CITIZENS FAVOR MUNICIPAL PLANT IN LITTLEFIELD

CITY COMMISSION CONFERS WITH ENGINEERS RELATIVE TO SURVEY

The City Commission conferred Wednesday afternoon with Montgomery & Ward, consulting engineers of Wichita Falls, relative to a general survey of Littlefield with a view to the establishing of a municipal power and light plant in this city.

A preliminary survey was made some time ago, and the commission is now giving consideration to taking steps toward a complete survey.

The preliminary survey showed that 90 per cent of the people of Littlefield are in favor of a municipal power and light plant.

The citizens consider that the rates charged by the Texas Utilities Co. are too high, that the present rates discourage the growth and development of the city, and that, with the earnings from a municipal plant, the City of Littlefield would be in a much improved financial condition, would be able to reduce and possibly eliminate taxation, and, in addition, carry out many important projects in the development of the city.

The commissioners have the wholehearted support of the citizenship of this city in taking the necessary steps in establishing a municipal power and light plant.

Plainville entered into a contract Tuesday night with Montgomery & Ward to make a survey of that city with a view to establishing a municipal power and light plant.

Levelland, Hereford and other cities in this section also are giving consideration to establishing municipal plants.

Thanksgiving Proclamation

I, T. S. Sales, Mayor of the City of Littlefield, Texas, with a view to the suitable observance of Thanksgiving, do hereby proclaim November 24, Thanksgiving Day, a holiday in the City of Littlefield, Texas.

It seems most fitting on this occasion to direct our attention to the fact that, while we have passed through a period of time when our financial, industrial and agricultural activities have been at a seeming low ebb, we have turned the inevitable "corner," business is again assuming normal proportions and we have this in addition to our many other blessings for which to be thankful to our Maker. The South Plains section has suffered much less because of world economic conditions than many other parts of the country; we are harvesting an abundant crop and we should put our shoulder to the wheel in a united effort to make the most of our nation, our city and our selves.

Issued and proclaimed, this the 16th day of November, A. D., 1932.
T. S. SALES,
Mayor City of Littlefield, Texas.

J. T. ELMS PRESENTS FIRE BOYS WITH $50.00 CHECK IN APPRECIATION OF SERVICES RENDERED IN FIRE AT FARM

Fire broke out in a stack of maize heads at the J. T. Elms farm, three miles southeast of Littlefield Monday about twelve o'clock, and according to Mr. Elms only the quick response and splendid work of the Littlefield Fire Department saved considerable feed, as well as the buildings on the farm, which Mr. Elms said could not have otherwise have been saved, as a high wind was blowing. Only one stack burned.

Mr. Elms carried no insurance on his feed.

In appreciation of the splendid, untiring and unselfish service rendered by the fire boys, Mr. Elms presented the fire department Monday with a check for $50.00, which was a pleasant surprise and very much appreciated.

Littlefield is to be congratulated on having such a fine fire department and Mr. Elms also is to be commended for his noble and gracious deed in showing his appreciation for the service rendered.

Mr. Elms, who is manager of the Texas Farm Bureau Gin, is a man of sterling qualities, and one of the highest esteemed citizens of this city.

Rev. Boyd is being succeeded by Rev. Phillip Gates of Stanton, who with his family are moving to Littlefield Thursday, and will occupy the pulpit of the Littlefield church Sunday morning.

Rev. Gates is reported to be a very capable preacher and a man of sterling qualities. The members of the Methodist Church and City in general welcome this fine man and his family to Littlefield.

Littlefield---Our City; We Don't Need Boomers and Schemers

(AN EDITORIAL)

Littlefield—our city. Those words might well be spelled out in letters as "high as the house" on every entrance to our city.

Not for the purpose of discouraging others from making Littlefield their home, or from visiting here, or from carrying on legitimate business, but to constantly remind us that Littlefield is "our city" and as a warning to others—the BOOMERS and the SCHEMERS—that they cannot enter Littlefield and do as they please, exploiting for their personal gain anyone in any group of our citizens.

LITTLEFIELD IS BECOMING MORE AND MORE UNFRIENDLY TOWARD THE SCHEMERS.

Who built the Littlefield of yesterday?
Who built the Littlefield of today?
Who is building the Littlefield of tomorrow?
The answer is "our people," the people who are paying taxes, paying their way, working with us shoulder to shoulder in every way.

