

"Northwest Passage" To Be Featured At Palace With Spencer Tracy, Robert Young

"Northwest Passage" will be featured at the Palace Theatre Saturday midnight, continuing through Sunday and Monday.

Filmed entirely in Technicolor, the picture is the result of two years' careful planning by Producer Hunt Stromberg for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. To obtain the most picturesque, rugged backgrounds possible to duplicate those in Kenneth Roberts' best-selling historical adventure drama, the studio sent the entire troupe to Idaho for six weeks of location. It added a few early story sequences at the studio.

As Rogers, Tracy has the most rugged role of his career and as colorful as those which won him awards in "Captains Courageous" and "Boys Town." Brennan, twice winner of best supporting role awards, has a character role of opportunity and Young's part as the young artist is by far the best ever given him.

Ritz To Feature "The Man From Dakota"

A new screen team comprising Wallace Beery, popular comedian-heavy; Delores Del Rio, vibrant Latin-American actress; and John Howard, rapidly advancing young leading man, make its bow in "The Man From Dakota," which will be featured at the Ritz Theatre Saturday midnight continuing through Sunday and Monday.

As a Yankee prisoner of war who escapes the Confederate prison camp at Belle Isle, Beery plays a typical action-filled role, encountering one melodramatic predicament after another with his two companions. Miss Del Rio portrays a Russian girl who becomes a fugitive after shooting a Confederate officer, her former fiancé. Howard appears as Beery's young and idealistic superior officer, who escapes with him.

Heading the supporting cast are such noted character actors as Donald Meek, forsaking comedy for villainy; Robert Barrat, Addison Richards, Frederick Burton, William F. Haege and John Wray. Leslie Pencon directed, with Edward Chodorov producing.

FASHION for today BY PATRICIA DOW

THREE-PIECE ENSEMBLE

It's a three-piece ensemble, really, because 8644 includes a skirt, a bolero and a separate blouse in which girls between the ages of 8 and 13 will feel very dressed-up indeed. It's a softly tailored style that they wear particularly well.

The blouse is tucked on the shoulders so that it is becomingly full and has a little round collar. The bolero clears the wastline by just enough to enhance its slimmness.

The circular skirt is very graceful, and buttons onto the blouse, a detail which will be welcomed by young wearers. Make this up first in wool crepe, with blouse of linen or silk crepe. Later it will be pretty in silk print and street cottons.

Pattern No. 8644 is designed for sizes 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16 years.

Pattern 8651—First of all, make yourself a new jacket fashion like this new design (8651). Created especially for women's sizes, the dress has exactly the right high-busted, slim-hipped lines to make you look lissome and youthful of figure. The bodice is cleverly detailed, with yoke, gathers and bands of contrast, in such a way that the pretty part shows even when you have the jacket on.

The jacket is a particularly good style for women's figures, too, with its narrow revers, smooth shoulders and slanting pockets. It's just long enough to minimize the size of your hips. Thin wool, flat crepe and faille are immediate materials for this design, which will be lovely in sheers and cotton later on.

Pattern No. 8651 is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48.

Early Action Expected

In a letter, Congressman George Mahon, through whose efforts the structure was obtained, said that unless unexpected irregularity develops, the contract should be let at the time bids are opened.

Under authority of the construction program act, approved June 21, 1938, 70,000 was allotted to include cost of the site, building and administration. Later the City of Littlefield decided to the government a site for the location. Because of clauses in the dedication of the plot to public purposes not conforming to governmental requirements, it was necessary to have a hearing in U. S. district court at Lubbock to straighten out the technicalities.

Morning Services At Palace

During the two weeks revival, morning services will be held each day at the Palace Theatre, beginning Monday, March 25. Services will open at 10 o'clock and close at 11, according to Rev. Shahan, who stated that the morning services would be promptly dismissed at 11 to allow business people to take advantage of the meeting.

Evening services during the week days will be held in the various churches cooperating, beginning at the regular hour for such services.

