

Courthouse Formal Opening Set For April 2

An open house will be held April 2, to allow county residents to visit and inspect the new $600,000 county courthouse. It was announced Monday by members of the commissioners court here.

The new modern structure has been occupied by county officials for several weeks, but final arrangements for holding an open house for the public have been delayed pending completion of details.

The Courthouse will be open on April 2, and all county officials will be in their offices to welcome visitors and to show them around the magnificent new building.

Spacious offices and public rooms have been incorporated into the building which was designed for both utility and beauty by the architectural firm of Atcherson and Atkinson of Lubbock. It is constructed of dark green marble and light colored stone with aluminum windows and doors.

Consisting of two floors and a full basement, it contains the county library, one of the most modern in the country; offices for all county officials; public safety, welfare and Red Cross offices and two courtrooms.

The county courtroom is on the main floor adjacent to the county judges offices, and the district courtroom is located on the second floor with jury rooms and dormitories for both men and women jurors near by.

Vaults for storage of important papers are located near the offices of the tax-assessor and the county clerks offices.

SPECIAL EDITION

A special edition of The Lamb County Leader will be published March 31 in connection with the opening of the new courthouse.

Devoted to the history of the county and all the towns in the county, a wealth of historical material has already been assembled for the edition. Advertisers who wish to be represented in this gigantic edition should make their needs known early, as much advance work is a necessity, go into such a publication.

Countless photographs of early days as well as modern progress will be printed in the historical edition which will attempt to encompass the whole county history.

BULLETIN

Authoritative information received by the Leader Wednesday afternoon is that the Salk Polio Vaccine will be available after April first to the general public. Cost of the COMPLETE immunization, consisting of three vaccinations will probably be between $10 and $15 rather than $15 per shot as was previously announced.

A closed TV showing of results on the Salk vaccine tests made last year will be shown in Dallas within the next two or three weeks.

The vaccine will be available at most clinics after it is approved.

The Weather

Cloudy skies, but no moisture have hung over the area during the Sunday-Wednesday period, and little blowing sand has been encountered. Temperatures soared to 86 Monday afternoon and dropped to 40 early Wednesday morning. A cool front hit the area late Tuesday night but brought no moisture in its wake. Outlook for the next three days calls for continued windy March weather and little likelihood of any rainfall. Most trees and shrubs have begun leafing out this week and it looks like Spring is here, although you never can tell.

Nearly News

The commissioners' court ran into trouble getting a speaker for the opening ceremonies of the courthouse. Invitations to Gov. Shivers, Lt. Gov. Shepard and Cong. Mahon found all of them tied up. Finally some wag suggested they invite former Land Commissioner Bascom Giles, said he would draw the biggest crowd we ever had.

Everybody around our place is getting out at all. We're all tearing around trying to gather up material for the big historical edition which is coming out two days before the courthouse opening. We're getting lots of co-operation from the old timers around the county. Several of them are writing stories for it. But it still leaves us a great deal more to do than we know what to do with. So it's not surprising that the code name adopted for the operation is "Hysterical Ed."

D-Day for Hysterical Ed is March 31. Deadline on copy is a week before that. Has to be because there is such a large quantity of it, and a bunch of old broken down printers like us have to have a little time to cut the mustard. And besides that we have to keep putting out a paper at regular intervals between now and then. We used to think that was a full time job.

We feel it's going to be a pretty nice thing and are planning on printing quite a few extra copies. However, such editions usually sell out because the high cost of printing extra copies of such a large paper tends to discourage publishers from taking the risk of printing enough extras. If you are going to want extra copies, suggest you phone or call in your order now before we start printing the first sections. Then we will be sure to print enough for you. Folks who do not place their orders in advance will have to take their chances on getting the balance of the extras be-

Is Your Minister's Wife

Mrs. W. H. Vanderpool, Jr.

Who? ... Barbara? She's just our friend" ... "Lots of people know her." "She's a nut" ... "The most generous person I know" ... "She has a little mischievous streak that stifle but enough gets out to give her a glow." "Wonderful asset to Harry" ... "Makes everyone feel and more are comments about Barbara Vanderpool, the minister's wife of the First Methodist church. She has the wonderful ability of making everyone feel around her and is loved by the other people in the church and the younger ones as well.

Barbara receives her share of work in any branch of church life. She is a part of, demonstrating her belief that stewardship is of our time and talent as well as money.

Barbara is a student in college, she has planned to the service of the church, planning to do social work under the direction of the church. Her plans were somewhat delayed by an older student there, but she is still in the service of the church.

Barbara spends many hours reading to the boys and teaching them the things she feels must be a part of their lives.

Other members of the family are a singer canary, gift of a friend of the family, and a cocker spaniel called Billy, the granddaughter of the best show dog in America in 1940.

The Vanderpools came to Littlefield in 1952 from a pastorate in Dallas where he had served four years. They "have been very happy here" and Barbara says she does not feel minister's wives should be pitied because their lives must conform to a set pattern, more or less, that the few things they may not do are greatly offset by the good things of their lives. She "may be tired, but never bored" with her life. "Everything I do I do because I love to do it."

Mr. and Mrs. K. R. Tharp, Barbara's parents, still live in Dallas, where her father is a steward in Lakeswood Methodist church. She has a brother, Kay Tharp, who with his wife, Pat, and daughter, Valerie Jean, also live in Dallas. Her brother is an accountant. Her only sister is married to a dramatics professor in Northeastern State College in Louisiana. They have one daughter, Carol Lynn.

