LOCAL CCC CAMP ASSISTS RANCHER IN INSTALLATION CONSERVATION

The grazing capacity of 3,500 acres of range land on his ranch has been more than doubled in one year, according to D. Gordon Cobb, who lives 15 miles northwest of Levelland.

Cobb purchased his present ranch of 4400 acres in the fall of 1938. At that time practically all the range land on the place had been overgrazed severely and much of the grass had been killed out. He kept all stock off the range during the spring and summer of 1939. It was grazed some in the fall and winter of 1939 when 900 sheep were grazed on the best part of the 3500-acre range.

The brief rest the pastures were given last year is largely responsible for the remarkable recovery the grasses have made, Cobb feels. He is now grazing 900 ewes with their lambs and 40 head of registered Hereford cows with calves on the 3500 acres. He feels that he can still further increase the livestock on this area next year.

The range is divided into three large pastures. Each pasture will be given a rest of a few months every year, under the present range management plan of the Cobb ranch. Cobb is a firm believer in the theory that controlled grazing must be practiced on practically all range land of this country if it is to remain a permanent resource.

Contour furrows have been constructed on 1800 acres and he plans to build furrows on the remainder of the land, except where it is rough and gullied, within the next few years. He states that the moisture held on the land by the contour furrows has greatly increased grass growth above them.

The Cobb ranch has approximately 850 acres of cultivated land on it. Five hundred acres of this land has been placed in cultivation since he purchased the place in 1935. Terraces have been constructed on 250 acres of the cultivated land and it is Cobb's plan to build terraces on the remainder of this land next year. All of the crop land is farmed on the contour and strip cropping is practiced on many fields.

Terraces, contour tillage, and strip cropping have conserved moisture and increased crop yields, according to Cobb. Some cotton is grown on the place but a great part of the cultivated acreage of the ranch is used for the production of feed crops such as hogari, kafir, milo and Sudan grass for pasture. Large food reserves are maintained on the ranch in trench silos.

Wildlife conservation also is a part of the soil and water conservation program. Nineteen wildlife plots have been established on the ranch. Wildlife refuges for the most part are in gullied areas and around farm ponds. Many coveys of quail can be found on the ranch and ducks are numerous on the ponds during fall and winter months. The ponds also are plentifully stocked with fish.

The Soil Conservation CCC Camp at Littlefield has been assisting Cobb in the installation of his conservation program. The CCC boys helped him build many of the stock ponds, constructed contour furrows and established wildlife sites. Conservation specialists from the camp have helped him plan the program and have done survey work for terrace lines and strip cropping on his cultivated fields.

NEW MERCURY IS BIGGER, EASIER RIDING, AND MORE BEAUTIFUL

DEARBORN, Mich., Sept. 26 — A longer, bigger, easier-riding faster accelerating Mercury with new sweeping speed lines, rolled into public view last week.

The car which made tenth place in its first year and strengthened it last year, looks as though it should go even further in 1941.

The smart new exteriors with their bright metal fender speedlines, new chrome radiator grilles, doors that practically enclose the running boards, hidden gasoline filler cap, new chrome fender-top parking lights and heavier bumpers, with center mounted front license plate are a few of the exterior points which will be immediately observed as now on the 1941 Mercury-8.

The Mercury now has a two-inch longer wheelbase with spring base increased in proportion to 129 inches. The sedan body is roomier than ever before, the front seat measuring 57 1-2 inches in width from door to door and the rear 51 inches. The easier riding of these bodies is not all due to the increased roominess, but is enhanced by the new full luxury type individual cushion springs used. Over these is a heavy pad of foam rubber which contributes to the unusual softness found in the cushions this year.

The interiors of the car are more beautiful than before. The instrument panel is redesigned, placing all the gauges and speedometer under a single glass directly in front of the driver, where they may be clearly seen through the "clear vision" two-spoke steering wheel.

J. T. Flowers, Confederate Veteran, Dies At Anton

One of the few Confederate veterans in this section, James T. Flowers, passed away at 5:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon after a brief illness, at his home at Anton.

Mr. Flowers, who would have observed his 93rd birthday Friday, September 27, had resided in Anton 15 years, going there just after the townsite was started.

Funeral services were held at the Anton Church of Christ by Jack McCormick, minister from Littlefield, at 4:30 Saturday afternoon. Interment was in the Anton cemetery.

Survivors are the wife; five sons, John of Logan, N. M.; Lester of Dallas; Chester of Paducah; and Thomas and George of Anton; and two daughters, Mrs. Kate McKinney of Fullerton, Calif., and Mrs. Sarah Jane Orenshaw of Texas. He is also survived by 25 grandchildren and 16 great grandchildren.

Active until about two weeks ago, when he suffered a paralytic stroke, Mr. Flowers attended the Confederate Veterans' reunion at Gettysburg in 1938, with the few veterans from the South Plains. Several of those who accompanied Mr. Flowers have passed away the past two years.

James T. Flowers was born Sept. 27, 1847 at LaGrange, Ga. His father, Henry H. Flowers, died in the trenches during the Civil War, fighting with General Lee's army. He was left an orphan when his mother passed away a year later, and went to live with an uncle, Jimmy Humber. But young Flowers was not satisfied and he ran off and went to serve in whatever capacity a boy of his age could with "Fighting Joe" Wheeler. But, his uncle found him and took him back home. Later he worked on a supply train, which in those days was a large number of wagons, taking supplies from LaGrange to Atlanta. He served in one of the last battles of the Civil War, at Chickamauga.

