Community Center Fund Hits $6,700

Drive Seeks $15,000

THE WEATHER

FORECAST — Partly cloudy today with continuing cooler temperatures. Forecast high today around 52 degrees.

MOISTURE — For the year, 0; this time last year, 1.22

TEMPERATURE — Sunday high 58, low 28; Monday high 66, low 28; Tuesday high 66, low 32; Wednesday high 62, low 34.

Littlefield's campaign to raise funds for remodeling the community center had passed the one-third mark by noon Wednesday as solicitors continued their drive to raise $15,000.

As of noon Wednesday, contributions stood at $6,700, the Chamber of Commerce reported, and of this sum, only $600 was in pledges.

This is 44.6 per cent of the total and sponsors are well pleased with results obtained so far. The drive was started only last Saturday as one of the top 1961 projects for the Chamber of Commerce.

The sum is needed to put the community center back into condition and to finish portions which were never completed back in 1950 when the structure was built. After the building is put into condition, its future maintenance will be taken over by the city.

Twenty-four men are calling on business and professional men to ask for donations to the campaign. In addition, others are working on securing bids and getting labor donations in order that the project may be completed as soon as possible.

The drive is being sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, with the aid of the Lions Club, Rotary club, Jaycees and women's organizations in Littlefield. (Continued On Page Two)

No New Cases Of Diphtheria

No new diphtheria cases were reported in Littlefield up to noon Wednesday and the one known case was reported by Medical Arts Hospital as "doing nicely." The drive to get diphtheria vaccinations was spurred last Saturday when a young Latin-American mother was found to be suffering from the disease. She has four children.

Doctors here say "scores" have received their diphtheria immunizations since early in the month after the disease reached epidemic stages in Plainview, only a few miles away.

Park Maintenance By Council Asked

Littlefield city council will be asked tonight to assume the job of maintaining the Little League baseball park this summer, J. W. Harrison, city manager, said Wednesday.

The request for the city to take over the ball park upkeep will be made by Charlie Duval, who has asked to present the matter to the council at its session tonight.

Still another request which the council will consider is from citizens on Westside Avenue who have asked the city Dads to install street lights at West 14th and West Side Avenue.

Other than action on these two requests, tonight's agenda is largely routine. The councilmen are expected to ask on a matter which they tabled at their last meeting, a request to lower license fees for master electricians from $100 to $50. Electricians had claimed that the $100 fee was too high, and the council had been asked to cut the fee in half.

The council also will open bids tonight on two new two-ton trucks and a half-ton pickup which the city is buying for use in the garbage department.

The Council also is expected to discuss Friday's "mass dog vaccination day," when a "bargain vaccination - licensing project is set for the city fire department.

Banks To Close

The First National Bank and the Security State Bank will be closed today in observance of the birthday of Robert E. Lee.

'60 Road Toll: Seven Killed

Seven persons were killed on highways in Lamb County during 1960. Texas Department of Public Safety's Region 5 office at Lubbock reported Wednesday, and total property damage was $81,060. One fatal accident was investigated during December when the department checked on 22 accidents, the final summary for the year showed.

December, however, was a relatively safe month on Lamb County roads when only five persons were injured. Four accidents last month resulted in personal injury and 17 in property damage. Moneywise, last month's accidents resulted in property damage of $8,875.

For the year, 24 accidents resulted in personal injury and 23 in property damage. The total number of accidents was counted at 53 for 1960, and the grand total of persons injured ran to 63.

Feeding Program Here Urged By WTCC Chief

Fred Husbands, vice president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce presented his organization's program of work to local members of the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce at a special meeting Tuesday afternoon in the "Reddy Room" at Southwestern Public Service.

Husbands outlined the things that are of interest to people in this area and what the West Texas Chamber was doing to bring about their accomplishments.

Of special interest to the group was the all-out effort by the organization to encourage feeding out livestock by area farmers. Husbands said the chamber was not especially interested in commercial feeders, but to encourage area farmers to make money feeding grain sorghums.

Husbands was with a group who visited feeder operations in the Midwest recently and spoke of what they saw up there.

Husbands briefly outlined the history of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. . . . told how it worked with each city's chamber and that it also worked with the state Chamber of Commerce.

He said the Bracero program was one of the projects of the (Continued On Page Eight)

Girl Scout Fund Reaches $1343.50

The Girl Scout drive, underway this week and the next, had reached $1343.50 at noon Wednesday.

Scout officials expressed optimism at the amount of money collected thus far. They have set a goal of $3000 for the drive, which will furnish operating expenses for the year.

Also included in the goal set is a figure which would cover a remodeling job on the Girl Scout house, located in Laguna Park.

Youngest Man To Be Elected To The White House

JFK Turned Handicaps Into Victory Margins

John Fitzgerald Kennedy was the youngest man ever elected President and the only Roman Catholic. While Theodore Roosevelt was about nine months younger when he entered the White House in 1901, he reached the office from the Vice Presidency as the result of William McKinley's assassination. Kennedy was 43.

While a freshman Senator, John F. Kennedy, not yet 40 years old, came within 39 votes of winning the Democratic nomination for Vice President in 1956. He had gone to the national convention that year unprepared to seek the nomination. He had said he was not a candidate, but would accept the nomination if it were offered him.

His World War II record and his authorship of a best-selling book, "Profiles in Courage," added to his stature. This book, which was awarded the 1957 Pulitzer Prize for biography, dealt with decisive moments in the lives of selected American public figures, some well-known, some obscure.

