PEP COMMUNITY CONTRIBUTES $100 TO CRIPPLED CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL

Citizens of Pep community in northwestern Hockley county made a generous contribution of $100 to the Texas Scottish Rite Hospital for crippled children in Dallas last month, which action shows the fine patriotism manifested by the people of the Pep community.

During the past few years a number of crippled children have been able to get treatment through the services offered by the Scottish Rite Hospital at Dallas, and the people of Pep desired to do their bit in helping to carry on this fine work; so through private subscriptions and sponsored programs they raised the money to make the contribution possible.

In acknowledging receipt of the contribution, Asher Mintz, secretary of the hospital wrote Lewis Owen of Pep the following letter: "Mr. Lewis Owen, "Pep, Texas.

"Dear Friend: "On behalf of the Board of Trustees of the Texas Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children I wish to thank you for the generous contribution of $100.00 from the citizens of your community.

"We are deeply touched, not only by the gift itself, but by the deeper significance attached to it—that in times such as these, of hate and bloodshed, that German and Bohemian citizens, loyal Americans all, should join hands to extend help to suffering humanity regardless of race, religion or color. It is through such acts that the world will eventually be won to better way of living.

"You may be sure this money will be spent to the best advantage, sure also of our heartfelt appreciation of this gift. We only wish we might express it personally to every individual who had a part in it.

"Sincerely yours, Asher Mintz, Secretary, Texas Scottish Rite Hospital Dallas, Texas."

Texas To Cooperate In Building Program

Texas is ready to cooperate in the program to promote the building of low-cost homes in communities and for farm buildings and repairs. H. H. Williamson, director of the Texas A. and M. Extension Service, has announced.

Plans for the program have been drawn up by M. L. Wilson director of the USDA Extension Service and chairman of the Central housing committee.

The building industry has set up the National Homes Foundation to cooperate with various federal agencies, including the Farm Credit Administration, Federal Home Loan Bank Board, Federal Housing Administration, Federal National Mortgage Association, and the RFC Mortgage Company.

This foundation is recommending ways to improve building design and construction at lower costs than usually thought possible.

Service to the rural and farm home building field will be through existing facilities in the rural communities and will be centered around the local financial and service institutions.

June 30 Deadline On Applications

Eligible families who haven't yet applied for mattress making materials under the Department of Agriculture's program for aiding low-income farm families should do so soon or they may lose their opportunity to participate.

This warning has been sounded by Mildred Horton, vice-director and state home demonstration agent of the A. and M. College Extension Service, who point out that June 30 is the deadline for ordering cotton and ticking for the demonstration program from the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation. That means, then, that all applications should be filed several days prior to the deadline date.

Although sufficient cotton and ticking to make 73,770 mattresses had been ordered by the state AAA office through the last week in May, there are still thousands of eligible families in Texas who have not yet taken advantage of the plan, Miss Horton explains. She indicated that in some counties community canvasses by home demonstration club women and other local means of informing the public about the program will likely be employed in the remaining weeks before the closing date.

tion of the country was reflected in sales reported today by W. F. Hufstader, Buick general sales manager.

Hewitt Buick Co. are local dealers for the Buick automobile.

The executive announced that domestic deliveries of Buick Motor cars during May totaled 26,072 units, a 32 per cent increase over last year, while the company entered June with nearly 5,000 unfilled orders on hand.

Increased Income And Better Diets Found On Lamb County Farms As Result Of FSA

Increased incomes, better diets and more properly balanced operating programs are found on many farms of Farm Security Administration borrowers in Lamb County as a result of additional subsistence dairy herds, according to Fred L. Nix, FSA supervisor.

Maintenance of enough dairy cows to supply milk, cream, butter and cheese for family consumption, is encouraged as an important part of successful farming, Mr. Nix said.

Although the FSA is making it possible for many low-income farmers to purchase dairy cows to meet their immediate subsistence needs, it was explained, this agency also encouraged farmers to use sires for their herds and increase the quality and production of their milk cows.

"Because well-bred bulls are a prohibitive expense for owners of small dairy herds," Mr. Nix said, "the Farm Security Administration encourages groups of farmers to use the services of good sires and to share the expense."

The said loans are made either to a group for joint ownership of a sire, or to an individual who agrees to make the services available to his neighbors at a reasonable charge.

Membership in FSA-sponsored co-operatives is not limited to FSA borrowers. However, only farmers who cannot obtain adequate financing from any other source are eligible for loans from the agency.

