ROAD PROJECTS TO SHUT DOWN STARTING MON.

Action Taken in Order to Assist in Gathering Cotton

In an interview with Judge L. R. Crockett Tuesday, he announced that County road projects would likely be shut down the end of this week on instructions from WPA headquarters.

Sometime ago the County Commission was advised to notify the WPA authorities as soon as the cotton was ready to pick, and in order to assist the farmers in gathering their crop that road work would cease for a time. All members of the County Commission made a trip to the Lubbock office of WPA Tuesday to discuss the matter.

PLAN TO MAKE NO. 51 MAJOR FEDERAL HIWAY

Littlefield Is Represented At Brownfield Meeting

A major Federal Highway from Dryden, Texas to Boise City, Oklahoma, by way of Sheffield, Iraan, McCamey, Crane, Odessa, Andrews, Seminole, Seagraves, Brownfield, Levelland, Littlefield, Dimmit, Hereford, Vega, Channing and Dalhart, was the plan adopted at the first general meeting of Highway 51 Association in Brownfield, Thursday, October 7. Every effort will be made to cooperate with the State Highway Department in making this a continuous paved route.

This new route will tie into U. S. 90 at Dryden. From Dalhart the natural route goes through Boise City, Oklahoma, Lamar and Sterling, Colorado, Sidney, Alliance and Chadron, Nebraska, Rapid City and Sturgis, South Dakota. Sixty-six miles north of Sturgis the route joins U. S. 85 that is a graveled road to Williston North Dakota and leads into Provincial Highways 35, 39 and 6, stopping at Regina, capital of Saskatchewan.

The Texas organization will endeavor to interest cities along Black Hills of South Dakota to Dryden. Then, the route is expected to be one of the main feeder roads to the Big Bend National Park.

Much of the route in Texas is already paved, while the State has conditionally designed the route from Brownfield to Dalhart and has set aside sums of money for three farm to market projects along the latter section. The southern towns will first center their activity from Iraan, connecting the present paved route from Lubbock, Brownfield, and Odessa with the Old Spanish Trail.

SALE TO BE STAGED BY AUXILIARY

Flowers To Be Offered Here Will Come From Legion Hospital

Poppy Day will be observed in Littlefield this year on Saturday, Nov. 6. Mrs. Louise Beisel, chairman of the poppy committee of R. New Post Auxiliary 301, and Mrs. Iia Lattimer assistant chairman local Unit American Legion Auxiliary, has announced. Extensive preparations for the observance of the day are being made by the Auxiliary women.

Memorial poppies, to be worn in honor of the World War dead and to raise funds for the welfare of the disabled veterans and needy families of the dead and disabled, will be distributed throughout the city. Organization of corps of "poppy girls" to offer the flowers to everyone on the streets during the day and to receive contributions for the Legion and Auxiliary welfare funds. The flowers have been ordered from Legion Hospital, Kerrville, where they have been made by disabled veterans.

"Poppy Day is the day of personal tribute to the men who gave their lives in the nation's defense." On that day everyone can show that they still remember and honor the sacrifices of those who lost their lives in the war. The poppy is their flower, made in their memory by their disabled comrades.

"The American Legion Auxiliary will ask no set price for its poppies. They want everyone to wear a poppy and to contribute as he is able for the flower. All contributions will be used for the work of the Legion and Auxiliary among the men who lost health and strength in the war, and among the children whose fathers are dead or disabled. The bulk of the money will be expended right here in Littlefield for the work our Unit is constantly doing among needy families of veterans here."

ELECT OFFICERS HERE FRIDAY AT ANNUAL MEET

W. M. Pool, Jr., of Muleshoe Is New President Of Association

Definite plans to establish Headquarters and a warehouse in Littlefield and the election of new officers was the accomplishment of the annual meeting of the Texas Certified Seed Growers Association held in Littlefield, Texas, Friday, October 8, 1937.

W. M. Pool, Jr., Muleshoe, will be President for the next year while Geo. C. Beakley, Levelland, was elected Secretary. Other members attending the meeting were Joe Hastings, Dimmit, James Dunn, Lamesa, J. W. Hammock, Sudan, H. F. Waldron, John L. Bowling, and W. H. Cunningham of Littlefield.

The Texas Certified Seed Growers Association is interested in pure grain sorghum seed growing and operates under the direct control of the Texas Seed and Plant Board. Most of its members come from the South Plains Region of Texas. Six members operate in Lamb County.