He was almost a trademark. He had a blue-eyed open-faced look, a friendly smile and a studied carelessness in dress and demeanor. He talked with conviction, usually in machine-gun staccato. His World War II record and his authorship of a best-selling book, "Profiles in Courage," added to his stature.

Town & Country--

I LIKED just about everything that Fred Husbands, vice president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce said when he visited Littlefield Tuesday. His organization is against the socialistic trends of the national government.

FRED SAID there are about a third of our state legislators who like to vote for everything that costs money. . . then they won't vote for or try to figure out how same will be paid for.

MANY FARMERS are pretty adept at looking at a hog or cow and estimating its weight. Whether you're an old experienced weight guesser or not you stand a good chance of winning a hog down at the Firestone store this Friday and Saturday.

I DO NOT know how President Eisenhower feels about leaving the White House, but if the farewell statements of a few former presidents are any indication, he will not be sorry to forego the pomp and circumstance.

Center Drive -- (Continued From Page One) as well as by the Community Center board. The city council passed a resolution last month to take over the building after it has been put in shape and the council named a special committee to make estimates of needs.

Graduating From Distinguished Senatorial Career

LBJ Carried Prophecy A Giant Step Forward

On the day that Lyndon Baines Johnson was born, his politically-minded grandfather looked him over approvingly and remarked: "He'll be a United States Senator some day."

That prophecy by an adoring relative not only was borne out but was surpassed by Johnson's actual accomplishments. Twenty-nine years after it was made, the grandson was elected to Congress; in 1948, at the age of 40, he won election to the Senate.

Four years later, the Senate Democrats chose him Minority Leader. That was at the beginning of President Dwight D. Eisenhower's administration when the Republicans were in control of Congress. During the next three Congresses, the Democrats were in the saddle, and Johnson was Senate Majority Leader.

Then in 1960 he was elected Vice President of the United States, an office which carries with it the duty of presiding over the body in which he had served for 12 years. He was a candidate at the same time for reelection to his Senate seat and he won that, too, but naturally couldn't hold both offices.

Johnson was regarded as one of the top dark horse candidates for the Democratic nomination for president in 1956, but he was not an announced candidate. The convention chose Adlai E. Stevenson as standard bearer.

As Majority Leader Johnson carried through the Senate the first civil rights bill in more than 80 years. Three years later he beat down a Southern filibuster to get another such measure passed. In between, he had promoted a change in Senate rules that made it easier to cut off debate.

cratic party sometimes accuse him of excessive "moderation" and of making too many compromises with the Republicans. But he declared there were times when party matters should be subordinated in the interest of the national good.

"I am a free man, an American, a United States Senator, and a Democrat, in that order," he said. "I am also a liberal, a conservative, a Texan, a taxpayer, a rancher, a businessman, a consumer, a parent, a voter and not as young as I used to be or as old as I expect to be -- and I am all those things in no fixed order."

Called Health 'Too Good' Johnson said in 1960 that his health, in the estimation of his physicians, was "too good."

Worked Way in College After serving eight months, he returned to Congress under a directive by President Franklin D. Roosevelt that national legislators could not serve in the armed forces. He kept up his reserve commission, however, and became a commander. During the latter part of the war he served as chairman of a House war investigating committee.

From Teaching to Politics After graduating with a bachelor of science degree in 1930, Johnson taught public speaking and debating at the Sam Houston high school in Houston for two years. When Richard M. Kleberg of the King Ranch fame went to Congress in December of 1931, he took young Johnson along as his secretary.

On his maternal side he was descended from Baptist preachers and educators. His great grandfather, a Baptist leader in Texas during the Civil War, headed Bay-

For University for two years. Senator Johnson thus inherited a love of adventure and public service as well as an education background.

Adventures Started Early After finishing high school at 15, he and a group of other youths went on a jaunt to California, camping along a long railroad tracks and buying their small board of money each night to prevent its being stolen by other wanderers.

None of us had been off the farm for a trip longer than the road to town," Johnson recalled. When their funds ran out, the boys went their separate ways to find jobs. Johnson tramped up and down the coast, doing such chores as dish washing, waiting on tables and farm work when it could be had. Much of the time he had little to eat.

The trip back home was the longest I have ever made," Johnson said. It was accomplished by walking and hitchhiking. He was away for seven months. He was the first member of the House of Representatives to go on active duty after the United States entered World War II. The day following the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor he went on active duty as a lieutenant commander in the Navy. He had been a member of the reserve for several years.

Stevenson let the primary be clear majority necessary. Johnson found in the first round Stevenson in a hairbreadth margin. The result was in doubt when were counted. It was a tie of the Texas race in Austin, so that Johnson man he was to Claudia Taylor, and her Lady Esther in infancy worked parttime as college secretary. His interest in learning was aroused in college and he became politically ambitious also, practicing speech-making as he swept the classroom floors and wiped down the walls.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	John	6	1-14
Monday	John	6	22-35
Tuesday	I Corinthians	10	16-17
Wednesday	I Corinthians	11	23-25
Thursday	II Corinthians	9	10-15
Friday	Matthew	26	26
Saturday	Acts	2	41-47

Have you tried to satisfy your appetite with a bit of candy or a hurried snack? The keen edge of hunger may leave—but only temporarily.

