

KEEPING THE RECORD STRAIGHT IN THE SENATORIAL RACE

(An Editorial)

GAIN, HAS SERVED LITTLEFIELD, LAMB COUNTY, AND WEST TEXAS UNSTINTINGLY THROUGHOUT THE YEARS

IN ASKING ELECTION AS STATE SENATOR, ARTHUR DUGGAN IS SIMPLY ASKING THE PEOPLE OF THE 30TH SENATORIAL DISTRICT FOR THE OPPORTUNITY TO BE OF FURTHER SERVICE TO THEM.

THAT ALONE PROVES THAT ARTHUR P. DUGGAN IS NEIGHBOR TO THE THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE MAKING UP THIS SENATORIAL DISTRICT.

Mud is being slung in the run off campaign in the hope that it will splash all over Mr. Duggan and result in him losing votes on August 27. Some people become so busy mud slinging that they get all mussy themselves.

THIS NEWSPAPER SELDOM LAUNCHES INTO A DISCUSSION OF POLITICAL MATTERS, BUT WHEN A HOME TOWN MAN IS ATTACKED IN AN UNFAIR MANNER, THEN—WELL, ITS ABOUT TIME TO LAY THE CARDS FACE UP ON THE TABLE.

We people of Littlefield and Lamb county do not see eye to eye on everything, but we are a body of fair minded people; we gladly give credit where credit is due.

AND WE DEMONSTRATED BY OUR BALLOTS THAT WE KNOW ARTHUR P. DUGGAN TO BE THE RIGHT KIND OF A MAN TO PLACE IN THE STATE SENATE.

Arthur P. Duggan is the man who founded Littlefield, and Arthur P. Duggan has been among us always. He has held virtually every office of importance at the command of the citizens of Littlefield; he has labored day in and day out in behalf of this city and county. Having served his home city faithfully, he was selected for and served in the important post of that of president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. If he had not been an able man would he have been the choice of West Texas for such an important post?

Friend Of Ex-Service Men

And in referring to Mr. Duggan's connection with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, we take the opportunity to refer to a large circular which has been distributed in behalf of G. E. Lockhart, Mr. Duggan's opponent in the race.

One paragraph of the circular reads as follows:

"The West Texas Chamber of Commerce, of which my opponent is a member and former president, has at all times opposed the payment of the soldiers' bonus. I favor the immediate payment of this debt, and will introduce a resolution in the Legislature urging Congress to pay this debt immediately. My opponent and all the Big Boys will oppose this."

HERE ARE THE TRUE FACTS:

ARTHUR P. DUGGAN WAS A CHARTER MEMBER OF RICHARD NEW POST, LITTLEFIELD, AND IS STILL A MEMBER IN GOOD STANDING.

ON MARCH 26 LAST, MR. DUGGAN WROTE A LETTER TO THE WEST TEXAS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE CRITICISING THEIR STAND ON THE PAYMENT OF THE SOLDIERS' BONUS. ED RILEY, COMMANDER OF RICHARD NEW POST, SENT A COPY OF THAT LETTER TO EVERY THEN POST COMMANDER IN THE DISTRICT. EX-SERVICE MEN KNOW ARTHUR P. DUGGAN'S STAND IN THE MATTER OF THE SOLDIERS' BONUS.

DUGGAN'S HANDS NOT TIED

MR. LOCKHART'S CIRCULAR ADMONISHES FOLKS TO STOP, LOOK, READ, AND CONSIDER. WE THANK YOU!

"My opponent, Arthur P. Duggan, is a stockholder in the Texas Utilities says the Lockhart circular.

"If my opponent is not a stockholder in the above company or companies then his wife is a stockholder in such company or companies," the circular continues.

Mrs. Duggan, like thousands of others, purchased stock in the American Commonwealth Power Co., and that company went into the hands of receivers on December 31, 1931. That wasn't so pleasant; sort of hard to take.

NO UTILITIES COMPANY HAS ANYTHING TO DO WITH MR. DUGGAN'S CAMPAIGN; NEVER ASKED HIM TO RUN FOR STATE SENATOR; NEVER CONTRIBUTED A CENT TO HIS EXPENSES, AND MR. DUGGAN NO MORE REPRESENTS ANY UTILITIES THAN DO YOU WHO MAY READ THIS.

ENGINEER TELLS OF MUNICIPAL PLANT BENEFIT

Numerous advantages of municipally owned light and power plants were given by B. B. Huckabee of Tulsa, in a talk last Thursday at a luncheon of the Littlefield Rotary club. Mr. Huckabee has been engaged by the City Commission to make a survey of the advisability of a municipal light and power plant for this city, and is now engaged in carrying out that work. Some of the advantages of municipally owned plants, as pointed out by Mr. Huckabee in his talk, are: Cheaper current; the fact that the cities having their own plants control the price at which current is supplied, whereas in the case of privately owned plants cities have no control over rates, other than the provisions of the franchise granted the power concern, and such regulations as are provided by law; profits from plant can be used, in the case of municipal plants, to defray the expenses of the town and carry out improvements; gives increased employment, thereby stimulating business, and, in addition, enables cities owning their own power plants to operate in a more efficient and economical manner. DR. KNAPP COMES TO TEXAS

(From The Texas Weekly)

Announcement that Dr. Bradford Knapp has accepted the presidency of Texas Technological College at Lubbock, and will take up his duties at that institution in the fall, is of importance to the entire state. The board of directors of the college is to be congratulated in that it has provided the institution with an executive head who is one of the educational leaders of the South. But Mr. Knapp is more than that. He is one of the most able leaders of economic progress in the South, and his coming to Texas is an event on which the entire state is to be congratulated. The board has done something for West Texas and for the state as a whole, and not merely something for the college, in inducing Dr. Knapp to move to Lubbock.

