Get Even With Barbers

It costs more cash than it used to cost, to get a reserved seat at your favorite barber shop and have the whiskers eliminated. But a lot of local boys get even this past week and their money's worth, when they walked into the barber shop—the barber yelled "next," and the customer said "shave."

Those boys who had been growing whiskers for the big Littlefield rodeo, who scorned paying any two bucks to get a permit of exemption, and didn't relish a dunking in the tank, already had sufficient and plenty of wearing whiskers, a la carte and a la mode—and their wives had more than enough.

The flowing beards and whiskers are now a thing of the past—but the old-time Mormons of Brigham Young's days couldn't have "had" anything, on some of these whisker displays that have been stopping the traffic and scaring the girls, these past few weeks. There was every known shade and color, although come to think of it, we believe that blue and green were missing. The long ones really looked the best. Those half and three quarter inch sprouts, especially woven with alternate grays, were almost a nuisance.

Pat Boone Jr., who was the head of the whisker department, solemnly presented the $25 cash award to James Gimmel, as grower and wearer of the most prolific beard. We understand he reported to a Fieldton tonsorialist out near Fieldton where he lives had the whiskers removed, tipped the barber, and paid the bill, and after paying the surcharge, had $19.50 of his prize money left. And of course, he has to pay his income tax on that prize next March 15.

Is Candidate For Re-election

Representative George Mahon this week requested the Lamb County Leader to formally announce his candidacy for re-election to Congress. He had earlier filed for a place on the Democratic ticket. Mahon is unopposed in the forthcoming primary.

In announcing his candidacy, Mahon said, "I will deeply appreciate the continued support and confidence of the people in the coming primary. These are difficult and frustrating days for private citizens and public officials alike. Congress is still in session, and in all probability I will have little opportunity to visit about the district prior to the primary date.

Rodeo Performer Rides Two Bulls In Two States Three Successive Nights To Win Title of Commuting Cowboy

Cowboys, even rodeo performing cowboys, are supposed to hate the day which brought on the automobile and the decline of the horse—the replacement of the saddle horn by the steering wheel, and many a tear, real or otherwise, has been shed in many a movie, as the cowboy bemoaned the modern trend which is making his calling a memory.

But there was one cowboy, a rodeo performer, in Littlefield as a bull rider at the Jaycee rodeo, who may have loved his horse and saddle, but he also welcomed with open arms—the modern and much more speedy mode of transportation—the automobile, because only with the help of a fast car was he able to commute between two different rodeo shows, appear in two different rodeos in the same evening—and collect, not one but two separate pay checks, and an opportunity to win two top money prizes.

Burnie Johnson is that cowboy, and he's a good performer, too. Last week, on three different nights, performed the almost impossible feat of appearing in the Littlefield rodeo, and the rodeo in connection with the pioneer days celebration at Clovis, 60 miles to the west.

He wangled an early spot on the Littlefield program, and a late spot on the Clovis show—and by burning up the road between the two towns, not astride a horse, but behind the wheel of a gasoline buggy—he never missed a beat.

And for those of our readers who don't live right here, Johnson performed the feat not only of appearing in two rodeos on the same nights—but he performed in two different rodeos in two different states.

Maybe that's one for Ripley; we just wouldn't know. Another thing besides the fast car to make the feat possible, and which helped him collect two pay checks and be two heroes for a day instead of just one hero was the fact that Littlefield uses Central time while Clovis employs Mountain time.

So at 8:45 Johnson rode his Brahma in Littlefield—fifteen minutes later (clock time) was atop a New Mexico bull.

He earned his title as the "Commuting Cowboy."

Littlefield Golfers Are Playing In Hobbs Tournament

A group of Littlefield golfers left Thursday to enter the Invitational Golf Tournament at Hobbs, N.M. Playing started Friday and will continue through Sunday.

Those from Littlefield playing in the tournament are: Melvin Best, J. B. Kempton, Rhenard McCary, Dr. Jack Still and Al Chambers.

Mrs. McCary and son, Hayden, accompanied Mr. McCary, and Mrs. Best accompanied her husband.

Alvin Webb Winner Alvin Webb was awarded the championship golf trophy last Sunday night following the completion of the Country Club championship matches by L. C. Hewitt, club president.

Webb defeated Melvin Best 1-up in the final match, although he was 2 under par on the first four holes out. Webb took a birdie on the first, was par on 2 and 3, and birdied on the 4th.

He was 3-up on Best until Best picked up 2 holes and stayed that way through the rest of the first nine holes of play.