In January, 1873, Mr. Flowers and his brother, Henry, came to Texas and stopped at Jefferson, which at that time was a city of some 35,000 people. Later he came west and settled near where town of Wylie is now located. There he met Miss Ruth Wilkerson, a northern girl, and they were married April 2, 1876.

Although Mr. Flowers was a strong Southerner, and Mrs. Flowers, who was reared in Missouri and had watched the southern armies tramp through her home during the war, they "buried the hatchet" after their marriage, and would never talk about the Civil War to their children.

They lived near Breckenridge, Texas for several years after their marriage. There he hauled supplies for the government to feed the Indians, whom the government

Local Clubs Represented At Plainview District Meeting

Approximately 500 women gathered at the First Baptist Church, Plainview, Saturday in an all day club institute, when Hale County Federation was host to all clubs in the Seventh District.

From the Littlefield Study Club, the following members attended: Mesdames V. S. Cassel, F. O. Bolea, W. H. Gardner, L. T. Green and Earl Hobbs.

Members of the Junior Study Club from this city in attendance were: Misses Johnnie Pace, Erna Douglass, Laura Virginia Bills, June Glasscock and Myrtle Woodfin.

Purpose of the gathering was to honor the retiring and incoming officers of the Seventh District, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs and to inspire the clubs to take a greater interest in the local, national and international problems at hand.

National defense was the keynote of all the talks, particularly those made by Mrs. Volney Taylor of Brownsville, past state president, and a director to the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins of Eastland, current president of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Perkins delivered a brilliant address taking as her subject, "This Shrinking World." She pointed out the work that clubwomen can do at home toward making friends with and being an influence on the Latin Americans in this country. She said there are approximately 81,000 Latin Americans in San Antonio alone. She stressed education as a means of promoting national defense, saying that there are 100,000 school-age children in Texas who are not in school. The clubwomen can make it their project to remedy the causes of their not being in school.

Mrs. Taylor, whose subject was "Strengthening Our National Defenses," said that home morale and good health among the citizens are two things the clubwomen can do toward building up a national defense. As state commander of the American Society for the Control of Cancer, she dealt particularly with the subject of malignant diseases, quoting statistics as to cures in early stages of development. She urged all the women to do their part in getting people in their communities to have annual physical check-ups and start treatment for all ailments while there is a chance for cure.

The morning session of the convention evolved itself into a testimonial session which revealed the district's wholehearted support of Mrs. J. W. Walker, candidate for the presidency of the Texas Federation. Practically every club represented indicated its intention of sending a voting delegate to the state convention in Austin in November.

Pete Smith, secretary of the Plainview Chamber of Commerce, was on hand to take reservations on the chartered buses which Plainview clubwomen have made available at $5 a round-trip ticket to all delegates in the district.

The Plainview women were hostesses for luncheon at the noon hour. The honor guests sat at a special table in the church basement. Corsages of yellow chrysanthemums and autumn leaves marked each place.

Mrs. H. F. Godeke of Lubbock, president-elect, conducted a parliamentary drill during the afternoon session. Mrs. J. M. Rutherford of Chillicothe, retiring president, presided for the last time in the district. She was presented with a cameo pin by Mrs. J. A. Hill of Canyon on behalf of a group of her closest friends in the district.

Mrs. Hill and Mrs. W. E. Davis of Childress, life members, were introduced along with numerous other luminaries. The day's program included an inspirational talk on program planning by Mrs. Jean Rodgers of Quanah and a musical program presented by the Plainview Treble Clef Chorus and its director, Charles Dey, who played two organ selections.

Yoke Frock

Pattern 8760—Yoke frocks have a charming youth about them, and this one (design No. 8760) shows why they are becoming so slim figures. The bodice, gathered onto the yoke, has a nice filling-out effect, and the corsette waistline diminishes your middle to practically nothing.

Less severe than a shirtwaister, its exactly as practical and smart for daytime, and more flattering to misses' sizes.

This pattern is one of the satisfactory kind that you can repeat time after time in different materials and colors. In dark spun rayon or flat crepe it's a smart business dress. In printed percale or gingham, its comfortable and pretty for housework. Trim it with bright or white braid, or bias binding.

Pattern No. 8760 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 14 requires 4 1/4 yards of 39-inch material without nap; 3 5/8 yards of broad or binding.

Jewell Jennings And Carl Mueller Wed At Lubbock

Miss Jewell Jennings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Jennings of Levelland, became the bride of Lieut. Carl B. Mueller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Mueller of Austin, Wednesday evening, September 25, at 8:00 at the home of Mrs. F. R. Friend, Lubbock. Rev. R. T. Breedlove, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Levelland, officiated with the single ring ceremony.

The bride who entered on the arm of her father, wore a white satin wedding gown with a three point fingertip length veil fastened by a halo of seed pearls. For "something old and something borrowed," she wore an old fashioned gold bracelet belonging to her mother. Her bouquet was of pale pink sweetheart and white tube roses.

Miss Pzra Cobb of Nacogdoches was maid of honor. She wore an ashen of roses taffeta gown and carried a bouquet of cream roses. The bridesmaids, Miss Lorene Newsum of Littlefield, and Miss Bettye Bryan, of Levelland, wore azure blue taffeta gowns and carried colonial bouquets of talisman roses.

Homer Mueller of Austin served his brother as best man. Lieut. Clifton N. Bellamy of Lubbock was groomsmen.

The vows were exchanged before an arch of white dahlias with "Jennings-Mueller" in blue chenille letters running across it. Fern and pink gladioli were massed beneath it and tall candles and baskets of pink gladioli flanked the sides.