IT IS NOT THE MAN OR WOMAN WITH A POCKETFUL OF CONTACTS WITH WHICH TO BLEED OUR BUSINESS MEN, OR THE MAN OR WOMAN WHO IS TAKING ORDERS FOR SOME LINE OF MERCHANDISE.

The contract artists, the order takers, are not numbered among the group who pay taxes, pay rent, support our churches, support our Chamber of Commerce and other organizations.

They couldn't be numbered in the group that is building and maintaining Littlefield.

They are opportunists; they come among us in greatest numbers at cotton harvesting time; they "work" the wheat sections when the crop is being harvested, and they flock into oil towns that are active.

Sometimes you find them peddling a line of dresses; sometimes it's hose; sometimes it's groceries; sometimes it's printing; sometimes it's furniture polish; sometimes it's floor polish; sometimes they are exploiting the air.

And speaking of polishes, we have a bottle of an alleged polish in our office; it was sold as floor polish, but analysis determined it to be nothing under the shining sun but gasoline and sand or clay.

IT WOULD HAVE BEEN TOO BAD IF THE LADY WHO PURCHASED IT HAD IN SOME MANNER PERMITTED IT TO COME IN CONTACT WITH FIRE.

Have you ever noticed how "all hat up" a schemer becomes when it is suggested that his room would be more acceptable than his company? We know of many occasions when an attempt has been made to give us a first class casing; of course, a little of that goes a long way with most of us.

We know a case recently in which the advertising committee of the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce told a promoter of a certain scheme that they did not believe his proposition in the best interests of Littlefield. Did that stop him? No! He put out the word to a member of the Chamber of Commerce that he operated under a much higher authority than the advertising committee of the chamber. And he went right along working on his proposition, in the hope of taking hundreds of dollars out of Littlefield in a very short time.

WHO IS RUNNING LITTLEFIELD? IS IT THE OUTSIDER WHO WANTS TO TAKE OUT OF OUR CITY HUNDREDS OF DOLLARS THAT WE WILL NEED VERY BADLY BEFORE ANOTHER CROP COMES AROUND.

WE KNOW OUR CITIZENSHIP WELL ENOUGH TO ANNOUNCE THAT CERTAINLY THE BOOMERS AND THE SCHEMERS ARE NOT GOING TO RUN LITTLEFIELD.

LIFE ON THE FARM

Work on the farm is hard, but is not so hard as work in many industrial employments, and labor-saving devices have made it easier than it used to be.

The farmer is taxed in many cases beyond what he thinks is fair, but so is the city worker. All in all, a farmer leads, through fat years and lean, a healthier and a more independent life, than the industrial worker. If more young people on the farms realized that; if more of them were imbued with respect for agriculture and realized that there is a dignity in honest toil, a larger number of them would remain on the land and take in the city sights by automobile, after the chores are done, and not toil in cities and have only two weeks out of 52 in which to seek recreation among the scenes from which they have fled.

The farm is a long way from being the ideal place it would be if tax burdens did not cast so many clouds above it. But even with these clouds it's still the finest place Americans have yet found to live, and the finest place to bring up our future Americans.—Muleshoe Journal.

SPEED UP YOUR MIND

Announcement in the public prints this week that American Airways next spring will add a mile a minute to the cruising speed of the ships they will have in service for American travel ought to knock into a cocked hat that idea which seems to pervade some minds of the iron-age type that things are going to continue bad and that we shall gradually drift back into this, that and the other that once was. We are gradually not going to do that, but the very reverse and one can look aloft to find the answer to such talk. Present cruising ranges of the Airways planes is 110 to 135 miles an hour. Next spring the speed averages will be 180 miles.

The will to have things as we want them rather than as the foggy minded ones would have them for us, "for the good of our souls" or something, is too strongly built into the warp and woof of the American people. All these things that are in the way, including debts and whatnot, are going to be gotten out of the way. The path is forward and not backward. Towns and cities and farms and railways and property of all kinds will "come back" and there'll be wealth and happiness and prosperity once more. Don't listen to those who tell you differently!—Floyd County Hesperian.

WEST TEXAS C. OF C. IS STUDYING COUNTY GOVERNMENT REORGANIZATION

With a view to offering and supporting a definite plan for the reorganization of county government in Texas at the general session of the Forty-third Legislature, the committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce on county reorganization has undertaken a definite study of county government, and two reorganizational proposals that have been made already.

