Schedule; Pep Rally
To Be Held Fri. Noon

Appointing to their fans in the half of the football season Friday night at Seely Field, Littlefield Wildcats rallied in the third quarter to shove over two touchdowns and added an extra point to a win of 21 to 0 decision over the Morton Indians.

The game was a conference 5-A zone contest, and a surprising Morton team outplayed locals through the first half. Wildcats fumbled frequently, but tackled and otherwise looked all like championship material.

In the third quarter they picked up. Early in the game a pass was intercepted near the end, and with Gene Clark, of the lighter local gridders surprised fans with his stellar play. Floyd Holberg and Babe Jones better members of the team carrying the ball went for a down. Clark scored on a 4-yard off tackle, and Holberg kicked the point.

Little later Clark returned a punt to the Morton 20 to set up a score. Jimmie Yarbrough led the ball over from the six line. The third touchdown, in the fourth quarter, came on a pass from Hammons to Roy Hutgood for 30 yards. Holberg kicked the point.

City Light Plant Again Proposed

Approximately 75 business and professional men met at the Ritz Theatre Tuesday night and discussed the possibilities of another election for the purpose of voting on revenue bonds for the construction of a municipal electric light and power generating plant for Littlefield.

An election was defeated by a small margin in August, after the City Commission had called an election for the voting of $225,000 in bonds.

Clyde Coleman, mayor of Brownfield, and Mr. Jones, manager of the municipal light and power plant there, presented facts, figures pertaining to the cost and operation of the plant in Brownfield, and discussed the growth of the enterprise.

A petition was signed by most of the men at the meeting, and the Citizens Light Plant committee secured many other names on the petition Wednesday.

The petition was not presented to the City Commission at the regular meeting Wednesday afternoon, Mayor Homer Hall said. However, it is expected that the document will be presented this week, and an election will be called in the near future.

Rex Riggs of Plainview was killed in the accident, and his wife was injured, though not seriously. Mrs. J. P. Hollingsworth of Plainview, other occupant of the Riggs car, was injured.

The Littlefield man was taken to the Lubbock Sanitarium by Ernest Gaston and daughter, Ernestine, who witnessed the collision, as they were enroute to Lubbock where Ernestine attends business college. Mr. Phillips was enroute to Lubbock to visit his parents.

Lamb Farmers Receive 366 Parity Checks

Cotton Parity Payments Total To Date Less Than Total Last Year

Through September 15, 1941, farmers in Lamb County have received a total of $42,617.35 in 1941 Cotton Parity payments covering 366 checks, while at the same time in 1940 farmers in Lamb county had received $60,000.00 in Cotton Parity payments.

1941 Cotton Parity applications are being submitted to the State AAA Office for audit and payment immediately after they are signed by the producers. They are being sent in groups of from 25 to 50 applicants.

"We are approximately 75 per cent complete with compliance and are putting out all effort to complete land measurements at the earliest date possible, Aubrey W. Bingham, Secretary Lamb County AAA, said.

"However, since it is difficult to keep a full crew on performance, the measuring is progressing very slowly. It is impossible to keep a full crew working. Compliance was not started as early as previous due to late plantings and rains have also caused measuring to be slower.

"Therefore, we may not expect to complete land measurements as completed last year. If it is possible to keep a full crew measuring, completion of Cotton Parity Payments to the county as a whole may be expected as early as in 1940.

"It will be wise for farmers who have good reasons to believe that they have a few more acres of the allotment to destroy this acreage before the farm is measured in order not to necessitate putting up a de-

Speaking Of Presidents

The notion that next to being a Supreme court justice, the berth of college president is the nearest thing to a "job for life" seems to be a fallacious conception.

The Association of American Colleges lists changes on 75 campuses this fall. Although the reasons for the changes are not given, they are undoubtedly the same reasons that lead to changes in executives of any business—such as rows with the board, failure to advance the standing of the institution, and offers of a better job.

Dr. Robert D. Leigh, president of Bennington college, Vermont, made news when he announced he had long believed in a short term for college executives, and resigned. The College of Emporia in Kansas, decided to get along without a president and put the control of the college in the hands of three men.

Temple university and the university secretary at Rutgers, who had "always wanted to be a college president", became one at Rhode Island State.

The turnover of chief executives of our educational institutions follows pretty much the pattern of any other occupation, and as in other fields, there are also a number who manage to hold their jobs practically a lifetime.

Nicholas Murray Butler, president of America's largest educational institute, Columbia university, has the record tenure of office, having been president of Columbia for forty years.

