Second Payments
A fruitful source of votes is through second payments. By simply going over the ground you covered earlier in the campaign, and securing extensions on subscriptions already turned in, you will be able to add many thousands of votes to your credit. There is little doubt but that many who subscribed for only a year will be glad to extend their subscription to 2 years or more, for everybody that reads the Leader likes it and once a regular reader means to continue so in almost every case.

In second payment subscriptions, the difference in votes between what was first issued and what the second payments makes the subscription total, is issued. For instance, Mr. Doe gave you a subscription for a year earlier in the campaign, and now decides to extend his subscription to two years by paying you an additional $1.50 you get 3,000 votes on the "second payment." Altogether Mr.
Doe in paying you for two years, gives you 5,000 votes. You get 2,000
the first time—now you get the difference, which in this particular case is 3,000. It makes no difference who got the first payment—the contestant turning in the second payment gets the difference. Subscribers can extend their subscriptions up to ten years, but no farther.

JAKE HOPPING FOR COUNTY AND DISTRICT CLERK OF LAMB CO.

TO THE VOTERS OF LAMB COUNTY:

I take this opportunity of announcing my candidacy for the office of County and District Clerk, of Lamb County, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary, July 26, 1930.

I am a native of West Texas, and have resided in Lamb County for the past 12 years. After graduating from high school, I completed two years of college work at the North Texas Agricultural college, Arlington, Texas.

Having been in the abstract business for the past three years, I believe that my knowledge of legal documents and of the county records gained through this business, will be of invaluable service to me and will greatly assist me in the performance of the duties of the office for which I aspire.

I have never sought public office
before, and if the voters of Lamb County see fit to place me in this office, I shall endeavor to perform the duties in a capable and efficient manner to the best of my knowledge.
Any support and influence will be greatly appreciated.

Respectfully submitted,
J. W. (Jake) HOPPING.

foundations are being laid this week for the construction of two brick business buildings on South Main street.

25x80 feet, to be occupied by the West Texas Gas Engineering Co., while the other is 25x125 feet being erected for J. F. Bumpass, of Lub-

ATHLETICS BEAT MULESHOE 44-16 IN GAME THURS.

It looked like a different story than usual when the game got under way in the High school gym last Thursday evening, for the Muleshoe outfit started out with plenty of pep and rapidly fired at the basket until they had scored 6 points to none for the Athletics. After taking time out the homings started a rally led by Davenport and McInturf that put the A's ahead, and they were never stopped until the final whistle brought it all to a close.

Staging a different brand of defense Muleshoe gave the fans plenty of thrills, for the Athletics offense was hitting on all cylinders, and it was some ball game.

The long and lanky McInturf was easily the offensive star of the game by scoring 22 of the points for the Athletics, and Davenport and Lacy were equally as good on defense and offense. Wilson of the Muleshoe aggregation was high point man for the visitors with 9 points. Referee Wright had little trouble with fouls,
for on a whole it was a smooth game.

The Athletics tackle the strong Cloviss five, and the fast Independent club from Dimmitt in straight games
this week, and wind up the seasons play with two games the following week.

Even though one or two of the next five games are lost the Athletics have had a very successful season,
and have furnished sport throughout the winter for Littlefield fans.

The Athletics will play Dimmitt
here tonight, (Thursday), and play Ralls, at Ralls, Tuesday, Feb. 11.

DR. MALONE DUGGAN BURIED AT SAN ANTONIO TUESDAY

C. J. and Arthur P. Duggan, of this city, left last Saturday for San Antonio to attend the funeral service of their brother, Dr. Malone Duggan who died Friday of last week at Danville, Illinois, where he was head physician at the Old Soldiers home.

Dr. Duggan was formerly State Health officer during the Pat Neff administration and was widely and favorably known throughout the entire state of Texas. He served as a major in the medical corps during the World War and saw considerable service over seas.

He is survived by his wife, six children and a number of grandchildren, his mother, five brothers and one sister. He was 62 years at death.

health group is told.

Coldest November And January On Record Here

All the amateur weather forecasters to the contrary, Uncle Sam's official prognosticator says most of the South Plains weather is a thing of the past for the beginning of 1930.

The month of January has gone down in history as the coldest in 29 years, exceeding by two degrees the coldest previous January which was in 1877. Some weather forecasters say February may swing the climatic pendulum the other way and turn out to be the warmest in several years past.

In fact, South Plains winter this year has been decidedly erratic. It will be remembered that November was the coldest on record, and then December reversed conditions by shoving the thermometer up to 85
the warmest day for that month ever known in this section.

January broke another record
when it recorded sub-freezing weather for several days at a time, dropping the mercury farther below zero than it had for many years past.

Of course, any old rheumatic can predict there will be several cold spells during March, and everyone who knows anything at all about Texas weather in this section is assured of some blustering days during that month.

After all, the old saying, "that no

CARL G. CLIFFT IS ANNOUNCING FOR CO. SCHOOL SUP'T

In announcing my candidacy for County Superintendent, I do so with the first hand information from the County Judge that the office will be created and a candidate will be elected in the July primary. With this information, I am submitting my name to the voters of Lamb County for their worthy consideration in choosing a nominee for this office.

I am at present superintendent of Spring Lake Independent School and have been for the past two years.
For seven years previous to my coming to Texas I taught in Western Oklahoma. All my work, except two years as principal of a city ward school, has been with rural schools.
I hold a valid first grade certificate, and am interested and active in all educational projects for the betterment of our public schools. Last October I was unanimously elected President of the Lamb County Teachers' Association.

I have no other promise than to say that if I am elected I shall give my best efforts to the office and make it as efficient and worth while to the schools of Lamb County as I possibly can. In the near future I expect to visit over the county and meet as many as I can. I invite you to investigate my record, and any influence or support you may give me will be more than appreciated. Sincerely,
—CARL G. CLIFFT.

EX-POSTMASTER WADE IS RETURNED FROM HOSPITAL

The many friends of Major Wm. J.
Wade, former Littlefield post master,
will be glad to learn that he has sufficiently recovered to be brought back home from a Lubbock hospital last
week.

Some months ago Mr. Wade was unfortunate in getting his left foot infected, and regardless of skilled medical attention, the infected member continued to grow worse, until amputation of his leg below the knee became necessary to save his life.

Notwithstanding the aged gentleman is past 81 years, he withstood
the operation well, and is now reported on the road to complete recovery.

80 PER CENT TAXES PAID

"About 80 per cent of the city taxes have been collected," says W.
G. Street, city clerk, who further states that 10 per cent will be the penalty assessed property taxes paid in the future on 1929 taxes, which went into effect last Saturday.

TO BAR BOLTERS IN PRIMARY SAYS DEMO. COMMITTEE

The State Democratic Executive committee in session at Austin last Saturday voted to exclude as candidates all persons who bolted the presidential nominee in 1928, but went on record favoring participation of voters in the 1930 primaries who did not remain loyal to the entire ticket.

While the committee decided that it could not formally take action with reference to the placing of bolters' names on the ticket until the second Monday in June when the law directs it shall meet to make up the ballot, it was specifically instructed by its own action to bar as candidates those who refused to support Alfred E. Smith of New York as the presidential standard bearer.

A resolution by Winbourne Pearce, Temple, deferring definite action until the second Monday in June, was passed 21 to 9 after the committee had been instructed to bar 1928 bol-ters when it met at that time. An amendment to instruct the committee was offered by Maury Hughes of Dallas and it, too, was adopted by a vote of 21 to 9. A motion to allow bolting voters to participate in the primary this Summer was adopted with only one dissenting vote.

Twenty-seven of the 31 members of the committee were present. Three members were represented by proxy and one absent member had no representation.

A. M. HOLT, SUDAN ANNOUNCES FOR CO. AND DIST. CLERK

Mr. A. M. Holt, of Sudan, comes before the people of Lamb county this week, seeking support for the office of County and District Clerk for Lamb county. His announcement card will be found in our regular announcement columns.

Mr. Holt needs no introduction to the people of Lamb county, having been engaged in the mercantile business in Sudan for a number of years.
The house of A. M. Holt & Sons gained wide popularity and made many friends. Mr. Holt is a man of unimpeachable integrity, of genial personality, and will make a strong appeal to the support of the people of Lamb county. In business affairs his slogan has been: "We will meet you with a smile," and with that smile was always the cordial good will that should accompany a genial smile, and a hearty desire to serve.

Should Mr. Holt's candidacy appeal to the people of Lamb county to the extent that he should be chosen, he pledges the people a careful, conscientious discharge of all the duties of the office. And all who know the sterling character of the man will gladly give him their support.

Mr. Holt will make a thorough canvass of the county, and solicits the support of all qualified voters and the good will of all people.

Mr. Holt would like to state that his private and public life is an open book to all.

A huge live oak, 26 1-2 feet in girth and with a spread of 100 feet, is believed to be the largest tree in Texas. It is in Real county.

rolled in her public school system.

THE DAREDEVIL—SLIP ME Y' AUTOGRAPH, WILL YER?

Mother's Cook Book

If the law were to edict that man and wife should never be together for more than six months in the year, it would be broken every day, and men and women would stand hunger and stripes to come together for twelve months in twelve. If love of home were a crime, a family life would arise more touching than anything Queen Victoria ever dreamed.—W. L. George.

SEASONABLE FOODS

COOL fruits, frozen ices and tinkling drinks are the things which have the most appeal during warm days.

Have dinner, luncheon or supper served out of doors—in the woods if possible or by the side of a stream or lake. If that is not convenient set a table on the lawn or porch and stay out in the open air as much as convenient.

A cool, back porch makes a fine breakfast room, and many of the vegetables may be prepared for the dinner out there, where one has fresh air and may listen to the birds and bees. Such tasks seem only play with the mind occupied with enjoying the out-of-doors.

Prepare sandwiches and serve such food with salads and meats, potatoes often instead of hot cereals, pastries and other heavy dishes.

When one has a few fresh fish (not enough to serve for a meal for the family) try a fish chowder.

Fresh Fish Chowder.

Fry five or six tablespoonfuls of finely cubed salt pork in a kettle. When well browned add four to six sliced onions and six to eight potatoes cut into slices. Cover with boiling water and cook until the vegetables are half done, then add the boned fish cut into small pieces and cook until all are tender. Season well with salt and pepper and add six to ten milk crackers to a quart of rich milk heated hot. Serve after the mix has been added to the chowder, and if not rich enough, add butter to season. Serve two crackers in each soup dish.

Very tender young cabbage, shredded very fine and mixed with a boiled dressing makes fine filling for sandwiches.

For another vegetable sandwich—slice firm crisp radishes very thin and lay them on the buttered bread with a bit of shredded onion.

Water cress sprinkled with salt is another fine filling for buttered bread.

Simple Boiled Dressing.

Mix together one-half cupful of sugar, one teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of flour and one teaspoonful of mustard. Add one-half cupful of milk and one egg well beaten. Heat one-half cupful of vinegar (mild) in a saucepan and when hot add the other ingredients very slowly stirring constantly. Add whipped cream when using. This will keep indefinitely.