Announce By Fire Alarm

Rev. Shahan also reported that by special arrangements with Bob Cox, Fire Chief, the fire alarm will sound two blasts at 9:45 a. m. each week day to announce opening of the morning services.

have their co-operation in bringing about the two greatly needed facilities.

Present Facilities Limited

The need for a community center was manifested last week end, when 2,000 people attended the FFA and 4-H Stock Show here Saturday, and more than 2500 persons were here for the singing convention Sunday. The stock show was held on a vacant lot on Phelps avenue, but the close quarters did not keep the affair from being a huge success. Club boys in the county have already started planning to exhibit more and better animals in a show here next year, and local merchants are already beginning to plan for this show. Included in these plans will probably be a community center, with a building that can serve the purpose of an auditorium, and suitable pens and stalls for the animals.

The singing convention was held in the High school auditorium that has a seating capacity of only about 600.

In the past year, several conventions could have been held in Littlefield, if a building for meetings and demonstrations had been provided. Therefore, these conventions were held in other towns on the South Plains.

One local business man made the remark Tuesday that he would give at least $100 towards the building of a community center. Others would probably make similar offers.

There are many advantages in having a community center. Farmers in the county have at least five meetings a year, discussing plans and problems, and they need a convenient place to hold these meetings. Littlefield churches have always provided places for banquets, but the floor space is limited.

The annual band clinic could conveniently be held in a municipal auditorium.

Political rallies, and numerous club meetings could be held in an auditorium.

The idea of building a community center originated a number of years ago, but the need for one is realized more now than ever before.

The Lamb County Calf, Sheep, Pig Show in Littlefield Saturday was declared a huge success by officials of the local Chamber of Commerce, the county agent and agent, and 4-H and FFA sponsors.

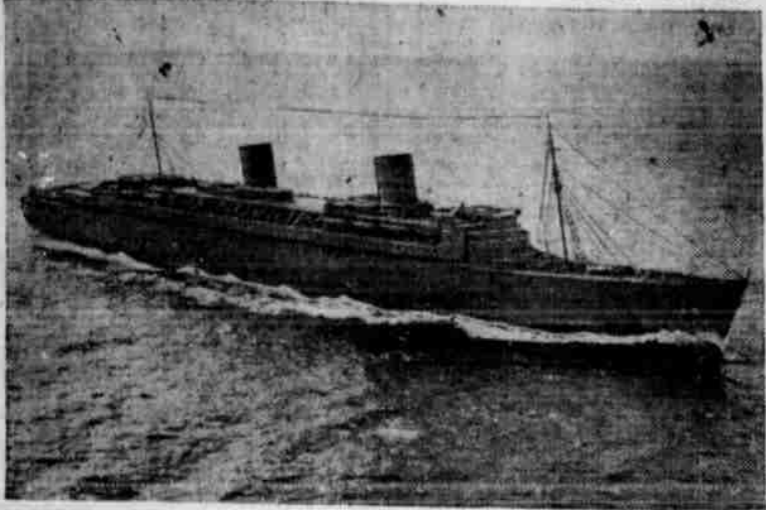

Some of the very best animals shown in the county were seen in the largest crowds of spectators and their friends assembled in several years.

The Cotton Exhibit, sponsored by the county Home Demonstration agent and girls 4-H clubs, and Mrs. Perry, home demonstration agent, displayed the uses of cotton in homes, and was enjoyed by a large number of people.

President Joined By Holland Queen In Peace Appeal

President Roosevelt Saturday, over a world-wide broadcast, set forth a list of ideals of international organization, without which, he said, no peace can be made on a lasting basis.

Queen Wilhelmina of Holland also took part in the program which was held in connection with the Christian foreign service convocation in New York.

"Today we seek a moral basis for peace," Mr. Roosevelt said. "It cannot be a real peace if it fails to recognize brotherhood. It cannot be a lasting peace if the fruit of it is oppression, or starvation, or cruelty, or human life dominated by armed camps.

"It cannot be a sound peace if small nations must live in fear of powerful neighbors. It cannot be a moral peace if freedom from invasion is sold for tribute. It cannot be an intelligent peace if it denies free passage to that knowledge of those ideals which permit men to find common ground. It cannot be a righteous peace if worship of God is denied."