Before the ceremony, Mrs. Carl Scoggin of Lubbock sang "Before You Came," and Miss Martha Marie Lane of Sudan sang "I Love You Truly." Miss Polly Price of Childress played "The Wedding March" from "Lohengrin" (Wagner) accompanied on the violin by Miss Pauline Stephens of Levelland. As the vows were read she played "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life."

The bride's mother wore a black lace and crepe gown and the bridegroom's mother black crepe. Both wore corsages of gardenias.

The reception was held immediately after the wedding. The table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with a three-tier wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom. A wreath of roses twined with ivory surrounded the cake. Vases of roses were placed at each end of the table and ivy formed a border around the table-edge. Tall candles in gold candle-sticks lighted the dining room.

After the bride had cut the first slice, Miss Alma Byers presided at the cake and Miss Helen Ross Green served the ice cream. They were assisted by Miss Lane and Miss Newsum. Misses Price and Bryan presided at the register.

Mrs. Mueller received a B. S. degree in general home economics from Texas Technological college in February of this year. She was a member of the Home Economics club, and Las Armonias. She was vice president of Las Armonias the past year.

Lieut. Mueller received a B. S. degree in petroleum engineering from Texas A. & M. college in 1938. He is now with the United States Army stationed at Fort McIntosh, Laredo, where the couple will be at home after a short trip to Mexico City. The bride's traveling suit was of soldier blue and she wore black accessories and a corsage of sweetheart roses.

Out of town guests were the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Mueller, Mrs. Gus Borner, Mrs. R. G. Mueller, Mrs. Carl Edward Boch, Austin; the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Alfred Basse, Miss Tante Normie, Mr. and Mrs. Travis Moursend, San Antonio; Misses Alma Byers, Sybil Byers and Regna Crowe, Littlefield; and Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Cobb, Silverton. Forty-five other guests attended from Lubbock, Smyer and Levelland.

Wildcats To Play Morton Friday In Conference Game

Phillips Passes Plove Too Baffling For Locals In Second Game

Defeated in two starts, the Littlefield Wildcats will seek a conference win and their first victory of the season here Friday night against the Morton Indians, another "hard luck" team of the northern 5A circuit.

A fast Phillips crew, taking almost two quarters to get going, finally found the range and downed the Wildcats 20 to 0 here last Friday night in a game which provided few thrills for the home fans.

Opening up with an aerial attack to score a touchdown in the closing minutes of the second quarter, the visiting eleven—a tricky combine from the North Plains—continued their overhead tactics in the last half to rack up two more counters.

The first touchdown was on a short pass from Cooper, the star of the night, to Braden, alert end. A pass try for extra point failed. The Cooper-Braden combination clicked for another touchdown, but only after Cooper had zipped one to Troyce Waldrep, speedy halfback, for the second counter. A kick which split the uprights accounted for one of the conversions, and a pass turned the trick for the other. The Wildcats simply couldn't get going against a sturdy defense led by Stevens, 230-pound Phillips lineman, and Epps, fighting center. Coach Abe Murphy kept a stream of players filing between the bench and the playing field, but failed to uncover a scoring combination.

In spots the locals looked good, but those spots were not frequent enough to cause any of the spectators to see a physician. On offense the Wildcat's blocking was particularly weak, and on defense they couldn't solve the Phillips passing attack.

Friday night's game with Morton, however, is expected to be a different story altogether. The Indians have been pushed around by first one team and then another and last week lost a lopsided 46-0 contest to the Olton Mustangs, defending loop champions.

Despite the brace of defeats suffered by the Wildcats, interest in the team still is high (as it should be). The newly organized Downtown Quarterbacks club is doing a good job in keeping interest at a lofty level. This support on the part of the fans is expected to accomplish much toward helping the Wildcats turn what threatens to be a disastrous season into a good one.

Olton's Mustangs Take First Victory

The Hedges twins, Willard and Willis, showed marked improvement in defensive play and picked up where they left off last fall as Olton's Mustangs took their first district 5A victory at Olton Friday, defeating Morton, 46 to 0.

Willard carried over three touchdowns, Willis went over twice, Otto Ozment scored once and John Daugherty once. The half ended with Olton leading 19-0.

Olton's second team played most of the second half with Curtis Pearcy, sub center, standing out defensively. One of Willis Hedges' touchdowns was an 80-yard kickoff return opening the second half.

Sudan Loses To Levelland Loboes

LEVELLAND, Sept. 27 — Levelland came back strong in the late stages tonight to bowl over Sudan, 28 to 0.

The Loboes missed two chances to score in the first quarter when scoring threats bogged down on the 10-yard line. However, Green climaxed a 45-yard drive in the second quarter when he went over from the six.

Green's pass in the second period was complete to Wiley, who ran 27 yards for another counter. The pass was the end of another drive, this time for 78 yards.

Early in the final period, Walker plugged head at the Sudan line, setting the ball up on the 4-yard stripe. Green carried it over. Arrington converted after each touchdown.

Green got loose from the Sudan 30 with seconds to play and scored standing. He then plunged over for the extra point.

Levelland gained 246 yards from scrimmage to 64 for Sudan and compiled 16 first downs against 4.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
 Roy Shahan, Pastor
 October is known as State Mission Month in all our 3,125 Baptist churches in Texas. The ladies of the church are having their program and special week of prayer for state missions this week. The pastor will speak at the morning hour Sunday on "The Field—the Forces—the Fruits—and the Future of Our Mission Work."

At the evening hour, the subject will be "Troubles." Exodus 15:22-26. Have you experienced troubles in life? If not, you will. What effect will these troubles have upon you? How will you bear or solve them? These evening messages deal with Christian experience. Your presence appreciated.

