IN GRAND JURY SESSION:

Murder Indictment Returned

An indictment of murder returned against Bobby Joe Buchanan, Spade, headed a list of 17 indictments returned Monday by a Lamb district court grand jury.

Buchanan is charged in the April 15 fatal shooting of his father, Wesley Buchanan, 48. Bond of $15,000 was set for him by District Judge Pat Boone. Billy Hall, Littlefield attorney, has been retained as defense counsel.

The senior Buchanan was slain at the family home near Spade on April 15 after a family quarrel of several days that resulted in his wife and daughter and son taking an apartment in Littlefield.

He was shot several times with both a .16 gauge shotgun and a .22 calibre weapon. Officers theorized that he was hit by three shotgun blasts, five shots from the .22.

The son came into sheriff's offices a short while after the shooting and surrendered, telling officers he had shot his father. The Buchanan farm home is located four miles east, two miles south of Spade.

In a statement to County Attorney Curtis Wilkinson the young man told him, "It's something that had to be done."

He added a statement to the effect that "it was him or me," Wilkinson said at the time of the arrest.

Mrs. Wesley Buchanan, the youth's mother, called on Sheriff Dyer about 4 p.m. the day of the shooting—at almost the time it was happening—saying she was afraid her husband "might do something bad."

Other indictments returned by the grand jury were:

Manuel Silguero, Littlefield, charged with possession of narcotics. Silguero was arrested in Littlefield on January 31 by City Patrolman James Cox and charged with having marijuana in his possession.

