TOR PINK L. PARRISH HONORED BY COLLEAGUES

Everyone thinks Senator Pink L. Parrish is showing his first term from the first Senatorial district, is one of the big senators of this state of Texas, they have another meaning.

Everyone who knows the senator is well acquainted with the proportions of his august personality, but it is not everyone who knows that hidden away behind the hat he wears there is a brain which, if active, would doubtless tip the scales at 325 pounds.

Sixteen new Senators this year are showing their first term in the legislature, and none are more so than the senator from Lubbock. We are talking about the days in the Capitol city having been sent there by the senator in action. We kept more pages busy with two senators occupying the same friendly visitors calling at his house as any other lawmaker, and the Stephen F. Austin which history has the honor of during the present session of the Legislature, he was surrounded by a crowd of in-laws, lobbyists and fellow members, sometimes engaging in a conversation which was nothing more than a series of rip-off an humorous remarks never failed to produce a response.

The most conclusive proof of the senator's weighty presence in the legislature is the fact that he is usually honored with a handshake by the body at large. Parrish is vice-chairman of the Finance Committee, an honor accorded any senator at the first term of office; and he is chairman of the Committee on Expenses. Other committees of which he is a member are: Power and Water, Banking, and Country Boundaries.

The Littlefield Chamber of Commerce met Tuesday noon at the College cafeteria for a luncheon, 25 members were present. The chairman of the census committee said that a survey of the city and trade territory was being made and that the work was progressing, and they expected to be able to complete the work in a short time.

The hotel committee was reported to be making progress relative to securing a modern hotel for the city. Two of the county commissioners were present and assured the body of their hearty cooperation in securing a road north of the city which is badly needed.

A number of talks from various members were given and were all very enthusiastic over the outlook for the city and surrounding territory. The county agent, D. A. Adams, made a short talk and explained the work he was doing over the county. The board voted to employ a part time secretary until such time they felt able to employ a full time man.

The Highway Department. Pink is strictly "fornalst" the present county fee system, and we wouldn't be surprised if he wouldn't introduce a bill eliminating or at least modifying the present order, and putting such officers so affected upon a salary. At any rate, take it from us, Senator Parrish is going to give a good account of himself during the present legislature.

As he is familiarly known as taking a keen interest in the transpiring within the senate chamber. He is the job every hour and each session, and nothing escapes his detection, decision. Good roads is his hobby, and he is spending

LITTLEFIELD COLLEGE COMMENDED BY SUPERVISOR

On January the 8th Miss Katherine Henderson, Supervisor for the High School Division of the State Department of Education, visited Littlefield College and made the following recommendations:

"That the credits held by Gunter College Academy be automatically transferred to Littlefield College Academy. This is done in recognition of the fact that the present academy is under the same administration, maintains the same faculty, has better physical conditions, and is doing creditable work in each department.

"The Supervisor visited the academy at Gunter a few years ago and is gratified to find the same faculty and a decided improvement in physical conditions. The present value of buildings is over $40,000, and work has already started on improvements amounting to $100,000. Construction of an administration building has been started. This building with a boys' dormitory and two homes for the teachers will be completed by the beginning of the fall term.

"Within the next two years a committee said that a survey of the city curriculum, and the land owned by the school will make possible much experimental farming.

"Among other improvements, $1,500 in equipment has been added. $500 will be spent this session on the library.

"That an encyclopedia, less advanced than the Britannica and more advanced than the World Book, be purchased for the high school library.

"That, as a safety measure, the stairway in the girls' dormitory be completed.

"The courtesies extended by Pres. Freeman, Mr. Jones, and members of the faculty are sincerely appreciated."

The work on the stairway will be finished as soon as the desired character of material can be obtained. And it is our expectation that before the supervisor makes a visit next year even more improvements may be made than those to which she made reference in her report to the Department.

JNO. R. FREEMAN, President.

CLOTHES MAY NOT MAKE THE MAN BUT THEY GO A LONG WAY SAY LOCAL DEALERS

"Clothes is one of the subjects of universal interest," remarked Clyde Willis, local tailor, this week. He had just finished the task of renovating a two year old suit, making it look exactly like new, barring the fact that the style was not quite up to the minute. "As far as history goes back into the annals of the past, folks have been interested in clothes," said Mr. Willis, "and, as we advance in the periods of progress and civilization the interest increases," he continued.

