Methods Of Instructing Pupils Are Being Studied

Visitors week in the local schools has met with considerable response. The first three schools designated to visit this week have turned out and are visiting with their entire faculty. These three schools are Hart Camp, Fieldton, and Spade.

The teachers are looking for better methods of instructing the children who are sent to them daily. The new course of study and its installation are the immediate things which interest the teachers of the county. Next year each school will be required to install the new course of study which is built around the activity type work.

The Littlefield schools have been working with activity units for the last two years and have found some encouraging results.

The visiting teachers comment with favor on the things they observe in the local schools.

The teachers visiting from Spade were: Jack Wester, Superintendent, Lee B. Dodson, Margaret Roebuck, Opal Montgomery, Sallie Jane Clay, Otis Elder, Jack Jackson, Mrs. Edmonds, Colene Martin, Lois Butler and Ruth Jones.

Those from Fieldton are Winnie Hendrix, Mrs. Addie Spikes, Mrs. Lois Turner, Opal Hartsell, T. W. Montgomery, and Warren Powers Superintendent.

Olton sent three teachers Monday of this week in the person of Miss Alma Wells, Fannie Bettis and Mrs. Muriel Taylor. They represented the primary, intermediate and high school departments.

The remainder of the Lamb County schools are to make their visits the remainder of the week.

The Littlefield schools appreciate these visits.

L. B. Barkley, Deputy internal revenue collector, will be in Littlefield Thursday, March 4, to assist people of this district in making out their income returns, and supplying any information desired.

Only five towns in this area will be visited. Owing to a shortage of deputies a number of towns on the South Plains in which heretofore a deputy has visited, will not be included in the list this year, according to Mr. Barkley.

And Sammy Came Marching To The Court House, A Happy, Happy Man

We've all heard of the charge of the Brigade . . . the head hunters of Africa, or some other seaport town, . . . the dollar chasers of Wall Street . . . and etc and etc.

Now comes big bill hunters of Olton. They don't all live in Olton . . . some of them gathered there on account of District court.

There's Sid Hopping, deputy tax assessor and collector; Deputy Sheriff Arch Jones, and Clyde Cates and Tom Fowler, . . . and DEPUTY SHERIFF SAM HUTSON. Sam Hutson's name appears in capital letters for reasons soon to be explained. Sam, in the course of his official duties, was paid $60, . . . two tens and two twenties . . . and he was carrying the money around in his vest pocket until he had time to send it away in the form of a money order or cashier's draft.

Sam is hard on his clothes; he breaks them out in all directions and just keeps on being a good deputy sheriff . . . busy as a bee . . . one minute carrying out some official act . . . the next minute a good deed in the interests of some poor cuss or a friend.

Sam paid for his lunch in Olton last Friday out of some change he had in the same vest pocket with the $60. In replacing the $60 he pushed it in a hole in his vest at the top of the pocket.

Sam went back to the court house and soon discovered that the two tens and two twenties were missing.

Hopping, Jones, Cates and Fowler to the rescue. They charged into the open spaces . . . they had heard fairy stories about money growing on trees . . . and they figured that perhaps Sam's money was fluttering from the branches of court house lawn trees. No! The money wasn't in the trees!

The money sleuths scattered . . . they searched . . . and they found three bills . . . one of them against a fence . . . but not one of the recovered bills was within one hundred yards of another.

About that time Sam recovered from the shock of losing the money. And he, too, went into action. Five or six blocks from the court house Sam found the elusive twenty waving from a weed. Sam pounced! Sam grabbed.

And Sammy came marching back to the court house.

Try and convince Sam that there's isn't a Santa Claus; he'll argue with you till the break of dawn.

Ellen gets Her Man

SECOND INSTALLMENT
 SYNOPSIS: Ellen Mackay, on her way from school at Winnipeg, to join her father at Fort Edson, misses the boat by which she was to travel. Hearing that another boat is to start north in the morning, Ellen goes to the owner, John Benham, and begs him to give her a passage. To her surprise he flatly refuses.