Mr. Nix said the history of the past seven years proves that the farm family who produces the greatest portion of its own food needs at home and who diversifies farm enterprises as much as possible, is the family that has the best chance to succeed.

Farmers desiring more information about organizing and financing group breeding services are encouraged to contact Mr. Nix at his office in the City Hall.

The SNOOPER SAYS...

Clipped from an exchange— It is Hitler, not Bonnie, who lies over the ocean today.

Fifty children from Camp Wanzel, tuberculosis hospital in the Black Hills of South Dakota, were rescued from the path of one of the most devastating forest fires in the history of that section when amateur radio operators established communication throughout the area after telephone lines had failed. Citizens of several towns were warned to be ready to flee at a moment's notice, and instructions to the entire fire fighting staff were handled by radio.

Of course, you knew that J. C. Elms has a short wave radio set, and he entertains visitors at his home by letting them talk to amateur radio operators in Canada, Alaska, Australia, and other countries. He does not receive any messages from Europe now, however.

Miss Kathleen Brewer received much applause recently when she made a campaign speech for her father, M. W. Brewer, at a community political rally. General opinion is that if she continues to make her father's speeches, he is sure to be elected county judge. A smiling young lady will always win the applause, Mr. Brewer.

A godfather to all lovers is J. W. McLendon, Mexia business man, who has given more than 500 marriage licenses to his friends in the last 40 years, says the Mexia News. Mr. McLendon always obtains and pays for the license himself. "So they won't change their minds," he said.

Not bad! And this still leap year, too! Hmm.

"Swing Low, Sweet Chariot."

One of the legends as to how this song came into existence tells of a negro sold from a Tennessee plantation to go down into Mississippi. To prevent separation from her child, she was about to drown herself and babe. An old woman, seeing the mother's intentions, said "Wait, let de chariot of de Lawd swing. Iow and let me take de Lawd's scroll and read it to you." The mother was so impressed with the words that she allowed herself to be sold, and left her baby behind. Whether true or not, the song was based on this tale, which passed from mouth to mouth.

It will be something when the streets in Littlefield are paved. We're getting tired of going to Levelland every time we go to our home on east ninth street!

What we see in the future for Littlefield... An overpass, or underpass where highway 51 crosses the railroad track, just east of the depot. One is needed also at the crossing on Oklahoma Avenue.

A dairyman in Wisconsin installed a radio in his barn on the assumption that music would soothe the cows, make them contented and give more milk. But it failed to do the job. When jazz came over the air, the cows got frisky and switched their tails into the milk pail, and when war news was broadcasting they got mad and tried to hook each other!

The very latest to be found at jewelry stores are the photo watch straps. New and unique are the oval openings in leather straps for the insertion of miniature pictures, slipped in from the back. The photo is protected by a transparent folded celluloid covering.

If Switzerland is invaded in the war, as feared by authorities, Swiss watches will become obsolete, and it will be impossible for jewelers to obtain parts for them.

The cost of diamonds is going up, it is reported, since there is no country named Belgium, and they cannot be exported from Africa, due to war conditions.

The technical word for jewelry is "Horology." That makes Ivy Dean and Jack Farr "Horologists."

FASHION for today BY PATRICIA DOW

LITTLE PRINCESS

Here's one for the little girl who lives in the lane, and on a busy city street—in fact for little girls everywhere. The princess is a universally popular style for childhood, and 8707 is an unusually pretty version of it, simple as vanilla ice cream and just as sweet. It's trimmed with pointed revers and turnback cuffs, both edged with lace and embroidery, and with a fluttering bow under the chin. It's one of those adaptable designs that makes up equally well in party and play fabrics, and it's suitable for every season of the year. Percale, pique and gingham are pretty right now fabrics for this. Send for the pattern today, and you'll have it finished in no time the making is so easy.

Pattern No. 8707 is designed for sizes 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12 years.

Pattern 8662 — It's a youthful dress, designed to make a slim fashion-wise young person look very smart and spring-like. The cleverly detailed bodice is cut with the new longer line, and the unbroken effect of the front flattens your diaphragm and makes your waist look little. Frills brighten it at neckline and sleeves, introducing the smart touch of white. The skirt is graceful and circular. Darts fit the dress in at the back, and the sash bow is saucy and charming.

Send for this design, 8662, speedily and make it up in flat crepe, gay print or thin wool, with eyelet embroidery or organdy for your white accents.

Pattern No. 8662 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20.

