Feeders Course Held At Amherst Aug. 12-13

The first feeders short course in Lamb county is to be held in Amherst August 12 and 13, for the purpose of acquainting those farmers who are figuring on feeding out some beef cattle this fall with feeding practices, results of experiments that have been conducted at experiment stations, and the giving of proper rations of feeds that people may have in their communities.

Several noted men are to be here. A. L. Ward, director of the Cotton Seed Crushers association; A. L. Smith, animal husbandman, Extension service; Frank Holland, president of the Feeder-Breeder association, and many others who will have information to give at that time.

On the afternoon of the 13th, those farmers who are going to feed, out should be making final arrangements with their bankers as to the number of calves they shall need, in order that they might be prepared to get the number needed for the entire county, says County Agent D. A. Adam. Every farmer interested in marketing feed through livestock should see their banker or their county agent soon.

The wedding of Norman Renfro, this city, and Miss Pauline Tyler, of Farmersville, was solemnized Tuesday at that place.

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH

An Editorial

We have come a long way since the nation celebrated its first birthday, and we've learned a lot of things. We have discovered that it is not wise to make war, but the part of wisdom to be prepared for it. We have found that nations, like individuals, are sure of trouble if they hunt for it, but apt to escape it by being ready to meet it if it comes.

All of which is worth something to us as we come again to celebrate the birth of our country—its 154th birthday. This Glorious Fourth sees us farther from war than we have been at any time in history and with a greater hatred for war and the things that make war than we have ever had. The Fourth of July has come to mean more to us, since today it finds us meaning more among the nations of the world. Today they look to us for both precept and example. They honor us for our desire to maintain peace, and they are glad to join with us in seeking ways to make the happiness and prosperity and contentment of the whole world secure.

Fireworks and noise-making on the Fourth doesn't mean that we glory in warfare, or that we are boasting of our strength. It is just our way of celebrating an event that has had a lot to do with making the world both better and peaceful. We're happy because we are at peace with the world, and we want the world to know it. There's no chip on our shoulder; no hatred in our hearts; no ill-will toward other nations. We've grown from nothing to the world's greatest republic in 154 years—and what nation wouldn't be happy to celebrate such an achievement? The Fourth of July offers us an opportunity to unbridle our happiness, which is just another name for patriotism, and to work off a lot of excess enthusiasm. And this year, the same as for 154 years, we're doing it in the hope that some day the whole world will have occasion to rejoice with us over the fact that a nation can be peace-loving and patriotic at the same time.

LAMB COUNTY BANKERS ARE TO ADANCE $250,000 TO FARMERS FOR CATTLE FEEDING

Falling in line with a general movement throughout the state, the West Texas Bankers association in conjunction with the farm agents of the various counties of this section of the state have organized a plan for financing farmers who desire to handle feeder stock during the coming winter months.

A financing pool amounting in round numbers to $250,000 had been arranged in Lamb county and sponsored by the First National Bank and the First State Bank, of Littlefield; First National Bank, Sudan; First National Bank, Amherst; and the Olton State Bank, Olton.

The plan is to furnish farmers of the county who have an abundance of feed with yearling calves to be fed by them during the winter and sold on the spring markets, each bank handling the desires of their local customers in units of 10 animals or more. It is expected this fund will handle about 6,000 baby heaves in Lamb county this fall, beginning about December 1.

Past records kept by County Agent

Adam indicates that marketing feed on the hoof is much more profitable than selling it by the bushel, bale or ton, in some instances the favorable increase running as high as $20 to $30 dollars per ton.

Amherst, neighboring city to Littlefield, is planning on a big crowd next Monday, July 7th, when they have their regular monthly trades day event.

A feature of the occasion will be a public speaking to begin at four o'clock in the afternoon.

Promises have been received from Clint Small and Earl Mayfield, candidates for governor, to be there, and three or four state candidates are also expected.

A CITY WITHOUT A COP IS LFD.

Littlefield has the distinction of being a city without a cop, no police officer having been employed here for the past month. In fact, the only officer on duty now is a night watchman, which the state requires that present fire insurance rates may be maintained.

While this city does not boast of being a "Sunday School" town in the strict sense of the term, yet the police blotter a the City hall has been a complete blank for several weeks past—so why have a cop!

ETHERIDGE-BARNES

Miss Vera Etheridge and Raymond Barnes surprised their many friends by going to Clovis, N. M., Wednesday of last week, where they were united in marriage.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Etheridge, who reside four miles west of Littlefield, she is a young lady of pleasing personality and has many friends in Littlefield and in the community in which she has previously lived.

The groom is the son of Mrs. G. C. Barnes, who resides near Amherst. He is well and favorably known in both Littlefield and Amherst.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnes are both formerly of Fredrick, Oklahoma, and the wedding was the culmination of a courtship which began when they were both in high school at that place.

They are temporarily located at the home of his mother, near Amherst.

LAMB COUNTY LEADS PLAINS SECTION IN SWEET CLOVER

"There is scarcely a day passes now," said County Agent D. A. Adam, "but I place an order for sweet clover seed for some farmer, and today there are more than 100 farmers in Lamb county who have planted this crop.

One farmer in this county who had given it a previous satisfactory trial has ordered 1,200 pounds.

Adam insists sweet clover is far superior for pasturage to any of the native grasses of this section, all animals taking to it quite readily as forage. Of special value is it to milk cows.

