COUNTY TEACHERS TO BE GUESTS OF LOCAL FACULTY FEB. 15 TO 19

At a meeting of the Lamb county Teachers Association the Littlefield schools were asked to designate a County visiting week when teachers of the county, who cared to do so, might visit the Littlefield teachers at work. This interest was occasioned by the fact that the Littlefield school was designated as a laboratory school in the curriculum revision program of the State Department of Education.

The Littlefield Teachers have invited the teachers of the schools of the county to visit with them during next week, February 15 to 19. Special days have been set aside for each school. Tuesday will be Olton day to visit. Other teachers may come if their days assigned does not meet with their convenience.

Wednesday will be Spade and Fieldton day.

Thursday will be Amherst and Earth visiting day and Friday is set aside for Sudan teachers. Also the District Deputy State Supt. H. G. Holbrook and County Supt. F. O. Boles are invited to view the work being done.

The Littlefield teachers wish it to be known that they are expecting to get as many helpful suggestions from the visitors as they will be able to give them. The local teachers have worked diligently at the job of trying out the course of study sent out by the State Department of Education. Some very satisfactory results are being obtained, but as yet we are unable to achieve the maximum possibilities of the new course.

This course will be installed in all the schools next year and we are trying hard to learn of its possibilities as well as the technique of its application.

SEN. NELSON PROPOSES BUILDING STATE ASYLUM IN WEST TEXAS

Establishment of a State insane asylum in West Texas was proposed in the legislature this week by Sen. G. H. Nelson of Lubbock. The bill provides for the creation of an asylum somewhere in West Texas, west of the 100th meridian which includes that part of West Texas from the Panhandle on down south. It calls for the appropriation of $817,000 to build one asylum which will house approximately 550 persons. The State Board of Control would select the place that it was to be built, but Sen. Nelson believes that if the bill passes, it would be established in his district.

"We have but five such asylums in the state today," said Sen. Nelson, "and those places are all situated in central or East Texas. There is a great need to build such an asylum in West Texas, "because it would save the people in the Western half of the state a lot of trouble and inconvenience. Since there is a need to build another asylum, it ought to be placed where it will do the most good."

Construction of the hospital has been recommended by Governor Allred and the Board of Control.

They'll Debate The Sunday School Issue

Whether or not a Sunday school should be a part of church activity will be the subject of a religious debate at the school house at Maple, west of Enochs, starting Friday night, February 26, and continuing through Sunday, February 28.

Van Bonneau of Dodsonville, and Joe S. Warlick, will be the debaters. Both are known as outstanding Bible students and efficient debaters.

A cordial invitation to the general public to attend is extended.

Pneumonia, Scarlet Fever Fatal To Wayne Glazener

Wayne Glazener, aged 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Glazener of 1 1-2 miles north of Littlefield, passed away at 10:10 p. m. Friday, February 5, at the Littlefield hospital, following an attack of pneumonia and scarlet fever.

"EDUCATION FOR DEVELOPMENT OF CHARACTER" THEME OF P. T. A.

Education for development of character was the theme stressed by speakers at P. T. A. Wednesday, January 27.

The Rev. Marvin Norwood, speaking on "The Church as a Factor of Character Development," defined education as ability to live with others in a happy and successful manner. He defined the church as a universal recognition of divine influence gathered out and given to mankind. Good character was defined as those traits within the individual that make for more abundant living. Conversion was explained as the relating of one's life to the divine.

Rev. Norwood observed that the church had pioneered in the field of education, and that the church is interested in creating a society in which good citizenship may grow and develop.

WORK ON FINAL UNIT OF PROJECT TO START SOON

Construction Is Underway On Sudan-Beck's Gin Road

Work will be underway next week on the second unit in the building of a hard surface road from Littlefield to Spade.

The first unit, extending from Littlefield to the service station at the end of Oklahoma avenue, has been completed.

Announcement of the new forward step in good roads for Lamb county was made Wednesday by County Engineer Lee Bradshaw.

Important Unit

With the completion of the road to Spade, it will be necessary only to build a few miles of road to tie on to the pavement at Cotton Center. Federal funds are available for this work, but it will be necessary to match the federal grant with county funds.

Mr. Bradshaw said that all phases of road construction will be carried out in the building of the unit from the end of Oklahoma avenue to Spade. This includes grading, drainage, caliche base and asphalt top.

Sudan Road Project

The road from Sudan to Beck's Gin, which will be caliche, will be completed in about three months, according to Mr. Bradshaw. One mile of caliche is down and other work is underway, including widening of the road and grading. No funds are available at this time for an asphalt top on this road.

Work is being closed down on the Pep road project on account of exhausted Federal funds. Four miles of caliche is down on this road.

FOOTSORE, WEARY AND HUNGRY, MY DOG RETURNETH—

"Thirty" came home Friday noon in time for lunch. And there was great rejoicing in the household of the author of this column over the return of the family ball-dog—the office mascot—and doggie young dog about town. "Thirty" had been away about three weeks and from marks under his jaws and along each side of his head it is very evident, that some person had him chained. But his collar did not fit very close and he, no doubt, finally pulled it over his head. He was found almost exhausted near the rear of Gertin Fowler's barber shop. Gertin coaxed him along and delivered him at the Leader office.

"Thirty" sprawled on the floor, looked up out of one eye that he managed to keep open, and declared:

"My God, boss, I'm glad to be home."

We fully expected him to launch into a verse of "Home, Sweet Home."

We greatly appreciate the efforts of the Plainsman of the Lubbock Evening Journal in giving assistance in spreading the news of the departure of our dog for parts unknown. We are firmly convinced that he was many miles from Littlefield, and that the wide circulation of that newspaper was responsible for his return. He probably read the Plainsman's column, and figured that he should do something pronto about getting home.