The central public expenditure committee of the regional chamber, headed by Van Zandt Jarvis of Fort Worth, has furnished the members of the county reorganization committee a brief of information and facts about county government in Texas incorporating the program of the West Texas Chamber as announced at the Sweetwater convention, a critical analysis of county government, a recital of the experience of other states on county reorganization, the proposed C. A. Jay plan, the proposed home rule measure proposed at the forty-second Legislature by Representative Walter Beck, and a syllabus of the present constitutional provisions affecting county government.

Members of the committee on reorganization of the West Texas Chamber are: A. H. Britain, Wichita Falls; Walter Beck, Austin; E. B. McClintock, El Paso; Senator Clint C. Small, Amarillo; Representative R. M. Wagstaff, Abilene; and Representative A. B. Tarwater, Plainview.

Chairman Jarvis outlines the program and purposes of the regional organization in the brief as follows:

The city of New York has an army of 147,000 men and women on its payroll.

TWO OLD MEN OF THE SEA

"Having its inception in a resolution adopted at the fourteenth annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in Sweetwater in May, 1932, one of the objectives of the organization is: Work to secure a more economical form of county government as may be provided for in the enactment of a home rule measure for county government.

The text of the Sweetwater resolution is: Resolved that the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, its central public expenditure committee, and affiliated committees favor and support the immediate enactment of such constitutional amendments and laws that will permit county home rule, consolidation of counties one with another, providing such constitutional amendments and laws are applicable uniformly to all counties of the state.

The purpose of the brief this committee is submitting to the subcommittee and other agencies upon the problem may be studied by the subcommittee that it may be prepared to offer a county reorganization plan that will fit the needs and accomplish the purposes set out in our program.

Neither of the two proposed plans on county reorganization may fit the needs, in the opinion of the committee, but both represent a tremendous amount of work and thought, and should enable the committee to formulate a proposal with a minimum of time and effort."

The cupboard is their home

POULTRY, butter and eggs must never be without cupboards to go to. Behind the daily activity of Swift & Company's organization lie the simple ambitions of 55,000 employees and 48,000 stockholders—to live modestly, but well, and to deal fairly with each other and the rest of the world.

They understand the company's task. A most important part of that task is to buy produce from farmers at more than 100 produce plants, put it into attractive form for consumption and pass it along, without delay and with a minimum of cost, to retailers.

Employees and stockholders understand also the limitations of the job. They realize: (1) that Swift & Company must buy produce in competition with all other dealers and pay what any one else will offer; (2) that Swift & Company must sell whatever it buys at a price which consumers, through their retailers, are able and willing to pay; (3) that the little profit aimed at can be obtained only by keeping down every expense.

Our workers are spread over most of the United States; they are local residents wherever Swift & Company has a produce plant, a packing plant or a branch selling house. They are people just like the farm men and women who have produce to sell, with the same desire to give honest value and to get on in the world by performing real service.

Of our stockholders, more than 40 per cent are women. Their funds are invested in the company because they hope to receive at least moderate dividends. Over a period of years, profits have averaged less than half a cent a pound on all products sold.

Through good times and bad Swift & Company continues to maintain its national market for produce, working near capacity, paying cash to producers and, with the hearty cooperation of employees and stockholders, cutting every operating and selling expense over which it has control.

The Swift & Company national market was made by digging up demand wherever it exists in the United States, by advertising brands of high quality, Swift's Meats, Swift's Premium Milk-Fed Chicken, Golden West Fowl, Swift's Brookfield Butter, Eggs, Cheese and many other products.

FIRST LOVES

by FELIX RIESENBERG

might think their heads off, for all she or he cared. It was this flair for unusual adventure which made her so entrancing. John wondered what she would wear.

As he turned east, past the hotel, he stopped for a moment. His hand was in his pocket. He should have sent flowers, brought a ring, or have done a half a dozen thing that any competent lover would have attended to. His hand fished up an envelope. He remembered the note amid the crowd of things that came to him on leaving the club. With the sight and handshake of old Wild, in the flurry, he had forgotten it.

He stood in front of the Van Horn house. He was about to go up the steps. Then he thought. Perhaps there was something in the note he should know, before leaving with Josephine? He tore open the envelope, under the street light. His eyes followed the brief lines, they blurred and clarified, and magnified. His coat seemed very warm. He hooked his stick over his arm and stepped nearer the light. A huge black car had come to rest behind him, silently, a great car with curtains drawn. It was behind him with dimmed headlights, like great eyes, as if a monster eavesdropper was trying to read the note also.