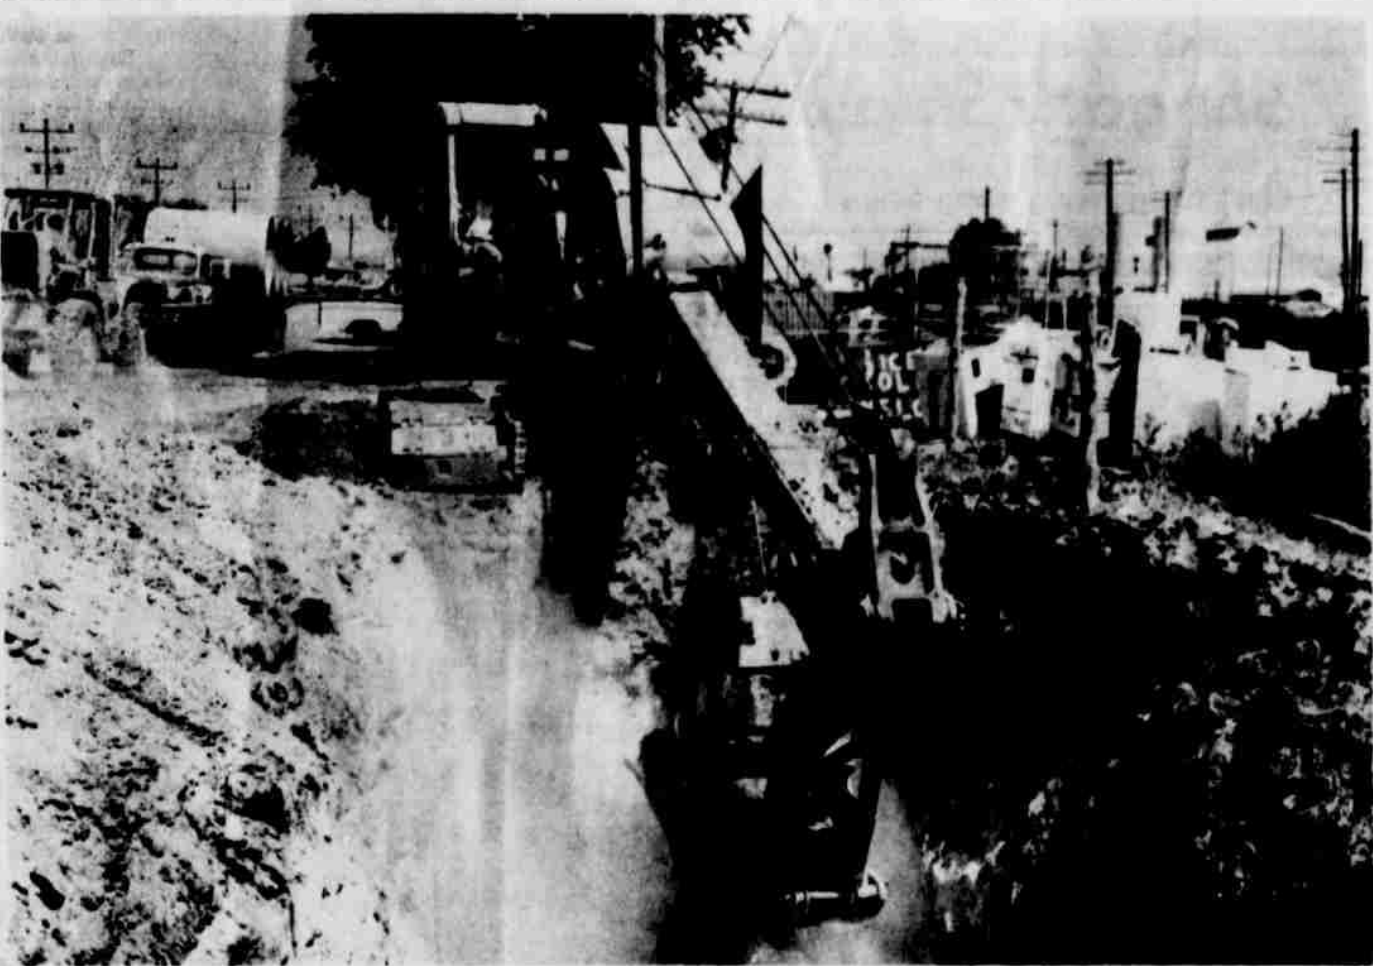

Ignacio Mesta Serna, indicted for burglary. David Ramos, charged with operating a vehicle not belonging to him.

Clifton Thomas, theft, accused of a $90 theft from a person. Thomas is scheduled to make a plea Friday before Judge Boone.

Also scheduled for a Friday plea is Raymond Henderson, indicted for burglary.

Two DWI indictments were returned, against H. R. Nichols and Edgar O'Mary.

Several of the indictments were of persons not yet apprehended, and publication is withheld pending arrest.

DIGGING THAT DITCH — A biting ditch digger went past the Smeart's Trading Post Wednesday, after an appliance display, right, was scooted back a few feet. The large drainage ditch allowed several feet of room in front of the trading post, an area disputed last week by Leonard Smeart, owner. Agreement on the route was reached after a controversial stake was shifted. The line may be in and be covered up by the weekend.

STAKING ERROR CORRECTED:

Ditch Dug Past Smeart's

Digging work on a 60-inch storm sewer along US Highway 84 on the east side of Littlefield was moving at full stride Wednesday past Smeart's Trading Post after settlement of a dispute over its location past the business.

A flareup resulted last weekend after stakes driven for the line indicated that a ditch for it would slice at the edge of buildings for the strung-out business place.

Owner Leonard Smeart registered a sharp protest over being "pushed." A look at the site by city officials found that a stake against the side of Smeart's building was located in error, and an agreement was reached.

Ditch for the line will pass six to eight feet in front of most of the trading place, but will edge against a fence on the east end and slice through a narrow section on the far east end that Smeart was using to display appliances.

But it misses the main part of Smeart's major buildings and fences on the west end of his 200-yards-long holdings on a strip of once-abandoned land to which he lays claim.

The big ditching job this week had completed a tunnel underneath the Santa Fe railroad tracks at the US 84 and FM 54 intersection and also an elbow job to carry the 60-inch drain pipe under a water main belonging to the City of Lubbock. The 42-inch Lubbock water main parallels the Santa Fe tracks from Bailey to Lubbock.

Lubbock Man Dies Beneath Train Here

A Lubbock man who apparently was hitching a ride west on a Santa Fe train ended his ride in a sudden death beneath its wheels in Littlefield Saturday afternoon.

