COMMERCE STARTS CAMPAIGN FOR MONEY FOR NEW HOTEL IN LFD.

A 25-business men who mean-day luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce held last week reported that a contract signed last week for the proposed hotel in Littlefield was encouraging considerable citizens, and several to the project were the luncheon hour. It was estimated that the proposed hotel would cost approximately $50,000, and citizens were asked to contribute for its location, valued at $100. These offering sub-

SCHOOL TAXES FOR THE YEAR SHOULD BE PAID PROMPTLY

The office of the City School Tax Collector did a rushing business during the last two days of January, and hundreds of dollars in taxes were paid by citizens not desiring to suffer the penalty of delinquency. Still there are several thousand dollars in taxes yet to be penalized.

Secretary J. S. Hilliard has been laboring hard during the past two months to get folks to pay their taxes promptly. The school needs the money, and he would like for the property owners to save the penalty. "All current taxes became due January 31, and a 10 per cent penalty became effective February 1st," said Mr. Hilliard. This means, that if your taxes on January 31st were $100, the following day they became $110. Also, on February 1, these unpaid taxes began to draw an additional six per cent interest, so that in one year's time it will cost any property owner 16 per cent for the delinquency.

"That would not be so bad," said Mr. Hilliard, "if it were allowed to run for the year, but as nearly everyone knows, on account of a shortage of school funds this year, we are anxious to make collection of all taxes as soon as possible, anyway within the next three or four months. If taxes are allowed to run four months they will cost 12 per cent over what they would have cost on January 31st. Twelve per cent for four months is the same as paying 36 per cent interest, and no one can afford to do that if it is at all possible to raise the money now and avoid the delay."

Mr. Hilliard states that when the Littlefield School Board made up their budget for the year 1928-29 they cut all expenses as closely as possible, making very little allowance for uncollected taxes, and in order to carry out the program for the year it will be necessary to collect all taxes due the district before the school closes.

REPLIN OPENS STORE

S. Replin, merchant formerly of Lubbock and Lamesa, is this week opening a stock of dry goods and men's wear in his building on Main street that was formerly occupied by the Palace garage.

Replin has been in business in Littlefield before, and believes the opening for another store of this type is better now than at any time in the past.

NEW AGENT HERE

The Next Day After February 12, 1809

By Albert T. Reid

"They say that kid over at Tom Lincoln's is about the homeliest li' cuss ye ever seen." "Well, shucks, looks ain't ever' thing. That li' codger may be president of the United States some day, for all we know."

TAX COLLECTOR DID RUSH TAX BUSINESS THURSDAY

Thursday of last week was rush business day at the Tax Collector's office in Olton, according to Len Irvin. All day the collector's force was busy issuing receipts in exchange for various and sundry amounts of money to belated citizens anxious to discharge their public requirements before the 10 per cent penalty.

There were several thousand dollars in tax money received the last day of January, according to the collector, and there is several thousand dollars more that are delinquent; the amount is not so great as that of last year he said.

MEN CONTINUE FLANNELS, WOMEN DONNING SPRING ATTIRE AFTER GROUNDHOG DAY

Golf players and spring gardeners will not blossom out for awhile yet—because winter is due to be with us for another six weeks. It was all settled Friday of last week. Old Man Sol played his usual trick on Mr. Groundhog, luring him from his cozy winter den of hibernation for a little while until he caught his shadow, when he ducked back for another month and a half of repose.

The official weather prophet of the Leader had been stationed out in the Yellow House pasture with instructions to keep a close eye on the actions of Mr. Groundhog, and his report is that exactly at 11:29, 13 seconds and two ticks, a. m. the said prognosticator emerged from his den, rubbed his eyes, looked around for about a half minute, then crawled back into his hole.

Therefore, in keeping with the present revelation, the men folks will continue wearing winter flannels, while the women folks will proceed to don their spring hats and gauzy attire regardless of weather indications.

The institutes will be in charge of Rev. D. B. Doak, presiding elder of the Lubbock district, assisted by Rev. and Mrs. B. L. Nance, and Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Lyon, and other local leaders.

COUNTY COURT THIS WEEK JUDGE HAY'S FIRST TERM

Littlefield attorneys are spending most of their time this week in Olton attending county court, it being the first session presided over by Judge Simon D. Hay, new incumbent of that office.

TECH ARTIST COURSE TO PRESENT THREE NUMBERS THIS MONTH; HARPISIT AND A FAMOUS SOPRANO WILL MAKE VISITS

Three major attractions of the Tech College Artist course will be presented here during the month of February. The presentations include a harp concert by Alberto Salvi, world famed harpist, and by Laura T. McCoy, well known soprano, on the night of February 22, and "She stoops to Conquer," on the 25th and "The Imaginary Invalid" on the 26th by the Coffey-Miller players.

"This side of heaven you will not hear such harp playing!" is the critic's assertion pertaining to Alberto Salvi, noted harpist who appears on the evening of February 22 at Texas Tech college. Salvi has spent his life with harps. His father was a maker of this "instrument of the immortals." When Salvi was quite young he was presented with a small model. From that time he has been inseparable from a harp. "He plays the harp with more force than any living being. Its sweet music fills the entire auditorium," critics have said.

Madam Schuman-Heink sponsored the first great work of Laura T. McCoy, soprano, who comes to the college with Salvi on February 22. She is highly delighted with the success of this beautiful young singer. Miss McCoy is well known to many Texans. She was soloist with Sousa's band a number of years.

The Coffey Miller players of Chicago, who appear at the college February 25 and 26 need no introduction to Lubbock. Their plays last year met with great success. Tom Coffey as Tony in "She Stoops to Conquer" will be as great a success this year. Miss Miller is equally a delightful an entertainer. Their company is composed of college and dramatic stars. They play only at colleges.—Lubbock Avalanche.

