, that Joyce had a sudden sense that he was making fun of her, and for the first time she felt a slight hostility toward him. She could not bear his admiration for Ainsworth, whom she considered so gifted a writer.

Hastily getting her bearings, she discovered that they had gone in a circle and were again near the Y. W. C. A., and she therefore led their steps in that direction.

"Good-bye," she said, "and it's been great fun talking with you. I'm only sorry you don't—quite—feel as I do about Robert Ainsworth. Under the circumstances, I shall have no compunctions about claiming my book!"

"Oh, but I do share your enthusiwide shoulders and strong arms. As for his face, the details of it impressed themselves on Joyce so strongly in the first few minutes of their meeting that she felt that she would never lose the picture.

"I'm afraid I'm not altruistic enough to give the book to you," laughed Joyce. "Robert Ainsworth is one of my favorite authors, and I've wanted to get hold of this book for years, but never could. It's out of print, you know."

The little Chinese waitress, subtly smiling, approached. "Some tea?" she asked.

Joyce rose hastily. "No, no, I must go—" "Then I'll go with you," he said at once, thrusting a bill in the hand of the little Chinese girl, and following Joyce, who was a little bewildered but glowing with pleasure.

They walked for over an hour, and Joyce discovered that her new friend had read nearly every book that had been written, and that his enthusiasms were largely hers. He agreed asm!" He bowed somewhat mockingly, and held up the book. "But you will let me sign the little sketch?" He propped the book up on his knee, and wrote in it slowly, meticulously; waved it about with maddening deliberation to blot the ink; then handed it to her, closed.

"Good-bye, Miss—?" "Joyce Ashton," she said without thought.

He raised his hat and was gone. Joyce was frankly disappointed. "He might have said he'd like to see me again," she thought, then added, "But oh dear, I've no right to go about being charmed by strange men! Why, oh why, did I have to meet so vital and intelligent a man—it'll only make life harder for me."

She opened the book, too upset in her thoughts at first to grasp what she saw.

Beneath the sketch was written, in an exceedingly beautiful handwriting, "Robert Ainsworth!"

It was inevitable that Joyce should think a great deal about Robert Ainsworth in the days that followed. She was an emotional girl, of warm, staunch enthusiasms and Robert Ainsworth won her unbounded admiration.

That she should ever meet him had not entered her wildest dreams. In fact, had she been introduced to him, she would have been tongue-tied, covered with the confusion of awe. Even looking back on their conversation, she blushed to think how boldly she had advanced her opinions before him! At the same time, she glowed with the realization that she had been absolutely herself, and that he had regarded her as at least intelligent enough to talk to.

It had been such a relief to shed the mantle of Frills Packard and discuss with frankness the things that she, Joyce Ashton, was interested in, that she knew, she had been unusually vivacious and lacking in shyness. Apparently, however, Ainsworth had been no more than casually interested. He had left her without protest, and he had made no effort to see her again. He had not despised her intelligence, but he had been indifferent to her femininity! All at once Joyce found this somewhat bitter.

Days went by and Joyce drifted on until one day she drew her thoughts up sharply. She had allowed herself to grow forgetful of her situation, to visualize Frills Packard as a separate person, and to consider herself as detached from Neil and Mait and the whole life in Manzanita. Little as she had grown used to it, Frills was herself! Frills' husband was her husband! Neil Packard: her husband, Neil, whom she had no more than barely spoken to, but on whose bounty she had been so lavishly living; here was problem enough to occupy her. More and more the subject of his return grew on her as a formidable reality.

Joyce had time during these two weeks to wonder about the friends she had left in the East. Did they ever think about her? She had been secretary to one of the members of the Lyman-Warde firm of advertising agents. Mr. John K. Lyman was an elderly, impersonal gentleman who had never appeared to recognize the fact that she might have a life outside of the office.

At the end of three years of this sort of existence Joyce was deathly sick of the city and the monotonous routine of her days, from the early morning scramble for her turn in the bathroom to the evening crush in the crowded stuffy trolley cars.