AMHERST METHODIST CHURCH

There are many calls today to the minds of men, but when people get in great distress then they turn all things down except the very essentials. An English preacher with his congregation worshipping in a bomb defense underground shelter said to the world recently, we need your materials, ships, men and money, but most of all do we need your prayers. If so be the English need this, how much more so do the other nations of the world. Another was known to say in the terror zone, if your knees shake steady them by kneeling on them and praying. America is far from the zone of war, but might we not be able to help in many ways.

We, with other pastors we suppose are getting calls for help for the war-ridden peoples, but under present conditions it seems to us that this relief for the needy may be taken and used by our enemies for the defeating of us and our ideals.

We had a great service at the church last Friday in the organizing of the work of the women, instituting the Woman's Society of Christian Service.

Il Duce should remember that All our regular services for the week, and you are with us. Egypt is a land of its people have its great embalmers. Mut

'Boom Town' With Clark Gable Spencer Tracy Opens at Palace

...one of the greatest in the history of motion pictures, and utilizing this stellar talent in a story that for fast action and thrills, 'Boom Town' opens Saturday mid-morning at the Palace Theatre, continuing through Sunday at the Palace Theatre, one of the most thrilling and popular productions to come to Hollywood in some time.

Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy, Hedy Lamarr, and Hedy Lamarr in stellar roles, 'Boom Town' surpasses in star names even the greatest of thrill pictures, the air epic 'Test Pilot,' and Gable, Tracy, Myrna Loy and Hedy Lamarr at the head of the cast.

McGlynn, Sr. and Curt Bois. These players join hands in presenting a thrill-packed human interest story which shows Gable and Tracy in a total of five fights, one of which is a terrific battle between themselves, the frantic fight to blast out a roaring oil well fire, gushers tearing upward with mighty roars, a spouting water geyser, Gable on a bucking mule, a dive into a sea of mud by Gable and Tracy to escape the bullets of two gun fighters, a fight between two dance hall girls, a dramatic hold-up of a load of oil equipment, in addition to comedy by Morgan, Wills and Miss Gombell and even the songs of the men who spud in for oil.

Amherst Lions Receive Charter

The Amherst Lions Club received its charter Thursday night when District Governor F. V. Wallace of Dumas presented the parchment to President C. A. Drury at a program in the Amherst Club. The program began at 8:30 o'clock. Robert H. Bean, past president of the Lubbock club, gave the principal address on 'Lionism.'

A delegation, headed by Rev. James H. Sharp from the Littlefield Lions Club attended the meeting.

Other clubs represented at the meeting were Lubbock, Littlefield, Olton and Dumas.

Lester LaGrange was toastmaster and after the singing of America and invocation by Rev. L. S. Jenkins, Baptist pastor, and the serving of the meal, the program was given.

Mayor Aubrey Loyd welcomed the visitors saying the town was 'happy and glad to have you come out here,' and Rev. James H. Sharp of Littlefield, substituting for President Billy Hall of that club, said the guests were 'indeed glad to be here.' R. B. Parkinson of Lubbock entertained with a stunt which the audience applauded.

District Governor Wallace told the club its charter was 'an evidence of faith, a bestowal of colors,' from the international organization and the 'principles of American brotherhood,' governed the free citizens who belonged. He pointed out that freedom of thought and action marked American ways of life. President Duffy in accepting the charter said it 'marked an era of development in our community.'

The Allen family of negro singers rendered five negro spirituals. Secretary George Watkins of the Lubbock club directed the quartet in the absence of Emmett Gallo-way, counselor of the Gogge club, of which they are members, who was unable to be present.

Past President Robert H. Bean of the Lubbock club introduced as 'Judge Roy Bean, the law west of the Pecos,' said he was 'Robert, not Roy,' and was the law east of the Pecos. Bean gave his personal experiences as a member of the Lubbock club for more than 11 years to show the workings of a civic group in a community.

The Littlefield club, sponsors, had 28 members and their wives present. Olton was represented by an officer and his wife and the district governor represented the Dumas club.

"HE STAYED FOR BREAKFAST" COMES TO RITZ STARRING LORETTA YOUNG

Loretta Young, who shot to new fame with her comedy role in Columbia's "The Doctor Takes a Wife," and Melvyn Douglas, who already possesses a distinguished record as one of Hollywood's most gifted farceurs, are the new comedy starring combination of Columbia's "He Stayed for Breakfast," which opens at the Ritz Theatre Saturday midnight, continuing through Sunday and Monday.

Hailed as one of the season's most delightful love-on-the-run laughfests, "He Stayed for Breakfast" was directed by Alexander Hall, with a supporting cast which includes Alan Marshall, Eugene Pallette and Una O'Connor.

Set in a Paris background, the new comedy hilariously describes the romance of a politically-conscious cafe waiter and the estranged wife of a pompous banker. Douglas, in the former role, is a fugitive from the law for having taken a pot-shot at the financier; Miss Young connives at his escape and, in the end, takes a shot at the financier herself! But between the hectic beginning and the hilarious end of "He Stayed for Breakfast" there is said to be an immeasurable quantity of great, good humor, of delightful, witty dialogue and of happily novel situations.

Some Texas girl will be crowned Queen of Queens and get a chance at the movies at the State Fair of Texas opening night, October 5. She will be selected on personality and general attractiveness.

Sabu and June, official guests of the World's Fair, came to the Ford building for luncheon. Besides June and other beautiful girls, two typically American things drew Sabu's admiration. His black eyes snapped with delight at the thrill-rides, especially the parachute-jump; and he couldn't get enough of the machinery he saw. He got most fun of all from a mighty useful beast of burden at the Ford exhibit—a new Ford tractor. The powerful light-weight farm machine is demonstrated there daily. Sabu drove one himself, shouting and grinning over its easy-to-handle controls.

