CO-ED FIGHTS BULL—Pretty Patricia McCormick sinks home her sword for the kill as she dispatches one of two bulls she killed in her debut as a professional bull fighter in the Jaurez, Mexico, bull ring. Patricia, 22-year-old former student at Texas Western College, El Paso, Texas, won the cheers of the crowd for her cool courage, and two bull's ears for her skill. Her closest brush with danger was when a horn ripped her jacket—note the tear near her right arm. She is from Big Spring, Texas.

2-A CONFERENCE NOW MADE UP OF SIX TEAMS WITH SUDAN INCLUDED

The Sudan Hornets, always a powerful football aggregation, a team which at times has given the Littlefield Wildcats plenty of competition and trouble, but which were out of conference play all through last year, will be playing this year in District 2A race. They were ordered re-instated at a conference meeting held at Amherst this week.

The re-instatement of Sudan, and the admission of Happy High School, into the conference at their request, boosts the Conference membership to six teams, four of which are in Lamb county.

The conference is now made up of the schools of Amherst, Springlake, Olton, Dimmitt, Sudan and Happy.

Dimmitt Bobcats won championship in that conference last season, and ran up to regional play-off, but were finally bowed by Abernathy 20-19.

Not all teams in the league have completed their schedules but some are complete or practically complete.

Amherst has announced its grid schedule, opening the season Sept. 12 against Anton at Anton. Hale Center is host to the Bulldogs Sept. 20; Muleshoe visits the Bulldogs Sept. 26; Morton is at Amherst Oct. 3; Happy is at Amherst Oct. 10; and Amherst tangles with New Deal Oct. 17.

On Oct. 24, Dimmitt clashes with the Bulldogs. Springlake and Amherst get together at Springlake Oct. 31; and Olton meets the Bulldogs in Amherst Nov. 7.

WACS And WAFS Recruiter To Be In Littlefield Tuesday, January 29

M/Sgt. Irene Defabio, recruiter for the Women's Army Corps and Women's Air Force, will be here in Littlefield Tuesday January 29, from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. to interview prospective applicants for the WACs and WAFs, at the U.S. Army and U.S. Air Force recruiting station 110 W. 5th street.

Young women that are interested in a career in the WACs or WAFs now have an opportunity to get first-hand information in one of these fine women's military organizations from Sgt. Defabio while she is here in town.

Sergeant Irene DeFabio the WAC counterpart of the WAC-WAF Recruiting team of the Amarillo Recruiting and Induction Main Station, enlisted as an Air WAC in Detroit, Michigan on June 21, 1944. She was assigned to the Third WAC Training Center, Fort Oglethorpe, Georgia for basic training. Her initial assignment was at Selfridge Field, Michigan as a driver in Motor Transportation.

When the boys began returning from overseas at the close of World War II, Sgt. DeFabio was transferred to the Ground Force to assist in the demobilization processing at Indiantown, Pennsylvania. When that was completed, she was transferred to Fort Meade, Maryland where she was assigned as Supply Clerk in a Company and was later assigned as Company Clerk in the Orderly Room of that same company.

In 1948 when the Bill was passed to establish the WAC as Regular Army, Sgt. DeFabio was transferred to Fort Lee, Virginia, the Training Center for the Women's Army Corp. She worked as the Administrative Non-Commissioned Officer in the Headquarters Company.

Upon completion of her two year tour of duty at the training center, she was transferred to Fort Sam Houston in San Antonio, Texas where she became First Sergeant of the WAC Detachment. Sgt. De-

Fabio came on Recruiting duty from Fort Bliss, Texas, where she was working in the Personnel Office.

When asked what she thought of the Women's Army Corps, she answered, "I would not have remained in the service throughout these years if I didn't feel it worth while. I have a feeling of accomplishment, and anyone who is sincere about making the service a career can find it a fertile spot to land in. There are innumerable fields of work that the young women of today can get into and surprisingly enough they have proven themselves quite capable of handling the end of the bargain. It requires as much ambition and hard work to make a success of a job in the Service as it does in Civilian jobs."

Polio Hospital Cost Average Up 68% In 5 Years

The national average cost of hospital care has increased 68% in the past five years, according to Mr. George L. White, director of the 1952 March of Dimes in Lamb County.