PAYNE SELLS RESTAURANT

A deal was closed this week between Miss Audrey Pruitt and Veach Payne, wherein she purchased the fixtures of Veach's lunch room on the east side of South Main street.

Fixtures have been redecorated in lettuce green with corresponding curtains in keeping with the new firm name, the Green Hut lunch room.

This was the first time the ex-veterans of this division had met in a body since their discharge in March 1919.

Mr. Jones remarked that the past years had brought numerous changes to the men, many of whom were remembered as his buddies, who held various positions and responsibilities.

Fattening Turkeys for Thanksgiving Market

Not many weeks remain till the holiday season when fat turkeys will be in demand. Those who are to supply the trade with Thanksgiving and Christmas turkeys should begin to fatten the birds.

The time will come when city consumers will be more rigid about the birds they buy for the Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons. They will want to know how the birds were kept, where they were raised and the feeds they had access to. And this is just, for much depends upon the food the birds have eaten.

The young turkeys should have the range as long as it is safe. It is true there is always more or less danger of losing birds from the various causes, but the birds need exercise, insects they may be able to find, and this will mean economy in raising them.

Nothing will take the place of grain in fattening. The birds will need corn, wheat, oats, kafir, milo or some grain for finishing them off the range. Where there are grain fields for the birds they may stay in the fields till marketing time. But if this is not feasible they had best be penned and fed for a while before they are offered for sale.

Ducks Oil Feathers to Aid in Shedding Water

Ducks and other waterfowl are able to shed water because their feathers are kept in an oiled condition. says The Pathfinder. Oil and water will not mix. If you will observe ducks in a rain storm or as they paddle about in a pond you will notice that they frequently bend their heads back and rub oil from the oil gland at the base of the tail onto their heads. Then from their heads they oil their entire body. In addition to being supplied with this oil, the feathers on a duck are exceedingly close together, a condition which aids considerably in keeping out the water.

EARTH MAY BE "JAKED" WOBBLE OF POLES RESPONSIBLE FOR ABNORMAL WEATHER

Citizens around Littlefield and all over the United States have been wondering what is the matter with the weather this spring. Some have suggested it may be "jaked" or afflicted with "beer head," but it is anything from being paralyzed.

Not for many years past has there been such an abnormal condition known in the Western hemisphere as has existed during the spring months, according to Government weather bureau reports. Storms throughout the country generally have been more numerous, cyclones in the Mississippi valley have been more frequent and wind storms more common and terrific in the western areas. Earthquakes, too, have had more frequent report, the most of the tremors have not been of a serious nature.

Now comes Chase S. Osborne, scientific writer, traveler and former governor of Michigan who says that all these undesirable conditions are due to a wobbling motion of the earth such tipping action being caused by the magnetic pull of some apparently unknown the suspected planet a few million miles out in the universe.

Osborne cites the known astronomical fact that about 2500 B. C. the pole star was Thuban and that a few thousands years hence it will be the star Vega, due to the wobble of the poles.

"The march through the heavens is swift at times and slow enough and quite dignified at others," he said. "The sun pulls one way, the moon another and the planets another. The earth could have one velocity at one time and a greater or lesser at another, which would make it fall when it is revolving slower and regain its poise when going faster. All this would make for a tipping that would carry the poles far toward the equator and back, as has been done."

Flattened at the poles and bulging at the equator, he said the tipping earth's crust must heave and readjust as it slips into new angles as the swelling moves about with the tipping. Thence, he asserted, come earthquakes. The flexibility of this crust he illustrated in the new seismographs picking up earthquake waves that travel thousands of miles through "solid land."

The Great Lakes area, he said, is now tipping southward, its northern area rising and the southern dipping at about four-tenths of a foot a century, sufficient if continued to cause Lake Michigan to discharge into the Mississippi Valley and Niagara Falls to run dry in a few hundred years. As authorities he named Dr. David E. White, Dr. Carl Grove Gilbert, John R. Freeman and Rev. Father Odenbach.

All of this is very interesting to the Littlefield citizen who is inclined to be universally minded; but most folks in this section have their ideas considerably localized and, while they are more or less solicitous regarding the peculiar pranks of the weather this spring, just so it will finally turn out the year with plenty of rain, no more hail, lots of sunshine in season to bring forth abundant crops, everybody will be happy.

Let the earth wobble all it wants to, just so it don't tip entirely over, and gravitation turn loose letting its denizens spill off its surface, for some of them don't know exactly yet where they would be going to.

Buy it in Littlefield.

Results are what count, and Konjola can be counted on for results. Sufferers want relief, not promises. Konjola has made a matchless record simply because it does the things it is designed to do. Take, as a typical example of Konjola at work, the case of Harmon Glaze, 12, whose mother, Mrs. Annie Glaze, Route 4, Lonoke, near Little Rock, Ark., says:

"My boy, Harmon, 12, had typhoid about five years ago, and his health since then was not good. He frequently had fever and had attacks of nausea. He had no desire to play and his appetite was poor. Nothing I gave him seemed to do any good. Konjola had helped me so much that I decided to give it to Harmon. Today, he is like a different person. He eats, sleeps, and plays like other children and is no longer subject to fevers. I am still giving him Konjola for it has done so much for both of us."

So it goes: victory after victory wherever Konjola is given the chance to prove its merits. You can put your faith in Konjola feeling that you will be rewarded abundantly.

Konjola is sold in Littlefield, Texas at the Eagle drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section. Adv.

