Local Burglary Believed Solved

Two men who engaged in a running gun battle with a deputy sheriff who said he surprised them attempting to burglarize a bar in Tatum, New Mexico, early Thursday, were arraigned Friday at Lovington, New Mexico, on charges of assault with a deadly weapon and breaking and entering.

The two were captured after they exchanged shots with Deputy Sheriff J. G. McAadoo of Lovington, who caught them trying to crack the safe of the Sweet Shop Bar in Tatum. They escaped, the Sheriff's bullets, but were captured separately, one by the Deputy and the other by New Mexico State Police.

Money Order Blanks Found

In possession of the two men at the time of their capture, were money order blanks, alleged to have been taken from the burglarized safe of the Western Union office here, April 4, as well as a typewriter and other items taken in a burglary of the Broadway Market at Silver City, New Mexico recently.

The two men, both of whom are declared to have served prison sentences, were Everett Lee Harrison, 40, who gave his address as Guyton, Oklahoma, and Dillard Hedge, 36.

Had Burglary Tools

The two had a complete set of safe burglary tools in their possession when captured.

Does Littlefield Want Oil Development? Possibility Test Will Not Be Drilled

There is a strong possibility that the first deep test oil well will not be drilled in Littlefield, because the required 700 acres is not leased and the dead line for the leasing is Wednesday, April 22.

John W. Murchison advised his representative, C. J. Duggan, Wednesday, that unless the required 700 acres is in the bank in escrow by April 22, he will have to change his plans, and perhaps withdraw the $18,000 he has in escrow and not drill the well as planned.

If the citizens of Littlefield want oil development, it will be necessary for those who have not offered to lease their lots and acreage, to do so at once. It costs a lot of money to drill a deep test oil well, and Murchison is not willing to undertake the operation without sufficient acreage to protect himself.

According to the terms of the escrow agreement in a local bank, he can withdraw the funds and return the leases already in escrow to their rightful owners.

Does Littlefield —

without cost to the citizenship, and if this fails, there is little chance that any one else will undertake to drill it.

The ordinance in the City Hall will terminate unless Murchison signs in the first well within 120 days from March 11. Major companies have indicated that they will not drill a well in this area unless an ordinance is in force in Littlefield, restricting one well to 20 acres and a number of other protective clauses.

Every lot counts but it takes a lot of lots to make up 700 acres. All those who have not leased are urged to volunteer their lots and small acreage tracts to Murchison in order to get a test well drilled. When oil is discovered and brought in within the city limits, it will go a long way towards paying our municipal debts, the school, the court house, and lower taxes in general, as well as increase the population of Littlefield which will mean more business for everybody. Littlefield wants a test well drilled. It will be necessary to act at once.

Local Burglary —

two were discovered in the bar by the owner, Charlie Patterson, who heard a noise in the back room and went to investigate while McAdoo was parked in front of the building.

Shoot At Bar Owner

The two shot once at Patterson, and McAdoo ran around the building to cut the men off from their car. They escaped afoot, but McAdoo shot at them six times. Harrison was picked up early Thursday eight miles east of Tatum, and Hodge was captured in Tatum later Thursday by McAdoo.

Texas Ranger Razz Renfro and a deputy sheriff of Lubbock County went to Lovington and questioned the two men, and are reported to have secured a verbal confession from Hodge that he and Harrison carried out the burglary here.

They were arraigned Friday before a Justice of the Peace in Lovington by assistant District Attorney Joe Walton. No date was set for a preliminary hearing, which will await the return of the District Attorney who was away at the time of the arraignment.

State officers of New Mexico and Arizona, including Texas Ranger Renfro, have been questioning the two men in connection with similar burglaries in the three-state area, recently.

Marshall Formby —

The farmers viewpoint on this question was given by Robert H. Gibson, who is manager of the Paymaster Farms at Lockney, Texas. Mr. Gibson is an ex-county agent, and has been close to the farmer's viewpoint for many years.

The cotton merchant's viewpoint was given by A. Owens, president of the Texas Cotton Association, Dallas, Texas.