There is another hunger innate in each of us. It is a spiritual hunger, our desire to have protection and help from God. Sometimes we do not really recognize this need. We feel only a restlessness, a longing for something better, an unexplained loneliness.

We often try to satisfy this mysterious hunger with the sweets of pleasure, to cover it up with the hurry of many activities. But it can never be really satisfied until we know God as our Heavenly Father, His Son as our Saviour.

Jesus Christ said, "I am the bread of life; he that cometh to me shall never hunger."

In the Church we find this Christ who offers us the true bread from heaven, the bread which alone satisfies our spiritual hunger

In The Martin Manner

By Ramon Martin

THE EDITOR called me out of office as governor of Oklahoma.

THAT FIRST day was a memorable one. There was the rush to the Chamber of Commerce, the court house and the city hall, the usual news beats then or now. The editor had got his start on the old Pittsburgh (Pa.) Press and had come up the hard way. He was good!

When I got back to the office just before noon and started pounding out my copy in the best J-grad fashion. He came over with a pair of scissors and began clipping off the paragraphs as I wrote them. "Deadline" was his one-word explanation. By the time he had done that three or four times I was as nervous as ballarina dancing for the czar of Russia.

But I got the copy turned out by the time I had finished with my story, the first stories were already back from the composing room. When the first edition appeared at 1:15, I grabbed the paper eagerly and began to read the stories I had written. Most of it could hardly recognize it had been edited with a capital "E."

It was surprising how many words Mac had eliminated from my copy. Oddly enough, it made sense.

IN THOSE days, the writer could not editorialize — not even a little bit. And adjectives were taboo. The "quote" lead was the hot stuff. You wrote it like this: "Ardmore will be a town of 25,000 by the end of the year if it continues to grow as it is at present and if it has the co-operation of all the business men." So said Joe Bloo, president of the Chamber of Commerce. You had a fixed formula, too — a long quote first sentence, followed by the short sentence. That was the style; every story followed that pattern.

When I had started, Mac had said that there would be no longer than six-months' work. Sam would return from the capital and I would be out of a job. Sam returned in late spring, I recall, but I didn't leave. That six-months job stretched until the summer of 1941 — 12 years! Although Mac still held the editor's chair. A year and a half ago, back into the four estate racket again. Now we are preparing to leave this game entirely, after all these years. It things work out as planned, there will be a business of our own, small enough, time-wise to permit Manner to devote several hours a day to a life-time ambition — writing fiction. But it's going to seem kind of funny after all these years of

Two weeks after we arrived in that booming oil town of 20,000 night-owling individuals, the editor, who has been in poor health resigned, and I took over. We had AP, UPI and INS, all three of the major news services and it was nothing uncommon even in those days for us to have a daily run of 60 to 80 pages. We lived in a three-room house on the edge of a rat-infested sand tract, and the oil well flares were so bright the house almost as light at night as it was daytime. If the baby ran out of milk at midnight, we simply went to one of the many big all-night groceries and bought some. The Odessa of today, although much bigger, has none of that old-time boom-day glamour, I had a dozen people on my staff, including a graduate geologist, as oil editor.

THERE WAS just one fly in the ointment: The daughter, who was then 2 years old. Those flares, which gave off an aroma like nothing else so foul in the world, began to affect the daughter's bronchial tubes. Said the doctor: "Get her out of here. That's all I know to do for her. Others come here to get over trouble like that, but when you develop it here — well, only thing I know is to get her out of these fumes."

By that time, the Japs had already dropped their first bombs, and the paper had issued two extras that Sunday afternoon. And now we had settled down to putting out a newspaper each day that screamed of new ship bombings and new fireside chats by FDR. But a little girl's wheezes induced the Martins to flee, so I gave up a good job on a good newspaper and we headed east. Men, by the middle of 1942, were scarce, I had more offers than I could accept. We settled with the Daily Oklahoman, the paper that claims to have the biggest circulation of any paper west of the Mississippi except for California sheets.

Ten years there and then seven years (if my math is correct) as public relations director for a big insurance company, and then back to the west again to serve as director of activities for the First Methodist Church in Hobbs, N. M.

Photo --- His Dream Was To Grow Pearls

The 'Maniac' Who Became Known As 'King'

By JOHN PETTY
Press Feature Writer

An ancient Oriental legend tells the story of an Indian princess who was abducted from her husband by his enemies. As the hips of the kidnapers sped the beautiful and loving wife away from her mate, she wept pure and shimmering tears of love that dropped into the silky blue water. And so, the legend says, pearls were born.

Throughout the centuries pearls were so rare that only the rich could afford their beauty. They were cherished by royalty and coveted by the potentates.

It fell the lot of a poor Japanese noodle peddler to change all this.

At an exhibition of pearls one day, the ambitious young Japanese man looked at the beauty of pearls and wondered why all people shouldn't be allowed to enjoy them. The question embarked him on a lifetime venture that was to make history.

The young man, Kokichi Mikimoto, decided to grow oysters, in an attempt to stimulate increased pearl output. He wanted to grow real pearls from oysters — he wanted to help more of them grow the precious gems.

It was common knowledge in Mikimoto's day that pearls were the result of a tiny piece of foreign matter — a grain of sand or such — working its way into the oyster shell.

The irritated oyster would then secrete a fluid matrix or mother of pearls. After many layers of the fluid had surrounded the irritant and hardened, a pearl was formed.

