Ray, who was on the staff of Congressman George Mahon for over 6 years and served as his administrative assistant. expressed his concern over the financial picture in Texas. He pointed out that while the federal debt has risen only 25%, since 1947, the Texas debt has increased over 977% in the last 14 years alone.

In commenting upon the sit-uation, Ray said, "I am not only concerned, I am alarmed. The trend is not good and we cannot allow it to continue until we are confronted with an over-burdening debt." He pointed out that in the past two years the annual increase in State debt has almost equaled our total State debt for 1950.

Among other problems dis-cussed by Ray while in Littlefield were water and education. He noted that the seriousness of the water situation demands that every avenue be fully explored in an effort to find a solution or solutions. Ray said, "Too long have we Ray said, 100 long have we entertained false hopes that the water problem would go away, when in fact all that is going is our water."

Peace Corps To

Test On April 9

Lamb County area residents interested in putting their skills to use in developing nations around the world are invited to take the Peace Corps placement test at 9 a.m. on Saturday, April 9 at the Littlefield

The Peace Corps uses the placement test to determine how an applicant can best be utilized overseas. The test measures general aptitude and the ability to learn a language, not education or achievement, (If test scores indicated a limited language-learning ability, for example, the Peace Corps tries to place the applicant in an English-speaking country.) The placement test requires no preparation and is non-competitive -- an applicant can neither pass

Precision Cotton Planting Boosts Yields 13 Percent

Cotton yields in Texas A&M University tests are being upped a sizeable 13 percent by using preshaped beds and a new-fangled precision-depth cotton the other. planter

And A&M Extension specialists and researchers say most any cotton farmer can do the same.

Lamber Wilkes, agricultural engineer at A&M, designed both a bed shaper and the planter to pave the way to the higher cotton yields.

Wilkes uses the bed shaper about a month or more before planting. It smooth and leaves the beds table-top flat for faster, more accurate seed placement.

Then, he uses his new precision planter on the flat beds, Since the shpaed beds are level on top, the usual sweep which runs in front of the furrow opener on a conventional planter, is eliminated on Wilkes' model.

His precision planter has a curved, runner-type furrow opener that forms a narrow "V" shaped furrow. It slices cleanly into the soil, leaving a neat seed trench about an inch and a half wide for the seeds to drop into.

sweep and chisel furrow opener usually leaves a ragged, wide, uncertain furrow, where some seed will be deeper than others. Also, seed is usually scattered from one side fo the furrow to

But not so with the precision planting. Each seed is dropp-ed neatly into the seed trench at a uniform depth, in a straight line.

The shaped beds are from 1 to 3 degrees warmer at planting time because the flat top absorbs more direct sun, he

This combined with precision lacing of the seed, promotes faster germination and emergence. In A&M tests, a 70 percent stand was up on shaped beds in 6 days, while it was on conventional beds.

Air Training Command To Increase Pilot Training

"Air Training Command's eight undergraduate pilot training wings, next year will boost flying training time to provide more pilots to meet increasing need in South Vietnam, Lt, Gen, William W. Momyer, Com-mander, Air Training Command, told the Air Force Association Convention Thursday in Dallas.

"In the next fiscal year, the UPT program will train about 3,000 student pilots as compared to the annual average of "Last year, the ATC Com-mander added, 'the UPT bases flew an average of 7,500 hours per month, and had over 300,-000 take-offs and landings for