HOGS PAY OLTON FARMER

A year ago, H. B. Maxey, Olton farmer, had five Hampshire sows and a boar. During 1928 he sold $610 worth of hogs and has nineteen gilts and barrows and five old hogs left.

Mr. Maxey plans to keep eight brood sows during the coming year and asserts that it is possible for a farmer to make a living in the Panhandle from hogs alone.

The Maxey hogs are fed a balanced ration based on grain sorghums grown on the farm and made exceptionally big gains during the feeding period.

Mr. Maxey breeds his sows to farrow between February 15 and March 1, and August 15 and September 1.

Mrs. Roscoe Vaughn, of Wichita, Kan., is the first president of the Women's Aeronautical Association.

MRS. CHARLES GUY DIED FRIDAY AT LUBBOCK

Mrs. Guy, wife of Charles A. Guy, jr., editor, Lubbock Journal, died in a Lubbock hospital last Friday, following a brief illness from pneumonia.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Jack Lewis, of the Lubbock Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. H. L. Munger, of the Methodist church, that city.

Mrs. Guy was a Lamb county girl previous to her marriage, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Wiles, of Olton.

She is survived by her husband, a baby boy about one year old, her parents and one sister.

What has become of the old-fashioned farmer who use to tote the town scribe a little farm produce along about this season of the year?

NEW ORDINANCES TO BE ENFORCED IN LITTLEFIELD

Four new ordinances, recently passed by the City Commission, are being published in this week's issue of the Leader.

Ordinance No. 33, amending the "chicken law" provides that all fowls held within the corporate limits must be kept up every month of the year, under a penalty of from $1.00 to $50.00 fine.

Ordinance 32, amending section 4 of ordinance 26 provides that all plumbers doing work within the City of Littlefield shall furnish satisfactory evidence of having passed the examination for journeyman plumbers given by the State of Texas, and the securing of a local license to do such work within the city limits.

Ordinance 34 sets forth requirements and fixes license for electricians who would do electrical wiring within the city.

Ordinance 35, which is a traffic ordinance contains a number of requirements and restrictions of interest to auto drivers.

Vehicles are forbidden to be operated at a greater speed than 20 miles per hour on the streets of Littlefield. Ten miles per hour is the limit in turning street corners. Stopping in the middle of a street is forbidden, also the obstructing of street crossings. Special privileges are given the fire department and U. S. mail vehicles. Stop and slow signs must be observed.

A careful reading of these various ordinances is advisable by all citizens, and becoming acquainted with them may save future trouble and costs.

OIL TEST SOUTH OF TOWN TO START SOON

The report comes to us that everything is almost ready for the supping in of the oil test southeast of Portales ten miles, and that before many more days roll around that actual work will be started and that the work will be continued twenty-four hours per day until a depth of 4500 feet has been reached, unless oil or gas is found at a lesser depth. This test is being watched with much interest not only by local citizens, but by citizens of many other counties and states.—Roosevelt County Herald, Portales, N. Mex.

Elijah's God answered by fire last Sunday—it was a Mount Carmel experience. Victory filled the air. Eight souls came for church membership. Please God, it was all in the name of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. Several strangers were with us—strangers when they came in; well acquainted and beloved when they left.
Ask yourself this pertinent question: "If every church member were just like me, what kind of a church would my church be?"

Two negroes were taking a bale of cotton to town, driving two small mules, an upgrade was encountered and one negro climbed to the ground and walked along at the heels of one of the little mules urging him on as only a negro's vocabulary can. "Sambo said the negro on the wagon, "better not get too close to dat mules heels, else he give you rheumatism." "Ah said the other, "Dis mule can't kick me—she's a plien." Moral: Its impossible to pull and kick at the same time. Come to Baptist church Sun-

Attraction Found in Really Pretty Home

One beautiful home of assured permanence attracts others of the same type and thereby increases its own value as well as the real estate values of the neighborhood.

This attraction is made stronger when the construction is of a type which increases the fire-safety of the locality. The better residence sections of most communities recognize this in their building restrictions. Furthermore, the wise home builder looks forward to the possible time when he may want to sell his house. Will it depreciate heavily with the passing years, or will it show increased value? The homes covered with cement stucco sell, as a rule, increase in value as the years go by, because they are permanent in construction and their appearance improves with age.

Old but well-built houses may be rejuvenated and their appearance changed at a minimum cost with stucco. Excellent examples of such work are found in almost every community.

An exterior envelope of stucco, a new porch, a sun parlor, perhaps new windows, will bring about a complete transformation.—Chicago Post.

Brick Gives Richness of Color to Building

Color is one of the most important features about the home. It governs to a surprisingly large degree not only appearance but temperament. It makes not only for beauty but for good or ill nature as well. Certain colors are just as depressing as others are inspiring.

Women are just as particular, ordinarily, about the coloring of the paper on the walls of their homes as they are about the color of their clothing. Men are less responsive, perhaps, and pay less attention to their environment, yet unconsciously for all that they are affected more or less.

The same thing applies in the materials of which your home is constructed. Instinctively you turn away from the house that has a drab and dreary appearance. Just as quickly you admire the one with a rich, warm coloring in the walls.

Brick houses, particularly, have this quality, made permanent in the burning of the bricks. In most other wall materials it must be artificially produced and frequently renewed.—Boston Herald.

City Zoning

City zoning is valid under the United States Constitution. There is no violation of the Fourteenth amendment, which forbids the depriving of citizens of liberty and property without due process of law. So municipalities may go ahead, unless state constitutions should prevent, with the establishment of specific boundaries for industrial, business and residence districts. This is the ruling made by the Supreme court, with three of the nine members dissenting, but not filing their views in written form. It is a far-reaching decision, of significance to every urban community. The consensus will be that it is a salutary development. Zoning, if not a social necessity, has become a great social advantage. The Supreme court decision will make for well-arranged cities.

Poultry Notes

High-producing flocks have slightly lower mortality than low-producing flocks.