All this was known by the young man. His problem lay in stimulating the oysters.

For years, Mikimoto studied the oysters; he learned their living habits, their breeding habits, and the proper climatic condition for growing them.

In a small bay south Tokyo, he found the perfect spot and proceeded to collect oysters and plant them in marked rows in the still waters of the bay. In each oyster he planted a grain of sand by means of prying open the shells and forcing it in.

After several months of tortured waiting, Mikimoto reclaimed a batch of oysters from their rows and anxiously pried them open in oyster after oyster he found — a grain of sand.

Despite his failure, the ambitious Japanese determined to make his dream of growing pearls come true.

While his wife sold noodles as their only means of support, Mikimoto went back to the quiet little bay to continue his project.

Continuing with his experiments, Mikimoto tried different stimuli in an effort to get the oysters to produce. Glass, copper, paraffin, mother-of-pearl were each tested and each failed.

Two more discouraging years passed without results. Once a horde of bacteria which feed on PEARL KING—Kokichi Mikimoto, the man who astounded the world by cultivating pearls in patches of oysters, worked long and hard to develop his process. At the time of his death in 1954, he was one of America's staunchest supporters in Japan, and continually showed his love for his friends. He once presented a two-foot long, fifty-pound replica of Mount Vernon to the U. S. constructed of 20,000 pearls and valued at half a million dollars. It is now on exhibition at the Smithsonian Institute.

oysters swept into the bay and killed all the oysters save one small patch in a protected cove — the "maniac" began a pearl farm.

People began to laugh at Mikimoto. They called him the "Pearl Maniac."

In the summer of 1893, time was running out for the "maniac." Creditors, family pressures and the difficulty of raising money were forcing Mikimoto to give up his dream that had so far proved to be a miserable failure.

In July, Mikimoto brought up his beds of oysters to examine them. Prying open creature after creature, he found the same thing — nothing.

Then, as he opened one of the oysters, out rolled a white sphere, the embodiment of his years of hopes and dreams and countless failures.

Mikimoto had grown a pearl. Five in all were found in the first batch that summer, but that was considered by many a miracle.

A visit to one of the Mikimoto farms is a vivid experience.

Girl divers man the boat which and the farm's oyster beds — behind these boats are the rafts containing the cages in which the oysters that will produce the cultured pearls are kept. In the cages the oysters are tended and nursed for years.

The girl diver plunges down to the bottom of the lagoon and from a depth of 20 feet brings up oysters from the bed where they have been growing for three years. These oysters are placed in tubs and taken to the pearl farm laboratory for the "operation."

There, the shell is opened and between the shells a tiny bead of mother of pearl, mostly from America, is inserted, after having been wrapped in living tissue from the oyster. This oyster is returned to a cage and the divers take it down below to the growing ledges where the cage protects the grafted oyster from starfish and other marine creatures that might attack it.

For seven or eight years the oyster remains and the company hopes it will be making secretions around the irritating particle within its shell.

At the end of the time the cages are brought again to the surface, and the oysters are opened. There is about one chance in 20 that within the shell there will be a gleaming pearl.

Dog Day Set, City Is Ready

Tomorrow is "Go Dogs" day in Littlefield. That's the time when several hundred (it is hoped) dogs will get their rabies shots and their 1961 city license tags.

The city has repainted the walls and floors of the fire station, and equipment will be moved out tomorrow morning to make room for tables, medical equipment and a secretary's desk as Fido has his day in Littlefield. J. W. Harrison, city manager, said Thursday.

"We hope the number runs into the hundreds," he said, "and believe that the 'bargain' rate — 50 cents below the usual cost — will cause scores to bring in their pets for the immunization and tagging."

Time will be from 1 p. m. until 5:30 p. m. when Dr. Charles G. Nace, Littlefield veterinarian, will do the vaccinating job. He's knocking 50 cents off his regular fee. Thus a male dog or spayed female can be "shot" and licensed for only $4 during bargain day. Females' fee will be $5.

January 31 is the deadline for buying 1961 licenses under a new law passed recently by the city council. After February 1, officers

Dallas Expert To Speak Here

Charles Spivey, Dallas consulting engineer, will speak to the Littlefield Planning Commission at 7:30 tomorrow night to explain the Master Plan program. B. D. Garland, Jr., chairman, said on Thursday.

Spivey, who is recognized as one of the nation's top city engineers, is a member of the engineering firm of Koch & Fowler and Grate Inc., Dallas.

Feeding Program

(Continued From Page One) chamber in the past, but said this program was on the way out. He emphasized that the chamber would continue to fight unionization of farm labor in West Texas.

He described the chamber's work in getting West Texas more cotton acreage allotments and said that the future plans call for a continued research in agricultural chemicals.

In national affairs, Husbands said the West Texas Chamber would oppose the $1.25 new minimum wage law, federal aid to education, medical care for the aged, aid for depressed areas, and other socialistic trends by the national government.

Most of the latter part of his talk was devoted to the tax and budget problems the state faces at this time and what could be expected.

With the state over $90 million in the red, he said some kind of tax would be necessary to get the needed amount. He outlined the fact that we are in a fast growing state and that as population increases, more budget is necessary to school and maintain a greater number of persons.

More taxes on business is not feasible because Texas is losing businesses to other states because of an already high business tax. Likewise he said there would be nothing to expect from the "sick" oil industry in Texas.

