Barbara Otwell Crowned Miss Fall Festival At Sudan Celebration

Barbara Otwell outdistanced three other contestants early Friday in the popularity contest which decided the title of Miss Fall Festival of Sudan. Petite blond, blue-eyed Barbara is 14 years old and an eighth grade student at Sudan junior high. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Otwell, who live a few miles outside Sudan.

Barbara was chosen Miss Fall Festival from a group of popular teenage beauties who included Lucy Barnett, Frances Hall, and Sharlene Wagner.

Queen Crowned
The crowning of Miss Fall Festival took place Friday night in Masten stadium during the half as the Sudan Hornets met the team from Happy.

With the Sudan band in new uniforms playing "The Eyes of Texas," a red convertible brought Miss Texas, Connie Wray Hopping, onto the field. Radiant in a strapless gown of pristine white, Miss Texas rode on the back of the car, waving to the crowd. Under the floodlights, she joined Mayor Harold Close, J. W. Miller, general manager of the festival, and the four escorts of the queen and runners-up. The band continued to play as the green convertible carrying the queen, Barbara Otwell, and her court, circled the field.

Gold Trophy Presented
As Miss Texas crowned Barbara officially Miss Fall Festival, she presented her with an arm bouquet of red carnations and a gold trophy. The diminutive queen who only measures five-one was wearing a lime green strapless gown.

As the convertibles carrying the queen, her court, and their escorts drove off the playing field at Masten stadium the band struck up "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

Eisenhower Wires Sudan
The Fall Festival at Sudan opened Friday at noon with words of salutation from General Eisenhower delivered via telegram. The Republican candidate for the presidency sent his personal "congratulations and best wishes for a very successful festival" to the whole city in care of J. W. Miller, general manager.

The special guest list was growing longer with the progress of the many scheduled events. Eleven Chinese officers just off Formosa who are in training at Reese AFB came early Friday. Only one of the group speaks English, but all were

Bloodmobile To Visit Littlefield Tuesday

The Red Cross Bloodmobile Unit will be in Littlefield again Tuesday morning—and the local office announces that the county chapter is still short at least 30 donors.

The minimum quota of 150 pints can not be met with less than 250 donors due to frequent rejection of donors at the unit. For various reasons donors cannot always give blood after they come. Doctors who check each donor sometimes advise them not to give blood. This reduces the number of pints actually taken. Prospective donors, however, should not stay away just because they think they might not be able to donate. Competent local physicians will check them at the unit.

Late Friday afternoon only 220 pledge cards had been returned; and Mrs. Lyle Brandon, secretary of local chapter, announced that unless the additional pledges came in over the weekend, solicitations would be made locally Monday for the badly needed 30 pledges.

Can YOU give a pint of blood Tuesday? The bloodmobile unit will be at the First Baptist Church Educational building as it was in July. Drop by and donate.

Charles Joplin, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Joplin, who is a senior at Tech in Lubbock, returned to the campus Saturday to start classes.

Judging Team Going to Iowa

W. W. Hall and the FFA Dairy Products Judging Team left Saturday morning to attend the National FFA Judging Contest being held this year in Waterloo, Iowa.

The local judging team won first place in the state contest conducted at Texas A&M, May 6 of this year and will be the only team present representing the state of Texas.

The boys and their instructor left at 5 a.m. yesterday, in a pick-up. They are "detouring" via St. Louis, Mo. to pick up the Cardinal-Browns game Sunday afternoon—which means they'll have to do some hard driving after leaving these city limits.

Registration for the National FFA Judging Contest will take place Tuesday at 6 p.m. Wednesday morning boys from all over the United States will be divided into three groups to judge. Scores will be added up late in the afternoon, and the winners announced at a banquet Wednesday afternoon. First place winners are the Gold Medal team and second place winners, the Silver Medal team.