The meat income constitutes 16.1 per cent of the total cash income in the light breeds and 29.5 per cent in the heavy breeds.

A shed closed on three sides makes a good summer house for pullets. The fourth side should be provided with fine mesh wire to keep out rodents of all kinds.

Mortality seems to parallel egg production, being lower in the fall and winter months and higher in the spring.

The greater the egg production per hen the greater the total expense, feed cost, and investment, but the lower the feed cost per dozen eggs.

A dust wallow is used by hens in summer for two reasons; one is to keep external parasites in check, and the other to keep cool. They enjoy a wallow of moist earth.

A heavy layer is like a heavy producing cow. The hen needs a definite amount of feed to maintain her body.

Late molting hens should be saved for breeders. These are usually the late-laying birds. Mark the late laying hens with colored celluloid toe bands.

When pullets do not begin laying before February, it may be the result of being late hatched or it may be due to inefficient feeding of the parent birds.

POULTRY

FLESHING MASH AIDS CONDITION

The high egg production obtained during the past year on the demonstration farms throughout New Jersey, and at the Bergen and Vineland egg-laying contests, is attributed by F. G. Cuckner, of the agricultural experiment station, primarily to the use of a fleshing mash during the fall and winter seasons. The effect of the mash has been to keep the birds up to proper body weight, so that they were able to resist winter complaints and keep on a steady egg production basis.

The fleshing mash used was made up of the following ingredients: 1 pound corn meal, 1 pound ground rolled oats; 1 pound semi-salt butter-milk, and 1 pint cod-liver oil, when cod-liver oil had not already been incorporated in any other part of the ration.

"This mixture," says Mr. Cuckner, "moistened with water so as to form a crumbly mash, is sufficient for 100 birds at one feeding. It is best fed sometime near the noon hour, preferably early in the afternoon, so that the birds will have sufficient time to empty their crops and take on a good supply of the scratch feed before perching. The real value in the fleshing mash is that sometimes we find difficulty in keeping the birds up to fourteen pounds of scratch, and they are less likely to drop on this account when the fleshing mash is fed. There is no danger of forcing with the use of the fleshing mash since it is not a wet mash for stimulating production."

Laying Birds Require Dry Air in Henhouse

Laying birds need dry, live air in the poultry house, with no drafts. This means a sufficient supply of oxygen, which in combination with proper feeding and exercise will keep the birds naturally warm. Dampness is death to egg production and poultry houses become damp readily for the reason that the birds breathe off practically 75 per cent of all the moisture taken into their systems; a hen's coat of feathers is an almost perfect non-conductor of heat when dry and will retain the body heat, but immediately the feathers become damp the body heat escapes and the bird is cold, resulting in a debilitated condition predisposing the birds to dangerous colds and making them susceptible to any disease that may lurk unseen in their environment.

Drinking Vessels for Ducks Should Be Deep

Unless the duck has a chance to thoroughly rinse its nostrils, and at the same time dash its head in water, injury may come from clogging the nostrils or getting sore eyes, writes M. K. Boyer in the Farm and Ranch. The drinking vessels should be deep enough for this purpose.

Annually a large number of yarded ducks are lost by having sore eyes and going blind. This is caused by dirt lodging in the eyes. Where ducks have access to a stream of water, or have drinking vessels deep enough so they may be able to get their heads under water, they can readily wash out this dirt. When they do not have that opportunity, the eyes fester and loss of sight is the consequence.

We presume the bootleggers are wondering why Chicago is making such a lot of fuz over a little water.

GAS COMPANY MAKING SURVEY BETWEEN HERE AND LUBBOCK

The West Texas Gas Company is reported to have a party between here and Lubbock making a survey for the line which is to serve this place. Mayor Lee states that the plans previously announced of building a line through here from Littlefield to Brownfield and thence south to connect with the lines along the Texas and Pacific has been changed and that Lubbock and Levelland will be furnishing lines extending out of Lubbock. Brownfield will get its supply from Tahoka.

According to the franchise granted by the City Commission, the road was to have been completed in March, but the dates have been extended in other towns in this section and we presume that the same will be followed here, and that Levelland will have gas available for the winter use some time during the coming summer.—Herald, Levelland.

for Texas $30,000 a year additional figured on the same ratio of population as the Smith-Lever Act specifies, provided the Texas Legislature appropriates a similar amount. In consequence, should the present session of the Texas Legislature appropriate the additional $30,000 a year in question, extension service funds would be augmented $80,000 a year for the next biennium. This, as Director Martin has pointed out, would make possible a considerable increase in the ranks of county and home demonstration agents in Texas.

328 Agents Employed.

At present the extension service budget is carrying its maximum load in the matter of county and home demonstration agents, H. H. Williamson, vice director of the service and state agent, said in commenting on the growing demand for such agricultural workers. There are at present 180 county agents, 102 home demonstration agents, 22 negro county agents and 24 negro home demonstration agents engaged in promoting agricultural progress in the State, making a total of 328 agents paid jointly by the county, State and Federal Governments.

In general, the larger portion of the salary of a county agent is paid through the extension service whose funds are appropriated jointly by the State and Federal Governments. The remaining portion of the salary is paid by the county, the Commissioners' Court authorizing the appropriation. Provisions under which expenditure for county agent is authorized by the extension service require that the county shall co-operate in the expense.

County Must Help.

Annual salary allowance on the part of the extension service for county agent is $1,600. Allowance for home demonstration agent is $1,200 for negro county and home agents, $1,200 and $1,000 respectively. These allowances are made on condition that the county shall supplement the amounts sufficiently to employ agents.

The work of the county and home demonstration agents carries out the primary function of the extension service. Vice Director Williamson pointed out, and in consequence every effort is bent to employ every cent possible of the service's budget in such work. All of the extension service's funds, after general operating and overhead expenses are provided for, allocated to district, county and home demonstration work.

Appropriations for the extension service work in Texas for the present fiscal year amounted in round numbers to $628,000, of which $377,000 in round numbers was appropriated by the Federal Government.