Dr. James Madison Wood holds the record among presidents of women's colleges, having been president of Stephens college in Missouri for 30 years during which the student body has been built from 50 to 1,700 students.

There are others who have served long terms as executive head of a college or university, such as Hopkins of Dartmouth, Wilbur of Stanford, McCracken of Vassar and Compton of Massachusetts Institute of Technology—but they are the exception to the rule.

Under THE DOME At Austin

By GORDON K. SHEARER United Press Staff Correspondent

Gov. Leon C. Phillips of Oklahoma is a fine host, Gov. Coke R. Stevenson told friends upon his return to Texas from a week end conference with the Oklahoma executive.

The two met near the state boundary and talked over things of mutual interest to the two states, particularly operation of the compact among oil-producing states and road connections between North Texas cities and those of Oklahoma.

Stevenson noted that Oklahoma's governor signs his name "Red" on non-official occasions. "I saw him sign two registers that way," Stevenson said.

Governor Stevenson of Texas also uses a less formal signature ordinarily than he places on state documents, State papers are signed Coke R. Stevenson. His personal mail is signed without use of his middle initial.

Opinion differs greatly on whether the present special session of the legislature will run its full course of 30 days, during which time members will receive $10 a day pay, plus traveling expenses.

Most special sessions last 30 days, although at least eight have gone home in less time. The legislature met for only five days in 1919; met for nine days in 1921; and for 10 days in 1932. Emmett Morse, former speaker from Houston, pointed out, however that most of the shorter sessions followed 30-day meetings that left work unfinished.

Friends of Gov. Coke Stevenson hope the special session will do its work speedily and go home, which would show that he can "get the job done" in adoption of a legislative program. Such an accomplishment would add to Stevenson's popularity when he runs for governor next summer.

It is a well-known adage in politics that a governor is never helped by a special session of the legislature; although some, as this one, are necessary from the public's standpoint. W. Lee O'Daniel, as governor, called no special sessions and left the blame for things undone upon the legislature.

One point against cutting the session short of 30 days probably would be the desire of some members to draw a full $30 pay. The contention is that it is not worth members while to interrupt their hometown duties to move to Austin for a few days, but 30 days at $10 a day would help remove that obstacle.

A Charlotte, N. C., restaurant nickelodeon advertises a song by W. Lee O'Daniel, former Texas Governor now in the United States Senate. The music is by O'Daniel's hillbilly band, and the senator neither plays nor sings for the record.

Whether or not it is significant, the song's title is "There Are Going to be Some Changes Made."

Texas Agricultural Commissioner J. E. McDonald will name Texas members of the tri-state rice commission soon after the act authorizing Texas' participation takes effect. The effective date is Oct. 2.

Leaders in the rice industry already have held preliminary conferences, but McDonald said Texas official representatives have not been named.

The bill calls for cooperation of Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas in a campaign to acquaint the general public with the possibilities and advantages of rice as a food, and discovery of new uses for rice and its by-products. The act is known as the Texas rice development law.

The law calls for appointment of a "rice development commission" with five members. Three of the members are to be rice growers and two, rice millers. The commissioners are to be appointed by the state commissioner of agriculture for two-year terms.

Operation of the development program will be financed by a tax of two cents per 100 pounds on milled rice.

A similar tax is levied in Louisiana and Arkansas and commissions from those states will join the Texas commissioners in carrying out the program.

The Texas law carries an unusual provision. It is renewable every two years, but only if the renewal is favored by a 60 per cent vote of rice farmers and rice millers.

Employees of the headquarters office of the Texas Railroad Commission made a mistake about the date of Commissioner Jerry Sadler's birth and gave him a birthday two days too early. The party was held Saturday night and Sadler's birthday was Monday. He was 34.

Another well-known state official has the same birthday. Bob Barker of Fort Worth, Senate secretary, observed his 67th birthday last Monday.

Barker always corrects senators who announce that a committee hearing will be held in the "old secretary's office." Barker reminds them that the meeting place, since location of his office was changed, is the "secretary's old office."

Mrs. Fay Stevenson, wife of the Texas governor, has recovered her health sufficiently to plan the usual mansion reception for legislators during the special session which opened Tuesday.

Mrs. Stevenson attended her husband's inauguration and she also was able to attend the dinner given in honor of Acting Governor and Mrs. Rudolph Weinert. Weinert became acting governor when Stevenson went to Oklahoma to talk with Gov. Phillips.

Occupancy of the hearing room of the Texas highway department by a WPA project will force the September 18 Texas oil proration hearing to be held by the railroad commission at the Stephen F. Austin hotel.