"This is Angus Mackay's lass, Pierre," announced Pat.
 Pierre Buschard murmured a sonorous greeting and bowed clumsily.
 Ellen smiled and advanced close to the giant riverman. "You are going to help me, Pierre?"
 "Oui, oui, mam'selle," rumbled

ing paddle. The buoyant craft trembled before the grip of the river, but headed against the current and stole silently upstream.
 Ahead a jutting point loomed. Still as a wind-blown shadow they rounded the point and drifted bankwards again. Uncouth shapes took form in the night. Ellen recognized the loaded scows of John Benham's brigade. The canoe drifted in and gently nosed the nearest scow. Silently Pierre Buschard stepped to the scow and held the Peterborough firm.
 "Come, mam'selle," he whispered. Ellen stepped out beside him. Pierre indicated the massed cargo of freight upon the scow. He lifted up one edge of the tarpaulin which covered the pile. "Under here," he its tether like a blooded horse, anxious to be gone.

 Ellen's thoughts grew dreamy and clouded with sweet languor. The scow became a cradle and the great mysterious force of the river a gentle hand to rock it. Presently she slept.

When Ellen Mackay awoke again it was with a start and a short gasp of surprise. For a moment she scarcely knew where she was. Then all that had happened during the night came back to her and she relaxed. Close beside her a deep voice was booming. A moment she listened, then smiled. Her perturbation left her. In its place came a flood of warm, dancing thrills. She began humming softly, keeping time with the cadence of the song the deep-chested riverman was singing. It was the old wild song of the river brigades, the Chanson de Voyageur. And it meant that the scows of John Benham's brigade were at last freed of their tethers; that they were now part and parcel of the great spring migration into the distant wilderness of the Three River Country.

The chill of early morning was still in the air, and Ellen was grateful for the warmth of her blankets. She lay there quietly, queerly content. Strange the transition wrought

ard had provided. The crawling hours seemed intolerably long. She did her best to sleep those hours away, but a fitful doze was the best she could accomplish. By the time nightfall brought blessed coolness again her head was aching and her muscles tormented with the inactivity. But when, by the efforts and shouting of the Cree Indians, she knew the scows were being warped into the bank to tie up for the night, renewed energy came again to her, and she smiled in triumph. One more cool, friendly night in hiding, and in the morning the brigade would shoot the Cascade Rapid. After that she would be safe in making her presence known to John Benham. For once below the rapid, he could not send her back without

Presently the riverman ceased his song, and then all the multitude of lesser sounds became manifest. The hoarse, throaty mutter of the river; the endless song of adventuring waters; the creak of stout timbers; the rasp of hard-swung sweeps against the thole pins. Once the shrill hunting scream of the osprey echoed. Several times she heard the soft shuffle of moccasined feet passing close beside her hiding place.

At first these sounds were soothing, but with a passing hour or two, restlessness seized the crouching girl. Her hiding place was far from uncomfortable, but it was irksome to remain so still and quiet when every fibre of her being called for freedom and action. She began avidly to crave sight of that world which lay just beyond the thin covering of canvas.

It was the rising sun which made Ellen's position particularly uncomfortable. The heart, under that canvas covering grew thick and heavy. Before long she was bathed in perspiration, and she drank often of the water the thoughtful Pierre Busch-

ard had provided. The crawling hours seemed intolerably long. She did her best to sleep those hours away, but a fitful doze was the best she could accomplish. By the time nightfall brought blessed coolness again her head was aching and her muscles tormented with the inactivity. But when, by the efforts and shouting of the Cree Indians, she knew the scows were being warped into the bank to tie up for the night, renewed energy came again to her, and she smiled in triumph. One more cool, friendly night in hiding, and in the morning the brigade would shoot the Cascade Rapid. After that she would be safe in making her presence known to John Benham. For once below the rapid, he could not send her back without

NEW SAFETY FOR BABIES

Mother, most hospitals protect their babies against germs and skin-infections by rubbing Mennen Antiseptic all over the baby's body every day. This keeps the skin smoother, softer, and SAFER. So, mother, hospitals do, as do doctors. Give your baby a rub with Mennen Antiseptic daily thruout his days. See your druggist.

the big fellow. "M'sieu Benham, he's be mad lak' wolf at Pierre Buschard, but Pierre do w'at he can. You come wit' Pierre now mam'selle, and we must be quiet lak' lynx w'en he stalk dat rabbit."

Ellen, victim to a sudden tumultuous thrill, scurried away and donned her mackinaw and cap. Back in the big room she stood on her tiptoes and pecked Pat McClatchney on one whiskery cheek with her red pursed lips. "I'll remember this pat," she promised.