With the extension service now carrying as heavy a load of county and home demonstration agents as its available funds will permit, there is no immediate prospect of granting salary appropriations for agents in additional counties unless some of the counties now employing agents withdraw their requests for funds on the State Legislature meets the Capper-Ketchum act provisions with an additional appropriation of $30,000 a year for the next biennium, Williamson added. State funds from such an appropriation would become available Sept. 1 and federal funds July 1, of this year.

Last July 1 the extension service, finding some additional funds available, made increased allocation for county agent work in the State and on Jan. 1, this year, made additional allocation. Howard County was the latest to receive appropriation for this work and appropriation for that county left at the time only one county, Lavaca, on the waitinglist. The waiting list for county agents now shows Lavaca, Freestone and Hempthill Counties and for home demonstration agents, Lamb, Red River, Hockley and Gregg Counties.

Official request for county agent appropriation consists of notice of order by Commissioners' Court that the county in question has made appropriation to supplement extension service allowance for salary. When a county discontinues its appropriation for county agent, the allocation of funds from the extension service for that county automatically stops, the appropriation theretofore allowed being released for use elsewhere.

U. S. Furnishes $261,000 Yearly
The extension service receives its largest single appropriation through the provisions of the Smith-Lever act of October, 1914. This act, which extends agricultural and homemaking extension work to the 48 States on a Cooperative federal and state basis, makes a lump sum appropriation of $10,000 a year to every State. In addition it makes an award of funds on the basis of ratio of population of the State to the population of the United States, with the provision that the State must duplicate this sum.

In 1924 Texas reached the maximum appropriation authorized by the act, $261,000 a year. The State appropriation on that basis is $251,000 a year. But for subsequent relief, extension work in Texas would have reached its limit of expansion with the 1924 situation.

Legislation supplementing the regular Department of Agriculture's bill in 1928, sponsored by Congressman J.
P. Buchanan of Brenham, however, permitted the appropriation of $17-000 more to Texas for expansion of the work.

AVERY Premium Lister

An all-crop lister

Where high winds and sparse rainfall are a constant danger, the Avery Premium Lister crops and increases profits. It is truly without limitations because it handles all dry-windy-country crops with equal ease. A close examination will emphasize three outstanding features.

- (1) To change from one crop to another is a few seconds' job, and no tools are needed.
It is quick detachable, combination and special hoppers.
- (2) Hopper is mounted on the beam, getting out of planting and seed spout troubles. This action is made possible by a compensating vice under the planting gear.
- (3) Better and more uniform work is assured by a leveling device on the beam which maintains equal pitch at all times.

The Avery Premium Lister uses all of the many Avery hoppers, plates, etc. It does unusually good work in any crop. Milo maize is listed without cracking the seed. Cotton and other crops are handled to meet seasonal and personal requirements.

In addition, the Avery Premium Lister is easy to handle, does its work with a minimum of wear and breakage, gives long years of economical service. Back of its unusual success is Avery's century of experience and the world's finest implement factory. Come to our store for complete demonstration.

There is a full line of famous Avery walking, riding and tractor plows, tillage implements, and Champion harvesting and haying machines.

Canned Tomatoes Are "Ranger's Delight"

It takes the alkali dust of a cattle range and a cowboy's throat to raise a really royal thirst. And it takes a whole can of tomatoes, which seem to have the gift of remaining miraculously cool, to assuage it. And what holds true of cow punchers applies equally well to the two hundred rangers who patrol and police our national parks. Perhaps that's why the familiar can of tomatoes has been nicknamed "ranger's delight."

Scientists Sanction It
Perhaps there are other reasons, too, for the popularity of canned tomatoes among those brassy outdoor liveries. It would probably be news to them that so distinguished a scientist as Dr. E. V. McColl of Johns Hopkins University has just come into its own years. Modern investigations shown it to be a very good source of at least three vitamins, A, B, and C.

Finally, what is good for the baby is also good for the cowboy. The authority, writing on the use of tomato juice for children, said:

Man may not be able to understand woman; but one can bet that nearly every Littlefield husband understands his wife.

Next to making a profit in business these days, the hardest job the average Littlefield man has is distributing his income in such a way that every member of the family is happy.

Life must be pretty dull in those Littlefield families where the husband and wife agree on every thing.

The modern Littlefield girl gets a good laugh when she hears about the old-fashioned flappers who had to stand under mistletoe to get kissed.

Most any man in Littlefield could get out smoking if he was sure that in doing so he wouldn't acquire the habit of swearing.

What has become of the old-fashioned Littlefield girl who was not ashamed to have freckles on her face but who was freckled to have paint on it?

You never can tell. Maybe the men you see around Littlefield with wrinkles in their foreheads got them from drinking out of a saucer.

Some Littlefield men's idea of morality is hiring a homely stenographer.

EARLIER HATCHED CHICKS FAVORED

Good Business to Have Good Laying Flock in Summer.

By hatching a part of the poultry flock between January 15 and February 15, so that the birds will mature in July, the poultryman takes a big step toward maintaining his late summer and early fall production, advises R. B. Hannas, poultry research specialist, in the New Jersey Agriculture.

Mr. Hannas points out that the price of eggs begins to climb as the summer wanes and that it is good business to have a flock of layers at this time. Ordinarily a decline in production takes place with the old fowls about July. If one-quarter to one-third of the flock is hatched between the middle of January and the middle of February the poultry keeper can offset this decrease.

The article goes on to say that brooding of chicks early in the season has been carried on successfully for a number of years. Chicks thus produced will reach a good growth and development before hot weather comes on, thereby giving them an advantage over later hatched stock.

One precaution, to prevent leg weakness, is advised. Because bad weather is likely to make it unsafe to let the chicks out on the ground and there is a lack of green food at this time, cod liver oil and sprouted oats should be supplied. The oil is given at the rate of 2 per cent either of the amount of grain or of the amount of mash fed. Experience has shown that it is easier to mix it into the grain, and that however used, it is highly effective in preventing leg weakness.

