GENERAL HOSPITAL FOR LITTLEFIELD; DOCTORS HERE TO BE IN CHARGE

C. O. STONE, FAMILY, HONORED

DR. J. D. SIMPSON SELLS INTERESTS TO CITY DOCTORS

BARBECUE HELD ON WRIGHT LAWN SUNDAY EVENING

About 150 Gather In Honor
Of Mr. and Mrs.
C. O. Stone

Approximately one hundred and fifty friends gathered on the beautiful large lawn of Mrs. Vernie Wright Sunday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Stone and daughter, Carra Lou, who are leaving Littlefield to make their home in Lamesa.

The occasion took the form of an old fashioned Littlefield Chicken Barbecue, bringing back to the memory of Mr. and Mrs. Stone and a great many of the guests similar events of the kind which were held in Littlefield in the early days of this city.

While Sunday night's event was an occasion of regret at the departure from this city of two of those who have been so prominently identified with business, civic and social life of Littlefield, nevertheless the occasion was exceedingly enjoyable in that friends of many years mingled and visited together, ate barbecued chicken, salads, beans, watermelon and drank coffee until a late hour.

This delightful affair was sponsored by a number of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Stone.

Mrs. Vernie V. Wright and Mrs. G. M. Shaw were joint hostesses, ably assisted in the serving by Mrs. J. C. Hilburn and Mrs. Roy Young.

Those in charge of the barbecue pit were: G. M. Shaw, Pat Boone, Tom Arnett, John Arnett, E. J. Faust, Ernest Cundiff, Joe Wells and Alph Wright.

G. M. Shaw presided and expressed his regret at the departure to another city of Mr. and Mrs. Stone and daughter, Carra Lou, bringing to mind the courteous and efficient service rendered Littlefield citizens by Mr. Stone for the past twelve years.

Joe Hale also spoke in very complimentary terms of Mr. and Mrs. Stone, stating that anyone needing advice or assistance of any kind in a business way were invariably told "to go and see C. O. Stone," and that they were always welcomed and helped by this friendly and courteous bank official. He brought to mind how much this family would be missed from Littlefield's social.

PALACE THEATRE TO BE ENLARGED AND IMPROVED

Additional Seating Capacity And Marquee Features Of Improvements

Architectural plans have been completed for an addition to the rear of the Palace theatre, which will extend the structure through to XIT drive, and give an additional seating capacity of approximately 250 seats.

Plans also provide for the complete remodeling and redecorating of the interior of the present building.

A new cooling system will be installed, which will give the same comfort as provided in theatres in the larger cities.

The Palace will be closed for about three weeks during the remodeling and extension of the building, which will start in about two weeks, and during that time the Ritz theatre will be operated full time.

In providing the additional seating capacity, the stage will be moved back and possibly enlarged.

The decorating of the theatre and the lobby will be in line with the interior treatment of the best theatres in the country.

The Palace and Ritz theatres are owned by the Chesher interests.

JACK SINGER TO ATTEND WORLD SCOUT SESSIONS

Joe Hill's Lecture Saturday Nets Local Scouts $12.50

The lecture on the South Polar Expedition Saturday night by Joe Hill, Jr., a member of the expedition, was enjoyed by a large crowd. His delivery was excellent and his narrative most interesting and especially to those who tried to keep track of them while on the Antarctic regions. His illustration of the various duties and activities of camp life, during the fourteen months they were surrounded by an endless region of ice and snow, and the various sections of their camp and equipment, some of it much more modern than many would possibly think for, was really interesting and doubtless surprising to some.

From the receipts of the program the Boy Scouts received $35.00. Their expenses of bringing the speaker here, and for advertising was $23.00, leaving $12.00 net, which has been turned over to Jack Singer. Jack will go as the official representative to the World Scout Jamboree in August, to be held in Washington D. C.

On August 21st there will be gathered in The Capitol City approximately 30,000 boys and men, members of scout troops from over Littlefield is to have a modern, up-to-date general hospital in the very near future, according to an announcement made Monday of the purchase of Drs. Thomas B. Duke, C. E. Payne and J. R. Coen, general practitioners of Littlefield, of the equipment and supplies of the Simpson Sanitarium, from Dr. J. D. Simpson, who has been operating this institution as a private hospital for the past three years.

