The winners of the tournament, who will go to New York to play in the national tournament, were the 1st Albuquerque team, while the men's team from Denver were runners up.

The Littlefield team tied with four other teams for fourth place, which record they consider quite satisfactory as they were playing against experts of much experience.

Man Is Arrested Saturday; Charged With Forgery

A man giving the name of C. E. Hubbard of Hillsboro, Texas, was arrested by Constable Sam Hutson in Littlefield Saturday night, charged with forgery and lodged in the local jail.

The arrest took place following the alleged cashing of a check purported to be signed by Guy Nichols of Bula, for whom the man had been picking cotton. On a Littlefield merchant becoming suspicious of the check on account of incorrect spelling of the name appearing thereon as drawer, Constable Sam Hutson was called to investigate the matter. The Bula man was phoned, and on his statement that he had not issued such a check, Hubbard was arrested.

It developed later that two other such checks had been cashed Saturday in the local stores.

Constable Hutson was instrumental in having the merchants reimbursed. Hubbard was lodged in the Littlefield jail pending action of the Grand Jury.

SUPT. SANDERS ATTENDS STATE TEACHERS MEET

Says Theme of Convention Was Pulling Out of Depression

Supt. A. B. Sanders attended the annual State Teachers Association held in Austin, November 30, December 2.

He stated that the general theme of the convention was pulling out of the depression. Two fallacies pointed out within our present financial organization are education costs too much and the wrong sources are taxed.

Suggestions for improvement that were made included national support for education, school income derived from sources other than property tax, and organization in larger administrative units.

It is probable that a survey will be made of the Texas schools and if so Mr. Alvis, the man who will be in charge of the work, has been invited to make Lamb county a typical unit for study, Mr. Sanders stated.

Legion Thanksgiving Feast Huge Success

The turkey feast, held Thanksgiving evening, at the Legion home was an enjoyable affair and was well attended.

The occasion was given by the Richard New post of the American Legion in appreciation to those who assisted in the remodeling of the Legion but, by giving their time and to those who contributed funds, which invitation was extended through the columns of the Lamb County Leader.

Following the turkey feast a splendid program, under the direction of Post Commander Arthur Mueller, was rendered.

The program was opened by the assembly joining in singing "America," with Mrs. W. D. T. Storey at the piano.

T. Wade Potter, post adjutant, made a fitting address, wherein he expressed appreciation, in behalf of the post, for the assistance of those who had helped with the Legion project. He also extended an invitation to all ex-service men, who are in the Littlefield territory, and not affiliated with the local post, to become members.

Roll call was responded to by the membership and visitors were introduced by each telling where they were

DOUBLE HOLIDAY INCREASES MAIL HANDLING TASK

Post Office Department Issues Instructions For Mailing

The annual "Mail Early" campaign Uncle Sam conducts for the Christmas Holiday season is underway, and the local postoffice has received literature concerning the campaign.

With Christmas coming on Monday this year, makes a double holiday, and no delivery of mail from late Saturday until Tuesday morning, except special delivery matter, places a double task on the postoffice.

In Littlefield the heavy season is expected to begin about December 15, and Postmaster J. G. Singer urges that Littlefield residents shop now and mail early for delivery Christmas Day. He points out that the local office will make every effort to handle the Christmas mails without congestion and delay, but owing to the enormous volume this can only be done with the cooperation of the public.

Mailing instructions include the following: All parcels must be securely wrapped or packed; use strong paper and heavy twine.

Packages with fragile contents should be so marked; all should be packed in heavy or corrugated cardboard; cut flowers should be wrapped in tissue paper to prevent moisture; sharp pointed or edged instruments should have them guarded to prevent injuries to clerks; drawings, paintings and maps should be rolled around a wooden core or placed in a tube.

Articles easily broken should be securely wrapped, crated or boxed; glassware must be packed so that escape of particles or pieces if broken in transit is impossible.

Addresses should be typed or printed on all packages, with return address. If a card or tag is used, the information should be on the package also.

Postage must be prepaid. Weight limit is 70 pounds, with a 100-inch limit in length and girth combined.

Special delivery for packages to be delivered Christmas day should be used where articles can be mailed in time. The special service is in addition to regular stamps.

Valuable parcels should be insured or registered. Coin, currency, jewelry and articles of considerable value should be mailed first class.