The International Dairy Show is being held in Waterloo in conjunction with the judging contest. Texas Tech has a collegiate team who will be judging on the same day

District Governor Addresses Rotary Club At Luncheon Meeting

Judge Elton Chapman, District Governor of Rotary, District 183, of Floydada, Texas, was the guest of the local group Wednesday and Thursday of this week. He made his official visit to the Littlefield Club Wednesday, when an assembly with him in charge, was held at Fisher's Cafe at 7 p.m., following which dinner was served.

Governor Chapman was accompanied by Mrs. Chapman. Governor and Mrs. Chapman were also present at the regular weekly Rotarian Luncheon in the basement of the First Methodist Church Thursday noon.

Rotary Clubs in 83 countries throughout the world are united in an endeavor to promote international understanding, good will and peace. That was the message of Governor Chapman in addressing the group Wednesday.

In addition to the activities of Rotary's 7,600 Clubs within their own communities to promote this objective, Judge Chapman explained, Rotary International has spent more than $1,000,000 in recent years through its program of student fellowships, which enable outstanding college graduates to study for one year in countries other than their own, as ambassadors of good will. Since this program was established in 1947, 394 Rotary Fellowships have been awarded to students in 48 countries. Two have been selected from this District, but only one, Jerry Briscoe of Anton

More Information On Health Program In Littlefield Schools

This is the conclusion of the report presented to the school board, September 22, by the School-Community Council. It presents specific recommendations and a special advisory letter is sent to the opening of school: Littlefield Public Schools to care for the physical and development of each child to help appreciate its importance and to hope that each parent to call on our service of any service.

At school, he is usually many childhood diseases each parent to consult physician as to sera, and another she, should have the starts to school, or her, a complete actions are needed,

please get them made, as soon as possible, before entering school. Maybe your child appears to be absolutely normal; but upon examination a serious defect might be found. Some defects will prevent both physical and mental growth in children.

In attempting to fulfill the aim, expressed in the foregoing letter, that of "helping each boy and girl enjoy good health and appreciate its importance," the council has made detailed recommendations to the school board.

Suggestions and recommendations made to improve the school health program first of all centered about dental and visual care. Visual screening should be done with the aid of either a Keystone or a Massachusetts instrument, by the school nurse. A Massachusetts machine costs about $150.

The doctor or dentist will screen the pupils for dental needs. The nurse will report recommendations to the parents. The screening should be done each year for all students. All students who participate in any athletic event must have a thorough physical examination by an M.D. A statement of the approval of the students participation must be given by the parents in writing to the superintendent.

In the grades, each teacher will measure and weigh each pupil every six weeks. A follow-up by the parents of all screening by the nurse is emphasized. Smallpox immunization is suggested for consideration by the governing body. The pending problems paramount at the present time which are relative to the needs of the pupils are: controlling of pediculosis, impetigo, and contagious childhood diseases. Pending community problems under study are disposal of trash, garbage disposal, elimination of other fly-breeding conditions, and cleanliness in general.

Detailed recommendations of the council cover four subjects: tuberculosis, smallpox immunization, visual care, and food handling.

Although the number of T.B. cases in this area is very small, it remains a dreaded and fatal disease. In cases where there is known to have been direct contact with T.B. cases, a skin test should be given by a doctor. If possible, Littlefield school children over 15 years of age should be x-rayed by the State Mobile X-Ray Unit.

Smallpox vaccination should be made compulsory for all children who have not been vaccinated that enroll in Littlefield schools beginning September, 1953. Parents are urged to vaccinate the pupils this term of 1952. It is a known fact that the incidence of smallpox has been greater in the United States where vaccination is not nationally compulsory, than in countries which require vaccination. In the United States the incidence is particularly high in those states which make little effort to vaccinate children against the disease.