WEST POINT MEN ATTENDING PRESIDENTIAL INAUGURATION

The student body of West Point was granted the privilege of attending the inauguration of President Roosevelt January 20, and in a letter from Cadet Tilden Wright his mother, Mrs. Vernie Wright Littlefield, Mr. Wright gave an interesting account of his recent trip to Washington.

Leaving West Point the evening of the 18th, they reached Washington about 7:45 a. m. the next day. Wright said he met a friend, former University of Texas student, who is attending college in Washington, with whom he spent the morning.

The West Point men formed in line at their train at 12:15, uniforms with fixed bayonets, marched up Pennsylvania avenue past the White House and the President's reviewing stand, and were placed in front of a re-

It was spring in the Three River Country. Over night almost, it seemed, the gentler season had come.

Even the great, moiling Athabasca River had softened its voice. When it first broke the ice-ribbed barriers of winter it had howled, and groaned and roared with release of pent-up power, crashing and pounding at the shuddering ice floes. But now, the initial battle over with, it had lowered its voice to a crooning, lispng murmur, its coppery flood sliding swiftly away to the northward, where, thousands of miles distant, those waters would finally hold rendezvous with the silent Arctic sea.

John Benham, bent over the intricacies of a splice in a mooring line, whistled as he worked. Surging in the depths of his great chest was a wild, haunting happiness, which always came to him when the far, dim trails were open and backoning. His face, bent eagerly to his work, was lean and brown, with brow, nose, lips and chin cleanly and strongly carved. His eyes, deepset, steady and sparkling grey, were flawless in their clarity. His heavy flannel shirt clung to wide, sloping shoulders and opened at the front to disclose a bronzed, pillar-like throat. His hands, weaving cunningly at the hemp, were big, strong and nimble. The tremendous virility of the man seemed to glow from him like some strange and powerful current.

Ellen Mackay, standing there on the crest of the sloping bank, distinctly sensed that current. It almost frightened her, yet it seemed also to awaken a nameless, responsive thrill which speeded the beat of

"I am Benham."
 "I am Ellen Mackay. I have to leave immediately for Fort Edson. I had planned to go with De Soto's brigade, but I was delayed at Edmonton and De Soto has gone on without me. Pat McClatchney tells me that you leave in the morning."

Benham shook his head slowly. "I'm afraid that makes your request impossible, Miss."

her heart and set her pulses throbbing. And where she had approached in the first place with a surety that verged almost on arrogance, she now hesitated, swayed by a curious timidity.

The man was unconscious of her proximity. The song of the river had covered her light-footed approach. His bared head was bent over his work. Beyond him, about the remains of the noon fire, sprawled the sleeping forms of his men, while still farther on, five great, loaded freight scows tugged at twanging mooring ropes and shifted to and fro as though they also knew the call of spring and were eager to storm the far leagues of the lonely land.

Ellen Mackay coughed, and was suddenly furious with herself to find that it had been a most apologetic cough indeed. The man's eyes lifted with alert swiftness, rested on the slim figure of the girl for a moment of startled wonder, then he rose to his feet with a lithe surge of power which rippled over him like the wind across a sea of grass.

"You—you are John Benham?"
 Only by the strongest effort of will was Ellen able to keep her tone casual and business-like. The impact of this man's eyes were almost hypnotic. No wonder John Benham, the free-trader, was such a power among the fur gatherers of the North. "Yes," came the quiet, deep tones.

er."
 A queer, hard light grew into being in Benham's eyes and he shook his head slowly. "I'm afraid that makes your request impossible, Miss."

Ellen stiffened, sports of color glowing on her smooth cheeks. "I—I do not understand."

Benham looked at her curiously. "This is your first season in the north for some time, isn't it?" he asked.

"Y-yes, I've been to school at Winnipeg."

"Then it is natural that you would not understand. Should you go north with my brigade your father would disown you. For I am Benham, a free trader—the free trader in your father's life. My name is anathema to him. He hates me unforgivably. He curses the very thought of my existence. He even—" Benham bit off further words with a click of his teeth. His great chest arched and his fists clenched to hard, brown knots. Strange fires flashed in his eyes. It was plain that he had just caught himself in time to keep from exploding into open rage. Suddenly he dropped to his knees and bent over his work again, "I'm truly sorry, Miss Mackay," he finished quietly. "But it is impossible."

For a long moment Ellen stood, swayed by many emotions, of which a rising anger was uppermost. This was the most unusual experience in her life. Why, the man had acted almost like a churl. His flat refusal was stunning with its impact, the more so because it had been so unexpected. For, during the past four years, men had vied with one another to jump to Ellen Mackay's bidding. They had gloried in acceding to her slightest request. Her four years at college in Winnipeg

The Santa Fe is happy to announce the completion and opening to service, on February 1st, 1937, of the longest piece of new railroad undertaken in the United States in the past year—the 112 miles of new line linking Las Animas, Colorado, with Boise City, Oklahoma

The new line carries rail facilities to and through a considerable area of potentially rich country, but it has an even broader purpose—to provide finer Santa Fe service for the shippers and consumers of a tremendous and already developed territory.

In a word, the new road, linking together existing Santa Fe lines, provides to the shippers and consumers of a vast and productive area of Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Colorado, and of the northern mountain states clear to the Pacific Northwest, through facilities and shorter routings for the rapid interchange of their shipments. It reduces the previous shortest rail distance between Amarillo, Texas, and Denver, Colorado, by over 25 miles. It saves from 142 to 226 miles in the movement of freight over the Santa Fe to and from Colorado, from and to points in Texas, and on portions of the Santa Fe in Oklahoma and New Mexico. Today, Amarillo is placed but 435 miles from Denver, via the Santa Fe. Products of the Pacific Northwest, connecting with the Santa Fe at Colorado points, can now have direct routing to markets of Texas and the Gulf ports, while products of the Lone Star State benefit from a similar service reaching California and the Northwest.