The man was Billy Rae Moss, 37, of Lubbock.

He fell from the train, apparently while reaching between cars, as it crossed US Highway 385 near downtown Littlefield, according to Mrs. John Galvin, who witnessed the accident.

The man disappeared beneath the train and was tumbled out about 50 yards past the crossing, badly mutilated. The man died shortly after arriving at a hospital.

The train crew was not aware of the accident and proceeded on through Littlefield without stopping, going on to Clovis.

Moss was riding towards the back of the freight train, reports said.

Services for the man were held in Lubbock this week.

Land Rights Outlined by Former Owner

A clarification of part of the ownership history of a strip of land along US Highway 84, near the Spade highway intersection, was made this week by Mrs. C. T. Taylor, whose late husband owned and operated a fruit stand there for several years.

Mrs. Taylor sold a building on the strip to Leonard Smeart in about 1960, a year or so after her husband's death, for $200.

"The building set entirely on 'no man's land, and we had it surveyed in back by a railway engineer out of Slaton and by a highway engineer from Lubbock to be sure we were on the strip and not in someone's right-of-way," Mrs. Taylor said.

"We did not claim to own the land, but did feel that the building had 'squatters rights' and I conveyed to Mr. Smeart the building and whatever rights it held," she added.

The Taylors first occupied a site by the highway as far back as 1951 when he first sold fruit and vegetables from a truck under an awning arrangement, Mrs. Taylor recalled.

Later a building was erected nearby "by Luke Bell and we bought the building from him." The Taylors then had the surveys made to determine the proper location of their building. They operated the stand until Mr. Taylor's death in 1959.

Smeart last week declared rights to the property, when a city storm sewer project ran adjacent to some buildings and fences that he has along a 200-yard strip of the site.

Area Lions to Canada

Littlefield Lions club and one from Anton among 40,000 delegates at Toronto International convention, next week.

Chick Conway, Lions president, and Don Avery, first vice president, will attend from Littlefield along with Douglas Teague, Anton Lions president. Mr. and Mrs. Conway and sons, David and Gary, will leave Friday morning by car on the trip to Canada and will visit other parts of the north and east while on a vacation tour.

Mr. and Mrs. Avery will go by a special Lions charter bus leaving from Lubbock Saturday morning.

District Attorney Jack Young will represent the Muleshoe club at the Toronto gathering. The convention will open July 8 with an all day parade to be followed by a night memorial for Lions who have died the past year.

The next three days will be given to group forums, study sessions and open houses by the different state groups and some countries.

The colorful affair will have flags of all countries represented displayed. International officers for the upcoming year will be elected.

The 40,000 delegates will represent 600,000 Lions in world membership.

County Column

The retail council of the chamber of commerce will meet Friday morning at 10 o'clock in the city council room, announces Jim Shannon, chamber manager.

City Manager J.W. Harrison is on vacation from city hall this week, and will be back in his office Monday.

The short Lamb county wheat crop apparently is all in, grain dealers report. Wheat market Wednesday stood at $1.40 per bushel. The crop, a minor one for Lamb county, was short the county over.

New Lamb Venture, Automated Steaks!

Push-button feedlot operation will handle 480 head of cattle in a fattening system built by James Steffy, longtime resident and member of a prominent Lamb county farming family.

Steffy Thursday was urging along on his extensive layout which he hopes to have in operation by July 6, and stock up with cattle by then or within a week or two.

Steffy is pioneering the "haylage" feed method for the plan is new enough that it guidance he is getting from development work with "haylage" at Texas A. & M. College and the University of Illinois.

is relatively simple in its concept. Steffy is storing feed in two giant airtight metal silos in which he is able to keep high protein grass at 30 percent moisture, wet enough to be readily edible and dry enough for a steer can hold enough in feedings a day to make him gain two pounds a day.

This is where the term "haylage" comes from, Steffy explains. "Regular ensilage has out 80 percent moisture and, while it serves a feeding purpose, an animal cannot hold enough of it to make him fatten."

"A high protein feed with moisture held right at 30 percent will fatten a steer on the amount he can hold at a feeding," he adds.