The writer concludes with the suggestion that the earlier hatching enables the general farmer to get this phase of his work out of the way before the heavy rush of spring arrives.

DAIRY

DAIRY INDUSTRY NEEDS OUTLINED

Three Most Important Factors Are Pointed Out.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

The important factors that need attention in the dairy industry today are: (1) Greater efficiency in production; (2) production of the highest quality in dairy products; and (3) increasing the consumption of dairy products. This is the statement of G. E. Reed, who recently took up his duties as chief of the bureau of dairy industry, United States Department of Agriculture.

"Scientific facts available today in regard to these factors," continued Professor Reed, "are sufficient proof that a program of this kind entered into by the entire dairy industry will stabilize and insure prosperity for those engaged in it."

"The need of more economic and efficient production is quite apparent on every hand," he said. "The dairy farmer must cull out the low producing cows from his herd and build for a greater production for each cow through keeping records of production, by using better sires, and by following the best methods in feeding, breeding and management. The same problems must be considered by the manufacturer and distributor of dairy products."

"The quality of dairy products must be given more consideration. The farmer is responsible for the quality of the product as it comes from the farm. The manufacturer and distributor are responsible from that point on until it reaches the consumer. Dairy products are perishable and the demand for them will depend upon quality."

"The consumption of dairy products has increased to a marked extent during the past few years but in the light of recent investigations, both from the standpoint of the need of milk in the diet and the underconsumption of dairy products in many sections of the country, a considerable increase can yet be made."

"The work of the bureau of dairy industry is designed to add information through research and investigation to help with a program of this kind. The bureau's efforts, together with results of research carried on by all other organizations of the industry will do much to help solve these problems, but this alone is not sufficient to guarantee success in this work. If the entire industry is to reach the highest level of stability and prosperity every branch must cooperate with every other branch in carrying out a program that will meet all needs."

"And no part of the industry," concluded the new chief, "should forget that we need to continue to keep the public informed as to the value of dairy products, the progress being made in the improvement of them and the methods of production. The more we spread information regarding dairying the faster we will improve and the better the market will be."

Crowded Conditions in Many Poultry Houses

A recent survey of a number of farms shows crowded conditions in the poultry houses. Many of these houses are almost wholly lacking in ventilation.

At night when one of these buildings is crowded with chickens the air is not fit to breathe. A human being will not remain long in such a place. If he did remain throughout the night, he would be "all in" by morning. And this is just the trouble with a lot of chickens now.

The chickens are badly crowded at night in a poorly-ventilated house. They are forced to breathe bad air. They become too warm. They are "all in" in the morning, and emerging into the cool outside air is a sudden change that many of them cannot withstand.

These crowded conditions at night and sudden changes from warm to cool air are responsible for many of our poultry ills. Giving the chickens medicine will not do any permanent good so long as the cause of the trouble remains unchanged. Either additional room should be provided or the size of the flock reduced.

Crooked Breast Bones Found in Chickens

Crooked breast bones may be caused by inbreeding and general debility, or may come from improper food and feeding, or poor management of some kind, writes Michael K. Boyer in the Farm and Ranch. There is no question about heredity being the fault, at least to a certain extent. That being the fact, it should be bred out, which might be done by the selection of only straight breast-bone fowls for the breeding pen.

Lack of bone-making material in the feed of growing stock, which is the prime cause of leg weakness, has also the effect of producing crooked breast bones in young chickens.

There used to be a theory, which by many still is believed, that very early roosting of growing birds causes the soft breast bones to bend. This might be so in some instances, but does not hold good with the general run of stock.

Buying Pullets

Buying pullets by weight may be more satisfactory than buying entirely by age. April hatched pullets on insufficient rations may be of less value than May hatched pullets which have been properly fed and brooded. A May 1 pullet is much better than a May 30 pullet if the conditions have been equal. The later hatched chick has missed four fine weeks for the development of poultry meat, but the name of the month is not fully descriptive of quality.

Culling Farm Flock

There are two essentials in culling farm poultry. First, to get rid of hens that are not laying, and second, to distinguish between the hens that have been good producers and those that have not laid enough to pay for their feed. Culling should start in late May or June and continue throughout the year at regular intervals. Eliminating the hens as they become unprofitable saves feed and labor and improves the conditions for those that are laying.

Feed Dairy Cows Well

Balanced Grain Ration

The generally accepted rule for feeding dairy cows is to supply a well balanced grain ration—balanced according to the character of the roughage fed—at the rate of one pound for each four pounds of milk produced by cows yielding milk testing around 2.5 per cent fat, and one pound of grain for each three pounds of milk produced testing close to 4 per cent of fat or more. This general statement should not be considered as a cast-iron rule, but should serve as a guide to definitely ascertain the capacity of each cow and then feed her more or less than these directions call for according to the response made by such individual.

Dairy Notes

Several kinds of lice may be on the same calf but it is the big blue ones that do the damage.

The numbers of bacteria in milk have little meaning unless the sanitary history of the milk is known.

The taste of clean milk is sweet and aromatic. The sweetness is due to the milk sugar, while the aromatic taste comes from the fat. Onions, bitter-sweet, etc., give bad flavors to milk.

Some calves seem to be free of lice while others in the same pen may be covered. The oily-skinned calves have a natural protection and because of this they fare better than dry-skinned ones.

One of the most common mistakes made in winter feeding of dairy cows is failure to provide enough feed. The cow may be looked upon as a milk factory, and as in any other manufacturing plant, the cheapest production is possible only when the plant is run nearly to full capacity.

UNNECESSARY COMPETITION

It is an old saying, "Competition is the life of trade;" but there are times when competition is also the death of trade. If competition becomes so keen there is no margin of profit in the transaction of business, then such competition becomes eliminated in the process of "survival of the fittest," the weaker businesses going broke, while the stronger ones weather the situation "by the skin of their teeth" until such time as reasonable profits accrue.