The new line, carefully used and constructed, provides a facility for the handling of business. Stations located in a territory that had been progressing even in advance of the advent of the rails. Here is good wheat country, and corn, sorghums, broom corn and other crops have done well with natural rainfall. In the Las Animas area, where irrigation farming is done with water from the Arroyo River, there is promise of greatly increased production of sugar beets, melons, vegetables, onions, and other crops. West of Springfield, Colorado, and Boise City, Oklahoma and north of Amarillo, general farming and livestock raising are important activities. Among the towns on the new line north of Amarillo, in Texas, are Dumas and Stratford.

In the construction of the new Boise City-Las Animas line, the Santa Fe reaffirms its abiding faith in the future of that vast Southwest in which it pioneered and with which it has grown. Your local Santa Fe representative will be glad to point out how the new line can best be of service to you

LUTHERAN CHURCH NEWS

This week ushers in the blessed season of Lent during which we shall study the suffering of our Savior, who as the Lamb of God which taketh away the sins of the world, has also redeemed us. Each Sunday night the pastor will explain a portion of this sacred history, recorded in the last chapter of the gospels. Following are the subjects for each Sunday night till Easter:

"Christ the Willing Redeemer."
"Christ the Betrayed Redeemer."
"Christ the Rejected Redeemer."
"Christ the Abused Redeemer."
"Christ the Crucified Redeemer."
"Christ the Victorious Redeemer."

Have you ever studied this portion of the Scripture? Services begin at 8 o'clock, and you are welcome. The choir will render special selections during this season.

Sunday morning, being our English morning service, the pastor will speak on the theme, "Lord Is It I?" Sunday school begins at 9:45, and services at 10:30. New Sunday school literature has been procured and with the addition of Mr. Erwin Bohot to the teaching staff we look forward to an improved Sunday school in every way.

Ladies Aid which was to be held today has been postponed due to illness of several members.

In tonight's lecture the pastor will discuss these two subjects, "Original Sin," and "Can We Keep the Law as God Would Have Us Keep it?" These lectures are held every Monday and Thursday night.

To Conduct Revival

A revival meeting will begin at the Assembly of God church Sunday morning, with Evangelist W. A. (Bill) McCann of Hereford doing the preaching, and Sam Hines of this city leading the singing.

Among the texts chosen by Evangelist McCann and on which he will preach at the meetings are the following: "Over the Hill to the Poor House," "Who's Boss at Your House," "Holliness or Hell, Which?" "If a Man Die Shall He Live Again?"

Away the Sins of the World." John 1:29.

Walter J. Luecke, Pastor.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

God has honored our church by calling two fine young men from our membership into the ministry. They are Hilyar Carter and Coley Arender. The latter made public his surrender to the ministry at the morning service last Sunday.

Coley left Mississippi last fall seeking health as he was choked with asthma. He left his own people and country not knowing where he was going. He arrived in Littlefield last August without friends and without money. He states he had felt God calling him to the ministry for the past three years but lack of education and health stood in his way of surrendering. He promised the Lord when he left Mississippi that if he would give him his health he would surrender to preach. He aimlessly landed in Littlefield, secured a friend in Mr. Jack Smith at the Red Front cafe, where he has worked and attended school. The first Sunday in our services he joined the church and since that time has won a host of friends by his love for the Lord and friendly spirit. He often works all night on Saturday night, but arises with but two or three hours sleep and comes to Sunday school to teach his class of Junior boys and to sing in the choir at the church hour. Since coming to Littlefield he has gained fifteen pounds, has good health by his asthma leaving him and has kept his promise with God. He will preach his first sermon soon.

Mr. Hilyar "Ickey" Carter, who surrendered to the ministry on the first day of February will preach his first sermon this coming Sunday at the eleven o'clock hour. Hilyar is one of our most respected and appreciated young men. He has been in business here and in Lubbock and has made a host of friends. —He was licensed to preach the Gospel as he may have opportunity at the mid-week service of the church Wednesday evening. His many friends will hear him gladly Sunday morning.

Sunday school at 9:45. Please be on time.

Preaching services at 11 a. m. by Hilyar Carter.

B. T. U. at 6:45. Your presence is needed.

Preaching at 8 o'clock by the pastor, using as his theme, "The Man Who Fell and Did Not Rise Again."

Mid-week services each Wednesday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock. Prayer service, Teacher's and officers Meeting, B. T. U. Conference and Choir rehearsal.

Willis J. Ray, Pastor.

WILDCATS TAKE SECOND PLACE IN COUNTY BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

The Littlefield Wildcats came out second best in the county basketball meet held at Sudan, February 4, 5 and 6.

The Wildcats really went to town in the first game, winning over Fieldton 40-16. The Wildcats then clawed Sudan out of the race, but not by such a large score as they defeated Fieldton, the score being 40-38 in favor of Littlefield.

Spade dug a hole in which Littlefield fell and Spade proceeded to bury Littlefield under a twenty-three point lead. The score was Spade 35, Littlefield 12.

SPADE TAKES COUNTY HONORS IN BASKETBALL

Tourney Games Played On Sudan Court With Gammil Officiating

By Spade Correspondent

Playing through a single-elimination basketball tourney, Spade emerged Saturday night with both teams ready to enter the finals in the struggle for championship of Lamb county in basketball. The Longhorns met the Littlefield Wildcats in a tussle that resulted in the feline contestants' being gored to a ratio of 40 to 13. The Spade girls met the Sudan sextet and scrapped them to a finish that tallied 47 for the Black Beauties to 44 for Sudan. All games were played on the Sudan court with Gammil of Hereford officiating.

The Spade girls got going with the first whistle to double the Sudan players in the first quarter and leave them behind 19 points at the end of the half. Their floor work clicked and their eye was deadly for the basket. Then things happened. Coach Hutchins sent his girls back with a new song and with blood in their eyes. The third quarter brought Sudan two points to one by Spade. In the last six minutes of play a nip-and-tuck scramble for points kept the spectators guessing until the last whistle gave Spade the victory.