JUST WHO ARE THE "RUBES"

It is about time the city people and the city newspapers quit referring to the American farmer as a "Rube" and caricaturing him as a low-brow European peasant, only slightly Americanized by a set of chin-whiskers in a Uncle Sam.

The trouble with city folk, especially in New York and elsewhere in the East, is that they get their impressions of the farmer, as of everything else, from European sources. Because the mass of people tilling the soil in Europe are uneducated, unintelligent peasants, tenants for the most part and tied to the soil as no American has ever been so tied, the city-bred, Europe-conscious people who have never penetrated any farther into America than the shores of the Atlantic Ocean think American farmers must be the same type.

Nothing could be farther from the truth. No individual or class of our people has been more prompt to apply new methods of science, new inventions, new ways of doing things, than the American farmer. The implication when he is referred to as a "Rube" is that he is a stupid, unprogressive person, content to do everything as his father and grandfather did it before him. As a matter of fact, practically nothing is done on American farms today the way it was done a generation ago.

One of the things that has brought about the change has been the development of the numerous Colleges of Agriculture. Nothing like them is known in any part of the world. Old-time farmers used to sneer at the idea that college could do a farmer any good; but the progressive farmers of today are practically all college graduates, and the leadership in every movement for the betterment of farm conditions comes from these schools.

Our National and State departments of Agriculture have enlisted in their service—the service of the American farmer—more men of high scientific attainment, engaged in vital research into the manifold problems which the farmer must solve if he is to succeed, than are engaged in any other field of scientific inquiry. Our agricultural experiment stations have taught the "man" with the hoe" not only new and better ways of doing things but the reason why they are better ways.

Instead of the inefficient, dull peasant, the type which stands for "farmer" in the city folk's minds, the American farmer has been too progressive, too efficient, if such a thing were possible. By improved and scientific methods he has increased production more rapidly than the demand has grown for his products.

The ultimate result of that will be, of course, that a smaller number of farmers will supply the Nation's needs and the ones who will remain and prosper on the farms will be the ones best fitted by education and intelligence to do the job. And they will be even less like "Rubes" than the farmers of today.

Littlefield Banks Adequately Accomodate Citizens Served by the Postal Savings Bank In Other Cities; Confidence is the Basis

Whether a postal savings bank is a thing for a community is a question. Enquiry at the local office reveals the fact that Littlefield never did have one, does not one and may not have one for some time to come. The nearest of the Sam's bank departments is located at the post office.

From a conservative standpoint the postal savings bank only pays two per cent on customers deposits, while a banker is willing to pay three and one-half per cent, and as much as four and five per cent on time deposits.

Occasionally, in times of depressed conditions some folks get the idea that the Post Office depository is more safe than some of the local banks, but which has never been the consideration in Littlefield. Banks here are substantial, well ordered, conducted in a sane manner on sound basis, and pay good dividends to their stockholders, and a bank must first get below the dividend margin before it is in any serious danger of defalcation.

As a matter of fact, the postal savings system is not in competition with banks in any way at all, because the money deposited by citizens in the post office goes into the banks any way at an increased interest rate of one-half per cent. Some bankers prefer this system to direct dealing with individuals in a separate manner, because if the money was deposited with the bank directly it would have to pay between three and four per cent interest and have a bunch of small accounts to handle, whereas, if the banks get the money from the post office it costs them only two and one-half per cent interest and only one account to handle. This is a saving to the banks in both money and time.

Bankers are consequently glad to get this money, although they have to put up bonds to cover and must be members of the Federal Reserve System. The amount of postal savings deposits in any community is proportioned among local banks in accordance with their amount of capital and surplus.

Since the establishment of postal savings the limit on individual deposits has been raised by jumps from $500 to $2,500. Postmaster General Brown wants the limit raised to $5,000, but the system being operated in the interim would be dormant and that the banks bring to life money which other-dollar has changed, that postal savings, $5,000, arguing that the value of the deposits of the banks as well as the timidity.

So today there is more money deposited in the Postal Savings System than at any previous time in its history. At the end of May it had on deposit 170,474,505, a large increase over the amount at the end of the 1929 fiscal year—$152,143,349.

In 1929, the biggest previous year since the system opened in 1911, deposits totaled only $157,000,000.

Average Deposit $370
Nearly 460,000 persons are now saving postal savings, it is estimated, and the average principal per depositor is about $370.

The year the United States declared war, 1917, was the year in which the largest number of timid persons rushed to trust their small savings to Uncle Sam. There were 675,000 depositors then.

Heaviest deposits are made in large cities by depositors either foreign born or of recent foreign extraction. New York City leads in total postal savings deposits, with Brooklyn Boston and Chicago next in the order named.

At first a majority of postal savings depositors were foreign born but with time laws the time has come when nearly two-thirds are native born.

The depositors are mostly persons unfamiliar with modern banking or those who have been stung by or frightened by the failure of commercial banks. Often they are folks who, for one reason or another, wouldn't use any other bank—unless an old sock or a tomato can may be called a bank.

Tech. Cotton Grading Course Open July 14 Blocker In Charge

Texas Technological College's summer short course in cotton grading and stapling, to continue for a period of four weeks, will open for registration on Monday, July 14, according to announcement by college officials late yesterday.

There are no special entrance requirements and the course is open to anyone who feels he can profit by taking the work offered. The aim of the school is to make the work of special value to those who grow, handle or deal in cotton.