A member of the Garden Club, she loves to work in the yard and watch her plantings develop. She also loves flowers inside her tastefully arranged home.

With all the wonderful poise she possesses and her spontaneous wit, Barbara is a welcome addition to any dramatics program, in serious missionary programs or others presented for the amusement of some social gathering.

Her sincere devotion to any cause the church is interested in, her loyalty to her husband and his work, and her capacity for making friends who enjoy her company surely add up to the perfect complement of her minister-husband.

Women's Club Cooperate in Drive For "The Cross"

More than 5,000,000 members of the General Federation of Women's Clubs are participating in a drive to raise $3,000,000 with which will be built a 500-foot cross, the world's largest, atop Bald Knob mountain in southern Illinois.

The Cross, which will be visible over a 7,500 square-mile area is a project of the Bald Knob Christian Foundation, Inc. a non-denominational, non-profit, state-chartered group that has held Easter sunrise services on the mountain annually for the past two decades. The aim of the Foundation is to provide a place of worship for all denominations, with the purpose of achieving greater unity of religious thinking and effort.

In launching the drive in Washington today, Mrs. Theodore S. Chapman, President of the Women's Federation, urged that all not affiliated with their clubs make contributions directly to The Cross, Cairo Illinois.

The Cross will contain a central chapel and reception rooms for all denominations. On the different levels between the base and the top will be separate shrines and rooms where religious articles may be displayed. At the top will be a Forestry Service lookout station and an observation tower for visitors. Long range plans call for an amphitheatre a stage for pageants, and facilities for church conventions.

Though the 187-acre tract on which the Cross will be erected is owned by the Foundation, the surrounding area is U. S. Forestry Service property on which protection against commercialism has been assured. Bald Knob is the most prominent mountain in the Midwest, located in the Shawnee National Forest only 79 miles from the center of population of the nation. Illuminated at night, the Cross will be visible in a four state area rich in historical background and legend.

Further information is available through Mrs. R. B. McQuarters, president of Women's Club.

Was asking Bonnie Haberer to write us a story for it the other day and she was telling me how her husband raised some of the first cotton in these parts. But he was such a cattleman at heart that he even hoed that first cotton crop on horseback.

She was also telling me why she didn't think she could find time to write the story we want before our deadline, and I was telling her how we couldn't put out a historical edition without her in it. That may have made her think that we think she's getting old, but it really just means that the history of this country is truly recent. There are mighty few people around who have been here thirty years, like Bonnie has. And I sure hope being thirty years old isn't getting old, because I'm 29 already.

—NN—
Commenting on the historical edition, Pete Pituitary said Monday that among the footprints in the sands of time, some people leave only the marks of a heel.

Easter Week For You— I. Piety

—“Blessed be the King that cometh in the name of the Lord.” Painting by Ploekhorst

EUGENE CARSON BLAKE

President, National Council of Churches

People avoid religion because they are afraid that they will appear too pious. Others go to church for no better reason than that they think it is the only way to make them popular.

Sunday is the day when crowds were all cheering for Jesus as he rode a donkey toward Jerusalem. A few days later the crowd were shouting “Crucify Him.”

Nothing this proves: It is not to live your life according to what you think will make you popular. Do what you believe God wants you to do and you will feel inside whether the crowd is for or against.

Palace Theatre Installs Huge New Movie Screen

Mickey Spillane Will Break It In

Everything is getting bigger and better in the movie industry and Bill Chesher is trying to keep the Littlefield theatres up with the progress. This week he installed a new giant screen in the Palace theatre and he is working on more improvements at XIT Drive In.

The new screen is 34½ feet wide and 16½ feet high. That's 11½ feet wider and 4½ feet higher than the big screen they installed just a few months ago for Cinemascope. Their regular pictures will now be larger than their Cinemascope pictures have been, and their Cinemascope pictures will be half again as large as they have been.

The new screen is a Bodde Seamless. "How old fashioned can we get?" Chesher said to reporters Monday. "We're not wearing high button shoes. So why should we be using screens with seams, streaks and other distracting elements?"

Popular mystery writer Mickey Spillane will star in the first picture to be shown locally on the big screen. He shares the spotlight with Pat O'Brien and Clyde Beatty in a Cinemascope and technical production of his own story, "Ring of Fear."

PRAYER FOR RULERS

By Tommy Williams, Minister

"I exhort therefore, that, first of all supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks be made for all men; for kings, and for all that are in authority; that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and honesty" (1 Timothy 2:1-2).

We should be thankful that we live in a land where we can disagree even with our leaders, and disagree "out loud" without fear of punishment for the same. In this matter, however, as in many others, it is possible for us to get just a little out of balance in our attitudes and actions. Criticism, to be beneficial, must carry with it an attitude of constructiveness—a desire for improvement and a desire to be helpful.

fections on the part of those "that are in authority," we should remember, too, that they occupy responsible and difficult positions. They need what cooperation and help it is possible for us to give. One of the most helpful things Christians can do for them is to pray for them, as the Bible says.

We are ought to be prayerful in everything. There are some things, however, it is so important for us to pray for, that they are singled out specifically. This is one of them. The fact that it is, should impress us with the vital need of following the exhortation in the text.

Texas Today

By Bruce Henderson

FORT WORTH (AP) — In 65 years of railroading, Irving Witherspoon has survived wrecks and holdups. He's looked into the business end of 45 and hauled tank cars up cowhands from his train.

He's not ready to let Old Man Time force him off his run.