The Longhorns seemed a bit more seasoned and somewhat more certain of their superiority. They set the Wildcats to guessing with an initial rush that netted the Spade boys 6 points. Two minutes had not passed and the game seemed lost already. Then the Wildcats, with back to the wall, showed a spirited fight to keep halfp through the remainder of the first half. In the third quarter the Longhorns cavorted around until they could find an opening, then hooked the Cats for another ringer, thus pulling the score up to a 37 to 12 angle. The last quarter, a kind of afterglow, resulted in the total score reaching 40 to 13, thereby allowing Littlefield 3 points in the last half of the contest.

High point honors for the girls went to Killingsworth of Sudan who accounted for 19 of her team's 44 points; Greer of Spade lead with 20 points; West of Sudan rang up 17; Brown of Spade followed as fourth with 16 marks.

Although he played slightly more than half of the game Hunt of Spade led the boys with a total of 12 points. His team showed Shirley 9, Barker 8, Vann 7, and Leonard 4. Walker's 6 was high point for the Wildcats. Jackson of Spade contented himself with safety guarding that could not be surpassed and with feeding the ball to other ambitious Longhorns.

To reach the finals the girls had defeated Springlake 61 to 13 and Fieldton 73 to 4. The boys arrived by a slimmer margin, defeating Springlake 37 to 23 and Olton 45 to 20.

The Longhorns will enter the District Meet at Lubbock, Friday, February 12. They play Lamesa, champions of Dawson county, the first game at eleven o'clock.

The starting line-up in the final games:

Spade Girls: forwards, Nabers, Brown and Greer; guards, Bentley, Keesee and Huckabee; substitutes, Adams and Jackson.

Sudan Girls: forwards, Killingsworth, Ray and West; guards, Stotts, Weimhold and Skinner; substitutes, Trammell and Harvey.

Spade Boys: forwards, Hunt, and Shirley; guards, Leonard and Jackson; center, Vann; substitutes, Barker.

Littlefield Boys: forwards, Rowe and McKnight; guards, Etter, and Smith; center, Wilson; substitutes, Baize, Elms, James, and Walker.

Local Boys Are Entered In Golden Gloves Tournament

Clovis, N. M., Feb. 9. (Special) — With both town and C. C. C. camp fighters slated for action on the card, "Littlefield Night" is to be observed Monday night when the curtain goes up on the Lion's club big A. A. U. Texas-New Mexico Golden Gloves amateur boxing tournament on the arduous battle front at Clovis. The mighty ring classic is for three nights in a row.

Lieut. Charles C. Cook is to take a trio of sensational amateurs to the Clovis ring fest Monday night. They are Perry Johnson, Grady Ligon, and George Youngblood. Bill Aldridge, well known Littlefield sportsman, is backing three colorful local stars in the Clovis baptism of fistic fire, too. They are Olen Wharton, Linton Smith, and George Glenn. All Texas amateurs are to join forces against the New Mexico huskies on Monday night's opening bill.

With those in charge endeavoring to engage Max Baer as referee, some 15 to 25 brilliant three-round fights in all weights, classes and with Texas man-maulers being sent against New Mexico body-wreckers, will make up Monday night's bill. The first furious fight is to get under way at promptly 8:15 p. m. and the last hectic tussle must end not later than 10:30 p. m. Many fans from here plan to attend Monday night's bout to support the locals.

Spade Grammar School Plays Cotton Center

Wednesday of last week two teams of playground ball contestants left Spade for Cotton Center, accompanied by the boys' coach, B. O. Elder. Despite the wind the group reported a trip without mishap and a pleasant time while playing the Cotton Center teams.

The boys won their game by a score of 12 to 15 in a spirited and well-played contest. The Spade girls lost by a score of 3 to 9. The Cotton Center teams are returning the games this week, so both the girls and the boys are seen busy in training to improve their clubs before the second clash.

BULA BOYS WIN OVER MULESHOE IN BAILEY COUNTY TOURNAMENT

The basketball tournament held at Bula with the finals coming off Friday night between Bula and Muleshoe high schools was a huge success. Both games were very interesting.

The Muleshoe girls ran away with the game to a score of 10 to 29. Rosa Renfro was an outstanding guard from Muleshoe, while Juanita Nickels was the outstanding defense guard for Bula. The Muleshoe girls could hit the basket from any angle, and keep a heavy lead from the first.

The boys from Bula turned the tables on the Muleshoe lads. The Bula boys got away at the start and ended the half at a score of 7 to 26 in favor of Bula, and come back to finish the game to the tune of 25 to 41. From the very start the Bula boys were never in danger of being caught, although the Muleshoe boys showed some good passing ability in the last half, when the Bulldogs only picked up one score more than the Yellow Jackets.

Johnnie Starkey, Bula's scoring midget, thrilled the crowd with a perfect shot from the center ring, and easily made him the outstanding guard of the tournament. Woodrow Lambert was the constant threat for Muleshoe. Howell and Lambert tied for high point scorers with Blackman and Robert Starkey running a close second tie. Laney and Parsons were the spectacular players on the two teams as they scored from all shapes and positions.

The Bula boys team have been very successful in their seasons schedule, winning 36 games and losing only 5. All but two of the team will be back next year. Five of the Bula team were out with the flu, but will be back in for the district meet.

Splendid sportsmanship by both teams, in fact all teams in the county was noticed. Bula is always glad to have Muleshoe at their school and feel at home when they go to Muleshoe. Eula Morris for Goodland was the best forward of the tournament, plating the Goodland girls in second place. Suitable trophies have been ordered and will be received soon.

Now is the time to call the non-producing hens from your poultry flock, says D. F. Pound, assistant county agent. Very likely every flock has hens that are non-producers and should be removed and marketed. If these hens are kept they will increase the cost of production and cut down your profit.