On the back side, the players were even up on number 2, and Webb went ahead for the first nine holes of play.

On the back side, the players were even up on number 2, and Webb went ahead for the first time on 4, where Webb went out of bounds. Best and Webb halved 5, 6 and 7.

On number 8, Webb made par, after Best made a 2 shot down the middle and topped off his second shot. On his third shot, he hooked off to the left of the green, which left him lying with 3 strokes to get down off the green.

They were all even on the 8th, going in to the 15th hole. Both missed the green on their tee shots.

Best shot over an embankment, about 10 feet past the hole. Webb landed within three or three and one-half feet of the cup. Best putted into the cup but hit too hard and his ball rolled out. Webb's shot wobbled around the cup and finally landed inside to win the match and championship.

In the first flite finals, J. B. Kempton defeated Hardy Shelby 4 and 3. Second flite winner was Panny Farmer, 6 and 4 over Glen Burk. Jim Tom Brittain took Pop Hodges, 3 and 2; and in the fourth flite Dan Howard downed Alvin Bagwell, 4 and 3.

Consolation champion was Jim Mangum, who was 1-up over Boyd Roberts for 20 holes. Consolation first flite went to Glen Batson, 1-up over Jess Baher. Bob Crowell took W. E. McDaniel, 3 and 2. Third flite winner in the consolation was C. R. Stevens, 3 and 2 over Harold Clements. John Nail won consolation fourth flite by default over Ralph Reiter.

It's The Law In Texas

Thousands of Texans are called each year as prospective jurors in our many state and federal courts. When chosen to serve, very few of these violate their oath with intentional misconduct. But honest mistakes have all too frequently brought the sincerity and ethics of an individual juror into question. Usually such errors arise from his misunderstanding of his function as a juror—for the jury is judge of the facts in the case before it.

Like Caesar's wife, the juror must not only avoid wrong, but must also avoid any appearance of wrong. Otherwise, his integrity and honor may be brought into question by actions which are actually innocent but appear censurable to those who view them. By observing the following simple suggestions, the juror may be sure he is maintaining the highest of ethics, in which no possible fault may be found by others.

Hold yourself aloof from all persons (except other jurors) in any way connected with the trial of the case. That means that you should not mingle with nor talk to the lawyers, witnesses, parties, nor the judge, even though the discussion is wholly unrelated to the trial.

Do not discuss the case nor permit others to mention it to you or in your presence during the trial. If anyone insists upon talking about the case after you have explained to him that you are a juror and must not listen, report the matter to the judge immediately.

Do not commence your deliberations until you have heard all the evidence from both sides, the argument of the lawyers, and the court's charge. You should not mention the case except in the jury room when all other jurors are present.

Do not become a private investigator. All properly admissible evidence will be brought before you. Do not try to search out additional facts you believe to have been omitted. Do not even guess or speculate about facts not in evidence.

Be attentive to the evidence as it is presented. If you are to properly aid the other jurors in settling the fact questions, it will be necessary to listen carefully to all evidence presented.

Do not guess at the judge's opinion of the facts. You are the judge of the facts. He is not allowed and will not try to invade your province. His rulings on admissibility of evidence reflect no ideas or opinions on any fact question.

You should not mention or discuss your own personal experiences, or any knowledge that you may have of similar transactions. If you should disclose such information to others serving on a jury, the court would have to grant a new trial.

Accept no favors from and bestow no favors upon any person interested in the trial. However innocent the conduct may be, it will raise doubts in otherwise undoubting minds, and may even be subject to more serious insinuations and charges.

When in doubt ask the judge. If you are in doubt about your rights or duties as a juror, you should not ask anyone but the judge for information.

(This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform—not advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts, because the facts may change the application of the law.)

Kentucky Democrats Tag 'Veep' As Favorite Son Candidate

By CLARKE BEACH
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WASHINGTON—Alben W. Barkley is going to vote for Alben W. Barkley on the first ballot at the Democratic national convention.

When his friends began booing him, he remarked only that he would accept the nomination if it were offered. Then the Kentucky state Democratic convention told their delegates to vote for Barkley as a favorite son. And Barkley was selected as one of the delegates.

Party Regular

The vice-president—'Veep' to his grandchildren—is a well-loved party regular, who has been out in front at all the party conventions since 1932. He was the keynote that year, and in 1936 and 1948. In 1949 and 1954 he was permanent chairman.