Since this is an acute and highly communicable disease, with a high mortality rate and frequent complications, and since the risk of vaccination is negligible, it would therefore seem logical that compulsory vaccination would be desirable. Furthermore, since this disease is difficult to control and even more difficult to cure, once in the epidemic stages, it therefore appears that preventative measures would be most desirable. In West Texas, citizens should be concerned about smallpox because this disease is prevalent in our neighboring country, Mexico; consequently, we are more exposed to this disease than states in the interior. An epidemic, therefore, is more likely to occur.

The cost of immunization is small. A child can be successfully vaccinated by his own physician at a cost of $3. Those who cannot afford to pay this sum can be vaccinated free of charge by the school nurse. The school can obtain this vaccine free of charge through the County Health Officer from the Department of Health in Austin.

Each child should be screened for visual problems at the beginning of each year through the fifth grade, and each alternate year through the remainder of his school life. The Snellen Test Charts now being used are completely inadequate for this purpose, since these charts give only information of the child's vision for distant seeing, and tell nothing at all about the visual situation at the reading or working distance, where research and clinical experience have demonstrated that most visual difficulties originate.

The use of either the Massachusetts Screening Instrument or the Keystone Instrument is recommended for this purpose. The Massachusetts instrument might be preferable, for the reasons that it is a little less expensive to buy and the results are easier to interpret by a layman.

The school nurse, or a teacher, or some other person trained in the use of the instrument and working under the guidance of the local optometrist should do the screening with these instruments. Pupils screening should be classified as passing, doubtful, or failing. The follow-up on those classified as doubtful or failing is the most vital part of the entire program. This is the point at which most programs fail. The school nurse or other person made responsible for this particular program, should keep a separate file of those placed in the doubtful and in the failing categories; and they should be re-screened once or twice later in the school year, and at the beginning of the next school year.

Experience has demonstrated that it is much better that screening be done as indicated above, by the school nurse or by a teacher, or by someone in the school system, especially trained under the direction of the local vision specialist rather than by the specialist himself.

All food handlers in the school cafeteria should be given a thorough health examination by a competent physician with a detailed form for use by the examining physician, prepared by this council.

All the recommendations of the School-Community Health Council, which meets regularly every month, are under consideration at this time by the school board.

Senator Nixon's Report To The Nation

Senator Richard Nixon's dramatic fight for his political life over television and radio networks Tuesday night may be best appraised by the fact that the mission was fulfilled ably.

The young Republican nominee for vice president not only retained his temporarily precarious place on the GOP ticket but also, on the basis of the popular reaction to his broadcast, won himself many friends and influenced many voters on his own behalf. Irrespective of whether the Nixon appeal to the American people was emotional, the political effect is the same. And that—victory in November—is the transcendent concern in the campaign.

The caliber of the radio-TV appearance may be measured by the fact that it evoked warm sentiments among millions of families in American homes through the personal allusions to the family life of the Nixons. In those respects, Dick Nixon, as he is called by his associates, manifested some of the dramatic talent and appeal of successful political leaders in the past.

General Eisenhower, the GOP presidential candidate, applauded Senator Nixon's courage and fighting spirit—an apt analysis from the viewpoint that the young Californian had his reputation and political future at stake in his appearance Tuesday night before millions of voters. The general, as a peerless military leader, has had adequate experience in appraising character, and his verdict on his running mate logically bore weight with many Eisenhower followers.

Senator Nixon's full breast of his financial affairs throughout his life, the impartial audit of the $15,000 expense fund furnished by California friends and the legal opinion attending the audit were a rare demonstration of political candor. The GOP candidate logically suggested the same candor on the part of the opposition.

The senator no doubt sold millions on his sincerity and good faith in the fund transaction, although the question of political impropriety still may remain. He touched the chords of sympathy in many toward a young man who ethically may have erred a bit in the big game of politics. Certainly, his older admirers did not help Dick Nixon despite their good motives in providing the fund.