Ownership

An Indianapolis family having a little boy five years old visited friends in a western city. In the course of conversation they discussed a very rich and powerful Mr. S—, who owned the hotel at which the guests were staying, the apartment in which the friends lived, a bank and a department store. Although the little boy did not seem to pay much attention to their talk, the next day at the beach he asked: "Mother, is this Mr. S—'s beach?" "No," mother replied. "Who owns the beach?" was the next question. "God owns the beach," was the reply. "But mother, how did God get it away from Mr. S—?" was the final query.—Indianapolis News.

TAKE IT FROM DAD

By Frank H. Cheley

Is Real Recreation Ever Wrong?

Are you off for to a school night isn't it?" "Yep, Dad, going to a little dance, but I'll be home early. All the gang are going. I won't be too late." "How late, son?" "Oh, I don't know—perhaps eleven or twelve." "Went once before this week?" "Yep, I did, Dad." (a bit impatiently). "And once last week?" (All this in a quiet tone.) "Sure, why not, a fellow has got to have some recreation when he's working and going to school."

"All right, son, run along. I'll be waiting for you. I have a good deal of reading to do tonight." Bob looked at Dad a bit uncertainly and half reproachfully as he went out the door.

Mr. Smiththough settled himself comfortably, but not to read as he had thought, but to think. The social pull had been pretty strong all the year. Bob, because of his friendly good humor was much sought after and was always in demand, and Mr. Smiththough was certain the boy was quite badly overdoing his recreations to his detriment.

It was just twelve-thirty when Bob stepped in noiselessly and was at once embarrassed to see his Dad still waiting for him.

"Why didn't you go to bed, Dad? I'm sorry I'm a bit late."

"Waiting for you, son."

"Aren't angry with me are you, Pop. I got away as soon as I could."

"Not angry at all, Bob. Not at all—only concerned. You see it wasn't more than a thousand years ago that I was a popular young shell myself in high school, and I know perfectly what you are up against. This social pull is tremendous and all I'm anxious about is that you do not overdo it. Physical and nervous bankruptcy are very serious things and they overtake us before we realize it. I know you well enough to know that moderation is not one of your strong points and so thought we'd better talk things over. Bob, two dances 'till twelve, school and job is too much for you or any other growing boy. It means that instead of your fun being recreation that it is a steady definite drain on capital of strength and nerves—not enough sleep, not enough relaxation, too much excitement and a general lowering of vitality and poise."

"But, Dad, is real recreation ever wrong?" asked Bob, seating himself opposite his father. "I don't mean to argue with you. I really wish to know."

"The whole matter hinges on an intelligent understanding of just what true recreation is. I doubt if you have analyzed the thought carefully. There is a deal of difference between recreation, fun and amusement. Amusement in its popular sense is not a very worthy word. We Americans have gone amusement crazy with the coming of electric lights and mechanical music."

"Now, of course, we all need diversion from our regular routine in order to keep our balance and to keep from getting into a rut. Every man and boy, too, should have a constructive hobby that he pursues enthusiastically, but being certain that time and money so invested pays dividends in rested and re-invigorated bodies and minds—and Bob, what is recreation to one may be very far from it for another."

"True recreation re-creates, makes over, refreshes, revitalizes. Because there are many types and temperaments of people there must be as many types of recreation and each man must be his own judge. If he is fair with himself and is really in earnest about making his life count and finally coming into a worthy accomplishment he will watch his recreation shows; to play cards occasionally; to shoot a game of pool in surroundings that are decent and respectable, but when everything else becomes subservient to your love of recreation and work so you can 'get drunk' it's all bad. Gradually you have increased the pace. You're tired to death this minute. You are more irritable than you were. Take it from Dad, boy, slow down!"

"Dad, you win. Thanks again. I see your point. What I need is a time table for my trains and to quit running so many 'fun specials.'"

"Righto, my boy, now let's go to bed."

Notice To FORD Car and Truck OWNERS and other customers

DEAR FRIENDS:

Money! That is one thing we all have to have. And it is the only that keeps business going and buys the necessities of life.

We must have money to pay our bills—all of us. And to pay we must get cash for our labors and our goods.

In view of all this Jno. H. Arnett Motor Co., has concluded that the policy is the best for everybody, therefore, we are asking our customers to pay cash for all labor, parts and accessories.

This does not mean your credit is not good and that you will not but simply means that we are forced to pay cash for parts and labor and our plant expense at all times and we don't believe it hardly fair to ask you to pay for your parts and labor and charge it on our books and wait for money.

We know all our customers will pay, but still that doesn't get us

Hereafter we must have cash for all labor, parts and accessories, we will appreciate it if our customers will remember this. We will not charge money on your repair work and parts, but we must have cash.

We sincerely appreciate the nice business we have had in the past and hope to have your future business. We will treat you right at all times please remember we have been forced to discontinue charge business.

A COLOR FOR EVERY ILL

YOU remember Coue who a few years ago gave us a new slogan with his "every day, in every way, I am getting better and better."

From the small beginnings of a cult of auto-suggestion and self-confidence, Coueism is branching out to cure everything—both physical and mental ills, and with simple colors.

Indeed we have definite news from Paris that prominent Coueists are about to launch upon the world their new theory of using colors to cure anything, including insanity.

For people with unbalanced minds, the best cure, according to a prominent Coue professor, is the simple method of having curtains tablecloth, bedclothes, in orange. And each room should have a bowl of oranges in the center. Upon waking in the morning the patient should first gaze upon the bowl for about ten minutes. The healing effect will be noticeable, we are told, in two weeks.

Rheumatism can be cured by concentrating for ten minutes, three times a day on a sheet of light blue paper. Hangings should also be of this color, for this purpose.

Dishonesty is eradicated in the same way, only the color must be fly-white. Kleptomaniacs, according to our information from Paris, are easy subjects to cure in this same manner.

For inferiority complex, red is the color that will cure. The same is recommended to a man who has fears, such as "crossing streets, in speaking to his employers, or facing his wife."

That's all that has been given out so far. But there are so many colors, and so many ills and faults that need cure. I think I shall send to Paris to the Coueists a list of questions to cover some of the most pressing and immediate ills, the proper color to cure which would be gratefully received. It would go something like this:

When people don't like to work what color please?

For friction in the home, what color shall one gaze on to bring peace?

For the extravagant wife—what shade will give her a true perspective?

For frivolous modern youth—what color will make them serious?

For boredom—what color shall we concentrate upon to become interested?

Eighty-Eight Percent of People Who Are Thrifty Never Get Entangled With the Law

By S. W. STRAUS, President American Society for Thrift
A man who has wide experience dealing with criminal practices of types was recently quoted as saying that "one of the rarest specimens the world is a criminal who is thrifty and I think 99 per cent of the people who are thrifty never become entangled with the criminal law."
This is indeed a timely observation on so much thought is being given the subject of crime in America. Opinions may differ as to the cause of the present widespread crime and opinions likewise differ as to the remedies. It is the purpose of this article to set forth the assumption that thrift is a cure-all for this great social disease. Here is, in fact, no single specific thrifty surely is among the remedies that might be offered as helpful. There may be many individual exceptions to the rule but in the vast majority of cases a man who really is thrifty does not indulge in criminal practices. By thrift we do not mean merely getting ahead financially; we mean the thrift of creditable personal progress and honest success. The average man of thrift has learned the lesson that rightful progress comes only through slow, steady accumulation of material resources, the sensible employment of time and energy and a constant effort at self improvement. Into such a plan of progress, criminal practices are not likely to intrude.

It also is to be remembered that many a criminal took his first downward step when driven to desperation through extravagant habits. Any jurist of experience will tell you that a considerable percentage of the criminal cases brought before him may be included in this classification.

It cannot be said that thrift is the only cure for crime. Yet, if every person in this country above the age of childhood were to become habitually thrifty it would seem a safe statement to make that under such conditions there would be far less crime in the United States than is the case today.

New yet sixteen years old!
GENERAL MOTORS' lowest-priced eight

$1045 AND UP superior performance

The development of the New Oakland Eight in reality goes back sixteen years. Several of the engineers responsible for its design participated in the production of General Motors' first eight, in 1914. Their extensive knowledge of eight-cylinder engines has resulted in a car of remarkably sound basic design, as well as one which has many advanced features. Its 85-horsepower engine develops one horsepower for every 37 pounds of car weight. This explains why few cars are as fast—why few, if any, can climb hills so quickly or accelerate so swiftly in traffic. Those who have driven it know how well it merits the description, "the car with superior performance." (The New Oakland's power plant is also exceptionally smooth. Its inherent eight-cylinder smoothness has been increased by a complete down-draft fuel system—new type cylinder heads insuring uniform combustion—laminated steel spring and rubber engine mountings. Considering its superior performance, exceptional smoothness and the beauty of its new Fisher bodies, the New Oakland Eight is very moderately priced. Thus many who have wanted to own a fine eight-cylinder automobile will find it a car of unusual appeal. Come in and drive it today.

THE DAREDEVIL—SLIP ME Y' AUTOGRAPH, WILL YER?

Mother's Cook Book

If the law were to edict that man and wife should never be together for more than six months in the year, it would be broken every day, and men and women would stand hunger and stripes to come together for twelve months in twelve. If love of home were a crime, a family life would arise more touching than anything Queen Victoria ever dreamed.—W. L. George.

COOLED fruits, frozen ices and tinkling drinks are the things which have the most appeal during warm days.

Have dinner, luncheon or supper served out of doors—in the woods if possible or by the side of a stream or lake. If that is not convenient set a table on the lawn or porch and stay out in the open air as much as convenient.

A cool, back porch makes a fine breakfast room, and many of the vegetables may be prepared for the dinner out there, where one has fresh air and may listen to the birds and bees. Such tasks seem only play with the mind occupied with enjoying the out-of-doors.

Prepare sandwiches and serve such food with salads and meats, potatoes often instead of desserts, pastries and other heavy dishes.

When one has a few fresh fish (not enough to serve for a meal for the family) try a fish chowder.

Fresh Fish Chowder.

Fry five or six tablespoonfuls of finely cubed salt pork in a kettle. When well browned add four to six sliced onions and six to eight potatoes cut into slices. Cover with boiling water and cook until the vegetables are half done, then add the boned fish cut into small pieces and cook until all are tender. Season well with salt and pepper and add six to ten milk crackers to a quart of rich milk heated hot. Serve after the mix has been added to the chowder, and if not rich enough, add butter to season. Serve two crackers in each soup dish.

Very tender young cabbage, shredded very fine and mixed with a boiled dressing makes fine filling for sandwiches.

For another vegetable sandwich—slice firm crisp radishes very thin and lay them on the buttered bread with a bit of shredded onion.

Water cream sprinkled with salt is another fine filling for buttered bread.

Simple Boiled Dressing.

Mix together one-half cupful of sugar, one teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of flour and one teaspoonful of mustard. Add one-half cupful of milk and one egg well beaten. Heat one-half cupful of vinegar (mild) in a saucepan and when hot add the other ingredients very slowly stirring constantly. Add whipped cream when using. This will keep indefinitely.