Daily Instruction
All classes are to be conducted in the Textile Engineering building which is completely equipped to carry on work of this character. Practical instruction will be given daily, to be accompanied by lectures on the various phases of the cotton business as the class progresses. Instruction will include grading, stapling, buying, and all of the cotton business. Greater part of the work will probably be on grading and stapling as officials feel that these subjects will be of great importance to all who are to handle cotton in the future. This applies to both the grower and the cotton merchant.

The summer school will be under direction of the department of textile engineering and the instructor will be H. E. Blocker, of the Blocker Cotton company, who has conducted the session in the past. Classes will be held both in the morning and afternoon. Tuition for the entire course will be $25.

Let Texas folks live for Texas!

POULTRY

SEPARATE SEXES WHILE YET YOUNG

When the cockerels in a poultry flock reach a live weight of from one and one-fourth to two pounds each they should be separated from the pullets and put on a different range or in another inclosure. This will aid in the growth of both the pullets and cockerels, according to the poultry men at the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca. They explain that the pullets will be less crowded and will thus have a better chance to eat and grow.

The cockerels fight less and grow faster when they, too, have less competition in their range area and roosting quarters. They should have a shelter house, preferably among trees, to insure shade and open air roosting places. To raise vigorous males for breeding purposes the cockerels should be grouped together by size and vigor; all should have large range areas, with feed hoppers and water troughs in at least three separate parts of the range so that there will be less chance for intimidation and consequent undernourishment for the smaller birds.

In choosing cockerels for breeding or for market, begin the selective process as soon as the birds begin to show marked sexual characteristics. The time may vary according to breed and feed, but for leghorns they may be selected first at from six to eight weeks of age, and from ten to twelve weeks in the heavier varieties. The earlier the market cockerels can be separated from the rest for crate fattening, the better, because the price by weight for broilers decreases with the season faster than the birds can put on weight.

Broilers Bring Profits

Now Only When in Prime

New Jersey poultrymen having surplus cockerels to dispose of as broilers are finding that there is little or no profit in them unless they are in prime condition.

Because farmers in all parts of the country are getting rid of their excess young male birds during May, June, July and August, the market offers only moderate prices. Birds in poor or only fair condition are sold at a loss.

"Observation has shown," says C. S. Platt, assistant poultry husbandman at the New Jersey experiment station, "that the poultrymen who have their broilers always in prime condition and ready to sell at a moment's notice, make the greatest profits through their ability to take advantage of favorable turns in the market. These men start with young chicks and by proper feeding and management endeavor to get rapid, uniform growth. No flushing is necessary. From the time the birds are first large enough to sell as broilers, until they are finally sold, they are in prime condition."

To cause this favorable growth poultrymen keep the birds confined and feed them a special ration.

Laying Mash Suggested

by New York State

It is a pretty complicated thing and the hen that makes it needs a lot of material of different kinds, especially if she is going to do herself proud and make you a profit by a big year's output.

The ingredients commonly used in egg-laying mashes, says the New York agricultural experiment station, are wheat bran, wheat middlings, linseed oil meal, corn gluten feed, corn meal, ground oats, alfalfa meal, meat scrap, fish meal and dried buttermilk feed.

Of course you don't use all of these materials at the same time, but you need several. The Cornell mash, for instance, which has become so standardized that dealers are putting it on the market already mixed, consists of "equal parts by weight of wheat bran, wheat middlings, corn meal, ground oats and meat scraps."

The above mixture makes a pretty good growing mash, too, except that rolled oats or oatmeal may be used in place of the ground oats. Bone meal or lime is also usually added.

Size of House

Most authorities recommend a poultry house 16 to 20 feet wide facing the south with single slope shed roof or one 20 to 25 feet wide with low double roof. Half-monitor poultry houses are not very popular because of the large amount of waste space at top. From three to five square feet of floor space per fowl is recommended, depending on type, with four square feet as a good working rule. For a house 16 feet wide, this would mean four fowls per foot length.

Poultry House Floors

Poultry authorities differ as to best floor for poultry houses. Important things are freedom from dampness, cold, drafts and dust. Double wood floors with heavy paper between are much used and very good, except that they are short-lived and do not keep out rats. Dirt, gravel or sand-clay floors are dusty and harbor rats and are hard to keep clean. Cement floors are satisfactory when properly made. Foundation walls should extend 12 to 18 inches into the ground.

Constable J. O. Connell raided a home in the north part of town last Tuesday, obtaining several bottles of home brew and confiscating a quantity of empty bottles.

At the same time a man giving the name of Brandberg was arrested, charged with "making and selling intoxicating liquor," according to Connell, and released on bond.

PRESIDING ELDER HONORED

OIL WELL CASING PULLED

Drilling on the Westbrook-Slaughter Well, No. 1., has come to a definite finish, for on Saturday of last week found the casing all pulled and the well plugged. This well was drilled to a depth of 5,552 feet without any encouraging showings. Both the rotary and the standard drilling machinery have been carefully piled near the well, and it is the presumption that within the next 60 to 90 days new locations will be made. With the bringing in of the well on the Morton farm about half way between the town of Morton and the

A number of Littlefield went to the meeting, where they presented their candidacy before a meeting held on the city square. Due to the fact there was a misunderstanding as to the meeting, several candidates from the county were absent.

