Smyth Quits Atomic Post

DENVER (AP)—Dr. Henry D. Smyth resigned from the Atomic Energy Commission today and declared the United States stockpile of hydrogen and atomic bomb assures free world retaliation of "overwhelming power" against any enemy attack.

President Eisenhower "very reluctantly" accepted the resignation of Smyth, who cast the only dissenting vote last June when the commission refused to lift Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer's suspension from access to secret atomic data.

The summer White House announced Eisenhower is naming Willard Frank Libby, 45-year-old University of Chicago atomic scientist, to succeed Smyth on the AEC, effective Sept. 30.

In resigning, Smyth wrote Eisenhower: "I hope atomic weapons will continue to act as deterrents to war. But if attack should come, the stockpile we have prepared would assure this country and the free world the capacity to answer with overwhelming power."

Smyth, 56, the only current member of the five-man AEC with a scientific background, has served since President Truman appointed him May 31, 1949, to a term expiring June 30, 1956.

He plans to return to Princeton University, where he was chairman of the physics department and on the faculty from 1924 to 1949.

Cox Is Named Demo Nominee For Martin's Precinct 3 Post

STANTON (SC)—The name of Sam W. Cox, a rancher, will go on the November general election ballot as Democratic nominee for Martin County commissioner in Precinct 3.

This decision was arrived at Tuesday night by the County Democratic Committee following a meeting of that group with Precinct 3 voters in the auditorium of the Tarzan Church of Christ, and was announced by Morgan Hall of Stanton, county Democratic chairman.

In the July 24 primary election this nomination was won by Irvin Welch, incumbent commissioner, over Otto Bearden by a margin of four votes. Welch has since died leaving the nomination vacant. Hall was instructed by the Attorney General of Texas that it was in order for the Democratic county committee to meet and substitute a nominee. The committee, composed of: Hall; Bob Deavenport of Stanton and Bill Orson of Tarzan, called last night's meeting in order to sound out the sentiment of the voters with reference to commissioner to represent them for the next two years.

Cox was their choice for the nomination.

The county chairman estimated that about 30 per cent of the voters in the precinct were present at the meeting.

Members of the committee insisted that the precinct voters name their own chairman for the conference and T. Knox was selected. The matter of selecting a nominee was discussed and several names were mentioned. As a name was suggested it was placed on a blackboard in the auditorium, and among those suggested for the nomination, in addition to Cox, were Eldon Welch, son of the deceased former commissioner; Donald Weiborn; Otto Bearden, who was defeated by Welch in July; J. C. (Snooks) Epley; Houston Woody; Homer Howard Sr.; Ollie Robertson and Irvin Snell.

Bearden did not attend the meeting but the others who had been mentioned for the post, were then asked if they would accept. Welch, Epley, and Woody eliminated themselves from consideration immediately.

After further discussion a ballot was called for with three candidates, Cox, Howard and Snell, remaining in the field. A tabulation of these informal and unofficial ballots gave Cox 26 votes; Howard 11 votes and Snell five votes.

County Judge Bruce Frazier said this morning that he has no plan to fill the vacancy on the commissioners' Court by appointment until after the voters have selected a commissioner in November. He explained that with three other members of the commission there is a quorum authorized to transact business, and that since there isn't any money available for road work in Precinct 3 he does not deem it absolutely necessary that a commissioner be appointed now.

Frazier was appointed county judge by the commissioners who succeeded James McMorries, who resigned in July during a grand jury investigation of the county's financial affairs. Fifteen indictments charging felony theft of county and school funds have since been returned against McMorries.

Two of the commissioners now serving, Edmund Morrow and H. O. Phillips, both of whom won the Democratic nominations for commissioner in the July primary have since been appointed to the court by Frazier to succeed former commissioners Stanley Lewis and Oliver Vaughn, who also resigned during the jury's investigation, and who have since also been indicted.

The fourth commissioner is Joe Froman. He has served for several years and was re-nominated in July. He has also been charged by the grand jury and faces three indictments charging felony theft of public funds.

These cases will be called for trial at the October term of the Martin District Court which convenes Oct. 4.

Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. Services will be conducted at 3:30 p.m. Thursday at the Eberley-River Chapel with the Rev. Ed Welsh, pastor of the Phillips Memorial Baptist Church, officiating. Burial will be in the family plot in the City Cemetery.

Surviving are four brothers, J. H. Coots, George Coots, Jesse Coots of Big Spring and G. V. Coots, Dallas; three sisters, Mrs. W. P. Mims and Mrs. E. R. Brown, Big Spring, and Mrs. B. F. Alrhard, Knox.

Palbearers will be Billy G. Mims, Elmo Henry, T. G. Henry, J. D. Henry, G. C. Coots, J. W. Coots and W. W. Coots, all nephews of the deceased.