Lieut. Wright—

The graduating class has just completed three months of intensive training in modern Basic Combat and Advanced Training planes at the Air Corps Advanced Flying School. Formation flying, cross-country flying, instrument flying, and night flying composed most of the flying course. Before entering the Advanced Flying School these men completed two courses each of three months duration, one at a civilian school, under Army supervision, and the other at Randolph Field, "The West Point of the Air." The complete course included 225 hours of flying and approximately 400 hours of ground school instruction in the subjects of navigation, meteorology, airplane structure and design, airplane engines, radio, and allied tactical and military subjects.

After graduation each flying cadet will receive a commission in the Air Corps Reserve as Second Lieutenant and will be placed on extended active duty to complete his training while piloting the modern planes of the Air Corps. The officers of other branches of the service who have completed the course will be transferred to the Air Corps in grade. These officers include 99 West Point graduates most of whom graduated from The Military Academy a little over a year ago.

Officials at Randolph Field announced that to meet the need for increased instructors for the stepped-up program, 110 flying officers from the June 21 graduating class at Kelley Field will be given a special instructors' course to qualify them for duty at Randolph Field.

France Names
Peace Envoys

France is reported to have met Germany's first request in her efforts for a "soldier peace" Wednesday by naming a group of men who will receive from the reich's government its expected severe terms for an end of the fighting.

While the cabinet designated the plenipotentiaries Germany demanded as a prelude to peace negotiations, the scattered French armies continued resistance at some points.

In the main, the German advance continued to engulf French territory.

The Spanish ambassador, Jose Felix Lequerica, presented Adolf Hitler's reply to the French plea to French Foreign Minister Paul Baudouin at 8 a. m. (1 a. m., CST). The waiting ministers were telephoned and the cabinet met within an hour.

The newspaper Figaro predicted

BORDEAUX—France names negotiations to receive German-Italian armistice terms, will meet in Madrid; nation awaits "soldier's peace"; cities over 20,000 population declared "open" to save them from destruction; army still resisting.

MADRID—Diplomatic circles hear French accept terms, involving unconditional surrender, occupation of France until war is over, surrender of French fleet. (Other reports say France have not yet received the terms).

LONDON—12 civilians killed, 13 injured in Nazi air raid along English coast; seven raiders shot down, British declare little damage done industrial, shipping areas.

ROME—Italian-German army of occupation in France seen as probable condition, together with assurance against future French military operations; Italian military activity speeded up; new agreement on German-Italian war economy settled.

that the French and German peace negotiations would meet in Madrid at the residence of Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

The names of the French plenipotentiaries were not announced. The government of the reich will make known the date and place where they will be received as soon as they are announced.

The German reply considered by the cabinet Wednesday demanded the naming of plenipotentiaries as a prelude for the ending of hostilities.

The text of the communique issued after the cabinet meeting follows:

"The cabinet met this morning at 9 a. m. (2 p. m., CST) under the presidency of President Lebrun.

"The cabinet learned that a communication from the government of the reich had been transmitted by the ambassador of Spain in France. "According to the terms of this communication the government of the reich is ready to make known to the French government its conditions for the cessation of hostilities.

"As soon as the names of the French plenipotentiaries are announced the government of the reich will make known the date and place where these plenipotentiaries will be received.

"The cabinet named these plenipotentiaries."

The names, however, were not disclosed.

Meanwhile France acted to protect her cities and population from the southward advance of the German armies.

With the Germans now holding approximately the northern third of the country and gaining more almost hourly, the government declared all cities of more than 20,000 population "open." This is the military device that spared Paris a siege.

The government also ordered an end to all removal of population by military leaders and advised the civilians themselves to remain in their homes as the safest place they could be.

The French army, although being forced back all across the country, continued its resistance pending the reaching of an agreement with Germany and Italy.

The Spanish state radio, heard in London, said that squadrons of planes had been seen flying south over Palma, Mallorca, toward Africa, apparently escaping from France).

The French high command announced Tuesday the Germans had pushed "deep into Normandy and Brittany," reaching the big channel port of Cherbourg and, to the south, the town of Rennes.

The Germans gained also in the center, crossing the Loire river between Orleans and Nevers, and "continued to advance" down the eastern side of the country alongside the Swiss border.

In Alsace and Lorraine, in northeastern France, trapped French troops were said to be "holding the enemy."

Farm Engineering Course Offered to Youths Here

National Foundation Announces Free Scholarships Are Now Available

At least ten free scholarships for the study of farm management and engineering will be awarded to farm youths in this vicinity, according to word received recently by J. H. Barnett, authorized Ford-Ferguson dealer for Lamb County.

