$300,000 PLUS--ON BYPASS

LCEC to Build New, Enlarged Quarters

A new enlarged building and facilities that will run in excess of $300,000 will be built in the near future by Lamb County Electric Co-Op on the U. S. Highway 84 bypass in south Littlefield, reports Dick Carl, LCEC manager.

A 10-acre site has been purchased by LCEC at Phelps and the new bypass route, on the south side of the bypass, for the new facility, Carl said. Members of the LCEC board squared up details of their expansion planning with the Littlefield city council in a meeting a few days back.

The site was purchased from Mrs. Jess Elms. The first 300 feet—the north part of it—is in the city limits through an annexation of two years ago.

"We'll have a first class system," Carl said, "planned to keep up with our growth. Right now we're three years behind our operating needs."

As part of their growth, LCEC recently reported a $1,190,000 loan from the national REA administration to further expand lines and service facilities in the area it serves, Lamb and parts of Hockley, Cochran, Bailey, Hale and Castro counties.

The LCEC has outlined a "planned growth" program at the rate of about $750,000 a year for the next several years and that may see its system grow from its present $6-million valuation "to around $25-million before we meet all the demand," Carl added.

The new $1,190,000 in loan funds will go into a $1,500,000 expansion program started last October and prompted by a booming demand for electric power to serve South Plains irrigation wells.

The LCEC has extended electric power to 324 additional irrigation wells this season, "and we have demands now for well power that it will take three years of steady construction to meet."

With this year's additions, he estimates that the LCEC has reached only 13 percent of the irrigation wells in its service area, and that these represent only about 5 percent of the power potential required for area wells.

The growing demand for power, largely for irrigation purposes, has been measured in an extensive study of needs made the past year by the LCEC.

The year 1964 has been the largest growth year yet in the demand for electric power all over the plains, the LCEC manager pointed out. "It is far ahead of the national average in power demand, and the end is nowhere in sight."

For irrigation wells specifically, he added, electric power makes it possible to operate wells more economically and in many cases to enable farmers to operate wells with smaller flows that would not be economically feasible with other sources.

"It is an economic necessity for the farmer who must produce more and smaller wells because his water flow is not as strong as it once was, or for farmers who can open irrigated land but whose wells are small enough to require the economy of electric power."

The new building and grounds for LCEC will include enlarged office space, a public meeting hall, warehouses, truck shelters and other facilities to care for "a need that is already acute, and to provide for the future," Carl said.

He estimated that the present $250,000 annual LCEC payroll would grow to more than $350,000 in the immediate future with its continuing expansion.

Formed in 1938, Lamb County Electric Co-Op now has between 1800 and 1900 miles of line with some 5,000 meters and a number of substations over the area. The current building program has included the installation of two new substations, one just west of Loveland, another seven miles north of Littlefield, this one representing a $100,000 investment.

Its extensive system is a long step from the modest plant with which the rural electric company set up business in 1938 in Littlefield.

Carl joined LCEC in 1939 as a lineman, progressed to manager, Mrs. Edna Sisson, office manager, started with the company in 1938.

Joe Gilbert, line superintendent and supervisor for much of the expansion program, is a 16-year veteran.

The LCEC is administered by a 9-member board, headed by V. H. Diersing of Pep. Other members are Jack Bryant and Jim Horton of Whitharral, Kenneth Spradley, Anton T. C. Favers, Fieldron; Elmer McGill, Olton; Ray Baccus, Sudan; V. M. Peterman, Amherst, and Ernie Gertz, Littlefield.

Employment of an architect for the new building is on the business schedule for the next meeting of the LCEC board.

Recreation Program Draws 500

They started with just 200 on a cool Monday morning, but by Wednesday more than 400 Littlefield youngsters were turning out each morning for the city recreation program, and 500 are expected by the week's end.

Activities started as scheduled Monday at Crescent and Laguna parks. The schedule runs from a 9:30 to 11:30 each morning, two hours of organized games, calisthenics and sports. Wednesday morning was the weekly movie session and Thursday and Friday mornings will be swim periods with the two parks having one morning each.