The Indian lad, now 16, became a star overnight four years ago. He was an elephant-boy in real life in India and was discovered by a visiting British movie-maker.

1940 AAA Program Closes Nov. 30

In all Texas counties except a few in the extreme southern portion of the state, the 1940 AAA program closes November 30.

For 12 counties—Brooks, Cameron, Duval, Hidalgo, Jim Hogg, Jim Wells, Kenedy, Kleberg, McMullen, Starr, Willacy and Zapata—the closing date has been set for October 31.

Farmers and ranchmen participating in the AAA program must complete soil-building and range building practices by these dates if they expect to receive credit on this year's program, George Slaughter, chairman of the state AAA committee, explained.

The chairman urged that all farmers and ranchmen cooperating with the program try to complete as much conservation work as possible before the deadline in order to earn the bulk of the maximum amount available for that purpose under the program. The maximum amount for each farm is determined on a basis of the acreage of non-soil depleting cropland, non-crop open pastureland, vegetable allotment, and commercial orchards on the farm. To receive these payments, the producer is required to carry out approved soil-building practices. For ranches a similar allowance is set up, based on the number of animal units in the grazing capacity and the acreage of rangeland.

Married Men Not To Be Exempt From U. S. Army Draft

Army officials have made it plain that married men will not be exempted from the draft simply and automatically because they are married.

In each individual case, that point is to be decided by the local draft board on its own merits and, if necessary, after an inquiry as to whether the wife or other dependent is actually dependent upon the draftee's earnings for a livelihood. Thus, private means of income and such questions as whether the wife has a job apparently are to be taken into consideration.

Officials of the selective service system reversed a previous opinion to set this forth. Meanwhile, preparing to provide shelter for the conscripts, the Senate passed an appropriation of $338,263,902 for building barracks and other facilities.

Also connected with the financial aspects of the draft, some $1,640,000 a month, officials estimated, will be distributed among the local draft boards for clerical help in the big job of registering and choosing from 16,500,000 young men. The printing bill for registration forms alone is expected to run to $1,500,000.

Officials have decided to use much of the same lottery system to determine who actually must go to the military camps that was used in the World war draft.

Registration cards will be sent to each draft board. The board will write or stamp a serial number in the upper left hand corner of each card. Then the cards will be thoroughly shuffled. Thus the first man to register on the morning of October 16 may get the highest number and the last to present himself in the evening may get the lowest—or any number in between.

But these are not the numbers which determine the order in which the men will be called up for service. That will be determined by a drawing in Washington. Each draft board will wire to the war department the highest number it has issued. From these reports, the army will determine the highest number held by any registrant in the country.

If that number is 10,687, for instance, 10,687 numbered slips, each in a druggist's gelatine capsule, will be placed in a big gold fish bowl. After the capsules have been thoroughly stirred, the president, or some other high official will, blindfolded, pick a capsule from the bowl.

It will be opened, and the number of the slip announced. If that number is 332, for instance, it will mean that the man in each draft area who has the serial number 332 on his card will be the first called.

Parent-Teacher Association School of Instruction Held At Spade School

Monday, September 24 at 2 p. m. The Parent-Teachers Association School of Instruction was held in the Spade school gym.

Forty-five ladies were present. Five local units were represented: Spring Lake, Amherst, Olton, Sudan and Spade.

Mrs. A. D. Melton, a stately brunette, lovely in a burgundy wine ensemble, was the chairman of county council from Olton. She opened the proceedings with a brief talk, then turned the floor over to Mrs. H. G. Stinnett.

Mrs. Stinnett, the 14th District president from Plainview, gave a short talk and introduced our speaker and conductor of the school of instruction, Mrs. E. H. Becker, 2nd State vice president from Houston.

Mrs. Stinnett, a lovely brown-eyed brunette, wore a dress ensemble of black crepe with powder rose jacket and black accessories. She was as lovely to look at as her talk was interesting to hear.

She has a striking and forceful personality and is indeed a very voluble and fluent speaker.

One could never imagine her, like Socrates, practicing with pebbles in his mouth to overcome speech difficulties. Quite the contrary, one could come nearer imagining her as the Irish jokingly call it, "kissing the blarney stone when small," for she is a natural-born conversationalist.

As she closed her talk, she presented Mrs. Becker, who graciously acknowledged the introduction and began to speak.

Mrs. Becker is one of the loveliest, most charming and gracious ladies it has ever been my privilege to meet. In looks, manners and speech she radiates that sweet personality I have always thought typifies a true Southern lady.

She was dressed in a lovely shadow-blue dress, notable for its smart simplicity; and her hat, a black felt Breton set off to a charming advantage her softly waved, silver-gray hair.

In a pleasing, well modulated voice she talked, explaining the various phases of Parent-Teacher Association's work; answered questions; conversed with her audience; asked their opinions, etc. Her's was no cold, formal talk, but a warm, whole-hearted sincere and helpful talk that seemed to bring her audience in a charmed circle of complete oneness and closeness of thought and mind.

She closed her talk with the devotional, Parent-Teachers Association's prayer.

Somewhere, somehow I had derived an idea, probably shared by a few, that a school of instruction was a dusty, musty old cold set of figures, tabulations and facts so far out of a normal person's scope that it left one gasping for breath. But I went away with those ideas completely changed.

Any community could benefit by such a talk as Mrs. Becker gave, for her inspirational address gives each and every one an earnest desire to strive and work forward for the best and the good of our common interest; our community and our school.