Witherspoon will be 83 1/2 on Patrick's Day (March 17). The Texas and Pacific Railway calls him the nation's oldest conductor.

This hardy man is still making his run between Fort Worth and Big Spring. It's 267 miles, each way, over sun-baked West Texas prairie. He averages 5,500 miles every month.

"Retire? No, sir. I ain't about to retire," he says. "Took my eye sight and hearing test a few months ago and passed again. T & P says as long as Witherspoon is fit he may keep right on working."

Witherspoon is a trim, wiry man—erect as a pine, alert and jovial. His sharp features fit him under silvery hair and eyebrows.

He went to work for the T & P Jan. 1, 1890, as a hedge repair hand. That was eight years after the line finished its route between New Orleans and El Paso. Thomas Jay Gould owned it then. Witherspoon was promoted to freight conductor in 1899 and passenger conductor in 1909.

Those were rowdy days, tinged with humor. Days when the railroad's best would often split in two going over a hill, one half humping back down the track while the rest of cars and engine sped on.

When a train delayed pulling out of Weatherford, Tex., 25 minutes so passengers could see the outcome of a club-swinging fight between workers of two rival freight companies . . . When a paymaster once scared the fight out of a drunk section hand by punning his neck to a wall between the times of a pitchfork.

Witherspoon recalls those days well.

"One night I was on a passenger run out of Strawn, Texas. All of a sudden we stopped right there in the brush between Strawn and Ranger. The Pullman conductor came in and said we were being held up. Said when he jumped him the fellow pulled the air brake. I went in there where he was and found myself looking into a 45. I'd left my .38 Colt in my suitcase, so there was nothing for us to do but stand there. He backed out and disappeared into the brush. Don't know how much he got from the passengers."

Conductors carried guns then. Witherspoon said, but he never liked to. Once he was glad he did.

"Full one night was drunk and I pulled a knife on me. I said 'See if you don't put that up. I'm gonna shoot you right through the belly.' Well that took the human ness out of him and we got him sobered up. Come to find out he was on the wrong train."

Witherspoon continued, "There were really tough when the Dallas Fair (State Fair of Texas) opened. The boys got on the train to go home many of them would be loped. "Lots of times when we got to their town I'd have to carry 'em off the train and leave 'em lying there on the station platform."

Witherspoon's best friend, Mike Tye, was a conductor. He walked out one day to see what a passenger was doing on the vestibule, and the man didn't like Tye's curiosity. He shot him dead.

Witherspoon pulled into Sweetwater one Saturday night and noticed the station window shattered. "I asked the agent, 'What made the hole in the window.' He said some cowboy got tanked up and shot out the light."

"We were heading west eight miles out of Weatherford one day when our freight hit a broken rail. I was in the caboose, and the engine rolled down a 25-foot bank. I got alarmed my pretty had and my neck all twisted. But I knew a passenger train was close behind.

"I started back and stopped him about a half mile away. That one got me in bed a month."

Walking across the plains in sleep disturbances is a hard job. Witherspoon has been on his feet since 1925. He has a 50-year-old silver watch that still keeps perfect time even though he once dropped it from the top of a box car.

Witherspoon lives alone in his little town of Sweetwater, Texas. The wife died last October after they'd been married 61 years. "I got along before working steady instead of laying around."

Then he smiled again and there was a twinkle in his eye. "Besides," he said, "don't get out until you have to, remember that."

Did you ever get an urge to smash a plate glass window? Fellow did just that in Waco, and it's going to cost him.

Pollerman Odus Strickland was walking his beat when a man ran up and said a fellow just kicked out a display window at a store.

Strickland checked. Sure enough, the window was shattered. A woman standing nearby pointed to a figure running down the street. "That's him," she said.

Strickland collared an 18-year-old nigger from James Conally Air Force Base. At the station, the nigger told officers he'd had a drink or two, was standing by the window and all of a sudden got mad and kicked out the glass.

At last report he was in jail wondering where to get $84 the owner says it will cost to replace the window.

Speaking of niggers, a newsman in Greenville spotted a confused young cadet salute first a postman—then a Greyhound bus driver.

At Paris, a youth led the law to six half-gallons of moonshine

ON THE MARKET

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A University of Michigan marketing survey shows people like functional homes, automatic gear shifts, frozen orange juice and gas stations that emphasize service.

Of 60 home buyers, the survey found the huge majority checked the floor plan first, the outside second. And most of them ended up paying more than they had planned to.

Convenience brings customers to gas stations, the report said, but service keeps them. Brands of gasoline don't make much difference, it said.

The survey found 61 per cent of persons interviewed used frozen orange juice regularly. All but 11 women some child felt the urge of near springtime, removed his shoes on the spot and tried to nail them home.

per cent had at least tried it. In gear shifts, the survey found women outnumber the men in favoring the automatic style although both prefer it. The main objection was the price.

it's Karo for me, the best-tasting waffle syrup of 'em all

Yes, indeed . . . biscuits go like hot cakes you pour on plenty of delicious Karo syrup. There's nothing like it for producing Satisfyin' flavor. So rich it stands right on top of biscuits (keeps 'em light and fluffy). Keep Karo on your table, morning, noon or night . . . it tops anything!

Ask your grocer for Karo waffle syrup, in pints and

New 1955 GULF NO-NOX

Always remember: Octane alone is not enough. Only a gasoline that burns clean can make its full octane power really work for you. New NO-NOX is super-refined to burn clean for lasting power. Fill up and feel the difference in:

- More complete protection than with so-called "miracle-additive" gasolines.
- Extra gas mileage in short-trip, stop-and-go driving motorists do most.
- Stall-proof smoothness . . . instant

A "Small Car" price makes it yours --delivered and ready to roll

WE keep coming across a good many people who still are surprised when they see the low delivered price of the Buick shown here.