Higher Deficit Seen; Military Outlay Slashed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration has boosted the deficit it foresees for this fiscal year to nearly $4 billion when even while slashing a new $1 billion from major security programs.

But it has upped planned outlays in a dozen civilian fields where they could be a spur to production and employment.

The annual revision of spending and income estimates for the current fiscal year, which began July 1, was made public last night, indicating these over-all changes: Total spending was reduced from the $55,000,000 planned when President Eisenhower submitted the fiscal 1955 budget to Congress last January to a new estimate of $48 billion. This compares with spending of $67,000,000,000 in the fiscal year which ended June 30. The estimate of net budget receipts was cut from $62,700,000,000 in January to $59,300,000,000. Principal factors contributing to the reduction were congressional tax cuts, higher-than-expected refunds, and a sharp drop in corporation tax payments. Collections last fiscal year came to $4,600,000,000. Since the $3,400,000,000 dip in expected revenues outweighed the $1,600,000,000 cut in spending, the administration's estimate of its probable deficit at the end of the fiscal year rose from $2,900,000,000 predicted in January to $4,700,000,000. In fiscal 1954, red ink spending came to $3 billion.

However, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey told a news conference the administration would try "every day, every week and every month" to chop spending where it would hurt neither defense nor the economy.

The revision of the January direct military spending estimates cut this biggest national security spending category down from 37 1/2 billion dollars to 35 1/2 billion dollars. To make this cut, McNeill said, Army outlays were cut from 10 1/2 billion to 9 1/2 billion, with the biggest part of the reduction in Army procurement of ammunition, ships and boats.

McNeill said the Air Force, which has the biggest security budget, absorbed some 800 million dollars of the cut, dropping from 16 1/2 billion to 15 1/2 billion. Some 300 million of the cut would be taken out of aircraft purchasing, 325 million from airfield and other public works programs, and 190 million from maintenance and operations.

McNeill said the Navy cut from 10 1/2 billion dollars to about 10 billion. The Navy retrenchment would be in spending for maintenance and operations.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson today eased government restrictions on use of 40 million acres of crop land in 1955.

The regulations apply to land diverted from such surplus crops as wheat, cotton, corn, peanuts and tobacco by government crop allotments.

Dulles To Go Overseas For Speedy Arms Talks

JUDGE AGREES MUST BE LIMIT

CHICAGO (AP)—Judge Oscar Caplan dismissed disorderly conduct charges against Gus Scopus, 51, who spilled hot grease on a customer during an argument. But he fined the customer, Kenneth Carpenter, $2.25 for disorderly conduct after Scopus complained yesterday.

"He ordered one hamburger—mind you, Judge, just one—then he poured a whole bottle of catsup over it."

School Trustees Receive Record Enrollment Report

Trustees received reports of a record first week enrollment at their meeting Tuesday with more tranquility than in many years.

Figures presented to the board by W. C. Blankenship, superintendent, showed 5,005 youngsters on the school rolls. The gain over the corresponding time a year ago was 495, or 11 per cent. Heavy end of the increase was in the elementary level where 3,076 were enrolled, a gain of 383 or 13.4 per cent. Junior high totals stood at 970, up 55 from a year ago. High school was 701, or up by 59. Lakeview enrollment climbed to 259, or an increase of 18.

One reason the record enrollment did not dominate the board's deliberations was that classes were fairly evenly divided. Another and perhaps more important, is that more classroom space is on the way.

"I have never experienced a better spirit in all my years," Blankenship told the board regarding the attitude of parents toward crowded conditions or toward transferring from one school to another.

The report to the board showed Central Ward with 242, College Heights 304, East 215, North 319, Kate Morrison 351, South 149, West 341, Airport 376, Washington 504, Park Hill 185. By grades the first year had 629, second 617, third 467, fourth 427, fifth 434, sixth 467, seventh 353, eighth 304, ninth 313, tenth 283, eleventh 217, twelfth 201, exceptional children 12, total white 4,747; Lakeview elementary 198, junior and senior high school 60; grand total 5,005.

The class for exceptional or handicapped children has 12 enrolled, and considering this is the first time such has been undertaken, is moving off well, said Blankenship. One formidable problem has arisen, he said, and that is transportation for the youngsters to and from the school. Many parents of physically handicapped youngsters do not have automobiles. The board asked that studies be made as to means of obtaining transportation. Service clubs may be contacted as to their attitude in helping solve the problem.

In what he said was not a firm estimate, Bill French of Puckett & French, architect-engineers on the new Airport school and Washington Place and North Ward additions, guessed Washington Place might be available in three weeks. North Ward, he felt, was six weeks away from use, and Airport at least two months. All materials are now on hand, he reported.

