Chesher has issued the call for the Lamb County Republican convention to be held in Littlefield at the Court House, at 8:00 p. m. on Tuesday, May 6, when delegates to the state convention will be chosen. ... The County Republican Executive committee met the past week, with several precinct chairmen present, and made plans, and set Saturday, May 3, as the date for holding precinct conventions throughout the county. All precinct conventions are called for the same date, and each is scheduled for 2:30 p. m. ... The Littlefield convention will be held at Hays Coffee Shop, according to E. C. Cundiff, precinct chairman. Names of other precinct chairmen were not immediately announced, but have been selected. ... Mrs. C. E. Cowan, who has been ill for the past several weeks, was re-admitted to Littlefield hospital the past week, for medical treatment. She has been a patient two different times during the past month.

In the same set of competitions, Mrs. Rufus Sweet of Wellington was named "Texas Homemaker of the Year."

Mr. Jones is busy this week receiving the congratulations of many friends and neighbors, and from Soil Conservation officials, including Raymond Cooper, of Olton, chairman of the board of the Lamb County Conservation Service. ... The Lamb County winner received his award for the outstanding manner in which he has conformed with recommended Soil Conservation practices. He bought five sections of sandhill land, some years ago, badly infested with mesquite and sagebrush, cleared the land, clearing the same of both growths to a degree approaching perfection, and transformed it into a grazing farm capable of and now supporting 100 head of Hereford cattle. ... He has transformed the former semi-barren tract into a thing of beauty, and won the award because he has worked harder and done more to bring his land into an improved state than any other Lamb County land owner.

Mr. Jones is a life-time resident of Lamb County. He is close to 50 years of age, and with his wife lives on the land which he has transformed in a modern home. ... The Soil Improvement program, and contests and award is sponsored primarily by the Ft. Worth Press, in conjunction with the Soil Conservation Service, and has been in operation for several years. This is the first time that Lamb County has been entered in the 51-county competitions.

O. C. Fox, patient at Veteran's hospital at Waco, is expected to arrive home this week to spend a few days here with his wife and daughter, Mary Rue. He will return to the hospital for further medical treatment.

May 1-Children's Health Day

Children's Health Day will be observed throughout the nation on May 1, in the hope of insuring that tomorrow's children will be sturdier than were those of yesterday.

In Texas, state health officials are shooting for a record of benefitting an even greater number of handicapped children than the 4,320 which were cared for under the state's crippled children program in 1951.

It will mean new hope for the child with a club foot, a cleft palate or harelip, a crippling burn, bow legs, or a curved spine.

State Health Officer Geo. W. Cox, whose department has administered the program since 1945, said many people "don't realize they can get state financial assistance for the physical restoration of many crippling conditions."

Eligibility for help is set by legislative statute. The law says any person of normal mentality under 21 years old whose physical functions or movements are impaired by reason of a joint, bone, or muscle defect... is eligible for care, providing the county judge where the child resides certifies that the parents cannot finance the needed care and treatment.

Physical restoration is the purpose of the program. Some of the conditions which are accepted for treatment are infantile paralysis, osteomyelitis, club feet, harelip, cleft palate, arthritis, rickets, tuberculosis of the bone, flat feet, congenitally dislocated hip, muscular dystrophy, supernumerary fingers and toes, webbed fingers, amputation, Pott's disease, and many others. If the attending physician recommends prosthetics, the appliances are supplied.

The program does not include such handicapping ailments as rheumatic fever, hearing and visual deficiencies, or epilepsy.

Crippled children of indigent parents have been available for state aid since 1933. Formed first under the Department of Education, the program was transferred to the State Department of Health in May, 1945. Since the transfer, a total of 12,589 handicapped children have been returned to normalcy or near-normalcy.

The Texas Rose Industry

California may have the Rose Parade, the Rose Bowl and all the fanfare. But Texas is the leading rose-producing state in the nation.

Texas producers are shipping up to 20,000,000 rose plants a year—or two-thirds of all roses used in outdoor planting in America.

The rose is a field crop, and growers set out ten acres of roses like other farmers plant corn or cotton. In fact, some rose growers also plant other crops, and one of the leading East Texas growers takes pride in his 3 bale-per-acre cotton yield.