They're surprised because they know that this price is just about what a lot of the smaller cars are asking—if not more.

But that's just the point.

What's making the 1955 Buick the hottest one in all Buick sales history is the simple fact that its low delivered price buys so much more automobile.

Much more automobile when it comes to the lift and life of great V8 power—Buick power in record night.

Much more automobile when it comes to style and size and room and ride steadiness—and the integrity of construction that comes of Buick building.

Much more, too, when it comes to matching your motoring needs to the simple practicality of your budget—because Buick offers you

Thrill of the year is Buick

DID YOU KNOW—

- that the Buick SPECIAL is priced below any other car of 100 horsepower and 122-inch wheelbase?
- that the Buick SPECIAL is priced below some models of the three best-known smaller cars?
- that the Buick SPECIAL gives you more pounds of automobile than any other car at its low price?

Build Your Children's Character And Faith With Religious Training At Home!

It is a wise mother who makes her children familiar with the Bible by reading aloud from it. There are many passages and stories that they can understand and appreciate. Such reading will inculcate in the children a desire and habit of Bible reading as they grow older. It will provide a rule and guide for their lives and a source of strength and comfort in time of trouble.

Read aloud from the Bible to the children; take them by the hand and come to church this Sunday — and regularly thereafter, that your children may grow to rely on its influence.

The Living World

Lesson for March 27, 1955

IT SHOULDN'T seem singular that we are all born plural. We can't be born at all without the consent of two people we never saw before, and we can't be legally born without the consent of a great many more. We live in a world of people, by the help of many people. We cannot achieve health, wealth or happiness all by ourselves. And when we die the reason why we are not missed very long is that there are so many other people ready to take our place. Now the Christian like all other men lives in a world of men. His religion ought to give him some clue, at least, as to how he should live in this human world, this immense complex wheels-within-wheels thing we call Society. Is the right Christian thing to do to run away from the world and hide? Hermits have tried it. Is it the right Christian thing to do to adopt the slogan, "If you can't lick 'em, fine 'em"? Shall Christians just accept the world and its ways? Worldly "Christians" have tried that.

Dr. Foreman

Salt and Light

But neither the Christian hermit nor the "worldly Christian" has helped the world. The world is no better for either of them, and on the other hand both hermit and worldly have ended by being no better than a caricature of a true Christian. The Christian's relation to the world around him... wait just a minute. We are going too fast, aren't we? "The world"—what do we mean by that? For the purposes of these present thoughts, the "world" means all the realms and ramifications of such variegated human arrangements as sports, politics, education, business, industry, agriculture, international affairs, all human institutions and relationships on a large scale or small. The "world" here means human beings, not in separate capsules but tied in innumerable ways to one another, affecting one another, inseparable from birth to death. The Christian's relation to this world is not like that of a pin stuck into a pin-cushion. The world is not merely the place where he has to be. Jesus put it into those two little humeral parables of Salt and Light. The Christian is to be different, to be separate, but not as a pin is different from its cushion. The pin does nothing whatever for the cushion; but salt and light do something, something valuable and needed, to whatever it is with which they make contact. Christians are expected to apply themselves and their Christianity to every relationship of life—that's a dull way to put it, but doing it is never dull.

Love is Concern

Jesus and Paul both made it clear that the one law of life that sums up all other laws is love. Not romantic love, but genuine, hearty concern, intelligent concern for the welfare of others. We all know that this is the law that transforms family life from a kind of jungle, or a cage at best, into something very close to heaven. We haven't all discovered that this is the law that can transform public life, yes, politics, business, all the rest of it. It's harder to do out there because the larger the circles the less co-operation you are going to find. Nevertheless, it is a fact that civilizations, nations, businesses, that have learned something from the Christian Gospel are better for the people that live there and work there than where Christianity has never had a chance. Yet ours is still a pagan civilization. When a manufacturer writes that the principle of his business has always been to make money for the stockholders, he has not got hold of the Christian idea. When an industrialist says that his business is making citizens and he is using a cotton mill for that purpose, he has got hold of the Christian idea.

To the End of Time

But suppose the H-bomb gets us all? Suppose, for lack of enough strength Christians, the hate-all, grab-all way of the world has brought us to the edge of doom, what can Christians do? Sit down and wait for the end? The Apostle Peter did not think so. Neither did any other early Christian leader. They felt themselves in a world on fire—and indeed so it was.

Congratulations...

Two great Southern senators—Byrd of Virginia and George of Georgia—for defying the wing of the Democratic Party and against inflation.

Every attempt to cut income taxes while every effort to cut expenditures is of cheap political chicanery. It is designed to help the American people, fool a part of them.

The Party Is Better

Often very proud of the way outstanding members of the Democratic Party in the defy the demands of political expediand refuse to put the party's welfare of the nation's welfare.

Democratic Party was organized by who valued freedom more than their lives and fortunes. It was organized as a life for preserving that freedom, and enabling men to be truly self-governing.
 It never intended to become a tool for entrusting power in the hands of its such it attracted those who loved free-and feared powerful governments. And has served our nation well for nearly as as we have been a nation.

the nonularity of such a party has al-attracted demagogues who wished to its good name and reputation to further their selfish ends. Such men eventually and the party in the north and now into its national leadership.

in the South we have—far the most selected our best men to high public and they have preserved the Democratic Party in the South as an organization for keeping us a free people. Here the are the party and it is not necessary for the party to offer bribes to blocks of votes.