The scholarships, available to young men between the ages of 18 and 25 who are actually engaged in farm work, will consist of home study course, together with practical training and experience under local farm conditions. They are provided by the National Farm Youth Foundation, which has been created by the Ferguson-Sherman Manufacturing Corporation of Dearborn, Michigan, with the active co-operation of Henry Ford and Edsel Ford.

"Young men of the farm have not realized their opportunities on the home soil," said Henry Ford in announcing his participation in the Foundation. "As a result, many of them have left the farm."

"The family system of farming has suffered and we want to see it re-built. As a matter of fact, the Foundation seeks to help the young man of the farm to realize his aspirations for happiness and prosperity."

"I am told that eighty per cent of the graduates of agricultural colleges have been going to towns and cities for their careers instead of returning to the farm. The remaining 20 per cent are not enough to give the farm the needed leadership in agricultural progress."

"Better farming methods today will mean better farms tomorrow and rural youth will be more inclined to stay close to the soil."

Young men enrolled under these scholarships also will compete for salaried jobs with the sponsoring company and its distributors. One student will be selected from this section to work at the factory for a year at a salary of $150 a month. He will be given specialized training in the use, application and maintenance of the tractor and its equipment. Second award in this general area is a job with the distributor at $125 a month. Additional students will be placed in jobs as quickly as possible, with the eventual aim of giving them training and experience which they may bring to bear on future problems in their own community.

"Success for local young men in the home field is the goal of the Foundation," says Mr. Barnett. Farm youths in the past have looked for opportunity elsewhere. Many could not finance a college education.

Others found funds lacking to set up in farming for themselves.

"Even those who have gone to college have not found in local fields the opportunity they sought," he added. "Most of these boys wind up in towns and cities. If this movement can be halted the community will benefit by the training and education its own young men are receiving and will receive in the future."

Announcement of the scholarships was accompanied by the explanation that the Foundation does not conflict nor compete with the splendid work being done by the 4-H Clubs and the Smith-Hughes vocational agricultural high schools. Through its higher age limit it affords opportunity to farm youths who have already passed the age at which activities of the organizations mentioned are available.

Young men, to be eligible for scholarships, must be between the ages already given, and must be American citizens, of good character, and actually work on a farm. Young men wishing to apply for enrollment or to secure more detailed information about the scholarships may do so by getting in touch with Mr. Barnett.

Jesus said, "Wist ye not that I must be about My Father's business?" As children of God we should be diligent in service to our Heavenly Father. Never should we be slothful, but always fervent in spirit. Jesus was busy in asking and answering questions showing his hunger and thirst for righteousness and spiritual knowledge. Are YOU following Jesus' example as a disciple? Are YOU a regular and faithful Bible student? If not, why not? "And if the righteous scarcely be saved where shall the ungodly and sinner appear?" 1 Pet. 4:18.

Evangelist, Wm. M. McFarland.

AMHERST METHODIST CHURCH

With the raising of the benevolences and other much needed money that the church needs we urge our people now to begin to look for opportunities and make place for personal work in the contacts being made from day to day. The war is on and occupies the minds of every one but this will not take the place of the spiritual needs of men today.

All sorts of isms, new and old, arise in every crisis like this and it shows how mellow the minds of some may be to the truth. They are seeking and wondering why. But God still is and he is still a God of love and peace, the God and Father of all peoples and nations. He is not God of confusion and war, turmoil and bloodshed but a God of Fatherliness and Jesus still an older brother of brotherliness.

If more people could and believe it to be possible, say "Thy Kingdom come, thy will be done in me" we should have less of the debacle we are all in today. There is being expressed in Europe today much of what is felt in the United States. Higher spiritual realities will be the only power for permanent change to them and us.

There will be a church supper at the church Friday night. Come and bring and eat your supper with the church and relax and exchange ideas and ideals. Mrs. E. T. Speer and her helpers have charge.

Sunday morning we may use, "The Closed Church," as a subject. At night we shall have the services as

Methodist Young People Meet At Earth June 11

The Boosters Union met at the Earth Methodist Church last Tuesday, June 11, and the young people from the Muleshoe church had charge of the opening devotional.

The group discussed sending a delegate to Mt. Sequoyah, and the president, J. B. Sharp, was elected to attend.

The banner was awarded to the Earth Young people. It was awarded to Earth, after Muleshoe and Earth tied, and Muleshoe had it last time. Littlefield was second, with Amherst third.