"Tis little enough, lass. Now stick to your guns and I gamble this will come out well enough. I feel sure of your safety, for whatever else he may be John Benham is a gentleman and the nicest riverman in the north. Now run along with Pierre and do just as he says—He has already taken care of your luggage."

Pat gave Ellen's arm a squeeze and shook hands with Pierre Buschard. The next thing Ellen knew Pierre had taken her by the elbow and was guiding her steps down the sloping bank of the river.

It was still out there, vastly except for the ceaseless beat of the river, while the night throbbled to the power of the limitless wilderness which stretched away to the north. A faint, haunting, quavering note drifted down from among the massed stars. The geese were winging north. All things were heading north, even she! Ellen found herself thrilling with a strange, wild ecstasy.

There was a big Peterborough canoe pulled up on the shore, and in the bow of this Pierre placed the girl. Then he shoved off, balancing himself deftly in the stern, while he lifted and dipped a gleambreathed. "You must hide, for a day and a night you must hide, mam'selle. Den you will shoot dat Cascade Rapid. M'sieu Benham, she's not senq you back after dat. I have put dat food and water and blankets, mam'selle. And Pierre, he's watch out for you."

Ellen gripped Pierre's huge paw with both her slim hands. "You are kind, Pierre," she murmured. "I will never forget this."

"Bien," he grinned. "She's make me happy to help, mam'selle. You hide now, quick."

Her heart beating thunderously, Ellen crept beneath the edge of the tarpaulin and crouched quietly. She felt the slight quiver of the scow as Pierre left it. Alone now. Alone! Definitely committed to the great adventure. The future might bring anything, but queerly enough, Ellen felt no fear. Only a stirring anticipation.

She remembered those strange, marvellously clear, almost hypnotic eyes of John Benham. The next time they rested on her—what would they mirror? Surprise, yes. Anger—almost surely. Yet Ellen felt comfort somehow.

It was cosy there in the darkness beneath the tarpaulin. She stirred and felt about her. Then she blessed simple, big-hearted Pierre Buschard. For, in a crevice between the massed bales and boxes of the cargo, was a bundle of food and the sleek, chill contours of a jar of water.

Ellen snuggled down into the blankets, covering herself with the warm, comforting folds. After a bit she relaxed all tension. The scow rose and fell to the surge of the river, creaking and complaining at

CORRECT WAY OF BUMPING A FRIEND'S CAR TO START IT

YOUR car that is going to do the pushing should be in LOW gear.

The car ahead that you are going to push should be in HIGH gear, with the clutch pedal DOWN.

If possible, get in position where one side of the car behind is about in line with center of the car ahead. This helps if bumpers lock. Car with bumper on top should try to get over the edge of a curb or other high spot that lifts bumper and permits parting. Or the same thing can be accomplished if car with bumper on bottom is maneuvered to a low drain or other depression in the street.

Tell your friend not to let his clutch pedal up until you actually have his car MOVING.

At best this is hard on your car, but it is a friendly act that you would not deny a fellow motorist marooned by cold. He has troubles enough of his own . . . with a freshly-killed battery . . . flooded engine . . . and sheepish feeling—to say nothing of wasted gasoline.

Less Monthly Discomfort
 Many women, who formerly suffered from a weak, run-down condition as a result of poor assimilation of food, say they benefited by taking CARDUI, a special medicine for women. They found it helped to increase the appetite and improve digestion, thereby bringing them more strength from their food.
 Naturally there is less discomfort at monthly periods when the system has been strengthened and the various functions restored and regulated.
 Cardui, praised by thousands of women, is well worth trying. Of course, if not benefited, consult a physician.

Sentinels of Health
 Don't Neglect Them!
 Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—if it's healthy—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feet tired, nervous, all sorts of things.
 Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbances.
 The complained and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body wastes. Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are guaranteed by country, state, and federal laws at all drug stores.

SLIM LINES FOR MATRONS

Pattern 8522: This versatile jacket frock, so flattering and serviceable for the matron's wardrobe, achieves a pleasant illusion of slimmness in all its clever lines. The simply cut jacket hangs loosely to leave the hip line undefined and offers a choice of full length or three-quarter length sleeves.

The panelled skirt is definitely slenderizing and the unusual neckline of the dress is particularly interesting and very becoming, with a softly draped collar falling into a graceful jabot beneath the narrow band.