For the past 23 years Dr. Knapp has been engaged in activities having for their object the raising of the standard of living among the people of the South. And he has lived with such work, so to speak, most of his life. For he is most decidedly the "son of his father," the distinguished Seaman A. Knapp, founder and pioneer of agricultural extension work in the South. Beginning as the assistant of his father with the United States Department of Agriculture in 1909, and succeeding him at his death, Dr. Knapp was with the department for 10 years. For five years he was chief of the Office of Extension Work in the South, States Relations Service. For the past 12 years he has been a college executive, but during that period has been even more distinctly a leader of economic progress than when he was with the Department of Agriculture. He was dean of the College of Agriculture, University of Arkansas, and director of the State Experiment Station, from the beginning of 1920 to the end of 1928, when he became president of Oklahoma Agricultural & Mechanical College. In 1928 he became president of Alabama Polytechnic Institute, which post he will leave to go to Lubbock.

Texas has great need at this time of just such leadership as Dr. Knapp embodies. Few men understand the problems of the South as well as he does, and few have the capacity to inspire others that is his. We welcome him to Texas.

DIG THE FLORIDA CANAL

It seems to us that this is the time of all times to begin digging that deep-water canal across the neck of the Florida peninsula. While we are preparing to build the St. Lawrence deep-waterway along our northern border at a cost 258 million dollars, it looks to us as if we should not want to put a lot more money and men to work in the South, also.

The Florida canal definitely comes in the class of self-liquidating public works for which the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized to lend its $3,800,000,000 of resources. It will cost, Army engineers estimate, about $200,000,000. That is a small sum as money is counted in these days. It will take several years to complete it, but when it is finished it will save so much time and money for ships plying between Gulf ports and the Atlantic seaboard that it will pay for itself in toll in a few years.

The Panama Canal last year, in spite of depressed foreign trade, earned $12,000,000 above the cost of operation. After paying the interest on the $125,000,000 of Panama Canal Bonds, this left $9,000,000 profit. There is much more ship traffic between the Gulf of Mexico ports and those on the Atlantic coast than there is going through the Panama Canal annually. At a much smaller toll per gross ton, the Florida canal could earn as much as Panama does.

We understand that application is being made to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to finance this enterprise. We hope that it will be one of the things done speedily.

The nomination of Mr. Garner by acclamation means that Mr. Garner did a perfect job at garnering.—Slaton Slatonite.

EIGHT YEARS AGO IN LITTLEFIELD

(Excerpts from Lamb Co. Leader)

Littlefield is no longer a wide place in the road, but an honest to goodness little city, under the laws of the State of Texas, with a bunch of city fathers to look after her interests, and all the rights and privileges to grow as big as Dallas, Kansas City or Chicago.

Last Saturday, in compliance with a petition previously presented to the County Commissioners' Court, and a mandate issued out of that tribunal, the citizens residing within the proposed corporate bounds of Littlefield, cast their ballots pro and con. There were 109 votes for incorporation under the commission form of government, and only four against.

The first set of officers for the new town were also voted on at the same time, the vote being as follows:

Johnny Breen, 16 years old, spent all his life aboard a tugboat plying near the river by profession which sinks the mother and the man. Ignorant, unschooled, driven, he drags himself in the friendly darkness of the night—only to be kicked and into the midst of a group of boys who beat and he escapes into a basey where he hides. The boy was rescued and taken into a Jewish family living in their second-hand clothing works in the sweatshop is openly courted by young daughter. . . . money." Malone, with a sudden grip, pulled the retreating Bernfeld backward. "Dig, damn you—dig!" and he drove his elbow sharply into the middle of Sol's soft back. Bernfeld, wincing with pain, hesitated, John eyed him with suspicion. "Dig, you rotten crook," and Pug Malone gave him a second and much harder hook in the back as a crisp fifty dollar bill came to light. Malone snatched this and handed it to John. "Take, that, son, you earned it. An' you," turning to Sol, "fade, an' fade fast, before you get what's comin' to you." Bernfeld took the hint without delay.

"What's your name, son?" Malone asked. "You look white."

"Green, sir, John Breen," the "sir" slipping from some dormant cell, recorded, perhaps, while overhearing Captain Breen address some wharf or ship officer. Pug Malone, compact, gray haired, and pink, looked like a god to the boy.