"The purchasing power of the March of Dimes dollar, like the one in your own pocketbook, has been steadily declining," Mr. White said. "It now takes almost $17 to buy one day of hospital care in today's market, compared with $10 per day in 1946.

"And polio caseloads are three times higher than they used to be. This human need underscores our urgent appeal for doubled support of the 1952 March of Dimes."

Tax On 1952 Income May Be One Third Higher Than On '49 Income

Some people making out their tax return on 1951 income, are realizing how the tax has crept up and socked them. Take a single man who has been making $3,000 steadily for years. He finds the tax on his 1951 income was 17 percent higher than on 1950 income and 22 percent more than on 1949 income. Add the tax on his 1952 income will be 33 percent greater than the tax on his 1949 income.

The tax varies by individuals and income. For example: Take a single man who has been making $15,000 steadily for years. The tax on his 1951 income was 12.5 percent more than on 1950 income and 16.3 percent more than on 1949 income. And the tax on his 1952 income will be 27.3 percent above that on his 1949 income.

Before looking at some examples of how taxes have gone up, remember there's a difference between the percentage of your income taken by taxes and the percentage of increase in the tax itself.

Take Jones. Single man. No dependents. Income, $3,000. He claims only one exemption, his own. And he takes the usual deductions. He's been making $3,000 from the beginning of 1949 when taxes were at their lowest point after the war.

In 1950 (on 1949 income) he paid $356. Which meant the tax took 11.8 percent of his income.

In 1951 (on 1950 income) he paid $373, which was 12.4 percent of his income. So the amount of his income paid out in taxes went up only 0.6 percentage points. (Subtract the 11.8 percent in 1950 from the 12.4 percent in 1951.) But—the increase in his tax was $17, which was an increase of .04 percent over what he paid in 1950.

In 1952 (on 1951 income) he pays $435, which is 14.5 percent of his income, an increase of 2.1 percentage points in the amount of his income taken by taxes. But—he's paying $62 more than in 1951, which is a 16.6 percent boost in his tax over last year.

In 1953 (on 1952 income) he'll pay $474, which is 15.8 percent of his income in taxes, an increase of 1.3 percentage points over this year. But—the increase over this year is $39, a boost of 8.5 percent. Now compare the tax he'll pay in 1953 on 1952 income with the low tax he paid in 1950 on 1949 income. In 1953 he'll pay $474 on his 1952 income, which will be 15.8 percent of his income. This is a difference of only 4 percentage points over the amount of his income taken by tax in 1950 on 1949 income when he paid $356, which was 11.8 percent of his income.

But—in 1953 he'll be paying $118 more in taxes on his 1952 income than he did in 1950 on 1949 income, which means an increase of 33 percent in his tax.

Prepared by the State Medical Association of Texas

Two of the most painful complications of the common cold are an earache and sinus trouble. And they are frequent complications of a cold.

Earaches don't always follow a cold, of course, and may start up without any "cold" signs, just the sudden aching of the ear. Most people have at one time or other experienced a sudden earache that just hurts awfully bad and then by the time you get to the doctor there is no ache left at all; that type of earache is often caused by a tiny blister, blub, which forms in the ear, flares up for a brief period and then subsides without any aftereffects.

More serious and more prolonged is the inflammation of the middle ear which is called otitis media, which may follow a cold. This earache starts up a little slower, usually with a feeling of fullness in the ear which you can relieve by swallowing or yawning. If you have a cold at the time you probably hear bubbling and croaking noises in your ear when you blow your nose.

But then the inflammation usually flares up with yawning no longer relieving the pressure and you may get a severe headache along with a ringing, roaring or hissing in your ear or ears. When the middle ear becomes completely filled with liquid, your hearing is not good and your own voice sounds unusually loud to you.

That is every indication that you have a complication from your cold or else a well-developed earache. It may last a few days or more than a week and you need to stay in the house, eat a light diet and drink plenty of water. If you have a fever, you should be in bed.

But you should not put a thing in your ear without your doctor's advice. Aspirin may help relieve the pain or quiet the disturbing noises or it may be that stronger drugs, such as codeine or morphine, may be necessary; they should be taken only upon a doctor's advice, of course.