THE NEW TEXACO MOTOR OIL

LONGER-LASTING, "CRACK-PROOF"

THE Texas Company again demonstrates its leadership in the petroleum field with the introduction of a vastly superior, new product—a motor oil that lasts longer—that is crack-proof—a motor oil that meets exactly every requirement of the high speed automobile engine of today! This new oil revolutionizes lubrication values as completely as the new and better Texaco Gasoline, the original "dry" gas, revolutionized motor fuels in the Spring of 1926.

An Oil Without Precedent

There have been oils that gave remarkable mileage. There have been oils that flowed freely at zero. There have been oils that kept your engine completely free of wax and carbon troubles. But—never until now have all these advantages been combined in any one single lubricant. That motor oil is ready for you today. It is the new Texaco—longer-lasting and crack-proof. Road tests—laboratory tests have proved it.

Available in all our 48 States

Fill your crankcase with this new crack-proof motor oil today. It will more than pay you, not only in greater value for your lubrication dollar but for your car dollar as well. It is manufactured in five grades: C, D, E, F, and G, corresponding in body to Society of Automotive Engineers (S. A. E.) viscosity ratings. 30¢ a quart everywhere (35¢ for grade G).

SWAT THE FLIES

There were 80,000 cases of typhoid fever last year—the greatest number for one year in the history of the United States, and if Littlefield is not careful this town will contribute its large share to the number of similar cases this year.

The condition of flies in this town is already becoming appalling. Not only in the homes but the down town section is swarming with them, and young ones are being hatched out by the millions. All of this is a tribute to the unsanitary conditions of the city.

There are restaurants, meat markets and grocery stores here where the rear of these places of business is a disgrace to civilization, and their back doors are literally black with these pestiferous insects. There are numerous homes where conditions are just as bad.

There are surface toilets being operated in violation of city laws, and should be padlocked.

If the city Health and Sanitary Inspector ever needed to be on the job it is now. Before many weeks Littlefield will be paying her toll of carelessness with sickness and loss of human lives.

That hen in maine that laid 303 eggs in a year must believe that a cackle a day keeps the hatchet away.

WATCH THE WATER

We read in a press dispatch from Akron, O., that seven members of one family are near death there as the result of drinking from a contaminated spring while they were motoring. It simply bears out a warning we have previously issued to Littlefield motorists.

It is never safe to drink from a spring or well without first being sure of the quality of the water it is giving forth. Unless it has been marked "Safe For Drinking Purposes," as some states are now doing, it is always best to go thirsty until you can find someone who actually knows whether or not it is pure. Looks do not mean anything. With the season of typhoid and kindred diseases upon us, it is unwise to take even the slightest chance of contracting what may prove a fatal illness. Carry your own water jug, for filling with pure water as you go along, or make sure of what you are drinking if you must depend on springs and wells.
Don't take it for granted that the water is pure simply because it looks good.

A chemist says the average human heart contains copper, silver and aluminum. But he forgot to add that many are 75 percent marble.

OUR CHANGING TIMES

Straws still show which way the wind blows, and changing business conditions still serve to show how times have changed since our fathers were boys. We see where the J. B.
Sickle Co., of St. Louis, the oldest saddle and harness makers in the United States, have gone out of business.
Since away back in 1854 this concern was widely known throughout 15 western states. When St. Louis was the frontier of the west and all wagon trains started from there, this was the city's best known business concern. But with the advent in recent years of the tractor and truck and passenger auto the harness maker found it harder and harder to keep going. Many of them turned to upholstery. In towns like Littlefield ready-made harness and saddlery came to be a part of general merchandising, and the harness maker found a new competition undreamed of 25 or 30 years ago.

There will always be a demand for harness and saddles, of course. But the harness shop, like the blacksmith shop, has seen its day and as a business both of them have just about passed into history.

Gasoline costs 80c a gallon in Africa. We bet the sheiks there never take a dusky belle riding unless they mean to propose.

LITTLE LEADERS

Another good way to tell Littlefield mothers and daughters apart is by looking at their hands. Mother's are slightly red from dabbling in dish-water.

Now that the average Littlefield man has gotten around to wearing a straw hat his wife is looking at the early autumn styles.

You can say this for the modern Littlefield girl—she dearly loves the spinning wheel. That is, if it happens to be on an auto.

What has become of the old-fashioned Littlefield girl who used to say:
"Mother, do I look all right?" before going to a party?

Why is it that when some Littlefield women go into a store to do a little shopping hey go at it as though they were taking an inventory of the stock?

The Littlefield man who wants to get a word in now and then after he is married ought to try marrying a woman who stutters.

Now they're advertising a book called "What All Women Want."
How did they get all that in one book?

PAVEMENT PICKUPS

O. H. Brown says his idea of a lifetime job is membership on the committee just appointed in Chicago to check crime.

F. O. Boles declares that his idea of a convincing talker is one who can show a schoolboy just wherein arithmetic is going to help him later on in life.

The Leader is this week authorized to announce Charley Harless as a candidate for public office, and instructed to emphasize the fact that he is not coming out because of the "solicitations of his numerous friends." Charley declares he has plenty of friends alright and he don't have to solicit them to solicit him. Just what office Charley has in mind he says he don't know yet; that will probably depend on which office he can get the most votes for.

"A conductor," says Clay Pumphrey, "is the one man who fears no one. He tells them all where to get off."

"What I'd like to find out," says
C. O. Robbins, "is where the people who live beyond their incomes get the monye to do it with."