"Where do you work?" Malone knew that John was not a professional.

"With Mr. Lipvitch in the Clothing Emporium."

"Pay?" demanded Malone.

"Yes, sir, he pays me." John felt his benefactor was under criticism.

"Of course he does, son. How much? What do you get a week?"

"Three dollars—and board," John added, by way of good measure.

dom and of physical development, a year charged with the elements of crime, of drunkenness and brawling. John saw, without knowing, the dregs of the city. Bleary-eyed victims of the sodden slums of Chinatown drifted into the bar at McManus' for a bowl of beer and a snatch of lunch, then to sink back again to the drug-soaked atmosphere below. He saw these things throughout the swinging doors between the gym, at one end of the dance hall, and the private parlors and the bar. It was merely another picture of the overpowering city, so tremendous in its contrasts.

Pug Malone, ex-prize fighter, trainer for the Samson Sporting Club, a hard, honest, medium-sized, middle-aged man, shorn of his illusions, watched over John Breen. John rose at six, with Malone, jumping up in the brisk air when he skipped rope, swung the clubs and shadow boxed under the eye of the trainer who sat on the edge of his cot smoking his morning pipe. After a half hour of this John turned out the blankets to air, and master and pupil met a string of boys at the rear door of the club and ran hard for another half hour before the awakening of the city traffic, coming back to the club shower and a rub down.

Malone and John then breakfasted alone, in a card room back of the bar, on large bowls of oatmeal, bacon and eggs, rolls and coffee. The day was spent in taking care of a string of fighters, boxing, rubbing and punching the bag, or working at the chest machines. Regular meals, clear air, and early to bed filled out his frame with an abounding health that glowed and sparkled through his clear skin in startling contrast to the sodden wrecks of men and women drifting all about.

After two months of training for condition, Malone initiated John into the science of pugilism, coaching him behind closed doors in the art of jabbing, hooking, and blocking blows. He impressed upon him the great value of infighting, and the secret of terrific punches with the crooked elbow, throwing the full force of the body into the blow by applying the fundamental principles of mechanics and dynamic force.

One day, after a long go with Malone himself, the trainer, wiping a bleeding nose, and out of breath, remarked shortly, "You'll do to take a crack at a few second raters." John flushed, "Sure—you must always win. Don't forget that, John. Get the habit of always winnin'—always. It's the principle of success."

And then John polished off a half dozen "set ups," third and second rate boys disposed of with startling precision. Almost over night the name of Fighting Breen, the welter weight, became known on the Bowery from Chatham Square to Cooper Union. The Grogan Gang claimed him as one of their original members and boasted of his renown. Fighting Breen was on the road to championship honors and rewards.

And at most of these fights, sitting near the ringside, alone or with Judge Kelly, was the well-known sporting man, Gilbert Van Horn. He always bet heavily on Fighting Breen.

"No," Malone was positive, "that boy's under my care. Never mind about meetin' him, now. He'll be a champion, then you can all meet him. The kid's too young—don't give him bum ideas. You sports spoil too many good fighters."

Strangely, it was Marvin Kelly who wanted to talk with John Breen. Gilbert merely looked on. He had bought a Panhard, and on days following the fights roared through the countryside in clouds of white dust, tearing up the water packed macadam. People thought he was crazy in his goggles and mask. He hardly knew whether he was or not. At Dobbs Ferry he upset a farmer's truck cart, the horses were really at fault, and the Morning Advertiser carried a long story of his doings. It seemed as if the Van Horns would always be in the public eye.

In the meantime, Malone, guarding John with the care of a father, placed his winnings in the Bowery Savings Bank and John, at the time of the reform wave, engineered from the inside, had saved over four hundred dollars and had also provided himself with an elegant wardrobe. The lapse in the fighting game pleased him for he was beginning to hate the contests. A feeling of hopeless unrest seized him. He became moody, discontented, pettish. Malone studied the boy and wondered what poison was entering into him when they were engulfed in the heat of the great municipal campaign of 1901.

Malone sensed something strange in John, just what he attempted in vain to discover. But the boy, noting a barroom loafer sitting at one of the tables thumbing a newspaper, knew that he was looking at a superior being. The boy's clothes might be foul; he might be filthy inside and out, but he possessed a key, the great key to all; he could read. John had grasped a word or two in casual contact with letters. He knew that R Y E spelled rye whiskey and that B E E R spelled beer, but the label Pilsener Genossenschafts-Brauerei was utter mystery. He did know that there were such things as letters and an alphabet. But he knew of no way in which he could go about the task of acquiring the act of reading, or of what he might find out should the gift come to him like magic in the night. For he did dream such miracles, often, that he could read, and just as he was about to gain some mighty truth his fairy gift faded away. Then, at times, he consoled himself with the thought that it was no great gift after all. None of the readers he saw were particularly wise, except, of course, his idol, Pug Malone.