Ear drops, hot water bag, or electric pad may offer relief, as your doctor prescribes, but used promiscuously they may make matters worse. The sulfa drugs and penicillin are often prescribed for such an earache but it is still necessary in many cases for your doctor to puncture the tympanic membrane sometimes more than once.

Earaches and sinus infections can lead to very serious complications themselves and deserve the most professional medical attention; they should never be "treated" by haphazard, guessing home remedies.

There are many varied treatments for sinusitis, that distressingly painful inflammation of the air cavities which join the nose. These cavities (sinuses) are lined with mucous membrane, a continuation of the same wet tissue that lines the nose, and frequently fill with infected material from the nose during or after a cold. The sinuses lie above, behind and below the eyes.

The treatment that is ideal for one sinus patient will often prove inadvisable for another. Irrigations, packings, mists of penicillin or streptomycin and surgical treatment are all entitled to a place in the medical relief of sinusitis, depending upon your doctor's preference for your particular case. There is no one method that has been accepted as the preferred treatment of all cases.

Your doctor will explain the different methods to you and what results can be expected from each. When sinusitis sufferers get together, they almost always are interested in treatment that has been successful for someone else; such is the pain and suffering in many cases of sinusitis, that the patient is willing to "try" anything. With sinuses forming a direct communication with the brain, the wrong treatment can certainly do more harm than good. Individual treatments must vary as greatly as individual nasal structures do and you must have confidence in your physician and his choice of method of relieving the congestion known as sinusitis.

Your Hair Deserves A Clean Sweep In '52

By BETTY CLARKE AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

Your hairbrush must be given good care if you want it to give good service, says A. Howard Fuller, who's in the brush business. Cleanliness is the chief thing to remember in the care of personal brushes, says Mr. Fuller, who offers the following tips to help keep your brushes firm-bristled:

1. Wash hair brushes as often as you shampoo your hair, so that you have a clean tool for your hair.

Pamper that hairbrush—Clean with a rake-like gadget designed for the purpose.

2. Dry your brush by hanging it up so that the water drains off. If you cannot hang it, to prevent the water from flowing back and forming a packet around the tufts.

3. When not using your brush, set it on its non-brushing surface. Never place it for long periods tuft-side down and never nest brushes by sticking them bristle against bristle. This softens and flares the bristles, destroying the placement of the tufts.

4. To help keep dust and lint from accumulating in hair brushes, rake out loose hairs after each use with one of the many small rake-like gadgets made for the purpose. The little wires with bent ends will reach down between tufts of a brush and collect hair, lint and other matter. This will help keep bristles from matting.

5. Hair lotion or cologne containing alcohol might mar the surface of a plastic-backed or plastic-handled brush. If you get alcohol on the plastic rinse it off immediately.

6. When brushing your hair, it is necessary to bear down briskly, but not hard. Only the bristle ends, and not the whole bristle, should bear down. This will do the best job of stimulating and massage and will also take the least toll on your brushes.

CHICAGO—Easy to live with furniture, whether it's modern, will create the new look in home decorating.

Edward Wormley, noted designer and creator of decor, has hit his new "surf board" coffee table. It was shown in a sand-colored "mile-long" sofa.

Wormley says he sees a trend toward interest in new colors like blue-green, turquoise and gun-metal are emerging in the spectrum as standout hues for home decorating. Orange and holstery fabrics still are strong and popular. There will be interest, too, in amber and gold colors.

Fabrics are less shaggy in the newer designs. There is a trend in texture in the higher styled lines, although rough textures are offered in the higher priced market.

Another Wormley design indicates the movement away from fashioned sideboard to something more utilitarian. His new is in natural finished walnut and has a specially surfaced top. Outlets are built into the piece. Drawers for storage range from 2 1/2 to 5 inches.

Bertha Shafer went all out to create a desk for home use. In walnut, it has a trough set at one end to serve as a writing desk. Kelly created a companion hanging lamp for the desk. It has a 30-inch fiber glass shade.

A small-scale sectional sofa by a Huntington, W. Va., manufacturer accomplishes its purpose: it looks big but fits into a small room.

A modern version of the "captain's" chair by Bertha Shafer is a trend in future occasional chairs. Its curved back rests on leg supports.