Made of silk or flannel or light weight wool with light or dark contrast in the collar and jabot, this superbly styled ensemble will see you through till summer. You'll never tire of its engaging simplicity, and you can make it quickly—and inexpensively.

SAFETY---OR THIS?

DEATH, in the guise of heavily loaded motor trucks, rides the highways of Texas every day and every night. The toll of human death and injury of these vehicles is appalling.

In the five-year period, 1932 to 1936, inclusive, trucks in Texas have participated in 8,416 highway accidents in which 2,195 persons were killed and 11,962 injured. In 1936 alone, their record stood 2,208 accidents with 3,323 persons injured and 576 killed. These actual records of people killed, as shown by Texas newspapers, compared with the number of deaths resulting from all motor vehicle accidents, as given by the Bureau of Vital Statistics in Austin, show that the average Texas truck participates in twice as many fatal accidents as the average passenger car.

Likewise, as might be reasonably expected from their greater weight and size, and as shown by the records of the Texas Railroad Commission, the Carrier-for-Hire truck accidents, during 1936, have resulted, vehicle for vehicle, in three times the number of fatalities as for the average passenger car.

Increased liability to highway accident forms an inseparable part of truck operation. But even the threat of greater highway hazards hangs over the people of Texas. Newspapers report that operators of BIG trucks have organized for the purpose of securing an increase in weight and speed limits, already too large. These are the elements, weight and speed, which, in highway accidents, spell "D-E-A-T-H."

The right to grant, condition or deny the use of the highways for profit, belongs to you, the people of Texas, notwithstanding the attempts of the operators of BIG trucks to take it away and give it to the federal government instead. Your present laws, limiting the size, weight and speed of trucks, were enacted by reason of your insistence, and by your insistence they have remained on the statute books. Their amendment would serve the sole purpose of increasing the profits of operators of the BIG trucks, with the certain results of also increasing the mounting injuries, deaths and property losses now taking place on your highways.

Public welfare and public safety demand that existing highway regulations shall be retained and enforced.

Joe WELLS

Dr. B. A. Prestridge, Mr. and Mrs. George Doggett and Tommie Moore of Olton were in Littlefield on business Tuesday.

expensive delay and labour. The scows were in movement when Ellen awoke on the following morning. Again some member of the crew, invigorated by the sparkling dawn, was roaring out the river song. And again the river was speaking to her, though a new note had entered its voice. At first it was only a distant throb, but as time went on the throb became a deep rumbling roar. Cascade Rapids!

Fresh activity arose on the scows. Directions and advice were shouted back and forth. The creak of sweeps on thole pins became steadier, firmer. The scows began to pitch and rock. Ellen, even in her walled-in covert, could distinctly feel the increase in speed. The thunder of the rapids arose to crashing proportions. Then it seemed as though a giant hand grasped the scow and hurled it out into utter chaos.

Mad waters! The hoarse, quivering roar of the pent river beast, battling the barriers of confinement. Spray arose to tingle the lungs. The scow leaped and danced like the merest cockleshell. If men were shouting now, then their voices were being beaten back at their lips.

Ellen was not frightened. Rather she was thrilled to her finger-tips. Hers was the true pioneer blood, which beat rich and strong and vibrant in the battle with natural forces. Abruptly she swept aside the tarpaulin and stepped forth. Confinement had become intolerable. The men at the sweeps did not seem to notice her. With quick, thrilling steps she ran to the front of the scow and braced herself there. Spray drenched her, the wind of their speed clutched at her face, her throat, her hair, her clothes, whipping the latter tight about her slim, valiant figure.

Presently Ellen turned. The crew spied her now, stolid, dark, stoic-faced Cree Indians, and they stared at her in shy, unwinking amazement. Eyes from other scows had marked her presence also, and she saw Pierre Buschard grinning broadly and waving at her. Then one of the big crafts headed in towards her own. When the scows were still a good three yards apart a big-bare-headed figure cleared the space in one clean leap of splendidly co-ordinated muscles, and a moment later John Benham was beside her.

"Well," he said slowly, his voice steady and deep. "I see you've won. And by the grin on Pierre Buschard I can guess how you did it."

Ellen's courage came back with a rush. She smiled. "I was desperate," she answered. "It was the only way. I hope you will not be angry with Pierre. He was very kind. And as I said at first—I will pay you well for your trouble."