The president's statement suggested to some observers here that it might form the basis of administrative thinking should the opportunity come for an attempt to bring about peace.

Mr. Roosevelt made clear that he thought an end would come to use of force in international relations.

Queen Wilhelmina, broadcasting from the Hague, expressed the hope that mankind may "learn to see through the eyes of Christ and by so doing overcome all ideas, sentiments and conditions that keep men at present so widely apart from each other."

Local Masons Assist In Conferring Degrees

E. S. Rowe, Grand Visitor for Masonic Chapters and Councils of the 38th District, accompanied by F. O. Boles, a member of the Committee on Work of the Masonic Grand Chapter and Grand Council, went to Ralls on business for the Grand Council, R. & S. M., Friday afternoon.

They returned to Lubbock Friday night and attended a Council Assembly at that place and assisted in conferring the Council degrees on 13 candidates. Eleven councils of West Texas were represented by about 140 members at this meeting and many other Grand Officers were present.

REA Lines May Be Extended

A large group of farmers and business men met at Olton recently to make a report to officials on the Lamb County Electric Cooperative, concerning the signers for the proposed REA line to extend in the north part of Lamb county.

O. K. Woodall and J. B. Payne of the local office, and H. N. Roberts, Lubbock, engineer for the REA project in this county were among those attending.

Your scribe has heard that the scriptures say "the time will come when you can not tell winter from summer only by the falling of the leaves and the budding of the trees." Salvation Army To Join Other Churches In Two Weeks Revival

As announced by Capt. Eula Trummel, in charge of the local unit, the Salvation Army is planning to join in the city wide revival, which will get underway Easter Sunday morning, March 24, and continue until April 7.

Envoy Vansickle of Lubbock and Capt. Anderson of Plainview will come to Littlefield to assist with the Army's meetings, which will be held each night for the two weeks.

Street meetings will also be continued each afternoon about 4:15, of which Capt. Trummel will have charge. Other pastors of the city will be invited to assist in these street meetings.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our thanks and appreciation to our many friends and neighbors for all the nice things they have said and done to help us during the long illness of the husband and father of our family. At the time of this writing he is much improved, and better than he was the first of last week.

We cannot mention all the nice things everyone has done to help us, but among the many things that have been done, the men of the County Line, Pep and Pettit communities listed our land, and the women of the same communities cooked dinner and brought it to our home, where they and the men all had lunch together.

In our humble way, we thank everyone and may God bless all of you.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Myers and Family.

Easter Pageant

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah—Unlike most Easter ceremonies which are held at dawn, reverent natives of Utah will re-enact the life, crucifixion, and resurrection of Jesus Christ on Easter Sunday as dusk falls in the colorful Zion Canyon of Zion National Park. This spectacle attracts thousands of people from all parts of the country each year. The principal roles are played by the same persons every year. The Christus, as played by Grant H. Redford is shown here praying in the Garden of Gethsemane.

up to the Circle V line along Turkey Gulch, I bought in the Rancho Ceballos when the old man died and installed an agent there."

"Why," Lee's voice demanded, "when you put in your manager, did you pick out a crook like Slanty Gano?"

"We took Gano on," said Bradish crisply, "because he knew too much. He found us in Number Three tunnel, using picks and putting samples in our grub sacks. It couldn't be helped, but it was a bad move. Gano was a quarrelsome loafer who turned out to be a scoundrel and a murderer. Nobody regrets that more than I do, but I'm not responsible for his actions." Lee was looking at Stanley and slowly opening a little sheaf of papers.

"There is one more thing. A few days ago you made accusations which no man can overlook. You got your information from Slanty Gano. There was a thousand dollar bill in his pocket when he was caught and we know where it came from. But there was also something else which Slanty had stolen from Matt Blair's desk the night he killed him."

"He told me of his own accord," said Stanley angrily, "that you were Blair's son and that he could prove it."

"If you showed him your money first, he'd tell you anything you wanted to hear. I'm not Matt Blair's son. I'm not Virginia's brother, and Slanty knew it. I happen to be—yours. And I'm not proud of it."