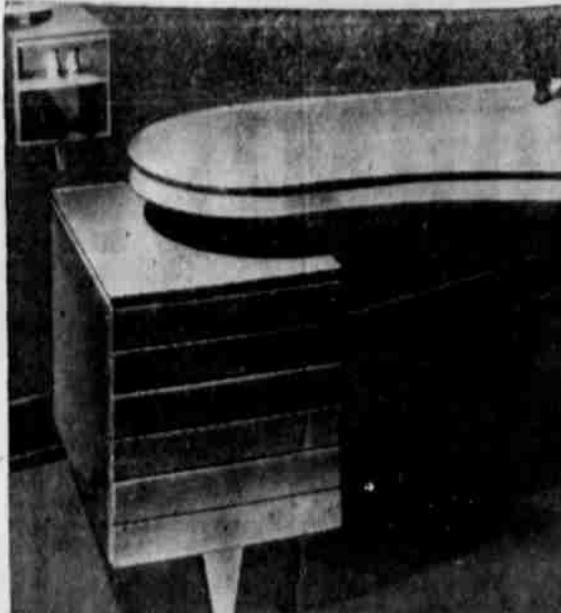

Charles Eames, creator of molded plywood and plastic, has combined wire and leather for his newest design. He selected it is considered a "non-critical" material.

You And Your Congress

WASHINGTON—It is clear that federal spending will be one of the hottest topics of all in Congress this year.

Not the least of the reasons, certainly, is that this is a national election year.

Administration opponents already are making spending a political issue. They believe it is a good one because, with people paying higher taxes, there will be a closer relationship of taxes and spending in the voting public's mind this year than previously.

Tax increases are notoriously unpopular in an election year. Congressional tax leaders say they will have little or nothing to do with revenue hikes in 1952.

The only alternative to pay-as-you-go or tax increases is more government borrowing, which is inflationary. Inflation pushes prices higher. And higher prices, too, would not be politically popular in an election year.

Though it sometimes sounds mysterious, inflation is nothing more than an excess of ready cash and available credit over the supply of goods offered for sale.

This year the supply of goods and materials of the defense program cuts deeper into civilian production. But total income will remain high because employment is high and the trend of earnings is upward. There will be plenty of ready cash.

As for credit, the amount of it increases in direct ratio to the size of the federal deficit. "Deficit" is simply a polite word for red ink on the government's books.

The government meets its deficit by borrowing. It does this by selling bonds and other securities. Most of these are bought by banks and other lending institutions, which use the securities as the basis for making additional loans, creating more credit.

That increased credit, coupled with higher total income, means more inflation. More inflation means higher prices. It is as simple as that.

The President says that, due to the defense program, spending must increase and the government of necessity must go deeper into the red. That is in his Economic Report to Congress.

The argument in Congress about spending starts there. It will grow more heated as the session moves along. Many members want neither tax increases nor higher prices—partly for political reasons, partly because of economic convictions.

The Congressional Joint Committee on the Economic Report—of which, incidentally, Republican Presidential Candidate Taft is a member—soon will give Congress its opinions of Mr. Truman's Economic Report.

Meanwhile, Chairman O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) drops some hints.

He says that "we cannot close our eyes to the fact that a new deficit incurred now would make the cold war more difficult." He refers to inflation and its danger of weakening the country's economy.

"Special emphasis, therefore, it seems to me, must be given to the scrutiny of all expenditures, including military expenditures, at home and abroad.

"Such expenditures are always inflationary. The current record in Europe already demonstrates this. The governments of France and Belgium have recently resigned because those two countries have been unable successfully to carry the inflationary expenditures of military preparedness, and at the same time allow the people the living standards they desire. It is the same problem that Churchill faces in Great Britain.

"We face it here."

O'Mahoney says that military requests for funds, comprising well over half of the new budget, must and will be scrutinized carefully by the Appropriations committees in Congress.

"This is important," he adds significantly, "because no new tax increase is likely to be made by this session of Congress."

Why Go To College To Learn To Farm?

Ever since there has been an agricultural college, people have been asking these two questions:

1. "Why go to college to learn to farm?"
2. "Why do agricultural graduates not go back to the farm?"

For the first time an attempt has been made to find a reasonably accurate answer. That answer is contained in a bulletin of Texas A. and M. College entitled "A Study of the Agricultural Graduates of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas." Its author is Dean Charles N. Shepardson of the A. and M. School of Agriculture.