Benham raised a deprecating hand—A queer hardness twisted his mouth and a certain glint of triumph shone in his eyes. "My payment is already assured," he said grimly. "I'm a good hater. I'll exact my pound of flesh."

Ellen stared at him. In a space of seconds he had become somehow stern and savage. A ripple of fear shot through her. It couldn't be—surely— "Don't worry personally," he stated with a swift, harsh laugh, reading her thought with disconcerting ease. "You'll be quite safe. And Pierre is an old and valued friend. He meant well."

A crimson tide again flowed across Ellen's face. "Thank you," she said stiffly. "I'm not afraid."

Benham nodded and turned away. Going back to the crew he snapped a few terse orders. The Cree's leaned muscular bodies against the sweeps and under Benham's directions drove the scow up to the bank and tethered it there.

Ellen's uneasiness grew. Was he going to send her back after all? Was her triumph to be so short lived? Then she breathed more easily. Benham, axe in hand, had leaped ashore and was swinging the gleaming blade in swift, powerful strokes among the slender boles of a dwarf birch thicket. In ten minutes' time he had felled and trimmed a full dozen of the tapering poles and had passed them aboard. A moment later the scow was again out in the river, scudding northward.

Teacher's Day Is Observed By Local T. A. February 10

Members of P. T. A. were out Mrs. F. O. Boles in a meeting organization held Wednesday February 10 in observance of Teacher's Day.

Activities were listed in four main categories—educational, religious, social and athletic. The nature of the activities is carried on by the organization.

and each year special programs and exhibits are calculated to increase community interest in art.

Humane education, music, character education, homemaking, parent education, child hygiene, and international relations are phases stressed by every wide-awake P. T. A. member.

Tribute was paid to Alice Birney and Phoebe Hearst, founders of P. T. A. who were termed real builders who through faith, vision and courage set into motion the great pace which has grown into the largest child welfare organization in America.

Originally this organization was a Congress of Mothers. Today membership has been extended to include mothers, teachers, and any other adults interested in child welfare. There are 25,000 local units in the United States and there are organizations in 50 countries of the world.

Mrs. Van Clark spoke briefly on the emblem of P. T. A. The Oak, which is the emblem is significant of strength and durability. Its trunk represents the central organization, the limbs represent the state units, the twigs indicate local units and the leaves represent individual members.

Miss Fleeta Egan sang "Kilmer's Trees," she was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Orien Dennis. After the regular program those present were invited to the Home Economics dining room, where P. T. A. birthday cake, coffee, sandwiches and mints were served.

CORRECTION Through an oversight it was reported last week in the Wildcat section that Luzelle Bryan held scholarship honors in L. H. S. last semester. A re-checking shows that Ben Lyman, Junior, shares the honor.

Ben also took five subjects last semester with an average of A on everything. In addition to his academic work Ben also served as business manager for the Wildcats during the football season.

P. T. A. PROGRAM ANNOUNCEMENT FOR FEBRUARY 24

The P. T. A. program for February 24 is as follows: Opening song. Reading—Mrs. W. D. T. Storey. Vocal solo—Mr. Jake Hopping. Character in Advertising (using the lives of Washington and Lincoln to illustrate)—Mrs. B. L. Cogdill.

ONE ACT PLAY GIVEN

The Commercial club of Littlefield high school presented a one-act play in assembly Thursday at the high school, entitled, "Taking Father's Place." The play was about a man who left his office in care of his son during his absence. The father returned only in time to save his business from ruin.

ART EXHIBIT SUCCESSFUL

The art exhibit which was held Thursday and Friday of last week, under the auspices of the P. T. A. was a decided success.

High school students who saw the exhibit were greatly pleased. Many students went back the second and third time. Mrs. J. M. Stokes and Mrs. Pat Boone explained something of each painting and of the one who painted it.

Through the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Boone a portrait of the late Major Littlefield was also on exhibit.

HIGH THIRD NEWS ROOM II

Our room had a candy sale Tuesday and Wednesday. We made $1.21 the first day. Dorothy Wales Etter, our treasurer, will deposit our money for us. Our room opened up an account at the First National Bank last Thursday. We deposited $8 cents.

Jack Willis is a new pupil in our room. He came from Hart's Camp. There are six new charts in our room. We can read them all.

We made sixty-two plate favors for P. T. A. Tuesday. They were little red Valentines with a hat, eyes, nose, and mouth on each of them.