For more than a year the railroad commission hearings have been held at the state highway building which has a large hearing room. This month, when the usual permission to use the room was requested, the railroad commission found the space no longer available.

The WPA workers have placed typewriter desks in all available space in the room. It required much work to move the typewriters when the last highway hearing was held that the highway department decided it wasn't worth the trouble. How long the WPA project will be undertaken is undetermined.

Total of 152 Girls Enrolled in Homemaking Dept.

The school is quite boastful of enrollment in the Homemaking department this semester. Miss Mary Fryar is the foods teacher and has a total of 70 girls enrolled in her classes. Miss Lois Wren is of the Department and teaches sewing. She has a total of 82 girls in her classes making a grand total of 152 in the entire Homemaking department. All classes have out-learned their units of study and set objectives to be obtained by the end of the semester. Every class is well into the work of the next few months. A weekly publication from the Homemaking department and next week the foods department will have its.

In class proved that correct shades of cosmetics and ways in which they were applied definitely affected the color of eyes, hair lines, and shapes of faces. Other phrases of personal grooming are to be studied so that by the time the unit is completed, every girl will have detailed information as to how she should appear from the tip of her toes to the top of her head. Knowing facts is not enough, but to use the facts practically is the objective—they are a means to an end—so every girl should come to school spic-and-span from shoes to hair dress.

The second year girls are studying habits, emotions, and guidance of pre-school children. In this unit, clothing for the small child is the main factor to be studied. Every girl has selected a small child for whom to make a garment and is now in the process of making it. After the garments are finished, the girls plan to bring a few of the children to school and observe them as they play in their new suits and dresses. In this way the girls may be able to determine whether they achieved their objectives in selecting the patterns and materials for the children.

In the third year class the girls began the semester by making costume jewelry. Some very unusual things have been made. Cotton seed, shell macaroni, round macaroni, corks, chicken rings, English peas, leather, wool thread, canteloupe and watermelon seed, apricot seed, pecans, acorns, sea shells, buttons, milk bottle tops, and wooden ice cream spoons have been transformed into necklaces, wristlets, and buttonnieres. Some were dyed, others used in combination, and some were left natural color. These are on display in the clothing dept. for those who wish to see them. Other things that may be used are jacks and ball, keys, safety pins, small pine burrs, and other odds and ends. Buttons and buckles may be made from ply board and varnished. The girls are now studying infant layettes. The desirable and undesirable characteristic of various garments that constitute a layette were discussed, and desirable standards were established for judging and selecting a layette. As a part of the unit, the girls are making garments to be assembled with others to complete a layette for exhibit.

The department welcomes visitors any time.

The association recommended that each of the clubs in the state "help make eating by the Texas food standard an everyday patriotic pleasure for all Texas families". In addition the delegates pledged themselves to help make whole grain products available to every Texas family and benefits of the community school lunch program available to every child who needs them. The group also voted to cooperate with the government in growing food for home use and for others.

Taking good care of all farm equipment, especially canning equipment, was emphasized in the defense efforts. This broad program for obtaining a well fed population will be carried out through county home demonstration councils and county land use planning committees.

To aid rural people in Britain the Association agreed to give funds toward the purchase of equipment needed for preservation of food in the rural districts of Britain. The present defense effort also brought about a plan for cooperative work with the Red Cross to give every home demonstration club woman in Texas training in first aid.

A bill is now being considered in Congress which would enable all rural women in the nation to have the services of a county home demonstration agent and the advantages which rural club work offers.

CHAPTER IV

SYNOPSIS

Peggy Horton meets Harry Wilson by chance. She is worried because her school roommate Nancy is coming to visit her and she has pretended to Nancy that she is engaged. Peggy's older sister Maxine is a successful screen star. Maxine is in a week's engagement to a man who is a week's engagement to her fiancé. Harry insists that she wear for a week the engagement ring he has just returned to him. Maxine goes to meet Nancy in a pony car. Automobiles are not allowed at Rosewood—and stops at a jeweler's to see if he can straighten the ring, which has been accidentally bent. When she meets Nancy, her sister Maxine also is of the same train.

She wanted to get the ring out of sight to forget about the whole thing. Maxine was watching her anxiously.

Nancy glanced at Maxine's hands as the station agent took her check promising to send her trunk up later. Her nails, Nancy saw, were carefully buffed, but there was no rich liquid polish on them. She remembered thankfully that she was still wearing her gloves and that she had a bottle of nail polish remover in her bag. Then she glanced at Peggy's hands.