During the blooming season one can see some 15,000,000 rose plants flowering 2,000,000,000-odd roses—which go to waste as they fade and die and drop off the bush, for it is the plant, not the bloom, that is marketed.

by parcel post and truck. have paid as much as $10,000 for a single parent plant.

Shipments average 200 to 300 cars annually to big in their Hereford Whitefaces. Growers known to plants move in refrigerated cars, the remainder shipment of fine rose stock as our cattle breeders take

Texas producers take as much pride in the developments in the East and Midwest. Up to 14,000,000

They grow many varieties developed by cross-pollination by breeders in other parts of the country and Europe. But they also develop their own varieties from "sports" which occur when a plant suddenly develops characteristics unlike those of its parent. One sport may never develop into anything worthwhile. Another may become a valuable new patented variety from which a grower can collect thousands of dollars annually in royalties.

Until recent years, Texas growers shipped their plants to distributors out of the state, but they are now beginning to do some of their own distributing, going in for fancy root packing for department stores. The plant is displayed in colorful moisture-proof packages, and the roots are packed in sphagnum moss—which conserves moisture up to six weeks and allows the plant to continue growing and even to bloom on the sales counter.

Growers now store large quantities of bushes for late shipment to retail trade. Cold storage facilities can handle 2,000,000 bushes.

In marketing rose plants, much depends on the pull of the name. A few of the most popular varieties grown in Texas are Radiance, Peace, Tallman, Briarcliff, Gay Lady, Big Daddy, Festival, Summer Snow, Texas Centennial and General MacArthur—an old variety named for Douglas' father.

One of the best-sellers is an old variety which has no place among the newer and finer plants. The secret of its popularity is in the name: "American Beauty."

effect January 1, 1951. However, lawyers say that many persons who employ help in their homes are still in the dark about requirements of the law.

Here are some provisions everyone should know. Household workers covered by the law include maids, laundresses, housekeepers, cooks, nursemaids, gardeners, handymen, valets, footmen, grooms, chauffeurs of privately owned cars, practical nurses, and others.

Whether or not a household worker is included in the law depends on how many days she works and how much money she is paid. If the person works 24 days and earns $50 during any one of the three month periods into which the calendar year has been divided, a tax report must be filed and payment made.

Only cash wages are considered, which includes bus fare if paid in cash, but does not include bus tokens, clothing, room and board, or other non-cash items furnished the employee. A domestic worker does not have to put in a full day to count on the 24 day rule—any portion of the day worked counts as a full day.

The rule is different for domestic workers on farms operated for profit. In such cases the domestic worker is considered a farm worker and is covered only if he or she meets the test for farm labor.

The tax in all amounts to 3% of the cash wages paid. You, as an employer, must deduct 1 1/2% from your household worker's cash wages if the person meets the 24 day, fifty dollar test. You then include another 1 1/2% which is the employer's contribution. After the close of each specified three-month period you should send the tax, with a report of the wages paid, to the Collector of Internal Revenue.

These three-month periods, or quarters, end on March 31, June 30, September 30 and December 31. Reports and payments are due by the last day of the month following the close of each quarter. During any quarterly period that a household worker does NOT work 24 days or earn $50, the employer need not be concerned. You need not consider the work your employee performs for any other employer.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue has a special household report form, printed on the back of a return envelope, which can be obtained from your Collector upon request. Just ask for Form 942.

(This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts, because the facts may change the application of the law.)

In the years the question of rock or not to rock has been debated by the medical profession alike. A few years back the picture of a cradle for an infant was so closely allied to old-fashioned notions that it always brought a smile to the lips of the modern generation. Time has turned backward, however, to where now a cradle and a rocking chair are very much in mode again, and the picture of a mother gently rocking her child as she hums a little song is as up-to-the-minute as the policy of letting the infant work out his own feeding schedule.

These changes in policies have rocked back and forth since mankind first discovered that he could exert some control over the health of his body. Back in 150 A. D. in Rome the question of rocking the baby was a medical topic of the day and Galen, the medical scholar who set up regulations that held sway for 1500 years, took a firm stand in favor of a gentle rocking, accompanied by a lullaby. He implied that the rocking gave the internal organs the motion they required and the lullaby seemed to be the motion to sway the mind.

He had bitter opponents for his ideas back in those days. Different ideas about health are as healthy for the study of medicine, keeping it in motion and alive, as the rocking motion of each person is vital to his health.