Representatives attended from Muleshoe, 12; Amherst, 12; Littlefield, 9; and Earth, 18.

After the business session, the Earth young people presented the following program:

Special song by choir; Scripture; quartet; prayer; talk, "Use of Prayer," Song by a trio; talk, "Worship Through Music," Solo, Evening Prayer; talk, "Worship of Everyday Living," and song by the quartet.

Refreshments were served by the Earth group.

Those attending from Littlefield were: Maribeth and Joy Bilderback, Ida Jo Brewer, Helen Sharp, Billy Jean Arnn, Jackie Cogdill, Alvis Tubbs, and J. B. Sharp.

The next union meeting will be held at Amherst July 9.

A council meeting will be held at Littlefield June 25, for the purpose of electing a committee to serve during the year.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Roy Shahan, Pastor

The pastor will speak on the subject, "Clouds" Luke 9:34-35, at the morning service Sunday. Clouds of various kinds are hovering about us today. Clouds of discouragements, disappointment, despair. But we should not forget the cloud that carries and reflects the rainbow. Have you been disappointed? Discouraged? Driven to despair? There is a rainbow in the "cloud." We want to help you to see it. A welcome awaits you in these services.

Navy Expansion Bill To Be Rushed

The House naval affairs committee Tuesday began consideration of a new $1,200,000,000 naval expansion bill in secret session to protect confidential information submitted by naval officials.

Involved in consideration of the bill, it was reported, was the eventual disposition of the French fleet providing it is surrendered to Germany. Such a development would confront the British fleet with a totalitarian naval force approximately equal in size.

Such an executive session is unusual for the committee but Chairman Carl Vinson explained that he wanted speed in consideration of the bill and that he wanted Admiral Harold R. Stark, the chief of naval operations, to feel to speak with the fullest frankness. Vinson said that a statement would be issued later.

Young Men Of The Farms Offered New Opportunities

New opportunities for young men of the farm were revealed recently with the announcement by Henry Ford that at least 20,000 scholarships for the study of farm management and engineering are to be awarded by the National Farm Youth Foundation. Young men enrolled under these scholarships will receive a special course for home study, as well as practical training on farms. They also will compete for salaried jobs. In announcing these new opportunities for farm youth, Mr. Ford said: "Young men of the farm have not realized their opportunities on the home soil. As a result, many of them have left the farm. "The family system of farming has suffered and we want to see it rebuilt. As a matter of fact, the Foundation seeks to help the young man of the farm to realize his aspirations for happiness and prosperity. "Better farming methods today will mean better farms tomorrow and rural youth will be more inclined to stay close to the soil." The Foundation is sponsored by the Ferguson-Sherman Manufacturing Corporation with the active cooperation of Henry Ford, founder, and Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company. Porcher Produce Installs Cold Storage For Eggs

The Porcher Produce Company has installed a cold storage vault at their establishment on Highway 7 west of town. This massive vault was installed for the purpose of keeping eggs fresh, and has a capacity to take care of two truck loads of eggs, according to Ben Porcher, owner and operator of the Produce Company. In an interview with Mr. Porcher Monday he said: "Now we can keep eggs as fresh as when we receive them. In the hot weather, every day counts on the quality of eggs, and when we buy fresh eggs, we are able to keep them and sell them just as fresh as we buy them." Everything in modern equipment is maintained by Mr. Porcher at his produce house and hatchery.

U. S. Seeks "Navy Second To None"

The United States is spending more than $26,000,000 a month for construction in its unprecedented peacetime drive for "a navy second to none," and in 1941 will be spending at a rate of more than $1,000,000 a day on new warships.

According to Official Navy Department figures, an average of nearly $20,000,000 is being spent each month on machinery and construction costs. Armament, armor and ammunition is costing another $6,500,000 monthly.

Next year these monthly expenditures will be increased to $24,500,000 and $7,083,000 respectively. And when additional shipbuilding facilities already authorized by Congress are completed this rate will be accelerated further.

Near the close of 1939, the United States had about 80 vessels under construction in government and private yards. Eight of these were battleships and two were aircraft carriers. In addition, 33 destroyers, 16 submarines and smaller numbers of other craft were in various stages of construction.

"Build-Up" Relief Explained to Women

A simple method has saved many women a lot of suffering!

It is based on the fact that headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain are often symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition.