"Izzy," of the Grand drug store was complimenting himself the other day on the fact that he could listen to Joe Grizzle's preaching over the radio with the privilege of shutting the thing off when it came time to take the collection. But Izzy tipped his hand last Saturday when he exposed his plan to the minister who smiled blandly, and sent one of his deacons around Monday morning to collect past dues from Izzy. Now its a question whether Isabel is cussing the radio or his own mouth for shooting off too fast.

A WELL ORDERED VACATION IS A GOOD TYPE HEALTH INSURANCE FOR THRIFTY PEOPLE

By S. W. STRAUS, President
American Society for Thrift
A well-ordered vacation is by no means a waste of time. It is a good example of thrift. For it is just as thrifty to conserve one's health and energies as it is to save and conserve one's material resources.
These thoughts are appropriate at this time as the summer vacation period is now at hand. There is a very close connection between the vacation problem and the health problem because in the final analysis a vacation has come to be considered a necessity in these days of strenuous activity.
Recently there was completed a remarkable survey of health conditions in the City of New York. The health facts discovered there may, with more or less accuracy, be recorded as typical of the entire country and are, therefore, of general public value. Here are some of the facts regarding health conditions in the nation's largest city: From 125,000 to 200,000 persons are continually sick in bed and from 250,000 to 800,000 more are constantly ill; of the 70,000 deaths per year, a very large percentage are from sickness that might have been prevented or postponed; the total annual outlay for the care of disease is $150,000,000! the annual loss in wages due to illness is $75,000,000; amount spent annually in the prevention of ill-health, $8,500,000.
We hear much about losses incurred by the public through fraudulent or unsound investments. Needless and preventable losses of time and money through ill-health constitute an

Middle Life Suffering

"Three years ago, I was in bad health," says Mrs. J. B. Bean, of Kirbyville, Texas. "I was going through a critical time, and I suffered a lot. My back hurt almost all the time, and my legs and ankles ached. My head hurt me until sometimes I would be almost past going. As I had used Cardui before, and knew how much I had improved after taking it, I got a bottle and started taking it. I continued to use it for several months. After awhile I regained my health, and I feel that I could never have gotten through that awful time without Cardui."

CARDUI

even heavier economic drain on the country.
Health thrift is more important than money thrift because without money we still can work and win, but without health we are helpless and advancement is practically impossible.
Fortunately, more thought constantly is being given to thrift of health. It was recently announced that the Rockefeller Foundation last year spent more than $21,000,000 in practical and experimental medical work while within recent years it has spent $144,000,000 for the same noble purpose.
Vacations are taken for the purpose of conserving one's health. When they are so planned and carried out as to be helpful along these lines, they are by no means a waste of time—they are, quite to the contrary, a good example of thrift.

BLUE BONNET CLUB
The Blue Bonnet club met in the home of Mrs. H. N. Humphries on the 25th, with 20 members present and six visitors, two of these being from Amherst. Mesdames C. McSpadden and L. R. Sanders and Mrs. J. C. Morgan were from the Ruby club. We invite visitors and especially members from other clubs.
The main discussion for the afternoon was alterations of commercial dress patterns, and this was given by our demonstration agent, Miss Mashburn. Measurements of members were taken. This was to help them in finding the type of pattern they should get to aid them in sewing. There was also good advice given on our canning for the fair and a few jars exhibited for criticism, this being done as a help and a lesson to the class.
Our council member, Mrs. E. W. Baccus resigned, Mrs. Chas. Crawford being elected to take her place.
Our next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. J. A. Johnson, the lesson being on salads and salad dressings. There will be a form of enjoyment besides our regular business so be present at 2:30 on the 9th of July.—Reporter.

LITTLEFIELD H. D. CLUB
Mrs. J. C. Glover was hostess to the Littlefield H. D. club Thursday of last week. The lesson was "Dress Forms."
There were 21 members present, also two new members, Mrs. C. E. Strawn and Mrs. Sullivan. Visitors were Mrs. M. R. Qualls and Mrs. J. F. Walker.
Our next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. P. H. Smith. The lesson will be "Food Preservation." There will be a discussion on the principles of canning standard packs, and also a demonstration of canning fruits and vegetables by Miss Mashburn, H. D. agent.
Visitors and new members are welcome.—Reporter.

America Is Leading in Building Architecture
The architecture of America is today leading the world, according to William Harmon Beers of the American Institute of Architects.
More better-class building will go on in the United States in 1929 than in any previous year, Mr. Beers prophesies, while warning that architects should not be too much impressed by optimistic forecasts of increased building operations. Mr. Beers, architect of the Lincoln building, New York, foresees stabilization in construction and advances in design.
"To stimulate their latest abilities, American architects have the advantage of many building projects," Mr. Beers declares. "With the educational opportunity afforded the younger architects and students are becoming more and more fitted to grasp the peculiar problems continually arising."
"I think there is a growing improvement in quality of design and construction and architects are showing more caution in studying building requirements before beginning projects."
Mr. Beers explains that equilibrium is being reached between apparent decline in cheap, low-grade building projects and increase in prospective government, educational and municipal construction.
"I agree in part," he continues, "that volume of construction moves in direct ratio to capital accumulations used for permanent improvements, and therefore to general industrial prosperity. The curve of building tends upward if our population and wealth increase, and if we constantly develop new activities which require new buildings."
"Of course, we have had four years of abnormal construction activity. Estimates of increase have included public works and utilities—roads, bridges, power plants—which are matters for the engineer rather than the architect. This type of work has risen from $994,000,000 in 1925 to $1,438,000,000 in 1928.
"Architectural construction during these past few years has shown a tendency toward stabilization. National building field sales organizations have focused their attention on the market represented by the multitude of small new building and alteration projects under the $5,000 minimum valuation.