Motion is recognized today as the keynote of life. All parts of the body, ven the tiny cells, are constantly undergoing some activity. There must be motion to retain life.

Like the pendulum of a clock, the organs of the body follow a rocking motion. Every organ is cradled in a sac which sets the limits of its rocking. Without the power to rock or swing, the organ is unable to perform its duty.

"Stasis" is the medical word for lack of motion, whether it be of the bloodstream or the organs of the body. Stasis in your body, like static on your radio, causes discord.

There is a slight pause in the healthy swaying of the parts of the body. When the pendulum of a clock reaches as far to one side as it can go, there is a pause before it swings back. If it gets stuck and fails to swing back, there is lack of motion similar to that caused by adhesions in the body, when one organ or part of the body grows to another, causing a stickiness that interferes with the swing and sway of motion.

The organs of the body may be considered as the works of many different clocks. The bloodstream and fluid channels of the body are the "springs" of your physical clockwork. Before man learned to coil up wire and fix the spring of

Fight Started On Registering Of Young Farm Help

Farm organizations are fighting a proposed federal regulation that would require detailed records be kept on all agriculture workers under 18 years old.

The portion of the proposal applicable to agriculture would require that any farmer who employs a clock, clocks were run by drops of water, comparable to the modern clock springs. The water flowed past a regulator into a basin. In the basin was a tall notched stick set in a cork. As the basin filled, the cork rose and the notches on the stick turned the hands around a numbered disk, the clock face.

Different organs of the body have different clock mechanisms but they all need that inflow of fluid, the springs of their clockwork, to keep them working.

Exercise keeps the springs feeding the different parts of the body. Too much exercise winds the springs up too tight, making the organs tick too fast. Too little exercise has the effect of letting the clock run down, not giving the vital organs of the body enough drops of water to keep their clocks functioning efficiently.

TEEN TALK

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

If you want to have boyfriends, learn how to be a good sport. That's the advice of handsome Tab Hunter, 21-year-old blond movie star, who played leading man to Linda Darnell recently in his first movie, "Island of Desire."

Tab debunks the theory that a date with a Hollywood celebrity is all caviar, orchids and champagne, in the movie magazines. The girl who has a date with Tab rarely goes to a night club. Says he:

"My favorite date is a girl who is pretty and sweet, not a raving beauty, and who has no desire to be a glamor queen. She enjoys simple entertainment, and doesn't even complain when we go to a drive-in theatre on a rainy night with a broken windshield wiper."

And that in Tab's estimation is the last word in sportsmanship. True, Tab almost made a mistake about The Girl. When he first met her—Joyce Lockwood—at a skating rink, he thought she was conceited. But how wrong can a guy be, he asks, when he realizes he mistook poise for aloofness which he thought was just an act. After four years of real friendship he realizes now that Joyce is a "girl in a million"—unaffected, unselfish, sweet, considerate and agreeable. Says he:

"I guess I was a little off base, because Hollywood is so cluttered with cheap girls who think it is smart to pretend even if they haven't seen everything and done everything. It is a treat to know a girl who has her feet on the ground, who doesn't think it is smart to smoke or swear and who has a warmth and sincerity everybody admires."

Most Hollywood girls, he says, have a false sense of values. They rate boys by the size of their automobiles and their wallets. (He has a "beat-up" Ford.) Take a girl out, and what does she do? Tab answers:

his own question by saying it is a wasted date—the girl spends the entire evening primping and fussing expecting that any moment she will be "discovered" by a movie producer or a talent scout.

A typical date for Tab and Joyce is doing the things they enjoy such as skating, swimming, horseback riding or tennis. He says that many times Joyce gets up at 4:30 a. m. to meet him at their favorite skating rink by 6 o'clock.

Tab, who as Art Gillean (his real name) has won figure ice skating contests, finds that the something-in-common between two people isn't over-rated. Joyce is a professional ice-skater and they both adore the sport. She is so graceful, he says, "it takes your breath away to watch her."

What's his formula for a perfect date? He puts it this way:

1. Don't be too prim or proper.
2. Be fun—laugh, but don't get hysterical.
3. Be a good sport. Even if you aren't athletic, make an attempt to enjoy your date's favorite sport. He'll give you credit for trying, even if you don't quite make the grade.
4. Compromise when discussing the place to spend the evening, even if you can't absolutely agree on the thing to do.
5. Be a good conversationalist.

and don't spend all your time talking about yourself, making demands on your date, or table-bopping.