A chair rasped. Bradish leaped forward, staring at Lee.

"My mother," said Lee steadily, looking straight at Bradish this time, "was Anita Ceballos, Don Luis' daughter, the girl you married secretly when you were down and out and deserted when you saw better fortune within your reach."

"I didn't know," Bradish said heavily. "She never told me that there was a child. I give you my word of honor—"

"I'd rather you didn't. Honor didn't count when you deserted my mother. You don't have to explain any circumstances. They're all there."

He pointed to the papers under his hand. They lay in a time-yellowed drift on the desk.

Bradish arose. It was the slow, heavy move of a beaten man.

"All right," he said, his voice expressionless. "I suppose I had it coming to me."

Joey's voice cut in: "An' now ye kin go. There's yore car. Get in it quick, for if ye star here another five minutes I'll throw a gun on ye myself!"

It was a silent going. Stanley reached the car first and slipped hurriedly into the driver's seat. Bradish followed his son—the only son he dared own.

The engine throbbed, the car shot forward.

Silence came, and then the stir of relaxed tension. Lee raised his head, bent moodily as he had watched the fleeting car. Ling stood before him, looking like a benevolent old idol in weathered ivory.

"Breakfast, Lee?"

"That sounds good to me, Ling. Breakfast for everybody, the best you ever got. Maria will help you."

He waved a friendly hand to the men outside and walked slowly back. Virginia was beside him, wanting him to lean on her shoulder.

Joey lingered for a moment, with a gulp of emotion, and then he went out on tiptoe.

"It's over," Lee said in a tired voice. "Thank God. We're starting again with a clean slate. . . . Honey—come here!"

She came blindly, shaking under the release from days of intolerable strain. . . . "Oh my dear, my dear!"

The last whisper of the closing door left them alone.

Schedule Blanks For Farm Census Available

Sample copies of the Farm and Ranch schedule blanks for the 16th Farm Census of the United States, may be obtained from the Extension Office at Amherst, V. F. Jones, county agent reported last week.

Mr. Jones asks every farmer in Lamb county to get one of these sample copies, so the rural people will know what answers to give to the census enumerator, who will start to work in this county April 1.

To simplify the enumerating as well as the tabulating work, the farm census machinery has been ingeniously streamlined. The master schedule, containing 232 pertinent agricultural questions, has been broken down into nine regionalized schedules, each covering a group of states growing related crops.

It is the suggestion that the interest be lowered to 4 per cent. Any change of this kind would affect old loans made drawing over 4 per cent.

The riddle of the Hitler-Mussolini rendezvous in Brenner pass remains unsolved, despite frantic speculation throughout the capitals of Europe, but one grimly significant revelation stands out.

SPORTS PARADE

By JIMMIE PARKER

Baseball season is almost here. Littlefield to hold invitation meet... Spade will hold boxing tournament...

Baseball season is just around the corner and it looks as though Littlefield will be out of the sport year unless a good "cow pas" can be located to bed down...

Manager Durwood Howell, of the year's club, reported a while back that the chances for an outstanding team this year were highly probable. Several good ball players moved here during the past months and are raring to play. The club last year just about over any and all opposition confronted it, and this year it is rumored that they would enter tournaments to be held in Lubbock some time in the late summer. Anyone knows of a good cow pas that could be converted into a baseball field, please get in touch with this corner as we would like to see some more good baseball played this year like we had last season.

The Littlefield High school will have an invitation track meet under the lights, at Seely Field, Friday night, March 22, at 8 o'clock.

The following schools have been invited: Amherst, Anton, Dimmitt, Farwell, Friona, Levelland, Olton, Spring Lake, Sudan and Whitharral. Events will include 100 and 220 yard dashes; 440 and 880 yard runs; 1 mile relay; high jump, broad jump, and 120 yard high hurdles. Admission charges of 10 and 20 cents will be made to help finance the County Interscholastic League meet.

Spade will hold a boxing tournament some time next week. Everyone is urged to look for the formal announcement and attend this spectacular show of fisticuffs.