Ownership

An Indianapolis family having a little boy five years old visited friends in a western city. In the course of conversation they discussed a very rich and powerful Mr. S—, who owned the hotel at which the guests were staying, the apartment in which the friends lived, a bank and a department store. Although the little boy did not seem to pay much attention to their talk, the next day at the beach he asked: "Mother, is this Mr. S—'s beach?" "No," mother replied. "Who owns the beach?" was the next question. "God owns the beach," was the reply. "But mother, how did God get it away from Mr. S—?" was the final query.—Indianapolis News.

TAKE IT FROM DAD By Frank H. Cheley

Is Real Recreation Ever Wrong?

"Are you off for to a school night isn't it?" "Yep, Dad, going to a little dance, but I'll be home early. All the gang are going. I won't be too late." "How late, son?" "Oh, I don't know—perhaps eleven or twelve." "Went once before this week?" "Yep, I did, Dad." (a bit impatiently). "And once last week?" (All this in a quiet tone.) "Sure, why not, a fellow has got to have some recreation when he's working and going to school."

"All right, son, run along. I'll be waiting for you. I have a good deal of reading to do tonight."

Bob looked at Dad a bit uncertainly and half reproachfully as he went out the door.

Mr. Smithhough settled himself comfortably, but not to read as he had thought, but to think. The social pull had been pretty strong all the year. Bob, because of his friendly good humor was much sought after and was always in demand, and Mr. Smithhough was certain the boy was quite badly overdoing his recreations to his detriment.

It was just twelve-thirty when Bob stepped in noiselessly and was at once embarrassed to see his Dad still waiting for him.

"Why didn't you go to bed, Dad? I'm sorry I'm a bit late."

"Waiting for you, son."

"Aren't angry with me are you, Pop. I got away as soon as I could."

"Not angry at all, Bob. Not at all—only concerned. You see it wasn't more than a thousand years ago that I was a popular young shelm myself in high school, and I know perfectly what you are up against. This social pull is tremendous and all I'm anxious about is that you do not overdo it. Physical and nervous bankruptcy are very serious things and they overtake us before we realize it. I know you well enough to know that moderation is not one of your strong points and so thought we'd better talk things over. Bob, two dances 'till twelve, school and job is too much for you or any other growing boy. It means that instead of your fun being recreation that it is a steady definite drain on capital of strength and nerves—not enough sleep, not enough relaxation, too much excitement and a general lowering of vitality and poise."

"But, Dad, is real recreation ever wrong?" asked Bob, seating himself opposite his father. "I don't mean to argue with you. I really wish to know."

"The whole matter hinges on an intelligent understanding of just what true recreation is. I doubt if you have analyzed the thought carefully. There is a deal of difference between recreation, fun and amusement. Amusement in its popular sense is not a very worthy word. We Americans have gone amusement crazy with the coming of electric lights and mechanical music."

"Now, of course, we all need diversion from our regular routine in order to keep our balance and to keep from getting into a rut. Every man and boy, too, should have a constructive hobby that he pursues enthusiastically, but being certain that time and money so invested pays dividends in rested and re-invigorated bodies and minds—and Bob, what is recreation to one may be very far from it for another."

"True recreation re-creates, makes over, refreshes, revitalizes. Because there are many types and temperaments of people there must be as many types of recreation and each man must be his own judge. If he is fair with himself and is really in dead earnest about making his life count and finally coming into a worthy accomplishment he will watch his recreation."

A COLOR FOR EVERY ILL

YOU remember Cone who a few years ago gave us a new slogan with his "every day, in every way, I am getting better and better."

From the small beginnings of a cult of auto-suggestion and self-confidence, Coneism is branching out to cure everything—both physical and mental ills, and with simple colors.

Indeed we have definite news from Paris that prominent Coneists are about to launch upon the world their new theory of using colors to cure anything, including insanity.

For people with unbalanced minds, the best cure, according to a prominent Cone professor, is the simple method of having curtains tablecloth, bedclothes, in orange. And each room should have a bowl of oranges in the center. Upon waking in the morning the patient should first gaze upon the bowl for about ten minutes. The healing effect will be noticeable, we are told, in two weeks.

Rheumatism can be cured by concentrating for ten minutes, three times a day on a sheet of light blue paper. Hangings should also be of this color, for this purpose.

Dishonesty is eradicated in the same way, only the color must be fly-white. Kleptomaniacs, according to our information from Paris, are easy subjects to cure in this same manner.

For inferiority complex, red is the color that will cure. The same is recommended to a man who has fears, such as to "crossing streets, in speaking to his employers, or facing his wife."

That's all that has been given out so far. But there are so many colors, and so many ills and faults that need cure. Notice To FORD Car and Truck OWNERS and other customers

DEAR FRIENDS:
Money! That is one thing we all have to have. And it is the only thing that keeps business going and buys the necessities of life.
We must have money to pay our bills—all of us. And to pay our bills we must get cash for our labors and our goods.

In view of all this Jno. H. Arnett Motor Co., has concluded that the best policy is the best for everybody, therefore, we are asking our customers to pay cash for all labor, parts and accessories.

This does not mean your credit is not good and that you will not be able to pay, but simply means that we are forced to pay cash for parts and labor on our plant expense at all times and we don't believe it hardly fair to ask you to pay for your parts and labor and charge it on our books and wait for the money.

We know all our customers will pay, but still that doesn't get us the cash we need. Hereafter we must have cash for all labor, parts and accessories. We will appreciate it if our customers will remember this. We will do our best to get the money on your repair work and parts, but we must have cash.

We sincerely appreciate the nice business we have had in the past and we hope to have your future business. We will treat you right at all times and please remember we have been forced to discontinue charge business.

New yet sixteen years old!

GENERAL MOTORS' lowest-priced eight

The development of the New Oakland Eight in reality goes back sixteen years. Several of the engineers responsible for its design participated in the production of General Motors' first eight, in 1914. Their extensive knowledge of eight-cylinder engines has resulted in a car of remarkably sound basic design, as well as one which has many advanced features. Its 85-horsepower engine develops one horsepower for every 37 pounds of car weight. This explains why few cars are as fast—why few, if any, can climb hills so quickly or accelerate so swiftly in traffic. Those who have driven it know well it merits the description, "the car with superior performance." The New Oakland's power plant is also exceptionally smooth. Its inherent eight-cylinder smoothness has been increased by a complete down-draft fuel system—new type cylinder heads insuring uniform combustion—laminated steel spring and rubber engine mountings. Considering its superior performance, exceptional smoothness and the beauty of its new Fisher bodies, the New Oakland Eight is very moderately priced. Thus many who have wanted to own a fine eight-cylinder automobile will find it a car of unusual appeal. Come in and drive it today.

The New OAKLAND

The New Oakland Eight, $1045 and up, L. S. Pontiac, Michigan, plus delivery charge. Lovejoy Hydraulic Shock Absorbers included in list price. Bumpers, rear fender guards and spring covers extra. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

RURAL SCHOOL BAN SUSPENDED, ORDER OF APPEAL JUDGE

A suspension of the injunction granted by Judge R. B. Minor in the Fifty-seventh District court, restraining the State Board of Education from expending any part of the $5,000,000 appropriated under the Texas rural school aid law, was granted last Saturday by Chief Justice W. S. Fry, of the Fourth Civil Appeals court.

Judge Fry's announcement interrupted arguments begun early Saturday morning by the State. Rice M. Tilley, assistant Attorney General, had closed his argument in submitting the case on appeal and Attorney General R. L. Bobbitt had started to speak.

After a whispered conference between Justice Fry and Edward W. Smith and T. D. Cobbs, associate Judge Fry informed the Attorney General that the injunction was suspended. This means that the state board can proceed with the expenditure of the rural aid fund.

(Too Late for Last Week)

Reverend Father Boechman, of Lubbock, temporarily filled Father Dvorak's place at Pep, Sunday.

Many families have moved into this school district recently. There has been a substantial increase in the school enrollment.

Andrew Janek, of West Station, visited the family of J. T. Gerik last week.

Several new houses are going up in the vicinity of Pep.

W. M. Fowler of Levelland and Louis Owen of Lehman, were in Pep, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Murphy and Miss Elizabeth Lupton were shopping in Levelland, Saturday.

A. G. Jungman and daughter, Ida visited Littlefield, Saturday.

The moving pictures of the school children made some time ago will be exhibited in the school auditorium next Friday night.

The crowd that assembled at the Pep school to see the moving pictures made at the school recently were disappointed, as the show was not put on as announced. A letter was received next day from Mr. Dyer who made the pictures, stating that he was unavoidably detained.

Tennis is the game of the hour at Pep. Sunday afternoon all the local players were on the court and some lively and interesting games were played. A crowd of onlookers enjoyed the matches.

The "flu" is stalking abroad in Pep at present. A number of school children and adults have fallen afool of him this past week.

An impromptu one act play was put on Friday afternoon as a chapel program by a group of fourth, fifth, and sixth grade children. The theme of the play was decided on beforehand. Each character made up his own lines as the play progressed.

Miss Blanche Stengel and J. F. Albus were "Flu" victims the past week.

Mrs. Gilbert Keith has suffered a great deal lately from a fractured jaw bone. The fracture occurred while a dentist was extracting a tooth. It will be necessary to have an x-ray made of the jaw bone.

AIR MINDED YOUNGSTERS TAKE FRENCH LEAVE SUN.

That it behooves the present day parents of Littlefield to become 'air minded,' or at least take notice when the city is to receive an aerial visit was evidenced Sunday when two little laddies decided to go to the landing field a mile south of town, where a 16 passenger tri-motor Ford plane, together with a smaller one, had landed early in the day.

The boys were J. C. Moody, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Moody and Clifford Payne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Veach Payne, both four years of age.

Upon discovery of the absence of the children, about 7:30 in the evening a searching party started out looking for them, when about an hour later two traveling men, who were enroute to Lubbock, came upon the children about two miles east of Littlefield, and returned here with them.

Upon being questioned by his mother, J. C. stated that for a while they walked on the rail road track until an approaching train came very near them. "Then we got off and let the train go by," he said.

He further stated that when they started out they had planned to go see the air plane and later decided to go to Clovis, N. M.

NEWLY WEDS SHOWERED

A very enjoyable affair of last week was a dinner party and shower given Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Sam Rumback host and hostess at the apartment, in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. W. M. (Bill) Burt, who were married Thursday afternoon.

Pink carnations and ferns added to throughout the entertaining suite.

Estimated that $5,000 Worth of Goods Were Taken From The Littlefield Stores By Shop-lifters During the Year of 1929

"There was probably $5,000 worth of merchandise stolen from the stores in Littlefield during the past year," remarked one of the leading business men of the city to a Lender representative last week. He had been counting up his own known losses during 1929, that he knew of, and they ran up into several hundreds of dollars—and he remarked "The Lord only knows how much more there was that we haven't missed."

This is probably a banner loss year for the merchants of the city, due principally to the "cotton boom" crowds that visited here in search of labor during the months of October, November and December.

Business men here agree that most of the shop-lifters that were here last fall were women, some of which they have reason to believe, were professionals at the business, tho often their male companions are lurking in the rear or working elsewhere as a blind or attention attractor. Some of them have been arrested by local officers revealing some of the method and system employed in getting away with the goods.