Husbands said about a third of the state's legislatures favored a state income tax, another third favored any kind of spending program, but were not interested in taxing more to get the needed money. The other third is interested in a state retail sales tax.

Husbands said he felt that a sales tax was the only fair answer. He pointed out that Texas had been very fortunate in the past to operate without one. Needed taxes had been secured through the oil industry. Now, the sales tax would be the most simple plan to get the needed funds.

He also suggested a discount plan for the merchant who must spend extra time and bookkeeping in keeping tab on the sales tax records.

Water conservation and study has been one of the big facets of promotion by the chamber. In fact when the chamber started in 1918, two phases of its three point program of work concerned the state's water. Husbands continued. Taxes on the state's flood and underground water is now being discussed by some state officials, but he said he saw no reason for taxing underground water resources.

In other discussion Husbands said Texas' teachers should be given a raise, the sugar beet legislation had many problems to overcome and not much could be expected for West Texas this year.

Approximately 35 members of the local Chamber of Commerce were present to hear Husbands. He was introduced by chamber president, Kenneth Reast.

'Faces Humiliate Wildcats With 91-44 Drubbing

The Whitefaces from Hereford made quick and easy fodder of the Wildcats Tuesday night as they humiliated the Littlefield cats 91-44 in the 1-AAA opener for the Cats.

Hereford is now 2-0 in the conference, having downed Phillips Friday night.

In other loop play Tuesday, Du mas smashed Phillips 50-25 to share the district lead with the Whitefaces.

Littlefield was never in the game with Hereford, trailing 24-5 at the end of the initial period the Cats were never able to come closer than 20 to the winners. Jerry Koller and Billy Thompson shared high point honors for Littlefield with 14, followed by Boots Barker with 10.

Carl Miller led in the game with 27.

In the "B" contest, Hereford smashed the Junior Cats 53-34.

Anyway You Look at It, It's That Way

Exams bring stress and strain to students — and a case in point came from Littlefield High School.

On a mid-term exam paper a student concluded the test with the statement — "And the car was parked on the hell."

Cornering the student after class, the teacher asked this of the beary-eyed student:

"How do you spell hell?"

"Why, it's h-e-l-l," was the reply. "No, wait, it's h-e-l-l."

"Wrong both times," said the instructor. "The word is spelled h-e-l-l."

The student looked struck. "Ah, hell."

Only three counties reported no fatalities during the year — Throckmorton, Stonewall and Kent counties. Hale county had four highway deaths during the year, and Bailey county six. Three counties had three deaths.

In comparison with 1959, there were 98 accidents accounting for six persons killed, 51 injured and a property damage of $83,248 during 1959.

In reporting the accident record for the year, Sergeant D. S. Lawson in Littlefield said, "The Texas Department of Public Safety closed its 'Operation Death Watch' with 83 traffic deaths during the last 10 days of 1960 as compared with 97 during the same period the year before." However, he explained, "with late deaths of those critically injured, the figure is expected to come close to the predicted 90 motor-icides," Lawson summed up.

Plant Disease Of The Week

Onion Blight Hits Quality and Yield

By HARLAN E. SMITH
Extension Plant Pathologist

Onion "blight" disease is generally found in all commercial onion producing areas. It is usually observed in South Texas, by January or early February. It is more severe when rainfall is above average or when humidity is high.

Born Saturday at the Methodist Hospital, Lubbock, was a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Copaus. The mother is the former Patsy Hudson, a sister of Mrs. Ralph Wade.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Burnett and family were Mrs. Oma Burnett, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Burnett, Paula and Sammy of Morton.

Onion Blight Hits Quality and Yield

In some areas, damage by disease is mistakenly attributed to bad weather.

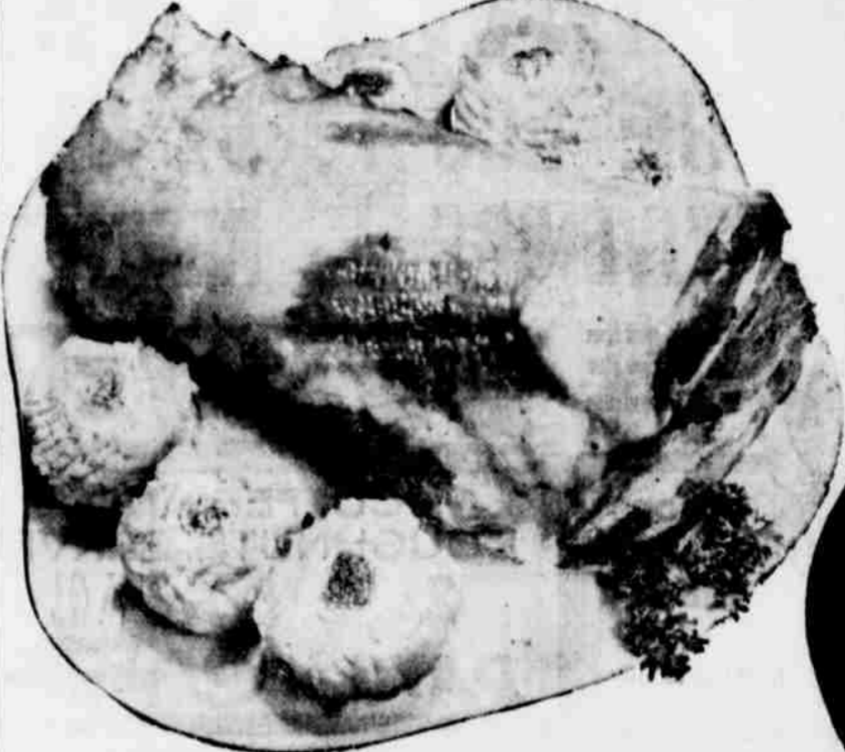

The blight is usually a combination of fungus diseases occurring at about the same time. Purple blotch, botrytis tip blight, downy mildew or several other foliage diseases may be involved.