"It was along in 1820 that La Fayette, in his old age, paid his last visit to this country, journeying through its eastern states, and he was wonderfully surprised at the dress of its people. Fresh from France and Europe in general, with its traditions of social distinction, the great general and statesman was much puzzled, for everywhere he went he found well-dressed throngs surrounding his carriage. But if LaFayette thought strange of American dress a hundred years ago, what might be his surprise in this twentieth century.

"Dress is invariably an index of individual prosperity as well as that of a national nature, and people of all classes today may be well dressed, if they so desire. Go into any modern factory, and one of the necessary equipments are long rows of steel lockers where the workmen and women may keep their street clothing. They come into the factory dressed as well as the average office-holder, change quickly to their overalls and are ready for any dirty work at hand; but when they again emerge to the street they are as immaculate and clean as tho they had been tied up all day in the proverbial bandbox.

"Clothes may not make the man entirely, but they go a long way in that direction, and the well dressed man has quite a running start over the one who give little heed to his personal appearance. A good personal appearance not only gives one a prompt entry into social and business circles, but it has a decided reflex influence upon the person himself, in that fact that it stimulates a pride and confidence as nothing else will.

"Being well dressed is not necessarily an expensive matter now days. Most anyone can do so without any great outlay of money, and, there is as much in taking care of one's clothes after they are bought as in the first buying."

"The Leader representative listening to this enlightening discourse, had to plead guilty to not being as punctilious in his dress as he might be, and he was much interested. So much, in fact that he began searching for the comment of other local clothes authorities. Approaching Jack Henry, who does business on the south side of Main street, he was asked his opinion as to the effect of clothes on business. Jack, with one of his familiar smiles, promptly replied, "There's no question about it. And I am not saying that entirely because I'm in the business of selling clothes and keeping clothes looking like new. I just know from my own experience and the experience of countless others that it pays big. I can cite you to just one instance that ought to be conclusive in that particular respect.

"Everyone knows that the army rules regarding dress are most rigorous. Every officer and soldier must be spotlessly groomed, especially on parade and special occasions. His face must be clean shaved and his shoes shined for inspection. Unconsciously it has a beneficial effect upon the man himself. He tips his chin a little bit higher, he throws his chest out a little farther, his shoulders come back into position, there is a new spring in his footsteps and a pride in his general bearing not otherwise noticeable. The well dressed soldier can look anybody in the face and tell him to go to Hadesport or any other seaport in the Dardanelles."

T. S. Sales, whose name indicates that his business is selling clothes, insists that most anyone may be well dressed nowadays. "It is not so much the amount of money involved as the degree of judgment exercised," he said. "Smartness, once the prerogative of the few, is now the possession of many. Occasionally there is some one who is not skilled in taste, they don't know just what they should have; but that is never any serious handicap, because the modern salesman is always well posted and glad to assist in selections."

Earnest Williams, who has made a considerable study of dress, declares there are at least four impulses underlying the well dressed man of today. Those are society, success, sex and self-respect. Society means the acceptance of your fellowman. Success means advancement in business life. Sex means the approval of women, whether wife, daughter or sweetheart, while self-respect is the awakening within of that still small voice which awards with satisfaction the appearance of the dresser.

"Of course, there are lots of qualifications that enter into business success," said J. H. Ewins, "but clothes are always an important factor. Chauncey M. Depew was always punctilious about his personal appearance, and he has advised more than one young man to 'dress well and

EMANUEL LUTHERAN CHURCH HOLDS ANNUAL ELECTION

The annual business meeting for the election of officers was held at the Lutheran church of this city, Sunday afternoon. The result of the election was as follows: Mr. F. Lichte was elected to the office of Elder, to take the place of the retiring senior Elder Mr. Richard Kelm. While Mr. R. D. Birklebach was reelected Treasurer, and Mr. D. Beisel Sr., secretary.

After a discussion almost the entire budget for the year 1929 was subscribed, the rest is expected to be subscribed for in the next few days. Thereupon the congregation gave the officers a rising vote of appreciation for their excellent work during the past year.

Thursday afternoon the Ladies Aid meets at the parsonage. As there will be considerable business to attend to, all are asked to be present. Refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting.

FATHER OF J. M. BRIDGES DIES

J. M. Bridges was called to the bedside of his father, J. C. Bridges, at Justiceburg last Thursday, who passed away at 11:00 o'clock that night.