The recreation program runs Monday through Friday for a 5-week period. More than 700 students were enrolled, most of them in pre-registration before school was dismissed.

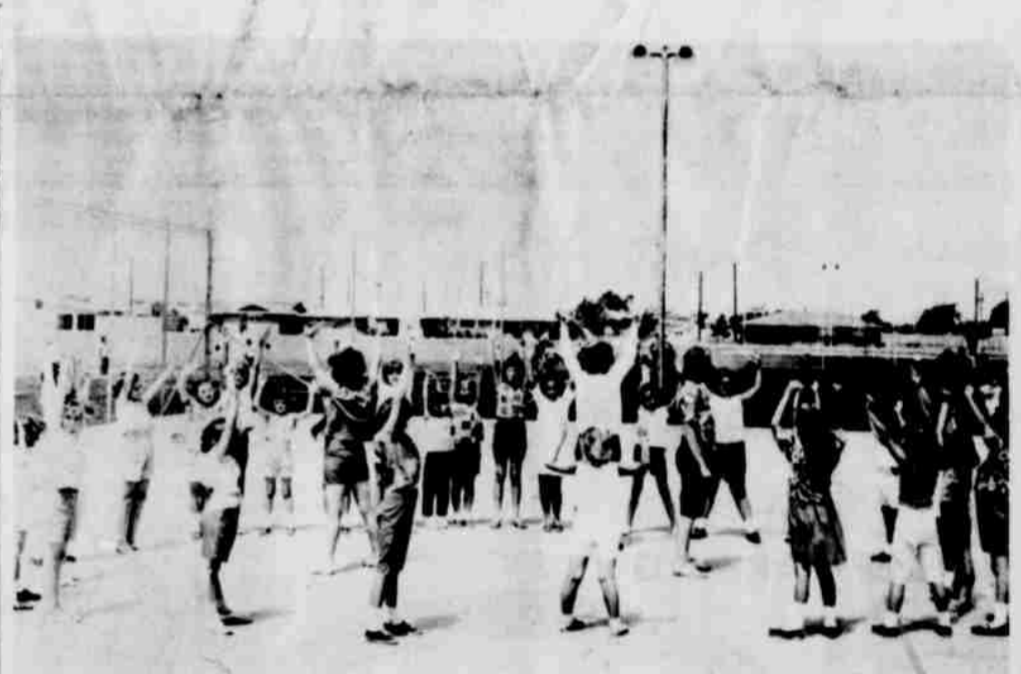

A program at Dunbar park drew too few participants to justify continuing, as it has in years before.

SUMMER FUN got off to a lively start Monday for several hundred Littlefield youngsters in the citywide recreation program at Laguna and Crescent parks. Ernie Davis, Littlefield high school coach and assistant recreation director, starts a baseball group above while Mrs. Martha Gerber, also an assistant director, starts a girls' group on calisthenics below. More than 500 youngsters from 6 to 13 years old are expected to be active in the program by the end of this week.

UNDER NEW COURT RULING:

Lamb OK on House Seat

Decision of the U. S. Supreme court that could set a pattern for districting seats in the legislature probably will affect Lamb county's legislative district, believes Billy Sprinkle, who represents a 5-county area that includes Lamb.

County's district was not one listed in a current Texas constitution to establish new legislative districts according to population. The suit was not included in the Supreme Court decision Monday, but it is of a pattern of suits from six states that were included in the court's decision Monday.

States are that the disjuncting of all 50 states could be affected by the court's ruling.

Simply, the court said that states must set legislative districts according to population, not by territory. It ruled that the system that, in Texas elsewhere, gives rural areas a larger percentage of state legislators than urban areas get according to their respective populations.

Clayton's district has the right proportion now, pointed out. He represents Def Smith counties with a population of between 70,000 and 70,000 people.

With 150 representatives in the Texas legislature, Clayton's district is about up to snuff on population. There could be a shuffling of the Senator Andy Rogers' territory on the population basis, Clayton was not queried on.

The Texas Senate, of only 32 members, has one senator representing almost 1-million people in one instance, as few as 47,000 in another. If enacted, the court decision probably would shift the Senate considerably.