Purple blotch causes white sunken spots with purple centers. The spots eventually girdle the leaves causing a leaf die-back. With botrytis tip blight, the tips of the leaves are killed. Downy mildew causes dwarfing of the plant and leaves become a distorted pale green. In wet weather downy mildew fungus produces a violet mildew growth over the affected leaf parts.

It is not uncommon for yield to be cut foliage disease to more than these and damage gain. A common the best lions or three or four land. Obtain from relatives. Use with preservative. For name with name sticker. For of spray depending plants. For should be usually is beautifully built to go 30,000 miles between lubrications!

Galaxie Club Victoria, in looks and luxury, the rival of cars costing hundreds of dollars more.

HERE'S HOW THE '61 FORD TAKES CARE OF ITSELF

Lubricates itself—You'll normally go 30,000 miles between chassis lubrications (which cost only about $4.00 and take about 20 minutes) because Ford has replaced conventional grease fittings with a sealed-in lubrication system.

Cleans its own oil—You'll go 4,000 miles between oil changes because Ford's Full-flow oil filter gives you filtration through fibers... trapping more dirt than any other type of filter made.

Adjusts its own brakes—New Truck Size brakes adjust themselves—automatically.

Guards its own muffler—Ford mufflers are double-wrapped and aluminized to last three times as long as ordinary mufflers.

Protects its own body—All vital underbody parts are specially processed to resist rust and corrosion, even to galvanizing the body panels beneath the doors.

Takes care of its own finish—Just wash and clean Ford's new Diamond Luster Finish and it continues to glisten like new. It never needs waxing.

Imagine: no more chassis lubrications every 1,000 to 2,000 miles. Imagine, too, the savings! While other car owners pay up to $45 for lube jobs during 30,000 miles, Ford owners will pay only about $4... and the job will take only about 20 minutes.

That's because of Ford's new sealed-in lubrication system. At your Ford Dealer's, the threaded metal plug protecting each lubrication point is removed, specially developed grease injected, and the plug put back. That's all there is to it for another 30,000 miles!

This is just one of Ford's many takes-care-of-itself features... all good reasons why this Ford should be the Ford in your future!

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Vern Sanford

— Texas 57th Legislature on a note that's like a roller coaster for some time —

Members felt their situation was awkward and voted themselves salaries as the first item of business. The vote was 77-45 to raise the $4,500 a year salaries to $5,000. A year ago the legislature made possible the passage of a law which approved a constitutional amendment last November.

— The legislature salary and expense bill, would divert some $2,600,000 from the cigarette tax and drivers license funds. Money had to be "found," since the general revenue fund, as fast as it comes in, has to be used to pay the state's "hot checks."

— Down the road are even more fireworks as the legislature searches for $200,000,000 plus to take care of the wants of other state agencies and services.

— Turman Speaker — Farmers and teachers have one of their own in one of the most important of state offices.

— Rep. James Turman of Gober was elected Speaker of the House by a vote of 83-66. Rep. Wade Spillman of McAllen, whose support was largely from conservative House members, was the losing candidate.

— Turman and his family operate a 103-acre farm in Fannin County. He is a former grade school teacher and worked his way to a doctor of philosophy degree in education. For a time he was assistant to the president of Denton.

— As speaker, Turman's first big job is appointing House committees, due to go into action about January 23. By his selections he can influence to a considerable degree how certain legislation will be handled.

— Senator Roberts Honored — Sen. Ray Roberts of McKinney is president pro tempore of the Senate for the present session.

— His job, largely honorary, is to preside over the Senate in the absence of the lieutenant governor. Also, he is second in line of succession to the governorship. By tradition, during each president's term, the governor and the lieutenant governor leave the state so the senate president can serve as "governor for a day."

— Senator Roberts, a World War II Naval hero, is a farmer and a realtor.

— Grist For the Mill — Texas Legislative Council, an influential joint House - Senate study group, will offer a mass of proposals for new legislation.

— Among recommendations:

1. Some streamlining, but not a wholesale re-writing of the state constitution. This will be a disappointment to groups working for steps toward a new constitutional convention.
2. Limitations on the annexation powers of cities and towns.
3. Increased facilities for juvenile guidance and care, including a home for dependent Negro children, facilities for mentally ill juveniles and regional training centers for delinquent youths.
4. Higher minimum coverage requirements for automobile insurance. Present minimum is $5,000. A raise to $10,000 or $20,000 was suggested.

— School Lunches Hit Record High

— Currently over 13.5 million youngsters are participating in the National School Lunch Program, reports the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

— The program was established in 1946 and each year this expanding market for farm food products has increased officials said.

— During the school year ending last June, some 12.8 million children were served 2,142,000,000 lunches. Most of the food, approximately 80 per cent, was purchased locally by the more than 62,000 public and nonprofit private schools participating in the program. These local purchases amounted to an estimated $540 million.