Perhaps one of the most common methods used by these store pirates is that of the large baggy skirt with elastic band and roomy bloomers underneath. Some wear the skirt with a slit in the side, through which they thrust into the bloomers everything they can get their hands on.

A standard contrivance used by the shop-lifter is a large suitcase carton, all wrapped up as though something has just been purchased. In the end of this cleverly concealed, is a trap door on spring hinges. An article is thrust into an invisible slit and the door immediately snaps back into place.

A shop-lifting invention frequently employed for heavy returns is the suit case with a spring trap door in the bottom. This is large enough to fit over a suit case or bag of ordinary size, and that's its design. The operator merely places it over the article of luggage or other object that he wishes to absorb and it is swallowed up. Certainly anyone who lost his grip would not suspect the modest looking man who is walk-away with the large suitcase.

There is also the false bottom bag. In the upper compartment are innocent articles which have been purchased. But in this case again there is a trap. The articles stolen are thrust into the top and disappear through this aperture. The shop lifter is apt to open the bag frequently to show, although with apparent unconsciousness, that the contents are legitimate.

Dresses are an especially attractive prize for shop lifters, and these people are known to have got more than one of these at a time. Once in a great while the shop lifter is suspected of wearing them away; but in most instances they are rolled up very tightly and slipped into the capacious maw of the big skirt. Leaving an old hat and wearing away a new one is a common trick among men shop lifters. Even children with kleptomaniac tendencies have been caught picking up and appropriating to themselves various small articles.

During the "rush" season many of the local stores made a practice of employing house detectives when the crowds were largest. Occasionally one is caught and turned over to the officers, but frequently they put up such a pitiful story that the sympathy of the kind hearted merchant is aroused, the goods returned and the thief turned loose.

"But it all costs money," remarked the merchant, "and means a considerable cutting down of the year's profits in business."

PLANK STEAK FOR STUFFING AND ROLLING

One of the Best Flavored Pieces of Beef.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A flank steak is one of the best flavored pieces of beef, but it requires slow, careful cooking, and its long muscle fibers should be carved across the grain. It is an economical cut, for there is no bone or other waste material. Flank steak is especially adapted to stuffing and rolling. Any preferred stuffing may be used. The bureau of home economics suggests one made in this way: Half cupful of chopped celery and a medium-sized onion, minced, are cooked in two tablespoonfuls of butter or beef drippings and then combined with one and one-half cupfuls of stale bread crumbs, one teaspoonful of salt, and one-eighth teaspoonful of pepper.

Wipe the meat with a damp cloth. Spread the stuffing over the steak. Beginning on one side of it, roll the steak up like a jelly roll, and tie securely in several places with clean string. Be sure to roll the steak from the side, not the end; then in carving slices the meat will be cut across the grain. Sear in a small quantity of fat in a heavy skillet or baking pan on top of the stove, and turn the meat frequently until it is browned on all sides. Slip a rack under the meat in the pan, cover closely, and cook in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) for one and one-half hours, or until tender. When the meat is done remove from the fire and prepare a gravy. Drain off the fat, and for each cupful of gravy desired, measure two tablespoonfuls of fat and return to the pan. Add one and one-half to two tablespoonfuls of flour, to the fat and stir until well blended and slightly browned. Then add one cupful of cold water or milk and stir until smooth. Season with salt and pepper. Serve the stuffed steak with browned potatoes.

Valuable Gas

Biau gas was invented by a German chemist by that name. Quite a number of oils may be used for the manufacturing of this kind of gas. The gas is obtained by spraying gas oil into highly heated retorts. The main advantage of this gas in carrying it is the fact that it simplifies the matter of compensating for the loss of weight

THE AUTO BUSINESS

The automobile business has in recent years come to be one of the barometers by which we can forecast business generally. In fact, we've heard quite a few Littlefield people argue that the auto industry has become so enormous and widespread that our prosperity hinges on its success. There may be a lot of truth in it, when we consider all the products that go into autos, and the different kinds of employment affected.

At any rate, if the auto industry is to be taken as a barometer, it looks as though we are in for a good year. At the New York show Ford alone booked $20,000,000 worth of orders the first day; 23 different makers announced they are going to center their energies on the eight-cylinder car this year, and price cuts are numerous. Conservative leaders in auto-making declare the market will not be flooded with cars but that from now on makers will be governed more by actual orders than by a desire to force distributors to dispose of the output no matter how great it might be.

We have recently read much on the subject, and it strikes us that the auto industry is standing pretty solidly on its feet despite some hard bumps last fall. The men who have millions invested in it are optimistic they believe they've learned a lot of things that will help them in the future, and they are confident 1930 will be a profitable year. If they can feel that way, with millions invested, then the balance of us, who haven't so much at stake but who do try to hope for the best, certainly ought to be satisfied over the outlook.

GOOD BUILDING YEAR

It was only natural that the building industry was the first to feel the effect of the depression which swept the country with the Wall St. crash, but which seems to have pretty generally subsided. So long as people live and work they must have shelter, and without buildings to house them and their families, as well as the machinery with which they produce, they are certain to suffer.

According to authorities, home-building fell off 50 percent while the wave of speculation was at its height, and when 1929 closed it was a billion dollars behind what it totaled in 1928. This can mean but one thing and that is increased activity in the building line this year if we don't want to fall so far behind we'll never catch up. Then up will go rents, so we'll catch it either way we go.

Regardless of what other lines of industry are doing, our future is tied a little closer to the building of homes than to anything else. We'll feel it right here in Littlefield if this isn't a good year for construction work, for it is a kind of work that touches our lives in many ways. Littlefield's greatest need for the past six months has been more homes. This town could be several hundred larger population if there were residences to house the people who want to come here to live.

TO STOP OVERPLANTING

While the Federal Farm Board was established with the broadest powers ever given to a government agency, few of our acquaintances around Littlefield have appeared to believe the power would ever be used. But now the board has put its finger on the weakness in all schemes for agricultural relief—over-production—and has put its foot down on it at the same time.

The board announces it will not lend money to those who insist on excessive planting. They say that no matter how hard they may work to stabilize prices, and get them to where they will yield a fair profit to the growers, their work will be for naught if a very great number plant abnormal crops and bring forth a harvest so tremendous as to cause price slumps.

The argument sounds good, and the fact that the board really has the power to prevent over-planting of any and all crops in any and all parts of the country makes its orders along this line worth listening to, and worth watching.

GUESSING OUR SIZE

Now that the government is about ready to start taking a census to find out how many people there are in the U. S. Littlefield residents will be interested in a few advance predictions.

Louis Truesdell, who will have charge of the census, estimates the count to be taken starting April 1 will show a total of 122,000,000 people, or 17,000,000 more than we had in the census of 1920.

He also estimates that of this number 46,580,000, or 39 percent, support themselves and the rest of the population.

And while on the face of it that doesn't speak so well for our love of work, bear in mind that it includes the aged and infirm, sick and crippled, and all dependents of whatever nature. Also remember that, according to population, this is a larger percentage of actual workers than any other nation on earth can boast.

We know we're a great nation in a lot of ways, but this new census is going to tell us many things we never dreamed of along this line. It ought to prove one of the most interesting things in the entire year.

Another trouble with the world is that there is too much face powder and not enough baking powder sold.

All the poll taxes that can be paid this year have been paid. It will be interesting to know in a few days how many slackers there are in Lamb county.

Without discussing pro or con the Sunday movie show, the Leader rises to say that "Madam X" shown at the Palace theatre couple Sundays ago presented a lesson of value in excess of that contained in many preached sermons.

The City Commission did wisely a few weeks ago when it passed restricting ordinances for parking on some of the narrow business streets. They will also receive the commendation of their fellow citizens by seeing that they are enforced.

This is election year, and no doubt all citizens will be very careful to correctly mark their ballots during the coming primaries and election; but they should not forget to also make the necessary marks on checks the first of each month for paying their bills.

Present indications are that politics will be plenty hot in Lamb county this year. Early interest seems to be centering around the office of sheriff and tax collector. Other offices are being contested by aspiring candidates, and voters will have a range of choice when July 26 rolls around.

LITTLE LEADERS

More than one Littlefield man can tell you from experience that a lot of cold cash is lost on hot tips.

Many a Littlefield man who can't sing a note often swears he can't finance one, either.

After a few years of married life a Littlefield wife's birthday becomes just something else a husband forgets.

Littlefield women can love some queer-looking creatures, but no woman can love a man who can't be jealous of her.

There may be a Santa Claus, but we don't believe there ever was a Littlefield man who had aches and pains without mentioning them to his wife.

The younger married women around Littlefield want their husbands to buy them a lot of things, but a wash tub isn't on any of the lists.

An old-timer is the Littlefield man who can remember when cobwebs were something that gave a woman a fit to behold instead of the name of a new kind of hosiery.

SOME SNAP SHOTS

We understand that some Washington politicians are worried more over the Idaho Borah than the country is over the corn borer.

Who can remember when if a fellow asked for a pin a girl didn't have any trouble in digging up one?

Russia has granted a concession to a safety razor factory. Maybe she's going to try to put a better face on things.

If you hear vile swearing on the street it's an offense against decency. But you have to pay to hear it in a show.

False teeth have this advantage—they're the only thing about the body that don't ache when you have grip.

Many a man who boasts of being an optimist looks just like an ordinary fool to other people.

Now that they've decided to lengthen skirts to the ground we'll soon find out if the crime wave was caused by the war or by legs.

Why is it that the bet you intended to make but didn't always turns out to be a winning one?

PAVEMENT PICKUPS

Lawrence Raef declares that giving a kitchen-shower for a modern bride is about as silly as buying rubber boots for a goldfish.

J. C. Hilburn says he has heard of a lot of things done by absent-minded men but the one who stepped on his wife and kissed the self-starter takes the prize.

W. H. Baker thinks another way to help the farmers would be to compel the bootleggers to make whiskey out of corn instead of old shoes, concentrated lye and things like that.

Three hundred dinosaur tracks are discovered near Flagstaff, Ariz.

LFD. SCHOOL NEWS

LIVELY CLUB MEETING

The Lively club held its usual meeting Friday with the president in the chair.

After the roll call we elected Willie Harrell as yell leader in the place of Mary Alice Thornton, who has moved away.

Following the business session an interesting program was given, wherein Mrs. F. G. Sadler gave a very interesting address on, "Professions Open for Girls after Graduation."

We then sang the club song and learned a new club yell. Helen Rum back read the Home Economics alphabet.

COMING

"A Poor Married Man," is a three act college comedy sponsored by the Junior class. It is a play full of "pep and get up" featuring the mother-in-law and poor hen pecked husband. The black trump furnishes you with plenty of fun. "It's gonna be a wow."

No definite date for publication has been set. Come—Muriel Stripe.

HOME ECONOMICS

The seventh and eighth period Home Economic food class organized Wednesday afternoon of last week.

The first meeting we went into the foods room and made a record or map of where things were located. We made a score card of each girl's duty for the rest of the year and was assigned our tables.

The second meeting the following day we put on our uniforms and baked apples. The class did well for the first time.