Joyce had made a sudden separate decision to get out of it all and try some other part of the country. Recklessly she gave up her position, sold her few Liberty Bonds, bought a ticket for San Francisco with stop-over privileges at Chicago and Denver, said goodbye to her friends, and started out for the West of which she had, to be frank, only the vaguest general knowledge.

As she lay in her bed in the Y. W. C. A., Joyce smiled and frowned alternately at the thought of how her plan had turned out.

Thirteen days after she had left Manzanita, Joyce received the word that ended her solitary campaign to fit herself for taking the position of Frills Packard again. The morning mail enclosed a laconic telegram from Neil: "Arrive Manzanita Monday evening." This was Monday morning. Joyce immediately got Sam on long distance and asked him to drive to the city for her.

On the way home she questioned him with forced interest about all that happened in her absence. Sam obligingly imparted what news he could think up: Dickie had won the love of both Roxie and Marcia; Rosita was in fine condition; Sam had exercised her a little every day but she was raring to go and Mrs. Packard would find her full of pep; there had been a small fire at the packing plant but almost no damage had been done; and so on, a list of trivial items to which Joyce listened with an interest that grew in spite of herself.

Dickie was at the gate to meet them and his joyous welcome filled Joyce with a quite disproportionate sense of the pleasure of coming home. But when she entered the big luxurious bedroom she was struck for the first time by the dismaying realization that soon she would be unable to flee to it for refuge and escape.

She unpacked hurriedly and had a bath, careful to take a negligee in with her and to lock the door. It was horrible to feel that at any moment a strange man might enter that bedroom, and that she could not order him out! Suppose he came in before she finished dressing! In a panic she jumped out of the bathtub and dried herself hastily.

She dressed in the huge closet, thankful that its size made this possible, and was completely ready before seven-thirty.

Dickie followed her downstairs and they went through the front door to gether. Just as they stepped outside a big blue touring car came up the driveway. Joyce felt a curious tightening in her throat as she recognized Neil Packard.

"Hullo there, darling, how've you been?" cried Packard, jumping out of the car. "I was hoping you'd write me again. It was great to get that letter from you." He came up with a broad, eager smile on his face and bent over her. Joyce forced herself to lift her face abediently for his kiss, but moved away hastily to prevent a second.

"You were lucky to get even one," she said lightly, but her heart thumped so hard it made her breath come short. "Look, who's here! Dickie, speak to the gent!"

"So that's your new dog, is it? Hullo, feller, you're a cute cuss, all right. Come here, boy!" Dickie was quite ready to make friends, for he appeared to regard every man in the light of a potential playmate. He began now a little eager whining interspersed with short barks.

"That means he wants you to throw a stick for him," she explained, "he has one great passion in life, and that's to be given something to worry and run away and play tug-of-war with."

Her voice faltered a little at the end when she looked up and met the puzzled expression on Packard's face. "Dinner's almost ready," she went on hastily, abandoning Dickie as a topic of conversation, "you haven't had any, have you?"

"No, and I'm hungry as a bear. Hope Marcia's got something good for us. Who's here tonight?"

ROUGH IN YOUR STOMACH

It's easy to say they're all alike—and easy to prove they are NOT.

Dissolve a genuine Bayer Aspirin tablet in water, pour it off, feel the fine powder that coats the glass.

Do this with some other tablet; see what coarse particles are left! They feel as sharp as sand, even to your finger. How must they affect those delicate membranes which line your throat—your stomach?

For immediate relief from headaches, colds, sore throat, neuralgia or neuritis, lumbago, rheumatism, there's nothing like Bayer Aspirin. It cannot depress the heart!

Investigations of All Fires Must Be Made and Reported

At a meeting of the Littlefield Fire Prevention Board, held at City Hall last Saturday afternoon, many im-portant matters were discussed, a-mong them that of the board's fail-ure in the past to investigate all fires within one week after the fire and report our findings to the State fire commission, also to make thorough investigations of all fire hazards re-ported to the state board such mat-ters as was necessary. We now find that if we are to keep our present fire rate this must be done in future; therefore we are asking the coopera-tion of every citizen in Littlefield. Any suggestion will be gladly re-ceived, and any report of fire haz-ards will be appreciated. It is our chief desire to cooperate with the public in every way possible to main-tain our present rate, and if a change is to come, to make it a cut instead of a raise.