— In addition, school lunch menus last fiscal year included a approximately $58 million worth of nutritious foods purchased for participating schools by USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service to supplement local purchases.

— Among the popular lunch items were frozen turkeys, frozen ground beef, frozen ground pork, canned pork and gravy and a variety of canned fruits and vegetables.

— National School Lunch Program schools also share in the distribution of surplus commodities acquired by USDA in price-support and surplus-removal programs, also available to non-participating schools. In fiscal 1960, slightly more than $70 million worth of surplus foods including butter, cheese, nonfat dry milk, honey, flour, cornmeal, peanut butter, rice, dried whole eggs and sweet potatoes were distributed.

— The program is administered cooperatively by Federal, State and local officials. Federal funds are allocated to the States, and must be matched from sources within the States, including children's payments, at the rate of at least $3 for each Federal dollar.

— The program is administered cooperatively by Federal, State and local officials. Federal funds are allocated to the States, and must be matched from sources within the States, including children's payments, at the rate of at least $3 for each Federal dollar.

— In operation, this matching requirement has been exceeded consistently in the 14-year history of the program, and currently is running generally about 7 to 1. The Federal cash apportioned among the States for the present fiscal year totals $83.6 million.

It's the Law in TEXAS

LEGAL CHECKUP IS SAFETY MEASURE

Legal trouble is easier and cheaper to prevent than to cure. Most wage earning, childbearing, home-buying, installment paying families don't see much need for a family lawyer. Often under prodding, one may get a lawyer to write a will. But can you tell a big legal risk from a small one? Can you spot the signs of legal trouble?

- 1. Your status changes: upon coming of age, marriage, the birth of your children, buying a house, divorce or death. For you may then need to draft or revise your will, change your insurance, or refigure your taxes.
- 2. You buy or sell. Look out for flaws in the papers before you go into debt, part with money, or sign anything involving big expenditures or long term obligations.
- 3. You enter into other contracts. Promises, spoken or written, bind you if they call for a "consideration", something of value in return.
- 4. Someone threatens your rights. The law exists to defend them but with some rights you must take action yourself for them to work for you.

When you can bring your lawyer "live" facts (e. g. unsigned contracts, vexing tax returns you haven't filed,) he can do much more for you, and at a smaller cost than when you bring him "cold" facts (mistakes you have made which threaten trouble.)

But above all, get both live and cold facts to him at once. For time may run out in many such situations. Your lawyer may be able to do something for you today, which he cannot do tomorrow.

Tell your lawyer what you want. Tell him all the facts, good or bad, and then keep him informed all along. He is sworn to keep what you tell in confidence, and he cannot serve you well without full knowledge.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved.)

Among band students in Lubbock Saturday to play with the Region Honor Band were Marilyn Driver, Morsalene Pierce, Butch Dykes, Anita Whitmore, Carol A. Watkins, Laurie Shaffer, Faye Scott, Sherilyn Maxwell, Carole Harper, Dyanne Curry, Jeanne Seymore.

Mrs. Carl Thomas left last Wednesday by plane for Olympia, Wash. where she was to join her husband who is stationed with the Army there.

Among those in Lubbock Friday evening attending the Tee game were Doyle Watkins, Ves Terry, Eldon Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Baccus.

LIPSTICK LOGIC

A cartoon that tickled our fancy recently showed a pert housewife billing her laundryman for "334 buttons lost during 1960." It might be fun if we could really turn the tables once in awhile. Not only on "billers," but on people and situations. For instance, how about the doctor who makes an appointment for 2:15 Monday, for which we rearrange the entire day, then lets us sit in his outer office until sundown wondering if he has forgotten. We propose to bill this fellow at $5 and hour, plus overtime for shattered nerves. When we buy a ticket for a show that's disappointing, would not it be a switch if we could reclaim the admission price, plus compensation for wasted time? Or when some clumsy oaf breaks a plate out of our best china, instead of saying lightly, "Indeed you won't pay for it! It was already cracked!" say, "Good! That'll be $3.95." Or instead of sending a gift to a bride who already has three just like it, how about buying something dainty for the plucky little lady down the street who takes in ironing for grocery money? Or maybe, selecting a piece of china for the girl who didn't get the groom — she's the one who needs presents! We aren't just sure what would happen to the gold standard in such a topsy-turvy economy; or whether our social system could weather such a revolt against what's proper. But it would sure relieve some tensions; and maybe straighten out some pretty cockeyed values we've let creep into our thinking. 'Course, if it went both ways, we'd be bankrupt in a few weeks, at our house, both for money and friends!

EARTH NEWS by Frankie Faver

Several young people from the Earth Methodist Church were among the approximately 200 persons attending a Plainview district MYF banquet at the Olton Methodist Church Saturday evening.

Gathering in the sanctuary, the group engaged in singing. The banquet was served in the following room.

Group singing of the Wesley Grace served as an invocation.

The banquet tables were laid in white and decorated with red streamers laid down the middle of each. Eye glasses inscribed, "Come and See" were placed at regular intervals.

Following the meal, Harry Lewis, Tulsa, district MYF president, served as moderator at a program in which several members of the organization spoke briefly on the subject, "What Christ Means to Me."

Views From Pleasant Valley

By MRS. JOHN WEST

The Pleasant Valley Home Demonstration Club met January 5 for a New Years luncheon under the direction of Mildred Stewart.