They are promising plenty of good fights and lots of gory action.

McKnight Loses Stride, Falls In 120 Yard High Hurdles

Maxie McKnight lost his stride after jumping the last hurdle in the Southwestern Exposition Fat Stock Show Meet, in Fort Worth.

McKnight stood a good chance of winning third place in the finals of this race until he lost his footing and when he fell he lost our entire lead.

Maxie qualified in the preliminaries, and semi-finals to gain a foothold in the finals. There were only five other boys left in the finals of this race out of 49.

McKnight is really expected to give the boys of this section a run for their money in the district meet. His showing in the Fort Worth meet verified the fact that he would be a dangerous opponent.

Spade School Will Have Boxing Program

The Spade High school will hold a boxing program in their gymnasium during the latter part of next week. There will be about eight bouts on the program, and anyone who wants to may enter their name in the matches.

There will be a small admission charge of 10 and 15 cents to everyone. This money will be used for the graduating seniors' trip to Santo Fe, New Mexico.

Southern Auto Store Has Big Display Leonard Refrigerators

A large stock of refrigerators is on display at the Southern Auto Store, where various models of the new 1940 Leonard Refrigerators are on display.

"Every 1940 Leonard refrigerator provides all the basic features of modern refrigeration," Dodd Weatherly, local manager of the Southern Auto Store, declared. "The new models combine smart styling and quality workmanship."

Mr. Weatherly stated that a five-year protection plan is offered to the people in this territory, for convenience and economy.

Littlefield Golf Club Has More Than 30 Members

Approximately 30 persons have signed up for membership in the Littlefield Golf club, and considerable improvements have been made on the golf course, located in the Duggan addition.

Dr. J. R. Coen was elected president of the organization at a meeting recently, and T. A. Hilburn was named secretary and treasurer. The board of directors includes Dr. Wm. N. Orr, Pryor Hammons, J. A. Lilly and J. V. Eagan.

Several people from Amherst have joined the local club, and others will probably join in the near future.

Forrest Moore has been employed as greens-keeper and general manager of the golf links. A clubhouse was moved on the course last week, and concessions will be sold through the summer.

Memberships are $10 a year.

Cochran Organize Board Of County Development

At a meeting Friday night, March 15th, in the Courthouse at Morton, citizens representing the different communities of Cochran county organized the Board of Development of Cochran county.

James St. Clair, Morton, was elected president; Tom Williams, Bledsoe, 1st vice president; M. D. Nichols, Lehman, 2nd vice-president; and R. C. Marshall, Morton, secretary-treasurer.

Committees for the following activities were appointed by the President: Goodwill, Publicity, Farming and Ranching, Highways and Roads, Bank, Membership, Constitution and Bylaws, and Finance. Committee members come from all parts of the county and represent the cross-section of business and agricultural vocations.

Officers at the meeting stated the purpose of the organization to be the progressive development in industry, business and agriculture of Cochran county and expressed the hope that the County Board of Development accomplishes many worthwhile and beneficial projects affecting the entire section.

Must Register Automobile In County Owner Resides

As announced by I. B. Holt, tax collector and assessor, for the convenience of the residents of the various rural communities of the county, he will visit the following places on the dates stated:

Pleasant Valley, Monday, March 25. Pep, Tuesday, March 26. Beck's Gin, Thursday, March 28. Fieldton, Friday, March 29.

The deadline on using 1939 tags is April 1, according to Mr. Holt, who stated that the law requires that a person register his motor vehicle in the county in which he resides.

May 31 Deadline For AAA Applications

No more applications for agricultural conservation payments or for range conservation payments under the 1939 AAA program can be accepted after May 31.

This deadline is final, according to a ruling of the state Agricultural Conservation association committee, which declared that "no exceptions will be made."

At the same time the committee called attention to the following closing dates:

March 31, final date for filing requests for reconstitution of farms and for designating non-general allotment farms;

May 1, deadline for filing application to participate in the 1940 range and agricultural conservation programs.