Feeding of "haylage" is a close approach to the natural way for cattle to grow, heads. By it an animal gets natural high protein at minimum effort, and the feed can be applied naturally to fattening.

The two giant storage tanks— they hold from 275 to 300 tons of "haylage" each—are being filled with a cutting hybrid sudan made early this week in a field adjoining the lots. Steffy plans to grow the feed that will go into his feedlot operation.

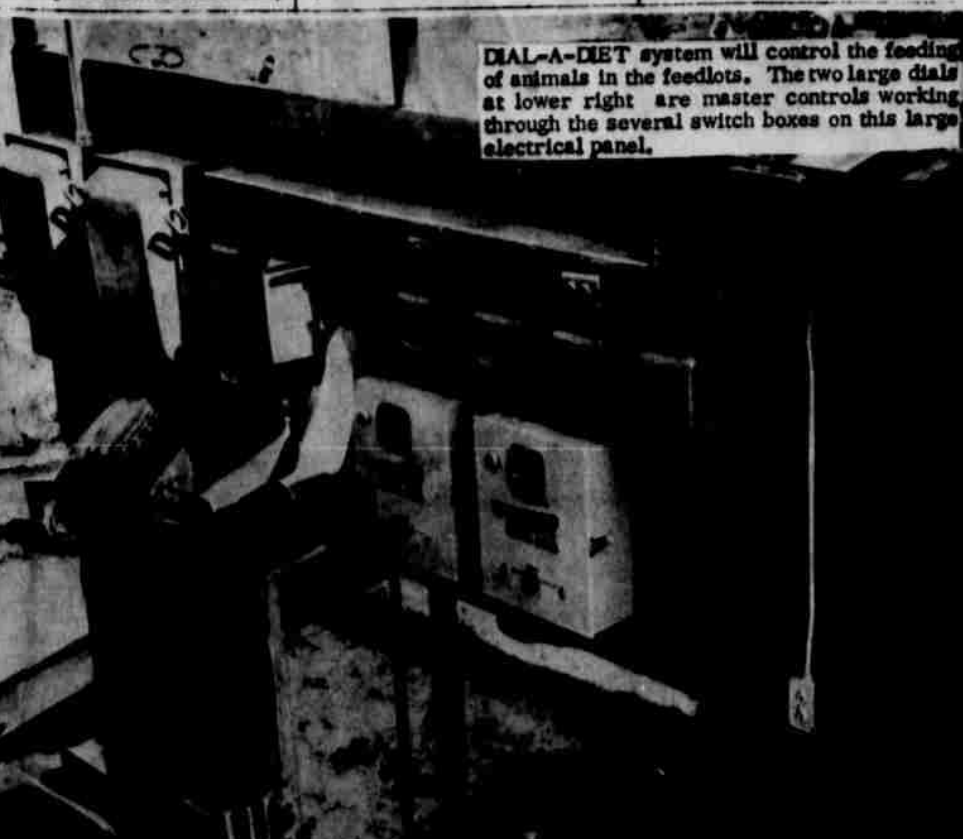

He plans to fatten two groups of cattle a year, starting with 400-pound steers and growing them to around 800 pounds.

Cattle will be bought around the area by commission buyers, starting next week.

The feedlot arrangement is a model of automation in agriculture.

There are four long triangular lots of the same size, all coming together at a point and the group shaping up like a wedge of pie.

At their common point are two long metal troughs running the length of the pens and auger equipped to move the "haylage" along their length automatically. (See AUTOMATED on Page 9)

DIAL-A-DIET system will control the feeding of animals in the feedlots. The two large dials at lower right are master controls working through the several switch boxes on this large electrical panel.

LOTS OF FEED, from 275 to 300 tons of "haylage" for cattle feeding goes into each of these two giant airtight tanks. It comes out on automatic order and is maintained in the tank at a critical 30 percent moisture content.

PICK-UP AUGERS, not completed when this picture was made, carry "haylage" out along the trough at the right, dump it automatically into the feed bins below. This is one of two that will serve the Steffy feedlot.