Texas' agricultural counties would lose representatives, the urban centers would gain.

Such a change is expected to be fought hard by the Texas legislature. Gov. John Connally Monday was critical of the high court's decision.

The legislature already has a history and similar problem comply with a federal court order of a few weeks back directing that Texas districts for U. S. congressmen be set by population. Clayton recently was taken part in legislative committee hearings wrestling with this major problem.

It has not been contested hard, however, presumably since the U. S. court has proper jurisdiction in the establishment of congressional seats.

But the entry into state districting, traditionally the province of the state alone, is new ground for the Supreme court to plow.

HOWDY!

by dick reavis

The upcoming presidential contest between Lyndon Baines Johnson and Barry Goldwater will not, as almost everyone knows, be so nearly a contest between men as was the Kennedy-Nixon match four years ago.

Between Johnson and Goldwater the lines are clearly drawn and, as Goldwater points out, there can be a clearcut decision by the people on what they want in government.

The issue was phrased well 32 years ago when Franklin Roosevelt defeated Herbert Hoover. The words were by William Allen White, a distinguished journalist and Republican.

Roosevelt's election, at the depths of the 1932 depression, indicated, said White, "a firm desire on the part of the American people to use government as an agency of human welfare."

The question in 1964, at the heights of prosperity, is whether the American people still hold that desire.

For Lyndon Johnson and Barry Goldwater are good parallels in their generations to FDR and Herbert Hoover. Business in 1932 was very strong for FDR.

Any surface look would forecast that President Johnson will carry the nation as only FDR ever carried it.

Why? Because Senator Goldwater ignores the simple fact that the United States government as it exists today was evolved by the will of the American people — for right or wrong — and that it has corrected major ills while, admittedly, creating ones perhaps as large.

And because more people are better off today than they were in the Republican era of 1860 to 1932. In short, because when Barry Goldwater would call back the "good old days" of and Texas will be one—are overruled, the question could be raised whether a suit carried to the Supreme Court could not get the same ruling in establishing county and city commissioner's precincts.

The question is, where is the line drawn?

"rugged Americanism" he hasn't read his history well.

The "good old days" never existed in the gaslight era. True, there was a slower, more leisurely time. The technology was slower, before fast automobiles and jet planes and space travel; before tv, radio, world-wide communications. We couldn't worry about as much because we didn't know as much.

But the work week was 60 hours long, or longer, and the wage earner — and he was a great majority — barely existed, in your lifetime and mine, we can recall when some business days ran from 6 a.m. to 9 or 10 p.m., and 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. was a short day.

This existed up to FDR and, in many industries, for years after he took office. He encouraged the labor unions and they gained deserved equity and, in truth, have gone on to abuse their new-found place.

In labor there is a credit and a debit on the ledger. But the people who like the credit far outnumber the debit group, and they will be at the polls.

And the man who works for another — your neighbor or you — today has status, comfort and a good measure of security. He may manufacture a product, sell, be an accountant — whatever he does he can enjoy life in a way that a pre-1930's worker could not.

This is just one area of the "good old days" versus today, with its Jimmy Hoffas. The change has not been all for the good, but what change is? The question for November is how many people like today better?

Senator Goldwater is right to protest the waste, the creeping socialism in government, the dangers for the future, the question where he must be more right is: What is his positive program to better or correct the circumstance?

Under attack is the Social Security Administration, the most maligned of any federal program. For one thing, the SSA was exhaustively studied under the Eisenhower administration and found sound, even after President Eisenhower brought

Slaying on Docket:

Grand Jury Set June 29

A district court grand jury for Lamb county, with a murder charge to consider, has been called for June 29 by Judge Pat Boone, Jr.

A number of criminal cases are on the grand jury docket for action.

Of highest interest, probably, is a complaint of murder against Bobby Joe Buchanan, 21, in the fatal shooting of his father, Wesley Buchanan, 48, on April 16.

The shooting occurred at the family home near Spade and followed an alleged simmering family argument of several days. The elder Buchanan apparently was shot three times with a .36 gauge shotgun, several times more with a .22 caliber gun, sheriff's officers reported.