To Bypass France On Hurry-Up Trip

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles will fly to Europe tonight for talks on the German rearmament problem created by French rejection of the European Defense Community. He will visit Bonn and London but bypass Paris.

The hurry-up trip will alter the Secretary's plans for a personal report to the nation tonight at 10:45 p.m. CST on the recently concluded eight-nation treaty to defend Southeast Asia against Communist aggression. The addresses will go on as scheduled but it will go over the air from a recording.

The State Department said Dulles and several aides will arrive at Bonn, capital of West Germany, tomorrow for talks with Chancellor Adenauer.

They will then fly to London, arriving Friday, for talks with Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Eden. Eden is presently on a tour of West European capitals on the German defense problem.

Dulles will return to Washington Saturday morning in time for final preparations for attendance at the opening of the United Nations General Assembly Tuesday.

Dulles will bypass Paris, the itinerary disclosed. The only official explanation was that he will not have time to talk to Premier Mendes-France.

Eden To Confer With French On Bonn Rearming

PARIS (AP)—British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden pushed on to Paris today to learn whether French Premier Pierre Mendes-France will accept Britain's new plan to enlist German troops in the defense of Western Europe.

The veteran British diplomat was scheduled to see Mendes-France almost immediately after his arrival this afternoon. Their meeting will spell success or failure for Eden's whirlwind tour to sell his substitute for the French-killed European Defense Community.

Since his departure from London Saturday, Eden has won quick and hopeful support for his plan from the leaders of West Germany, Italy and the Benelux triad—Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

France today remained the only question mark.

As a replacement for EDC's one-unit, six-nation European Army, the British propose to link a rearmored West Germany and Italy to the Brussels mutual defense pact signed in 1948 by Britain, France and the three Benelux nations.

The expanded alliance presumably would operate under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, which has taken over the military phases of the Brussels pact. The big problem appeared to be whether France—whose Parliament voted more than two years ago against admitting Germany into NATO—now would accept such an arrangement.

Some French officials think their Premier will agree to West German membership in NATO if he gets certain pledges from Britain and the United States, as well as from the Germans. With many Frenchmen fearful that an independent West German Army might try to get East Germany back from the Reds by force, Mendes-France reportedly wants promises from the United States and Britain to:

1. Keep their forces in Germany;
2. Bar German manufacture of major weapons—jet aircraft, atomic arms, the bigger guns and the like;
3. Back a system of manpower ceilings that would hold the German forces to something like the French level.

Whether such guarantees would satisfy the French Parliament is something nobody can predict.

The present Brussels treaty provides that any attack on a signatory will be met as an attack on all. The British plans for its expansion reportedly call for each nation to retain its own national forces, rather than EDC's pooling under a supranational organization to which so many Frenchmen objected. The British plan also would permit the extension to West Germany of NATO's joint international planning, training and supply programs.

Webb Graduates 38 At Ceremony

The nation will judge the Air Force and the world the United States by the quality of the men such as those who graduated from Webb Air Force Base on Wednesday.

Benny Hughes, Neumont, third vice president of Rotary International, told members of class 54-R that their future in the Air Force was practically unlimited if they chose to take advantage of every opportunity.

Distinguished graduates were Lt. John R. Ringer, Terre Haute, Ind., and Robert Tobin, Metropolis, Ill., who were cadets in the class. They will be given preferential consideration in event they should apply for regular commissions in the Air Force.

"You are a select group of men to whom the world will look toward for leadership," Hughes told the graduates. "Understanding in the hearts of men is what we need so much of today. In your own small way you must set an example and inspire others in your duty throughout the world."

Hughes paid a tribute to instructors and staff members at Webb who had passed on, as he expressed it "years of experience" to students.

There were 38 members of the class including 13 United States officers, 15 United States cadets, three Turkish and seven French students.

Before the graduation ceremonies, the officers and cadets were honored at a wing review on the flight line. One flight passed over in salute. After the graduation, the class and the speaker were honored at a reception in the Officers Club.

Col. Fred M. Dean and members of the staff were hosts at an informal reception honoring Hughes Tuesday evening at Ellis Hall.

Lifer Confesses Slaying Of Coed

McALESTER, Okla. (AP)—Jack Ray, 34-year-old lifer and newly confessed killer of a Penn State coed, was pictured today as a campus Casanova with a third grade education.

By his own word, he was twice a murderer, perhaps three times; a car thief and a dope pusher, all within a few short months of a whirlwind crime career that ended 14 years ago.

This is the portrait of a man whose confession is being studied hopefully by officers in State College, Pa., where Rachel Taylor was beaten to death March 28, 1940.