Plans are underway for the leasing of the building, which is held in trust by C. O. Stone, as trustee, and in charge of a special committee composed of C. O. Stone, J. C. Hilburn, Jess Elms and Sen. A. P. Duggan.

It is expected that the new management will take over possession in a few days.

The above physicians are all highly skilled in their profession, each of them enjoying a large practice in Littlefield and surrounding territory.

Drs. Duke and Coen have been practicing in Littlefield for over six years, while Dr. Payne located here about two years ago.

A Superintendent highly skilled and experienced in this work will be in charge of the hospital, who will engage only registered nurses.

All doctors in this district will have the privilege of using the hospital for their patients, and outside patients will be given the privilege of selecting their physician or surgeon.

Considerable new equipment will be purchased, as well as all supplies necessary to make the institution one of the best general hospitals in Texas.

Methodists To Re-Roof Parsonage

The hall which came some weeks ago is still keeping the carpenters busy recovering houses. The local Methodist church lost the roof on the church and parsonage. It is the plan, so the pastor reports, to start working at the parsonage on the 8th, at which time the men are to gather and re-roof the parsonage, fix the screens and all other repair. It is the hope of some that the parsonage will be at that time painted.

Work of reconstructing the base course on about 11 miles of Highway 7 from the Amherst depot to a point about three and a half miles northwest of Sudan was begun Friday, according to word issued from the office of S. A. Shoemaker, state highway resident engineer, Littlefield.

Workers were busy this week removing backfill dirt from the original caliche course laid some time ago. The course will be scarified and about 1,000 yards of new caliche laid. After traffic has packed the strip for two weeks, road oil will be put down and later the stretch will undergo a triple bituminous surface treatment.

The strip will be ready for oil in about two weeks. Cocke & Braden, Amarillo, is the contracting firm.

All of the unfinished portion of highway 7 from southeast of Muleshoe east to the Lubbock county line should be surfaced and opened to traffic before the end of the year, word from the office here revealed.

THE RED CROSS STEPS IN

There is one American institution which stands as a model for the whole world. That is the American Red Cross. The peculiar function of the Red Cross is to bring aid to sufferers from physical disasters. The disaster may be due to the incidence of war, or the calamities such as are usually termed "acts of God." In the popular mind, perhaps the relief service of the Red Cross in war stands out as typifying its work. But the greatest service of the Red Cross is to suffering humanity in times of peace. One has but to look at its record in recent years. The long arm of the Red Cross reached out to help the victims of more than one Mississippi flood, of the droughts which ravaged Arkansas and adjacent states five years ago, the unfortunates rendered homeless by hurricanes in the South and in Porto Rico, among others. Now it is adding to its laurels by its prompt and intelligent work in the flood-swept regions of New York State.

There is no delay about Red Cross aid in times of emergency. No red tape has to be cut. No politicians or other self-seekers have a finger in the pie. No breath of scandal has ever impugned either the motives of the Red Cross Administration or the integrity of those who handle its funds. Its money comes from voluntary contributions by millions of American citizens. Its organization is kept alive and flourishing by the voluntary labors of tens of thousands of devoted men and women—mainly women. It has at its call trained, efficient medical and nursing talent, and able administrators competent to take charge of any situation. It cooperates with all Government agencies but is under the control of none of them.

It should be a matter of pride to every citizen to be able to feel that he or she has contributed to the support of "the greatest organization of mercy in the world."

WORK SELDOM KILLS

Every year about this time we begin to see reports in the newspapers, of farmers dying from "sunstroke" while working in the fields. We hear such occurrences used as illustrations of the terrific hardships of the farmer's life of toil.

About this time of year, also, we begin to notice frequent reports in the city papers of men dropping dead on the golf courses. We have seldom heard anyone suggest that the golfer's life must be a terrible one, because so many men die at the game.

One is work, the other is play.