The third meeting we made apple sauce, each member did well and Miss Collins said, "You are real cooks."

At the fourth meeting we had a discussion on how to prepare dried fruits, and home projects.—Edna Pearl Cox.

GET READY FOR LEAGUE

Preparations are now nearing completion for our entry into the Interscholastic League county meet that is to be held in March.

The next few weeks will find us "on our toes" and we are expecting victory in the end.

OLTON WON MEET

The Invitation By-County Basketball Tournament, held at Anton, Friday and Saturday was won by Olton. Our team lost to Olton in the final round. The score being 28-8.

Texas graphite is being used in the $15,000,000 Edison Building and the $1,500,000 Roosevelt Memorial in New York.

Nature Thought of Everything

Nature thought of everything when the human body was made. When the body is about to become ill, nature planned danger signals to warn us. Thus, if our children grind their teeth when they sleep, or lack appetite, or suffer from abdominal pains, or itch about the nose and fingers, we should know that they may have contracted worms. Then, if we are wise, we buy a bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge and safely and surely expel the worms. Thus we avoid the danger of very serious trouble. White's Cream Vermifuge costs only 35c a bottle, and can be bought from Stokes-Alexander Drug Company.

found the program.

Embert Mueller, Eva Joe Carmiiously sang, "Beautiful Garden of Prayer."

The Union will have a party next Friday evening at Miss Fern Hoovers.

County Demonstration Gives Some Valuable Suggestions Regarding Foods for Lunches

By RUBY MASHBURN

In order that children may be strong and well their food must meet three kinds of body needs. First, it must provide the materials necessary for building and repairing all the different parts of the body; second, it must furnish energy or fuel for the work of the muscles and third, it must serve to regulate the intricate chemical changes on which health and growth depends. The principal building materials are protein, which forms the basis of all the tissues, and mineral matters, such as iron, lime and phosphorus, which are found in different parts of the body. Protein supplies energy as well as building materials but the greater part of the energy of the ordinary diet comes from the starch, sugar and fat. Among the substances that regulate the chemical changes by which the body grows and functions are some of the mineral matters and the vitamins.

Nine-Tenths Preventable

Nine-tenths of all the diseases of the American people can be traced directly to constipation, doctors say. Constipation throws into the system poisons which taint and weaken every organ of the body and make them easy victims for any germs which attack them. Prevent constipation and you will avoid nine-tenths of all diseases, with their consequent pain and financial losses. Herbine, the good old vegetable cathartic, will prevent constipation in a natural, easy and pleasant way. Get a bottle today from Stokes-Alexander Drug Company

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Naval Parley Getting Down to Business—Spain's Dictator Resigns.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

MOVING slowly and not very surely toward their goal, the delegates to the five power naval conference in London spent another week mainly in private conversations designed to develop national programs, some radio addresses and one plenary session. The correspondents made such a fuss about being excluded that room was provided for a number of them at the session and the others "listened in" by microphone.

At the meeting on Thursday the delegates told something about the progress they had made toward an agreement on preliminaries. Prime Minister MacDonald had had talks with the French, Italian and Japanese, and Dino Grandi of Italy had been pressed to agree that Mr. Molini's proposal for the immediate establishment of ratios should be examined later. Explanation was given by Mr. Gibson of the Franco-American compromise between global tonnage and category theories of measurement of fleet strengths which was introduced in these columns last week. The agreement is based on a maximum of transfer tonnage yearly from one category to another, and it was understood that a percentage of one-sixth of the total of any category might be accepted as the amount of tonnage possible to transfer. The matter was referred to a steering committee on motion of Mr. Stimson.

Mr. MacDonald opened the session by stating that its main purpose was to consider the agenda. He explained that there had been wide exchanges of opinions and declared "gratifying progress" had been made.

The questions proposed by the French were: First, the system of global tonnage and the French transactional proposal; second, what classifications are to be adopted; and, third, the transfer of tonnage and the conditions to be applied to such a transfer under the British system of limitation by categories.

Italy proposed that the determination of ratios should be the first step and that the determination of levels of total tonnage of the various nations should then follow.

After adjournment Mr. MacDonald, who is chairman, told the correspondents: "I think we are now within measurable distance of solving the problem which up to now has not been solvable. Mind, I do not say that we are agreed as yet, but I think the steering committee will report agreement. The differences between us are so small that were you to put a candle to them, you could see through the wall of controversy." MacDonald emphasized, however, that Great Britain could not accept the global tonnage theory as now presented, saying: "There would be continued competition within categories."

IN A radio address to British and American hearers Mr. Stimson indicated that the American delegation had decided that the five-year extension of the present battleship building holiday would be the principal result of the conference. It seemed as if he had abandoned the program for cruiser reduction which was desired by President Hoover. The objectives of the United States, as outlined by Mr. Stimson, were summarized thus: 1. Parity between the British and American navies in "power and efficiency."

2. A reduction of the battleship building programs of all naval powers by postponing the five-year replacement of present capital ships, provided for by the Washington treaty.

3. Ending the rivalry in cruiser and destroyer building by limitation of the number and tonnage of these classes of surface craft.

4. Abolition of submarines, or, in any event, the reduction of their number, and prohibition of their ruthless use against merchant ships.

Reassuring his countrymen who might be alarmed by stories of crises and of the danger that the interests of the United States were being sacrificed, the secretary of state concluded:

"The members of the American delegation here in one capacity or another went through the great war. Most of us have had to study national defense in the course of our official duties. We are united in believing that our national defense, our national interests, and our prospects will continue; peace and prosperity can best be served by naval limitation and its consequent good will.

"In the belief that the same agreement, which holds out such prospects for us holds equal prospects for the other nations here, we go at our task with the assurance of the support of the people of these five great nations."

GEN. PRIMO DE RIVERA, for six years premier and dictator of Spain, resigned last week under virtual compulsion, and the country at once went into spasms that, it was thought, might ultimately result in the abolition of the monarchy. The dictator had put up to the chief officers of the army and navy the question of his resignation and their decision being against him, he stepped down. King Alfonso gave the job of premier to Gen. Damaso Berenguer, chief of his military household and inveterate enemy of de Rivera, and two days later Berenguer announced his cabinet, in which he took the portfolio of minister of war as well as premier.

Even before he had formed the new government the forces in opposition to Berenguer were gathering in Madrid. De Rivera, evidently believing a dictator might be down without being out, took the leadership of the Patriotic Union against his successor, and there were indications that the old charges against Berenguer in connection with the Moroccan disaster of eight years ago would be revived. There were riotous demonstrations by students and republicans which were suppressed by the troops. It was made plain that General Berenguer would rule with an iron hand until the government is firmly established. One of his first acts was the establishment of strict censorship. He announced that parliament by elections and the constitution of 1876 would be re-established.

CARL BEN EIELSON, arctic aviator, and Earl Boriand, his mechanic, perished on the coast of Siberia about ninety miles east of North Cape. The wreckage of their plane was found by Pilots Crosson and Gillam and was easily identified. At this writing searching parties are still trying to find the bodies of the unfortunate flyers. Eielson and Boriand were engaged in transporting passengers and furs from an icebound steamer. Their plane evidently crashed when traveling at high speed and the disaster was believed to be due to a faulty altimeter on which Eielson relied when a snowstorm wiped out his visibility.

SENATOR ROBINSON of Indiana, the only regular Republican on the senate's lobbying committee, was foiled in his attempt to show a connection between Senator King of Utah, Democrat, and the German dye trust.

It was brought out before the committee that contributions to King's campaign fund were made by Herman A. Metz, American agent of the German monopoly, but when put on the stand Metz developed a conveniently faulty memory and said he had kept no record of those contributions. He admitted he sent a check for $1,000 to King in 1928 because he was interested in the campaign of his friend Al Smith. This check, King had asserted, was not cashed and was torn up by him. Metz is an official of the American I. G., a subsidiary of the German concern. He denounced as nonsensical the idea that the American company was organized to control the dye and chemical industry here until American competition could be smothered and the German interests come into the open. The low tariff members of the committee treated the dyestuff man with great consideration, but Chairman Caraway was so rough with A. L. Faebel, secretary of the American Tariff league, that they almost came to blows.

WET members of congress were elated by the announcement that the house judiciary committee would hold public hearings on measures to repeal the Eighteenth amendment, starting February 12. There isn't the slightest chance that any of the bills for repeal or modification will get through the house, which is overwhelmingly dry, but the opponents of prohibition in its present form will have a chance to present their arguments and facts and figures. The dries will have the same opportunity.

Attorney General Mitchell, in a letter to the expenditure committee of the house, gave notice that the employees of the Department of Justice must be dry by practice and profession, and that candidates for appointment must measure up to this. "I believe," he wrote, "that no man who makes a practice of drinking intoxicating liquor, or who has definite or pronounced views in opposition to prohibition, belongs in any post having directly to do with the prosecution of cases under the national prohibition act. It seems to me that such men had better seek positions in some other branch of the government or a private occupation."

CHAIRMAN LEGGE of the federal farm board and Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, speaking over the radio, strongly urged farmers to hold down the production of surplus crops in order to help in the work of restoring their prosperity. Both speakers called attention to the outlook report of the Department of Agriculture, just issued, predicting little if any increase in farm commodity prices during 1930 if overproduction continues. Messrs. Hyde and Legge then called on President Hoover and told him that Eastern life insurance companies are complicating the farm situation by curtailing purchase of farm mortgages in the Mississippi valley states. Unless this policy on the part of life insurance companies is changed, Mr. Hyde told the President, large scale foreclosures of farm land are certain to result.

NOTABLES taken by death during the week included Bishop Charles P. Anderson of Chicago, primate of the Episcopal church of America; Mme. Emmy Destinn, Hungarian grand opera prima donna; Dr. Harry B. Hutchins, president emeritus of the University of Michigan; Mrs. Rebecca L. Felton of Georgia, the only woman ever to hold a seat in the United States senate; Rear Admirals W. W. Kimball and Thomas Snowden and Gen. David S. Gordon and Harry Taylor.

ALTHOUGH the event itself is yet two years away, preparations are going forward rapidly for making the two-hundredth anniversary celebration of Washington's birthday the greatest event of its kind ever held in this country. Six years ago President Coolidge appointed a distinguished group of citizens from every part of the United States, with himself as ex officio chairman, known as the United States Commission for the Celebration of the Birth of George Washington to prepare a plan.

Since that time the commission has been considering some forty different suggestions for the nation-wide celebration but the only plan that has thus far been definitely adopted is that for the systematic publication of works by and about Washington. This plan was drawn up by Dr. Albert Bushnell Hart, professor of history at Harvard university and historian of the commission.

The plan in detail calls for the following publications:

1. George Washington (Reading With a Purpose), written by Doctor Hart, and recently issued by the commission, to be circulated by the commission in quantities.
2. Select reading lists on George Washington. A proposed search of best books on Washington, intended to stimulate purchase of Washington books by individuals and libraries.
3. A George Washington map. A sizeable wall map on paper or cloth costing in quantities about 10 cents each, to be sent free by the commission to any school room asking for it.
4. Writings of George Washington. A definitive edition to be edited by J. C. Fitzpatrick, editor of Washington diaries.
5. A George Washington series. It will be made up of about fifteen volumes of various sizes pertaining to George Washington, depicting Washington as a soldier; Washington as an engineer; the boy Washington, etc.
6. A George Washington atlas. It will include detailed maps of all regions in which Washington lived and traveled.