It would appear that the whole nation would be better off if the two party system remained and the real elections were in primaries, where every man must stand on his own and has no party labels and loyalties to carry him.

Another Struggle

There has been much top-level news of that some highly important developments have inevitably been obscured. In a short space of time, for instance, such as the Formosa situation, the fall of the Mandates-France government, the President's sending of messages to Congress, and the handling of disclosures about the destruction of the H-bomb have had to compete for the headlines.

Some of the developments which has been the less general attention than it deserves in the field of labor. For—whatever one is on in this—it seems certain that we are about to witness an all-out drive by unions for gains and prerogatives of an almost revolutionary nature.

In a recent column, Doris Fleeson dealt with some aspects of the pending merger of the AFL and the CIO. These organizations, she wrote, "decided to pool their membership and treasuries for greater political effectiveness." The trade unions of the United States will continue to take political action on a national scale." She added that union

Through A Glass Darkly

By CARROLL POUNCEY

Now that's an odd situation. You consider, if you will, sir and madam, that we have national pickle week, and national doughnut week, but we only have one mothers day. Makes you wonder, doesn't it. This column may not be entertaining, but it certainly is thought provoking. And that's not all that can be said about this column, but unfortunately in a family chronicle of this sort we cannot possibly print all the things that are said about it.

Note with keen disappointment the swelling of the buds on the trees and other furtive signs of spring.

Every spring these old feet get the urge to expire untrod paths and our eyes dim with visions of unseen places. The rustle of embryonic leaves sing a song of unknown delights and far away places, and but for the high cost of gasoline and the fact that streamlined trains are not designed for hobnobbing, we should be off and away.

Instead we sit, bound by convention and the urgency of conforming to the pattern set by our neighbors, dreaming but not really living. Spring does that sometimes, and we are always disappointed when it comes.

What is it like now in Port of Spain, Trinidad, we wonder. Does it still look and smell as it did. Are the waves still crashing against the rocky beaches of the Massachusetts coastline. Are the colors of Lorenzo Marques still as vivid as we remember them, and is the Caribbean as blue as it used to be.

We shall never know, nor will you, unless you go there and see and know for yourself. My advice to you is to run, not walk to the nearest exit. Get going!

heads feel the White House has pretty much put them out in the cold, and that they've been getting nowhere with their programs and ideas in Congress.

This explains why the top labor leaders aren't going after the Taft-Hartley Act nearly so hard as they once did. They don't see much chance of getting any material changes made in it at present. So they are centering their big guns on another pet hate—the right-to-work laws. These laws, which have been adopted by 17 states, in effect, that it is illegal to make membership in a union a condition of employment. In short, a man can join if he chooses or refuse to join if that is his decision, and in either case his right to work is guaranteed, a right considered by most people as basic under the United States Constitution. Union officials were jubilant when Secretary of Labor Mitchell came out in opposition to such laws. But much of the steam went out of the jubilation when it became evident
 Mr. Mitchell was speaking for himself, not the Administration.

The other current union objective is the so-called "guaranteed annual wage." According to an editorial in Life, the "United Auto Workers have made it their No. 1 goal for 1955, have begun piling up a $25 million strike fund to enforce it and have made open threats to strike if necessary to get it this summer when the Ford and GM contracts expire." Life goes on to analyze what the guaranteed wage involves, pointing out that it is primarily a matter of cost. "The cost," it says,
 "of a general GAW might be great enough to drive some marginal enterprises out of business. The end result would be to increase the growing trend toward semi-monopoly by a few large enterprises. And guaranteeing one company's jobs might wipe out an equal number of jobs in less successful firms." Government officials who have studied the issue, Life adds, doubt if even so huge and rich an enterprise as GM could afford the cost of a plan which would be really effective for all workers.

It isn't likely that the labor leaders expect to get all they're demanding. But there is going to be plenty of shooting on the labor-management front before long.

Shifting's smooth and easy with Chevrolet's new and finer Synchro-Mesh transmission. A flick of your wrist is all it takes to shift gears.

Powerglide, too, is better than ever this year. Even smoother and sturdier. It's the most popular automatic transmission* in Chevrolet's field!

Rather roll your own ... or just push a button?

Chevrolet gives you separate crank controls both for windows and ventipanes. It's one of many extra conveniences in Chevrolet's Body by Fisher.

Position the seat yourself ... or let electricity do it?

Chevrolet's big, beautifully upholstered front seat moves up and forward or down and back into your most comfortable driving position.

No worry about your battery in a new Chevrolet. It's the only car in its field with the reserve power of a 12-volt electrical system!

Apply the brakes like this ... or have power make it easier?

Improved brakes and new swing-type pedals make stopping a cinch. And Chevrolet's exclusive Anti-Dive control gives you "heads up" stops!

Chevrolet Power Brakes* are better than ever this year—let you stop by a simple pivot of your foot from accelerator to swing type brake pedal.

Soil Conservations News—

There is considerable interest in sprinkler irrigation in the Lamb County Soil Conservation District. Soil Conservation Service technicians have been assisting quite a lot of farmers with their sprinkler design. Mainly, sprinkler irrigation is recommended for three different sets of conditions: (1) sandy soil, (2) uneven topography where leveling is too costly or soil too shallow, and (3) small wells.