"Peggy!" she cried. "Your engagement!" In the excitement Peggy had forgotten the ring. For a moment she stared uncomprehendingly at Nancy, then down at her hand, at which the other girl was looking so intently. Maxine, too, was staring at the ring. She picked up her sister's hand that was hanging foolishly at her side.

"Peggy!" she cried. "You engaged? I had no idea. Why hadn't you written me?"

Over and over to herself Peggy was saying, "Why, oh why did I ever do anything so silly? Maxine will be utterly disgusted with me when I explain." She knew she would explain everything at the earliest opportunity. She could not let Maxine believe something that was not true. Aloud she said:

"It's quite recent. No one knows. You know how Gran is. Don't mention it to her. I'd better take it off now before I forget it. Gran doesn't know anything about it, you know."

She wanted to get the ring out of sight to forget about the whole thing. Opening her purse she dropped the ring inside, then closed the bag firmly.

Maxine was watching her anxiously. "Is he nice?" she asked impulsively. "Someone we will all love."

"Oh, yes," Peggy assured her. "I'll tell you all about it later. Come on, let's hurry. Gran will be so excited about your coming."

She had not noticed Nancy's unusual silence.

Maxine waved to old friends as they drove through Marshville, stopping to stare a moment in surprise, waved back in excitement.

"Tell me about Gran," she demanded, settling herself beside Peggy.

"She is still the sweetest thing on earth and I don't believe you will see any difference in her at all. She continues to run the house as usual."

Both girls laughed. "Does she still get her express packages every week?" Maxine asked.

"Every Monday. Rain or shine." "And you have never found out what is in them?"

Peggy shook her head. "I never expect to. I have even given up wondering about them. That package just comes every Monday and Maxine takes it to Gran's room and that's that."

"Does her heart?" Maxine cried. "She wants a secret—when was she started getting those express packages? About the time of her twentieth birthday, wasn't it?"

"If she wants a secret from me, she was seventy until she was a hundred, I guess she can have without our prying into it."

"It's grand to be home," she continued as they turned in at the door of Rosewood.

William came hurrying out of the door when he heard the sound of Maxine's car, and stared at Maxine uncomprehendingly.

"The Lord be praised," he cried, thrusting forward to assist her to the ground.

Maxine Horton had come to the door to greet Peggy's friend and she could see only Maxine. She held her arms wide and the girl stepped into them, literally picking the old lady up in her arms.

"Gran, Gran!" she cried. Maxine Horton's eyes were wet with tears as she eagerly drank in every detail of her granddaughter's appearance. She held her off from her for an instant to study her face, then smiling she reached up and patted Maxine's cheek before she reached her arm. It was not Maxine's hand that she reached out her other hand to Peggy, who, with Nancy, had been standing near by, that she had been conscious of the presence of an outsider. A shadow crossed her face. But it was only a shadow. "Forgive me," she exclaimed, extending her hand and smiling graciously. "I am delighted to have you with us."

Maxine was taken to her old room after she had been to the kitchen to see Aunt Jenny, formerly her nurse, and the other servants who had gathered there to welcome her. Peggy took Nancy upstairs with her.

"Come on," she said as they entered Nancy's room. "I'll help you unpack before we go down for tea."

"Tea?" Nancy asked in surprise. "Yes," Peggy replied simply. She was bending over a suitcase and did not see the wry face her guest made.

"Let me see your ring again. Peggy. I didn't get a very good look at it at the station."

Peggy gritted her teeth at the thought of the ring, but answered hastily: "Oh, not now. Gran might come in, or something. I'll show it to you later. But where is yours?" she asked suddenly turning to Nancy. It had just occurred to her that she had not noticed a ring on Nancy's finger.

With a toss of her head the other girl explained. "I gave it back to Fidge."

"You mean you aren't engaged any more?" Peggy dropped on the side of the bed. Why hadn't she had sense enough to say that?

"No, I'm not," Nancy answered crossly. "Although I know he is still in love with me. You haven't told me the name of the man you are going to marry," she continued.

Peggy wondered desperately if she could manage a faint, or a fit. Anything to get Nancy away from the subject of her ring and her engagement. And she would have to keep this up for a week. Each day would call for more details, probably. If she could only go back to this morning when she had had no ring!

"Well, I can't tell you his name yet," she answered aloud.

"Won't I meet him while I'm here?" Nancy wanted to know, watching her closely.