It is with deep appreciation that we were privileged to hear Mrs. Becker's wonderful talk, and our only regret is that we are unable to hear her more often.

35,000,000 CHILDREN RETURN TO SCHOOL

By Dr. B. W. Armistead
Optometrist, Littlefield

Parents will spend an estimated one billion dollars to get the youngsters ready for school this year. A vast migration has begun this month. A migration ten times greater than all others in the world. And happier. It will encompass 35,000,000. Young persons. But they won't be traveling far—just around the corner to school.

That's a lot of people, 35,000,000. It's almost as many as there are in the British Isles altogether; only a few million less than in France. It is one-quarter of the population of America.

This migration will entail a tremendous initial expense—one billion dollars. One billion dollars for hats, coats, dresses, suits, shoes and other clothes. One billion dollars spent happily—by parents who want their children to have the best of everything. In some countries parents think that a child's main duty is to grow up so he can take care of himself. Not in this country.

In this country parents go without things for themselves, if necessary so that their children can have all the vitamins from A to G. And if any new vitamins come along, they will see to it that the youngsters get those, too. They spend hundreds of dollars for automobiles and gasoline and tires so that the children can have better vacations and enjoy life more. They spend thousands for houses that are pleasant to live in. They scrimp here and save there; do without this, won't buy that—so that their children can go to college.

Parents will spend a billion dollars when those youngsters start to migrate. But that is only a fraction of the cost—billions more have gone into schools and playgrounds and teachers.

Free educational facilities, unequalled in any nation on earth have been provided for these children. Cities and states and the national government support free health education clinics. Cities and towns and large public-supported organizations provide swimming pools, and tennis and handball courts, gymnasiums and baseball fields. All for these children—the 35,000,000 children of school age.

It is done because everyone wants those children to grow up into good American citizens—men and women worthy of American traditions and capable of maintaining them.

For this, these future citizens need intelligence—a good education that teaches them how to think. They need to be capable and courageous—to see a problem and meet it squarely and successfully. They need good characters and healthy bodies.

Yet 7,000,000 of those youngsters are not going to be able to get full benefit from all this effort made for them. The 7,000,000 who have defective sight. The future of those youngsters—and the effect of those futures to America is a responsibility that rests squarely on the shoulders of eyesight specialists.

The eyesight specialist knows what a handicap defective vision is to a youngster. He knows how, for one thing, it hampers children in their school work. They have seen the "poor" students transformed when his vision was corrected—into a student with high marks. They know, too, how defective vision warps a child's character. They have seen "problem children"—intractable, willful children—transformed into happy pleasant, likable children through the correction of an unsuspected defect of vision. They know that a child who cannot keep up with his classmates in school is apt to become a bully who seeks by physical force to prove his equality with his classmates. The eyesight specialist knows how defective sight can tie a child to a world of books—because he can read books, and he can't play with any skill the outdoor games that are building the health of his playmates. He knows how such an eyesight defect can ultimately make the child a shy, backward young man or girl who doesn't know the first thing about getting on with other people. He knows, too, how insidious defective vision is. How it can exist without either the child or the parent knowing it. Other defects of the body have symptoms easily recognized by parents. Ear ache, stomach aches, etc., are known to the parents. Colds bring sniffles and coughs. Childish ailments bring spots and swellings. These symptoms are all apparent to and perceivable by the parents, who hasten to remedy them. But no one can see through another person's eyes.

Block & Bridle Rodeo On Campus At Tech College

LUBBOCK, Tex., Oct. 1 — Collegiate cowhands will ride 'em and rope 'em October 19 at Texas Tech's Block and Bridle rodeo, first to be held on the campus in several years. The day has been designated All-College Western Day by President Clifford B. Jones, and events are open to all regularly enrolled students. The celebration which will be held at the Panhandle-South Plains fairgrounds in Lubbock, replaces La Remuda, annual show of the Division of Agriculture. Some of the feats which will test western prowess of Tech collegians are Brahma steer riding, calf roping, bronc busting and trick riding. Tentative plans call for a girls' roping contest. Queen of the day will be selected in a cowgirl contest, the winner to be chosen for beauty, riding ability, and suitable dress.

A morning parade, afternoon rodeo, and evening all-college barn dance at Texas Tech gymnasium comprise the day's activities.

JOSEPH M. CORD

CHAPTER III SYNOPSIS

Audrey Swan, nicknamed "Cygie," is the only child of a highly respected horse trainer. His farm is the estate of Judge Castle, and his only son, Jeffrey, has returned to Parville expecting to work in his father's law office. Audrey and Jeffrey have lifelong friends and now Jeffrey is interested in another girl, Eileen Cooper, whom he has met at a week end visit. Audrey and Mrs. Castle invites Olive to a dinner party at the Castle home. A few minutes after she hears Olive addressed as "Miss Swan" by Judge Castle's booming voice, she pierces her bewilderment.

"Upon my word, if it isn't my girl! Audrey you've quite turned up... and into a very nice young lady. Eh, Louise?" "Yes, indeed!" Mrs. Castle's plump and beaming, appeared a formal elevation. "So pleased to have you here, my dear." Then the butler appeared at the door with an announcement that dinner was served. "Victor, dear you are Miss Swan in. See that she is nicely taken care of."

"To the death," that young man smiled gravely, offering his arm. The time she was seated, Audrey reached the conclusion that she had approved of Victor Quinn. He wasn't handsome, like Jeff, but he was very much alive and interesting. There was a cheek quality to his remarks and the suspicion of a smile in the deep-set gray eyes. "It seems to me Jeffrey said you were a school friend," she suggested politely to break a somewhat awkward silence.