It was early decided that the 1932 celebration was not to be a material expression of the importance of the event in the form of a "world's fair" or exposition of its physical resources and the development of its arts, sciences and industries. However, the commission of fine arts and the national park and planning commission, which are co-operating with the bicentennial commission in planning the principal observance of the event, to be held in the city which bears Washington's name, hopes that a number of major projects, all of which are closely linked with the bicentennial celebration idea, will be completed by 1932. Chief among these are the following:

The Arlington Memorial bridge, now well along in construction and virtually certain to be completed by the bicentennial year.

Completion of the monument gardens at the base of the Washington monument, originally proposed in the 1901 plan for Washington and urged by city planners since.

Completion of the arboretum and the national botanical garden.

Nation of the proposed Mount Vernon boulevard between the west end of the Arlington bridge and the home of George Washington.

Completion of the scheme for making Wakefield, the birthplace of George Washington, a national shrine, and construction of roadways and airplane landing field and wharves for ships at the shrine.

Outstanding among these projects is the Mount Vernon memorial boulevard. Construction has been commenced on this by the bureau of public roads of the Department of Agriculture. It is to extend from the Virginia end of the new bridge connecting the Lincoln memorial with the Arlington National cemetery to Mount Vernon along the Potomac river, a distance of 15 1/4 miles.

The plans for the monument gardens at the base of the 555-foot obelisk recalls the fact that the monument as conceived in 1833 has never been completed. The building of the monument in its present form underwent many vicissitudes after the laying of the original cornerstone in 1848. The Civil war interfered with the work and it was not until 1876 that the shaft reached a height of 150 feet. In 1880 the second cornerstone was laid and the work went rapidly ahead until 1888, when the monument was opened to the public.

From that time little was done until the erection of the magnificent Lincoln memorial with the reflecting pool in between. Now it is hoped that the $50,000,000 federal building program for the National Capital which is under way will carry forward the completion of the monument on the basic plans for it and the development of the mall or monument gardens, extending from the Capitol to the monument, so that all will be in readiness for the National Capital for the great celebration two years hence.

The commission has also undertaken to assist in the restoration of Wakefield, Va., the birthplace of Washington. The Wakefield association proposes to add to the 70 acres which it now owns 300 acres more which are necessary to treat the home and its surroundings properly. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has made a provisional gift in this connection and congress will be asked to appropriate $60,000 to complete the restoration.

Although these are the principal projects in which the bicentennial commission is interested, they are not the only memorials to Washington which may be completed and may be the scene of special observances of his birthday in 1932. On a beautiful knoll overlooking the historic city of Alexandria, Va., is rapidly rising the George Washington Masonic National memorial, a $4,000,000 structure, erected by the Masons of the country to an honored fellow member, which is virtually certain to be completed within the next two years.

An effort is being made also to finish the George Washington Memorial building in Washington so that it will also be ready for the 1932 celebration. The idea for this building came from George Washington himself who provided in his will for a national university and emphasized in his last message to congress the importance of "the general diffusion of knowledge" through proper institutions.

A center such as the memorial will provide is now lacking in Washington. According to plans, the building will have not only a large auditorium with a large organ, but several smaller halls seating from 500 to 2,500 people. The building would be made accessible to conventions of every character that may select Washington as a place of assembly, whether the conventions be international, state, interstate or territorial; or whether their character be business, political, religious, patriotic or social. The memorial will be a center, in fact, for "the diffusion of knowledge." It will be suitable for inaugural receptions and balls, and especially for conferences between nations, as congress intended it to be when it gave the ground.

NORTHEASTERN BRAZIL

The Lighthouse at Bahia, Brazil.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

PLANE have made the northeastern corner of Brazil the doorway to South America from the Old World. Repeated flights have been made in recent years from Europe and Africa to South America, and in nearly every case first news of the successful crossing has come from Natal, Pernambuco or Bahia, the three most northeastern cities of the continent. On the latest of the transatlantic flights the two flyers, Major Larre-Borges and Lieutenant Challes, were forced to earth near Natal, not far from the landing place of Major Delprete and Captain Ferrain in 1923. Pernambuco was the first city reached by Commander Francisco de Pinedo in 1927; and Bahia was the port of arrival for Captains Jimenez and Iglesias in the spring of 1929.

Because of Natal's strategic importance in transatlantic flying the recently organized air mail line between Paris and Buenos Aires has established a flying field near the town. Natal has also figured in Brazilian maritime plans, and its harbor is being improved with a view to making it the first port of call for steamships between Europe and ports on the southeast coast of South America.

Cape St. Roque may be considered the real northeast corner of South America. It lies approximately 20 miles north of Natal. The intervening strip of coast is made up of low sand dunes, with here and there a village set among coco palms.

Natal is not directly on the sea but lies about two miles up the river from Potenghy, which is also known as the Rio Grande do Norte. It is from this stream that the state of Rio Grande do Norte, of which Natal is the capital, takes its name. The town was founded by the Portuguese more than three and a quarter centuries ago as a military post. In 1633 it was captured by the Dutch and remained in their possession until 1654. Few traces of the Dutch occupation remain.

Natal a Frontier City.

Natal is far removed from the center of Brazilian activity in the south, and still has some touches of the frontier. Southward, railways along the coast connect it with Pernambuco; but only a short bit of trackage extends toward the interior. For the movement of goods to and from the back country the town still depends somewhat on picturesque troops of pack mules and horses in charge of a tropeiro and his swarthy, hard-visaged assistants.

Sometimes 100 or more mules and horses, each laden with big bags of cotton or other produce from the interior, thread their way through Natal's streets, with bells tinkling, and muleteers shouting—an animated freight train. On the return trip they carry bales of fabrics, food supplies, and household furnishings.

The muleteers of Rio Grande do Norte and the adjoining states must be a rough and ready lot, for the goods they carry are an irresistible temptation to bandits in the hilly interior, and often the drivers must "shoot their way through." The gradually extending lines of steel in the interior of Brazil are slowly bringing the existence of the picturesque tropeiro to an end.

Pernambuco, although not so far to the northeast as Natal, is the easternmost city of the Western hemisphere. The state of Pernambuco and two other states make up the northeastern shoulder of the continent. The capital, Pernambuco, better known to Brazilians as Recife, occupies a small island—Antonio Vas—and a portion of the mainland of Brazil, about fifty miles from the northern border of the state.

Pernambuco is the fourth largest city in Brazil with a population about equal to that of Birmingham, Ala. Many of the people are descendants of the Dutch and Portuguese, both of whom once claimed the city and surrounding country. Pernambuco owes much of its progress to the influence of these races, who fostered agriculture and commerce.

Much Business in Pernambuco.

The old section of Pernambuco shows its Portuguese origin in the varicolored plaster-faced buildings that line some of the narrow cobblestone streets in the downtown section; while here and there steep gabled houses and business structures recall the quarter century of Dutch occupation that began ten years after the Pilgrims landed on Plymouth Rock.

Until a few years ago, large ocean-going boats had to anchor far out in the harbor. Up-to-date docks were constructed, and railroads were built, reaching into the productive hinterland. As a result Pernambuco has become in a short time one of the important gateways to eastern Brazil.

Sugar, tobacco, lumber, fruit, cotton, rubber and coffee that once graced the backs of mules now flow into the city by rail in vast quantities. More than forty sugar mills in the capital city attest the state's sugar production. Textile mills, shoe, soap, and lock factories are also there.

Most of Pernambuco's business is carried on in the old section that occupies the island. The city market, perhaps, strikes the fancy of Americans more than any other feature. An abundance of rich, luscious tropical fruit is everywhere to be seen. On the ground are great piles of pineapples, alligator pears, melons and mangoes of enormous size. In contrast to many South American markets Pernambuco has no noisy vendors.

Bahia is the largest of Brazil's air gateway cities. It was the first Portuguese settlement founded in Brazil. According to the letters of Amerigo Vespucci he and his followers spent several months in All Saints bay in the neighborhood of Bahia during the early years of the Sixteenth century. Bahia was not officially recognized by the Portuguese government, however, until 1549 when the first governor general of Brazil set up a colonial government there. Bahia was the capital of Brazil from that time until 1763 when the government was removed to Rio de Janeiro.

While Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo surpass Bahia in size, the old port, which lies about 400 miles down the coast from Pernambuco, is a thriving commercial center with about 300,000 inhabitants.

The harbor it faces is one of the finest on the east coast of South America. Vessels from many world ports are anchored offshore while smaller boats with local cargoes come and go like schools of water beetles.

Bahia Built on Two Levels.

The traveler's first impression of Bahia, as he sails up the harbor toward the city, is that there are really two separate towns. A congested settlement hugs the shore line while on a cliff in the background 200 feet above the roof tops the fringe of another settlement is visible.

In the narrow streets of the lower town and among the bordering warehouses half-naked porters, perspiring freely in the tropical heat, spend their days moving cargoes of cocoa, tobacco, cotton, sugar, rubber and fruits, all products of Bahia state, brought to the port by railroad trains and high-wheeled donkey carts.

The customs house, depot and offices of foreign firms interested in Bahia commodities also are in the lower town. Most of Bahia's cocoa, the largest exportable product of Bahia state, is shipped to the United States.

Upper Bahia is reached by elevators, steps and winding roads. Here and there in the narrow streets of this portion of the city, sky blue and delicate pink houses, some of whose plastered fronts are deeply pockmarked, take the traveler back a century or two in Bahia's history. But within a stone's throw of these districts there are wide modern thoroughfares, lined with fine shops, banks, theaters, office and government buildings. A park or a garden now and then breaks the monotony of the solid rows of masonry.

Of the 300,000 inhabitants of Bahia about two-thirds are negroes. Some are pure-blooded negroes, some are a mixture of Portuguese and Indian, and Indian and negro.

In Bahia the mulatto maidens, with erect, well-built bodies wrapped in gaily colored cloth, gold chains about their necks, bracelets covering their arms, and large rings hanging from their ears, gracefully stride through the streets under such burdens as baskets of clothes and pans of sweetmeats perched on their heads.

SWINDLERS PROSPER IN GREAT BRITAIN

Gather in Million Dollars in Past Year.

London.—One million dollars is the amount that swindlers have gained during the last year in England—not, perhaps, a large figure to an American, but a greater loss than has been sustained in England in any previous year.

Perhaps the toll would be greater if the losses American visitors have suffered were counted in, for the tourist is one of the confidence man's favorite victims. He generally carries considerable money with him, in a form easy to handle, and his short stay in the country he is visiting often makes him take his loss rather than try to retrieve his money at a great loss to himself in time and convenience.

Old as it is, the favorite trick seems to be the rosary game. Its essential feature is the inculcation in the mind of the victim of the idea that the swindler is possessed of large sums, which he is going to give to charity—generally he represents himself as a Roman Catholic presenting the money to the pope for distribution through the church.