"No, you see he doesn't live here. That's why. He's away, and I don't know just when he is coming. I'm awfully sorry but you see that is the way it is. He doesn't live here, and he is coming, but I don't know when, and there are several complications."

That seemed a good line, Peggy told herself, and she had better learn it well. "Come on, let's go down," she added.

"There seem to be complications," Nancy muttered as they left her room while she put away her hat, gloves and bag, then went downstairs to join the others on the back terrace for tea.

Maxine, of course, was the center of everything during the rest of the afternoon and evening. Nancy seemed morose, but she always was when she was not the center of things, Peggy thought unhappily. Only once did she enter the conversation.

"I've often been told," Nancy said, patting her blonde hair, "that I am a lot like Carole Landis. Do you think I am? I've sometimes thought I might go into pictures. You remember, Peggy, at school I was always in all the dramatics? Of course, I don't know just how to get in, but you could probably help me there," she said to Maxine.

"Well, I'm afraid not," Maxine answered slowly. "You see there are so many pretty girls who want to get in, and they have such bitter disappointments. I just happened to fit a part they needed someone for, and some studio executive saw me when we were going through a studio, and asked me to come back for a screen test. It was just a break, but of course that doesn't happen often."

Senator Marshall Formby Favors Building Farm To Market Road For Farmers

Senator Marshall Formby of this District said this week that he favored taking the surplus in the bond fund, after servicing all eligible bonds, and building farm to market roads for the farmers of Texas.

"Farmers of Texas pay more than 25 per cent of the gasoline tax," he said, "and do not get much benefit from their money spent because much of their traveling is done on rural roads. Considering the fact that we need more all-weather roads for school buses to travel over, I think it only fair that this surplus be spent to build some good lateral roads for the Texas farmer."

Senator Formby said he would like to see the bill changed so as to make it possible to take in the new bonds which West Texas Counties have used to build roads now a part of the State Highway System. The Senate Thursday night passed a bond bill which will provide for the building of farm to market roads by the State Highway Department. If the House adopts this bill, the Legislature should get through within the next few days. The Senate passed the Bill in three days.

Formby recently moved to Plainview where he is publisher of The Plainview Tribune. He said he believed his connection with the Plainview newspaper would fit in well with his Senatorial work and would give him considerable time to visit over the 24 Counties of this Senatorial District from time to time. He was formerly publisher of The Aspermont Star, and worked on several dailies before he was elected County Judge of Dickens County in 1936. He owns a farm near McAdoo, in Dickens County.

Advance Payments On Farm Mortgages Urged For Reserve

HOUSTON — The Federal Land Bank of Houston is stressing the use of advance payment plans on farm mortgages to build up reserves against "rainy days" while Texas farmers and ranchmen are enjoying higher prices for their products than in many years, Sterling C. Evans, president of the bank, announced this week.

Extra (or "conditional") payments made in advance draw interest at the same rate charged on the Federal Land Bank mortgages, which is now 3 1-2 percent. These payments may be applied on the mortgage at some future date if the borrower is unable to meet an installment, or in full payment of the mortgage when sufficient funds have been accumulated.

"It is distinctly to the farmer's advantage to establish such a cushion for his operations whenever he has the money available," Mr. Evans said. "Borrowers can use this plan to build up reserves in good years to carry them over lean years. One of the primary goals of the land bank system is to help farmers and stockmen pay out of debt. In 24 years, one-fourth of all the borrowers in Texas, who have obtained a total of $330,000,000 in long term financing, have repaid their obligations in full.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—Business men have been asked to observe "no coat—no tie" months from May to October to make rural visitors feel more at home.

According to the South Texas Chamber of Commerce, the only time some country boys dress up is when they go to town. They are uncomfortable in their coats and buttoned collars, but they would feel "out of place or worse" in open shirt fronts and overalls.

Lamb County Co-Op Gin Installs Five New Murray Stands

One of the most modern gin plants in this area is the Lamb County Farmers Co-Operative Association, Inc., since the installation of five new 80 Murray gin stands that are of the very latest model.

The entire gin plant has been overhauled and re-conditioned and is ready for the cotton season, V. S. Cassel, manager, reported this week.

Many modern improvements in the gin have been made the past several weeks, and Mr. Cassel extends a very special invitation to patrons of the gin, non-patrons and friends, to visit the plant and see the new equipment.

The installation of the new equipment represents quite an investment, Mr. Cassel said, and the co-operative association believes that the plant will render the very best of service through the coming year.