John glanced up at the lighted windows. He seemed to hear the notes of the piano. Josephine was evidently singing, playing. "She was no doubt ready, waiting for him. John caught a waft of scent, possibly perfume Josephine. The area door opened. Tashi and the footman brought out and were strapping a patent leather trunk on the rear carrier. It was all real enough. John looked. There was plenty of room for another trunk. The area door clanged behind the men. He thought he saw Josephine part the heavy curtains and look out. He must act quick. Again he read the note, it was very concise; it was insistent.

The whole overwhelming problem swam before his eyes, Josephine, and foreign lands, palace hotels, long hours in exotic bedrooms, caresses, kisses, endearments, her rich hair tumbling over white pillows in a caaract of gold. Soft whispering allurements. Stupid dinners, tiresome people, alien towns, queer uninteresting time-destroying play; spats, boredom. There was the beginning of the road; she was ready to carry him away, to make him forget.

Perhaps she had seen him. The curtains were drawn to. Even then she might be coming down, running eagerly toward him. The great car frightened him. It would carry them far, far away from the city, forever.

The lines of the short letter burned in his hand. He had no need to again peruse them.

DEAR JOHN,

Can you join me at nine o'clock tonight, at my Wall Street office? Am arranging hundred million dollar foundation. We must stop planning and begin to rebuild the tenements. Offer you full charge of construction, as Director and Chief Engineer.

The city needs you.

ALMON STRAUSS

The house door opened; it was only Tashi, but John Breen without looking, turned hastily and walked east toward Madison Avenue, across Park Avenue, toward Third. Halfway down the block his attention was attracted to a lighted window of a basement resident and within was a scene that paused his steps. A mother, seated with child in her lap, both looking up in smiling assurance into the face of the father bending over them. John Breen stood transfixed. Slowly he turned; slowly he started to retrace his steps.

Suddenly the full import of the decision he had yet failed to make came upon him. As his fine mind grasped the facts, his step quickened. "My work . . . or my Josephine . . . which? he muttered aloud as if seeking to know that all the years were summed up in those few words.

"First love wins," said John Breen, a great light of happiness coming to his face.

He pressed the bell. Josephine herself, stood in the door before him. In her eyes was that look which only one man ever sees . . . deep into the soul.

"My love . . . my first, my only love," said Josephine as John Breen took her in his arms.

THE END

John's last day in the realms of uncertainty passed swiftly. He got up early, tubbed and took a brisk walk. Then he sent off a cable to London. "Cannot accept China post." That for that! He packed a small trunk, whistling the while. Several times he almost phoned Harbord and Pug. "No use, I'll wire from Philadelphia." Were they to be married before or after? He wondered. Josephine had a very puzzling way about her.

He called her up at noon. "Come after dinner," she laughed deliciously. "There's a moon tonight, for the elopement. We'll pick up your things as we go through Thirty-ninth Street. Goodby, dear, until eight." Something sounded like a kiss, or a smack, over the phone.

He had several hours on his hands. He sat and smoked. What a washout the old town was! What a place. Still he would never be lonely again. He kept trying to picture the years; the years ahead.

outpouring of his fresh enthusiasm, the ones in which he told her of the aqueduct, and of his plans. She had kept them through it all. She stood before him, against the firelight, a presence outlined, her shimmering dress aflame. An uneasy fear held his breath. "John," and then she was on her knees, her head buried in his sap, sobbing. Her soft breasts pressed against his knees, her hair glowed under him in the light. "I have always loved you—always!"

She looked up, tears glistened like stars; oh, she was beautiful!

His cigar had fallen, he lifted her. Her face so close to his. The years sped away. Over the mantelpiece, Gilbert Van Horn looked down on them while Josephine poured out her heart. John, crossing her, his hungry soul crying for love, held her close. Life, what is it? What are the things that count? Why are we here? In the sub-conscious half-light of the mind, under the patter of love, he seemed to know. Josephine, in feverish impulse, poured forth her strong affection. She had jilted him, and now, at last, she had relented.