Homemaking Program Ends

AMHERST — Tuesday the homemaking summer program ended when members of Miss Billie Boshier's classes closed and reports of work accomplished were made. Satisfactory reports were to give each girl one-half credit.

Last week the supervised play school was held each morning Monday through Friday. Fifty-two little girls and boys, ages two to six, were registered when they were supervised by 24 of the home ec. girls. Some of their activities consisted of finger painting, free-hand drawing, clay molding, music, story telling and play.

Other phases of homemaking by the girls, each with a goal, were sewing, bedroom decorating, family laundry, food preparation, making of jams and jellies, attending to children and assisting with sick relatives. ## MEMO To FARMERS And RANCHERS...

TIDE EQUIPMENT SAVES YOU MONEY

HOW TIDE'S TILT BOX SERVES YOU:

Tide's TILT-BOX, pictured above, is an air-tight, all weather container. It keeps your fertilizer dry, fresh, and free-flowing. This TILT-BOX puts 14,000 pounds of fertilizer where you want it... at the most convenient location to the field and high enough to make loading any type of application equipment easy.

Because of Tide-designed equipment and production facilities, you don't wait for Tide fertilizer... it's delivered the day before you need it and left at the field to fit your schedule.

PRESCRIPTION MIX FERTILIZER

Tide takes soil samples from your land, free of charge to determine exactly what your soil needs. Then your fertilizer is mixed from high analysis raw materials to fit your exact requirements. Because it is made "on order", your fertilizer is fresh, dry, and free-flowing.

TIDE SERVICES

Tide grower services and products are planned to save time and labor... help take the guess-work out of farming. Agricultural Consultants, free soil tests, and Tide's custom-designed, weather-proof, delivery and storage equipment, cut your production costs. TRY TIDE... you'll be glad you did.

ECONOMICAL

Ease of handling fertilizer in Tide equipment reduces cost... saves time and labor. One man can fill an applicator or spreader with Tide fertilizer simply by opening a gate in 2 to 3 minutes. With "prescription-mix", you buy only the nitrogen, phosphate, and potash your soil tests show you need. High analysis fertilizer cuts material handling costs. No bags to handle (unless you want it bagged) and storage is no problem, as Tide's Tilt-Box, holding 14,000 pounds, provides air-tight delivery and storage at the end of the row.

TIDE also has a 32,000-gallon N H 3 storage and several types of N H 3 applicators available to the growers of this area. Also dual applicators for application of bulk dry fertilizers and N H 3 in the same operator, thus offering another saving to the grower.

Let the efficiency of our equipment and our experience help your farming efficiency.

"Only the BEST is fit to be TIDE"

Cartoon on the first card shows a boy and a policeman looking at a ball game through small holes in the ball park fence. Copy says, "You can see part of the game through a knothole . . . but it's better to be on the inside. Everyone must chip in for good, successful teamwork. To have a winner, players must hustle and fans must give their wholehearted support."

Closing copy on the card states, "Your Chamber of Commerce has comprehensive plans for making our city the most progressive in the state. But we need your support!"

Others in the card series will touch on the various functions of the Chamber of Commerce.

"Our Chamber of Commerce receives excellent support from the business firms and professional men of the community," Sanders stated, "but we are hoping to broaden the base of our membership group and have more individuals take part in our program."

"At the present time our membership includes representatives of practically every type of community activity and endeavor. Coordinating the efforts of men who have varied interests and points of view is a challenging job, but the community building achievements of Chambers of Commerce prove that it can be done. They have demonstrated that effective teamwork in attaining good sound, continuous community development requires that the 'whole team' be in the game."

Flag Day Tourney At LCC Saturday

A Flag Day tournament for members and visiting guests will be a July 4 event at the Littlefield Country Club, reports Ken Shields, club professional.

Men and women will compete in separate divisions. Rounds will be played all day long. Each entry is assigned a flag and his or her average score for 18 holes. When the assigned strokes are used, the player flags the location of his or her ball. The ball advanced the most distance is the winner in each division. A $1 entry fee will be charged and golf merchandise prizes will be awarded.