Pontiac Coupe Badly Damaged

Franklin Walker had the misfortune Thursday evening last about 7:30 o'clock to have his 1933 light brown Pontiac coupe badly damaged, when he was struck by a Model T Ford, occupied by four men, on Highway No. 7, about 18 miles west of Lubbock.

Mr. Walker was returning from Lubbock when the accident occurred. The Model T Ford was going east, and was in the act of passing a truck when it hit the coupe driven by the Littlefield man. The back wheel of the Pontiac coupe was broken off, two fenders and bumpers were smashed and the frame of the car bent.

Luckily, no one was hurt. The car is being repaired by a local concern.

We Do Our Part

RURALIZATION OF INDUSTRY

We were impressed by what Secretary Wallace said in a speech in Chicago not long ago. He remarked that the President's land policy "may in time be recognized as the most important since the Homestead Act."

As Mr. Wallace interprets the program of the Administration—and he ought to be in the best position to do so—the definite aim is to restore rural life to millions who have been herded into the cities. That does not mean setting many millions more people at work in the highly competitive business of farming, as Mr. Wallace explains it, but it means the establishment of local industries, utilizing local raw materials, in country districts where the farms and forests can supply the materials readily on the one hand, and where the local population will be the primary customers for the output of those industries.

As an ideal to be aimed at, this cannot be too highly praised. Taking the lumber industry as an example, and the goal of Mr. Wallace's program of reforestation all the less desirable agricultural land as having been achieved, what could be more natural, even inevitable, than the establishment of local woodworking plants in every reforested district, to say nothing of such other industries as depend upon wood products for their raw material, like certain kinds of rayon, methyl alcohol and other chemical processes.

Such a program as that will take time and a lot of it. It ought not to take so long to get industries established in agricultural regions where the raw materials are the product of annual crops, like cotton, corn or wheat.

We hope this general idea will be stimulated and encouraged. It seems at the moment doubtful whether many of the big industries will regard it as economical to manufacture their products in thousands of scattered plants; yet Henry Ford does just that, and does it successfully. It is time that the concentration of industry in big factories in big cities, which began when steam power was introduced, were done away with. With electric current universally distributed it is as easy to operate power machinery on the farm as in the city.

PHILLIPS 66 MOTOR OIL

For fastest cold weather starting, get the gasoline with the highest gravity. (See figures at left which prove how high the test of Phillips 66 is.)
Even on days below freezing, you need step on the starter just once! That is enough for this super-volatile motor fuel to snap your icy motor into instant action.
You marvel at the lack of sputtering and coughing... at the smoothness of the engine so soon after starting. You get that feeling of flexible power, that zip and get-away, which have made Phillips 66 the most sensational success in the highly competitive oil industry.
Your first experience with a cold, balky motor will probably send you searching for a gas station which sells Phillips 66. But why wait until you actually have starting trouble?

Remember: as the thermometer drops, up goes the gravity of Phillips 66. Week by week, its high test is adjusted to the weather wherever it is sold. That is how the Phillips method of CONTROLLED VOLATILITY protects you against loss of starting speed, against loss of power and mileage, as your weather grows colder.
Phillips extra high test does not cost a single cent extra, because Phillips is the world's largest producer of natural high gravity gasoline. Let the first Orange and Black shield, which you see, remind you to get a trial tankful of this greater gasoline.

Mr. and Mrs. Chase will make their home in Littlefield.

The residence of W. P. Rogers in Broad Acres Addition, was totally destroyed by fire of unknown origin Monday night at eleven o'clock.

The family suffered a total loss of furniture and personal belongings.

The building was covered by insurance.

Plans are being made for the erection of a 50x100 brick building to be erected for R. M. and T. C. Smith. The building will be located on the lot where the Quick Service Station now stands, and the lot adjoining on the south.

The wedding of Dr. R. H. Perkins and Miss Thelma Barnes was quietly solemnized Saturday afternoon at the First Christian church, at Lubbock, with Rev. W. P. Jennings officiating.

Immediately following the ceremony the couple left for Stamford, where they were guests in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Hicks, both of whom were school mates of the groom at Baylor Dental College at Dallas, of which he is a graduate.

Dr. and Mrs. Parker returned to Littlefield Tuesday and will make their future home here.