John's inability to read was brought to light one day. "Here's the story of my scrap with Stiff. I just dug this up in my old trunk. Lookit ver, Jack, an' you'll see Stiff topped me by ten pounds," and Pug held out the paper to John. John took the paper, glanced at the full length wood-cut of Malone, middle weight champion, etc., etc., his eye roaming over the figure of his friends in fighting pose. Tears welled into his eyes; the picture blurred; the red tinged sheet was not so crimson as he. His blush of shame, and his tear-bathed eyes, looking straight at Pug, halted the trainer in his recital.

"Pug, I can't read a damn word!" he said.

"Can't read! Can't read the Gazette?" Malone almost dropped a bottle of seltzer he was about to squirt into a highball, a customer having appeared before the bar at that agitating moment. "Well, I'll be damned!" and Pug shot the water with such force it splashed the bar, drowning out the Scotch. "Here, take some more," and Pug passed the bottle back to the customer who spiked the drink liberally, wondering what the excitement was all about.

When Malone recovered the whiskey bottle he turned to the boy. Tears glistened in John's eyes and stained his cheek where he had roughly dashed a sleeve across his face. A great lump rose in the throat of the trainer. He went to the end of the bar, poured out a large drink of cold black coffee and tossed it off. When the customer left he returned to John.

"Why in the name of hell didn't you tell me this before?"

"Too busy, Pug," the boy explained haltingly. "I wanted to make good at the scrapping. I ain't had no chance. I figured I was too old. So what's the use?" John's voice held a note of hopeless maturity. Time, the master, had passed him by. On leaving the bar Pug and John walked into the gym and donned gloves for their usual fast round before supper. Malone, scoring a hard left to the nose, drew blood.

"There, son, you see you got to go to school now." He carefully wiped the red smear from his glove with a towel, while John laughingly held his bleeding nose. "It's night school for you. Night school with them kykes an' Polacks. You start tomorrow, kid, at the beginnin'." Pug was positive. "I'll bet you'll be readin' the Police Gazette in a month," he added hopefully.

John Breen knew no more where he was heading than did the first voyagers who sailed their crazy caravels across the waters of a virgin world. He plowed ahead with an energy sustained by his magnificent vitality. In six months' time he had burst his prison bars. In his feverish research he ran beyond the limits of the school. In a year he carried on his quest to science and philosophy. The day John Breen first stumbled into a second-hand book store he became aware of a vast mine of incalculable wealth.

John trembled as he walked off with his treasures, and then spent the night searching the pages, wringing from them the ecstasy that went into their making.

at three five dollar bills and men to John. They were standing in a corner, partly shielded by a door.

"What's that?" Malone demanded, approaching the boy and his mother.

"I won. I get fifteen and Sol says he's my manager," John explained.

"—you dirty crook!" The trainer at Sol, blanched to a deathly color at the discovery of his boy's "You give that boy his "Board! Board!" Malone ran his hand over the body of the boy. "Board—rats!" And then, seeing the alarmed look on John's face, he went on in a kindly tone. "What you need is feedin'. Better stay here. I'll give you a job, five a week an' real board. Rubbin', that's the work, an' I'll train you, son, a split right. Are you my boy?"

And so John Breen left the Ghetto to enter the Bowery of the Greater City of New York.

A year passed over the head of John Breen, a year of ampler freedom and of physical development, a year charged with the elements of crime, of drunkenness and brawling. John saw, without knowing, the dregs of the city. Bleary-eyed victims of the sodden slums of Chinatown drifted into the bar at McManus' for a bowl of beer and a snatch of lunch, then to sink back again to the drug-soaked atmosphere below. He saw these things throughout the swinging doors between the gym, at one end of the dance hall, and the private parlors and the bar. It was merely another picture of the overpowering city, so tremendous in its contrasts.

CHURCHES

METHODIST CHURCH
Sunday, August 14

Let us make a banner attendance for Sunday School, at 9:45. Wouldn't it be grand if we could have 100 per cent attendance of church members. Sunday will mark the half way mark of our meeting. How we need to work during this concentrated effort of Revival season. Dear church member has God whispered a message to your heart this week? Has He called you to paths of service? Has He pointed the way to work in His vineyard? If not, won't you seek the secret place and tarry till you hear the still small voice? Will you make the services for Sunday a special object of prayer? Sunday Night hear the Message on "THE LAND OF BEGINNING AGAIN." Friends and strangers we bid you welcome to all the services.

Pastor, Joe E. Boyd.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

9:45—Sunday School.

Yes, August is the hardest month of the year, but we have carried on in a great way through the summer—Let's keep it up just a little while longer; then we will be able to carry out a great program of work this fall. Come bring your company. Remember our Revival is to start August 28.

JOE F. GRIZZLE, Pastor.

Chairman P. T. A. Urges Health Policy Be Carried Out

Mrs. J. M. Crain state publicity chairman of the Texas Congress of Parent and Teachers, urges the different schools in Texas to carry out the five point health policy adopted last year. The child's health means everything to him and to gain this there must be cooperation between parents, teachers and the child. The good or bad habits formed in childhood register in manhood, so let us as a body stand guard over these children teaching them cleanliness and neatness seeing that they get proper food, exercise, sufficient sleep and have good posture at all times.