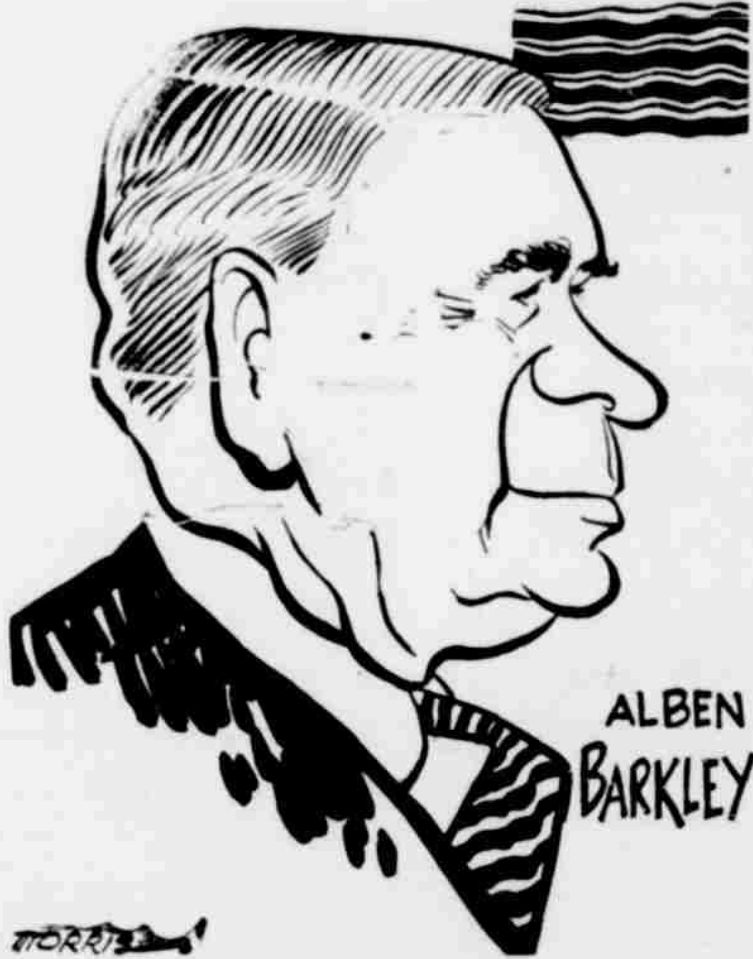

In 1944 he made the nominating speech for Franklin D. Roosevelt for a fourth term—a couple of months after he and Roosevelt had had their only off-over Roosevelt's stinging veto of a tax bill.

Barkley has held elective office since 1909, when he became a county prosecuting attorney. He was elected to the House of Representatives in 1913 and to the Senate in 1927.

Followed Roosevelt and Truman. He has followed the leadership of Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman almost without deviation. As Senate majority leader during much of Roosevelt's administration, he is credited with being one of the builders of the New Deal.

When Barkley became vice-president in 1948, he didn't retire into the background as many of the holders of that office do. He campaigned about as hard as Mr. Truman did before the election, and he has been in the limelight ever since.

As the Senate's presiding officer, he has been very active and frequently vocal. And with the help of air travel he has kept up a speaking schedule throughout the nation which would wear out many a younger man. His health has been fine, except for a minor eye operation last February.

man did before the election, and he has been in the limelight ever since.

Married Three Years Ago. Barkley, 74, was married about three years ago to a St. Louis widow, Mrs. Carlotta S. Hadley, then 35. She has traveled constantly with him, even went on a long tour of Pacific battlefields and military camps last winter. Barkley, a widower, has three children, and she has two.

Born on a Kentucky farm, he had to work his way through college. He got his A.B. at Marvin College, where he had a janitor's job. Years later, when he visited the school, he chuckled at this sign on his old dormitory: "Barkley swept here." He also attended the University of Virginia law school.

Barkley is famous for his wit and stories. His leadership on the floor has been tactful but firm. His speeches are always great examples of showmanship, full of force and fluent language and delivered with dramatic appeal.

Honored by Colleagues

His Congressional colleagues honored him by having a gold medal struck for him when he completed 28 years' service under the nation which would wear out many a younger man. His health has been fine, except for a minor eye operation last February.

It is difficult for me to point out any specific thing I have done on which this action was based," Barkley commented. "It is sweet recognition of a great man's worth," chorried Chief Justice Fred Vinson.

When you picture a marionette, you see a doll with strings attached. That doll doesn't move unless someone pulls the strings. Out of sight, above the doll, are human hands which move and twist their fingers to jiggle the strings to create action of the marionettes.

In comparing yourself to a marionette, your nerves are the "hands" hidden out of sight which move your muscles (the strings) which in turn move your bones and create action.