Since eighty per cent of the grain sorghum pure seed is grown within 30 miles of Littlefield, office headquarters along with a storage warehouse will be located at that city.

"The requirements for membership in the Association are rigid," stated W. H. Cunningham, Littlefield, retiring secretary. "First, the applicant must own or control his land and machinery for harvesting the crop. He must be in possession of registered seed and is observed by officials of the association for two years after application is made. Then if he has met the requirements, a license is issued and not only the Association, but the Texas Department of Agriculture guarantees that seed sold by members is pure."

One of the latest ventures in grain sorghums is quadra-milo, a cross between kaffir corn and milo maize. Its grain resembles very closely that of milo as does the stalk. The heads do not crook and are more symmetrical than either milo or kaffir. It inherits a uniform height from kaffir thus making almost a perfect

LAMB REFUSED COUNTY HEALTH NURSE BY DEPT.

Not Policy To Give Nurse's Service to County of 17,000 Population

According to advice received from Dr. H. H. Puckett, Director of Public Health for District No. 1, of which Lamb County is a part, this County will not be furnished a health nurse as requested by the Commission about three months ago.

Monday last Dr. Puckett met with the County Commission, and advised the meeting that he had received a communication from the State Board of Health, under signature of J. M. Coleman, M. D., Division of Maternal and Child Health, Austin, advising that it was not the policy of that department "to set up nursing services in counties exceeding 15,000 population, and preferably only those under 10,000 are to be used for county nursing services."

The Dept. of Health communication further said:

"Lamb county has a population of 17,000 with an evaluation of over seven and one-half million; therefore, I am not convinced that it would be to the best interest of the Department to set up a county nursing service in this county. However, yesterday I received a long distance call from Plainview in Hale county and it is my understanding that the county medical society was to act last night on resolutions endorsing a full-time county health unit for Hale county. Since these two counties are adjacent, it seems highly probable that the two could be combined into a very satisfactory full-time county health unit. The figures quoted to Hale county were $10,000 for a minimum service, of which this Department would bear approximately fifty per cent or less."

WERE YOU THERE?

If not—
To the tune of 26-13, the Tigers of Slaton downed the Littlefield
Wildcats on October 8 at Slaton.
Unit the second half the Wildcats kept up with the Tigers fairly well even though Slaton scored the first six points, winning that extra point.
Deciding that the other team was no "piker," our team followed with a touchdown.

At the end of the half, Littlefield had scored 13 points to Slaton's 14.
In that period our team made about 8 first downs to 1 first down of Slaton's.
Then a very large crowd for a high school game witnessed the last quarters. The Tigers tightened their grip upon the pigskin and took it away for two more touchdowns.
Two players from the enemy team were knocked unconscious for a moment or two in the first half. Aside from those there were no other injuries except those of Horace Baize who smashed in his ribs.
Not a player on the field, enemy or friend, played lightly. Realizing that a championship might be at stake, both sides fought furiously, and the best man won.—The Slaton Tigers.

OCTOBER 5 ASSEMBLY VERY ENTERTAINING

Assembly on October 5 held a very interesting full hour of entertainment for the students and teachers. Pep was revived at the beginning of the program in a song.
"She'll be coming around the mountain when she comes."
A preview of the Radio Broadcast of the Littlefield High School from K. Y. F. O. was given by Ruby Nell Cobb, who sang two songs "It Looks Like Rain" and "Blue Hawaii," accompanied on the piano by Camille Arnold.

The highlight of the period was the very unique, educational talk on the conditions of the Far East, by Mr. Von Lincoln from the local C.
C. C. camp. Having been in China and Japan, he knew definitely what he was to speak on. Many details were given about the present fighting conditions and economic situations in the "Land of the Rising Sun" and "Land of Many Dialects."
Questions were generously answered by Mr. Von Lincoln for the pupils and teachers.
After an announcement was made about the special train to Slaton.
The Westerners played two songs and the fifth assembly program came to a close.

Wildcats Lose Hard Fought Battle To Slaton Tigers Friday Night

(By Dick Ray)

The Littlefield Wildcats played a fast and fighting game at Slaton Friday night when they lost to the Slaton Tiger's 13 to 27. A special train carried 375 fans from Littlefield with another 150 going in cars to see the Wildcat's hardest game of the season. Many fans were heard to say that the Wildcats outplayed the Tigers but the Tigers outscored the Wildcats. Two long runs the first half unnerved the Wildcats and they failed to make their scoring click, although they were in possession of the ball two-thirds of the time.