Entries are coming in now for the annual LCC invitation tournament, expected to draw 100 competitors in seven flights, Shields said.

The tourney will run July 9-12, with qualifying rounds and a pro-am competition on July 9. Tourney play will run July 10, 11 and 12. Players have until 7 p.m. on July 9 to post qualifying scores and enter. Dave Lawson, Lubbock, who won the championship flight in 1963, already is entered to defend his crown. Lawson topped a field of 78 contestants a year ago.

Each trough sits above a two-way feed bin into which the feed is dumped automatically, each side serving a pen.

Back of this is a large panel board of electric controls by which Steffey can produce two feedings a day to all pens in 30 minutes time, and this spent managing controls on the panel.

The automation starts when the feed leaves the field. The haylage is dumped into a hopper in which it is mulched and carried up long tubes to the top of the tank. From the time it enters the top it goes into airtight storage.

A plastic balloon at the top of the tank expands and contracts to control moisture in the feed, and checks are made to assure the critical moisture content.

At the bottom of each tank is another conveyor that is installed airtight and sealed. It conveys feed out of the storage tank without letting air in, an important requirement in the "haylage" system.

The feed drops from the conveyor into an auger trough below, along which it is carried to the apex at the wedge of pens, to be in turn carried out by the pen auger-troughs.

This operation is set into motion by two large dials on the panel board. Steffey can dial the number of auger loads he wants for the pens — this will vary some according to cattle size — then the automatic system takes over.

When the augers fill the overhead troughs to each pen, a trigger is activated at the far end by pressure of the feed. This sets off an emptying cycle two seconds long that dumps the "haylage" down to the cattle. The auger-trough is filled and dumps as many times as the control dial is set for.

A foot of feed trough space is allotted for each head of cattle in the pens by the automation plan. This equalizes the amount of feed per animal.

The control system also "orders" out the amount of feed from the tanks called for by the dial.

A water supply is kept in the pens also automatically. So, from the time the feed comes from the field until it reaches the animal it is handled by automatic machinery and controls.

But the feedlot program cannot be all automatic. Steffey has provided a "sick" pen near by which serves as a reception place for new animals, which receive vaccinations and anti-biotics to clear possible disease.

Problems with animals, sickness or injury, may call for other handwork.

About as far as automation can go in what has traditionally been a hand labor job, the Steffey layout will accomplish it.

The feedlot has been under study for some time by the Spade farmer who says he is looking ahead to the day when "the cotton business might not be all that it is today."

"I just wanted a different kind of business to meet any future situation, and this is it," he adds.

The feedlot equipment is manufactured by A.O. Smith Company, who did much of the development work on "haylage." The large tanks are called "harvestores."

Steffey sees his extensive new project as another development of South Plains agriculture that he has witnessed, and shared, since coming to Spade as a boy in 1929.

He has lived there since, starting farming operations on his own in 1947, about the time South Plains farming moved into a swifter phase with irrigation.

In World War II he went away for several years, to serve with the army combat engineers in Europe. This tour included one long — remembered day, "D-Day" when his outfit waited off the shell-ripped beaches of France for a landing that did not come, for them, until things quietened a little. Compared with that experience, the vicissitudes of South Plains farming, and automatic cattle feeding, have a lot of natural advantages.

Quarterly Dividends For LFS&L

A new system of compounding dividends on depositors' money quarterly instead of semi-annually as in the past is announced by Littlefield Federal Savings and Loan Association, effective July 1.

The new plan will result in higher yield to depositors, explains David Keithley, association manager.

The dividends will be compounded on March 31, June 30, September 30 and December 31, Keithley said. They previously have been compounded on June 30 and December 31.

Littlefield Federal showed record assets of $8,398,123.99 in a statement of condition on June 16. This compares with $6,787,402.44 in a statement of June 22, 1963.

Savings capital for June 16, 1964, was $7,230,031.62 compared with $6,142,334.82 on June 22, 1963.

First mortgage loans climbed to $6,694,387.41 in the latest statement compared with a year ago.

The June, 1964, figures are the highest for a statement in Littlefield Federal's 18-year history.