"Grandpa" Bridges, as he was called by his intimates, had been making his home with his son in Littlefield, making many friends while here. The climate not agreeing with him he had gone below the Cap Rock to spend the remainder of the winter, planning on returning here in the spring.

Four sons and one daughter were with him at death. "Grandpa" Bridges was 84 years old, and had lived a faithful christian life, and was loved and respected by all who knew him.

His wife preceded him in death last September. His remains were laid to rest beside her, at Roby.—Contributed.

work hard." It is said that Daniel Webster when arguing an important case, always insisted upon wearing a brand new suit. It was his idea the consciousness of looking better than his opponent quickened his wits, buoyed his courage and aided his knowledge of law and the facts of the case at hand."

The interviewer returned to his office fully assured there was something to dress, tho admitting it may not have any particular influence upon the refinement or enlargement of his personal wardrobe. However, he got one big idea out of that bunch of conversation, and that was: that a suit may be in either the Ford or the Lincoln car class, and yet be of good material and make, and in the latest fashion.

Really, there don't seem to be much reason why most folks should not go well dressed.

DEPARTMENT OF SHERIFF SHOWS A GREAT ACTIVITY

A number of arrests have taken place during the past week, according to Sheriff Len Irvin, who is showing considerable activity in his office. In a statement to a Leader representative this week, claims he and his helpers have started on an intensive campaign to clean Lamb county of undesirable characters.

A. J. Patterson of Amherst, was arrested Sunday, by Sheriff Irvin and Deputy Walraven, on a charge of stealing and completely stripping a Ford car, belonging to a Mr. McDaniel, of Sudan.

The wheels, five casings, radiator and batteries were discovered in a hay stack north of Amherst, where he is alleged to have placed them. McDaniel is in the Olton jail, pending bond.

Two men giving the names of O. C. West and Coleman, were arrested by Sheriff Irvin, in Littlefield, Sunday on a charge preferred by Blevins Shipley, that they were driving his car without his given consent. They are now in the county hotel, pending bond.

City Marshal Fred Hoover, arrested a Mexican, giving the name of Ontario, Saturday night, across the railroad tracks, on a charge of having in his possession some whiskey and mash. He is being held in jail at Olton, awaiting bond.

Three boys at Amherst were taken into custody last Wednesday by Sheriff Irvin and Deputy Walraven, on a charge of drunkenness and disturbing the peace.

The judge imposed a sentence of a fine each of $37.75 and 30 days in jail.

NEW HUDSON-ESSEX DEALER LOCATING IN LITTLEFIELD

We are this week in receipt of the information that Littlefield is to have a Hudson-Essex sales room and service department for that well known make of automobiles. However, the exact location of the business has not yet been determined, but negotiations are under way for the erection of a suitable building. In the meantime these cars may be seen on display at the Palace Garage.

The formation of the Hudson-Essex Sales Co., took place last November at which time they acquired the territory comprised of Hockley and Cochran counties. On January 8th, however, the members of this company were fortunate to enlarge their interest by securing Lamb county also, and have decided to make Littlefield their headquarters.

The Hudson-Essex Sales Company is composed of T. J. George and L. H. Bates, of Enoch, and W. H. Logan of Morton. Mr. Bates has been chosen business manager of the new company and will move to Littlefield about February 1st, taking active charge of the companies operation here. He is very optimistic over the future of his company, and of Littlefield. His father, H. S. Bates, formerly of Salem, Oregon, will assist in the business.

According to Mr. Bates, the Hudson Motor Car Company have improved their model for 1929 and have added new ones until now they have to offer the motoring public their choice of 21 snappy models ranging in prices well suited to the various demands of those whom they strive to serve.

Planning Important

planned for five, ten, or twenty-year periods will result in savings for cities. Ford, city planning commissioner of New York city, said in an address in Dallas, Tex., at the national conference on city planning. Ford said, estimated expenditure for ten-year improvement would reach $779,001,477 in ten years later, the program with a saving of $80,000,000, he said. Sometimes will advance cities which have adopted programs for huge municipalities, but such advances are anyhow, he said. Planning for a number of years will escape much of the "wastefulness" and many of the "mistakes" have been made in the past, he said.

USE HOME PRODUCTS

Lessons of the war have taught us that the more nearly self-sustaining a nation becomes the more advantageously it will be situated should war unhappily come again.

The same principle applies in peacetime as well, and the more we are able to substitute home products for those usually imported the better off we shall be from an economic standpoint.