CAMPUS CHAT

New students in the Littlefield high school are William Duncan, from Perrin, Texas; Wyvonne Laven from Pecos, Texas, and Myra Dell Van Noy from O'Brien, Texas.

Supt. A. B. Sanders says that Aaron Rex has learned to give signals at wrong hours of the day. I wonder if he meant night too? It is hoped that Aaron Rex will soon learn to give his signals at the proper time.

Jack Garlington, L. H. S. Alumus, and senior student in Tech college was on the campus Wednesday.

Vernell Caviness and Kathleen Brewer were school visitors Thursday.

Visitors and friends are invited to be present Sunday night as this will be unusually attractive to young as well as older Christians who are interested in knowing more of the life of Jesus.

General Motors Strike Ends Thursday Last

The General Motors strike ended Thursday with the signing of a three page document.

The representatives of General Motors Corporation, the United Automobile Workers of America and the two conciliators signed at 11:46 a. m. amid the clatter of cameras.

William S. Knudsen's signature was the first placed on the paper, while floodlights glared and sound cameras ground. He is executive vice-president of the corporation. John Thomas Smith, general counsel for the company, followed. Then Donaldson Brown, G. M. finance chairman, signed.

Wyndham Mortimer, first vice-president of the United Automobile Workers, signed first for the union; then Lee Pressman, counsel for the Committee for Industrial Organization.

Gov. Frank Murphy, mediator for President Roosevelt whose presence held the conferees through the long negotiations, signed next, then James F. Dewey, Federal conciliator.

General Motors released a corollary letter to Murphy in which it agreed not to bargain with agencies other than the United Automobile Workers except under stated conditions.

The letter: "We hereby agree with you that within a period of six months from the resumption of work we will not bargain with or enter into agreements with any other union or representative of employees of plants on strike in respect to such matters of general corporate policy as are referred to in the letter of Jan. 4, without first submitting to you the facts of the situation and gaining from you the sanction of any such contemplated procedure as being justified by law, equity or justice toward the group of employees so represented."

Text of the settlement revealed these basic agreements:

The corporation recognizes the U. A. W. A. as bargaining agent for its members. The corollary letter protects the union in its demand that it be dealt with exclusively for six months.

The company pledges no coercion against employees of the union.

The company and union agree to commence collective bargaining next Tuesday.

The union agrees to call off the present strike and evacuate all plants.

All employees shall return to their usual work when called and there shall be no discrimination or prejudice.

The company agrees to resume operations in all plants as soon as position.

The union agrees to call no strikes

TRACK SEASON OPENS

By BUCK MUNGER

As a happy but unsuccessful basketball season's arc, in the circle of time, rolls from us we see the arc track coming into view and wonder what lies on the invisible end of this arc. Let us look at the prospects and try to figure out what lies in store for us at the other end.

About 43 boys are reporting daily for practice. Nearly twenty of these boys are Seniors, 15 freshmen and a few juniors and sophomores mixed in.

Some of the brightest prospects are, Ray Smith, who won the half mile at the Regional track meet last year. Deveril Cecile, who won the javelin throw in last year's regional meet. Lloyd Pollard, who placed in five events at the county meet last year.

Cach Bill Sanders thinks the prospects are bright all the way around. Although they may not win first such boys as Clyde Lee, in chinniz and Hall Rowe, in the shot put will probably add points to Littlefield's side of the county meet.

As the boys go through their practices each day some boy who is unknown may show signs of being good in some particular event and take the place of some old timer.

For many of these boys this is their first year of track and for many it is their last time to try for the track team. The boys who are reporting for practice are: Bill Carter, Horace Baize, Pryor Hammons, Gates Etter, Dewey Connel, Billy Holder, T. A. Henson, Sport Lakey, H. W. Bradley, Ramey Wilson, Ray Smith, Elmer McKnight, Maxie McKnight, Charley James, Darwood Yantis, Lacy Burleson, Pat Burleson, Robert Graham, Robert Dale Barton, Lloyd Pollard, Lester Kilpatrick, Junior Burgett, Lloyd Neely, Wilfred Moore, Clyde Lee, James Bachus, Harry Woody, Harold Pollard, Elton Elms, Pat Boone, Hall Rowe, John Foust, Curtis Anderson, Robert Cuthery, Johnny Sparks, Granvel Clark, Alvin McCarty, Jack Taylor, Howard Latimer, James Elms, Deveril Cecile and Emmitt Evans.