To ferret out the facts and figures, Dean Shepardson mailed a questionnaire in April, 1950, to the 4,702 A. and M. agricultural graduates whose current addresses were available. By Sept. 1 replies had been received from 1,927 graduates—about 41 per cent of those to whom the questionnaire was mailed.

The replies seem to constitute the best answers available to the age-old questions. The answers are:

1. It is profitable to go to college to learn to farm. A. and M. graduates now engaged in full-time farming reported an average annual income of $8,450 as compared to the $2,800 average for all Texas farmers.
2. The majority do go back to the farm as owners or operators as soon as they can accumulate sufficient capital to make this possible. Of the group answering the questionnaire, 44.1 per cent are farm owners or operators. The percentage is lower in the group of recent graduates and increases to 68.2 per cent in the group who graduated before 1920.

Not taken into consideration in the figures, but possibly having some significance thereto, is the fact that several of the courses offered in the School of Agriculture are not designed primarily to prepare young men for farming.

This is apparent from the list of courses offered: Agricultural administration, agricultural education, agricultural engineering, agronomy, animal husbandry, dairy husbandry, poultry husbandry, entomology, horticulture and landscape architecture, horticulture, range and forestry and wildlife management.

However, 78.5 per cent of those included in the study are engaged in some phase of agricultural work or related business. Of this group, 18.6 per cent are engaged in full-time farming, 28.1 per cent in full or part-time farming.

Forty-seven per cent are engaged in professional agriculture, 12.9 in business related to agriculture and 21.5 in fields of endeavor unrelated to agriculture, including those serving in the armed forces.

Some 56.3 per cent of the graduates included in the study still anticipate farm ownership or operation at some future time, while only 15.6 per cent do not intend ever to farm.

More graduates have become farmers, or still intend to, than planned to do so at the time of graduation.

Of the group which still anticipates farming 80.5 per cent gave lack of capital as their reason for delay. Other reasons included military service and lack of experience.

The interval since graduation and the economic conditions at time of graduation appeared to have an influence in whether a man is now engaged in farming or related business, or in professional work. In general the longer the interval since graduation the larger the percentage now engaged in farming. The depression groups of 1920-24 and 1930-34 show somewhat lower percentages of farmers than those graduating in more prosperous years.

Those graduates who now are farming appear to be farming better than those in other occupations. While the average income of all agricultural graduates is approximately $6,000 per year, the average for the full-time farmers is $8,450.

This compares with an average income of $2,800 for all Texas farmers; $7,650 for those graduates who are land owners, including the part-time farmers; $6,750 for those in non-related business; $5,000 for those in business related to agriculture, and $4,800 for those in professional agricultural work.

The graduates report their greatest hinderances to progress as being lack of capital, lack of experience and inadequate training and vocational indecision, in that order.

The greatest benefits received from their college training were listed as technical foundation, ability to find information, practical training and development of self-confidence.

A large percentage of the agricultural graduates of A. and M. College continue in some phase of agricultural work, with more than two-thirds of them ultimately becoming farm or ranch owners or operators.

programs concerning the constitutions. The purpose of these programs is to have a better understanding of the work of the Student Council.

Finished projects of the Student Council include: the school calendar, the assembly schedule, and the encouragement of friendly relations with other schools.

Give it Air and Watch it GO!

TAKE ONE GALLON of good gasoline — 8,350 gallons of ordinary air—mix well and feed in small doses to a Fireball Engine—and what do you get?

Well, mister, the closest we can come to describing the result is to tell you—it's something like the mighty thrust of an airliner — swooshing down the runway for a take-off.

All of which is another way of saying that this newest and finest of Buicks can rev up to 170 horsepower, the highest in its distinguished history.

Now, you seldom need all this horsepower. But it's nice to know you can boss it around—even if you use no more than an eighth of it at 40 miles an hour.

BUT BUICK ENGINEERS never do things by halves.

In the process of getting this whopping new charge of power, Buick engineers also came up with more miles per gallon from gasoline.

And they did it with one of the neatest bits of ingenuity we've seen in years.

Instead of building a whole new engine—they focused on ways to feed a better mixture to the great Fireball Engine they already had. A mixture of fuel, which costs money, and air, which is free.