With this principle in mind, the Southwide Cotton Council is urging new and wider uses of cotton, as well as better methods of marketing that staple. It is estimated that the use of cotton bagging alone, instead of imported jute, might easily absorb from one-half million to a million bales of cotton annually.

The idea of giving preference to home products is applicable to states and local communities as well as to nations. Home producers of both raw and manufactured products should be given every possible encouragement and patronage. Aside from keeping money at home, such a policy would often make possible large savings in transportation charges, give more employment to local labor and enhance local prosperity generally.

DAIRY

FEEDING METHODS REDUCE FLAVORS

Offensive Taste Due to One of Four Causes.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

While milk producers are giving considerable attention to preventing losses due to sour milk, they too rarely recognize that other flavors and odors also cause an annual loss probably as great as that from sour milk. Milk containing abnormal flavors and odors is rejected by dealers and consumers.

Abnormal flavors result mainly from four causes, according to C. J. Babcock, of the bureau of dairy industry, United States Department of Agriculture. They may be due to the physical condition of the cow, to highly flavored feeds and weeds, to the absorption of odors by the milk after it is drawn, or to biological changes in the milk.

If due to the condition of the cow or to feeds the objectionable flavors and odors will be noticeable just after milking and usually will not increase with time. Those caused by absorption develop only when the atmosphere is permeated with pronounced odors, whereas those due to biological changes become more apparent after some time has elapsed.

Feeds and weeds impart flavors and odors to milk mainly through the body of the cow, although feed-tainted barn air may have some effect. The time of feeding, therefore, is an important factor to consider in preventing undesirable flavors in the milk, according to Babcock. In most cases feeds do not flavor the milk except for a few hours, although some feeds, such as cabbage, when consumed in large quantities may still be noticeable in milk drawn 12 hours after feeding. For this reason, he says, highly flavored feeds should be fed immediately after milking—never just before. When fed as short a time as one hour before milking, such feeds as silage made from corn, alfalfa, sweet clover, or soy beans; and such feeds as green alfalfa, cabbage, turnips, rape and kale seriously affect the flavor and odor of milk. Green rye, green cowpeas, potatoes, dried-beet pulp, and carrots affect the milk only to a slight degree, whereas green corn, green oats and peas, green soy beans, pumpkins and sugar beets have practically no effect on the flavor and odor of milk.

Grain Should Be Given Before Roughage Is Fed

Most farmers who feed grain and good silage or alfalfa hay to their milk cows in the winter time have learned that it pays to feed the grain before the cows are given their roughage. Some cows relish silage so much that they will actually leave some of their grain in their troughs and clean up the silage. Four reasons are cited by practical dairymen why grain should be fed before the roughage is fed. The first reason is that heavy producing cows will get the concentrated grain feed that they need to maintain their production and their body, the second that the cows will relish the grain more when fed alone, the third that they will produce more milk and butterfat from a certain quantity of feed, and the fourth one is that they will produce more during their entire lactation period.

One pound of grain for each three pounds of milk produced per day is the usual amount fed. Four to six pounds is generally enough for heifers and eight to twelve pounds enough for mature cows. With the grain the cow should be eating about one pound of hay and three pounds of silage for each one hundred pounds she weighs, that is, a thousand pound cow would eat ten pounds of hay and thirty pounds of silage per day.

Improved Feed Methods Always Most Profitable

The selection of economical feeds, the intelligent compounding of rations and the feeding of each cow in proportion to her production, constitute the principal factors in economical feeding. Prices of feeds vary greatly from time to time, so that in choosing those most economical the cost per pound of digestible nutrients in various feeds should be considered. Under normal price conditions, roughage usually furnishes digestible nutrients more cheaply than concentrates; and feeds high in protein, such as cottonseed meal and oil meal, furnish digestible protein much more cheaply than low protein feeds, such as corn and oats.

Tie Herd Bull

The herd bull should be tied up or be penned away from the herd until late in the fall, as it is important to avoid having cows freshen during the warm months. According to the 1927 records of the cows in Kansas herd improvement associations, the cow freshening in the spring showed a return above feed cost of nearly $18 less than did the winter freshening cow. If no pen is available for the bull, he may be tied by a chain from his ring to a wire cable.

Mr. Ware and Mr. Ellis have been in the merchandise business in Oklahoma and Texas for 16 and 24 years, respectively.