Billfold With Paper.
The victim is asked to deliver the money, but as security he gives a smaller sum to the theoretical philanthropist—who then disappears, leaving the gullible one with a billfold filled with sheets of paper. Very often no complaint is made because the victim may himself have intended to make away with the money he believes is being handed to him, and thus fears to go into court, where his motive may be exposed.

Oddly enough, English swindlers find their easiest victims among hard headed business men. In their anxiety to increase their earnings, these men are often persuaded to put money into nonexistent enterprises which they expect will net them heavy profits. Such a case has lately been tried in the London courts, where a man who had been swindled of several thousand pounds through a fictitious stock market deal had the good fortune to meet the confidence man who had tricked him in the street. These two men had operated by letting him in on stock tips, one of the pair being represented as a well-known trader on the exchange. The dupe was first allowed to gain considerable profits, and when he grew bold and entrusted the pair with a large amount of money they decamped with it.

Net $60,000 From Miser.
The biggest swindler's coup so far this year has amounted to $200,000. It was not reported to the police, the victim preferring to stand the loss in preference to the ridicule.

One pair of swindlers worked for a long while on a man who was notorious for his meanness. With a bank account of $500,000, he once insisted that his wife walk a mile in the rain with him to save a cents bus fare. This man was entertained in a princely manner for a month, during which period he never even offered his "friends" a cigarette. They finally succeeded in swindling him of $30,000, but they complained that if he had been less close they would have gotten his entire fortune.

Women, oddly enough, are the most difficult persons to swindle through regular confidence methods, though they are susceptible to men who pose as being enamored of them. Only one major confidence game has been worked on a woman during the last year in England, so far as records show. In her case, the swindlers brought her over to London from Paris in a specially chartered airplane, a most modern way of rushing the victim to the stake, and here relieved her of $40,000.

Vienna's Death Rate Ahead of City's Births

Vienna.—In 250 years Vienna will be dead, according to the figures of a local mathematician.

At the present time the death rate exceeds the birth rate. Monthly figures show that deaths exceed births by an even 1,700.

Vienna's traditional suicide tendency is still on the increase. Last year the number of suicides, 880, surpassed the number of deaths, 867, caused from epidemics. At the present time there is an average of three suicides to every hundred deaths.

Disgusted Professor Seeks Prayer as Aid

Raleigh, N. C.—Prof. William H. Brown, Jr., recently spent a day in "humiliation and prayer," hoping it would bring up the scholastic average of his engineering class.

The North Carolina State college students who make up Professor Brown's class in electrical engineering averaged 12 1/2 per cent in an examination.

When they appeared for class recently they found this notice on the door:

"The papers from the class are the poorest I ever got in 20 years' teaching—it would be wise not to bother me for the rest of the week, which I must spend in humiliation and prayer."

"William H. Brown, Jr."

LIFE OF WEAVER SPARED BY GODS

Navajo Tom-Toms and Dance Save Rug Maker.

Flagstaff, Ariz.—As the beating of tom-toms reached a frenzied pitch and tired and worn dancers of the Navajo tribe were making last efforts to pacify angry gods, the wife of Hosteen George Baneroff, the greatest of Navajo ceremonial rug makers, emerged from her hogan—cured.

Her illness prompted medicine men to send their swiftest runners across deserts and through rock-walled canyons to call their people together to take part in weird ceremonials to appease the gods.

The medicine men had feared that she would be unable to finish the famous ceremonial rug on which she was working.

The weird pattern of the rug was known to no one but the ill blanket maker, and unless she lived, the medicine men opined, the anger of the gods would sweep down upon the desert grazing grounds of their people.

Throbbing tom-toms and huge beacon fires aided the swift Indian runners in calling their people together for the ceremonials, at a small trading post in the midst of desert wastes on the reservation near here.

Worried looks appeared on the faces of the tired dancers and ceremonial chiefs as a week passed, and the ill blanket weaver failed to come forth from her specially built hogan.

More runners were ordered to gather the people and bigger fires were lighted and frantic prayers made to the gods asking the maker of rugs be saved.

Just as the thumping of the tom-toms reached a splitting pitch and the frenzied dancers began to show signs of exhaustion, there came a sound from the chamber of the ill woman.

"Whoopee!" shouted the blanket maker, as she joined her tribesmen in the chanting prayer of thankfulness then started for her recovery.

Candy, Clothes Cleaning Takes Students' Money

St. Louis.—Fathers send their sons to school to eat ice cream and buy candy, and mothers send their daughters to have their clothes cleaned, it appears from an analysis of the purchasing powers and buying habits of Washington university students made public by the university authorities.

Washington men pamper their sweet teeth to the extent of $9,172.25 per month, according to the analysis. This is the largest single item of expenditure listed by the men.

Washington co-eds purchase a lot of "miscellaneous," according to the report, as this class led the list. The largest single tangible expenditure is $4,242.85 per month for clothes cleaning.

The fair ones spend $7,000 a month less than the men in the university city ice cream parlors and candy stores. The report fails to refute the argument of the men that of their $9,000 monthly expenditure for sundries and chocolates, the more dangerous of the species consume $8,000 worth.

The analysis reveals that 35 per cent of the men and 27 per cent of the women, drive cars to school daily.

Seek Atom Secret by Use of Powerful X-Ray

Pasadena, Calif.—An X-ray tube powerful enough to penetrate the nucleus of the atom and thus in time perhaps reveal important secrets to science, has been invented at the California Institute of Technology by Dr. R. E. Vollrath, it was announced recently.

The tube, which is two feet in diameter and six feet long, will create an energy of five or six million volts, it is claimed.

One of the difficulties to be overcome, Doctor Vollrath said, is to provide an effective screen for the super-powerful rays. Ordinarily commercial X-ray is stopped effectively with a lead shield, but the rays from Doctor Vollrath's tube at 1,000,000 volts pass through more than a foot of this substance.

It has been found impossible to photograph the new rays, because they pass entirely through existing photographic plates, leaving no image.

$3.50 a Week for Cat in Jersey Woman's Will

Hackensack, N. J.—A will probated by Surrogate J. H. Hopper names a cat as beneficiary. Bumble Bee, the pet of the late Miss Alice Judge of Bogota, has $3.50 a week to provide for its support, the cat being intrusted to Miss Elsie G. Hyden, a neighbor.

When Bumble Bee dies the body will be cremated, $200 having been provided for this purpose. The will also bequeaths $500 outright to Miss Hyden.

Keep Busy and You'll Find No Time to Nag

Rockport, Ind.—Advice to "keep busy" was offered by Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Stevenson, aged eighty-seven and eighty-five respectively, as they celebrated the sixty-sixth anniversary of their wedding here. To those who extend their congratulations on a union which has lasted 16 years past the gold wedding span, Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson said: "Keep busy at all times and you'll find no time to nag and quarrel in the home."

COMPLETE PLAN FOR INDIAN HOME FOUND

Rare Drawings Are Dug Up in Mississippi.

Washington.—The complete plan of a big circular Indian house has been excavated in a cotton field in Mississippi is the announcement made by Henry B. Collins, Jr., of the United States national museum. Mr. Collins, who has just returned from Mississippi, bringing a drawing of the house plans, said that this is the first discovery showing clearly how the prehistoric Indians of the southeast designed their buildings.

The house, which is in the frequently plowed cotton field of Claude Pepper near Deasonville, was recently recognized as an Indian site, when bones and potsherds were dug up by two young men working for the Mississippi department of archives and history. These men, Moreau Chambers and James Ford, invited Mr. Collins to work with them in excavating the site.

Posts for Roof Support.
The house plan shows three circles of post holes which were used for roof supports, Mr. Collins explained. The outermost circle is 60 feet in diameter. Tracing the circles with a string, as the Indians probably did in the first place, the archeologists found that the circles were perfectly laid out. The Indian house builders dug the three circles in shallow trenches and set the posts firmly two feet deep within the trenches. The wall of the structure was very likely of wattle-work of reeds plastered with clay, Mr. Collins explained. Traces of a fire pit were inside the house and also a square of post holes which provided additional roof supports and possibly set off an inner room.

The outermost trench was filled in with kitchen and household refuse, including bones of deer, bear and smaller animals, fish jaws, clam and mussel shells, arrow points, bone scrapers and awls, one pipe and much broken pottery. Some of the pottery is a red and white kind heretofore found only in Arkansas. The trash of an Indian settlement was usually piled in a heap, and it is difficult to account for this use of it to fill the trench, Mr. Collins said.

Skeletons in Mound.

One headless skeleton was unearthed in this trench. The tribe of Indians which built the house is not yet known. It is possible that this was one of the mound-building tribes, for several mounds rise above the fields within half a mile of the round house.

Excavations may be continued, Mr. Collins stated.

Great Swedish Fair Will Open Next May

Stockholm.—A minimum of 2,500,000 visitors is expected for the big Stockholm exhibition from May to September, 1930, according to Dr. Borje Brill-oth, head of the press and foreign relations department of the exhibition.

The preparatory work on the exhibition grounds at Djurgarden—the old deer park of the Swedish dynasty—within the precincts of Stockholm—is progressing satisfactorily and it is hoped that everything will be ready in the spring. In accordance with the official designation of the exposition as an exhibition of arts, crafts and home industries every attempt will be made to give visitors as complete a survey of what Sweden produces in these fields as is possible. The exhibits are intended to demonstrate the best results of Swedish technique in industrial and decorative art.

Will Ban Shooting of Big Game From Motors

London.—English sportsmen are determined to keep big game hunting sportsmanlike. The Earl of Onslow recently drew the attention of the house of lords to a practice of hunting big game by motor car in certain parts of Africa.

Lord Passfield, secretary for the colonies, said that legislation was to be introduced in Tanganyika to make the punishment for hunting from motor cars imprisonment and confiscation of the car and equipment.

Small Detail Costs Alien Fine of $500

Lackawanna, N. Y.—Boris Naumoff, native of Jugoslavia, is minus $500 because he overlooked a small detail.

Recently he applied to the immigration authorities for permission to enter his wife and their thirteen-month-old baby in this country. He told naturalization authorities he had not been out of the United States since 1913.

"How can you have a thirteen-month-old baby when you said you have been here since 1913?" he was asked.

That stumped him, so he admitted he had gone back to his native land, and was married there. He said he had trouble with the military laws and succeeded in coming back to America. He left his wife in Jugoslavia.

Judge Adler fined the man $500 and said he would recommend the man be allowed to remain in America.

Restless Children

Children will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always one sure way to comfort a restless, fretful child. Castoria! Harmless as the recipe on the wrapper; mild and bland as it tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than some powerful medicine that is meant for the stronger systems of adults.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is any need. In cases of colic, diarrhea, or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. But it has everyday uses all mothers should understand. A coated tongue calls for a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset—this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed to set everything to rights. Genuine Castoria has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Doctors prescribe it.

5218 Happy People Give up Their Secret

JUST suppose you could get 5000 joyously happy people together in one big hall and could ask them what made them all so full of pep. Suppose, strangely enough, that all of them had discovered the same way to be happy. You would feel that here, if anywhere in the world, was the secret of how to get joy out of life.