Stucco Walls Must Be Suited to Architecture
Masonry offers a wide choice of materials where selection usually depends upon the style of architecture and sometimes upon local material available. A combination of field stone with stucco may, with proper attention to detail, produce a most happy result.
Stone is the sturdier structural material. It is used in the foundation and lower story, where it contributes to the stability of the whole by reason of its evident weight.
Stucco is a plastic material. It can be finished in any one of a wide variety of textures and colors. It readily adapts itself to the irregularities of stone masonry, and can be used in many different ways to cover broad wall surfaces. The surface may be smooth and the stucco gray to blend with the stone, or brightly colored stucco in high texture relief may afford a desirable contrast. The choice of method depends upon the architectural effect desired and the imagination of the owner and architect.

Size of Lot Important.
The importance of buying a large enough lot for the home cannot be overemphasized. If one had to choose it would be preferable to purchase a large lot in a more inexpensive part of town or city than to choose a smaller lot in a more costly locality—a lot which is no wider than that required by law to hold the house.
To be sure there are some types of houses which can adapt themselves admirably to a narrow setting, while other houses equally well designed are ruined by not being given the proper background.
One fact, however, stands out above all others to be remembered in considering the question of a house and lot; that is to study the lot before one buys it in reference to the type of house one anticipates building, and once having bought the land, consider again the type of house best suited to it, before the first spadeful of ground is broken.
Healthy Cities.
Seventeen cities in the United States virtually share honors for being the safest places for a baby to live. The infant mortality rate for each was less than 40 per 1,000 births a recent health survey shows.
Positions of honor as to low mortality among the various groups of cities were: Cities of 250,000 and over, Seattle, Wash., Portland, Ore. and San Francisco; 100,000 to 250,000 Salt Lake City, Oakland, Calif.

LITTLEFIELD CATS PLAY OLTON AND SUDAN HERE JULY 4-5; TRIMMED LEVELLAND LAST

Last Sunday Levelland's entry in the new South Plains league took time off to play the locals. The game proved to be no contest from the very first inning.

The first two men up for Levelland singled and it appeared that they were after their scores early but were retired without any damage when Rutherford was thrown out trying to steal second. Whitis struck out and France grounded out third to first.

The Cats opened up on Evans and registered five scores on three hits and four walks. Again in the second after the visitors went out in order, the locals started after Evans in earnest and drove him to cover with nine safe blows and ten scores before the side was retired. Five pitchers were used to stop the heavy slugging of the Cats but none failed to show them anything and hence the large score.

Play Olton, July 4th

The 4th of July game will be played here with Olton and gives promise of being a real ball game.

Last year the Cats beat Olton in a hotly contested game 2 to 0.

About six weeks ago these teams met in Littlefield and the final score was Littlefield 7; Olton 6. Fans may rest assured that the Olton nine will employ their very best to beat the locals. The very keenest rivalry has always existed between these two clubs. Don't fail to see the game.

Play Sudan Saturday

On Saturday the 5th Sudan will tackle the Cats for the second clash of the picnic days. Sudan and Littlefield played last 4th at Sudan and it may be assumed that the Sudan the Cats lost by the 6 to 4 score. So boys will be on their toes to repeat this year.

Roy Lumpkin, star right hander for Sudan, has been chalking up many wins for Sudan and allowing very few hits per game. Recently he pitched a no hit no run game against Plainview. Last Sunday he held the Muleshoe club hitless and without scores. This is an enviable feat that few pitchers perform.

This game will be full of rivalry and all the breaks will be taken advantage of in order to win. Don't miss it!

AGRICULTURE NOTES

By D. A. ADAM
 Lamb County Farm Agent

John Bohot, Littlefield, reports his cows doubled in milk production early this spring from the use of sweet clover pasture. Also, that he has been grazing hogs on it for the past 90 days.

The annual farmers Short Course will be held at College Station, Texas, from July 28 to August 2, inclusive. Those interested in going should see the county agent.

In cooperation with R. A. Box, Vocational teacher, of Littlefield, a bull circle has been completed during the past week. Those interested in these bulls are: R. B. McQuatters, Littlefield; H. E. Bennet, Anton; Mr. Hanks Littlefield; L. C. Kemp, Littlefield.

Rains Here Thursday Boost Crop Conditions

The Littlefield section was visited by copious showers Thursday of last week, ranging in quantities from one-half to two inches.

In town the minimum shower was enjoyed, but south and southwest the rains were much heavier. All Littlefield and Yellow House properties had good rains. Pop reported one and one-half inches, Whitharral had a good inch, and about the same south to Levelland.

All crops are looking good, some of the cotton is a little late, but with the excellent underground moisture prevailing generally, a big yield is anticipated this fall.

There were also good showers of rain here Monday and Tuesday nights. Some damage from hail is reported southwest of Littlefield.

YOUNG HEN LAYS 295 EGGS CLOSE TO A HIGH RECORD

R. L. Price, local poultry fancier, has a single comb White Leghorn pullet that laid 295 eggs during the past year, which comes very close to the world's record hen that laid 319 eggs during a year.

This pullet was hatched January 3rd, laying her first egg June 20th, last year. A sister of this hen laid 275 eggs last year.