The above mentioned store has been closed for several days, while rearranging and putting in new merchandise, but according to Mr. Ware, they will open the doors Friday morning,

EIGHTY PER CENT OF LITTLEFIELD CITIZENS CAN NOW DRIVE AUTO, SAYS LOCAL DEALER

"It has not been so many years ago that teaching prospective automobile owners how to operate their new machines was an essential part of the contract, and oftentimes a cause of premature garyness on the part of the dealer or his salesman," remarked W. W. Gillette, one day this week, while a representative of the Leader was admiring one of the new Chevrolet sixes. "Now," he continued, "that phase of the sale seldom enters into consideration at all. I think it is safe to say that there is probably not more than 15 per cent of the population of Littlefield but who know how to operate a car. Of the sales we made during the past year, I don't recall any of which we had to tutor the driver, though there might have been two per cent who were not entirely familiar with all the details of the shift mechanism of a standard gear car, such as the Chevrolet is."

"As a general thing when we have to teach a customer to drive a car it is the wife or daughter. Of course, friend hubby could do that; but the wife generally prefers that the salesman, in esoteric manner, initiate her into the mysteries of the new joy purchase. Frequently they remark something about the father or husband not having the necessary patience for the task, tho generally it is not difficult, as most women acquire the art of manipulating the steering wheel, gear shift, etc., do the opposite sex. A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Rachel weeping for her children, and would not be comforted, because they are not.—Matt. 2:19.

Sweet tears! The awful language of infinite affection, far too big for words.—Pollock.

HE MAY BE WRONG

A good deal of space is being devoted by daily papers to commenting on Henry Ford's recent declaration that saving will not make a boy successful. "The boy who spends money on improving himself is the one who will succeed," says Mr. Ford. "No young man can get anywhere without work. I never knew a young man who was worth five cents who would not work, and even occasionally get into trouble in an effort to learn. No one will ever get anywhere in this world unless he is a teacher, one who can show others how to do things."

The average Littlefield father will agree with Mr. Ford when he says that hard work is a boy's best asset, and that no boy who shirks work can succeed. But at the same time it will be pretty difficult to convince these same fathers that learning the savings habit isn't a step in the right direction. It is all well and good for a boy to spend money to improve his education, but the chances are that if he doesn't start early in life to save he'll never have anything to spend.

We have all the respect in the world for Henry Ford's judgment and advice. But he is human, and that means he is liable to be mistaken. The savings habit is too old to be put aside with a wave of the hand. Life is too full of men who became successful through saving in their younger years to convince us that saving isn't just about the best habit we can acquire. It's a custom as old as the hills, but it's still a good one, and we wouldn't advise our local boys to take Mr. Ford's advice on the subject too seriously.

While you are trying to solve difficult problems, try to figure out what a poet does for a living.

WHERE IT WENT

Statistics covering about everything that can be covered by figures are pouring in for the past year. It is interesting to refer to those showing how much we spent in 1928, for spending is one activity in which every one around Littlefield has a hand. We are told that as a nation we spent one billion dollars for candy and $100,000,000 for chewing gum last year. Our ice cream bill reached $260,000,000. For radio we spent $400,000,000, while phonographs, pianos and other musical instruments reached a total of $140,000,000. We have no figures available to show our tobacco, cosmetic, shoe or clothing bills for the year, but it is safe to say a billion dollars would not cover it. And then we can add another billion for autos and accessories. We're certainly a nation of spenders, as shown by these figures. But we are a nation of earners and savers, too. So there doesn't seem to be any room left for criticism.

The difference between the price of turkeys and the pants of a skinny man who wears a belt is that the price of turkeys stays up.

LOOKING AHEAD

Now that the auto touches every life in some way or another and prosperity largely depends upon it, are interested in knowing what sort of an auto year 1929 is to be. It has gotten so everyone feels the effect of this industry, no matter in what part of the U. S. he may reside. We have no auto plant in Littlefield providing work for our citizens, and yet let the auto industry fall into a general slump and everyone here would feel it keenly. That is how closely we are tied in with it.

According to Alfred E. Sloan, head of General Motors, 1929 is going to set a high record in auto production. Henry Ford asserts the industry still has plenty of room for expansion. He points to the tremendous sale of cars as replacements, and the fact that more and more families are insisting on two cars. Both of these kings of the auto world are agreed that the surface of our foreign field has hardly been scratched. We've always had the lead in foreign markets, and there is every indication that we are going to keep it.