Old Time Revival Begins Sunday At Tabernacle Church

Registration of High School Students

To the Patrons of Littlefield High School:

Choosing a course in high school is a very important matter and should not be done hurriedly. The Littlefield schools will open August 22, but we want to enroll all high school students before that date. High school students will be enrolled on the following dates:

Wednesday, August 17, all eighth grade students. Also all ninth grade students whose names begin with letters A to K inclusive.

Thursday, August 18, ninth grade students whose names begin with the letters L to Z inclusive, also all tenth grade students.

Friday, August 19, all eleventh grade students.

If students will come to the high school building at the above-mentioned dates, the high school teachers will be there and there will be plenty of time to assist each student in selecting satisfactory subjects and a good daily program. If the matter of enrolling in the high school is put off until August 22, teachers will be busy with other school duties and will not have sufficient time to assist the students in arranging their work.

Way Construction Is Leading 1932-33 Project of Littlefield Booster Organization

PAVED ROADS SERVING CITIZENS ARE URGED

Will Actively Con- Work In Interest Agriculture

Way construction as the live, a very progressive has been outlined by the Chamber of Commerce for year.

A system of good roads extending
in every direction from Littlefield is believed to be in the best interest of this city and its trade territory. It is believed that without a system
of good roads this city and territory
cannot make the progress that would be possible
with the right
network of highways.

The roads committee of the chamber consists of F. G. Sadler, Rev. Joe F. Grizzle, A. P.
R. E. McCaskill, and Pat

Three Highways
The goal of the chamber is to have paved highways by December, 1933, and all lateral roads leading to these highways in good condition.

The paved roads for which the chamber is working are: No. 7;

a new north and south road;
and a Floydada-Portales highway.

"This committee shall think good roads, talk good roads, and build good roads," says Dr. Ira E. Woods, who was recently elected president of the chamber.

The agriculture committee is another important group of the chamber of commerce. This is strictly an agricultural section, and anything that is done in the interest of agriculture is an accomplishment that affects this entire territory.

This committee consists of F.
G. Sadler, chairman, J. S. Hill-
liard, A. P. Duggan, A. D. Repp, Ross Mayhew, Jim Douglass, R.
T. Badger, and J. C. Hilbun.

Act in Taxation Matters
The matter of taxation is important at any time, but it is of particular concern under present economic conditions. T. Wade Potter, Dr. T.
B. Duke, Walter T. La Mond, John Porcher, and Pat Boone have been selected to serve on the tax committee of the chamber.

Of paramount importance in the growth of any city is the matter of beautification. Littlefield is a young city, and while much beautification has been carried out there is much yet to be accomplished. The civic committee of the chamber, under whose direction comes the matter of beautification, is composed of R. A.
Box, chairman, J. O. Garlington, W.
J. Chesher, and J. W. Hale.

New Industries Sought Industries are of outstanding importance in the development of any city.

The chamber believes that of particular importance to Littlefield at this time is the obtaining of a cotton seed oil mill, a flour mill, a creamery, a broom corn factory, a hospital, and a hotel.

The industrial committee of the chamber consists of J. T.
Elms chairman, E. A. Bills, P.
W. Walker, A. D. Repp, T. S.
Sales, Clay Humphrey and A. P.
Duggan.

Another important group of the chamber is the transportation committee, consisting of Homer Hall as chairman, E. S. Rowe, Pryor Ham-mons, R. E. McCaskill, J. E. Bran-nen, A. C. Kincaid, Porter Fitzgerald, and A. P. Duggan.

"This committee shall study all rates and service, and suggest any and all means of getting better and more convenient transportation," says a chamber announcement in giving the work of this group.

The good health of the citizens is of paramount importance to any community.

The health committee of the chamber consists of Dr. T. B. Duke, chairman, Dr. J. D. Simpson, Dr. J. R.
Coen, and Rev. Joe F. Grizzle.

Advertising City is Important
A well advertised city will grow more rapidly than a city which neglects this important feature in promoting growth and development. The chamber's advertising committee consists of Rev. Joe F.
Grizzle, chairman, Morley B.
Dyke, B. M. Harrison, Homer
Hall, R. E. Riley, A. C. Kincaid,
and E. T. Badger.

Of unusual importance is the work
of the fire prevention committee.
This committee, which is made up of the Littlefield Fire Prevention board, is composed of J. W. Hale, Rev. Joe
F. Grizzle, Fire Chief Carl Arnold,
Fire Marshall Fred Hoover, and Mrs.
Charles Harless.

The welfare committee is an important group in that they have a big part in caring for the needy of the city. This committee is composed of Pat Boone, chairman, Rev. Joe F.
Grizzle, Rev. Joe Boyd, Ellis Foust,
and J. W. Hale.

Various events are carried out each year under the auspices of the chamber. All or part of the arrangements for such events are under the direction of the entertainment committee. This group consists of W. J.
Chesher, chairman, Dr. C. C. Clements, Rev. Joe F. Grizzle, Rev. Joe Boyd, and A. D. Repp.