A statement admitting the shooting was made to officers by the young man shortly after it happened. A family argument a few days earlier had resulted in the younger Buchanan, his mother and a younger sister moving from the family home at Spade. Members of the grand jury are Darward Price, H. L. Robertson, Joe Embrey, Jess Cox, L. J. Welch, Kenneth Ware, E. G. Alexander, Roy Allen Hutson, Cecil M. Johnson, Glen Blackman, Jerry Tunnell and Charles Hinds.

County GOP Delegates Go With Barry

County GOP Delegates Go With Barry

Lamb county Republicans joined in the jousting over delegates to the national convention in this week's Texas GOP convention, but went straight down the line for Barry Goldwater for their presidential nominee.

Goldwater, who spoke to the Texas convention and received a tumultuous welcome, was all but uncontested for the 56 Texas votes that, actually, had been committed in popular vote in the May 2 Texas primary.

Bill Carter, Lamb county Republican chairman, served on the important credentials committee for the state gathering and Bill Braden, Springlake, was narrowly defeated for a place as alternate delegate to the national convention.

Twelve Lamb county delegates attended the Dallas meeting.

Too Much Water for New Water!

Too Much Water for New Water!

There has been too much water to let the city bring in its big water flow from the sandhills, as they planned to do a week ago!

First flow of water through the city's 13-mile-long, 24-inch water line from the sandhills was scheduled a week ago.

Then it rained, rained right regular a few nights along the long pipeline route. Water filled up a couple of openings where critical valves were to be installed, and other places where air was to be removed from the long line.

With some drying out this week, workmen may be able to get into the places Thursday (today) but engineer Bill McMorris, who is riding herd on the project, thought it "might be a job for skin divers."

Estimates are for Friday or Saturday now, and city officials may hold a small ceremony to mark the happening.

But there's no hurry. The usual peak June demand for yard water will have to wait, at least until water standing in low spots all over town recedes.

Trike Riding Pair Taken in Bold Break-In

Trike Riding Pair Taken in Bold Break-In

Littlefield police "solved" a bold break-in of a downtown store Sunday afternoon and caught two culprits on the scene having the time of their young lives.

Accosted were two small boys, both about four years old, who made an entry in Stone's Discount Store on East Fourth by knocking out a glass in a door, after first breaking a store window.

They broke the window, police said, by tossing through it a can of tomatoes taken from nearby Renfro Bros. Food Market.

Then they obtained a hammer with which the door glass was beaten in, permitting the small boys to enter.

When officers arrived the pair were pedaling around on tricycles that were in the store stock. Parents of the small boys agreed to pay for damages and the tearful "prisoners" were turned over to them for summary punishment.

Jackie Heffington Attends Boys State

Jackie Heffington, sponsored by the Richard New American Legion Post in Littlefield, attended Boys State in Austin last week.

Boys State is a mythical state held on campus of the University of Texas where the citizens organize their own city, county, and state governments. They choose their own officials by elections like real governmental elections. After election the officers sit in on a day's work in their respective state office.

There were 718 boys attending Boys State last week from all over Texas. Each boy was assigned to different cities and counties where they set up their own government according to regular democratic procedures. The boys were placed in two political parties, the Longhorns and the Pioneers, which held hot campaigns for the elections.

The group viewed a joint session of the House of Representatives and Senate and heard Byron Tunnel, Speaker of the House. During the week they also heard Waggoner Carr.

Boys who were juniors in high school the previous year were eligible and were picked on leadership 50%, character and integrity 25%, and scholarship 25%.

Boys State is a plan for training in the functional aspects of citizenship. Its purpose is to teach the youth of today constructive attitudes toward the American form of government. Boys State attempts to show that all a democracy needs is an intelligent citizenry and a clean, honest, and impartial administration responsive to the will of the people.

JACKIE HEFFINGTON is pictured above with two certificates which he was awarded at Boys State in Austin last week. Jackie, former LHS junior, has recently moved to Lubbock. He was picked for Boys State earlier in the year to represent this area by the Richard New American Legion Post of Littlefield.