E. C. Cundiff leaves Thursday for Hereford, where he will be one of the judges in the Hereford Poultry Show.

Extra Session May Be Necessary

In a special dispatch from its correspondent at Austin, the Dallas News, says a special session of the Texas legislature may be necessary to reenact the act authorizing issuance of $20,000,000 in state relief bonds, because the original law failed to provide a specific source of income to guarantee the payment of the interest and sinking fund.

The Texas bond commission, which failed Friday to obtain any bids, started negotiations Saturday through Attorney General James V. Allred, chairman, to sell the $2,750,000 block of bonds advertised to the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

However the News says bond experts in Austin predicted there would be no sale because of the failure of the vitalizing act to provide the specific revenue to pay the bonds. They also were described as saying it possible the RFC would decline to take the bonds for the same reason.

The constitutional amendment adopted August 26 authorized an issue of $20,000,000 provided that the bond obligations should not be met by property ad valorem tax, leaving only the beer tax and revenue other than the ad valorem tax.

SYNOPSIS: . . . Ruth Warren, living in the East, comes into possession of three-quarter interest in an Arizona ranch, left to her in the will of her only brother, reported to have died while on business in Mexico. With her ailing husband and small child she goes to Arizona to take possession, thinking the climate may prove beneficial to her husband's weakened lungs. Arriving at the nearest town, she learns that the ranch, "Dead Lantern", is 85 miles across the desert. Charley Thane, old rancher and rural mail carrier, agrees to take them to "Dead Lantern" gate, which was 5 miles from the ranch house. As they wearily walked past a huge overshadowing boulder in a gulch in coming to the ranch house, a voice whispered "Go back! Go back." Their reception is cool and suspicious. Snavelly and Indian Ann are the only occupants. They bear the legion of the gulch.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"No. You understand I don't believe there's anything to it—it's just an echo or some noise, that's all. 'Course with Ann it's different."

"How do you mean?"

"Well, she's superstitious clean through. She's scared to death to go through the gulch—but just the same she hasn't go around it. She thinks the voice tol' her never to avoid it in case it wants to tell her anything."

The three sat silent. Soon the slightest of noises came from behind them and at the same instant Snavelly raised his eyes. Turning, the man and girl saw the giant woman towering above them. Snavelly, alone, was not startled by her silent appearance. She nodded to Warren. "Your trunk an' things is in the room."

Ruth stood up at once and gathered her sleeping boy in her arms. "Thank you so much—I—we'll be going to bed now, I guess."

The old adobe seemed very huge and dismal. With no word between them the man and wife stood in the center of the room. The yellow light from the oil lamp shone upon the walls of earth, mellow and dim.

"What do you think of him?" asked Warren, glancing suddenly into Ruth's eyes.

"I don't know," said Ruth slowly. "Did you notice that look on his face when he was talking about people? Not what you'd call a social animal."

"He hates us—he hates every human being!"

Warren said nothing for a time, then, "We'd better go to bed, I guess."

Ruth nodded.

One of the canvas cots Ann had placed near the glassless window; another, close by, was probably intended for David. The third cot was in the rear room. When the man and girl had finished their preparations the three cots were so close together that there seemed to be only a single broad bed made up in three sections. So hot was the night that covering was impossible. With David between them and the lamp extinguished the father and mother lay on their backs, their hands clasped above David's head.

The stillness was stifling. Finally the hand of her husband gradually relaxed. How could he possibly sleep? Poor Kenny—so terribly tired. She lowered her eyes from their upward stare and looked at the window. It was no longer a black hole but a patch of light—as though the moon were shining.

Carefully, she got to her knees and worked her way to the foot of the bed. Thus kneeling, she could rest her elbows on the sill and look out into the night.

A sound, a single squeak of a metal spring, instinctively brought her eyes to the back door of the ranch house. Some one was standing there; some one had just come softly out. Breathless, she watched. The figure moved slowly toward the ancient adobe and stopped. She knew that it was Snavelly. After a moment he turned slightly and, walking with quiet steps, went toward a mound of earth heavily covered with bushes. This mound was nearly opposite the girl's window and about a hundred feet away. When he had reached the clump of bushes Snavelly paused and seemed again to be looking at the adobe. She saw that he held a bundle under his arm. Suddenly he stooped low and disappeared from sight. The minutes passed—two, ten, or a hundred, the girl could not have told. Then she heard a hollow echoing clank among the clump of bushes. A moment later, Snavelly reappeared and walked softly back to the ranch house. His hands were empty. This time he opened the door in such a way that it did not squeak.