There is a wide-spread belief that all work is dangerous to health and longevity, while all play is beneficial. We have heard—we don't know how many—sentimental songs, and have read innumerable stories and magazine articles, all conveying the implication that work in itself is a life-shortening crippling and generally unwholesome thing. We have heard many young men excuse their laziness by declaring: "I don't intend to kill myself working!" The same young men, or their type, will spend hours in the broiling sun battling tennis balls across a net. About as violent work as anyone can do.

We are strongly of the opinion that there is nothing injurious to health in work alone. We have observed numerous individuals who have spent fairly long lives in pretty hard and steady work, and who are still alive and healthy. The persons to whom work is injurious, as nearly as we can figure it out, are the unfortunate ones whose health has been impaired by disease. It is much more likely that the knots on Grandma's finger-joints come from bad teeth or infected tonsils than that they were caused by exercise at the washboard. The victim of "sunstroke" most likely had a bad heart to start with, perhaps from an infantile case of scarlet fever.

Too much encouragement is being given, it seems to us, to the notion that work is a bad thing for people, and that play should be the chief object of life.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. LONG

Just a few short hours ago
Near the dawn of another day,
God needed another angel
So he called our friend away,
She's gone to her heavenly home
Away from all worry and pain,
And though you are lost without her
We'd never call her back again.

To this old world of many sufferings
Of sorrow, pain and grief,
To so many disappointments
In this life that is all too brief,
So sweet a friend, so dear a wife,
Such a darling mother,
Her memory lingers with us still
To out-shine thoughts of all others.

Her eyes were like stars
That brighten the dark nights,
The love in her heart out-shone
The beauty of a gleaming twilight,

Do not weep, loved ones,
She has gone on before to dwell
In that beautiful mansion, over on
The golden shore.

She will be a guardian angel
Over all her loved ones here,
Then put your trust in Jesus
Little brother, sister dear, and,
Someday you and father will be Called to meet her there,
As she rests in her home in Heaven
In that beautiful home above,
Our memories of her is lasting
By the goodness of her love.

To the ones that did not see her when her spirit winged its way,
To the portals of glory in Heaven,
Just pray to meet her there someday.

We as a community bereave her
She was an inspiration,
She inspired us to more noble deeds
And was ever true and faithful,
Several pages I could write of her sweet disposition
But let's just breathe a word of prayer,
That we may meet her there,
With the great physician,
—Dedicated to Mr. L. E. Long

Interest Rate On New Loans Is Cut By Land Bank

A. C. Williams, president of the Federal Land Bank of Houston, announced today that new loans made by the Federal Land Bank on and after April 10, 1935, through National Farm Loan associations will carry interest at the rate of four and one quarter per cent per annum. Mr. Williams pointed out that this is the lowest rate at which the Federal Land Bank has ever made loans. For about two years, the bank has been making loans through National Farm Loan associations at five per cent with a temporary reduction to four and one half per cent until July 12, 1938, as provided by the Emergency Farm Mortgage Act of 1933. After July 12, 1938, such loans again will bear interest at the rate of five per cent. The four and one quarter per cent rate on new loans made on or after April 10, 1935, will be effective for the entire period of the loans, which will be made on an amortization basis ranging from 20 to 30 odd years, as in the past. Federal Land Bank loans are made on the basis of first mortgage security on farms and ranches for amounts that may not exceed 50 per cent of the appraised normal value of the land mortgaged and twenty per cent of the appraised value of the permanent, insured improvements thereon. No change has been made, Mr. Williams said, in the interest rate on new loans by the Land Bank Commissioner, which rate is five per cent per annum.

him, he waved them off again. "Get this—Pete," he mumbled thickly. "Somethin' else—I've got to tell ye, kid. And I will. But—give me time—but first—get this. The gold is—" He lost his voice and found it by sheer force of will—"I saw it—just now. Two men—in the gulch. In bright snow—" His voice ebbed from him. His discolored and racked face turned gray with a deathly pallor of weakness and stupefaction at the failure of his tongue and his brain to answer his will. "The gold—"

With an agonized astonished curse at his defeat, he slumped, held rigid an instant against the wall, and then with a slow, lurching slide, sank down.