There is over 53,000 acres of irrigated land in Lamb County Soil Conservation District that needs a sprinkler irrigation system on them. Following is a view of what sprinkler irrigation is and how they should be used.

SPRINKLER IRRIGATION
 Sprinkler irrigation is a means of delivering water over a field with a system of pipes and nozzles. The most common layout of a sprinkler system spaces the nozzles every 30 feet along the lateral line and lateral lines are moved 60 feet along the main line. Main line is the pipe which delivers the water from the pump to the lateral line and then through the nozzles. These three items have to be designed according to the amount of water delivered from the pump, to the length of the main and lateral lines, and the rate of discharge by the nozzles that the soil will take in a given time.

The pump and motor must be adequate to deliver the amount of water through the lines at the operating pressure of the nozzles plus the friction losses, over the greatest distance traveled through the pipe. The nozzle size must be such that the water delivered on the area around the nozzle will be taken up by the soil without any run-off. On soils around here this will range from around one-half inch per hour on the lighter soils to an inch per hour on the sandy soils.

A sprinkler system must be properly designed if good results are to be expected in irrigating crops. Time of sets must be timed so that sufficient water is put on the field to be effective. This time may vary from 8 to 12 hours per set, depending upon the amount of moisture to be replaced and the amount of water the system delivers.

A sprinkler system has many advantages over flood irrigation. Among these advantages are: Almost any kind of land can be sprinkler irrigated regardless of the sandiness of the soil or the roughness of the land. This can eliminate the necessity of any land leveling. More land can be irrigated with a given amount of water and on small wells this is a very distinct advantage because it does twice as much acreage as can be irrigated with these small wells than by flooding.

Erosion is kept at a minimum and no water need to be lost from a field with a properly designed sprinkler system.

Erosion is kept at a minimum and no water need to be lost from a field with a properly designed sprinkler system.

Sprinkling does away with need for field ditches. This eliminates ditchbank weed problem, reduces your money back at Reese Drug.

maintenance and increases land available for cropping.

Special skills are not required for operation of the sprinkler system and anyone can do a more efficient job of applying water for best distribution over a field than he could by flood irrigation.

Sprinkler irrigation permits frequent light applications when crop are small and only the top portion of the soil needs the moisture replenished.

Like other methods, sprinkling has certain disadvantages. Initial investment is high but often this can be offset by the land being lower priced since it would not flood irrigated properly and eliminate the need for any leveling.

Power costs are higher and a power unit of about twice the size is needed over one raising water to the top of the ground only. Water under pressure is required to operate a sprinkler, resulting in more power needed.

Wind affects water distribution—wind distorts the spray pattern and increase evaporation.

Laterals have to be moved for each setting and mains from one part of the field to the other.

Cooperators in the District who have sprinkler irrigation systems are: Bill Miller of Pleasant Valley, Holbert Harvey, north of Sudan, J. R. Inklebarger, south of Fieldton. Designs and plans are being made for sprinkler systems on E. J. Stone, south of Sudan, W. E. Priddy of Amherst, K. O. Lynn of Littlefield, Art Chesher of Fieldton and others.

A lot of people have asked what we think of Guar after its first year of trial here as a soil building crop. Although we will not be able to realize the full benefit of last year's crop until this fall from what we have seen we believe it has definite possibilities. Jimmie Craft, northwest of Earth used it on bench leveled land to condition it after leveling. He applied irrigation water to it. The growth was about 4 feet and it put down a good deep root.

John Graham, a mile east of Lum's Chapel, planted some Guar on a drouthy red clay hill and it proven itself capable of withstanding the drought; it is also holding the land from blowing better than cotton, and has conditioned the soil with deep root penetration. From what we have seen of it in other areas, we believe it will boost the fields of following cash crops. Under favorable conditions, it will compete with grain sorghums as a cash crop. We do believe a good practice would be to plant four rows of sorghum and four rows of Guar, giving more protection from wind erosion and at the same time providing a good deep root.

A considerable acreage of land has been chiseled or Hoemed since harvest was completed. The tendency will be to use a lister for the next tillage operation. However, the Experiment Stations have shown, on dry land, that farmers should continue to use their chisels or small sweeps on the chisel footpecks, preparing a clean, flat seedbed and at the same time keep a large portion of the residue on the surface. The lister bottom can be replaced with loose ground disk opener for the planting operation and still leave most of the residue on top. Look around you and see some of the good examples of stubble mulching. Some of these can be seen on J. B. Ford's farm south of Sudan, George Wuertli in Pleasant Valley, J. R. Inklebarger, south of Fieldton and many others over the District.

Land which has sufficient stubble to protect it from blowing provides a satisfactory condition for grass plantings this fall. For blue panic, a clean seed bed should be prepared by running a sweep down the middles before the grass is seeded. In all cases, stubble should be left on the surface undisturbed so that it will continue to protect the land after the grass is seeded. Cultivation prior to seeding would not be re-swinggrass, Indiangrass, unless weed growth has started by seeding time. Some cooperators who have gotten good stands of grass are Paul Lunis, west of Littlefield, Robert Akin, Olton and Johnnie Graham, east of Lums Chapel.