The question considered in the afternoon panel was "By Increasing Research, Would It Be Possible to Eliminate the Need for Subsidies?" Jack Ashworth, professor at marketing and finance at Texas Tech, took the "Maybe So" side of this panel, and Archie Leonard, professor of Agriculture Economics at Texas Tech, took the "Probably Not" side of the panel. A thorough discussion was held on this question.

One of the highlights of the Forum was an address at noon by Marshall Formby, member of the Texas Highway Commission, who spoke on the road needs and the financing problems of these needs in our State Highway Department. Dr. Glen Burk, President of the Lions Club, presented A. F. Wedel with a plaque from the Littlefield Lions Club in honor of his having been selected as the outstanding conservation farmer in Lamb County by the Lamb County Soil Conservation District Board of Supervisors.

No Time for Letdown in Defense Effort

The almost fantastic twists in Soviet diplomacy since the death of Joseph Stalin are now climaxed by the most amazing policy turn of all, a virtual admission that 15 eminent Soviet physicians were railroaded to prison on a phony charge of conspiracy to assassinate a group of high political and military leaders.

This comes on the heels of an official decree granting freedom to thousands of persons held in Soviet jails and concentration camps for terms less than five years and calling for revisions in the criminal laws.

The situation can only mean that somebody in the Russian government, presumably Premier Malenkov, has undertaken to counteract the widespread criticism of the police state character of the Soviet Union and to quiet the internal resentment which the police state methods have aroused. It may be significant that the announcement concerning the release of the doctors places the blame for "incorrect conduct of the investigations" squarely upon the recently abolished security ministry headed by Lavrenti Beria, now minister of internal affairs and supposedly the No. 2 man in the Malenkov administration.

As interesting as these surface indications of change may be, accompanied as they are by peace toward the West and the sudden turning on of smiles, the warning of Secretary of State Dulles that they have not changed the basic danger to the United States should be heeded. Russia still is a heavily armed totalitarian state, communism recognizes no restraints against international immorality, and the creed and the Russian government alike remain deeply and fanatically hostile to Western civilization. These conditions, in Mr. Dulles' view, add up to basic danger regardless of Moscow's current maneuverings.

We must accept them as genuine, as President Eisenhower has remarked, until time and events discredit them. If the Russians are minded to bring about a real peace and to lift their threat from the free world, discouragement of the attempt should be avoided. But until we can know, and we can not know suddenly, the blundering into traps could be disastrous.

"The threat to our way of life by the military capability of potential aggressors," Gen. Matthew Ridgeway pointed out the other day, "has not diminished an iota in the past two years," and "at the moment the faces at our disposal would prove gravely inadequate if put to the test." That is the fundamental and central fact in all the confusion, and we should not lose sight of it. If the Soviet peace campaign collapses the defense structure in Western Europe, and the Russian politico-military machine is not dismantled, where are we?

INDIVIDUAL RIGHTS PROTECTED BY COURTS OF APPEAL

The institution of appellate courts, of which the U. S. Supreme Court is the highest, illustrates how America has tackled the problem of attaining justice. Plato long ago showed that the idea of justice is difficult to come by. It is perhaps even more difficult to translate into human conduct and apply in the settlement of individual cases.

How does a case come before an appellate court? If you and your neighbor have a dispute over the property line between your two lots, you would be foolish to go to court for a settlement if you did not believe that right was on your side. Therefore, practically every civil action that comes before a trial court originates in an honest difference of opinion as to what the law of the facts of that case are.

But right cannot be on both sides so one or the other of the litigants must be mistaken. When you seek counsel on such a question, it frequently happens that your lawyer will advise you not to go to court. Only a relatively small percentage of cases reach trial. The law is clear enough so that among the numerous transactions taking place in the country only a relatively few ever result in lawsuit.

But suppose you and your lawyer have decided that your case has enough merit to warrant going to court. The facts on both sides are presented, the lawyers on both sides argue the merits of their clients' cases and the court is then called upon to render a decision. In some cases this decision will be based upon findings of a jury. The vast majority of the cases are settled then and there with the decision of the trial judge.