"More than a friend," Victor admitted. He lowered his voice to a confidential tone. "You see, Jeffrey doesn't care for the law. I had to do it was due to me that he didn't make out. God help him if he ever takes the State exam!" Audrey laid her bouillon spoon down and lifted her napkin to her mouth, controlling an impulse to look at Mr. Quinn's next remark. He must have been catching her, but he looked the other way as he observed gently: "That's the cutest little trick you ever did just then."

"Don't you like it?" was the sure retort. "I can't help it." "Of course I do. Only it makes me feel that I should offer you a carrot. I was prepared to do you, Audrey Swan. But not completely. I had a pet rabbit and I loved it." "I believe I like you, too, Mr. Quinn. In spite of your memories." After dinner the general conversation seemed to languish and the party revealed an inclination to separate into groups. "Look, Audrey," Vic remarked suddenly. "That next room appears to be the judge's library. Let's slip in and have a look and a smoke. Mind?" "I'd love to."

"Say! You know this is what I like!" Vic stood by the big table with its softly glowing lamp, leaning the shelves that lined all available wall space, reaching from floor to ceiling. Audrey stood with her back to the table, leaning her weight on her two palms. A long time since she had been in this room, and the familiar surroundings brought a pang. Like homesickness.

She was recalled to the present by Vic. He was regarding her through half-closed eyes, his head on one side. "What did you want to ask me, Audrey?" She looked up with a start, utterly discomfited by his shrewdness. "What made you think I want to ask you anything?" was her parrying retort. "Deduction, my child. Didn't I tell you I was a lawyer? So what?"

"When you were telling me about these people at dinner I thought you were careful not to include..." "The guest of honor? Maybe I am a little more informative about the judge. You're right. Would I have been putting my finger on a ten-spot?" "That's ridiculous! Jeff told me so much about her, only he didn't happen to mention that she was married. Or had been. It did hit me just a little when he introduced us. I wondered if I misunderstood."

"No. You didn't misunderstand. She was married about two years ago. Still is. But the mill is grinding." "Oh! You mean she's getting a divorce." "It's in the bag. I happen to know. I'm a sort of satellite of Blumenthal and Brand. We don't trifle with such cases as a rule, but Olive's papa is the best and only Harvey Harrison. Since Mr. Cooper will be eased out of the scene without any fanfare of trumpets. And preferably,

"Then I'm sorry for her." "Um... m." Vic was staring through the drawing room door. "People in her circles have quaint notions of marriage. It's like buying a fur wrap. If the style changes or you figure it isn't becoming, you work it off on the second-hand man and pick out something different. You wouldn't know about that."

"We're getting quite too serious," Audrey decided. "Could we dance?" "The very thing I was going to suggest," Vic declared. "It's my one social grace."

Victor Quinn proved to be an accomplished dancer and Audrey felt a momentary regret when Jeff cut in after one circuit of the big hall. "Not sorry you came?" he asked almost at once.

"What do you think?" "That if you're bored you're hiding it very well. You must have cast a spell over Vic. He always suspects lone females of being your nose," he grinned impudently. "And that reminds me... I think you'll see a cavalcade of sorts heading this way after a bit. Jeff gave a glowing account of your equine menagerie and Olive was all set for an inspection."

"The sound of the telephone bell came from the hall. It was Jeffrey Castle. "Hello, Audrey. Would it be all right if some of us rode over after a bit? We want to have a try at your bars, if you don't mind. We'll all go for a ride later, so be ready to join us."

"Maybe." "Sure you can. Say, Cygie, Vic is missing this morning. Nobody's seen him."

"He's here." "The devil you say! So it's as bad as all that?" "You win," she admitted to Vic who stood smiling at her from the doorway. "Let's go."

When the stables were reached, Audrey introduced the guest to her father and admitted to a little feeling of relief at Vic's attitude. He displayed a keen interest in all that was shown him. The two men were still deep in their conversation when her ears caught the pounding of hooves in the lane. "Company coming," she announced. "Let's go out to meet them. You come too, Dad."

Audrey could not keep her admiring eyes from Olive's smiling face and trim, erect figure. She was even more attractive in her riding clothes than in a dinner gown, the girl acknowledged to herself. Olive was mounted on Eileen.

Jeff was looking particularly well in new whipcord breeches, his shirt open at the throat, bareheaded. The group chatted with gay informality with the exception of Anthony whose preoccupied attention was directed mainly to Eileen's restless movements.

It was Olive who created a diversion with a direct question to Jeff. "Where are those jumps you were telling me about, Jeffrey? I'm anxious to try them. So is this mare," she added as Eileen tossed her head fretfully.

"Over there in the paddock," he replied with an indicating wave of his crop, then an uncertain look directed at Audrey. "Aren't you saddled yet?"

"Go ahead," was her smiling rejoinder. "I'll be with you presently." She turned and rested her arms on the top of the fence watching the others ride away.

"Why doesn't Mr. Jeffrey tell that young woman to go easy on the curb?" Anthony's usually mild voice carried a growl.

"That's what I'm thinking, Audrey agreed in a tense little voice. Vic took his place at the fence, held by the undercurrent of anxiety in the words he had just heard. The trio stood in silence, watching. They saw the horses reined up some fifty yards from the first set of bars, then Eileen shot forward, urged into a swift gallop. Suddenly Anthony Swan was scrambling over the fence. Sensing that some calamity was imminent, Vic lifted Audrey unceremoniously in his arms and dropped her on the other side of the white barrier, vaulting over after her. He caught her hand and the two raced after Anthony who had sprinted ahead.