Cotton Replant May Be 20%

With warm, clear skies holding since Sunday, Lamb county cotton farmers this week were at work surveying and repairing damage done to young cotton crops by last week's hard-falling rains.

All over the county sand fighters were running on long schedules in fields that were still muddy, to keep down damage from light sand silted up by the hard rains.

Estimates Wednesday are that from 20 to 30 percent of the 1964 crop will require replanting because of last week's varied damage, that came through washouts, some hail, some sand and the cold weather.

Biggest crop harm probably is from the young plants dying a "natural death" from too much old, wet weather. Temperatures last week ranged down to the low 50's, with several consecutive days of overcast skies and intermittent showers.

Generally, cotton is better in the northern part of the county, at its best around Oilton. Damage is spotted, but runs heaviest in the south part of Lamb county. Estimates are that most replanting will be done this week. "Then what we will need sunshine for awhile and July and August showers at strategic times," as one cotton server put it.

Overall condition of the crop as compared with "normal" years is described as "fair." To the west, in the Bular area last week's sporadic showers did not deliver a really good planting season for dryland farmers. Rains came hard and much runoff, but did bring sufficient moisture to get cotton up. But dryland farmers had known better seasons.

Hard rains washed off their from some cotton, but all washed off some poison, thiaps are becoming their usual early — summer problem right now.

CHURCH WORKER -- Mrs. Naomi Bridwell and in the Sunday school department. Mrs. gives us two delicious recipes for this week. Bridwell has three children and three grand-children. She is an active member of the First Baptist Church, her pride and joy. Church where she is active in WMU, Sunbeams, --- LEADER STAFF PHOTO

Mrs. Bridwell Supplies Two "Company" Recipes

Naomi Bridwell, wife of A.C. Bridwell, has kindly consented to share with the readers two of her family's favorite recipes. They are for "Chicken Casserole", a great dish for company, and for "Cherry Nut Pie", a perfect dessert.

A.C. and Naomi moved to Littlefield in 1949 from Hobbs, N.M. A.C. is co-owner of Littlefield Butane Company and Crescent Park Motel.

The Bridwells have three children and three grandchildren. They are Jay Boyd Bridwell, his wife Marlene and his daughter, Sharla; Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Cunningham and sons, Scott and Shane of Amherst, and another daughter, Kim, who is 12 and enjoys listening to Beatie records and swimming. Mrs. Bridwell enjoys cooking for her family and she always seems to be entertaining guests who especially delight in her excellent dishes. Since she often has guests in her home Mrs. Bridwell says, "The Chicken Casserole" is a wonderful dish for a large number."

She lists as favorite past-times cooking, reading, fishing and of course playing with her grandchildren. The Bridwells are members of First Baptist Church and Mrs. Bridwell's No. 1 activity is her diligent work there. You'll nearly always find her occupied with her WMU circle, working in Sunbeams, or carrying out her duties as associate superintendent in the Junior I Sunday school department. Mrs. Bridwell's delicious recipes follow.

Letter To The EDITOR

Dear Editor,

Every day I seem to hear of more and more crimes that are being committed, many by children.

Is this a new trend or has such things been happening since the beginning of time? Some people I have talked to seem to think this is a new and hideous form of today's life while others say that such things have always happened, that it is just now that a person hears of it due to better communications and a greater population in the world.

Frankly, I am worried. I don't know which school of thought to believe in. I have four children to raise and I want them to be the best and most upstanding citizens possible. I want them to be honest, truthful, and God-fearing but which way does a parent go to produce such an effect in these days? Which road must a parent follow to avoid the pitfalls of failure? Is it the parents' fault or failure where juvenile delinquency is concerned?

Do working mothers tend to aggravate the rising number of child crimes? Is it for lack of supervision or love or would these children go wrong regardless to the amount or lavishness of love?

I want to believe that all persons are good under their outer shell of sophistication or rebellion against life. But what can one think or believe about a child that is too young to have attained the veneer that so many adults carry around with them. And yet this same child goes out and commits a crime that staggers the imagination, the mind, and the heart of a person.