The full, convincing verdict on the Nixon speech, the senator's record to date and the fortunes of his party will not be written until November. But the reaction of seasoned observers at the moment is that the relatively youthful GOP candidate for the vice presidency made a superb appearance and appeal Tuesday night before the bar of public opinion which seems to have been well accepted. Even his opponents would extend him grudging admiration for the straightforward, frank and open manner in which he presented his case. —Star Telegram

LET'S TALK LIVESTOCK

By Ted Gouldy

FORT WORTH—Heavy runs of all kinds of livestock were reported over the nation Monday and prices were highly uneven. At Fort Worth cows lost 50 cents or more of last week's advances in the opening session. Bulls were steady to strong. Fed cattle ruled steady, but grassy steers and yearlings were weaker. High quality and light-weight stockers were around steady but the lesser qualified kinds eased. Choice fat calves were firm, and fat calves generally held steady. Very good demand for stocker cows was uncovered, some good young cows $22 to $23.50, several loads at the latter prices.

Hogs advanced 25 cents, topping at $20 and $20.25. Sows were steady at $15 to $17. Lambs were 50 cents or more lower. Ewes opened 25 to 50 cents higher and closed weak. Fresh shorn sheep and lambs were discounted $1 to $2 under those in the wool.

Good and choice slaughter steers and yearlings sold for $24 to $31.50, and common and medium sorts sold for $15 to $24, with cutter steers and yearlings from $12 to $15.

Fat cows sold for $14.50 to $18, and canners and cutters drew $10 to $14.50. Bulls sold from $12 to $20. Fat calves of good and choice kinds sold for $22 to $28.50, while common and medium kinds drew $15 to $20. Culls sold at $12 to $15.

Good and choice stocker calves moved out at $22 to $28 and common to medium sorts sold from $16 to $20. Stocker and feeder yearlings of good and choice kinds sold from $22 to $26, while plainer sorts sold from $15 to $20. Stocker heifers sold from $23.50 down. Stocker cows sold from $14 to $23.50.

Good and choice slaughter lambs sold from $22 to $25, medium and good kinds sold from $18 to $22, and cull lambs, yearlings and two's sold from $8 to $10. Slaughter ewes sold for $5.50 to $7.25, and stocker ewes sold at $8 to $9. Old wethers sold from $10 downward. Two-year-olds sold from $15 down. Old bucks sold at $6 to $7.

Stocker and feeder lambs sold from $12 to $18 and stocker yearlings cashed at $10 to $12.

FORT WORTH—Virtually all classes of cattle, calves, sheep and lambs are currently selling substantially below prices in effect the week before the Korean fighting broke out—a situation that makes livestock producers wonder what all the shouting about inflation on the farm and ranch is about.

And, here's a tip for radio comedians and cartoonists—don't make jokes about high priced meat! You'll lose your farm and ranch friends for life—because it ain't funny to them at today's livestock prices.

Korean fighting began June 25, 1950. Let's compare today's prices of livestock with the week preceding the outbreak of fighting:

Hogs have held their own. Monday they brought $20 and $20.25 at Fort Worth, same as on June 22, 1950.

But, cows sold from $13 to $22.50 before Korea, and today it's $9 to $18. Bulls then drew $16 to $22.50, and today sell at $12 to $20. Slaughter calves ranged from $15 to $30 before Korea, and today from $12 to $28.50. Slaughter steers and yearlings sold then at $16 to $31, and similar cattle today sell at $12 to $21.50.

Stocker calves were reported at $18 to $31 on June 22, 1950, and today similar kinds get $16 to $28. Stocker yearlings then brought $20 to $29, and today sell from $15 to $26. Stocker cows at $18 to $25 then, now bring $14 to $23.50.

Slaughter lambs at $16 to $27 then, currently sell at $8 to $24. Yearling wethers at $15 to $22 then, now bring $8 to $18. Slaughter ewes before Korea brought $9 to $11, and now $5.25 to $7.25. Feeder lambs at $15 to $23 then, now sell at $12 to $18. Feeder yearlings then drew $15 to $21, and now $10 to $14.