Speed, who had taken a step to break his fall, caught him, and leaned over the still body.

"He told the truth about his last shell," Speed mused aloud. "He was tryin' to reach the cabin and his shells for a last stand. But he saw our marks in the gulch. Who did he think I was at first? And where did he get that wound?"

"The two men in the gulch he spoke of—" said Maitland.

"It's what I was wonderin', I saw them, too. About four miles off, from here. He must have dodged 'em. But they'll pick up his blood trail. In half an hour from now, they'll—"

Here Speed unaccountably broke off short, spun about with a gun drawn, and in a flash had leaped round the narrow cliff ledge out of Maitland's sight.

"Hands up!" he shouted, "or I'll blast you into the canyon. Throw that gun down!"

A man with his arms raised came around the cliff edge by which Dalton had approached so short a time before. Maitland was too confounded to utter a sound. He wore the uniform of the Mounted Police.

There are no braver men than the

SLUMBERING GOLD

by Aubrey Boyd

FOURTEENTH CHAPTER

SYNOPSIS: Malone, hardened miner, and Ed Maitland, son of a young New England family, were men in the Yukon gold rush of 1900. They met on the trip north in a town that included Frunchy, the smart, lucky Ross, the beautiful girl who took a fancy to Maitland, Fallon, leader of the miners, and Maitland's interest in the land; Brent, old-time prospector; and who have Maitland and his outfit when he quit the mine and Pete and his drunken brother, Owens, who was drowned after a brawl, Pete turned out to be a girl in disguise. Speed killed a man at Skakway—a cheat manager of a shell game—and months later was arrested and put in jail for his murder. He got out, but while he waited for Lefty, who offered to help him, to get back the mail he had been carrying for the Mounties at Bennett—where Drew and Cathcart were stationed—he was recaptured by his enemy Fallon. But Maitland and Pete rescued him as Fallon was about to lynch him. They made for their camp at Bennett—Pete and Maitland with the horses, by one route, Speed by another with the dogs, led by Rusty, who had come to them in a blizzard. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"What did you hear, Bud?" Speed spoke low to prevent his voice from carrying to Pete, indoors. It was before dawn of the second morning. Maitland told him, "Do you reckon we're both hearin' things?" Speed muttered, "It listened to me more like a louder sound way off. An echo of gunfire—Or else from trees snapping in the thaw."

Motionless, they listened again. The silence of the shadowed chasm mocked them.

Speed stirred abruptly, "You stay here, Bud, and watch with Pete. I may be gone awhile, but keep that cliff covered with the rifle, I'll call you when I come back round it." Speed's reconnaissance took him over a wider range than he had expected. When he paused, halfway down a lofty slope, it was to survey a long and unobstructed view of white headlands, shining in the dawn. In the center of one of the necks, about two miles away, a pair of dark moving specks came into view. They were men; one of them carried what might be a rifle.

Very slowly, so as not to betray himself by a quick movement, he sank in the snow. The advantage of view was in his favor, since he looked down on them from above.

They were too far to be recognized as anything but men, but the image of Fallon had somehow leaped into his mind's eye at the first dim glimpse of them.

He lay along the base of a boulder, raising his head just high enough to bring the figures into view. He fired the gun once, at random in their direction, and immediately covered it to prevent even a wisp of smoke from showing.

They kept moving for an interval before the sound reached their ears. But instead of looking up in his general direction, they turned to stare the other way.

Yet, in spite of the advantage this gave him for observation, some vague and nameless instinct made him sink back out of sight between the boulder and snow trough. This wary sense did not leave him; but after lying hidden some thirty seconds, he looked over the rim again. Strange to say, the two figures had vanished.

Slowly he rose into clear view by the boulder, to tempt them to declare themselves with a bullet.

The shot that did come was an utter and confounding surprise. The roar of it burst in his ears from directly behind him! He dropped back instantly into his shelter. The bullet had flattened against the inner side of the boulder right next to his arm, in the same flash of time as the gun's roar. This marksman was not more than a hundred yards away!