We don't want to be too optimistic. But we do feel safe in accepting the statements of men like Sloan and Ford. They see a big year ahead for the auto, and if the auto has a big season then it is pretty safe to believe that 1929 will be a prosperous year for every section of the country.

START EVEN AGAIN

Old Ben Franklin was not only a good printer but he was a philosopher second to none in the history of the world. And when Ben Franklin said that "No man can be truly happy and be in debt" he gave future generations something to think about. Here we are, stepping into a new year. It finds many with little obligations that should be given attention. Taken as a whole, they may amount to but a few dollars, but if they are scattered among several creditors they are bound to become annoying. Not only that, but it's the little unpaid obligations that soon disrupt a fellow's credit. There is no better time than the present to sum them up, and then get them paid off. If you can't pay all of them, pay as many as you can or pay something on each one. Such a display of good intentions protects your credit, and credit is the best asset you can possibly have in the community. No matter how many other resolutions you may have made, you can't make any that will bring more happiness on through the year than a resolve to pay off your debts and start even again.

The good book tells us to love our enemies, but if it would explain an easy way of doing it it would help some.

LITTLE LEADERS

Why is it a Littlefield woman never knows what she wants until she finds out she can't get it?

Another trouble with the Littlefield man who rides a hobby is he wants to take up the whole road with it.

The Littlefield car owner who used to sprain his arm cranking a fluffer now throws his elbow out of socket trying to unfold a road map.

It may not interest you but a lot of Littlefield people wonder why a man who still has a little hair left doesn't comb it over his bald spot.

Our idea of a lucky Littlefield man is the Littlefield citizen who got a muffler to wear over the tie he got for Christmas.

Littlefield mothers who have made the poorest job of training their children are the ones who tell the school teachers how to do it.

The easiest way on earth for a Littlefield woman to make her husband mad is to start in repeating the promises he made while he was courting her.

After a Littlefield man has been on earth about forty years he reaches the conclusion that the real trouble with this world is there are too many things in it to buy and too little money to buy them with.

DOCTOR FRANK CRANE SAYS

THE OTHER WORLD

When you sail out across the sea you wonder what all that waste of water is for. It stretches away for miles and miles. Days at a time you cannot see even another ship. Water, water everywhere, clear to the horizon. And they say that three-fourths of the earth's surface is ocean.

We think we people who live on land, and those that sail across the sea in boats, are the whole thing. Man thinks that the universe is made for him, but Mr. Pope says that the goose thinks the same thing.

It is stated that there are more living things under the water than in the air. It is not unreasonable to suppose that whoever made this earth thought the denizens of the sea were more important than the inhabitants of the land. Else He wouldn't have made so many of them.

Curious about that other world! People drown when they are submerged in the water, and those things that inhabit the water generally drown when they come up into the air.

No man can go down into the home of the fishes and live very long. When Mr. Fish comes up into the air we all live but he dies shortly.

We eat the fish when they are cooked, but the fish goes us one better and eats us when we are not cooked.

We have strange stories of mythical beings who inhabit the depths of the sea. Few believe them. We have equally strange stories of witches and mediums who call spirits out of the upper world. Some believe them.

But as far as we know our activities and acquaintances must be confined to this narrow stratum of the into the sea, or above it, through the portals of death, at our peril.

LITTLEFIELD vs. ANTON

The Littlefield High school basketball team played the Anton school team Friday night. Littlefield won by a score of 27-18.

The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History

- a Six in the price range of the four!

represents 4 years of Development and over a Million miles of Testing

Years ago, the Chevrolet Motor Company designed and built its first experimental six-cylinder motor. This far-sighted step was taken because Chevrolet engineers knew that the six-cylinder motor is inherently the most perfectly balanced motor—the ideal power plant to meet the growing public demand for greater reserve power, faster get-away and, above all—smooth, quiet performance.

During the last four years, over a hundred six-cylinder motors were built by Chevrolet engineers and tested on the General Motors Proving Ground.

Day and night, through winter's cold and summer's heat, the incessant testing went on—until the present motor was developed and finally pronounced correct.

At the same time other Chevrolet engineers were perfecting other parts of the chassis. And another great automotive organization—the Fisher Body Corporation—was devoting its gigantic resources to the creation of the finest, sturdiest and most beautiful bodies ever offered on a low-priced automobile.