Amherst Junior Class To Present Comedy Tuesday

When the curtain rises on the first act of "High Pressure Homer" the evening of March 26 at the Amherst high school auditorium, the Woodruff family will be revealed in all their mad glory. For each and every member of this family has a hobby, and nobody will be able to resist howling with glee at their mad pranks. Everyone will be greatly amused at the character of Homer Hampton Haywood, a young show-off, who, in spite of his good opinion of himself, makes a hopeless mess of everything he tackles—and he tackles plenty of things during the three acts of the play. In fact, the audience will be amused at the actions of the whole Woodruff family, in whose house the action takes place. They are entirely different and refreshing.

The Junior Class of Amherst high school is presenting the play for proceeds for our annual Junior-Senior banquet. The juniors have worked hard on "High Pressure Homer," and believe the public will enjoy its performance, especially since the admission prices are only ten, fifteen, and twenty-five cents. The class is looking for everybody to be with us Tuesday night, March 26, 8 o'clock, at the Amherst high school auditorium. They promise one of the most amusing and entertaining evenings.

Free Picture Show To Present Farming In Many Countries

A. C. Williams, president of The Federal Land Bank, will present motion pictures in natural colors showing agricultural practices in England, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland and Germany at the Palace Theatre in Littlefield at 2 p. m., Monday, March 25. The show is to be sponsored by the Littlefield National Farm Loan association, and according to J. S. Hilliard, secretary-treasurer, will be free to everyone.

The pictures were taken by Mr. Williams, who made an extended cotton study tour of the countries of Northern Europe in company with a group of students from Texas A. & M. College. During the showing of the pictures, Mr. Williams will discuss agricultural methods in these foreign countries and explain a number of interesting scenes.

The Littlefield National Farm Loan association is particularly anxious to have as many of the 4-H boys and girls together with their parents attend this show in order that they may see the methods of farming in these countries.

As the show will begin at 2 o'clock it will be over in time for the boys and girls from the Littlefield school to catch their busses home at 4 o'clock.

Formal Opening J. I. Case Dealers Saturday

Case tractors and other implements, is scheduled for Saturday, March 23, and farmers and landowners of this section are invited to attend Open House, to be held in the Rumback building, next door to the West Texas Gas Co.

An interesting, entertaining and educational program has been planned for Saturday, at which time the 1940 Case tractors will be demonstrated. A motion picture will be shown throughout the day, and free coffee and cake will be served.

Bill Burch, Clovis, New Mexico, and district manager for the Case Farm Implements, will be here Saturday.

Mr. Ferguson is assisted in the local office by his daughter, Miss Lillian Ferguson, who is bookkeeper.

A complete line of tractor and other implement parts are in stock in the local establishment. See their advertisement elsewhere in this paper for an outstanding value on plow points.

John A. Connell, brother-in-law of Mr. Hopping, was in the trailer cleaning several typewriters when the explosion occurred. Mr. Connell escaped from the trailer uninjured, only his hair being slightly singed.

There were a number of typewriters, a large stock of supplies, and mechanical equipment in the trailer. The loss, estimated by Mr. Connell at several thousand dollars, was partially covered by insurance.

A South Plains Garden

Typical of the home food production work carried on by home demonstration club women and 4-H club girls on the South Plains in cooperation with county home demonstration agents and the Texas A. and M. Extension Service is this fine garden in Lubbock county. Shown are Elizabeth Brooks, assistant home demonstration agent of Lubbock county, and Mrs. Fred Kveton. To statements that vegetable production is impracticable in that section, the Kvetons point out an acre of field garden, the fine home garden shown, a frame garden for out-of-season production, and a pantry stocked with hundreds of cans of home-grown products.

Last Rites For Mrs. D. H. Collins Held Thursday A. M.

Mrs. D. H. Collins, 72, mother of L. L. Collins, manager of the Littlefield Truck & Tractor company, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sidney Smith, at 10:30 Wednesday morning, March 13, as the result of heart trouble from which she had been ailing for sometime.

Mrs. Collins, whose home was in Floydada, had only been in Austin two weeks when death came. She was taken to Austin in an effort to improve her health.