"THE SOUTH PLAINS GREATEST WEEKLY NEWSPAPER"

News From The Senate Chambers

SENATE OPPOSES PROPOSAL OF E. ROOSEVELT

In a stormy session February 17 the Senate opposed the proposal of President Franklin D. Roosevelt to increase the membership of the Supreme Court from 9 to 10. Leading the attack was Senator J. Holbrook of Galveston, dean of the Texas Senate, and Sen. Clint Bell, former candidate for Governor. The Senate passed the proposal by a vote of 47 to 23. The Texas delegation in Washington not to favor the proposed change. In a nation-wide broadcast on a committee room adjoining the Senate chamber, Senator Holbrook declared it would be detrimental to the American government to allow this change. "Realizing the political status as it stands today in Washington, we ask the Texas delegation to oppose such a measure. Never before in the history of the American people has a President asked the Congress to make such a change that would weaken our Judiciary. It is too reactionary." Sen. Small declared it would only lead to further confusion and slow down the progress of law. "The President" said Sen. Small, "wants to change umpires in the middle of the ball game." Action of the Texas Senate and House brought news all over the nation. It was one of the first states to openly oppose the President's request to change the Supreme Court to fit the demands of the people. The Texas delegation in Washington got into somewhat a split over the measure. Definite damage to the change of passing was seen when Sen. Tom Connally said he would not vote for the change. Sen. Morris Sheppard and Cong. Maury Maverick will favor the change.

Retainer Fees

By a technical point of order the Senate previously refused to adopt the House resolution providing that all members of both the House and the Senate file a statement answering a questionnaire containing information regarding the source of retainer fees received by such members.

When Senator Lemens, Aiken, and Westerfeld asked the approval of the Senate, Sen. Rawlings of Fort Worth raised the point of order that a rule prohibits the making of a motion to suspend the rules for the purposes of considering a resolution out of its order during the morning call. Lieutenant-Governor Walter Woodul sustained the point of order.

Sen. Nelson, who voted to reveal any retainer fees said the resolution will be back. "There is no good reason why any member of the Senate should refuse to let the world know for whom he is working," he said.

Race Track Repeal

Out of the committee with a favorable vote came the bill for the repeal of the race track gambling as hundreds of interested spectators and speakers thronged the Capitol city to listen and participate in the arguments.

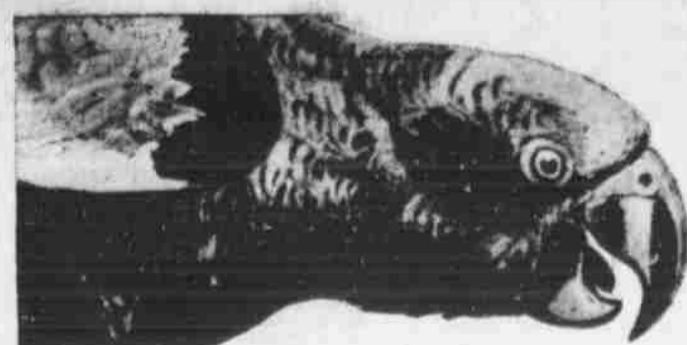

Next day found Sen. Nelson, author of a similar bill in Senate, busy trying to arrange a committee hearing in the Senate within a week. Interest is running high at the Capitol as a large lobby is pouring into the city to take part in the repeal of pari-mutuel gambling.

Visitor In Austin

Alvin R. Allison, President of the West Texas County Judges Association was in Austin last week to confer with state legislators over the possibility of passing the bill providing for a remission of all ad valorem taxes to the county. "The State has unlimited taxing power, and the county does not. We can't see why the state will not help us with this burden. In comparing the total indebtedness of the State with the counties, it takes little thought to decide the vote," the Judge said.

Judge Allison also is interested in having established 12 Health Districts throughout the State under the control of the State Health Board. Allison said he realized that this would bring on added expense to the state, but added, "the legislature paid out thousands of dollars for the eradication of ticks in East Texas. What is money compared with health. Such districts would be of great service to the people, bringing medical aid right to the poor people, and right into the schools."

CHURCHES

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Fifteen of our members attended the Associational Sunday school conference at Sudan Sunday afternoon. Mr. A. B. Sanders delivered a timely message on teaching to the adult conference.