It happened before they could reach the scene. Eileen, head thrown high, barely had her forelegs over the top bar when she crashed down, turned an almost complete somersault and flung her rider in a heap. By the time the others came up, Jeff had dismounted and was holding Olive's limp figure in his arms. Eileen had attempted to get to her feet, but had rolled on her side and lay still. (To Be Continued) on the prowl." "Perhaps I am. I like him a lot."

"Queer chap in many ways. No money to speak of, but an entree that no amount of dough can get you. He's been a self-appointed monitor to me and I don't mind telling you I owe him a lot. He probably has admitted it to you. One day, he'll make his mark... a high one. Say, Cygie?" "Yes?"

"I know you haven't had any chance yet to get acquainted, but—" "She's lovely, Jeff."

With her mother and father for an interested audience, Audrey had been detailing an account of the Castle dinner over her morning coffee and a cigarette.

"Oh, Miss Audrey." The girl turned to see the cook's face peering through the kitchen door.

"What is it, Julia?" "A man at the back door what wants to see you."

"For goodness' sake!" Audrey half rose from her chair, sank back with a laugh. "It's Vic, Mom! Shtw him in, Julia."

It was none other than Victor Quinn who strolled in smilingly and called a cheery greeting. "Hello, Audrey! You're looking very well indeed this morning."

"I am. Mr Quinn, my mother." "Mrs. Swan, I am delighted to meet you. Please don't get up."

"Oh, we've finished breakfast long ago," Audrey smiled. "We'll find more comfortable chairs. It may be pleasant out on the porch."

"But I want to stay here," Vic expostulated. "I want a cup of coffee. That's what I came for. Don't tell me I'm too late."

"Of course you're not!" Martha exclaimed, taking refuge in a burst of hospitality. "You sit right down here with Audrey. I'll have some hot coffee for you in just a minute." She caught up the pot and started out with it then paused at the door to ask, "Can we fix you some bacon and eggs, too? You must be hungry after your walk."

"Well..." "Of course you will."

"Do you mind telling me what all this is about?" Audrey demanded.

"That bunch up on the hill doesn't seem to go in for getting up at all. I prowled all over the place without seeing any sign of life until I stumbled over a serf working in the garden. By way of making conversation, I asked him who lived in the pleasant looking house I could see in the distance. He told me. And here I am. Oh thank you!"

The last was for Julia who had come padding in with the bacon and eggs. Audrey poured her guest's coffee and made toast.

"You know, Audrey..." Vic paused for a satisfying bite. "I don't recall ever taking part in a domestic scene like this. Not in years, at all events. I can't tell you how it makes me feel."

"I'm sorry we haven't a pet rabbit for you." "But I'd rather have you and

Traffic Program City Working Effectively

More Lights Are Expected Installed On Side Streets

Improvement of Littlefield's traffic regulations the past week has been working effectively, according to reports from the local police department.

The great test came at the peak Saturday night's traffic, when one pickup was seen to be parked on main street, and driver moved it on after being ordered of "No Double Parking."

Side Avenue was marked off in blocks ago, allowing eight and half feet between the lines to control the local traffic problem.

Within the next few days, XIT and LFD Drive will be marked one side of each street will diagonal lines, and the other side will be straight.

Requests for more street lights on side streets in side town have been made and the City Commission discuss that problem at an early date, probably installing more lights.

Sudan Launches Major Feeding Project

Nearly 3,000 Tons Ensilage Stored In Past Two Weeks

Pens Being Built; Plan To Feed Out 1,000 Head Of Cattle

Lamb county is becoming more and more a great feeding center. The latest major project is that which is being developed by the Clovis Hog Company on a tract of 110 acres, purchased recently by them, one and one-fourth miles east of Sudan on Highway 7.

2,591 Tons Stored
With Ben Davidson of Clovis in charge, two silos were constructed, into which during the past two weeks 2,591 tons of green feed have been cut into ensilage and stored. J. W. Hammock of Sudan had the contract for the unloading and cutting of this feed, which was completed Saturday.

According to Mr. Hammock, it is the plan of the Clovis Hog Company to double the silo capacity next year, stating they were late getting started this fall.

1,000 Cattle to be Fed
One thousand cattle will be fed out by the Clovis concern in Sudan. Work got underway this week in the building of pens, and preparations to take care of the feeding out of the cattle.

Mr. Hammock, who is Lamb county dealer for the Papec Feed Machinery company of Dallas, sold the necessary equipment to the Clovis Hog Company for the project.

Littlefield To Be Deeded Christian College Property

Will Be Moved And Used As Community Center Project

Approximately 25 persons who donated funds for the purchase of the Christian College property in South Littlefield in 1928, which is now known as College Heights Addition, are this week signing a deed for the property, including the dormitory building of the college, and the deed will be presented to the City of Littlefield.

The building formerly was occupied by the Littlefield Hospital. Included in the property, besides the dormitory building, are approximately 30 acres of land.

C. O. Stone of Amarillo, formerly of Littlefield, has acted as trustee for the property the past several years. T. Wade Potter, local attorney, is contacting donors and getting the papers signed.

When the property is deeded to the City of Littlefield, it is quite probable that the building will be moved to the City Hall square and will be used for a community center, but nothing definite has been done to date.

A whole host of chamber of commerce representatives, county judges and commissioners are expected to be in attendance. The meeting is scheduled to begin at noon with a luncheon for the visitors. Program for the session is in charge of President Long, according to A. H. Dennison, secretary of the Texas Division, who announced selection of Levelland as the meeting place.

Dignitaries from several areas will be present for the meeting and will include J. L. Long, president of the Texas Division of the organization.