At Saturday's meeting Mrs. T. B. Duke was appointed by the city com-mission to succeed Mrs. C. L. Har-less as a member of the Fire Board.

There will be another meeting of the board held at the city hall Mon-day afternoon, May 15, and there-after on the first Tuesday in each month. A thorough inspection of the town will be made in the near future. Joe F. Grizzle, Secretary.

Postoffice Lobby Now Remains Open

The lobby of the Littlefield Post Office now remains open throughout the night as the result of arrange-ments made by J. G. Singer, acting postmaster.

Immediate action was taken fol-lowing the receipt of a letter from the Post Office Department and com-plying with section 435, Postal Laws and Regulations.

The local officers are cooperating with Mr. Singer in making the accom-odation possible, and in this connec-tion the law regarding the penalty for breaking into a post office, of tam-pering with equipment belonging to the post office department, is as fol-lows:

Section 2236. "Whoever shall forc-ibly break into or attempt to break into any post office, or any building used in whole or in part as a post office, with intent to commit in such post office, or building, or part there-of, so used, any larceny or other de-gradation, shall be fined not more than one thousand dollars and impris-oned not more than five years."

Section 2340. "Whoever shall tear, burst or otherwise injure any mail bag, pouch, or other things used or designed for use in the conveyance of the mail, or shall draw or break any staple or loosen any part of any lock, chain, or strap attached thereto, or post office boxes, with intent to rob or steal any such mail, or to render the same insecure, shall be fined not more than five hundred dollars, or imprisoned not more than three years, or both."

Cause of Pellagra

Contributed By Miss Ruby Mashburn

The Following Information Was Given by Dr. Chas. D. Reece, State Epidemiologist.

"Pellagra is a disease caused by not eating the right kind of foods and shows itself usually by a strange kind of reddening and scalding of the skin," said Dr. John Brown, State Health Officer. "The person with pellagra usually suffers loss of ap-petite, indigestion, diarrhea, soreness of mouth and tongue, nervousness, low spirits and more or less general weakness."

"Thousands of Texans suffer with this disease and approximately one thousand die each year. More cases appear in the spring and summer months than any other time of the year. This is because more people live on a restricted diet during the winter. It comes to those whose diet does not contain all that is needed to keep one in good health. The missing essential in the diet is called the pellagra prevention factor or vitamin. We know this because people who eat the right kind of foods do not have the disease, because those who do have the disease and eat the right kind of food get well and remain well as long as they main-tain the proper diet and also when people are fed the wrong kind of food they develop the disease. Pellagra is not a communicable disease. The treatment should be directed by your doctor and the main thing is the diet. Do not rely on patent medicines. "The prevention of pellagra de-pends on eating the right kinds of foods at all times. To make sure that the diet is right, it should always in-clude plenty of milk daily, some fresh meat and as many vegetables as possible. Tomatoes, whole wheat pro-ducts, salmon, brewer's yeast, and fresh fruits are specially valuable. Having provided these essentials of a proper diet the rest may be arranged according to the family or personal likes. In this way you may avoid pellagra."

There were two deaths from pell-agra in Lamb county in 1931 and 1039 deaths in Texas in 1931. Pell-agra is caused by a dietary (vitamine) deficiency and it can be prevented. Fresh vegetables, milk, red meats, yeast and salmon are rich in this preventive factor.

Every case of pellagra should be reported to the city or county officer and then to the State Department of Health.

Rotary Membership Shows Increase

CHICAGO, ILL. — Seventy-seven new clubs have been elected to mem-bership in Rotary International since July 1, 1932, thus raising the total number of Rotary clubs throughout the world to 3,578. Most of these new clubs, as announced in the May Rotarian Magazine, are outside of English-speaking North America.

During this period, 20 clubs have surrendered their charters, leaving a net gain of fifty-seven clubs—a fig-ure that may be compared with 32 for all of the Rotary year of 1931-32.