Just a year ago this week steers and yearlings sold at Fort Worth from $23 to $38, $8 to $10 above current prices. Cows a year ago this week cashed from $15 to $28, bulls from $28.50 down. Fat calves topped at $34.50 a year ago and this week and stocker calves at $40 and higher. Six dollars and $12, respectively, higher than today's levels at Fort Worth. Lambs topped at $31.50 a year ago, $7 to $8 above today. Ewes drew $10 to $15.50 a year ago, against $7.25 down today. Yearlings brought $27, against $18 and down this week. Feeder yearlings drew $25 and down, and now bringing $14 and less. Feeder lambs at $30 a year ago compare with $18 and down today.

Nope, jokes about high priced meat just ain't funny to the folks that produce livestock for a living!

Panhandle South Plains Fair Will Open at Lubbock Monday, Sept. 29

Spectacular aerial acts, blazing fireworks, a giant balloon parade, the area's first showing of national television shows and the finest exhibits are among the many free attractions at the Panhandle South Plains Fair which opens at Lubbock Monday, Sept. 29.

Lower admission prices together with the program of outstanding entertainment are expected to attract more than 150,000 persons before West Texas' most gala fair closes Saturday, Oct. 4.

For the first time South Plains residents can see Milton Berle, Jimmy Durante, the Show of Shows, plus many other leading national television shows. The special free TV displays in the Merchants Building will operate three times daily so all can view the wonders of television. In addition to the top-flight network programs, visitors can see themselves on the screen when the cameras are turned on the audience.

The giant balloon parade, featuring all of the favorites of Wonderland, will wind through Lubbock streets beginning at 2:30 p.m. opening day. The mile-long cavalcade will also include 195 clowns, numerous bands and the Lubbock County Sheriffs Posse.

Every afternoon and evening the midway will be jammed as the crowds thrill to the reckless performance of four free aerial acts high above the Fairgrounds.

The largest fireworks display ever held at the Fair is on tap each evening when the skies will be filled with a brilliant, multi-colored show of more than 850 shells.

Entries already received from all parts of West Texas and New Mexico indicate a record-breaking livestock exhibit. Most of the area's best cattle and swine will be shown.

Again this year the agriculture, farm machinery, rabbit show, Boy Scouts and women's exhibits will attract thousands to the many varied displays.

On the midway, the carnival rides, concessions and specialties will once more be presented by Bill Hames, an expert showman who has built his show into one of the nation's best.

Sudan Boy To Receive National FFA Degree

The highest degree given by Future Farmers of America, the American Farmer degree, will be conferred on Raymond Kamp of Sudan and 35 other Texas FFA boys at the national convention October 14 in Kansas City, Mo.

More boys were chosen from Texas for this honor than from any other state. Illinois was second with 17, and North Carolina and Tennessee each have 16 receiving the award.

The degree is limited to FFA members who have been out of high school at least one year and who are showing evidence of becoming successfully established in farming.

Each degree winner will receive a certificate, a gold key, and a $50 check from the Future Farmers Foundation of America.

Local Farmers To Attend Flying Farmer Breakfast

Airborne farmers in this area have been invited to a Flying Farmer Breakfast at Borger at seven o'clock Monday morning, sponsored by the four County Agricultural Workers Council.

M. W. Alford, operator of the local airport, J. M. Johnson of Round-up, and several others were late in receiving notice of the breakfast, but are making plans to attend.

After a short session at Borger, stated Herbert Hunt of Claude, Texas, all will take off for the Southwest Soil Management Demonstrations and Plowing Contests at Pan-Tech Farms in the southwest corner of Carson County.

A field for landing has been provided on the Pan-Tech Farms and transportation will be furnished to and from the flying field. Hunt, secretary of the Staked Plains Soil Conservation District, is anxious to see all of his Flying Farmer friends on this occasion.