Nothing showed behind him, either. He waited for a gun muzzle to show; for some tremor, however slight, in the snow above. Why didn't the fellow shoot? His ear, close to the snow, detected the crunch of running feet, receding from him.

He jumped up and ran to the near-by point from which the shot had seemed to come. There he found a hollow in the snow where the sniper had lain concealed, and the marks of his feet leading up from below to his depression, and running away from it. The fugitive was headed for the cabin and had left a moccasin track!

There was a spreading dark pink stain in the snow where he had hidden, and a blood trail all along his course!

A wild scramble along canyon brinks and ledges brought him to the head of the jackpine gulch, and the absence of a blood trace in it assured him that he had arrived in time.

Maitland stood waiting with the carbine and with Pete close by. He motioned them to back in close to the cliff, in silence. They had caught the alarm of the shots, but had no notion of what was about to happen.

After a still wait, a voice spoke abruptly from around the cliff and close at hand—a husky, broken voice. "Don't shoot," it said weakly. "It's your game. I'm out of shells."

Along the cliff wall and into view, covered by Speed's gun, a fur-clad and moccasin-clad figure groped its way, twisted with agony. Maitland recognized at a glance the man who had held them up at their winter camp.

He held a revolver in his right hand. The other hand clutched at his side, and dripped blood. When he raised his head and looked at them, his eyes changed strangely from the look of a fighting animal brought to bay, to an expression of wild astonishment.

"Pete!" he murmured, almost under his breath. "How did they find this?"

"They found your lead dog on the lakes," said Pete. "It brought us here."

The deepening wonder in his face was a thing to see. "The dog?" he muttered huskily. There was a choking in his throat like a chuckle—it became a desperate, blood-chilling, mortally exhausted laugh. "We've won now, kid!" he chortled in a hard elation. "Beat the game with—a damn—Swash!"

civic and church activities, and expressed on behalf of the gathering all good wishes for their future success and happiness.

Mrs. Pat Boone spoke of Mrs. Stone as a "true friend", bringing out how much she would be missed in church and social circles, as well as Carra Lou, who had taken such a part in various programs of an entertaining nature.

Mr. Stone responded stating words could not express his appreciation at the gathering in their honor, and for the nice expressions regarding he and his family, saying it had been a pleasure to live in Littlefield, and that he was going to miss his Littlefield friends more than they were going to miss him.

"In leaving Littlefield," Mr. Stone said "we know from this demonstration of friendship that we are leaving behind some of the dearest friends we have ever had. I appreciate all this so much, and I wish I could express my feelings to the people gathered here just how much they have meant to us. We do not regret it as leaving Littlefield. We will be coming back for visits, and we want everyone who comes to Littlefield from Littlefield to visit and feel at home with us. Any time you may come we will be more than pleased to see you."

FIRST TERM OF DISTRICT COURT UNDER NEW REGULATIONS RELATIVE TO TIME, LENGTH OF TERMS TO OPEN AUGUST 5

(Special to Leader)

Olton, July 31.—District court will open here August 5 and continue through September 7.

This will be the first time that court will be held under the new regulations relative to the time and length of term. In the past there have been three terms of court of three weeks each, but in the future there will be two terms of court of five weeks.

In the future court will convene on the first Monday in August and on the last Monday in February.

The civil docket for the next term of court is heavy, and the length of the criminal docket will be largely determined by any action which may be taken by the grand jury.

The only cases carried over from the last term of court are the Cook murder case, in which there was a hung jury, and one case of burglary and one case of forgery.

There are about the usual number of persons bound over on a variety of charges for the action of the jury.

Lots Of Heat, Little Moisture Goes Down On Weather Records

Lack of serious rainfall sent the mercury soaring to 100 for the week's high in Littlefield at 4 p. m. Wednesday.

The week's low was recorded here at 6 a. m., Saturday when the thermometer notched the 66 marker.

While rainfall in past weeks has kept crops in fair shape, farmers looked anxiously to the skies this week for further moisture. A light shower brought relief to Littlefield heat sufferers Sunday afternoon, but no beneficial rains in the area are reported.