As a result, the Outstanding Chevrolet offers an order of well-balanced excellence—a combination of performance, comfort, beauty and handling ease that is truly remarkable—with a fuel-economy of better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

You owe it to yourself to see and inspect this remarkable car. Come in today!

Unintentional Suicide
 Many people are slowly poisoning themselves just as surely as if they drank iodine every morning for breakfast. They are daily absorbing the toxins, or poisons, created by accumulated waste matter in their congested digestive systems. Sooner or later disease will conquer their weakened bodies.
 If you have dizzy spells, headaches, coated tongue, bad breath, insomnia, no appetite, bilious attacks or pains in the back and limbs, you are probably suffering from self poisoning caused by constipation. The surest and pleasantest relief for this condition is Herbine, the vegetable cathartic which acts in the natural way. Get a bottle today from Stokes & Alexander Drug Company.

Mrs. Rabbit took off her glasses and looked at her Bobbie in surprise. "What are the wibble wobbles?" she asked.

"I don't know what they are, Mother, but they are ten times worse than the piegetises and—"

"Have the piegetises got anything to do with pie?" asked Mrs. Rabbit.

"I wasn't thinking of that, but now that you speak of it, that was lovely cabbage pie we had the other day. I makes my lonesomeness almost gone just to think of that pie," said Bobbie.

"I don't think I have anything to eat in the house, but—"

"Oh, dear, oh, dear! I can feel that lonesomeness coming on again," cried Bobbie.

"Shall I send for the doctor, or will you take a dose of castor oil?" asked his mother.

"I feel better now—you needn't send for anybody, but are you sure there is nothing to eat in this house?"

"Positively, I mean, positively."

Bobby Bunny was thoughtful for a moment and then said: "Well, if there is nothing to eat in this house I guess I'll go out and play—perhaps that will make my lonesomeness better. Then, too, Bobbie may be home by that time and my dear good father might happen in with something to eat."

"I think if you are sick with lonesomeness you might go to bed—that's the best place for you," said Mrs. Rabbit.

"Horrors!" exclaimed Bobbie. "I don't want to go to bed. I want something to eat."

"Why didn't you say so? Here you have been all this time worrying me and making a lot of conversation just because you are hungry. Is that lonesomeness?"

"It's pretty bad what ever it is," sighed Bobbie. "Good bye, I'll go out and play. Perhaps I'll starve to death and you'll find me—"

"Come on, dear, I'll see if I can't find some carrot pie for you."

"I feel ever so much better, Mother, said Bobbie, as he trotted off behind his mother to the kitchen, where she found some pie for him.

Adults Contract Children's Diseases

Adults can, and do, contract many children's diseases. And, usually, they suffer from them much more than children do. For instance, many adults contract worms, an ailment usually associated with children. Sometimes they suffer intensely and take expensive medical treatments, without realizing that worms are the cause of their troubles. Yet, the symptoms are the same as in children, loss of appetite and weight, grinding the teeth and restless sleep, itching of the nose and anus, and abdominal pains. And, the same medicine that surely and harmlessly expels round and pin worms from children will do the same for adults—White's Cream Vermifuge, which you can get at Stokes & Alexander Drug Company.

Electricity

—the restless energy that lightens housework, makes possible efficient, throbbing industries, brightens and leads City building.

The greatest authorities of the age attribute the great growth of industries and cities in America, the present enviably high standard of living in America, to electricity and the many uses to which it has been put. This mighty force of nature has been harnessed to lighten the home work, to drive great industrial plants and to make safe the constant growth of cities and communities.

This company is now serving more than three dozen communities in this immediate section. By modern methods of production the current is lower in cost to users than any time in the past. You can afford to make every available use of electricity for power, light and cooking purposes. You cannot afford to be without it in this fast progressive age.

WHAT IS DOING IN WEST TEXAS

The paving of seven blocks in the business district of Muleshoe will occupy the people of that progressive town during 1929. The problem of drainage which has been a handicap is being studied by an expert engineer.

Baileyboro's new school building is going up as rapidly as material can be obtained. It will contain four class rooms and an auditorium and be modern in every respect.

Callahan County farmers and ranchmen are making efforts to rid the county of wolves. One cent per acre is paid by the farmers, and this money is used to buy dead wolves. The price paid is $7.50 for females, $5.00 for males, and $2.50 for pups.

Pyote's new $100,000 school will be occupied in full by the second week in January. Previously it has been occupied in part while work continued on parts of it. Two years ago Pyote's scholastics could have been housed in one room, so the growth is remarkable.