But judges, like all of us, are human, and the law is complicated and subject to varied interpretation. At time the trial judge may err in admitting or evaluating the facts, or in interpreting the law applicable to the facts. Under such circumstances your case may be appealed to an appellate court.

Some states have no intermediate courts between the trial court and the State Supreme Court. In such states a case from District Court is appealed directly to the Supreme Court, the highest court of appeal in the state.

In Texas, cases are appealed from a District Court to one of eleven Courts of Civil Appeals. Sometimes the judgment of the latter court is final, as in ordinary divorce cases not involving property. But if the case meets certain requirements it may be further appealed to the Supreme Court of

Health Talks

Prepared by the State Medical Association of Texas

Do you know what safeguards a patient may expect when he enters a hospital?

First, if he sees in its lobby a certificate of approval by the American College of Surgeons, he can feel certain that it has met basic standards and that he is likely to receive good service and care. In periodic surveys a committee from this group and four other organizations recognized as authorities on hospital grades individual hospitals on the basis of the physical plant and the organization and efficiency of the administrative, medical, and nursing staffs. In Texas at the beginning of 1952 there were 78 approved and 8 provisionally approved hospitals. Institutions not meeting requirements are shown how to improve, when they have removed all the marks against them, they are granted approval.

It is recognized that smaller hospitals shouldn't always be expected to have expensive buildings, elaborate equipment, or a highly organized staff. The committee on hospital approval has several classes of approval, requiring certain basic standards for all and other standards depending on the size of the institution. Hospitals have fewer er than twenty-five beds are not subject to committee approval, the responsibility for high standards of patient care in these small hospitals rest on the shoulders of the doctors and other personnel owning and operating them.

Just as the approved hospital has to measure up to set standards, it requires its doctors to be fully qualified. An applicant for staff membership is chosen according to his education, experience, character, loyalty, and ethics. He must satisfy his fellow physicians and the hospital officials that he is qualified professionally and morally to care for patients. However, merely meeting these standards doesn't assure his continued appointment on the staff. Each year his record is reviewed. His work must have been of good quality, he must have attended a certain percentage of staff meetings, at which plans are made to improve patient care in the hospital, and he must have been cooperative with other hospital workers and interested in the institution.

In addition to satisfactory physical facilities and well trained hospital personnel, routines established by the hospital are a decided protection for the patient. For example, his history and results of a physical examination and laboratory studies relative to his illness must be recorded on his chart twenty-four hours after admission. Thus, his chart, too, becomes a safeguard, since everything regarding diagnosis and treatment during his time in the hospital must be put in writing.

At admission the doctor in charge of the case must state in his own words what he thinks is wrong with the patient (admission diagnosis). If an operation is involved, a diagnosis must be made before and after (preoperative and post operative diagnosis), the surgeon also describes what he found and what he did. Finally, tissue removed during surgery is sent to the hospital's laboratory, where the pathologist gives his diagnosis (pathologic diagnosis). Doctors believe there should be a high degree of accuracy in these four diagnoses. Any physician who has a consistently low "batting average" is called upon for an explanation and unless he improves is disciplined by suspension of operating privileges, failure to be reappointed to staff membership, or some other action.

Medical consultation is another means of protection against possible errors in diagnosis. The patient or his family may ask the doctor to call in another physician at any time to advise regarding treatment or surgery. Also, before an operation which may possibly cause an abortion or before an operation to remove a baby from the mother's abdomen (a cesarean section), a consultation is required.

Finally, even after a patient's death the hospital tries to protect future patients through autopsy, an examination performed with great care and regard for the patient's body. Autopsies add to the general store of knowledge and may benefit the patient's family directly if it is found that death has resulted from a disease which tends to run in families. Before an autopsy is done, the hospital requires that the next of kin sign a consent form. A certain number of autopsies is required of the hospital in order to be granted approval, and it therefore encourages staff doctors to obtain permission for these examinations, especially if the cause of death is a mystery.