The Leader is a strong advocate of municipal development. It believes in community growth; but not to the point that any given community becomes top heavy both in population and business to the extent of serving the surrounding community.

Towns are built principally for the accommodation of the folks who live round about them, and, likewise, become unprofitable corporations when they are developed beyond the reasonable needs of the people who populate them and the urban sections that patronize them.

It is a mistake to build any town ahead of its surrounding trade territory. The effort of any chamber of commerce to bring into a given town new dry goods stores, drug stores, grocery stores, and similar lines of business that are not needed is a mistake. It does not increase business, but merely cuts down the business of the stores already there and detracts from their reasonable profits. It is right for a chamber of commerce to bring in new industries not already represented in a given city; but its greatest duty in this respect is to build up the buying power of the farmer and other out-city residents to where they have more money to spend with the local merchants.

It is not good business economy for a chamber of commerce to bring in any new business enterprise, if that enterprise, in turn, becomes a "sapper" or other business interests represented, or if it depends for its existence upon the introduction of more business concerns already represented.

For instance, a certain type of hotel may be a desirable acquisition for a given town; but if that hotel's existence depends upon the introduction of other business concerns already adequately represented in a given town and not needed for the public accommodation, it is better for such a town to forego the hotel for a while until the demands of business increase to a point warranting the other competitive enterprises.

Furthermore, if the building of such a hotel is based upon a gift or bonus of the citizens of a given town, and much of that money is expected from owners of business concerns who would be affected by the incoming competition, the proposition becomes the more reprehensible.

It is not reasonable to expect that a druggist, groceryman, barber or tailor would be glad to give $50 or $100 to bring in another business concern to become a competitor, especially when such business is not needed at that time. Neither would it be right for the said druggist, groceryman, barber or tailor to be virtually forced to move from his present location into a new one, in order to keep out competition, thus vacating an established location which may be worth considerable to his business, as well as vacating property owned by another good citizen who, in turn is put to a loss for lack of revenue on his investment, and in order to protect himself must seek another renter who is likely to become a competitor of the business just vacated.

The function of a chamber of commerce is to promote the welfare of a given town, which means the welfare of the people living in it. No town is advanced by damaging its citizens, and its citizens are invariably damaged when such town assemblies within its corporate limits more business concerns of a given kind than is necessary for public welfare and convenience.

Of course, competitive business concerns may come into a given town of their own volition. That is an entirely different matter. The results in overdone business may be similar; but the responsibility is different. The chamber of commerce, the one organization of that city which has no other reason for existence other than the welfare of that city, is cleared of the responsibility.

The strength of any unit depends upon the strength of its component parts. The welfare of any organization depends upon the welfare of the various members composing it. To damage any one or more of them is to depreciate the value of the whole. The principal of "protection" constantly exercised by our national government is just as applicable in its favorable potency to any community, town or city within the nation. No individual citizen, nor group of citizens, can be expected to give his loyal adherence to any organization be it political, religious or economic, that either directly or indirectly operates to mitigate the welfare of himself and associates.

Many a man doesn't get along in this world because he imagines he is a modern Sampson and ought to swing a jow-bone.

HELPING THE HEN

Chicken raisers around Littlefield whether they claim to be amateurs or professionals, will be interested in a statement from D. C. Kennard, poultry expert of the Farm Journal.

He says it's safe now to count your chickens before they're hatched. A new and specially processed glass has been devised that fairly floods the chicken house with sunlight during the cold, dark months. The action of these ultra-violet rays, along with an addition of one percent of cod liver oil to the feed makes every hen a fertile layer, adds to the vitality of chicks hatched from the eggs and also insures a tougher egg shell, which means much in shipping and handling. His experiments are said to have worked out in every case and are now being followed by poultry raisers in many parts of the country. Take it for what it may be worth. But if it is working in other communities it ought to be worth trying out around here.

Newspapers say Curtis went to sleep while election returns were coming in. That qualifies him, all right, for vice-president.

THINK THIS OVER

We've never been in any hurry to advise Littlefield citizens to go into debt for either the necessities or luxuries of life. Nor have we condemned the present popular method of installment buying. So we cannot be accused of radicalism on the subject. We know there are many comforts the average family could not enjoy if it had to pay cash. We realize that buying on credit and paying off the bill as it can best be met is nothing more or less than installment buying. And that this method is both sensible and convenient is shown by a government statement to the effect that 80 percent of the comforts and conveniences now enjoyed by the American people are bought and paid for in this way.

We believe installment buying, when not abused through buying a lot of unnecessary things, is a blessing to millions. It enables the honest man to get what he needs and be using it at the same time he is paying for it. It encourages the saving habit, because the buyer has to save to meet his installments. And today it is indulged in by millions who could not otherwise have the things they want, need and ought to have if the system was not in vogue.

But buy it here at home. Home merchants, as a rule, will enter into a payment-plan arrangement with you and they use the money in helping to improve your community instead of a community hundreds of miles away. Don't buy foolishly; don't contract debts you cannot meet. But what you should be bought on any terms that really need and know you can pay for best suit your income. But in buying see that your money is spent where it will not only help you but your neighbors as well.

You've got to be in business with a man or in love with a woman to find out that you don't know them.

THE LATEST FAD

Believe it or not, but right in the midst of this age of the modern woman; an age of bobbed hair, girl aviators and female politicians, the good old colonial housewife is coming back. They are selling old-fashioned hand looms in New York stores, and the fad of weaving scarfs, rugs, towels and the like at home is expected soon to become general all over the country. Even among wealthy women, where money is not a factor, the weaving fad has spread. They want exclusive designs and they want to weave various little articles with their own hands.

Women naturally crave some such outlet for pent-up nervous energy; they like a task that has plenty of motion in it.