The thrill of a life time came to coach Patterson when he saw his coaching click like clock works as Bullard caught the kick-off on Littlefield's 10 yard line and race 90 yards for a touchdown without even being touched by an opponent. It was one of those plays when every man got his man and perfect interference left the carrier free to make 90 yards without a tackle. Bullard, fullback, also proved himself the wild horse of the evening when he intercepted a pass in the first three minutes play and raced 50 yards for the first touchdown of the game. Both teams gained at will and long runs and fumbles were frequent.

The Wildcats played a much better balanced game of football than the Tigers. Two men did most of the playing for Slaton, Bullard and Henry. While for Littlefield O. Walker at guard, E. Burleson at fullback, Lee at quarter, Elms and Henson on defensive all played aggressive ball. No scores were made during the third quarter and Littlefield failed to tally the last half. Had the Wildcats been able to get their aerial attack in operation the score would have been changed but it worked against them in that they had four passes intercepted.

The Littlefield fans are well pleased with the progress that the Wildcats are making and there is still hope that they will prove district winners. The boys stay in there and fight and are improving with every game they play. Slaton has played one more game this season than Littlefield and had the edge over them to that degree.

Play by play, first quarter: Slaton kicks—Carter takes ball on 10 carries to 20 yard line, E. Burleson line plunge, no gain; Carter around end loses 1 yard. Pass E. Burleson to Etter for first down. Lee of tackle no gain; incomplete pass to Etter; Littlefield tries another pass intercepted by Bullard, Slaton FB who runs 50 yards for touch down. Goal kicked.

They had risen when the music sounded and stood upon the tiled terrace. It was only a step from the shadow that clothed them to the moonlit outdoor dance floor. But for long moments they did not take that step.

Other couples began moving from the tables within, but the two were not aware of it. When he bent his head, her lips met his without shyness or confusion. It was as though the moment were preordained.

Then she gave a low laugh.

"Aren't we supposed to be dancing?" she asked gaily.

He kissed her again quickly.

"Perhaps we are," he chuckled as he swept her out onto the floor with swift, rhythmic strides, "but it seems like a waste of time and of very excellent music that might be much better employed."

He danced, she found, with grace and ease. It was as though he really enjoyed the music and as though there had been no need for him to learn the steps through which she reminded herself, since her high school class dance, she was enjoying—really enjoying—a party like this.

Sitting across from Mont Wallace at the very excellent dinner that was to be charged to San Carlos Express, Natalie laughed merrily.

"This," she explained, "is what I call getting the breaks. No job, no money, no place to go. I wander out to the airport because it is a long walk and I like to watch the planes. When you buzz in, kiss me sweetly, and carry me off. I use you to muscle into a job and a good dinner with the hero of the hour. Isn't life a joke?"

"All perfectly sensible," Mont assured her. "You are young. You are beautiful. And you have a head on your shoulders. That's all any girl needs in this world."

"The evening will soon be complete," bantered Natalie. "You don't by any chance happen to have fallen in love with me? That's about all that could possibly occur to add to the occasion."

"Well," the youth laughed, "you can add that up, too. I guess. Something happened to me when I saw you standing there at the field. That's why I kissed you. And if it isn't love, it's sure a perfect counterfeit. You might as well give it the benefit of the doubt."

"That," she chuckled, "is what I consider the response of a gentleman. I wouldn't call it an impassioned declaration but it certainly fills the bill. I am very greatly obliged to you."

"Never kid an aviator, Natalie Wade," Mont laughed. "Give me a few drinks and I'll make it just as impassioned as you like. What say we go somewhere to dance after dinner?"

"That would be very nice," Natalie accepted. "But please omit the drinks, I am quite satisfied and I don't know you well enough yet to try hopping up our acquaintance with cocktails."

"All right," he agreed with evident reluctance. "Just as you say. But you have no idea how a few drinks ripen the affections."

When dinner was over he became host. He insisted on hiring a car and they drove first along the beach road. At length they found an attractive spot where an abandoned lighthouse had been turned into a sort of roadside inn and there they sat for a long time looking out toward the Pacific.

It was not till the girl found that they were sitting side by side without speech that she realized something unusual had happened to her. This was no ordinary evening, no commonplace flirtation. There was something about their sudden acquaintance that turned night glorious and that made the first strains

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wise. Thus, Doan's Pills, Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful patients all over the country over. Ask your druggist!