By mid-afternoon of the next day Ruth could hardly stand. All morning, and for three hours since lunch she and Ann had been cleaning out the two rooms in the old adobe.

In spite of Ruth's exhaustion she had done very little actual work. Of the entire two floors she was only able to scrape an area which might have been covered by the ranch bath before the palms of her very white hands developed puffy red mounds, extremely tender. The hoe in Ann's huge hands ripped up long scrolls of earth untroublingly.

Much might be said for Ruth's bravery in attempting to do any work whatever, but as a matter of plain fact she was afraid to do anything else. That morning at breakfast she had asked if Ann could help her, and Snavelly had replied, "I reckon she can, if you need help."

All day this reply had rankled. She told herself that Ann was merely a servant employed on the ranch and that Snavelly's interest in the ranch was only one-quarter. Yet, while this was in some ways a comforting reflection, it could not put from her mind those pale, jerking eyes.

Warren and David were spending the day under a great live oak which stood on the western bank of the gulch and was visible from the doorway of the old adobe. It was a beautiful tree, its wealth of shade made even more inviting by the cool green of its leaves. Warren lay back in a canvas chair, lazily improvising on his guitar. Little David was tremendously busy making things with the small acorns which covered the shaded ground.

Often Ruth glanced toward the oak tree, and once she had gone part way over and shouted to Warren to watch out for snakes. She returned to the adobe reluctantly. She rather felt that she also should be under that tree.

Anyway, the adobe looked quite clean and pleasant compared with its appearance the evening before. Only last evening? Ruth could hardly believe that she had not yet been twenty-four hours on the ranch; it seemed a month. Well, the cleaning was over. She supposed that a storm would come in a few days and the whole place would fall down. In such an event she could imagine Snavelly suggesting that she move her family into the barn—after cleaning it out.

Since rising that morning, she had wondered constantly what Snavelly had been doing the night before. But she had not gone to the bushes to investigate, she had not mentioned the incident to her husband, and she had not the remotest intention of asking Snavelly. And, just as she told herself that the voice in the gulch was an echo, she told herself that Snavelly was probably attending to some neglected ranch chore—well, such as putting something away in a box which made a clank when the lid was dropped.

Ruth did not know what she thought about Ann. The giantess both fascinated and frightened her. She was fascinated by the skill with which Ann drove nails and she was frightened when the woman bent her back and tossed aside a huge chunk of fallen adobe which partially obstructed the doorway, as though the heavy earth were cork. It was hard to think of the giantess as a woman; her enormous strength and size were so foreign to the girl's idea of femininity. And always Ann was aware of the little dog—Ruth felt that but for her presence Ann and Sugarfoot would have carried on a continuous conversation. Several times Ruth had tried to start friendly talk with Ann but with no success. The giantess had not once smiled; she did her work like a relentless machine with thoughts of its own.

From the corner of her eye she saw Ann loading trash from a pile near the door into a wheelbarrow. She stepped to the threshold and asked casually, "What in the world shall we do with all that stuff, Ann? It won't burn; that's certain."

Ann grunted and lifted the wheelbarrow. Ruth fell into step beside her as the giantess wheeled her load toward the clump of bushes beyond the wood pile. "You know, Ann, we ought to have a regular place for putting trash—something out of the way where we could put things we didn't want to see any more."

Ann said nothing.

"I've often wished I had a place where I could put things I've done that I shouldn't have done." The haughty cast of Ann's features softened; she looked into the girl's eyes and nodded slightly.

Inside the encircling fringe of underbrush a half dozen sun-bleached planks lay upon the ground. Ann turned back the nearest of these disclosing a black hole. She tipped the wheelbarrow and the trash slid from sight. Ruth caught her breath without knowing why—there was something weird in the silent way that load disappeared—perhaps there was water in the hole, very close to the top. Ruth took a step forward, just as a sudden roar of sound belched from the blackness. She screamed—the trash had just struck bottom.

Ann looked at her. "It ain't nothin'—jes an ol' well we throw stuff into."

"How—how deep is it?"

"Way deep—a hundred feet, I reckon. The folks what built the 'dobe digged it years ago. But they never found no water jes' here'bouts."

The girl shivered. Something in Ann's face caused her to turn quickly—Snavelly was coming through the bushes. His pale eyes glinted dangerously.