This is just what has happened during the last few weeks. We knew there were millions of people who had found the secret of happiness in the same way, and we asked them in one or two small announcements in the magazines and newspapers to tell us their story. Letters came to us from practically all over the globe.

All of them said "The secret of happiness is health."

How to get this health? The way that all of these people had discovered was not some magic medicine, not some powerful drug, not some difficult course of training—but only a simple, harmless, natural method. It was to keep the body internally clean, sweeping its natural poisons away each day, regularly as clock work—by the use of Nujol.

These people had made a great discovery. They had found out that Nujol contains no drugs; that it is tasteless and colorless as pure water; pleasant to take and forms no habit; that it cannot hurt you, no matter how much you take; that it is non-fattening; not absorbed by the body;

They have found the way to Buoyant, Zestful Health, and the Joy that goes with it that it is only the internal lubrication your body needs, just like any other machine.

It sounds like a fairy tale, doesn't it, to be well and happy so easily? Well, all you need to do to find out if these people have made a real discovery is to get a bottle of Nujol today at any drug store and take it for two weeks. It costs but a few cents and it makes you feel like a million dollars. The sure way to happiness is through health.

FAMILY DOCTOR MADE MILLIONS OF FRIENDS

Fifteen years after his graduation, Dr. Caldwell became famous for a single prescription, which now, after forty years, is still making friends.

Today Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the world's most popular laxative. Millions of people never think of using anything else when they're constipated, head achy, bilious, feverish or weak; when breath is bad, tongue coated, or they're suffering from nausea, gas, or lack of appetite or energy.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is made today according to the original formula, from herbs and other pure ingredients. It is pleasant-tasting; thorough in the most obstinate cases; gently effective for women and children. Above all, it represents a doctor's choice of what is safe for the bowels.

In a small Siberian village, a proposal was made to convert the church to a storehouse for grain. A number of the older peasants opposed this and daily chided Ivan Petrovich to go to Moscow to protest against this plan. He set out on foot, but it so happened that he met a Communist aviator who told him he would carry him to Moscow and back in his plane. Ivan Petrovich returned to his village. Surprised, his friends asked him how he had returned so quickly and why? He answered solemnly: "I went right up to heaven, and they are right, these young ones. There is no God, here is nothing but empty space. Let them take the church for a warehouse."—Indianapolis News.

Might Have Continued Talking "On Other Hand"

The Jews and Irish are targets for many a joke, with the Scotch a close second. Or maybe it's vice versa.

Cliff Edwards and I simply couldn't decide the question at luncheon recently, says the Hollywoodian in Film Fun. While on the subject we swapped many a story about all the nationalities concerned. One of Cliff's, which I believe too good to pass up, is the one about Jakie, a young Jewish lad, who was courting Rosie, a beautiful belle.

Jakie had one arm about her and with the other was gesticulating as was his custom.

"Rosie, I love you! I love you!" And wishing to further impress her with his sincerity, he added, "I love you even better than my business!"

But even so gallant a statement as that apparently did not satisfy Rosie, for she asked, "Is that all, Jakie?"

"Oh, no," he insisted, with a befitting gesture, "on the other hand, there's a lot more I could say."

Steam, superheated in a drum, which is really a boiler inside another boiler, will be used in one cylinder at 900 lbs. pressure, then mixed with steam from a low pressure boiler working at a pressure of 250 lbs. The engine is of the three-cylinder compound type.

FITTED PRINCESS SILHOUETTE; CALL OF THE SPRING MODE

AFTER all, it is the simplest frocks which are usually the loveliest. At least that is the message which the exquisite gown of white moire in the picture conveys.

This lovely princess frock can scarcely be said to be of the oft-sung "sweet simplicity" type. Rather does its every line bespeak that "sophisticated simplicity" so eagerly sought.

Least the technique of the modelled-to-figure princess lines with their low-placed flares prove too severe, designers are adding a softening note in the way of a huge bow placed either at one hip as illustrated, or at some latest call of the mode is for the suit which features the jacket with a shoulder cape and a collarless neckline. The model in second illustration is thus fashioned. Two-toned yellow tweeds are used in its development.

The tweeds and novelty woolsens employed for the new suits and ensembles are for the most part very colorful. Such high colors as red, violet grayish greens, blues and pinkish tones are sponsored by leading stylists.

Not only are jackets and top coats made with capes but the majority of one-piece cloth street frocks usually flaunt capes. Sometimes the cape is other equally as advantageous point. Repeatedly, these enormous bows enhance the formal evening silhouette. They are for the most part of self-material.

The hemline of the white moire gown pictured is interesting for the reason that it is even, or at least, very nearly so, all around. The newest modes call for even hemlines rather than the pointed, jagged and generally erratic effects.

If there is any fabric which yields more beguilingly than moire to the new princess evening silhouettes, dressmakers and couturiers have yet to find it. Of course, the moire pastels are good to look upon, and their number is legion, but there is that about the all-white moires which spells enchantment to even a greater degree. Now that the charming blonde, Princess Marie Jose selected white moire for one of the frocks in her merely a little shoulder affair attached to the jacket or coat, then again the cape is made a separate item to serve in place of either jacket or coat. In fact all signs point to a widespread vogue for cape-and-skirt costumes.

The tweed ensembles which have a cape are stunning. Usually, the skirt of very colorful loosely-woven soft tweed is plaited or cut circular, for there must be a flare. The blouse of crepe, shantung or challis favors the tuck-in type. As to the cape, the smartest are three-quarter length.

Some of the most arresting models among the new caped versions top a one-piece sports dress of handsome cloth with a cape of self fabric, the same plaited into a yoke, the skirt flare repeating the plaits.

Whether it be a jacket suit or a two-piece ensemble which is caped it is apt to abound in interesting "dressmaker touches." That is the severely tailored types are outnumbered by those which exploit clever manipulation in the way of tucks, godets, fancy insets, applied bands of self fabric which are generously stitched, fancy contrast pipings and other intriguing manipulation which makes for effective styling.

Stunning ensembles are fashioned of lace-woven Jersey, which in turn is trimmed with plain Jersey, the latter criss-crossed in delightful bands and forming fanciful borderings. Quite a few of these Jersey models have capes which also combine the lace-patterned with the plain.

Cape Theme Emphasized. Throughout spring styling, emphasis is placed on the cape theme. The

SAVORY AND SWEET BUTTERS

With butter as a base, one may prepare various spreads that will add much to a sandwich; then there are butter balls which, served with bread at the table, will add to any menu. With a crisp lettuce leaf or a slice or two of pickle or cucumber one has a tasty sandwich always on tap. The butters are kept in jars in the ice chest and will keep for some time.

Crab or Lobster Butter.—Pound to a paste one small can of lobster or crab, or its equivalent of cooked fresh fish. Season lightly with pepper. When using this butter for sandwich filling spread one-half the bread with mayonnaise and the other with the crab mixture, add a lettuce leaf or slice of cucumber and serve.

Sardine Butter.—Take one-fourth cupful of butter, four large sardines skinned and boned and one teaspoonful of lemon juice. Pound these into a smooth paste. When using for sandwich filling spread one-half the bread with the paste and the other half with a thin layer of minced onion or mashed hard cooked egg.

Cheese Butter.—Mash together one-half cupful of American cheese and one-half cupful of butter. Spread one-half the sandwich with tart jelly and the other with the cheese mixture. Crackers or saltines may be used, and any snappy cheese.

Orange Butter.—Beat to a cream one-fourth pound of butter, the yolks of three eggs, one cupful of powdered sugar, the grated rind and juice of an orange. Cook over hot water, stirring all the time until the mixture is thick.

Shrimp Butter.—Take one cupful of cooked shrimps, salt and a few dashes of cayenne. Pound in a mortar, mix with an equal portion of butter and one-fourth cupful of lemon juice or tarragon vinegar to moisten.

SOUR CREAM NOODLES

As often sour milk and cream accumulates, one must be alert to make the best use of such valuable food.

Johnny cake is one of the best of hot breads to use the sour milk or cream. If one has cream, the shortening or left out entirely.

Sour milk and sour cream may take the place of the sweet milk in any recipe when using flour. A bit of soda, often not more than an eighth of a teaspoonful need be added and the usual baking powder used as in the recipe for sweet milk. It is better to stir the soda into the sour milk or cream, seeing that it is well dissolved, before adding to the flour and egg mixture.

When sour cream is to be substituted for fat, one must remember that it takes the place of some of the liquid as well as fat. A very little experience will enable one to judge of the richness of cream and the exchange when using it instead of butter.

Another point to be remembered is that sour milk needs a bit more thickening than sweet, as the lactic acid acts on the gluten of the flour, softening it.

Sour Cream Cakes.—Take one cupful of thick sour cream, add three-eighths of a teaspoonful of soda, stir until it is foamy. Add one cupful of sugar and beat well until creamy and well mixed. Break two eggs into the mixture and beat again. Mix and sift two cupfuls of flour with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one-half teaspoonful of salt; stir gradually into the mixture. Add one-half teaspoonful of vanilla or lemon extract. Drop into well-greased gem pans and bake until brown. A raisin may be added to each and the tops sprinkled with sugar and nutmeg or cinnamon, if one likes.

Sour Cream Spice Cakes.—Add to the above recipe one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoonful each of allspice and cloves. Sift these with the flour.

Sugar Cookies.—Take one cupful of sugar, one egg, one cupful of thick sour cream, one-half teaspoonful of soda, flour to roll—about two cupfuls—two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of lemon extract and a grating of nutmeg. Mix and roll out only a portion at a time. Brush the cookies with milk and sprinkle with coarse sugar. Bake ten minutes in a hot oven. This amount makes three dozen thin cookies two and one-half inches in diameter.

Chocolate Drop Cookies.—Take one cupful of brown sugar, one egg, one cupful of thick sour cream, one-half teaspoonful each of soda and salt, three-fourths of a cupful of nutmeats, one and one-half cupfuls of whole wheat flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder, three squares of chocolate and three-fourths of a cupful of raisins. Mix and drop by teaspoonfuls on baking sheet. Bake at lower temperature than sugar cookies. This recipe makes three dozen.

Girl at the Top in Health Test

Millions of boys and girls all over the world, thousands of them right here in the West are being restored to health and strength by the purely vegetable tonic and laxative known as California Fig Syrup and endorsed by physicians for over 50 years.

Children need no urging to take it. They love its rich, fruity flavor. Nothing can compete with it as a gentle, but certain laxative, and it goes further than this. It gives tone and strength to the stomach and bowels so these organs continue to act normally, of their own accord. It stimulates the appetite, helps digestion.

A Kansas mother, Mrs. Dana Allgire, 610 Monroe St., Topeka, says: "Bonnie B. is absolutely the picture of health, now, with her ruddy cheeks, bright eyes and plump but graceful little body and she stands at the top in every health test."

Much of the credit for her perfect condition is due to California Fig Syrup. We have used it since babyhood to keep her bowels active during colds or any children's ailments and she has always had an easy time with them. She always responds to its gentle urging and is quickly back to normal."

Ask your druggist for California Fig Syrup and look for the word "California" on the carton so you'll always get the genuine.