Are TV and books responsible for a portion of the trouble or are such items an education in morals? How does a child react to the violence and bloodshed of some shows? Does he understand the moral beneath all the glib phrases or does he only see the top violence?

I would really appreciate if there were someone who could give a credible explanation so I could understand or at least so I would not be so greatly disturbed over the current pace of crime. Naturally there is nothing one can say to reduce a parent's worry for his child if that parent really cares for his child's welfare, but perhaps there are some answers to some of the questions somewhere.

A Concerned Parent,
Mrs. Gail Blake
Littlefield, Texas

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is a problem that troubles the entire nation. Some success is being reached where communities, or major groups within them, work on a program to make being a non-adult attractive and productive. The beginning of an answer is the concern expressed by this letter.

Nova 6-Passenger Station Wagon

CHEVY II by Chevrolet

If you thought Chevy II was thrifty before, you should see your Chevrolet dealer now

You couldn't pick a better time to buy one! Wagons, Sedans, Sporty Sport Coupes. Take your pick. They're all tightwads. The Nova wagon for instance, like all the Chevy II's, adjusts its own brakes. It's got a Delcotron generator to lengthen a battery's life. The engines are real gas scoogies. And the rocker panels take in rain water to flush themselves free of rust-causing elements.

Inside the Nova wagon, where you can seat six anglers with tackle boxes, there's deep-tuft carpeting surrounded by vinyl that's as washable as tile. Behind that, a storage area with as much room as the insides of seven good-sized refrigerators. Your Chevrolet dealer has many more details that may interest you. Why don't you two get together and make some vacation plans.

Endrin-methyl parathion can deliver the bollworm kills you need (see above) but it must be applied on schedule. For best control, worms should be sprayed soon after hatching and must be hit before they're 1/2-inch long.

Endrin-methyl parathion kills bollworms fast. Spray on a 4 to 5 day schedule and you'll have your cotton made.

Endrin-methyl parathion gets weevils too, resists weathering, protects your crop through the critical fruiting period.

LET'S FACE IT: bollworms are tough. There just isn't any magic bollworm killer.

Yet you can get excellent bollworm control with endrin-methyl parathion if you apply the right amount in a regular program, and get thorough coverage.

You will automatically control and stay ahead of boll weevils, including resistant strains.

And you will stop cabbage loopers, leafworms, plant and stink bugs—a total of 9 other insects that attack your cotton.

Protects two ways:

1. Methyl parathion gives you fast action. Just hours after application, you'll find the ground littered with dying worms and weevils methyl parathion knocks off your cotton.

2. Endrin gives endrin-methyl parathion its long lasting quality. It resists weathering. Pound for pound, it's the longest-lasting chlorinated insecticide you can use on cotton.

Endrin puts a chemical barrier on your cotton that helps protect it until the next spray in your schedule. That's why you can expect 4 to 5 days' protection from each spray.

Cuts spray costs two ways:

1. Because endrin-methyl parathion has staying power, you can lengthen the intervals between sprays in your regular program up to a total of 5 days. Result: you will probably apply fewer sprays—yet you'll get excellent control of bollworms and other insects. By keeping down insect populations, you slow down reinfestation. You may eliminate one or more costly, late-season sprays altogether.

2. Low dosages do the job. By applying sprays regularly you won't have to use extra-high dosages to "catch up" with bollworms and other insects. Result: you save money.

A regular endrin-methyl parathion schedule also increases your income by helping you grow more, early cotton.

Get endrin-methyl parathion sprays and dusts available from your dealer.

ENGLISH VISITORS . . . Mrs. Betty Cihak and six year old daughter, Kelly, are visiting in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clement, pictured here in the cool shade of the Clement's patio, Mrs. Cihak and Kelly discuss their trip. Captain Don Cihak, her husband, is stationed in England where the family has lived since 1962. Betty and Kelly plan to return to their home in Huntingdon after a six weeks visit.

Visitors From England in Harold Clements' Home

Mrs. Betty Cihak and daughter, Kelly, are visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clement of 515 East 13th. Mrs. Cihak and Kelly live in Huntingdon, a small English village 20 miles from Cambridge on the Harford Estate. Her husband, Captain Don W. Cihak, is a lawyer in the U. S. Air Force and stationed at RAF Alconbury. The Cihak's have been in England since 1962 and Mrs. Cihak and Kelly will remain here for a six weeks visit before returning. They expect to return to the United States again in August, 1965.