State Health Officer Urges Prevention Of Diphtheria For Children

Austin, Texas—"The axiom 'You can lead a horse to water but you can not make him drink' perhaps has no striking parallel in human conduct than man's indifference or refusal to use the protective methods and preventatives procedures that medical science has developed during the last 40 years. Indeed, the lack of personal cooperation is the weak link in an otherwise strong chain against not only some of the infections and influences that impair health or destroy life in middle-aged and older groups but against a number of the communicable childhood diseases, in which latter class diphtheria is an example", states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"Toxide immunization is available in Texas practically to all children, either through the family physician or at clinics arranged by physicians for those who are unable to pay the usual fee for this service.

"While the number of Texas children who have the benefit of this protection is large, evidently there are many who, because of parental misconception or unconcern, have not been made invulnerable to an attack of diphtheria through this simple and practical procedure.

"Perhaps the decided drop shown in the diphtheria illnesses and death rates during the last thirty-five years has developed an unwarranted sense of security on the part of too trusting parents. Nevertheless, whatever the cause, the facts remain that diphtheria manages to continue a steady massacre of young

Legion Auxiliary To Sell 1,000 Poppies In Nov.

The American Legion Auxiliary met in regular session at the American Legion hut Thursday night with Mrs. Maude Street presiding. Due to the fact that several members had expressed a desire to listen to the presidents message, a radio had been installed in the hut in order that they might all enjoy it together.

A short business session was held later, during which the unit voted to buy 1,000 poppies to be sold November 8th and a luncheon was planned for the near future in honor of Mrs. Richards the district chairman.

The attendance prize was awarded Mrs. Neal A. Douglass.

After the close of the meeting a watermelon feast was enjoyed.

The number of milk cows on farms in the United States increased nearly three percent between June 1940 and June 1941, according to the Agricultural Marketing Service.

lives, with ample weapons to prevent it; and these to be had only for the asking.

"Consequently, not only a large number of parents, but every parent, should be acutely aware of diphtheria's potential killing power and take the necessary steps to eliminate it. "Almost all diphtheria deaths that will occur in Texas during 1941 will have been preventable. With intelligent parental cooperation, most of these deaths even yet can be avoided. Science, through toxoid, eminently is fitted to afford this protection. But it is largely the parents' responsibility to see that the child obtains it."

New Butane Engine Installed Recently Weeks-Bagwell Gin

The Weeks-Bagwell Gin is ready for the 1941-1942 cotton season, O. Hampton, owner and manager reported this week, and the sale of cotton is expected in the vicinity about October 1.

The gin, located four miles west of Littlefield on the Pep highway, has been completely overhauled, and a new twin-city butane engine has been installed. A new cleaner has also been added to the plant, and the entire gin has been re-con- ditioned the past few weeks.

Equipped with four 70 Continental Twin mitchell stands, the Weeks-Bagwell gin is one of the best plants in this section.

Mr. Hampton stated that practically the same crew would be employed as last year, with the exception of the fireman, and with the installation of the butane engine, a fireman would be eliminated. He encouraged the cotton improvement plan in that section, and most of his customers have planted each year, only first year seed.

Les Holtcamp probably has the finest cotton, in that area, he said.

New Chevrolets Again Equipped With Cast Iron Pistons

DETROIT.—One certainty in the flood of rumors that annually surrounds the introduction of new car models here in the motor capital of the country, is that Chevrolet, sales leader throughout the past decade and top-volume producer in the industry, in 1942 again will be manufactured with cast iron pistons, more than 85,000,000 of which have been produced by Chevrolet engineers and skilled craftsmen during the past 21 years.

Since the first Chevrolet, in 1912, cast iron pistons, with their greater durability and distinct contribution to over-all operating economy, have been adhered to by Chevrolet designers, according to J. M. Crawford, chief engineer. "We have experimented with many varieties of metals for pistons," Mr. Crawford says, "and consistently we have returned to cast alloy iron as being the one best material for our production models.

"The reasons of this adherence to our original planning are simple: Cast iron pistons wear best; they permit of engine design insuring maximum operating economy; they insure maximum oil economy with minimum engine wear.

"Throughout the industry," Mr. Crawford pointed out, "Chevrolet has the distinction of being the most experienced builder of cast iron pistons, for some of our workmen who specialize in piston construction have been producing pistons of this type for as long as 20 years.

"The experience gained in manufacture of more than 85,000,000 cast iron pistons, plus the continuing research we do to assure our owners that Chevrolet pistons not only are the best type of piston but superior to all other cast iron pistons produced, is a distinct asset for every Chevrolet owner.