The result was the Airpower Carburetor—a four-barrel automatic — which works on a booster principle.

two barrels are sized and designed to be the just-right thrifty mixture of fuel and anything from smooth-running idle up to 40 or 50 miles an hour.

Then—when you call for more power—quick spurt out of a tight spot—for an untiring gait up a steep hill—or for full-throttle action—the reserves go into action.

You have two more barrels—to feed the right thrifty mixture for extra power—something like "second wind."

LIFE'S GREAT behind this great-powered but that's only part of the story.

The rest is about interior styling stepped to a new plateau of excellence and taste—of being to a point where a whisper sounds loud inside this car in motion—of bigger and a smoother ride—and of Power Steering as you have always hoped it might be possible.

How about coming in and getting that soon?

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. *Available on RUMBLEMASTER at a moderate extra cost.

Alvin R. Crews Is Named "Man Of The Year" By Anton Lions Club

Alvin R. Crews was named Monday night as the most outstanding man in the community for the year 1951 by the Anton Lions Club.

Receiving honorable mention were Mayor George Broome and Clarence Matthews.

Crews, who has been president of the Lions Club since June, was cited for his untiring efforts in the interest of the entire community.

The procedure used to determine the opinion of the club members was that each member cast a secret written ballot, and then another ballot was cast, selecting the nominee from the three high names in the first ballot.

Crews, owner of the Crews Motor Co., has lost many days work from his business during the past year attending to matters of community interest for which he received no pay whatsoever.

All Anton should tip their hat to a fine citizen, an outstanding community worker, Alvin R. Crews, holder of the Lion's club annual award for the year 51.

The club also voted to draw up a resolution of respect in memory of a former club president who passed away in 1951, Lion H. G. Richards.

The program for the meeting consisted of a selection of instrumental numbers by Mrs. Norma McCarty at the keyboard of the piano and Carl Rushing with the violin.

NPA Meeting

ation for authority to commence a water well and for allotment of controlled material if completion of the well required the use of more than 2 tons of steel and 200 pounds of copper per project per quarter. Wells requiring no more than this amount did not require an application. The farmer and the home owner may still follow this procedure if they desire, but an alternative has been provided through Dr. 4 to CMP Regulation 6.

Under the new system which becomes effective in the second quarter of 1952, the water well contractor or driller may file a CMP-4C application with NPA for a quarterly allotment of steel and copper sufficient to drill all wells for which he may contract in the following quarter requiring the use of not more than 6 tons of steel and 200 pounds of copper. Individual applications must be filed for each well using more than these amounts. The deadline date for filing of the application by the contractor is 45 days before the first day of each calendar quarter; therefore, the deadline date for filing second quarter applications is February 15. In addition to the CMP-4C application, Form CMP-65 which is abuse period and inventory reporting form must accompany all original quarterly applications. A water well driller is defined as any person who is engaged in the business of constructing or drilling of water wells.

The new system will provide two distinct advantages for water well contractors and prospective owners:

- (1) It will assure the contractor of a supply of steel and copper for three months operation.
- (2) It will offer relief for the farmer and home owner from filing an application if he has contracted with the water well driller and will use no more than 6 tons of steel and 200 pounds of copper.

Injured Nurse Is Brought Here For Treatment

Mrs. Eva Nickels, formerly of Littlefield, but who now makes her home at Lubbock, where she is employed as a registered nurse at St. Mary's Hospital, was seriously injured in a car collision, which occurred near Texas Tech campus, about midnight the night of January 16, and taken to St. Mary's Hospital, where she remained a patient until Wednesday of this week, when she was transferred to the local Payne-Shotwell Foundation for further hospitalization and treatment.

She suffered a broken pelvis and broken hip, in the crash which involved two cars. The car in which she was riding was hit from the rear and side by another car containing three Tech students, Romeo John, who was with Mrs. Nickels in the car which was struck, was knocked unconscious in the crash, and was hospitalized for two days in Lubbock, then dismissed, not seriously injured.

The injured woman is a sister to Mrs. Bob Nickels, also a registered nurse, who is caring for her at the local hospital. She will probably have to remain a hospital patient for from four to six weeks.

According to the injured woman, the car containing the students which crashed into the car in which she was riding ran a red traffic light, as they were thought trying to beat a midnight deadline hour at their campus home, but this was not confirmed. Officers made an investigation of the crash.