Now while everyone is planning for the coming year is a good time to think of things in relation to their importance; put first things first. The dust storms the last seven springs convinced everyone that if dryland crop production is to continue on the South Plains, more attention must be given to providing vegetative protection throughout the year. And it's just as true that careful planning be done for a vegetative program to improve and maintain irrigated land for its long time use. All of which emphasized the importance of knowing the needs of the land and planning a cropping system to meet these needs. These needs will undoubtedly require high residue crops for wind erosion control and legume for soil conditioning and improvement. Planning alone is not enough—it will take a concerted effort on the part of every farmer is the plans

Smart Tanners Give New "Fabric Look" to Leathers

It's the new switch! We've had fabrics acting like leathers in shoes for quite some time. But who would have thought that smart tanner would toss the ball back by reproducing fabric designs and textures on some of their finest leathers.

Polka dots, stripes, plaids, flower patterns are reproduced with amazing clarity on smooth leathers by the new silk screen process. You can almost feel the texture of a tweed, a linen, a shantung.

Some of these exotic leathers are in the party feeling. Shoes for cocktail or dinner wear to add that certain touch to the costume. Take for instance a high heeled, open toed sling of black leather, with matching bag, sparkled all over with white stars. Even the high spike heel wears its star decoration.

Stripes and polka dots are other popular patterns, both for casual and dress wear. Or you may have a sandal in softly muted plaid—you touch it to find are to be effective. For when our soils are gone, we too must go unless we find some way to feed on raw rock or its equivalent. So know the needs and meet them.

SOUTHWESTERN PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY

REDDY'S Farm Report

FROM THE AGRICULTURAL DEVELOPMENT DEPARTMENT
SOUTHWESTERN PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY

Experience shows that 30% of all pigs farrowed on Texas farms are lost before weaning. Chilling and mashing by the sow are the number 1 and 2 enemies of hog profits. But both can be reduced, if not completely eliminated, by the use of a simply constructed electrically heated pig brooder.

Inexpensive to buy and operate, electric heat lamps are proving successful in eliminating losses due to chilling and crushing. The simple, inexpensive, electrically heated pig brooder described in this article will provide the needed warmth to prevent the losses that ordinarily occur during the first few weeks of the baby pig's life.

Here's how to build your pig brooder: Construct a stout board partition about 5 feet wide and 3 feet high to fit across one of the inside corners of the farrowing pen. This partition may be of metal pipe or heavy metal screening that is strong enough to keep the sow from tearing it apart. The partition or gate must be fastened securely to the walls of the pen. It is recommended that it hang about 12 inches from the floor. This gives the little pigs room to get under and keeps the sow out. Be sure that the heat lamp is fastened securely. Many hog raisers place the heat lamp in an old bucket for protection and support the unit with a chain as illustrated.

Now hang the heat lamp unit back of the partition, 30 inches above the straw litter. Use a chain or piece of lading wire — not the usual cotton line — to bear the weight. Plug it in — and cover brooder as "all business."

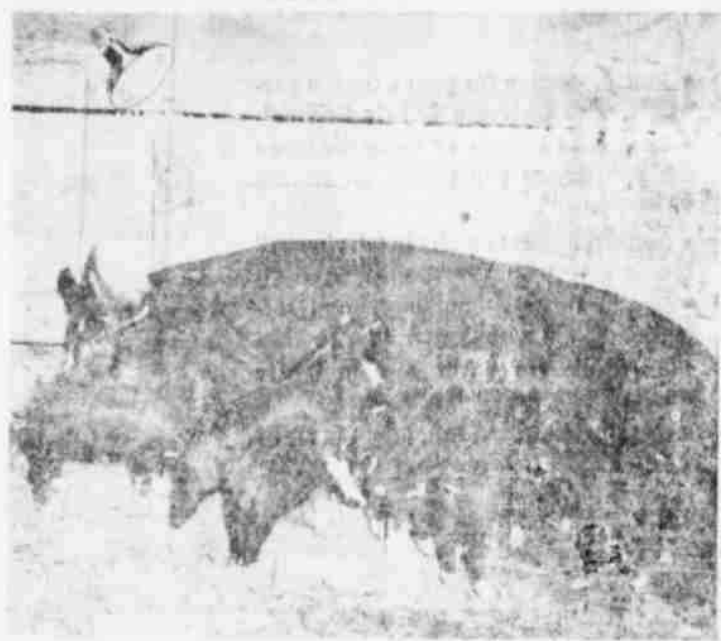

Here's how to use your pig brooder: (1) Place the sow in the pen a day or so before farrowing. (2) Turn the lamp on several hours before the pigs arrive and adjust the heat. Test the brooder by placing your hand on the floor under the lamp. If your hand becomes uncomfortably hot in a short time, raise the lamp. The pigs will gain strength in a short time and start to get up. (3) The early spring illness the heat ordinarily should be used for 10 days and if the weather is very cold two weeks. (4) Place the pig under the brooder immediately after birth, but allow them to suckle and clean up for nursing.

An electric heat lamp pig brooder operates for under 75¢ to $1.05 per hour, depending on the amount of weathering per liter of pig. Who would not spend 75¢ to $1.05 per hour for a pig's life?

The reflector type 250 watt infra-red lamp is most commonly used. If even one pig is saved per year, you will pay for your heat lamp several times. But what is more important, the life giving heat that these lamps give will get your entire litter off to a faster, healthier, more profitable start.

The little pigs soon learn to lay down in the spot where the heat is just right. The heat lamps keep the floor dry and the pigs warm. Mike and Mack Shurbet raised these fine Chester Whites under the heat lamps. Mike showed the Grand Champion barrow at the 1954 National Western Livestock Show at Denver.

Heat lamps with their life giving heat are the guardians of the little pigs that make good. These few show belong to Tommy, Harold and west of Amarillo, Tommy's brother were in the 1954 Stock Shows and they will again be winning blue ribbons this year.