Help for this condition so often follows the use of CARDUI, because it usually increases the appetite and the flow of gastric juice; thus aids digestion and helps build physical resistance. Usual result is less periodic distress.

Many who take CARDUI a few days before and during "the time" have found this helps ease periodic discomfort. Women have used CARDUI for more than 50 years!

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag. And diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

FSA Borrowers Plan Diversified Farming This Year

Farm Security Administration borrowers in Lamb county are laying special emphasis on the production of food for their table, feed for their livestock and proper crop diversification in their 1940 plans for farm and home operations, Fred L. Nix, county supervisor for this federal agency, said here this week.

"The farmers who come to us for rehabilitation loans," Mr. Nix said, "are realizing that production of their own feed and food is an important factor in the successful operation of any farm."

He said tremendous strides have also been made in crop diversification which means that a similar gain has been made in the adoption of soil conserving practices because the two go hand in hand.

Bigger and more properly planned gardens are growing this year on the farms of FSA borrowers, according to Oleta Cole, home management supervisor. Not only will these gardens help keep down living costs, but they will result in better diets and improved health for the families.

Miss Cole said 33 FSA borrower-families in Lamb county produced 75 per cent of their living at home last year and 27 produced 67 per cent of their living at home. Because of the increased trend toward greater home production of food, Miss Cole believes this number will be doubled this year.

Sub-irrigated frame gardens, Miss Cole said, are taking the county by storm. By using old lumber and discarded oil cans, even the most disadvantaged farm families find they can construct these frame gardens and provide fresh vegetables from early spring to late in the winter. A total of 52 new frame gardens have been constructed by FSA borrower-families in this county this year.

Both Mr. Nix and Miss Cole believe the increased diversification methods and home production of food this year will result in an even greater increase in the net worth of the families being assisted by FSA than in 1939. Consequently these rural people will be able to maintain a higher standard of living, enjoy better health and have a much greater purchasing power in this community.

Travel 13,000 Miles To Attend Chevrolet School At Detroit

Two British subjects who traveled half-way around a world at war, in order to attend the only school of its kind in existence, are safe in Detroit after a 13,000-mile voyage from the southernmost tip of Africa.

They are Charles B. C. Harris, of the Transvaal, and John D. Potgieter, Kimberley, South Africa, students in the Post-Graduate School of Modern Merchandising and Management, the only "University" of its kind in the auto industry. The institution is dedicated to the training of "second-generation" Chevrolet dealers.

A 35-day sea voyage in a war-infested world is not without its hazards, both young men agreed, although, since they traveled aboard an American motor ship, the Challenger, the danger was minimized.

"Twice we saw submarines on patrol duty," Harris said, "and once our ship was halted by a French submarine, which had just put out from Martinique on patrol. No radio signals were exchanged, lest our position be revealed, thus exposing the submarine, but our captain explained his neutrality and listed his cargo by means of flag signals. The French U-boat commander apparently was satisfied, for we were not boarded and were detained less than an hour."

British freighters, which the American ship sighted off the coast of South America, were inclined to give the boat a wide berth until its identity was established, Potgieter said.

"Our ship was well marked," he

CHAPTER XIII SYNOPSIS

Since her husband's death, the Phillips has worked to support her children. Janet, the daughter, has become engaged on trial to Tony Ryan, a young man who has worked his way up from Shanty Town. The son, has just proposed to the widowed little dancer, after breaking his short engagement to the socialite, Helene Sanders. Berenice, the elder daughter, is miserable because her husband, Bill Carter, has left her. She has been unable to sleep a long time and now searches for sleeping tablets.

She opened the medicine cabinet. Her hands rattled on the glass doors. She picked up the first and poured the contents into a glass. There were only four tablets.

She filled a glass with water. She took the tablets in her mouth and drank the water. She kept watching her drawn face in the mirror. She felt no different. Her brain still buzzed with thoughts.

"I have to have some rest," she whispered. She picked up the other tube. It was over half full. She emptied it into her mouth and drank the water. She had a terrible time swallowing. She kept drinking water until the tablets were gone.

Berenice went back into the living room and lay down on the couch. She closed her eyes. She thought, in a few moments I'll go to sleep. Only she did not feel any. Her head began to swell. It felt giddy as if it were floating away from her body.

Somehow she was going down the street. She did not remember where she got there. After a while she was standing at the bottom of the back stairs at the flat. She sat on the lower landing. She did not scarcely get up. She was dizzy at last, terribly drowsy. She reached the point where she had to sleep anywhere and she had forgotten why she had ever thought necessary to climb the stairs, but her sick brain clung to its fixed point.