Both hens were trap nested and accurate records of their yields were kept by Mr. Price.

LEVELLAND EXTENDS SEWERS

The Irick Construction Co., has been given contract for laying of 80 blocks of water mains and 60 blocks of sewer mains in Levelland. They were the original installers of the system.

The ditching machine and materials arrived last week.

Water That Burns

Peat as dug from the bog contains 98 per cent of water. Sun drying evaporates only 15 per cent of this water, yet peat so dried burns with a fierce heat. Ireland has 4,700 square miles of peat bogs.

TAKE IT FROM DAD By Frank H. Cheley

I'm Going to Quit School and Go to Work

Bob was all boy, every inch of him! To call him an animated interrogation point would be putting it mildly; alive from head to toe, eyes open, ears open; his mind an endless sensitive movie film catching everything that came his way; a growing, unfolding young modern American (of which there are some twenty-five million more or less in this land of ours).
Above everything else Bob was a never-ending array of questions. No sooner would Dad have his dinner and get comfortably settled with his paper than Bob would appear, after twelve hours of busy activity, as fresh as a lily and larded with a new perplexing query for Dad.
It got to be a regular game at the Smithhoughs, this question and answer matter, until Dad Smithhough often found himself wondering through the day or as he relaxed a bit on the way home, what fool question Bob would have concocted for him that day.
His dad had always been too busy for questions and he often recalled as he pondered some of the "staggerers" his Bob handed him, how different he might have been if his father had only talked things over with him!
So, after Bob Smithhough had floored his dad a few times with queries that were too deep for the old gentleman, he began to prepare himself.
Tonight, obviously, something was wrong. Bob was quiet, almost melancholy and noticeably irritable. Something had gone wrong! In due time it would come out and it did. When both gravitated to the living room, without much ado and no introduction to the subject, Bob sent himself half dejectedly and asked his question by way of an ultimatum.
"Pop, I'm going to quit school and go to work."
"That so," said Dad, without looking up. "Been elected president of an oil company or director of the United States Steel Corporation? Congratulations, n. boy, I didn't suppose you had sufficiently trained your mind as yet for so great a responsibility. Now if you had said you were going to work on a road gang or had a job delivering milk, I would have understood."
There was a friendly twinkle in Dad's eye and a humorous tone in his voice. "When I was your age, Bob, I'd have given anything I possessed to have gone to school and I didn't have any modern university like your new school to go to either, but I had to work to help the old folks make ends meet. The thing which I knew best was that I didn't know much. I read a good deal and was just sort of half conscious of a great marvelous world about me and I was hungry to learn. I didn't want to live in my little world always. I wanted to know about science and invention and travel. I was hungry to be in the midst of the big things of the world. I was earning twenty dollars a month and my room and board and lived twenty miles from anywhere. I longed to be in the midst of things; to be a somebody and do something beside hard manual labor all the time. I had to fight for my chance, Bob. Yours came without a fight, that's why it seems worthless to you."
"What's wrong—teacher ridden you a bit, perhaps bawled you out? Perhaps you bluffed and got caught! Yes—well take your medicine like a man, my boy, but listen, remember you're a Smithhough—the only male descendant. Dad's counting on you to do at least some of the things he wanted to do and dreamed about but never could. Quit school? Nonsense! Listen, the only thing in the world they give away today is an education. A regular boy who means business can have all of it he'll take. Think of it, all the education that you'll accept, free; high school, college, and then on and on if you desire. It's simply up to you. The big stick of modern achievement is in your head, boy. See that little stubby red volume there on the shelf. That's the latest 'Who's Who in America,' Bob. There are about thirty thousand brief biographies of American men and women of accomplishment in that book—the folks who have led out in every single realm of constructive thought and action—only twenty-seven of them stopped school in the eighth grade.
"The other day I saw a very interesting query. 'When is a man educated?' and the answer was, 'When he can look into a mudpuddle and see more there than mere mud!' Bob, education is the knowledge of how to use the whole of one's self, and no boy in the eighth grade has even approached that point.
"It's true college doesn't make fools of it just develops them. If you're a dumbbell you haven't much chance but Bob, you're no dumbbell. You have the physique and the mind in the making, but it takes effort and struggle. Now get at your lessons. Know a little more history than you teacher tomorrow."
And Bob did!

THE VALUE OF SOUND DESIGN

New Ford engine gives outstanding acceleration, speed and power without sacrificing reliability or economy

THE good performance of the Ford car, so apparent on every highway, is due largely to the sound mechanical design of the engine.
It has outstanding acceleration, speed and power, yet that is only part of its value to you. Greater still is the fact that it brings you all these features without sacrificing either reliability or economy.
That is the reason the Ford car has given such satisfactory service to millions of motorists all over the world and has been chosen by so many large companies that keep accurate cost figures. In every detail of construction it has been carefully planned and made for the work it has to do.
The design of the compression chamber is an important factor in the efficiency of the Ford engine. It is built to allow free passage of gases through the valves and to thoroughly mix the fuel by producing turbulence within the cylinders during compression. The spark thus flashes quickly through the whole fuel charge, resulting in quieter and more effective engine performance. Other factors are the direct gravity gasoline feed, the specially designed carburetor, the new hot-spot manifold, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves of larger diameter, statically and dynamically balanced crankshaft and flywheel, the simplicity of the electrical, cooling, lubrication, and fuel systems and accuracy in manufacturing.