"Now, Ann,"—he spoke in a high voice—"I think you'd better be tendin' to the milkin'. You best finish with the cleanin' tomorrow. We got to butcher this evenin' too."

Ann left at once. After a moment in which she stood as though half stupefied, Snavelly smiled at the girl. "Ann'd rather do most anything than milk—seems to me. She don't know how lucky she is to have somethin' to milk—it ain't every cattle ranch that's got a milk cow." As he was speaking he walked away from the well and Ruth followed. "I got that Jersey for milk—solely for milk—traded a long yearlin' beef for her to a Mexican who was goin' to slaughter her. Besides," he smiled again and stopped beyond the bushes, "we've got good milk for our victuals."

"Oh, I see. It seems like good business to have a milk cow, then. Mr. Snavelly, about that well, I—"

"You're dead right it's good business. I told Grey that when we first started up. While he was puttin' in a new windmill, and the tank, and the cement water troughs I looks around and got hold of that Jersey—she's already paid for herself in the poor little weak calves she's nursed."

They were passing the woodpile and Snavelly stooped to pick up the ax. "I come up here for this—me and Ann're goin' to butcher. We need meat. Can't keep it more'n a couple of days in this weather, but Ann'll jerk a lot of it. But we'll have fresh meat for supper." He smiled. "Don't reckon you ever had a chance to eat beef a half hour after it's killed. You want to come down to the corral and watch us butcher?"

"No—no, thank you. Mr. Snavelly, please fence that horrible well! I won't let David out of my sight until you do. And when you begin I'll get him out of the way—I don't want him to know about it or be curious. He must never go into those bushes. You'll fence it right away, won't you? Please?"

Snavelly nodded. "That's a good idea, Mrs. Warren. I'll attend to it myself tomorrow—we never expected to have kids on the place and just throwed loose boards over it to keep the stock out. But I'll fence it sure."

"Make a very strong fence—one David can't get through or over. Couldn't you use boards? These barbed wire fences look so insecure."

Something terrible flashed into Snavelly's face. "Barbed wire—he spat the words—"ain't goin' to be used for nothin' on this place! What wire is here can stay but by God I ain't never touched it an' I ain't never goin' to!"

"Well—I—I'm glad you will use boards, Mr. Snavelly," said Ruth uncertainly, and left him.

That evening when the girl and her family went into the ranch house for supper, they were sorry to see that Ann had a long cut on her cheek. Snavelly explained that she had done it on the catch of the kitchen cupboard.

The satisfaction of having a pretty yard and the fun of keeping it up have paid for the labor of planting 62 native trees and shrubs, patching the porch, straightening the fences, and moving trash and junk out of the yard, says Neville Hopkins, 4-H club girl of Friendswood, Galveston county.

DON'T GET UP NIGHTS

Lax the Bladder With Juniper Oil, Buchu, Etc.

Drive out the impurities and excess acids that cause irritation, burning and frequent desire. Juniper oil is pleasant to take in the form of BUKETS, the bladder laxative, also containing Buchu leaves, etc. Works on the bladder similar to castor oil on the bowels. Get a 25c box from any drug store. After four days if not relieved of "getting up nights" go back and get your money. If you are bothered with backache or leg pains caused from bladder disorders you are bound to feel better after this cleansing and you get your regular sleep.

Use This Laxative
made from plants

Theford's BLACK-DRAUGHT is made from plants that grow in the ground, like the garden vegetables you eat at every meal. NATURE has put into these plants an active medicine that stimulates the bowels to act—just as Nature put the materials that sustain your body into the vegetable foods you eat.

In Black-Draught you have a natural laxative, free from synthetic drugs. Its use does not make you have to depend on cathartic chemical drugs to get the bowels to act daily. Now you can get Black-Draught in the form of a SYRUP, for CHILDREN.

Donald: "Mother, it is cold—nearly half of my class was not there yesterday." Mother: "Cold weather does interfere with school, Donald, but I'm glad you can get there—thanks to our car." Donald: "But, mother, nearly all the other boys who were absent could come in cars but their folks don't even try to use them in cold weather—'cause they can't get them started."

Donald: "Mother, I should think the school board would make all parents use Conoco." Mother: "They couldn't do that, Donald, but it would be a good idea if the parents themselves would find out why their cars wouldn't start and buy Conoco. And I imagine they would if they knew it would save them money also."

tons of hegari in a trench silo as income.