"Got to get to mother," she whispered and pulled herself step by step up the stairs. The screen door at the back was closed. Berenice's body was numb in feet to waist. She glanced angrily at a porch chair. Nobody would disturb her there before morning. No one ever came out on the back porch late at night.

"I'm—tired," she whispered and slumped to her knees and then forward on her face. "What's that?" exclaimed Tony when he and Janet and her mother and Ben Hill were playing Monopoly in the living room. The others looked at Tony. "I heard a noise in the back," he explained. "Think I have a look."

He followed him. Janet and Anne after a moment's hesitation followed along. Tony opened the screen door at the back. He stooped and gathered up what Anne had taken for a shadow on the wall. "Berenice!" she cried. Tony stood Berenice on her feet. "All—right, Mother," she said in a slow thick voice. "I haven't been sleeping lately. I'm—so—tired. I want to sleep in my old bed."

"Dearest!" cried Anne. "You're Bill's left her, mother," faltered she. "Two weeks ago. She made a promise not to tell you." Anne flinched as if she had been back and Berenice shook her head. "Didn't want to worry you. My body's felt but mine. Can I go to bed now, mother? I'm—so—tired."

"Oh, what is it?" whispered Anne. "She—" Tony drew a long breath and shook his head. He took Berenice's arm. He began to walk her up and down the kitchen. He slapped her wrists, her hands. "Make some strong black coffee," he said to Anne. "Hurry. Take her other arm, Janet. Help me keep her moving. We mustn't let her go to sleep. She's taken something, some kind of poison."

They pried Berenice's rigid jaws apart. Anne's hands did not flinch. She refilled the coffee cup. She forced another cupful between her child's colorless lips. "Let—me—rest," panted Berenice. "No," said Anne. Berenice moaned pitifully. Tony and Janet took up their dreadful

"I rip tires to pieces for the fun of it," Janet said. She marched again, half carrying, half dragging Berenice's slack body between them. Steve came back into the kitchen. "The doctor will be here in ten minutes," he said. "She isn't coming out of it," said Tony. "Get ice and towels, somebody. Whip her face and neck with them."

"I'll do it," said Anne. "Bill," whispered Berenice. Tony glanced at Steve. "Here are the keys to my car. Take it and go after him. The name's Carter. He's the one I told you about, sells radio advertising."

"Any idea where he is?" asked Steve hoarsely. "He came to see me last week. Said he was staying down in a cheap rooming house across the branch. He's very dark, big chap, looks as if he'd been ill."

"I'll find him," said Steve. He wanted to do something, anything. He did not believe on helplessly watching the agony in Anne's drawn face. "There's the doctor," said Tony. Anne ran to open the door. She brought the doctor back to the kitchen. He took one glance at Berenice and opened his medicine case.

"What did she take?" he asked Tony. "Some kind of narcotic, not an acid, thank God!" The doctor nodded. "Take her into a bedroom, get her clothes off." Tony picked Berenice up and carried her down the hall. Janet ran ahead to turn down the bed. Between them they undressed Berenice. No one spoke. The only sound was Berenice's labored moaning.

After a long while the doctor stood up. Still no one spoke, but Anne's eyes were fixed on his in an anguished entreaty. "It depends on the patient's resistance," said the doctor grudgingly, "on whether she wants to live."

"Bill, Bill," moaned Berenice. Anne held her close. "We've sent for Bill, dearest," she said tenderly. "Steve will bring him," said Tony. Steve did bring Bill, a Bill whose clothes hung on him, whose face was gaunt. Berenice's eyes were closed. She did not open them when he came in. His lips worked, but he could not speak.

With a tire sigh Berenice rested her head on his shoulder. "You'll be here when—when I wake?" "I'll always be with you, sweet." Like an exhausted child she fell asleep in his arms.

Berenice had not been back to her apartment since her illness. She said she never wanted to see it again or anyone connected with her life there, anyone except Bill. It was pathetic how Berenice clung to Bill, how she could scarcely bear to let him out of her sight or he, her.