J. P. Smith, manager of Pan-Tech Farms and chairman of the program committee, assures all persons of the great Southwest, interested in better agriculture, that October 1 will be a day long to be remembered. Hon. Clifford Hope, well known Congressman of Kansas and long time friend of agriculture, has been invited to address the group during the noon recess from the plowing contests. Bands and other entertainment will be on

Then As Now, the Typical Texan Fought For Political Independence

Texans' political independence is no surprise to historians, says Joseph Leach, professor at Texas Western College. In his new book "The Typical Texan" just published by the SMU Press.

As far back as the 1830's, when Three Legged Willie Williamson was appointed a district judge by Sam Houston, he let the community know how things were going to be, after some of the citizens had informed him that they wanted none of Houston's courts there. Williamson placed a rifle at one elbow and a pistol at the other and declared: "Hear ye, hear ye, court for the third district is either now in session or by God somebody's going to get killed."

Leach says, however, the popular conception of a Texan as someone belligerent, independent as a hog on ice, and given to loud and long boasting about his state came more from the East than from Texas. For instance, a New York magazine in 1882 said "the typical Texan is half-alligator, half-human, who eats raw buffalo and sleeps out on the prairie; he is peaceable only after he has killed everybody in sight and can find no fresh material to practice on."

According to Professor Leach, the politically recalcitrant Texans are direct descendants of the Kentuckian who saddled his horse, shouldered his gun and set out for Texas to "fight for his rights."

While "The Typical Texan," Professor Leach's new book, is in no sense a political work, it will no doubt be helpful in explaining Texans to unhappy members of both political parties.

COUNTY COTTON CROP READY; FIELD WORKERS IN DEMAND

With the county's farmers calling for an additional 1000 cotton field hands, cotton pulling and picking season opened in Lamb county last week, according to the local office of the Texas Employment Commission in Littlefield.

Although figures released by J. D. Jordan, manager of the local office, showed that his office had placed in excess of 420 agricultural workers by the first of this week. Lamb county's estimated 200,000 bale cotton crop was still waiting for badly needed workers.

The situation of T. Algaki, cotton farmer near Springlake, is typical of what is happening all over the county. Monday morning, Mr. Algaki reported that he had 13 bales out of his fields, but that he could have had 50 ready to gin if workers had been available.

The need for additional hand increases daily as more and more cotton reaches picking and pulling stages. To do an adequate job, an estimate of 1500 workers was needed in the week ending today, Jordan said.

At present there are more than 500 Mexican Nationals in the county, he reported, most of them hired by agricultural groups.

The general rate of pay is $1.75 for field work and $2.00 delivered to the gins.

An influx of agricultural workers from South Texas and other areas has begun into Lamb county and other Plains counties, due to the short season and drought conditions in other parts of the country.

discomfort engendered by new, pretty, chic shoes.

I would suggest that dress designers do some further study of the human anatomy and apply their knowledge in the convenient placement of plaquets. Too often, buttons and slide fasteners are located at points reachable only by a professional contortionist and requiring exertions completely contrary to the human structure—particularly when the fastener sticks.

Fasteners are like stockings: they seem to do their most stubborn sticking when their owner is in a hurry or isolated from aid.

There are other niggling irritants, too. There are all those eyebrow tweezers which fail to tweeze. There are the tight earrings that squeeze the wearer into a headache and the comfortable earrings which you lose one of. There are the non-washable gloves which must go to the cleaner who doesn't like to clean gloves. There are the bubble baths which don't bubble. There is never the right sized nail or screw in the tool chest for an emergency, there is never a washer of the correct size around when the sink faucet begins to drip. That funny noise in the car motor disappears the minute you face the garage mechanic. Tire treads only occur in Sunday night traffic or on lonely roads. Playroom For Junior

FOR A JUNIOR CASEY JONES—This bedroom-playroom provides space for model railroad system on top of storage chests

AP Newfeatures
A boy needs room to play, whether he lives in a city apartment or a country home, says Joseph Aronson, modern architect and furniture designer.