Fighting Inferior Advertising
Because of the large number of advertising schemes, many of them of little or no value, which are presented to the merchants and business men, the chamber has appointed a special advertising committee to pass on such propositions. The idea is not to dictate to the business men and merchants as to what they shall purchase in the nature of advertising; the plan is to check over advertising propositions and make recommendations.

J. W. HALE

Secretary-Manager, Littlefield Chamber of Commerce.

This committee, it is expected, will save the business men and merchants a huge sum annually in that they will recommend against useless advertising.

The majority of business men and merchants, because of being busy with the general conducting of their business, have not the time to look carefully into advertising propositions, and it is the plan of the chamber's advertising committee to perform this function for them. The chamber's advertising committee consists of C. O. Stone chairman, Mayor T. S. Sales, and J. O. Garlington.

This committee and the chamber will appreciate business men and merchants advising them of all advertising propositions which are presented to them by out-of-town persons, in order to sell useless advertising. All persons desiring to sell advertising in Littlefield are asked to have their proposition approved by the committee.

Two important committees in the functioning of a chamber of commerce are the membership and finance groups.

The membership committee consists of John Forcher, chairman, W.
J. Chesher, Jim Douglass, T. S. Sales,
Mallory Etter and Sam Hutson.

"This committee shall meet each month and check the roll, and go personally to see any member who has dropped out, and shall visit every man coming in to Littlefield and invite him to join the Chamber of Commerce at once, get acquainted, and become a part of the town," says a memorandum which has been issued by the secretary-manager of the chamber.

The finance committee consists of Dr. C. C. Clements, chairman, T.
Wade Potter, J. H. Ware, A. P. Duggan, T. S. Sales, and J. O. Garlington. The work of the finance committee is to maintain the funds of the chamber at the desired standard.

Dr. Woods, the board of directors, and the secretary-manager believe that in the successful functioning of the various committees much of the success of the chamber rests.

J. W. Hale, secretary-manager, was recently re-elected, and preparations are underway to carry out a big year of achievements in behalf of Littlefield and Lamb county.

Former Director of Littlefield Band Visits City Recently

Claybourne Harvey, a band instructor in a Chicago high school, and several years ago secretary of the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce and leader of this city's band, spent Monday, August 1 here.

Mr. Harvey was visiting a brother in Lubbock, and came to this city with Monte Bowren, director of the Littlefield band, and assisted in the program rendered by the local musical organization in connection with Trades Day.

Mr. Harvey spent a part of his time while here calling on friends.

The former Littlefield resident has made an outstanding success in Chicago musical circles. One example of his achievements is the fact that Mr.
Harvey last spring was the director of the high school band which won the city-wide championship.

Mr. Davis, director of the Slaton band, also came to Littlefield Monday, August 1, and assisted in the program rendered by this city's band in connection with Trades Day.

THE COMMERCIAL USE OF TEXAS HIGHWAYS IS A PRIVILEGE, NOT A RIGHT

● The highways of Texas are the property of its citizens. They constitute a system of nearly 200,000 miles of road of which 20,000 miles are designated as State highways and the remainder are county roads. All types of road are represented in this system, less than 5% have so-called "permanent" surface.

The total cost of these highways is unknown but it amounts to many hundred million dollars. From 1917 to 1930, inclusive, counties and road districts of the State issued $243,592,834 in bonds for the construction and improvement of roads and bridges. In the two-year period ending August 31, 1930, the State Highway Commission expended $89,032,825, of which $22,488,426 was for maintenance of the State highways.

In view of these tremendous costs the preservation of our highways from rapid wear and destruction is a matter of very vital interest to their owners, viz., the public. It is especially important that they be made to outlast the life of the bonds, which run from 20 to 30 years.

The use of the public highways for commercial purposes is not a right, but a privilege which may be withheld or granted subject to such restrictions, regulations and charges as the Legislature may see fit to impose. Such regulations are intended to promote safety, preserve the highways and safeguard the interests of the public.

Texas Railroads, which pay the entire cost of construction and maintenance of their own roadbeds and, in addition, make substantial contributions to the cost of Texas highways, are thoroughly regulated with respect to their services, rates, methods and practices. There is no good reason why commercial users of the highways, built and maintained at the expense of the public, should not likewise be regulated to such extent as the public interest requires and pay such charges as will represent proper compensation for the privileges granted them.

● The statutes governing highway transportation as enacted by the Forty-second Legislature represent the wishes of the citizens of this State and express their desire to give equal rights to all and special privileges to none. These statutes should be given a fair trial and their value ascertained. Unless this is done, a chaotic condition in transportation as a whole will surely ensue.

THE PART ARTHUR P. DUGGAN PLAYED IN THE REDUCTION OF COTTON FREIGHT RATE

An example of the service to this section of the state, which is being rendered by Arthur P. Duggan, candidate for state senator, is the fact that he took the lead in bringing about a reduction in cotton freight rates, thereby saving the farmers on the Plains thousands of dollars.