After lunch new officers were installed by Glenda Huley using the theme, "Facing the Challenge of Today's Tasks," which is the theme of the state THDA program for this year.

Installed were president, Dolores Duncan; vice - pres, Elsie Detwiler; sec, Juanita Galyon; treasurer, Bertha Daniel; council delegate, Mildred Stewart; alternate delegate, Hazel Short, and reporter, Glenda Huley.

Committee's were appointed for this year. The Club voted to pay the building fee and to take sponsoring the 4-H club as the community project for this year.

Hostesses were chosen and new year books were filled out.

There were 16 members present and one new member, Mrs. Pat Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Allison had open house at their home last Tuesday evening honoring their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Allison and daughter, Leslie, of Seattle, Wash.

About Your Health

A staggering 11.7 billion dollars are spent for meals outside of the home each year in the United States among more than 200,000 eating places including restaurants, cafeterias, lunch counters and hot dog stands according to Texas Restaurant Association estimates.

The food service industry now ranks fourth among all American industries accounting for billions of dollars in building, equipment and payrolls each year.

Estimates place the number of eating establishments in Texas around 12,000 to 13,000.

Assuring safe standards and quality of this vast amount of food service is the responsibility of food inspectors operating under local ordinances.

Generally local ordinances are based on minimum standards and recommendations set by State and national health authorities who keep abreast of latest developments in the food handling industry.

Education is the keynote of safe food handling practices in local areas.

Local health departments conduct foodhandling courses aimed at instructing foodhandlers in safe methods of food service - ranging from the right way to wash glasses to the proper temperature for storing lettuce.

For areas not served by a local health department or maintaining its own food service course the State Health Department's Public Health Education Division maintains a team of highly trained foodhandling instructors who travel about the State conducting foodhandling courses in cities of varying population.

These three - day courses are directed toward every phase of food service, to safe and sanitary food kinds of special care and hot; and cold The urgency of zation of utensils and the various sible for the m soning are deca fied. Understanding ing the danger contaminated ganisms enable to conscientizing them for the best customers (A from Public Health vision, Texas Sta Health.)

Read the Following Carefully for Good Rhyming Words

This "blurb" portrays a shopping phase — which "Runaways" might well appraise.

Avoid delays these hectic days — in traffic maze along highways — selecting from the fine arrays — in local stores — with small outlays;

You'll well deserve unstinted praise whenever you learn: "HOME TRADING PAYS."

Letters To Editor

(Editors Note: The views expressed in the following letter are not those felt by us. We print this letter so that the feelings of all our readers may be expressed. If you have any reply in the letter we will be more than happy to hear from you and print what you have to say.)

I am writing this in the hopes that Littlefield will awaken to the fact that it is not a perfect city for a child to grow in.

I actually have no reasons for writing this except for the fact that I have children that must live and grow up in this town. I want to keep them safe from harm and fear.

How many parents in Littlefield care as much for their children? How many parents in Littlefield realize the element of power and fear in the Littlefield schools?

And if they realize it, do they care?

And after school hours, what about them?

Do the Littlefield parents know where or what their children are doing between 4 p. m. and 12 p. m. Do they care?

How many parents are too busy making money or having fun to see their children?

Of course, when by chance the children are caught doing wrong. How many parents run down and get their children's record cleared with money, power, promises, tears or whatever and yet the very next day can these parents say where their child is?

Perhaps I am out of order in writing this but I don't think so. My children are not in school yet but the years pass and I would like to know for sure that my children would be safe from fear or harm or the gangs that roam the streets in search of kids.

At the end of this letter I will not sign my name, not because I am afraid for myself but for the safety of my children.

May God help this town if the people won't.

But let me continue. Let's take a look at football just for an example. I don't have anything against football. I enjoy watching football games, but I do have a lot against the way it is handled in Littlefield.

In Littlefield a football player can do no wrong. They are kings and the non-football players are their slaves. The football players make a mess at the ball park and its the non-players who have to clean up after them.

I have even heard it rumored that the non-players grades would be lowered if they didn't clean up after the football players.

The non-players run the stands at the ball park. Who receives the proceeds? Does it go for the football players trips or what? That would be alright but don't you think the non-players should not be forced to work for the players?

Don't make such a big thing out of football. Return it to its normal place. Let it be a sport and not a major item of importance. Return the kings to their normal status as kids who play football for sport. Put them back on even ground with the non-players.

Do this and it will help to straighten things up just a little.

But football is not all the trouble.

Where are the Littlefield police when a target is spotted? Are they afraid of the gangs of 6 or 7 boys and girls? If so perhaps we people of Littlefield should hire more officers to back them up or is it the fact that they know who these kids are and do not care to arrest them?

Where are the laws when six or seven kids gang up on one or two kids?

Do they know or care or have they just given up because they know it would do no good to arrest the lawbreakers? Perhaps they know these kids would receive no punishment for their crimes.

A policeman is only as good and brave as the people backing him. And the people of Littlefield don't care or try to back up their policeman.

How can Littlefield grow when outside people hear about it and will not accept jobs here because they don't want their children living here? How can it grow as long as its citizens move away as soon as they get the chance or opportunity?

I'm just one person in this town but surely there are others who care about Littlefield.

One person can do nothing against the rising tide of fear and violence, but a group of citizens could.

Get behind your law enforcement agency. Clean up Littlefield. Make it a decent place for youngsters to live.

But stop this uncaring attitude towards your children and their safety.