COMMUNITY PICTURES REAU PLEASES MADE PUPILS

Mr. P. A. Tyler, with his assistant, Mr. Thornhill, and his highly trained dog, Pooch, appeared before the student body of Spade School, Tuesday morning, February 4, in a program under the auspices of the Community Pictures Bureau. 200 pupils saw the show, and were delighted by the entire performance. One fourth of the money raised in a small fee of ten cents retained by the school, thus making a purse of $4.60 for the movie fund.

The pictures covered inside past-travel from Rangell to Ber-Straight, Pendleton Round-Up, which is the world's largest rodeo, and Ripley's "Believe, It Or Not" freaks. Moving pictures of animal life in general, including birds, reindeer, seals, lions, and buffalo. Also, there were many scenic views from Alaska and the frozen north. Active volcanoes of Hawaii showed the boiling, molten lava in action.

After the picture "Pooch" gave an entertainment of tricks. She played the piano and sang, distinguishing at will between the high and the low notes. She would distinguish one article from another as the pupils were allowed to hold them before her. She would recognize a wooden from a metal article and indicate with her paws. In fact she seemed to have an uncanny way of knowing things only "us folks" are supposed to know.

Pooch wore a cowboy hat and spectacles, and she carried a pipe about in her mouth. She has appeared on Major Bowes' radio program, and has also appeared on the air with Eddie Cantor. After the show she went around to the rooms, making friends with the children.

basketball the Spade "Yearlings" defeated the teams from Fieldton, Tuesday night, February 2.

Then "up-and-coming" youngsters of the "B" boys, led by some of the veterans like Mouser, Adams, and Coffey, took the Fieldton boys to a defeat to the tune of 29 to 9.

The games were called by "Speedy" Turner, last year's star for the Longhorns.

EMERGING FROM FLU EPIDEMIC

The Spade school is emerging from their epidemic of the influenza with the often repeated hope that they will not have to meet the scarlet fever or some other contagious disease that has other student bodies on the dodge. So far there has not been a case of the fever, and the highest score the "flu" was able to make on any one day was a total of 40 absent, or some 14 per cent of the entire groups.

Ellen Gets Her Man—

had been one long reign over all things masculine. Unconsciously this adulation had spoiled her. She had known no other law but that of her own personal whim. Men, apparently, were just automatons made to be commanded. Yet, this man, this big, virile, savage had flatly denied her. Ellen's imperious head lifted, her rounded little chin stiffened, and she turned on her heel and walked away.

Unknown to her, John Benham watched her departure. A look of regret clouded his face, and there was grudging admiration mingled with that regret. It would be a cold man indeed who could not admire Ellen Mackay, and John Benham was not cold.

The city had failed utterly in despoiling the physical birthright of Ellen Mackay. She was sturdy, buoyant, intensely alive. There was no sickly, boudoir languor about her slender and, vibrant body. Her stride was free, natural and full of grace. She did not slouch. She stood erect, proudly so, and the rich colour in her smooth, olive cheeks had been placed there by a benevolent nature, not by the chemistry of man. Her features were lovely in their regularity and as cleanly etched as a pine ridge against the sunset. Her eyes were level, dark and aglow with the joy and mystery of life. And her hair was truly her crowning glory, a rich blue-black cloud of crisp curls.

The thought of such a girl as this sitting by his side during the long brisk days and mysterious nights of the river voyage ahead, stirred John Benham deeply. But only for a moment did such truant thoughts stay with him. With a hardening of his jaw and a shrug of his shoulders he discarded them. She was the daughter of Angus Mackay, which, in John Benham's eyes, seemed a damning fact beyond any correction. And so he went on with his work, though some of the cheer of his mood had departed.

When Ellen Mackay re-entered Pat McClatchney's little store there at Athabasca Landing, her anger and disappointment were easily apparent to the big, genial store-keeper.

"He—he turned me down—flat," she burst out. "He's a brute."

Kindly old Pat nodded commiseratingly. "Ay," he mumbled. "Ay lass, he is a brute—but rather a magnificent brute at that. I was afraid. Now if ye had gone to him as old Pat suggested, and used a wee bit of trickery on him, no doubt he would have been glad to take ye. 'Twas the fact that ye are Angus Mackay's lass that spoiled things, I'll wager."

"It appeared to be," admitted Ellen. "But I don't see why that should have made any difference. If he and my father have disagreed over something it is no reason why he should vent his spleen on me. I never saw such a mannerless clod. And as far as telling him I was someone else besides my true self—I wouldn't think of it. I—I'll admit it looks like my last chance to get north, but I won't lie, ever for that."

Pat sucked on his malodorous, black briar for a time in silence.

"Let's get our heads together, lass," he said at last. "I have a wee idea that may be of value."

At first Ellen shook her head in flat denial as Pat unfolded his scheme to her. But the more she thought it over the more the wild darning of the thing intrigued her. In addition, when she had told Pat, on arriving at Athabasca Landing, that it was imperative that she go north immediately to join her father, she had meant every word of it. Old Angus Mackay was a proud and haughty man and, knowing him as she did, Ellen knew that only the direst necessity could have caused him to write as he had in the letter she had received from him on the day she graduated from college. Her father needed her. Just why, she could only guess at. But he needed her, and the blood of the Mackays had always been thick and clannish. And that was why Ellen put aside her own feelings in the matter and finally agreed to Pat's plan.

"I'll do it," she said thoughtfully. "I'll do it—if you can make the arrangements as you suggest."

There was little in the way of packing for Ellen to do. During her years at college she had not forgotten that the north country was a country of essentials, not frills. A suitcase and a small trunk was all the baggage she had brought, and if it became necessary, she was ready to discard the trunk. So she soon had things in shape, then stretched out for a little rest on the blankets of her bunk.

At first the tumult of her thoughts made even a hint of sleep impossible. She heard old Pat clumping about in the store, and after a bit came the rumble of his voice as he talked for a time with someone. Ellen's thoughts soon came back to John Benham. Her mind was made up to the fact that she disliked him thoroughly. But when she endeavored to isolate the reason for this she failed to get very far. In spite of the unreasonable rancour she felt, she had to admit, in all fairness, that her charge of rudeness on his part was not correct. She had asked him a question and he had given her a straightforward answer. That it had not been the answer she had desired and expected did not constitute rudeness. His words and manner had been respectful, but none the less adamant. And it was this latter fact, though Ellen hardly realized it, which had aroused her.