Tab thinks any young man would rather date a ladylike girl than a glamor queen. Men do not admire girls who pretend. Says he:

"If girls want boys to respect them, they should act like ladies. A boy doesn't enjoy dating a smart aleck. He likes the company of a girl who is a good companion—the kind of girl most boys want to marry. Why don't more girls who want boyfriends strive to be ladylike?"

Has Tab proposed to Joyce? Well, hardly. As a matter of fact, he says:

"She'll be very surprised to read these nice things I've said about her. Somehow, you don't need to praise her all the time to get along. And she is not impressed by my role in the movies."

But Tab doesn't want anybody to get the idea that his girl is—well, the goody-goody type—or even old-fashioned. She's just—well, wonderful, he says—and other girls might profit by reading about the way he feels about her.

That's all, except she's so angelic—for Hollywood, particularly—he's surprised she hasn't sprouted wings.

PREPARATION for a tour of duty in the armed forces of the United States is the theme of a new series of films being released through schools, clubs, and churches. Produced by a group of educational associations, the U.S. Department of Defense and Coronet Films, they are designed to show young men what to expect from their period of service and after they complete the tour. They resulted from studies that showed many boys were confused as to what they ought to do before going into service and what the results of such duty would be. Here are some scenes taken from the 14 short films which have been produced in the project.

MORAL standards, the urge, should keep a man to write to his family.

COMRADESHIP can be one of the most important elements of military service, the films indicate. It can help self-reliance and sense of responsibility.

PRIDE in the uniform goes with pride of one of the film themes. The best preparation for service is good citizenship before military training.

Fall Flowering Bulbs And Vines Offer Bonus

(By CYNTHIA LOWRY)
AP Newsfeatures Writer

There scarcely lives a gardener who is unaware of the beauty and use of growing the brilliant spring flowering bulbs—daffodils, hyacinths, and tulips, which follow the crocuses and snowdrops in the garden.

These, of course, are planted in the fall.

But there are other bulbs which flower in the summer and early fall, which must be spring-planted, and which don't get as much attention as they deserve—probably because gardeners are so preoccupied with getting seeds sown for other flowers.

After the tulip and narcissus have finished, the gardeners may rely on the amaryllis, strobilifer, autumn crocus, and, of course, the big lily family.

The bulb family can be enlarged by including a number of popular plants like iris, gladiolus, dahlia and canna—some of them hardly enough to be planted permanently and disturbed only when necessary to divide, and others which must be dug and stored carefully through the winter months.

How to Plant Bulbs
Regardless of their habit of growth and of their hardiness, bulbs flourish in deep, fertile and well drained soil. Because some of the bulbs, like dahlias, daffodils and hyacinth should be planted as deep as six or eight inches, the flower bed should be carefully prepared down a foot or more so that the deep roots have proper food.

The general planting rule is to plant the bulb two and one-half times its depth—but there are exceptions (like the iris) so the gardener is well advised to study the requirements for each species if he would avoid disaster.

Moles, for instance, have a liking for bulbs as a food staple, and where there is a mole-infested garden, bulbs may be planted in wire "baskets" for protection.

Vines—annual and perennial—are other too-frequently neglected members of the garden clan.

There's been so much emphasis on roses in recent years that the first thought of the average gardener, desiring to soften a hard line or lift some color up into the air, is of the climber rose. Actually, there are vines for almost every purpose from providing an area of perfume ed air to screening something like a compost pile. Like other plants,

They like good soil, good drainage. In addition most require support of some kind.

Some Vines Available
Some vines cling to brick walls. Honeyuckle and akela provide a pleasant scent, bitter-sweet and gourds give interesting and colorful fruit; some varieties of clematis, wisteria and silverlace vine provide big, splashy blooms. For heavy screening there's Dutchman's pipe, the castor vine and moonflower. And, in case you wish to eat from your vine, there are cucumber, grapes and pole beans—with Scarlet Runner giving a pretty bloom for good measure.

Grapes Draw Birds
Grapes, over an arbor, provide shade, provide fruit and attract birds. They require careful pruning, however, and they also attract Japanese beetles. In addition, they are apt to be a little messy.

Perennial vines, like other year-to-year plants, require some pruning and feeding attention. Most require assistance and control if they are to grow satisfactorily and in the desired shade.