The facts relative to the obtaining of the reduction in cotton freight rates are contained in a booklet which was prepared by supporters of Mr. Duggan and printed and distributed at their expense. The booklet is a message from farmers to farmers; was published under the names and authority of farmers of the Littlefield section, and outlines in detail what Mr. Duggan accomplished in the matter of reduced freight rates on cotton.

The section of the booklet, relative to the obtaining of the reduction in freight rates, reads as follows: TO THE FARMERS IN THE 30TH SENATORIAL DISTRICT OF TEXAS

The following facts are given to show who primarily was responsible for the reduction in freight rates on cotton in West Texas last September:

Prior to June 15th, 1931, the freight rates on cotton from all West Texas points to Galveston and Houston were the same, 93 1-2 cents per hundred. On June 15th, a new rate fixed by the I. C. C. and not the railroads, took effect increasing the rates to 95 cents at Post, Slaton, Lubbock, Levelland, Hale Center, Floydada and Ralls, 98 cents at Lamesa, Brownfield, Littlefield, Muncy and Crosbyton; $1.00 at Plainview, Lockney, Amherst, Sudan and Muleshoe. The average increase was approximately 5 cents per hundred pounds.

The new rate was not generally known to the business men and farmers over the district at the time. Early in August the matter was brought to the attention of Arthur P. Duggan by Mr. A. D. Repp, manager of the Cotton Compress at Littlefield. Mr. Duggan immediately got in touch with the business men and leaders of the several towns directly interested, and ascertained that none of them knew a thing about it. A conference was held at Lubbock on 18th to discuss the matter. Those attending the conference agreed that such an increase in freight rates, with cotton down to 5 cents or less, was a very serious matter—disastrous in fact. They did not see how the farmers could stand more freight with such declining prices; and that something ought to be done about it. Then and there the South Plains Freight Rate Association was formed, its purposes being to protect the farmers as far as possible against this increase. Mr. Duggan was elected chairman, A. B. Davis of Lubbock, secretary, with the following executive committee: H. E. Adams of Lockney, Glenn A. Smith of Plainview, W. W. Evans of Lamesa, R. M. Kendricks of Brownfield and M. A. McLaughlin of Ralls. The fight was on and it became fast and furious.

Mr. Davis and Mr. Duggan were requested to go to Dallas immediately to confer with freight rate experts and ascertain what steps might be taken to relieve the situation. This they did, and were told very emphatically that the new rates were fixed by the I. C. C. and COULD NOT BE CHANGED. It just COULDN'T BE DONE, for a change would affect the whole rate structure of the South, including Oklahoma and Louisiana. Not satisfied, Mr. Duggan went on to Austin and consulted the Attorney General's department; and the Railway Commission of Texas, only to receive the same answer: "The new rates were fixed by the I. C. C. and they had no authority to change them. IT JUST COULDN'T BE DONE." It looked like a hopeless case. But the leaders in the move were not satisfied so they met again in Lubbock on August 26th, and decided to fight the thing right on.

Mr. A. S. Underwood rendered very valuable assistance; Traffic Manager D. H. Berry of the W. T. C. of C., came into the case, and he, with Attorney Leffingwell of Dallas, a rate expert, advised the executive committee and conducted the hearing that was held later.

Notwithstanding former statements that no relief could be had; that the rates could not be changed except by the I. C. C., the Texas Railway Commission finally decided maybe they could give some relief, and so set a hearing of the case at Lubbock for Sept. 14th, exactly thirty days after Mr. Duggan first called attention to the need. The Railway Commission heard the facts AND GAVE THE RELIEF PRAYED FOR. New rates were fixed so as to protect the crop just beginning to move, thereby saving many thousands of dollars to the farmers of this section.

The U. S. Government reports recently issued show that 521,222 bales of cotton were ginned in this section during the past season as follows: Bailey county 21,803, Cochran 4,915, Crosby 34,429, Dawson 54,369, Dickens 29,302, Floyd 13,269, Garza 16,253, Gaines 4,248, Hale 31,612, Hockley 63,045, Lamb 80,349, Lubbock 72,172, Lynn 52,351, and Terry 33,848.

You, who may read this, figure for yourself how much money was saved to your county and to this section of Texas. Remember that saving went directly into the pockets of the FARMERS, for the FARMER ALWAYS PAYS THE FREIGHT.

That freight rate hearing and quick relief, set a record in Texas, so far as we know. It was not due to any one man, but to the combined efforts and co-operation of many men all over this country—MEN WHO KNEW THEY WERE RIGHT AND WOULD NOT TAKE NO FOR AN ANSWER.

The point of this story is that Arthur P. Duggan is just that kind of a man. He did start the movement; he paid his own expenses and spared neither time nor money until results were obtained. Do you know of any other candidate for State Senate now who assisted in that fight? Do you? Not one! Yet they had the same opportunity.

We farmers want to say to you, who are neighbors and friends of Arthur P. Duggan of many years standing, that he will work just that way for you as a State Senator. We have known him and worked with him, and can and do tell you that when he becomes convinced that a thing is right, and undertakes it, he never stops.