A masterful man, Ugh! How she loathed masterful men. With a little throb of consternation she remembered that simply by glancing at her he had shattered her self-applomb in a most disturbing manner.

And so John Benham and her father were at loggerheads. Very well, if Angus Mackay hated this free trader, then Angus Mackay's daughter would hate him also. She settled this fact in her mind with a clack of her little white teeth. She felt she could trust her father's judgment in such a matter. She wondered again just what the issue was between her father and John Benham. She mused over this to doze and soon fell asleep.

It was dark when she awoke. Pat McClatchney was shaking her gently by the shoulder.

"Come, lass," the old fellow murmured. "Pierre Buschard is here. He would talk with you."

Ellen followed Pat into the store, now dimly lit by the yellow beams of a lamp. Standing just at the edge of the glow was a huge dark figure of a man. As Ellen entered, the stranger tugged off his red woolen cap and stood twisting it between two great paws.

There's nothing like GAS for BROILING

Gas gives you the intense heat needed to brown meats so fast that loss of juices is prevented. Full flavor is saved.

ROASTING

Gas gives you the oven ventilation which produces crisp, juicy roasts. Excess moisture is allowed to escape, preventing that flat "steamed" flavor.

BAKING

Baking requires an unlimited range of oven temperatures evenly distributed. That's why Gas assures light, evenly browned cakes, pies, breads.

FRYING

Perfect, speedy frying requires instant high heat—even spread of heat under the skillet—numberless heat variations. Gas gives them all!

BOILING

Faster! Gas brings foods to a boil in 2-3 or less the time of other fuels. Because it is more flexible, it gives you the exact degrees of heat you need.

FIRES TAKE STAGGERING DEATH TOLL IN TEXAS; STATEMENT IS ISSUED BY FIRE INSURANCE COMMISSIONER HALL

Fire has taken a staggering death toll in Texas for the past 15 years. Fire is a dreadful menace to both our lives and property. Approximately 52 per cent of the fire losses paid by insurance companies doing business in Texas for the years 1930 to 1935, inclusive, were losses that occurred in the home, and more than three-fourths of the deaths from fire occur in the home, which means that a large proportion of all fires and most of the deaths occur in homes.

During the year 1936 more than 450 men, women and children lost their lives from fire (exact number of deaths in 1936 not yet available,) and since 1922 to 1936, inclusive, more than 4,990 men, women and children have lost their lives from fire. The contributing causes of deaths from fire during 1936 were as follows:

- Kerosene, starting or quickening fire with—40.
- Kerosene, explosion of lamps, lanterns and stoves—10.
- Gasoline, starting or quickening fire with—15.
- Gasoline, cleaning clothes, floors etc., with—20.
- Gasoline, explosion of barrels, bottles, etc.—10.
- Clothing, ignited standing too close to stove or open fire—50.

- Gas, explosion of—15.
  - Automobiles, burned in wrecks and collisions—15.
  - Explosions, crude oil, boilers, etc.—12.
  - Trapped in buildings—45.
  - Scalds, children falling into boiling water—10.
  - Matches, children playing with—5.
  - Smoking in bed—3.
- Most of the fires that occur in the home are from simple and easily preventable causes. Likewise, most of the deaths that occur from fires are from simple and easily preventable causes.
- Deaths from fire can be greatly reduced by putting into practice simple rules of "safety" as set forth under the caption of "Fifteen Fire Cautions" as follows:

Fifteen Fire Cautions

- Keep children and fire safely apart. Children can be taught the dangers of fire. Keep matches out of the way of children.
- Do not throw away cigars, cigarettes, and matches without first extinguishing them. A careless smoker is as bad as an electric storm to burn the buildings.
- Do not allow accumulations of combustible waste materials in or near the house. Without them fires from carelessly discarded smoking materials would be less frequent.
- Keep chimneys and stovepipes clean with all joints and connections tight. Provide separate metal cans for ashes and for rubbish. Never mix.
- Place substantial fire-resistant guards in front of all woodwork close to sources of heat. The open flames of gas, kerosene, alcohol, and gasoline stoves should be particularly shielded.
- Keep greasy and oily rags in tightly closed metal cans provided for that purpose.
- Avoid the filling of lighted lamps. Avoid the use of kerosene to light or quicken fires. The application of heat to kerosene results in the generation of gases which are very explosive.
- Do not use gasoline, naphtha, or benzene for cleaning. Use some of the safer solutions now obtainable and these, in any considerable quantity, out of doors and during the day.
- Keep all open flames away from gas leaks. Explosive mixture of gas and air are quickly formed in such places, and they only need a lighted match or taper to cause disastrous results.
- Avoid hanging lace curtains and other draperies near gas-jets or other open flames. The draft from near-by windows may cause fires quick to spread and difficult to extinguish.
- Avoid toy wax candles. Each

$2,000,000 Annually For Texas University Sought By Regents

Regents of the University of Texas, in a statement laid before legislators, asked an appropriation of nearly $2,000,000 a year for the next two years for the main university.

For the fiscal year 1938, the regents asked $1,930,510.

In addition to the main university, regents asked $281,130 per year for the medical branch at Galveston and $218,400 for extramural activities.

The requested income for the coming two years, regents said, is approximately $250 per student, of which approximately $200 would be from appropriations and $50 from fees and other sources.

The requests provided for restoration of salaries to predepression levels.

The regents' budget called for establishment of a school of fine arts at the university, and provisions for an increase of 600 in the number of students at the school of medicine.

When Leland Stanford, Jr., died at the age of 17 in 1885, his parents founded the university of that name as a memorial.