A 250-watt infra-red heat lamp is mounted inside this bucket. A discarded bucket will give the needed protection for your heat lamp and you can build this simple fixture in your spare time. Instructions are available in your County Agricultural Agent's office. The lamp should be turned on several hours before the pigs arrive so that the heat can be adjusted.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — "Friends of the Birds, Inc." want the Arkansas Legislature to pass a bill prohibiting cats from running at large. New Provisions Designed For Benefit of Persons Over 65

A social security representative will be in Littlefield at the Employment office at 1:30 p.m. on March 23 and will be glad to assist in all matters pertaining to social security.

Men and women under 65 who have been totally disabled for at least six months and who have worked in jobs covered by social security for a substantial time may benefit from an entirely new provision in the Social Security Act. John G. Hutton, manager of the Lubbock Texas, social security district office said today.

This amendment applies equally to those who are now disabled and to those who become disabled in the future. Similarly, some retired workers who are now receiving monthly social security checks may be favorably affected if they are still disabled as the result of a disability which began before they reached 65.

"This does not mean that cash payments based on disability are now possible under the social security program," Mr. Hutton cautioned. "It does mean, however, for the first time, that periods of prolonged disability will not count against some wage earners or self-employed persons in figuring the amount of their average monthly wage on which old age and survivors insurance payments are based."

Mr. Hutton explained that under the social security law in effect before the 1954 amendments the average monthly wage had to be figured from a specified starting date until the worker became 65 or died. Those who could not work over a long period of time because they were disabled had their average earnings reduced by these periods of no earnings or of low earnings. In addition, the months of disability also had to be counted in figuring whether or not the individual had worked sufficiently long in jobs covered by the social security law to be eligible for any old age or survivors insurance benefit.

"Under the new law, average earnings and eligibility requirements will not be affected by the period of disability," Mr. Hutton said. "In effect, this means that the amount of the social security benefits at death or at 65 would not be impaired by inability to work during lengthy disability periods."

Qualification for use of the "disability freeze" depends on these factors:

1. The worker must be totally disabled by a medically-determinable illness, injury, or other physical or mental impairment which can be expected to be of long-continued and indefinite duration. This condition must have existed for at least six months, and he must still be disabled at the time of filing his application for a determination of disability.

2. The worker must have been employed or self-employed for a substantial period of time in occupations covered by the social security law before onset of his disability. A "substantial period of time" means 5 years of coverage out of the 10 years before the disability, of which time 1 1/2 years of coverage must have been in the 3 years prior to disability.

"Any worker under 65 who believes he qualifies under these conditions should get in touch with his nearest social security office to file an application for a determination of disability."

Udo Strasilla Wins Trophy In Ski Races At Tres Ritos Friday

UDO STRASILLA

At the Tres Ritos, New Mexico Sports Club Junior Ski races March 13 Udo Strasilla, German exchange student of Littlefield High school, won a trophy for good sportsmanship. This is the first ski trophy ever won by a student from Littlefield High school. Bob Orr, Bennie Pickrell, and Udo went to Tres Ritos Friday for a day or two of skiing.

They learned that races were to be held March 13. Udo decided to enter the races having represented his former school in Berchtesgaden, Germany in similar competition in years past. This time, however, there were handicaps that would have discouraged one less courageous.

Udo was in a strange country and due to language difficulties it was hard for him to grasp exactly how the races would be run. Ski races were run a little differently in his country, especially the slalom. Udo had not been on skis for a year, excepting for some practice on the day before the races. He was to compete with high school students from Taos and Los Alamos and other New Mexico high schools that expected to place winners in a tournament soon to be held in Sun Valley, Idaho. These students had a season of practice behind them and years of work with coaches who had trained the young competitors in the special techniques necessary to successful ski racing, while Udo has never had coaching in sports. The snow was of a glassy condition that made an extremely fast track, produced by thawing and freezing again the night before.

The boys did not learn about the races until the day before but when Udo was asked to enter he did so against these handicaps. His name made 11 on the list on entries, all under 18 years of age. Udo came out 7th on the slalom but he was disqualified anyway because he had not understood directions and had missed a gate on the "hair pin". He came out eighth in time required for the down hill race. Udo was so friendly and courteous during the contest and showed such good spirit that when trophies were

Air Force Now Has 'Handshake Meter'

Have you had your handshake measured lately? That old Texas custom of a greeting is now being measured in the USAF Recruiting School at Lackland Air Force Base Texas, according to TSgt. Otto E. Havins, a recent graduate of the Recruiting School and presently assigned as the local Air Force recruiter for Littlefield and surrounding territory.

The Air Force Recruiter is an Air Force salesman, and for its salesmen, the Air Force wants personable men who are not only sold on their branch of the service as a career, but also men who can greet a stranger as well as a friend.

The handshake meter is a large board with a hole in it. An instructor sits behind the board and sticks his hand through the hole, shaking hands with the student. Velocity of the handshake is registered by an arrow, with the aid of the instructor. Scores listed are: "Hand Pumper, Fish Hand, Ring Squeezer, Rope Crusher, Hand-arm Jerker, Glue Hand and Wow."

All but "Wow" are ways not to shake hands, according to the instructors in the personal relations phase of the course.

"Wow!" the correct way, consists of a firm grip and two "pumps."

awarded to the winners, his name was called to receive the sportsmanship trophy. He has added it to the collection in the trophy case in Littlefield High school.