Senatorial Race

The Lockhart circular says "my opponent being a stockholder in the utilities company would not support any law that would affect the public utilities."

HOW DOES MR. LOCKHART KNOW WHAT ARTHUR P. DUGGAN WILL DO?

DOES THE WRITER OF THIS EDITORIAL KNOW WHAT MR. LOCKHART HAD FOR BREAKFAST THIS MORNING?

The fact of the matter is that when a man invests, or his wife invests, thousands of dollars in a concern, in order that money may return interest, and that concern gets into difficulty, it is not customary for that said man or that said wife to feel that he or she owes, the said concern a great debt.

THAT SHOULD ANSWER MR. LOCKHART'S STATEMENT AS TO WHAT MR. DUGGAN WILL DO IN THE MATTER OF THE UTILITIES.

Duggan Aided The Farmers Arthur P. Duggan lead the movement which brought about the reduction in cotton freight rates, saving thousands of dollars for the farmers of this section: Read the facts! They are published elsewhere in this issue of the Lamb County Leader.

The Lockhart circular says that "the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has done more to bring about the present tax burden than all other organizations combined" and are actively opposing the Tax League which seeks to relieve the people from the present tax burden.

Arthur P. Duggan was elected president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce six years ago. It was an honor and a responsibility coveted by all men in this section of Texas. He did a mighty good job of it, too.

Action in Tax Reduction At that time his major program was TAX EQUALIZATION AND REDUCTION. He discussed that subject all over West Texas so forcibly that the next Legislature appointed a Tax Survey Committee to revise the tax laws of Texas, and Mr. Duggan was made a member of that committee.

His experience as president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce particularly qualifies Mr. Duggan for the office of State Senator. He visited every section of West Texas met the people, discussed their needs, and obtained a personal knowledge of what the people believe to be in the best interests of this section of the state.

The facts, as stated above, show that the first effort to equalize and lower taxes out here was started by Mr. Duggan.

Everyone knows that at the recent convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, which was held in Sweetwater, that TAX REDUCTION was stressed more than anything else. Everyone knows that some six weeks ago the West Texas Chamber of Commerce called the county judges, commissioners, mayors, and all citizens interested in lower taxes, to a conference at Lubbock to discuss ways and means for lowering taxes.

That conference was attended by some 200 citizens interested in the matter, and representing 43 towns. The day was profitably spent in going over the program for TAX REDUCTION OFFERED BY THE WEST TEXAS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE, AND VAST REDUCTIONS WILL BE MADE, IN A PROPER WAY, AS A RESULT.

Here are two more paragraphs from the Lockhart circular:

"I will urge the passage of a law that will give a person the right to redeem his land lost by foreclosure at any time within three years. My opponent and the Temple Trust Co., and the Littlefield Estate, will oppose the passage of this law.

"I will favor a law that will protect the depositor in failed banks, and a law that will put a bank official in the penitentiary for life who most of the banks will oppose this law."

Lockhart Surely Is Mind Reader

Discussing the first paragraph, there is no connection whatsoever between Mr. Duggan and the Temple Trust Co.; the matter which Mr. Lockhart discusses has never been discussed between Mr. Duggan and the Temple Trust Co., nor has Mr. Duggan ever opposed such a law at any time or anywhere.

FOLKS, MR. LOCKHART IS WASTING HIS TIME; HE SHOULD HANG OUT HIS SHINGLE AS A MIND READER.

Now let us discuss the second paragraph:

MR. DUGGAN, HAVING SUFFERED A SEVERE LOSS A FEW YEARS AGO IN A BANK FAILURE WOULD WORK AS HARD AS ANY MAN TO MAKE THE PRESENT LAWS AGAINST TAKING DEPOSITS IN A FAILING BANK EFFECTIVE, AND PUT MORE TEETH IN THEM. WHEN A MAN LOSES HIS MONEY, AS MR. DUGGAN HAS IN THAT VERY THING, HE HAS A VERY PERSONAL INTEREST.

MR. LOCKHART TALKS ABOUT

THE COMMON PEOPLE OF THE SENATORIAL DISTRICT IS A FIGHT FOR THE COMMON PEOPLE'S SPECIAL INTERESTS.

BLESS YOUR HEART, ER, WE ARE ALL FOLKS OUT HERE ON THE PLAINS; WE ALL WANT TO LIVE, THERE IS NO ARISTOCRACY.

ARTHUR P. DUGGAN IS A CAPITALIST, BECAUSE HE WANTS TO OWN A LITTLE AND HAVE A FEW PERCENTS.

DO YOU THINK THAT "WHO MUST PAY THE TAXES ALONG WITH THE BURDEN IS GOING TO THE STATE AND TAKE OTHER ACTIONS IS NOT IN THE BEST INTERESTS OF THE 30TH SENATORIAL DISTRICT AS A WHOLE."

WE DO NOT THINK YOU CAN DEPEND ON ARTHUR P. DUGGAN TO DO THE RIGHT THING AT THE RIGHT TIME. HE IS A SAFE MAN TO ELECT TO THE SENATE.