Pattern 8863: Who wouldn't perk up at the sight of this crisp trimmed house frock? The becoming collar and jabot are carefully designed to look well on the mature figure and their inviting simplicity appeals to the woman of average size as well.

A splendid idea is to cut this model twice—its comfort and good lines make it attractive for afternoons at home while the absence of fussy non-essentials place it in the efficiency class for busy housewives. The skirt is panelled and flared for style and freedom in action. The short workmanlike sleeves are finished with smart turn-back cuffs which add to the frock's effectiveness and charm.

Among these will be remembered the Chicago fire, the Johnstown flood, the San Francisco earthquake and fire, the Galveston storm, and floods of

Other Years in the Mississippi Valley and Other Localities

The Chicago Fire On October 8 and 9, 1871, occurred the memorable "Chicago Fire" which reduced the greater part of the city to ashes, destroyed its business district, swept over an area of more than three square miles, and causing destruction of $190,000,000 in property, lives lost to the number of 200 and 100,000 persons made homeless.

The Chicago fire started when Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked over a lantern, the blaze catching the hay in the cow barn and the strong wind spreading the flame to the city where it raged until one third of Chicago lay in smoking ruins.

In 1874 another disastrous fire broke out in Chicago, consuming 18 blocks and 600 homes. The total loss was $4,000,000. It was only a year or two ago when a fire broke out in the Chicago stock yards district, resulting in heavy property damage.

The Johnstown Flood

At Johnstown, Pennsylvania, on May 31, 1889, a terrible disaster occurred when the dam, across the South Fork of the Conemaugh River, 10 miles east of the city, broke. The entire valley was inundated within a few minutes by the terrific deluge of waters. Not only Johnstown but surrounding villages suffered from the catastrophe. A considerable loss of life resulted from the sudden onrush of the water which came without the slightest warning.

The Galveston Storm

On September 8, 1900, Galveston was visited by a violent hurricane and accompanying flood which caused loss of 700 lives and the destruction of $20,000,000 worth of property. The wind in this storm reached a velocity of 100 miles per hour, rolling mountainous tidal waves across the island, crushing houses as they struck them and using the splintered timbers of the wrecked houses as battering rams for further destruction.

As in other disasters, a quick response was made by people over the Nation and measures were put into operation for the relief of distress, the checking of epidemics, and later the rebuilding of the city. A great sea wall of concrete and steel, 17 feet high at the water's edge, was constructed and the grade raised behind it to prevent a repetition of the disaster. This wall has been severely tested numerous times in recent years, but it has held and Galveston has settled down safely from the ravages of gulf storms.

A great gulf storm in 1875 and again in 1886 at Indianola completely demolished that once promising Texas port, located near where the waters of the Guadalupe River merges into the Matagorda Bay, and arm of the Gulf of Mexico.

The San Francisco Disaster The San Francisco disaster was, at the time it occurred, referred to ## as an earthquake, but the San Franciscoans, it is said, insist that it should be designated as "the fire."

The earthquake struck San Francisco April 16, 1906, and was followed by fire—the two forces of nature's destruction practically destroying the city. With determination and pluck the citizens of the Pacific coast city came back after the disaster, redesigned and rebuilt until today it ranks as one of the best designed cities in the world. San Francisco's disaster resulted in the loss of 800 lives and property damage totalling $300,000,000.

Other Disasters

In September, 1919, Corpus Christi suffered from a tidal wave which caused much damage and loss of life; the Ohio and Mississippi river valleys in 1913 and 1927 and at other times have suffered flood losses, but nothing to compare with the current 1937 disaster.

Texas streams also have had some flood periods; the Trinity, the Brazos, the Colorado, the Guadalupe, the Nueces and the Rio Grande have all contributed to the flood losses suffered by the Texas people, but perhaps Texas' greatest losses have been from the lack of moisture rather than from the excess of it.

Often after a great disaster, a city or community rebuilds better and more permanently and safeguards against future catastrophes. We hope some good will come from the great floods of 1937.

later at Saint Die, a small and attractive town in the French Vosges district.

The "baptismal certificate" is still there as well as the "baptismal font" where this historical christening took place. The "baptismal certificate" consists of a map upon which the newly discovered continent was designated for the first time as "America" by Martin Waldseemue-ller, one of the cartographers, and the "baptismal font" is the building, still standing where those cartographers of four centuries ago labored. The word "America" first was in type by Barzin, a local printer.

It was at Saint Die that a small group of scholars carried on their researches and made meagre use of the new art of printing. In an introduction to an edition of the Cosmography of Ptolemy, in which was included an account of the journeys of Americus Vespucci, it was suggested that the name "America" be given to this newly discovered continent.

The cloisters where these scholars lived still stand, and in the heart of the city is a building to which a table has been affixed identifying it as the house where the book was printed and the name first placed in type. There, too, map, was made. The house of Bazin which still stands a monument to the internationality of the group collaborating in extending world horizons.

A movement has been started to purchase the house of Bazin and transform it into an American shrine. The idea has been warmly received in the United States. —Kerrville Mountain Sun.

Bill Would Create Single Chamber Legislature

Again attempting to establish the unicameral legislature in Texas, Sen. G. H. Nelson today introduced his bill in the Senate for the creation of a single chamber legislature. The bill is substantially the same as proposed last year by the Senator, and is similar in most respects to a bill introduced by Rep. Wilson Fox this session which proposes that one house idea.

"Passage of the proposed amendment seems favorable at this session", Sen. Nelson declared. "I believe the bill will be reported out of the constitutional committee as favorable. If two-thirds of the members in each house uphold the bill it will then be submitted to the people at an election in 1938, and if passed then, it would become effective in January 1941."

No bill has ever been introduced in the history of the State which provides for such drastic changes in the fundamental structure of the government, but the talk of such a change has become more and more popular of late. Newspaper men over the state have repeatedly expressed favorable comment of the bill, and it is believed that the people are likewise in favor of it since it aims to cut the expense of operating the government almost in half.