To illustrate his point Mr. Aronson, who built a series of playrooms for the American Toy Institute, has completed his latest two-purpose design, a bedroom-playroom for a young electric train enthusiast. His problem was to provide space for the train system without using all available floor space.

Stratospheric Honeymooners

AP Newfeatures
PORPHYRY PEAK LOOKOUT, Mont.—Two Montana honeymooners are up in the clouds—8,295 feet up to be exact.

Don Peterson, 23, and his 19-year-old bride, Adair, are honeymooning in a one-room glass house on top of 8,295-foot Porphyry Peak. The house is perched atop a 40-foot tower.

Don and Adair are fire lookouts for the U.S. Forest Service.

"Living in a 14-foot square room isn't bad when you get used to it," Don says. "During winds, the house sways and jerks but you get so you like it." And though the house is glass all the way around, "not many people are tall enough to see through the windows."

The Petersons are Washington State College students. They were married in Seattle last June.

Adair is learning to cook with the help of a book designed for lookouts who bake biscuits in the clouds. The altitude makes her rely on sourdough.

"She does pretty good with it, too," Don says between biscuits. Adair thinks she's lucky because Don "will eat almost anything. But it's hard to fill him up in this altitude."

So far the Petersons haven't spotted any fires. Lightning storms keep them jumping, though. They recently checked 90 lightning strikes in three days.

"We don't stay up late because Don gets up about 5:30," Adair says. He claims he gets her out of bed between 5:45 and 6:30, despite the cold mountain air.

The designer solved the problem by mounting the tracks on stilts attached to storage chests which serve as bed headboards. A suspension bridge device is employed to permit adult entrance to the room.

Mr. Aronson uses simple built-in furniture for the room, employs resilient rubber flooring to deaden noise and permit easy cleaning. The Burgessses say he will even help give the children tongue baths. But there are no pictures to show that happening. The Siamese cat fanciers even have special names for their pets. the table in time to see something still left in the sweet potato soufflé dish or the candied yam dish. Oh, I had heard tales and rumors of those rare 'tater delicacies, but seem' is believin' to a pig-tailed kid, and they never appeared at the third or fourth tables where I used to eat.

Grandmother, I know you wanted me to be a lady, and, believe me, I have tried! But I'm glad you weren't here to see me the other day. I'm afraid that you would have been shocked beyond recovery even at the leisurely pace of plantation life. I didn't go out looking for such a situation; "It was all in the line of duty," as they say.

Ladder To My Aid
We had a big fire in a nearby town last Monday, and it so happened that there was no one in our office at the moment who could get a picture of it but ME. So my unofficial initiation into the press photographers association was literally a baptism by fire! With a ladder thrown in on the obstacle course!

Arriving on the scene, dressed as you would have approved in high heels and full skirted gabardine frock, I was informed that there was no way to get the picture I wanted unless I took it from the top of a building across the street. The catch was that there was no way to get on top of said building, except by climbing a ladder propped against the side of the building.

It was much sooner SAID than DONE, but I finally made it! Half way up the ladder with my heels dangling over the rung, skirts billowing in the EVER PRESENT TEXAS BREEZE (and I use the term loosely because it means anything from what will ruffle petals on a sunflower to that which pops links off wind indicator chains!) and camera hanging like dead weight from my shoulder—I say, amid this scene of utter destruction to the Southern belle you'd hoped I'd always be. I thought of you—and almost fell off the ladder!

Camera Shaking In My Hand
When I got to the top to take the picture, the camera in my hand was shaking so that I could hardly focus it for the shot, which was how the ladder entered the story in the first place. Everyone watching thought I was scared and shaky from climbing straight up like that, but the truth is that I was thinking what would have happened if you had seen me!