"The alloy iron used in the Chevrolet pistons was selected after extensive testing for maximum hardness and strength. A prime factor in its choice was the rigidity of construction it permits. Under the temperature and load conditions imposed on the pistons by high speed operation of a modern motor car, cast iron pistons hold their shape and insure the close fit of piston rings that means greater operating economy and superior performance," Mr. Crawford said.

Castings for the pistons are produced at the Saginaw (Mich.) grey iron foundry in the Chevrolet manufacturing system, and are machined at Flint.

Sensational New Type of Cooking Will Vary Menu

Magic Chef 'Broilecuing' Is Simple and Economical

A whole new field of cooking adventure has been opened up by this clever new Swing-out Broiler on the Magic Chef Gas Range. Meats cooked by direct heat rays are unusually tender and delicious. And this Swing-out Broiler is high enough so that you can even broil a whole chicken, a ham or a thick roast of beef. Slow broiling, with the meat placed far enough from the flame, is possible in this designed broiler.

New type Magic Chef triple-use broiler will hold a whole chicken for "broilecuing."

Six slots for the broiler pan provide any distance from the flame needed for any type of broiling. And with the broiler pan placed high, you have extra space beneath for a heating compartment to warm rolls or keep other foods hot till serving time.

The broiler swings out on a door, away from the flame, so that the cook is protected from splattering fat. There's no need to worry about smoking, however, because the specially designed broiler pan is of the smokeless type that makes broiling a real pleasure. It's high enough, too, to save stooping and crouching. You don't have to stoop to light the broiler because on Magic Chef CP models you get automatic broiler lighting, without matches.

Broiled foods, health authorities tell us, are most digestible. Today nutrition experts recommend broiled meats for young and old. But so many old-fashioned stoves make broiling a distasteful chore, that many families are deprived of delectable broiled meats on their dinner tables. The Swing-out Broiler is included on many Magic Chef Gas Range models now on display at Onstead Furniture.

HOME DEFENSE STARTS IN THE KITCHEN

Why cook the best of health-giving vitamins and minerals out of your food? Why burn up these precious food elements or pour them down the sink? Here's the way to save them—and save yourself work and money at the same time.

The advantages of having a Magic Chef range in your kitchen not only add up to savings in food, greater enjoyment of mealtimes and improved health. They afford real savings in fuel, because the burners of a modern gas range are so efficient that they provide more perfect combustion, faster pre-heating, and greater flexibility of heats for every cooking job. These advantages are being demonstrated on a variety of beautiful gas models at our store.

Second Annual Fair
to Be Staged At
Sudan Sept. 26 and 27

Plans are almost completed for the second annual fair, which will be held at Sudan Friday and Saturday, September 26 and 27 according to an announcement made last week.

Prizes will be given on the exhibits of cotton, kafir, melons, corn, sudan grass, tomatoes, spuds, carrots, flowers, soy beans, hedges, popcorn, peanuts, and alfalfa. A baby show, a feature of last year's fair, will be held again this year. Foot races, terrapin races, and many other contests, and many other events will be included on the entertainment program.

The musical contest, two entries have already been received. They are the Lubbock quartet and the Lubbock Junior quartet, two outstanding musical units well known in the Plains, as entertainers at many events and as singers over the radio. Many other entries are expected for this contest. The nature of the fair will be the

Rodeo At South Plains Fair To Be Nightly Feature

LUBBOCK—Offering $2,700 to $3,000 in cash prizes for contestants and one of the most ambitious programs in history for the spectator, a rodeo which will be a nightly grandstand feature at the 28th annual Panhandle South Plains Fair here October 6 to 11 will bring close to 200 of the nation's roughest and toughest animals and some of the topnotch cowboy performers for entertainment of an anticipated record attendance.

Fair officials this week announced approval of contracts for the animals, more than 100 head of which will come from the famous Butler Bros. ranch at Elk City, Oklahoma, origin of much of the livestock used in rodeos at the Madison Square Garden shows at New York. The announcement has been received with widespread approval by prospective contestants and the public in general.

All contests will be judged under rules of the Cowboy Turtle Association, and events will be open to members of the association and to all amateurs in good standing. Blackballed "Turtles" will be barred from competition under a specific rule. Contest entries must be on file before 5 p. m. on October 5, day preceding opening of the fair, and these must be accompanied by entry fees, which are $10 for calf roping and $7.50 for each of the other events.

Guaranteed prize money in each event will be $400, with all entry fees added. These fees are estimated to total probably $1,100.