Since knitting socks for the soldiers isn't in order, weaving pretty things for the home has come to fill in. And since it is a fad that will help the wool and cotton producers right at a time when they need help, here's hoping that it enjoys long life and a wide popularity.

NO COFFEE BOOST

Even this early in the year Littlefield coffee drinkers have one thing to be thankful for. The U. S. has just succeeded in blocking an attempt by Brazilian coffee barons to increase the price of the product by limiting exports from the coffee plantations of that country. Over 13,000,000 bags of coffee, hoarded in Brazil for the purpose of boosting prices, are about to be released because Uncle Sam has been able to get into Java and Sumatra and bring out a generous supply for our consumption. The Brazilians, unable to hold their product any longer, realize the failure of their attempt to corner the market, so the price is not going to be boosted sky high. Within the past few months the same thing has happened to those who attempted to corner the sugar and rubber markets. All of which is proving a pretty costly lesson for some people, but a blessing to those of us who can't very well get along without all three of these commodities.

LITTLE LEADERS

Carl Arnold says that what a car owner can get on a gallon of gas doesn't interest him as much now as what he can get on a trade-in.

"It's getting so," says S. Replin, "that a woman has to buy more material to make a lampshade than she has to buy to make a dress."

J. C. Wheeler wants to know what has become of the old-fashioned kid we used to see crying because he has just been spanked.

We owe a good deal to the Pilgrim Fathers, says a Boston editor. Yes, and the best part of it is we don't have to pay it.

Ad in Florida newspaper: "Funeral Directors; Coffins and Caskets. Make Our Store Your Headquarters."

T. S. Sales told us the other day that the latest fashion decree was that skirts should be worn below the knees. We don't doubt it; but we'd like to know how they're going to keep 'em on.

We heard the other day of an absent-minded society woman who kissed her husband and cursed her poodle.

There was a young man from Her-stam, Who had some pants and wore 'em, When he stopped and laughed, He felt a draught, And knew that he had tore 'em.

Community Building

Trees Play Big Part in Town's Appearance

The municipal government of Springfield, Mass., places an appraised value of $100 on each tree. At the latest count 25,000 trees give the city an added asset of $2,500,000. Ann Arbor is racing along in the tree competition under a similar method of appraisal. This plan of tree evaluation is worked out under the formula devised by Prof. Filibert Roth, one of the most expert of American foresters. The formula is sourced in an exhaustive study of individual trees. This study notes the kind of tree under examination, its size and shape at maturity, its average length of life, the character of its foliage, its power to adapt itself to the local environment. "Trees as Good Citizens" is compact of useful information and expert experience and a deep sense of appreciation, all bent upon the subject in hand. I've gathered but a single item from it, since the essence of this item points upon the value of foresight and upon the misfortune of hindsight. It counsels construction in place of destruction. It advises a real publicity preceding action in matters where the voice of the citizens should be given timely opportunity.

"The city with fine shade trees is the city beautiful"—Charles Lathrop Pack talking—"When the traveler gives thought to the world's most beautiful cities, he thinks instinctively of Washington and Paris; and in thinking of them he delights in the memory of their wealth of trees. In each of these cities great architects and gifted artists have created buildings of rare splendor and stately grace. The chief charm of both cities, however, is found in their magnificent shade trees which line their streets and beautify their lawns, parks and public grounds. Who can picture Sixteenth street or Massachusetts avenue, or any of the streets of Washington deprived of shade tree beauty! Visualize without their trees the city streets and parks with which you are familiar, and see what becomes of the city beautiful!"

Not Hard Matter to Clean Painted Wall

Any painted wall may be successfully washed, whether it is plain or decorated with some novel treatment. Stencils and Tiffany glasses are as easy to do as a plain wall finish. Wallpaper that has been varnished may also be washed.

The easiest way to wash a painted wall is to prepare a solution as follows: Shave a cake of pure neutral (nonalkaline) white soap into a quart of boiling water. Dissolve about two ounces of glue in another quart of boiling water, and mix the two liquids together.

A little flour may be added to make a thicker solution, and a little sal soda or washing powder to make a solution. This jellied cleaning liquid is applied with a soft sponge, working from the bottom up.

The wall is then wiped down with cloths. If the surface is quite soiled it will be easier to apply the solution to a wall area with a kalsomine brush, allowing it to stand two or three minutes to loosen the dirt. Then wash off with a clean sponge and a pail of clear water.

Progress Goes On

A public that demands more attractive motor cars and clothing, beautiful furnishings in the home and increased numbers of conveniences in a hundred directions hardly will be content forever with ugliness and inconvenience in its cities. Wider streets, more trafficways, removal of signboards and other rubbish from places where it does not belong are betterments that may be anticipated with reasonable assurance. One thing is evident: The cities, in a score of ways, are more livable than they were a generation ago. What changes in the line of progress may not come in the next generation?—Kansas City Star.

Unintentional Suicide

Many people are slowly poisoning themselves just as surely as if they drank iodine every morning for breakfast. They are daily absorbing the toxins, or poisons, created by accumulated waste matter in their constipated digestive systems. Sooner or later disease will conquer their weakened bodies.

If you have dizzy spells, headaches, coated tongue, bad breath, insomnia, no appetite, bilious attacks or pains in the back and limbs, you are probably suffering from self poisoning caused by constipation. The surest and pleasantest relief for this condition is Herbine, the vegetable cathartic which acts in the natural way. Get a bottle today from Stokes & Alexander Drug Company.

Dirty Home Hurts All

A few clean and orderly homes in a select residence district can never safeguard the entire community. A single filthy home, dirty backyard, or a stagnant pool may easily become the source of an epidemic of fatal disease that will sweep the city. A trash pile in the stums may start a general conflagration.

Have Your Plans Correct

Be sure of your "plans" before you go ahead and build your house. For in those plans lie not only the power to make you happy or miserable as they are good plans or bad plans, but in them you are investing a certain amount of capital—hard-earned capital, perhaps—that represents considerable effort of saving.