The following items were news in the Lamb County Leader of April 5, 1934, nearly 20 years ago:

With the completion of all arrangements for the Happy Kitchen School of Cookery, Mrs. Beulah Mickey Yates, noted food economist and lecturer, is scheduled to open her first session of the Happy Kitchen Monday afternoon, April 23, at 2 o'clock at the Palace Theatre, Littlefield. The school of cookery will be Texas. Criminal cases are appealed directly from the District Court to the Court of Criminal Appeals, which is the highest state court in criminal matters.

Federal cases are appealed from a U. S. District Court to a Circuit Court of Appeals and from there to the Supreme Court of the United States, provided the latter will assume jurisdiction of the matter.

When you appeal your case, you ask that the error you believe you have found be corrected. If it was an error, that is what will happen—the trial judge's decision will be reversed.

Sometimes the courts are compelled to decide a question one way because the law says so, but the results bring to light serious defects on the existing law. When such an injustice is discovered, the legislature may remedy the defect by passing laws to correct it.

Realize, too, that here is the only low-priced car with sturdy Fisher Unisteel Construction, Safety Plate Glass in windshield and all windows of sedans and coupes, extra-easy Power Steering* and many other important safety factors, and you'll understand why owners rate the new Chevrolet tops.

Legislature Studies Bill of Annexation by Cities

ALWAYS OPEN SEASON

John Knatt in The Dallas Morning News

In answer to claims that the present law is needed for cities to "protect" themselves, Wolfe points out that cities of the other 47 states have been able to grow and prosper without depriving citizens of their inalienable rights. In addition, the reason many cities have to "protect themselves" is because of the "land-grabbing" tactics of other nearby cities, a situation created by the present law, he adds.

Alleged Abuses Cited

Examples of the abuse of the annexation power are given by Wolfe as the taking in 80 square miles by San Antonio, including many ranches and farms, last year. San Antonio thus more than doubled its area overnight.

Another example cited is that of Dallas, where many residents have been in the city as much as five years and still have no city water

First Baptist Building Fund Total $107,854

Contributions towards the building fund of the First Baptist Church Sunday of last week totaled $2,648.15, which was made possible by several large gifts. The total building fund is $107,854.36.

Workmen are coming along nicely on the building. The cement for the foundation is being poured.

The plans committee, with the approval of the church, is planning to use the fixture type of lighting in the auditorium with a combination of direct and indirect lighting and each will have 420 watts. The fixture lighting will hang from the ceiling with a pulley to let it down for cleaning and changing bulbs.

SERIOUSLY ILL — Mildred "Babe" Didrickson Zaharias, one of the greatest women athletes of all time, is in a Beaumont, Texas Hospital for examination and tests. Doctors declined to disclose the exact nature of her illness pending the outcome of a series of tests, but did say that she might not play in tournament golf again. At her bedside are her husband, George Zaharias, and nurse Betty Wallis. (AP Wirephoto)

5. She is a good listener, but knows how to compliment him, too. So she inquires about his hobbies or interests in sports to get the conversation rolling. If they have been to a dance she flatters him on his dancing ability. (He'll remember that when he wants a dancing partner in the future.)

6. If her date is for tennis, golf, skiing or skating, she doesn't make an effort to beat him (badly). She makes a companionship game out of it, and gives him the feeling that he has a good partner. On the other hand she doesn't brag about how good she is and then let him down because she is so terrible. (He won't mind playing with a beginner, but tell him "your speed" in advance.)

7. When he takes her home (which is at the hour set by her family) she says goodnight without lingering on the porch. (And if he asks for a kiss she says "not tonight," thanks him for the evening of fun and leaves him pleasantly at the door.)

All other things having been harmonious that evening, chances are the boy will come back—soon.