Actually you have three kinds of strings, three entirely different kinds of muscles. The skeletal muscles do the moving of the body that creates action, the visceral muscles and the cardiac muscle work on the inside of the body, the vegetatives, automatic process of living.

All these muscles have movement in common, however. The skeletal muscles (those attached to bones) create locomotion. The visceral muscles move parts of the body, sometimes change the size of openings and such. Locomotion is the means by which you make adjustments to external conditions. Internal movements of visceral and cardiac muscles are the means by which you make adjustments to internal conditions such as the movement of food through the intestinal tract and the passage of blood through the blood vessels.

Muscles also are concerned with the maintenance of posture. The hand that holds the marionette strings can keep the doll upright even though the doll doesn't move; the removal of that hand (the nerves) means the collapse of the doll because the strings are no longer tight.

The third function of muscles, which plays no part in the marionette show, is the maintenance of body temperature. Chemical changes in muscle action release heat which is important in the overall heat production of the body.

Since muscular action is dependent upon nerve impulse, the nerves may be considered the match that starts the fire, the heat production of the muscles. In many instances the action of nerve and muscle together upon a structure may resemble that of a bow and arrow. The nerve, as the arrow, gets placed in the muscular bow which is attached at both ends of a bone. When the muscle releases that ar-

Trackers Spot Reds In Jungle

By A. L. McINTYRE
AP Newsfeatures

SINGAPORE—Britain's "secret weapon" against the Communist terrorists in Malaya is a brown-skinned native from the land of the former white rajahs.

A sturdy little man whose uncanny jungle sense puts fright into the Red insurgents, he is the Iban tracker, from Sarawak, on the island of Borneo.

Iban trackers were introduced into the anti-terrorist campaign right from the start in 1948.

When word first reached the famous longhouses of the Ibans in Sarawak that Britain needed their services in the fight against the Communist rebels, these men hastily put aside families and homes and volunteered to come over.

Today, there are 264 Ibans serving with the security forces. Descendants of the head-hunters of old who menaced foreigners trespassing their domains, the Ibans serve for only seven months in Malaya. When they return, they are replaced by other volunteers from the longhouses.

Many Ibans are eager to sign on for a second stretch of service in Malaya. But the absence of so many men form a single longhouse at a time affects its economy. The permission of chiefs therefore has to be sought if they want to return.

Immediately the Iban volunteer lands in Malaya, he discards loin cloth and spear and puts on jungle green. Two weeks training in the handling of modern weapons and patrol routine fits him for his first assignment in the jungle.

A special feature of the Iban—his long hair—has to be out of the way when he's on jungle patrol. Some Ibans sacrifice their shaggy mane for the military crop. Others roll it up into a pointed contour at the back.

The Iban is a firm believer in the superstitions. To preserve him against the perils of the jungle, he has flower-design tattoos on arms, legs and back. Some of these are capable of "frightening" away evil spirits and even tigers, he claims.

He can interpret every movement in the jungle fastness, and read a message in every footprint and broken bough.

Stooping patiently, he keeps after footprints for hours and miles, with his compatriots of the jungle patrol following behind. His usefulness to the patrol is doubled by his ability to tell how long ago footprints were made.

The 1952-1953 officers of Anton Chapter No. 936 O.E.S. were installed Thursday evening, June 12 with Flora B. Boone, Worthy Grand Matron of the state of Texas, officiating as grand installing officer.

Before the meeting Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Keefer entertained with a dinner honoring the grand officers at their home south of Anton.

The chapter room of the Masonic hall was beautifully decorated in green, gold, and white, the new matron's chosen colors. Her motto Others was lettered in gold against a green panel on the west wall. Candles of green and white were used throughout the hall. Red roses were entwined on the altar and mixed with baby's breath on the candelabra. Spring flowers in baskets flanked the dias on the east.

Preceding the installation, the candles were lighted by Louise Beard and Zaida Teague and little Margaret Louise Beard placed the Bible on the altar. Following the installation, the new worthy matron was presented with a lovely bouquet of red roses, her chosen flower by the members of the chapter and a beautiful gold evening handkerchief by her officers. A vocal selection, "Moonlight and Roses" was beautifully sung by Mary Hobgood and Dettie Newton.

The new worthy matron and new worthy patron Emma Campbell and Marvin Keefer each expressed their gratitude for the high honors the chapter has conferred on them and outlined their objectives for the forthcoming year. Pat Boone delivered the benediction.