Funeral services were conducted Thursday morning at 11 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Smith, with Dr. Posey, pastor of the First Baptist church of Austin, officiating. Interment took place in the Austin cemetery.

Besides her daughter, Mrs. Smith, and her step-son, L. L. Collins, she was survived by two other step-children, T. P. Collins and Miss Ruth Collins, both of Floydada, and several sister and brothers.

Mr. and Mrs. Collins of Littlefield left here the Sunday morning previous to Mrs. Collins' death, returning here Friday.

Rock Caused Hole In Gas Tank; Takes Four Hours To Repair

Accompanying Mrs. J. S. Hilliard in her car to Lubbock Thursday, and spending the day there were: Mrs. Ben Poncher, Mrs. S. G. Underwood, Mrs. Ira Woods and Mrs. J. G. Singer.

Enroute home they were unfortunate enough to have the car hit a rock with the wheel, and it flew up against the gas tank with such force as to make a hole in the tank. They soon discovered the damage, and at once started back to Lubbock to have the tank repaired. On the return trip nearly all the 20 gallons of gas in the car leaked out, and they barely reached the garage for repairs before they lost all the gas.

Mrs. Hilliard said it required four hours to repair the damage, and they all reached Littlefield about 8:30 at night.

CHAPTER XIV

SYNOPSIS
Hollister returns unexpectedly on a trip abroad to find Matt Blair's foster father and owner Circle V ranch, dead by his hand. The ranch is going to Virginia, and Matt's daughter, Virginia, owner of the ranch, is living in New York with the Archers, her uncle. Her uncle wants to sell the ranch to Milton Bradish, one time Matt's associate. She persuades Virginia to return to the ranch. Her aunt follows her, accompanied by Stanley, son of Bradish. Stanley tries to dislodge Lee in Virginia's eyes. One day, Josefa Ramirez, who is one of Lee's interests in Virginia, dances for Lee and throws into his arms just as Virginia passes with Stanley. Stanley, Josefa, and is shot from the back. Virginia becomes jealous and sells the ranch to Milton Bradish. Lee proposes to Virginia, and she is sorry she sold the ranch. Lee tries to get back and Bradish that Matt Blair gave half interest in it, making the sale illegal. Lee disappears and a search is begun for Virginia, riding alone, examining the cave-in Bonanza, and suddenly a human hand protrudes through the earth.

helplessness. She jumped to her feet and ran fleetly back to the entrance remembering those riding men. "Sst!" The warning sibilance brought her up sharply, almost at the tunnel's mouth. There was a rustle in the scrub out there, and Slanty Gano lurched through. "Shut up!" he said savagely. She backed hastily away, sick with a new terror. Slanty Gano knew that Lee was back there, and he meant to kill her if she gave an alarm. Huge paws caught and dragged her, hot breath on her neck as she twisted her head away for anza tunnel." The knife had been taken away from Slanty, but someone produced it and handed it over. "Open it." Curly complied, showing two wicked looking blades. One of them was broken at the tip. Francisco was helping Lee take a bit of folded paper from his pocket and opening it to show a triangular bit of metal. Curly laid the scrap against the broken blade. It fitted. Slanty moistened his lips. "Slanty Gano, I accuse you of the murder of Matt Blair."

"That's the man," said Lee Hollister.

the one sure thing that would bring those riding men at top speed, a woman's frantic screams.

They ripped through the air like knives, keen with mortal terror, choking out as brutal hands gripped her throat. But she had done it— "Help! Lee! Lee!"

From the far side of the ridge answering yells came. Slanty stopped only long enough to fling her from him as he leaped for the shelter of the scrub.

A little later men were digging and scooping with anything they could find.

That night a group of men rode into Turkey Gulch toward the light of a campfire, carrying a prisoner with them. On the other side of the fire a man was being lifted to his feet. A ghostly figure, swathed in bandages, gaunt and hollow-eyed. A dead man risen.

"That's the man," said Lee Hollister. "Lawler didn't have anything to do with it."

There was a stir toward Slanty, but Lee had not finished. His voice was low, but they heard it.