"I am tired of this place. We will leave, John, leave it all. We will travel, we will live in sunshine. The world has much to offer us." Josephine and John sat on the wide lounge, he held her, her head on his shoulder, her hands clasping his. It had been a long, long road, but at last, at last—

"You know I've sold the house, they are going to build an annex to the hotel next door. Everything is changing, the people are changing. The best New Yorkers now live a-broad most of the time. Oh, John, how glad I am that you found me."

John was on fire, he kissed her brutally, carelessly. He held her close and looked into her eyes. "Why can't we get married, now, tonight?"

"No, John, dear. No! no! We will leave tomorrow—night. I have so many things to settle. The movers and storage people will be in early tomorrow. I want to get some of my things in order. Go back to the club, like a good boy, tonight. Get things packed. I will put my things in a small car trunk. We'll take the coach, motor to Philadelphia, get married, John, at last. And then, after a while, we can come back and settle things here, and go, go away for a few years. Oh I am so tired of New York."

Late, very late, John Breen kissed Josephine and left.

Woman's Study Club Sponsor Duplicate Contract Bridge Tournament Monday Evening

On Monday, November 21, the library committee of the Woman's Study Club will give a duplicate contract bridge tournament in the old Odd Fellows Hall over the Texas Utilities office. Play will begin at eight o'clock and the proceeds will go to buy more new books for the Littlefield Public Library.

This will be the first duplicate tournament ever held in Littlefield, and the committee feel sure it will give much pleasure to those participating. There will be no possibility of any player having "bad luck" as every participant will have the opportunity to see what he can make of every deal, and it would be a crabbled player, indeed, who could not get a thrill from the game of duplicate contract bridge.

These will be refreshments and prizes and it is hoped by the committee that every bridge player in Littlefield and in Lamb county will play next Monday night. Admission is only twenty-five cents.

The new official scoring will be used at the tournament. For the benefit of those who do not know it, it is printed below. This may be clipped and brought to the game.

LAMB COUNTY OF OPPORTUNITY

COUNTY BOY WINS IN STATE COTTON CONTEST; GETS TRIP INTERNATIONAL LIVESTOCK SHOW

The 4-H club boy, belonging to the 4-H club, was crowned Cotton Champion in the county contest. He is the first to have received this week's honor. He is also another big honor growing ability of the county agent.

The story of his day is told by Aneel in his "Cotton Demonstration" after 1932, when Mr. Adam, county agent, began to talk to us boys. I became interested once in a cotton demonstration. As half and half is most grown in this locality, I demonstrated that a better cotton could be grown under conditions as half and a better profit.

I had already been listed 10 before I joined the club. I bought more to it until planting then bought through our county agent 3 bushels of State Certified Acala Cotton Seed and patiently waited for planting time. On May 20 I planted 6 2-5 acres with my 3 bushels for seed. It came up to a perfect stand, properly spaced 4-6 inches between hills, two and three stalks to the hill. I then, knifed once on June 7, this requiring 6 hours of work. I plowed it 3 times, each operation requiring 8 hours, June 22, July 4, and July 12. On July 28, I hoed it, this taking me 11 hours. The total number of hours I worked was 49. Total number of horse hours was 100. My labor was $9.80, horse labor $10.00 and $3.75 for seed, making the crop cost me in labor $23.45.

On October 21, I started picking my cotton, and on the first going over, I picked one bale weighing 1530 pounds which gave me 502 pounds of lint, and 942 pounds of seed, and also, snapped four bales, which weighed 7780 pounds of seed cotton and turned out 1530 pounds of lint cotton, and 2620 pounds of seed, and in addition, 1093 pounds of snapped cotton on another bale.

Then to finish estimating what was left in the field, I used the rule given me by D. A. Adam, county agent, and H. T. Bower of the Texas Department of Agriculture on their visit to inspect my crop on October 19. I counted the number of bolls on 21 feet (measured) in six different places in the field and averaged the number which was 43.5 bolls. I then multiplied this by 10 and then this amount by 70 which gave 30,450 bolls per acre left to be picked. Then the average number of bolls per lb. (the average number of bolls per lb.) I find that I have 315 pounds of seed cotton per acre to be ginned yet, and figuring Acala to gin out 38% I find that I have 119.8 pounds of lint cotton per acre yet to gather and gin. I estimated the remainder of the seed according to the average turn out of seed for the first five bales ginned.

In closing this demonstration, I find that I produced 553.7 pounds of lint cotton per acre, and in addition to this have 6,250 pounds of seed, which I have taken care of at the gin, and therefore, I have been able to place every bushel of these at 60c per bushel.