Betty and Kelly report that they really enjoy the experience of living in England. "Although," says Betty, "inadequate heating and coal fireplaces make living a little less comfortable than in the United States."

Kelly will be a second grader next fall at the Military Dependent School. She says that she doesn't like the Beatles, Kelly reports that she enjoyed visiting the Whipsnade Zoo, England's largest, where the animals are all in their natural habitat.

Betty enjoys antiquing brass, copper, and silver, and shopping in London. She says that London is a much more formal and cultured city than most U. S. cities.

The Cihak's have toured quite a bit in Europe, visiting Scotland, Paris, and Holland in tulip-time. Betty says that the Scots are the friendliest people, but that the English are very warm after you get to know them. She also has good friends in Holland and says that the Dutch are a warm, clean, and strong people. They visited Paris in the spring and reported that the language barrier wasn't as strong as most people would think. Betty says that most of the French can speak English but they won't. She believes that this is due to a desire to keep their own language and that they think that if they can learn our language we could try to learn theirs as well. Betty reports that the French are a very handsome people and the women some of the most beautiful she has ever seen.

The Cihak's hope to travel to Germany, Spain, Italy, and other European countries before their return to the U. S. They drive an English car, but most of the time they travel by train or subway and by taxi in the city. Betty says that contrary to popular belief even though Europe is relatively small it takes about as long to travel 70 miles there as it does to travel 200 miles here because of the red tape and narrow roads. She says that a trip across the Channel is also a longer trek than most people here realize.

The Cihak's especially enjoy attending the theatre and have seen such shows as "Blitz" and the "Sound of Music". They also like to see steeples. They have toured many castles and recently visited Coventry Cathedral, a modern cathedral just built in Coventry. Mrs. Cihak lived in Littlefield before her marriage and graduated from Littlefield High School.

under it millions who had made no contribution to the program in relation to the benefits they would draw for years. This was necessary to extend SS to farming and other industries that had not its benefits and sought them.

What would Senator Goldwater substitute for Social Security? Our people, no people, adequately and voluntarily provide for their older years. If they did, we would not have millions on old age welfare rolls today, rolls that one day will disappear and be replaced by Social Security beneficiaries who have paid for years towards the benefits they receive.

This is what William Allen White meant by the "government as an agency of human welfare".

Goldwater's followers say to get the government out of business. Would you abolish the Federal Housing Administration, which has made it possible for the U.S. to have the world's best housing and has shown a profit in its operations. The FHA filled a giant need that no private money undertook in the "good old days", and the government assumed it.

Would they abolish the Securities Exchange Commission, the agency that makes sure the stock in which you put your life's savings actually represents a bonafide investment? There was no SEC under Coolidge and Hoover, but there were bucket shops 'and fraud, and there came Black Friday in 1929. And after it the Great Depression.

Would they wipe out the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation so that your bank savings might one day vanish with a broken bank? Or the Federal Aviation Agency which brings the airplane you ride safely down to earth?

Admittedly, federal programs will grow more. Medicare will come when and if LBJ desires it, and many people -- I will be among them -- will not like it. The fact is, there are more people who live in fear of disastrous medical costs than there are people who do not. The waiting rooms of medical clinics testify that it is agonizingly difficult to see a doctor. The needs of the people have not been properly assessed and met by the medical profession.

So, there has been created a situation in which there is strong and growing pressure for the government to act. In the future, perhaps, are federally owned medical schools and doctors trained at federal expense to provide enough of them to care for the people.

That word "people" crops up a lot. That is because "people" are the architects of government under our democracy which, we freely admit, may be too democratic. The "people" have the votes and governments and politicians either move in step with the "people" or they fail.

This is the issue for November, the wishes of the "people." The generations that Barry Goldwater would represent lie in the cemeteries, if they could be called back, the odds are great that they, too, would line up with LBJ in November.
