A trio of Littlefield High School vocational Agriculture students, brought home first place banner awards from the regional competitions held at Texas Tech last Saturday in Dairy products judging in competition with judging classes from schools all over the Plains-Panhandle section of Texas, when nearly 2,000 High School judges from 148 schools entered competitions.

First place in Milk Judging was captured by Leon Russell; freshman First place in Cream Judging was awarded to Jackie Price, a sophomore, and Russell and Price also placed third and fifth in judging Dairy products. The third member of the Littlefield judging team, Boyd Mears, freshman did almost equally well, being given second place in Cream Judging and Third Place in Milk Judging.

The Littlefield trio, not only captured first place as a team in Cream Judging, but also both First and Second place in individual judging. Two beautiful blue and gold banners were presented and now hang in place at the local school, but all three were also presented either pins, ribbons or both. In winning at the Regional meet, the team also won the right to enter the State Finals competitions at A. and M. College this weekend. They will leave Thursday, and will take time out to spend a day fishing at Lake Brownwood, returning home Sunday.

Their teacher and sponsor, Wm. W. Hall, was justly proud of his judging team winners. This is his first year at Littlefield High, and for some of his judging team winners, their first attempt at competitive judging. He will accompany the boys to A. and M. College and the state finals.

The local cotton judging team could not compete, because of illness among the team, which tied in ninth place in the judging in that division. The team is composed of Alvis Groves, Ernest Gohlke and Clinton Young.

Mr. Hall, stated that he knew his team had been working hard, but he was pleasantly surprised at the fact they were able to win almost complete sweepstakes awards in Dairy products judging. Members of the team have also been given material assistance in their judging studies by Paul Jensen, superintendent of South Plains Creamery, himself an expert in judging and who has spent Down through the years Furr's Super Markets has played an important role in the food retailing picture in West Texas and New Mexico.

Out of the stir and dust of the first Furr's unit, the Kirklund Mercantile Co., in Kirklund, Texas just out of Childress, Texas, has come 31 super markets, headquartered at Lubbock, Texas. Some 25 more are out of the Amarillo division.

It was C. W. Furr, now deceased and father of Roy Furr, president of Furr's, Inc. Lubbock, who founded the first store, in 1904. In 1925 he moved to Amarillo, Texas and began operations there. In 1929, Roy Furr moved to Lubbock with the purchase of six M-System stores. They were located at that time, three in Lubbock and one each in Littlefield, Dalou and Shallowater.

Since then the progress of Furr's Super Markets has been rapid. Furr's now has stores in El Paso (8), Lubbock (8), Odessa (2), and one each in Childress, Plainview, Brownfield, Levelland, Littlefield, Lamesa, Big Spring, Snyder, Odessa, Midland and Monahans in Texas and Carlsbad, Hobbs and Roswell in New Mexico. Furr's operates a meat packing plant, a cannery, a creamery, bakery and egg plant in Lubbock as well as a wholesale house in El Paso. Some 986 persons are on the payroll, and with such volume prices have been kept to a minimum what with such buying power.

With Roy Furr is C. B. Boverie, vice president; Clifton M. Cummings, secretary-treasurer; his son Don G. Furr, personnel director and a host of other executives who handle supervision of the operation.

In 47 years Furr's family has grown to a huge one, one which has its growth in many towns of West Texas and New Mexico, where families are a strong part of these communities.

Extensive Program of Study Is Carried Out At The Littlefield Schools

Recognition that many parents and patrons of Littlefield High School, do not have full information and full understanding of the large range of courses of subjects and studies now available at the local schools, through the fact that an increasing number on inquiries is being received in regard to same, from parents. Supt. Joe Hutchinson, this week announced that he would seek to make the matter more clear, in outlining for newspaper publication, a treatise this week on "Program of Study," to be followed next week, on "Graduates and Drop-outs."

At the outset, Mr. Hutchinson set forth that there are 350 students in average daily attendance here. Available to them are a total of 45 unit courses. A requirement for all students is a minimum of nine units of study, and for graduation, minimum requirement is completion of sixteen units, with passing credit. The seven differentials between the two requirements, are elective, optional with the student. For these seven optional credits, there is a wide range from which to choose, agriculture, typing, music and numerous others.

Appitudinal tests are being used in the local schools, to help students in determining, what courses are likely to be of most benefit to them, for which they are fitted, and all teachers seek to act in an advisory capacity as counsellors.

Courses of study and classification are usually determined at the opening of the school year, recognizing that the tool subjects, basic to a successful life must include English, mathematics, and American History.

To make known to a wider number of students and parents alike, the varied subjects available at the local school and to aid them in selecting courses of study which they most desire at the start of next year's school year, the Superintendent has prepared the following brief outline of major courses and activities that are available:

Library
The school library, is constantly being increased and bettered, so far as the limited budget permits, and now contains more than 1900 volumes, including four complete sets of modern and late issue Encyclopedias. Thirty magazines are subscribed for, two daily newspapers, two weekly papers and numerous other volumes are available to students. Students are trained yearly in the art of library science.

In addition the High School has the services of a trained nurse, school co-ordinator, visiting teacher, and Supt. Hutchinson stresses the need for a school counsellor. The above is only a briefing of the points involved, but it is hoped that it will give parents information that will be a help in counseling with their children on courses of study.

Next week, the matter of School Drop-Outs and Graduates will be discussed.

have been shipped abroad by Lutheran World Relief, the material arm of L. W. A.