Resolution Is Made At Farm Meeting Thursday

Farmers, merchants and bankers from all parts of the County were present at the mass meeting called Thursday night at the Littlefield City Hall, for the purpose of working out plans of prevailing on the Department of Agriculture at Washington to make loans on cotton less than 13-16th staple, and lower grades.

County Judge L. R. Crockett presided at the meeting at which a resolution was passed and wired to Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., as follows:

"At a general meeting of bankers, merchants and farmers tonight it was resolved that to prevent disaster among the farmers of this and other south plains counties, serious consideration should be given immediately to some plan whereby a loan would be made on cotton that will not meet the present grade and staple requirements. Stop Weather conditions have had an adverse effect on quality of cotton and thousands of bales that would otherwise meet specifications will be rejected because of weather damage.

L. R. Crockett, Chairman, of Bankers, Merchants and Farmers meeting."

Each man present at the meeting was urged to see his neighbors and impress on them the importance of writing personal letters to the Department of Agriculture advising the seriousness of the situation, and urging them to make a loan on low grade cotton.

Reports are to the effect that a large number of these requests have been mailed to Washington the past few days.

Before Thursday's meeting was called, and as a part of the above program, letters were handed to the children attending Lamb County schools, with instructions to take them to their parents, and in this way a large number of the farmers and others interested were reached.

The letter so sent was as follows: "TO ALL LAMB COUNTY FARMERS:

As you have probably heard or read of the movement on, by the South Plains Counties, to convince the Department of Agriculture, that we should have a loan on cotton below 13-16's staple and lower grades, for this county as well as the other representative counties; so it is your duty as a farmer to give all the support possible in this assistance, therefore if you feel this is justifiable and is worth your while, please write immediately, setting forth the desires of you and your neighbors in this regard.

"Please do not make this as a demand, but as a request as this will do much to get the approval.

"You realize that the time of planting and the weather conditions has had a great deal to do with the inferior grade and staple of our cotton. We should not be penalized for this, for as a whole, the farmers have conscientiously tried to improve the staple and grade of their cotton this year.

"Address your letter to: Secretary Wallace U. S. Department of Agriculture Washington, D. C."

"Mr. Floyd Hemphill, Supt. Littlefield, Tex.

Dear Sir: Owing to the scare and uneasiness over the country about infantile paralysis, we are making this statement to you. Under the State Law there is no quarantine for the disease and even no regulation requiring children in a home with the disease to remain out of school.

For the public welfare and to prevent so much worry, we think it advisable where there is a case in a home, for the other children to remain out of school 10 days to 2 weeks. The disease is not contagious

Other bees from the busy San Carlos Airport circled and dived as though in abandon at having found their way, but the searchlight towers sagging windsock as though the sagging windsock as though the plane must perish if it did not reach the field within the instant.

... suddenly someone yelled in the office. Grease monkeys' heads up at the cry. Then the girl stood and shirt-sleeved men rushed past her to the field.

Crossing the light breeze, the ship skimmed low, its motor roaring more and more loudly as it neared. Then, at the last possible moment, it seemed, the roar died. The ship sat down on the far tarmac but taxied straight on as though it would crash the high barrier before the hangars.

Moved by the rushing feet about her, the girl slipped through the barrier gate. A burst of hoarse cheering drew her on. Field men were mobbing the flier now as he flipped out of the open cockpit and clambered to the ground.

"Atta boy, Monty," someone yelled behind her.

"Yeah," came an answering shout. "An hour and a half off the East-West record. What do you know about that?"

Then the girls' voices added their shrill note to the clamor. A bevy of gay creatures from the motor park beyond bore down upon the knot of men about the record-breaking Monty—whichever he might be—and carried Natalie along with it.

He stood there grinning, grimy but happy, beside the small plane. He had jerked off the helmet he wore and the mark of it crossed his forehead beneath a mop of tousled brown hair.

Natalie recognized him now, though she had never seen him before. This was Mont Wallace whose cross-country flights were already famous. She had seen his picture in a score of papers.

She knew now what the excitement was all about. Mont Wallace had finished another of his great flights. He had broken the coast-to-coast record flying from east to west. An hour and a half, the excited shouters had declared.

And now he was reaping the reward of glory, the girl thought, and she laughed, for the bevy of sweet young things had flung itself upon him, had caught at his hands and arms and now they were taking turns kissing him.