"First I'll take that knife you were using, back there in the Bon-

A murmur ran through the group like a low growl, but Lee went on. "I never believed that Matt committed suicide. When I came back I found that knife point, nearly hidden in a crack in the drawer of the desk where Matt worked.

Lee swayed, fighting weakness, but his tired voice went on.

"You shot Matt Blair as he lay asleep in his chair, with everybody gone to the barbecue, and then you fired a shot from his own gun and dropped it beside him.

"Now, Slanty, we'll hear your confession."

"Confess nothin'! What about the fella that's been payin' me? Ye don't dare go after him, Lee Hollister!"

"I'm going after him now," said Lee, and sagged suddenly between the men who held him.

A little later two processions left. One, silent and unsmiling, went toward the county seat. The other, with strong and gentle hands, carried Lee to the ranch house and Virginia, who waited for him.

Through the rest of the night, Lee lay in the heavy sleep of weakness, barely rousing when the doctor came or when cups of strong hot broth were fed to him.

Others tiptoed in and out. A little after midnight Curly and Francisco came in.

Curly bent down and cautiously slid a flat packet under the pillow. "It's Lee's. Better tell him about it, Miss Virginia, as soon as he wakes up."

Toward morning news came. Slanty Gano, desperate, had taken the desperate way out.

"Pretended he was dozin' off," the messenger said, "and then busted out like a crazy man. Grabbed a deppity's gun, handcuffs and all, and went down shootin'."

Dawn found Lee awake, insisting that he was strong enough to get up. They let him sit up in bed first and there he read the closely written sheets of the packet that Curly had brought the night before. They had been taken from Slanty Gano. For some minutes after he had finished, he sat there looking bitter and tired. Then he roused himself and called Curly, hovering just outside the door.

"I'm ready. Get my clothes on me. I've got work to do."

They awaited him in Matt's office, summoned by Curly, one by one. Milton Bradish was there, vigilant and squared for any emergency; Stanley, alertly nervous but noting with relief that his car, commandeered the night before to get the doctor, was now in front of the door; T. Ellison Archer, looking flabby and scared, his vast dignity gone; Virginia was there as a matter of course, and also Joey.

Lee came in, hollow-eyed and bandaged, moving slowly.

"I've asked you all to come here because there's something that I want to say to you."

"That's all right, young man, but you're in no shape to do it yet." Bradish was briskly solicitous. "Give yourself a day or two to recover." "I'm obliged for your consideration, but it comes a little late."

Bradish reddened. Steady eyes held him as Lee began.

"Three days ago a man who has been acting as your agent shot me, rifled my pockets of the deed to this ranch and carried me into Number One tunnel of the Bonanza mine, where he had set a blast to bury me safely until he could levy blackmail on you for a big sum and make his escape. He had you where he wanted you. . . . No, you wait until I'm through.

"I came to before he left and heard the last things he said, giving away some matters that you already know and that I needed to. One of them was that he had dropped me down beside Matt Blair's real samples, the stolen one that never got to the Assay Office. When he had gone I had just sense enough and time enough to crawl away from the blast, taking a chunk of that ore with me."

He held out a rough, pale yellowish lump.

"Carnotite," he said briefly. "I don't need to tell you that."

"Yes," Bradish admitted calmly. "I was after the Bonanza, but you're wrong about my knowledge of the methods that Lawler and Gano used. It was purely a business matter. The gold pocket that started the rush years ago was found on Matt's claim, and we divided it according to agreement. All that I struck on my claim was a lot of rubble and then a vein of stuff that cropped up all over. But we were looking for gold and it didn't mean anything to us. Years later, looking over some samples of radioactive ores, I remembered those deposits and suspected their value."

Bradish talked crisply and directly.

ly now, a man sure of himself and his methods. "And it never occurred to you to go to Matt Blair and offer to finance him on a partnership basis?" "Certainly not!" Bradish snapped it back impatiently. "Matt had lived with the thing under his nose for 28 years without waking up to it. It was his property, but my find. I made him an offer for the whole ranch—through an agent, of course—and got the answer that it wasn't for sale. At his death, I repeated my offer to his daughter.