In spite of the bad weather condi-

Legion Thanksgiving—

hard tack and corn waffle. Music by the local band, under the direction of A. B. Taylor, interspersed the program.

Senator Arthur P. Duggan made a brief address in keeping with the celebrated date, wherein he pointed out, that, despite the depression, the bountiful harvest and many other blessings of the past year for which the citizenship of this country should be thankful. He also commended A. B. Taylor for the splendid band as something for which Littlefield could justly be proud.

Miss Betty Ann Hilliard pleased the audience with a Thanksgiving reading.

Mrs. W. D. T. Storey made a brief talk on the work of the American Legion auxiliary, stressing the importance of the work to be done by the women in aiding veterans and their families. She also extended an invitation to membership in the local organization to all those who are eligible.

Mrs. Zed Robinson—

(Continued from Page One) treatment to the Sanitarium at different intervals, but continued to lose strength. For the past two months she had been partially paralyzed; during the last four weeks of which she was unable to move any part of her body, and talked but a few words.

Mrs. Robinson was born October

17, 1899 at Uless, Tarrant county, Texas, where she lived until 1905, when her parents located near Winters, Texas. On October 13, 1915, as Ruth Elmer Blessing, she was married to Zed Robinson, in Runnels county, and to this union were born three children, Mary Edith, now aged 17, Geraldine, aged 12, and Jimmie Zed, aged 7, all of whom are now living.

In 1922 Mr. and Mrs. Zed Robinson moved to the South Plains, living the first year on the Jim Blessing farm three miles east of Littlefield, and then moving to their farm four miles northwest of town, where they had continued to make their home.

Mrs. Robinson joined the Methodist church at the early age of seven, and had always been a Christian in her every act and deed. She was a loving and sympathetic mother, and affectionate wife, and extended a friendly greeting and smile for everyone she met.

Besides her husband, Zed Robinson, and three children, Mary Edith, Geraldine and Jimmie Zed, she is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Blessing, and one brother, Roy Blessing, of Littlefield, and a host of friends to mourn her passing.

Among the out of town attendants at the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Mitchell and family; Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Hargrove of Winters, and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Robinson and Carlton Robinson of Wingate.

BIG FAMILY REUNION TO BE HELD AT METHODIST CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY

In Littlefield next Sunday, December 10, is to be a reunion of one of the oldest and best known families—a family rich in history numbering among its members some of the most renowned of the earth. It is a family of great nobility with an unusually rich inheritance. The Father of this group holds the wealth of the world in his hand. "The cattle upon a thousand hills are his," and his Son possesses unheatable riches. Both are full of grace and mercy, are the givers of every good and perfect gift.

The occasion of the reunion isn't the birthday of the Father, for he is from all eternity; but rather is it "The Feast of the Ingathering." You are a member of this renowned family and as such are invited to share in the fellowship of the reunion. We shall meet to enjoy this fellowship in the House of our Father. We shall worship together with songs of rejoicing and dine together at noon. It is but proper that you should fill your basket with the fruit of the field. A basket dinner at noon in Fellowship Hall.

A family of such ancient lineage and nobility finds itself possessed of a deep trust, that is, each member is an administrator of his share of the estate. The Father has made each member of his family an administrator of his goods, has preserved for himself no other way by which his goods can be administered, except when we refuse he either removes us or his goods from us. The reunion offers an opportunity to each to share in a thank offering for the upkeep of the Father's House, according as the Father has prospered.

This particular family is called Methodists—there are others—and the reunion is to be in the House by the same name, on the Sabbath day next, December 10th. This letter is to bear to you a cordial and urgent invitation to be present on this happy occasion.

C. W. A. Funds—

The Citizenship schools are being planned for the benefit of those deprived of schooling during their youth. All subjects from the Primary Department to High School will be taught, as well as Civil Government, Constitution of the United States, Constitution of Texas, and Citizenship. Only unemployed teachers will be engaged in giving this instruction, and those not connected with any schools and desirous of entering this work should make application to Rev. J. F. Grizzle.

It is the plan of the chairman, Mr. Grizzle, to call a meeting in the near future of all local committees of the different cities and communities in the county to formulate plans to get all schools in the county in operation by January 1, 1934.

The ladies' societies of the different churches will be asked to assist in the work of organization. According to Mr. Rochelle, it is probable that day classes may be conducted in the Littlefield city hall later.