I find that I have a total of (seed and lint) of $323.49, and a total expense of seed, picking, and ginning of $84.95 leaving me a net return of labor and investment of $238.54 or $37.27 per acre.

My cotton sold for $5.50 and $5.75 while my father was selling his for $5.00 and $5.25.

DUPLICATE CONTRACT BRIDGE

By MRS. C. E. COOPER

The duplicate game is almost as old as the whist game itself. Early in the life of the great game it was discovered that often a five player had no chance of winning because his opponent, being what is known as a "lucky holder" drew all the good cards.

To equalize the value of the hands each team must play it was decided to give the same hands to each partnership, the pair making the largest score being the winners.

The idea so pleased the players who organized it that they immediately began working out some plan of permanently and conveniently keeping the hands as dealt and the present day duplicate board is the result.

At each table the cards are dealt as in ordinary play and are bid and played just as usual except that instead of being placed in the center of the table, each player places the card he plays in front of himself after having shown it. Those winning tricks pointing toward his partner, those losing toward the opponent.

After the hand is finished, the score counted and entered on the score sheet, the cards are picked up by each player and placed in the pockets of the duplicate board, the north hand going into the north pocket, etc. The boards are then carried by the north player to the next table.

Players move from table one to table two, etc.

While the boards are moved from table two to table one. Then every team has an opportunity during the evening to play against every other team and to play every deal that has been made.

Duplicate contract bridge is a brisk game because the moving is done after every hand instead of every four hands. Often a variation of thousands of points results from the different methods of bidding and playing the same hand.

LAMB COUNTY PUTS UP SIX HUNDRED THOUSAND CONTAINERS OF VEGETABLES AND FRUIT FOR WINTER SUPPLY

According to estimates made by home demonstration agents and other in touch with the situation, more than five million tin cans of fruits and vegetables, and a million and a half jars of fruits have been preserved by the women of the 18 counties of the South Plains section.

Value of the food preserved is estimated at over $1,675,000, based on an average of 25 cents per quart.

These totals do not include the probable canning of meats, beef and pork and also chicken, this winter.

Eight of the 18 counties included in the estimate have home demonstration agents. These women are preparing their figures now for annual reports, based on reports to them of pantry demonstrators and co-operators.

Last year 365 4-H pantry demonstrators and 3,756 co-operators in 22 counties in district No. 2 of the extension service, preserved 2,135,171 quarts of canned products, valued at $616,955.07. Total preserved by these women, including cured meats and dried fruits was $765,943.52. The same year 280 garden demonstrators and 3,094 co-operators sold, consumed and canned $253,136.93 worth of vegetables from their gardens.

Outstanding Progress is Being Made by Spade Section; Latest Forward Step is Paying Church Indebtedness

ARLEY B. DRAKE visited the Spade community? ... haven't been out there for ... suggest that some sun- ... afternoon you load up the ... the family dog and drive ... the folks on the Spade. ... be surprised at the growth ... taken place since the ... first store and the gin were built in June, 1930. The most recent outstanding accomplishment of the Spade people was paying off of all indebtedness on the Baptist church, which was built in May of last year. An example of the excellent community spirit which exists on the Spade is found in the fact that the building in May of last year. The notes

The church has a large membership, good attendance at Sunday school, and a good pastor—the Rev. W. A. Wilson, who is also pastor of the Anton Baptist church.

The Spade people are very proud of their school. This school is one of the most modern in the state, has an enrollment of over 300 pupils, 10 teachers and a superintendent, the latter position being very successfully held by J. R. Fisher. Six modern busses convey the pupils to and from their homes.

A modern community in every respect, Spade has a Parent-Teacher association and a Home Demonstration club. Both organizations are very active and are accomplishing much valuable work.

The first store was established at Spade by Roy B. Dodson, at the time the school and gin were under construction, and still is operated by Mr. Dodson.

Development at Spade subsequent to the building of the school, gin, and the first store, includes another store, a garage and filling station, a blacksmith shop, a cafe, and numerous residences.

Spade is located 11 miles east of Littlefield, eight miles north of Anton, and 20 miles south of Olton.

The last time we were at Spade there was talk of application being made for a post office.

It wouldn't surprise us if the post office had been established by this time and doing a land office business. Things move quickly in the Spade community.