Special acts by outstanding individual performers will be included on each of the nightly programs. Regular events include calf roping, bronc riding, steer riding, and bulldogging, with Brahma calves and steers for riding, and Mexican steers for roping and bulldogging.

Among outstanding animals named in the contract will be "Old Twenty-One", a fiery steer that is credited with having been ridden only three times in the past four years; and such bucking brones as "Amos" and "Andy", a pair of high-flying Paint outlaws, "Corkscrew", "Hell Sink", "Yehudi", "Lee Rider", "Red Snapper", and "Joe Louis", each famous in his own right over the rodeo circuits. Many others, some probably just as rough and tough, but not quite so widely known, also will appear.

The show will be staged under floodlights before the large steel grandstand each night during the six-day exposition.

Bufs Win Conference Tilt From Hale Center

Peterburg's Golden Buffaloes took an early lead in the District 4-B north zone football race Friday, winning a 2 to 0 victory over Hale Center in a conference game.

The Buffs missed three scoring chances in the second half before Kirkpatrick blocked a punt in the final minutes. Hale Center recovered ed behind the goal line for a safety.

A mumps epidemic that had several of the Owls out of uniform hurt the team, already much lighter and less experienced than the visitors. Coach Sam Byran had only 15 men in uniform.

First half was played mostly in Petersburg territory, but the Buffs kept the ball in Hale Center's end in the last half. Hale Center led in first downs, 6 to 5, but Petersburg had most penetrations, 3-1.

"Since we are not checking cotton plow-up until all farms have been measured, if the excess cotton destroyed before the farm is measured the first time, it will be possible for the producer to sign his cotton Parity application and there fore expect payment at an earlier date."

"The cotton stamps are not being issued for one farm until all farms in which a producer has an interest have been measured and he has signed his last Parity application," he continued.

"In seeding wheat for 1942, the producer should be very careful to over-see the wheat allotment set up for the farm as we will not be permitted to destroy any acreage of wheat to come within the 1942 wheat acreage allotment. In other words, in 1941 there was a tolerance on wheat whereby a producer could destroy (3) per cent of the allotment, whichever was the larger to come within the allotment set for the farm. In 1942 there will be no such tolerance on wheat. It will be classified as wheat when seeded and destroying wheat after it is seeded will not change the classification. If the wheat allotment over-seeded, penalty on the excess acreage will be ten times the rate of payment for one acre of wheat on a strict basis. Miss Lida Cooper and K. J. Edwards, District Agents.

It is believed by the coaches that other players will share the spotlight this week, when they journey to Hereford Friday night, seeking revenge for a 7 to 6 defeat they took from the Whitefaces last year on the local field. Co-Captains of the team this week will be Roy Hutson, back, and Calvin Lippard, center.

The Hereford squad were strong runners last year, while this year their aerial attacks will be hard to beat. Coached by an ex-TCU player, Logan Ware, the team to the north are reported to be extra-super passers, and the Wildcat coaches have been giving the local squad strenuous workouts "through the air."

Five lettermen will play on the Hereford team.

The high school band, pep squad and many local fans expect to go to Hereford for the game Friday night. A pep rally has been planned for Friday noon, on the lawn at the high school, and downtown fans are urged to be present for

ELECTRICITY-YOUR SERVANT

The two major questions which are considered by the average user of electricity, are:

First, WHAT ARE THE RATES? and
SECOND, HOW DEPENDABLE IS THE SERVICE?

It is with just pride that we can say to our customers that, throughout the years that we have been serving you, we have steadily reduced rates, until now the electric rates in the towns served by us will compare favorably with the rates in any other section of the United States.

We also take a just pride in the fact that, while we have steadily reduced rates, we have throughout the years steadily improved our service.

HAVE YOU EVER THOUGHT?

When some emergency at home required your use of electricity at night, of what is required of us in order that you may have that dependable service to which you are entitled and to which you have grown accustomed? To give you this service, men sit throughout the hours of the night, watching the indicators on a battery of instruments which tell them when anything interrupts the constant flow of current to your's and your neighbors' homes and places of business. If lightning or some other uncontrollable natural force interrupts that service, immediately our employees spring into instant activity, going out into the night and the storm to make repairs in order that your servant, electricity, will be always at your command.

These men, some of them your friends and neighbors, perform this hard and dangerous work cheerfully and willingly, because they have become animated by the ideal of this Company that a dependable service, cheerfully furnished, is our first and primary duty. It is a duty to you which we have undertaken; it is a duty which we will in the future perform as we have done in the past with cheerful courtesy and in sincere appreciation of your patronage.