Landscaping

People are getting over their timidity about this imposing term, landscape architecture, and realize that it simply means good sense and artistic taste in planting flowers, trees, vines and grass, arranging pools and building other outdoor garden features according to recognized principles of design.

PREVENTS RUST ON TINWARE

Before using new tinware, rub well with lard and stand it in a hot oven until thoroughly heated. This will prevent rust in future use.

NEW RECIPE FOR KRAUT

In bottom of buttered baking dish place a layer of kraut, then a layer of cooked egg-noodles and a layer of crumbled sausage; repeat until dish is filled; place whole sausages on top and bake slowly until the meat is browned (about 1 hour).

TO SHOOT A PROJECTILE TO THE MOON

To shoot a projectile to the moon it would be necessary for it to have a velocity of seven miles a second. The average big gun can give a speed of only about one one-hundredth of that rate.

WORTH HEEDING

The recent epidemic of "flu" throughout the country, now said to be rapidly abating, has brought out a question over which we find many Littlefield people disagreed—the question as to whether or not common colds are contagious.

Without a desire to "take sides" in the argument, we print the statement of the U. S. Health Dept. These medical experts say that although all efforts to find the germ-of the common cold have been futile it still is believed that the disease is caused by a germ, and one too small to be visible, even under a powerful microscope. "The fact that colds can be passed from one person to a nother shows that there must be some sort of infective material," declare the experts. And that would seem to settle the argument.

Low vitality, they assert, invite common colds. Ordinarily symptoms are running of and sneezing, but it may sore throat or take the chest. If not properly checked a cold may spread part of the nose and extending to the ears, chial tubes and lungs. Monia may develop. Crowds, watch your diet, stipitation and dress. You can ward off a Uncle Sam's experts for the next several weeks worth heeding.

Pep Paragraphs

The Pep Community club held its regular meeting last Friday at 8:00 p. m. Just before the meeting was called to order a preliminary speaking contest between pupils of the school was held. In the senior girl's speaking class, the judges awarded first place to Katherine Lupton, second to Velma Dempsey, third to Louise Lupton, fourth to Blanche Stengel. All the pupils taking part in this contest spoke so well that it was difficult to choose between them.

In the Junior girl's class Gladys Jungman was given first place and Louise Heitzman second place.

In the senior boy's class, Gavis Hanley won first place, Bernie Allison second and L. C. Hanley third.

In the Junior boy's contest Leonard Albus got first place and Adolphus Jungman second.

When the club went in session, it voted to award money prizes to every pupil of the school who won first, second or third places in the Inter-scholastic League Contest.

The giving of these prizes will be a great incentive to the students and the club deserves warm commendation for its interest in the work of the school. It is when the community thus cooperates with the teachers that the school can work more effectively.

There are few communities that take more interest in their school than the Pep community. When a community has this attitude towards its school the cultural influences that emanate from the school will find fertile soil in every home in the community that is properly attuned to the school.

The club voted to give a community play in the near future. The date of the play will be announced later.

The following program will be given at the next club meeting, March 1st. Song, Misses Gladys and Lorene Jungman, W. T. Jungman, accompanist.

Resume of the Colonial Period in American Literature, Professor F. S. Murphy.

Life and Works of Cotton Mather, Miss Lucille Stengel.

Founded Famous Order

The famous Charterhouse in London was founded in 1371 by Sir Walter Manny, who received a license to establish a house of Carthusian monks in that year. Manny, a native of France, settled in England in 1327.

Council Ruled Colonies

The Spanish king was represented in all affairs relating to America and the East Indies by the council of the Indies, a body created by King Ferdinand in 1511. The council's seat was in Madrid.

A British army regiment recently returned to England from Constantinople, having been absent for eighteen years and having done duty in eight different countries.

Adults Contract Children's Diseases

Adults can, and do, contract many children's diseases. And, usually, they suffer from them much more than children do. For instance, many adults contract worms, an ailment usually associated with children. Sometimes they suffer intensely and take expensive medical treatments, without realizing that worms are the cause of their troubles. Yet, the symptoms are the same as in children, loss of appetite and weight, grinding the teeth and restless sleep, itching of the nose and anus, and abdominal pains. And, the same medicine that surely and harmlessly cures round and pin worms from children will do the same for adults. White's Cream Vermifuge, which you can get at Stokes & Alexander Drug Company.

There are many reasons for the ease of steering the new Ford

THE new Ford is exceptionally easy to steer because of the well-proportioned weight of the car, the steel-spoke wheels, the co-ordinated design of springs and shock absorbers, the size and design of the steering wheel, and the simple mechanical construction of the steering gear.

The Ford steering gear is of the worm and sector type used on high-priced cars and is three-quarter irreversible.

In simple, non-technical language, this means that the car responds easily and quickly to the steering wheel, yet there is no danger of the wheel being jerked from the hands of the driver by ruts or bumps in the road. A light touch guides the car, yet you always have that necessary feel-of-the-road so essential to good driving.

Strength of materials and careful workmanship give unusual stability to the Ford steering gear and housing.

The steering worm, for instance, is splined to the steering worm shaft and is stronger, of course, than if a single key were used to hold the shaft and worm together. The steering worm sector is forged and machined in the same piece with its shaft.

The housing of the steering gear mechanism is made of three steel forgings, electrically welded together. This housing is then electrically welded to the steering column. Such a one-piece steel unit is naturally much sturdier than if several parts were used and bolted or riveted together.

Throughout, the new Ford steering mechanism is so simple in design and so carefully made that it requires practically no attention.

The only thing for you to do is to have the front steering spindles, spindle connecting rods, and drag link lubricated every 500 miles and the steering gear lubricated every 2000 miles.

For this work, you will find it best to consult the Ford dealer. He has been specially trained and equipped to help you get the greatest possible use from your car over the longest period of time at a minimum of trouble and expense.