You'd probably have worn out more than one peach tree switch when you got me down from there. And the number of times I'd have been set to embroidering "ladies don't climb ladders" in cross stitching would make the national debt figures look like simple units!

The other day in conversation, some one questioned my being a true Southerner since I don't have a double name. All girls from the DEEP SOUTH, that he had ever met, he claimed, had double names. And he reeled off some examples:

Judging Team—

that the local boys will be proving their skill.

"Pete" Peterman, local cattle exhibitor, has a milking shorthorn in the Texas herd that will be showing at the International dairy show. The expenses of the team are being met by several groups in the city. The school donated $100.

Patsy Lee, Bobbie Faye, Margaret Ann, and Winifred Kay.

I told him that I supposed it was true that Southern girls had a larger percentage of double names used every day than anywhere else in the country. Now that he had brought up the topic I remembered a grade school teacher of mine, fresh from New Jersey, who used to complain about all the double-named Southern kids every time she called the roll. A waste of time she called it. Imagine! I'll admit if your best friend's name was Molly Robenia or Valinda Lee—yes, they called them that all the time—you might be wasting a few seconds every so often, but there's a reason.

Mary Elizabeth Most Popular
Take Mary Elizabeth, which is the most common Southern double name and a full grown variation of the Betty, which is so popular in the Northeast. It draws better, giving the speaker a good chance for "lingering a while" if such is his inclination. Think how much longer it takes to say "Good evenin', Mary Elizabeth," than, "Hello, Betty." And who would ever think of saying anything as dignified as "Good evenin'" to anyone with a bobbed off name like Betty!

Of course, when combined with Sue, Jean, or Lou, Betty takes on a more Southern charm. Currently one of the most famous and unusual Southern names out here is the one Miss Texas answers to—Connie Wray. It takes time to say that one, but what guy would mind "wasting" his time in that manner!

So great-grandmother wasn't so dumb when she wanted mother to name me AMANDA VICTORIA. Who could say that combination in a hurry and get away! I thank my lucky magnolia blossoms that Mother didn't yield 'cause some impertinent descendent of a carpet bagger might have got tired of saying Amanda Victoria and tagged me, "Mandy."

Heavens! I'm glad I'm just simply—
Your granddaughter,

given a warm UN welcome.

Famed Cowboy Present
Bob Steele, famed cowboy of silent picture days, came unexpectedly to participate in the festivities.

A Hawaiian lad who is a virtuoso on a ukulele is among the Cimarron Valley boys from Reese AFB who entertained the public from the square Saturday afternoon.

Between the fiddler's contest at 5 p.m., scout and cub troops from the Sudan area presented an Indian dance. Special entry in the Quartet singing at the park at 6 p.m. Friday was the Barber shop Quartet from Clovis, N.M.

Art Exhibits

Open all day for inspection during the two day festival were needle work and art exhibits from all over the county in the Mileur building on North Main street. Judging took place Friday afternoon. Mrs. Simon D. Hay was chairman of the committee.

Flower show entries were displayed in the offices of the Southwestern Public Service company on South Main.

Parade Featured

The big parade, always a feature of the Fall Festival, started at 11 a.m. from meeting grounds at the school. Floats, bands, and riding groups from all over Lamb and adjoining counties participated. Bands from Olton, Muleshoe, Springlake, and Sudan marched in the parade.

The Fall Festival boosters visited Littlefield at 3:30 p.m. Friday.

With a stock of Allis-Chalmers Farm Machinery and Equipment available, and ready to service the farmers of this area using Allis-Chalmers farm equipment.

Only the ALL-CROP Harvester has air blast separation. Between cylinder and strawrack, shelled grain and straw are whirled upward in a high arcing blast of air. Kernels are thrown free from the lighter straw and chaff, separating much of the material even before it reaches the big ten-foot strawrack.

This extra separating action saves more grain, beans and seeds—puts more in the bin and more in your pocket. It's another reason why a New ALL-CROP Harvester belongs first on your list for '52.