Her first date is a matter in any household. And even before the family him certain decisions have made. Dad has decided he's good enough for his darling and Mom's mind is directed toward forcing a proposal at the opportunity. The Juene of the family visualizes him all and handsome, a combination of Gregory Peck and Burt Lancaster, with a convertible. The poor guy has three strikes before he rings the door. And poor Sis has heard so much of what is expected of her moment that she doesn't give not whether he calls or not. There were lots of neighborhood before, and school dates and the family supplied from time to time for daughter. But the daughter corrals that first date—somebody nobody in the

If she must keep him waiting for a minute (it always happens) while she picks up gloves, purse or puts a dab of perfume on her brow, she remembers to play a new record or to set the television manehine to a good program so that he is not left to the mercies of idle family conversation. (Dad is bursting to find out where he works and how much he makes.)

3. She lets him make suggestions about the evening entertainment and is agreeable to a Western movie over that romantic one she's been anxious to see, if that's what he wants. (Chances are he'll want to do something she isn't keen on.)

And then—Johnny arrives. The family decides it wasn't worth the excitement after all. He really isn't any handsomer than the boy next door, any smarter than the prize class essayist who dated Sis last year and with no more visible financial assets than the minister's son.

But daughter thinks differently. She likes him better than any boy she's ever known, and she wants him to date her again, and again, and again. So she's planned her first-date strategy like this, and hopes to intrigue him to a return engagement.

1. When he calls for her at home she introduces him to each member of the family as informally as she can so that he does not feel uneasy. (And later she jokes with him about her family's curiosity,

W. T. C. Of C. Endorse Eight Bills Dealing With Surface Water

Directors of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce have endorsed eight bills and a proposed constitutional amendment dealing with surface water that are before the Legislature.

The bills were prepared and introduced as a result of work of the Governor's State-Wide Water Committee, of which J. B. Thomas, Fort Worth, is chairman. The WTCC worked with the governor in organization of the committee and participated in the deliberations of the committee. The WTCC directors have accepted the recommendation of the organization's Water Resources committee, headed by Homer D. Grant, Lubbock. That committee voted in a Big Spring meeting recently to urge that the regional chamber support the measures.

The proposed constitutional amendment would enable the state to collect fees for the right to divert or use fresh surface water. The funds thus obtained would be used to secure not to exceed one-third of bonds or other obligations issued by cities or other political subdivisions to finance diversion or use of public surface waters.

The amendment specifically would prohibit collection of fees for use of diversion of percolating ground waters or waters covered by riparian rights, such as private stock tanks.

The proposed fees per year would be: for irrigation, 10 cents per acre; for hydro-electric power and non-consumptive and non-diversionary uses, five mills per acre foot; for all diversionary rights of use other than irrigation, 10 cents per acre foot.

Briefly, the purpose of the eight proposed changes in the water code are:

House Bill 447, by Carpenter—To cancel all permits or certified filings for appropriation of public waters no part of which has been put to beneficial use within ten years prior to the effective date of the act.

House Bill 448, by Carpenter—Creating a Water Pollution Advisory Council to co-ordinate the powers, duties and functions of five different agencies now charged with some duty with respect to prevention, abatement and control of stream pollution.

House Bill 449, by Cobb of Potter—Amending and clarifying provisions of the present water code that prescribe purposes for which public waters may be appropriated.

House Bill 450, by Bergman—Amending the water code to provide for issuance of seasonal water permits for specified and relatively brief periods to meet needs for temporary use such as highway construction and oil well drilling.

House Bill 451, by Bergman—Granting the State Board of Water Engineers full authority to enforce by injunction, mandatory injunction or other appropriate remedy, any and all reasonable rules and regulations promulgated by it—and the terms and conditions contained in certified filings and permits to appropriate public (surface) waters.

House Bill 452, by Kimbrough—To increase the powers of the Board of Water Engineers to provide designation of a Chairman by the governor, appointment of a Chief Engineer to serve at the will of the Board of three members, and defining the duties of the secretary of the board. The board now designates one of its number as chairman, and he has authority only equal to that of the other two members. This will make the chairman the chief administrative officer, with such authority as the Board may deem proper.

House Bill 453, by Meredith—To clarify present statutes that may be interpreted as granting blanket permits or control over water of certain streams or parts of streams to state political subdivisions and to make certain that

Conviction Of U. S. Court Is Upheld

According to press reports the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans last week upheld the conviction of C. H. Henderson on charges of converting Commodity Credit Corporation grain to his own use.