Tony first interested Steve Hill in Bill. Steve's word carried weight in the radio world. He had Bill promoted to the script department on the local station. Steve said Bill had ideas, ideas that were needed on scenarios and advertising programs. "The boy's no salesman," he explained, "but he'll rise and shine in the writing field if I know creative talent when I see it." In the meanwhile, although his promotion carried a modest rise in salary, Bill and Berenice were going back to three housekeeping rooms in an old brick house. Janet had imagined it would take them all afternoon to get settled in the new place. Both she and Bill were determined that Berenice should do nothing except lie on the couch in the living room and direct proceedings. However, everything was finished by four o'clock. Janet decided while she had Jim's flivver to run an errand for Anne. Old Mrs. Givens who lived on a back road behind the Country club earned her living by making patchwork quilts. Anne saved samples of materials for her. Janet stopped at the flat for the bundle and delivered it. It was after five, the hottest time in the afternoon, when she started back to town and until it joined the highway the road was untraveled.

"Thank heaven, there's only a mile of this," she muttered, choking on the cloud of red dust she had kicked up. She felt apprehensive about the tires on the car. They were badly worn. Jim was dickering for new ones. "I knew it," she exclaimed when with a slap, bang, whoosh, the left rear tire went flat.

"As I live and breathe," cried Janet. "A rescue!" When the roadster slowed down beside her, her exultation took wings. "No," she muttered morosely, "there are days when you can't get a break."

"Having trouble?" inquired Gordon Key nervously. "Oh, no," replied Janet with elaborate sarcasm, "I rip tires to pieces for the sheer girlish fun of it." "We can telephone Jim after we get to town and have him send out for the car," he suggested timidly. "That is, if you don't mind riding in with me."

"There doesn't seem to be any help for it," snapped Janet. She locked the flivver and climbed in beside Gordon, ostentatiously ignoring his offer of assistance. He started and turned very pink. "You mean, they'll think we—er—planned it." It was not Gordon's fault that just as they turned in off the dirt road, Priscilla Leifh should drive out of the Country club grounds in her white and scarlet roadster. But it was Gordon's fault when he became excited and stalled his engine right across the highway so that neither machine could move. Gordon shivered and would have embarked upon a voyage of explanation if Janet had not kicked him in the shin. "Have we taken root or what?" she demanded fiercely. "Let's go."

The car began slowly to move away. "So nice to have seen you," Priscilla called after them with a silvery mocking laugh. Anne had asked Cathy and Danny to supper that night. Anne also insisted that Berenice and Bill come back to the flat too. Bill bent anxiously over Berenice. "Tired, sweet?" he asked tenderly. Berenice laid her cheek against his hand. "A little."

"Run on, you two," said Anne with a smile. "I shan't be alone. Steve Hill is coming." The doorbell rang and Janet, coloring painfully, started to her feet. "There's Tony," she exclaimed and added hurriedly. "I'll be seeing you."

She did not ask Tony in. She merely nodded and turned toward the stair. Neither of them spoke until they were in the car. "I hear you had a flat this afternoon," he drawled. That Priscilla had supplied him with a lurid account of the incident Janet did not doubt, but neither his tone nor his expression betrayed what he was thinking. She stared at him defiantly. "Yes," she said, "I did."

"Too bad," murmured Tony and let it go at that. Most of their crowd were having dinner at the club prior to the dance. They had arranged to sit together at one long table. Having retired to the dressing room to remove her short evening cape, Janet came upon Norma Poole in the process of powdering her nose. Apparently Priscilla had spread her story broadcast. At least Norma had heard a highly spiced version of the affair.

"Whatever possessed you Janet?" she demanded. "You're too splendid to be left in the lurch a second time." (To Be Concluded)

Committee Meets At Olton Monday; Makes Assessments

Only Two County Office Holders Have Opponents

Saturday last was the deadline on candidate filing for County political offices. According to Otto Jones, precinct chairman, Lamb county has the shortest ticket for the coming election that has been for the past 15 years, or since the county has had any material growth. The Democratic Executive Committee, of which Guy Willis is county chairman, and Otto Jones precinct chairman, met at Olton Monday morning, for the purpose of making assessments to disburse the necessary expenses of holding the two Democratic primary elections. Only two county office holders have opponents in the coming election, that of County Attorney and County Judge. The shortness of the ticket is believed to have been caused by the intense interest in the war and in international and national affairs. The County Judge candidates—Judge S. A. Doss and M. W. Brewer, were each assessed $100. The County Attorney candidates—Billy Hall and Robt. (Bob) Kirk, were each assessed $100. Sheriff Sam Hutson, who has no opposition, was assessed $200; as was I. B. (Dock) Holt, Tax Assessor and Collector, who is also unopposed. Otha Dent, serving his first term as County Clerk, and who is unopposed, was assessed $100. (Continued on Back Page)