Estelline High school is to have a new athletic stadium to be built from contributions donated by business men. The stadium is to be built of wood and will be 84x90 feet wide. The ceiling will be twenty feet in the clear which will give plenty of room for basket ball games.

POULTRY

FEED FOR WINTER EGG PRODUCTION

Maturity and Health Make for Strong Bodied Fowls.

One of the paramount problems at this time is the matter of feeding for maximum egg production through the winter, when egg prices are highest. Some mighty good hints on this question are supplied by R. L. Watkins, extension poultry specialist, Ames, in his bulletin for record flock keepers. His suggestions follow:

"Winter eggs are laid by well-matured pullets and healthy old hens which are comfortably housed and properly fed. Maturity and health make for a strong-bodied egg machine. Pullets, to lay large eggs steadily throughout the winter, must have proper body size and weight. Leg-horns or other light breeds may be considered ready for a regular laying ration when three to three and one-fourth pounds in weight. Heavier breeds, such as Reds, Rocks and Wyandottes should weigh four and one-half to five pounds. Immature pullets must not be forced into egg production by feeding them on a regular laying ration.

"Comfort enables the bird to utilize feed in manufacturing eggs instead of using the energy thereby obtained to maintain body warmth. Feeds are the raw materials out of which hens build eggs.

"A well-balanced egg mash containing ground grains or grain by-products, protein concentrates in the form of meat and milk products; minerals in the form of bone-meal, salt and some grit; and often green food in the form of ground alfalfa must be kept available to hens and pullets if they are to lay any number of eggs during the winter months.

"Whole or cracked grains such as corn, oats, wheat and barley should be used in combination with a mash to maintain body weight and comfort. Body weight cannot be maintained during heavy egg production unless sufficient grain feeds are included in the ration. In a ration made up of mash and grain the mash feed contains most of the egg building material while the scratch grain contains most of the fat and heat-building material. Good poultry management requires that the birds consume sufficient mash to maintain their egg production, also that they eat sufficient grains to maintain body weight. Hens losing weight soon stop laying."

Cod Liver Oil Is Most Easily Given in Feed

The value of cod liver oil for poultry is summed up by one hen professor as follows: Stronger and healthier birds, prevention of leg weakness from heavy laying in late winter and spring, better looking egg shells, more and stronger chicks from the eggs hatched, and fewer blood spots in eggs.

Cod liver oil is most easily fed, this professor writes, in semi-solid butter-milk or cottage cheese. On the whole, you can feed it with the scratch grain—a quart to 100 hens every week.

For a flock that size, his method is to mix about a teaspoonful of the oil with the scratch grain every other day. Keep this up until spring takes the flock outdoors again.

Guard Against Disease in Feeding Green Bone

Some butcher shops have installed bone grinders and sell ground green bone. This is an excellent feed when fed fresh, but poultry often must not be ground in because of the danger of transmitting disease to the flock. This is especially true of tuberculosis. Whenever a supply of green bone is purchased it should be spread out thin in a cold room. If left in a paper sack even in a room below freezing the center of the mass will heat and spoil. Green bone cannot be successfully kept in large quantities unless thinly spread.

Poultry Notes

A fresh supply of water should be available to the hens at all times.

During extremely cold weather birds should be given more corn and grain than during mild weather.

Birds prefer grain feeds. The amount of mash consumed is determined by the amount of grain fed.

The mash is the egg food and the birds will like it and eat it as long as there is plenty for them in the hoppers.

Let your breeders out every day regardless of the kind of weather, as it is eggs with good, healthy germs that you are after.

Only by constant improvement can you hope to get in the A-1 class, and when you do you'll find a waiting market for every egg or baby chick you can produce.

METHODIST MISSIONARY

The Methodist Missionary Society met Monday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock in the home of Mrs. A. G. Hemphill.

The program was opened with Scripture reading by Mrs. M. P. Reed. Mrs. Williams led in prayer, and Mrs. W. H. Gardner gave an interesting and educational review of the entire book of "Memories of Searrett."

The hostess assisted by her daughter served delicious refreshments of fruit salad, nut bread, sandwiches and hot chocolate to the following members: Mesdames Glenn, Clark, Cogdill, Williams, Keithley, Davis, Gardner, Lakey, Reed, Smith, Starnes, Pinkerton and Teal.