A careful reading of the bill as proposed shows that the bill intends for a simple procedure of government similar to the one now in operation in Nebraska. Instead of two chambers as exists today, there would be only one composed of 42 members elected popularly from the 21 Congressional District in Texas. Term of office would be for 4 years, with half the members being elected every two years, thus having a rotating personal. No person could serve that was not 25 years of age, and each legislator would receive an annual salary of $5,000. This is a larger salary than received at the present time, yet it is interesting to note that even though this is a substantial increase of salary, still in comparing the amount paid now under the mileage per diem provisions, which include the ten dollars per day salary and the travelling expenses to the legislature, with that amount under the new system that would be paid, the resulting figures show that under the one-house operation much money would be saved. Explanation of this is that the membership of the legislature would be reduced by approximately 140 persons. The legislature would meet every two years, but would serve for the continuous two year period unless they deemed it advisable for the best interests of the State of adjourn temporarily. The governor could call a special session whenever he thinks it imperative, or when two-thirds of the legislature submitted sworn request for such a session. No legislator under the new system could perform other services, or practice any other profession, or have any retainer while a member of the body, but is supposed to give his whole and exclusive time toward handling the States business.

says: "The Duke of Norfolk, called 'England's most eligible bachelor,' married the Hon. Lavinia Strutt Wednesday while hundreds of women outside the chapel fought police in a wild melee.

"The wedding of the 28-year-old premier Duke and Earl of England and the 21-year-old daughter of Lord Belper, with some 3,000 guests present in Brompton oratory, was itself the most brilliant social event of the new year in London.

"Britain's royalty, ambassadors and ministers attended the wedding."

Most of us will recall that former King Eddie was England's most eligible bachelor for many years. That was before Wally came on the scene.

Now we are waiting for an announcement from old London as to the name of "England's new most eligible bachelor."

THE NICARAGUA CANAL—

The proposal for the United States to dig a second canal connecting the Atlantic and Pacific oceans is again before Congress. It is an interesting idea, and to which is worth giving careful consideration.

For many years the United States has had a concession from Nicaragua for a canal across that country. Engineers have reported on it favorably. The Navy and the Army have made extensive surveys and are agreed upon its military value. The only question now is whether we need a second canal in addition to the one at Panama, and whether it would be worth what it cost.

The Navy people would like to have it. Our present naval set-up is one big fleet, based on San Diego, California, to protect both our coasts. If we did not have the Panama Canal, making it easy to move ships quickly from one coast to the other, we would have to maintain two fleets, one in the Atlantic and one in the Pacific.

Lately there has been a good deal of alarm expressed about the danger of the Panama Canal being blocked by a landslide or an earthquake, and the suggestion has been put forth that it would be too easy, in case of war, for enemy aircraft to blow up the canal locks.

There is more to the Nicaragua canal plan, however, than merely providing a "second string" in case of war. It would cut more than 1,000 miles off the navigating distance between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, and so would shorten the voyage for freight and passengers by two days or more, at corresponding reductions in cost. It is also much nearer to United States territory, at each end, and so easier to defend against foreign attack.

It would take about $700,000,000 and 10 years time to dig the Nicaragua Canal. Ten years is certainly not too far to look ahead.

Well, folks, $700,000,000 is a heap o' money. But we must remember this, too: we would be in the middle of a stream without a paddle if a strong enemy attacked and, through some circumstances we were unable to successfully defend ourselves. It always pays to be prepared for the worst.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

THE AIR PILOT'S RESPONSIBILITY—

The recent succession of fatal airplane accidents in which the pilots of commercial planes were taking their direction guidance from Government radio beams, brings up the question how far air navigation can safely be controlled by orders and rules which, if they do not actually deprive the pilot of authority, at least give him an "out" if anything happens when he is flying by rule.

If there is one position in which the highest degree of technical skill should be coupled with the fullest personal responsibility, it would seem to be that of the commanding officer of a passenger airplane. Upon his individual ability to think clearly and act quickly in emergencies depend the lives of his passengers. He should not be required to take orders from the ground, yet the tendency is increasing to deprive air pilots of authority to use their own judgment, and compel them to follow rules and orders which may or may not be appropriate at the moment.

All of the aids to navigation, for ships at sea and ships of the air, are useful only if regarded as emergency devices. When commanders get the habit of relying upon them, instead of upon their own technical skill and judgment, they tend to become machines instead of men.

No set of rules, no mechanical devices or electrical gadgets, can ever take the place of trained, human intelligence, and that is particularly the case in flying.

uld be encouraged within the child. Forcefulness, efficiency, self confidence, and reverence are character traits that a child should have developed within him at home," the speaker alleged.

Principal Earl Hobbs discussed, "The School as a Factor of Character Education." Mr. Hobbs stated that 80 to 90 per cent of people are what they are because of training in citizenship. He declared that character is largely an outgrowth of environment.

Mr. Hobbs said that Littlefield schools tried to instill in its students the spirit of cooperation, honesty, courage and fair play.

County Judge L. R. Crockett discussed the problem of "Correct Use of Leisure Time as a Factor In Development of Character."

Judge Crockett stressed the necessity of planning for leisure and creating vision within the child. He also said that by studying the child his particular interests may be discovered and cooperation and sympathy can be built up within the child.

Yeary Wins In Magnolia Winter Proof Contest

Lloyd Yeary, who is in charge of automobile lubrication service at the Littlefield Service Station, has been awarded one of the Winter Proof contest prizes given by the Magnolia Petroleum Co.

The Littlefield Service Station was placed in the 7501 to 10,000 gallons per month bracket. In this bracket Yeary was awarded one of the third prizes of $30. Other stations winning third place in the 7501 to 10,000 bracket were in much larger places than Littlefield, and included stations in Wrenn, Fort Worth, Houston and San Antonio.

Winning of third place in this contest with stations located many times larger cities than Littlefield was a very notable achievement for Mr. Yeary and the Littlefield Service Station.