Natalie chuckled as she stood there watching. Just like fool women to spoil a good-looking boy like this by too much adulation.

But the crowd was moving toward her. Girls and men both moved down upon her and those behind blocked her retreat so that they suddenly stood face to face.

Natalie smiled up into his laughing eyes in their mask of oil and

And so when the cab arrived, she named the office of one of the local papers, bade the man drive swiftly. "Now is that nice?" Monty grinned. "I wanted to take you to dinner."

"I thought so," Natalie grinned impishly.

"You aren't really one of those writing women?"

"I wasn't," the girl laughed. "I was out of a job. I didn't know where dinner was coming from. But with a story like this in my pocket, I have an idea that I've got a job as well."

"What if I run out on you?"

"Oh, I'm sure you wouldn't do that. You're a hero, you know. And heroes never act like that even in real life."

And so it was that, when the taxicab pulled up at the newspaper office, Natalie Wade led her youthful captive straight to the editorial room, pounced upon an unused type-someone else had grabbed you, if you'll give the young lady your story, she goes on the pay-roll right away. I can't promise how long she'll stay there, but she'll get a trial."

Wallace grinned.

"About how long," he questioned, "would that trial last?"

But the girl spoke up quickly. "It doesn't matter about that," she said. "If I can't hit the ball I'll know it quickly enough and so will they. My name's Natalie Wade. Put it on the payroll and let me draw enough when the story is done to take the big boy here out to dinner."

"I'm Mack Hanlon," the city editor said, glancing wisely at the flier.

"The dinner goes on office expense account if you keep on the way you're going. Slap her out fast. We go down in twenty minutes."

grime. She tried to step aside, but his hand, still holding the helmet, reached out to stop her.

"Come on," he laughed, "don't be bashful. A few more kisses and my face will be clean."

Without ado, he bent to kiss her squarely on the lips and then swept her along beside him to the apparent chargin of the shrieking admirers.

At the hangar office, Natalie would have drawn away but the hero thrust her through the screened door. Screams and shrieks rose from the other girls when they were stopped at the entrance with the mechanics and a queue of loitering boys.

Inside, Monty lifted the girl quickly to one of the desks.

"Now stay put there," he laughed down at her. "I'll give you that interview in a few minutes. Got to clean up first and sign the papers."

Natalie "stayed put." There wasn't anything else to do and, after all, what did it matter?

The brown-haired Monty had disappeared into the wash room. Presently she could hear him sloshing water over himself with much puffing and splashing. A gray-haired man who seemed to be the port manager was yelling questions at him and writing in a big book. Monty bellowed back the details of his flight.

His wrist watch was handed out to be compared with the office clock and the watches of the other men.

When, presently, he came back into the office, his face was clean and the tousled brown hair had been ruthlessly plastered back from his forehead. Natalie saw now that his chin was cleft in a somewhat fascinating way.

"You're with the paper, you said," he offered with a chuckle and a little wink. "We'll go down to the office and you can do your story there."

Natalie made no response but his grin was so infectious that she smiled. This man worked fast, she thought. He was just as swift with adoring femininity as he was in breaking records.

He was at the telephone now ordering a taxicab. Offers of other cars he spurned lightly.

There would be a fast ride into town, the girl knew, and she thought she could guess what came afterward. She must match wits with him and a daring plan came to her as she swung her heels from the desk where she sat.

Her father had been a newspaper man. She knew the machinery of news-getting. She would make him play out his hand.

writer and began pounding out the story of the flight as she thought her father would have done.

"Boy," she called presently. The loitering office-boy moved reluctantly toward her.

When he stood at Natalie's side, she spoke to him quickly.

"I'm new here," she said. "Tell the city editor I want a job and that I'm writing Mont Wallace's exclusive story of a new record flight."

The boy looked at her with a fishy eye and then ambled off to the desks where two or three men worked apparently at getting out the sporting extra.

One of these with worn suspenders and with his green eye-shade drawn down so that it formed an almost perfect mask, looked up in startled fashion. He reached for a piece of paper, stared at it, and then came over to the girl's side.

"What's all this about?" he demanded.

"I'm looking for a job," she jerked out between bursts of type-writer pounding. "This is Mont Wallace who just broke the East-West flight record. I'm writing the story and he's going to sign it if I do a good job. Does that rate a try-out from you?"

The small man peered up at Wallace. Then he thrust out his hand. "I got a flash on the yarn from the airport," he said. "My men were late at the spot and they told me