Plans are being made for an associational wide Sunday school study course to be held in each of our churches starting Sunday, March 14th.

Our church will study B. T. U. books this coming week in a study course led by Miss Patti Hopping, B. T. U. director. Plans are for six or seven books to be taught and to have 100 enrolled in classes. Rev. Vernie Pipes of Sudan will teach one of the books. We had 92 in B. T. U. last Sunday evening. B. T. U. starts each Sunday evening at 6:45.

The W. M. S. of the church are preparing to observe the Home Mission Week of Prayer the first week in March. Home missions will be studied with much time spent in prayer during these special services.

Rev. Hilyar Carter preached his first sermon to a large audience Sunday morning. The house was well filled and the message attentively received. Bro. Carter did unusually well and as many said, "It was the best first sermon I have ever heard preached."

The pastor plans to leave the first day of March for Magic City in the Panhandle oil fields to preach in a two weeks revival. Rev. L. J. Lloyd is the pastor at Magic City. Our finances for the budget have fallen below eighty dollars the past two Sundays and it is hoped that every member will do his part to help keep the finances of our church in good standing.

We hope to be able to announce any day now that the finance committee has effected a settlement with the bonding company on the indebtedness of our church.

The pastor will preach at both services this coming Sunday. Using as his themes, "The Fool and the Fountain," and "Fallen and Faithless."

Sunday school starts at 9:45. Mr. Lon Smith superintendent. We had 221 present in time to be counted last Sunday. Come worship with us and we will do thee good.

Baptismal services will be observed at the First Baptist church Sunday evening.

Willis J. Ray, pastor.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

We had another fine day last Sunday. We had a fair attendance in Bible study and another full house for the worship. We have added four benches to our auditorium and plan to add others as the need may require. Remember that you are always welcome here. Come and be with us next Lord's day.

The writer began a series of sermons last Sunday that will run for several weeks. The subject of the series is, "The Great Commission."

Last Sunday we emphasized the first command, "Go!" Next Sunday we shall study the second command of the commission, "Teach." Then we will study the work of the apostles in carrying out this commission and the plan of salvation as revealed in this commission. You will enjoy this series of lessons. Be present next Sunday and continue a study of this important subject with us. Bible classes meet at 9:45 a. m.

Morning worship and preaching service at 10:45 a. m. Young people's meeting at 7:00 p. m. and evening preaching service at 7:30.

Last week we began a song drill in connection with our mid-week's service on Wednesday evening at 7:45. We plan to practice on new songs for thirty minutes each evening. Then we will have our lesson for a 40 minute period. Be with us next Wednesday.

J. D. Rothwell, Minister.

LUTHERAN CHURCH NEWS

Friday night the Sunday school teachers will meet in the school room. Besides the Bible stories for the following two Sundays, the study of the Introduction to the Bible will be continued.

Sunday night the sermon topic will be, "The Redeemer Betrayed." A selection will be rendered by the quartet. Bible class at 7:30.

We were saddened Monday morning to learn of the death of Hilton Armin, the two days old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Boriack. A weak heart was the cause of the passing of the child. Funeral services were held Monday at 5:30 o'clock. The pastor spoke on the words of Jesus recorded John 13:7, "What I Do Thou Knowest Not Now, But Hereafter Ye Shall Know." Quite a number of floral pieces were sent by friends.

The out of town relatives who attended the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Pflueger, parents of Mrs. Boriack; Miss Esther Pflueger, a sister and Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Siepert, and daughter Winnie Pearl; and Mrs. J. Rosentreter. All came from Hamilton county.

was in the Pumphrey cemetery.

Mrs. Byers was called to the sick bed of her mother a few days prior to her death, and had only been back a short time when she was notified of her death. Mr. and Mrs. Byers returned from the funeral Thursday night.

Mr. Pumphrey was born March 18, 1849, in Alabama and came to Texas as a young man with his brother, the late J. L. Pumphrey, in the year 1869, locating in Falls county. He was married in 1875 to Miss Mollie E. Wilcox, and moved to Runnels county, locating near Pumphrey. Land for the first school in that community was donated by Mr. Pumphrey in 1900 and a few years later contributed to the present cemetery site.

Honoring Mr. Pumphrey the community was given his name. He was a charter member of the Pumphrey Baptist church and still held his membership in that church. He retired from active farm 1911 and he and Mrs. moved to Winters to make home until her death in 1933.