Following the installation, refreshments were served in the dining hall. A mixed bouquet of spring flowers was centered on the table which was laid with an embroidered linen cloth. Green and white candles completed the decorations. Fruit punch, nuts and decorated cakes were served to the grand officers, members and visitors.

Construction Underway On New Brick Building For Garland Motor Company

Construction is now underway in the erection of a new brick and aluminum building 50x140 on East Fourth street for the Garland Motor Company, to house the Dodge and Plymouth agency.

Workmen were excavating for the foundation of the building Thursday, which is being erected east of the Texas Pump and Equipment building, and which will afford a total of 10,000 square feet of floor space for display and other purposes.

According to the owner, B. D. Garland, Jr., it is expected the building will be ready for occupancy about the middle of September.

Utilizing two floors for an enlarged parts department, and part of the adjoining building for truck service, the new building will have a plate glass front on a showroom measuring 50x81 feet.

The ground floor will contain a grease room, wash department, paint shop, general and sales offices, a loading dock, parts and floor.

While the adjoining building will also contain a service department for Dodge trucks, the offices of Texas Pump and Equipment will remain at their present location.

On being vacated, the building now occupied by the Garland Motor Company, will be remodelled and leased.

The Washington team of 1888 posted the lowest team batting average in history. Their team mark was .207.

Whitey Sure "Rang the Bell"

Telephone woke me out of a sound sleep last Friday about eleven-thirty. "This is Whitey Fisher out on River Road," says a voice. "I just wanted to tell you how much I like this week's Clarion."

"Thanks, Whitey," I told him. "But why in blazes call to tell me at this time of night?" "Simple," he says, "your paper boy just delivered it a short while ago. Been waiting for it all evening."

Next day, Buzzy Wilson tells me he delivered Whitey's paper late because he stayed for the school dance and thought it would be OK to drop it off on his way home.

From where I sit, I can't blame Whitey for his joke. He was just reminding me we owe other people the same respect we expect from them. Since I'm always talking about respecting the other fellow's rights—including his right to enjoy a glass of beer if he chooses, it was only fair that Whitey should "wake me up" to his right to get his copy of the Clarion on time. Thanks again, Whitey!

JABS AND SPEARS—

you old-timers, think back to the days, when you used to lay down a dime for the privilege of seeing Tom Mix and Tony, Doug, Fairbanks and Mary Pickford. And probably there was a big graphophone horn hanging out the front of the theater, blasting "Sweet Adeline," or "Gee I Wish That I Had A Girl." And you didn't mind a bit. Then the theaters became too warm, and they installed air conditioning—the silents bored you, and they invented "talkies"—and admission taxes. And now, Well, television may hurt show business, but show business has a way of getting hurt and surviving. The answer is the drive-in theater. Here in Littlefield, we have one, and another under construction. Amherst just opened a new one, and Olton is to have another. A dozen or so in Lubbock, and Muleshoe with one now and another projected, gives you some idea, how popular these drivings really have become. You sit in your car, see and hear the movie, and if the kids yell too loud, or the sweeties sweet a bit too much. Well, after all it bothers no one, and it IS their car. Anyway, that's the way it is, and if you're trying to find someone in the cities and towns any evening, and they don't answer the phone—try the drive-in—maybe you'll stay and see the picture.

Heard a fellow, no a couple of old fellows taking on the street

the day of the parade and the rodeo opening, and it was interesting. One asked the other "where in the world do all of these people come from" and he was referring to the enormous crowd which has gathered to watch the rodeo parade. Now that was and is an interesting thought, not only where they came from, but how and why they came. This is the day of rodeos, however, and if you doubt it, the same day Littlefield was entertaining thousands, Clovis, 60 miles to the west was staging its own Pioneer Days and Rodeo, and an even bigger crowd was assembled there. It all adds up to the fact that some like one thing, some like another—some came to the parade, some to the rodeo, some to the dance—and a lot just came to see and be a part of the crowd. We didn't get the final answers as we listened to those two old men discussing the rodeo crowd. But we got a good thought and idea out of their discussion. One of those two finally told the other, that a few years ago, there wouldn't have been any such crowd here for the simple reason that there were few, if any, paved roads leading through and into Littlefield. And he was right, of course—as what he really meant to say was that Littlefield has rapidly forged ahead in working toward more and more paved roads, which center and cross here. And we should keep on getting more. If you like to see big crowds in your town—in any town—the sure way to get them is by working for and building better highways and roads—and more of them. So, maybe after all, the real attraction and magnet for the success of the rodeo—was our better highways and roads. Better Roads beat a Better Mouse-trap.