Henderson, Parmer county grain man and former mayor of Farwell, was tried in Federal Court at Amarillo in July of last year. He was found guilty on 47 counts of converting CCC grain to his own use and was sentenced to four years in prison, given an estimated four year suspended sentence and fined $10,000.

Henderson has been at liberty under an appeal bond of $10,000. He still faces Kansas charges on fraudulently obtaining $45,000 loan with warehouse receipts for grain he allegedly did not have.

may be fundamentally responsible for climatic fluctuations." From 100 to 1400, he said, North Europe suffered climatic handicaps never since equalled "save for just such exceptional storms as the one reported recently."

Know one knows why the 14th century was so stormy but "it was an uncomfortable time to be alive," he said. Sea floods of those times completely altered the coastline of the North Sea. Half the island of Helgoland was ripped away on Jan. 16, 1300, and the former island of Borkum was cut by the storms into small remnants that became the present Frisian islands.

When the atmosphere brings disaster in its violence, Dr. McDonald said, the student of climate "can only point out that it has at some time in the past been as bad, or worst—and will be as bad, or worse again."

Landers Coming To Texas

Texas farm families are being offered the opportunity to host college students from Holland.

Dr. A. (Andy) Adam, Extension Service, former Lamb County, the four graduates in agriculture will be from May 1 until August.

These students are their own transportation to the United States and are in this country. The families with whom they live will be expected to furnish students room, board, laundry and a training allowance of $50 to $50 per month work done on the farm.

Third Such Group

points out that this is the first group to come to Texas. Experience has shown that the boys are excellent workers while staying with a job is completed. The students are mature men and are 20 years of age. He says the boys should be encouraged.

Four boys will leave Holland no more than $20.00 in American money. This limitation results from the dollar-exchange. The four are working for advanced degrees from the Agricultural University and Graduate School, Wageningen, The Netherlands, and the on-the-farm training is a requirement.

List Cotton As Choice

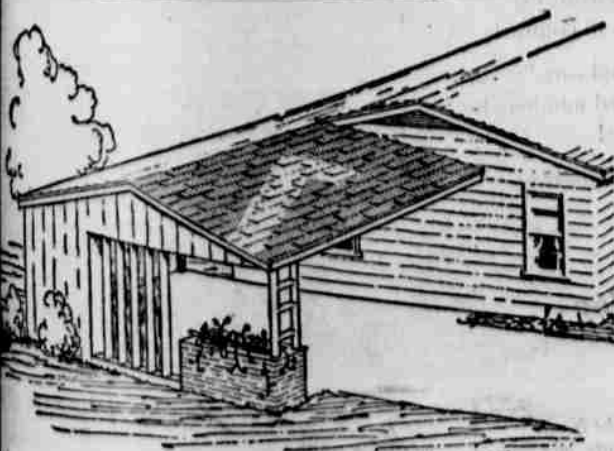

The four are Johannes Cornelius Cavelaars, P. J. Dieleman, Johan Georg Ohler and Andreas Johannes Carlus Spijkerman. The first two list cotton as their choice for study while Ohler lists rice, citrus and cotton and Spijkerman sugar cane, cotton and ramie as choices in the order named.

The student, points out Adam by living and working with a farm family will learn-by-doing about soil conservation practices, farm mechanization, crop culture, 4-H club work, farm organizations, community activities and the many other problems and programs that Texas farm families face in their daily living.

Too, the student will work with a field representative of the Soil Conservation Service in order to learn more about this field of work. Each will spend some time working with a county Extension Service staff to learn the fundamental principles, procedures and benefits of extension work in agriculture and home economics.

To Become "Family Member"

In short, Adam says, it is hoped the student will become another family member and as such will have an opportunity to take on the responsibilities that go with family membership.

Families interested in being host to one of the four Dutch students are advised by Adam to direct their request to the local county agricultural agent. It is hoped that final plans can be completed by April 15, therefore, interested families should ask their local county agents to submit their requests at an early date.