Her bludgeoned and stabbed body, stripped of nearly all clothing, was found six miles from the Penn State campus. Ray said he fetched a letter from her bosom as the prize of his crime.

The letter, according to his confession, was written by his pregnant girl friend, threatening a fit of anger to expose his dope selling to students.

City Tax Levy Okayed; Annexation Meet Called

City commissioners Tuesday night approved a $37,843.14 tax levy for 1954. They also leased the Scout Round-Up Grounds south of the city, decided to appoint a full-time acting judge, and voted to use city labor in paving around the courthouse square.

A special meeting was called for next Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. to discuss annexation of an area south of the railroad tracks between the east city limits and Birdwell Lane.

Commissioners last night also appointed three men to the planning and zoning commission, approved J. C. Godwin, Jr. as a new policeman, named a new street in Mountain View Addition, ordered the West Side Park building improved, okayed a new sewer extension, and considered other business.

The tax levy of $37,843.14 approved by commissioners was based on the new tax rate of $1.35 per one hundred dollars assessed valuation. Total assessed valuation this year is $17,710,440.

A summary of the 1954 tax roll prepared by City Manager H. W. Whitney shows $12,307,600 to be assessed value of real estate and $4,402,840 to be the assessed value of personal property.

Collections this year are not expected to be over 90 per cent. This would mean that $394,878.83 of the levy will be collected. Of this, $80,260.63 will go to the interest and sinking fund, and $295,618.21 is pegged for the general fund.

Stock Problem Again Plagues C-City Council

COLORADO CITY—This city's livestock problem, "off again, on again" several times in the past few years, rose again Monday night to plague city councilmen, with Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Barber, 788 E. Fifth Street, asking the council to "do something about horses kept on an adjoining lot." The property is occupied by Pat Neff, who operates a trucking company. Mrs. Barber told the council that sheep, poultry, horses and "smelly, old cattle trucks" were kept on lots next door to the Barber's home. Though horses were noisy, and Mrs. Barber charged that they had damaged her fence by kicking it, she added, "the trucks are the worst feature of the whole thing—they are very offensive after they've hauled cattle in them." Also, Mrs. Barber said, the trucks were worked on at all hours of the night, with an accompaniment of loud noise. City attorney John Worrell suggested that if the livestock had become a nuisance, the Barbers could enter a civil suit and attempt to obtain an injunction—"That's the quickest and best way to solve the problem."

"I think it's the city's place to do something about it," said Barber. "Apparently, I could round up a hundred head of cattle and put them in my front yard and nobody could do anything about it." The City Attorney also presented an "anti-juke box" ordinance which the council tabled for further study. Councilmen pointed out that the ordinance, while effectively curbing juke boxes, would also prohibit the use of public address systems in the downtown areas and ballparks and could be applied to silence church chimes and the high school band. The council also: (1) Took no action on City Manager Roy Dozier's recommendation to begin charging local citizens $1 per month for garbage pickup and an ordinance to curb the burning of wood, leaves and trash in the city limits. (2) Accepted the bid of the Harvey Chevrolet Company to supply a new police car to the city. Harvey's bid was $629.25 with trade in—the lowest of three bids. Harvey's bid of $210.63 was low on repairing the police car damaged in a recent wreck.

Deputy Sheriff Floyd Moore and Juvenile Officer A. E. Long Tuesday transferred three prisoners to the state penitentiary at Huntsville. The two officers were to go to Baton Rouge, La., today to assume custody of Perry Tracy, who is charged here with theft. They are expected back in Big Spring late Thursday. Transferred to the penitentiary were Sydney A. Jones, James E. Cooley and Antonio Sanchez. Each pleaded guilty to felony charges in district court last week. Sanchez received three-year sentence on his plea to charges of possession of marijuana. Jones was assessed a three-year term on his plea to theft charges. Cooley pleaded guilty to charges of defrauding with worthless check and was sentenced to two years in prison.

Shivers Obtains Firm Okay At Demo Meet

By DAVE CHEAVENS MINERAL WELLS (AP)—Texas Democrats have given Gov. Allan Shivers a clearcut mandate to carry out his campaign promises on segregation in the schools, stricter labor laws, national political strategy and a dozen other issues vital to the state. Shivers won overwhelming approval from the convention's dominantly conservative three-to-one majority. The liberal minority, sometimes angrily shouting its frustration, went down to defeat but it too answered Shivers' plea for unity by not taking a walk into a rump session. The liberals, whipped at the polls and in the convention, thus worked themselves into a position where they could say to Shivers: "We were outvoted, we disagreed all the way, but we stuck to the Democratic Party." One of their principal points of attack on Shivers has been that he did not stay with the party when he supported Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1952. Shivers has replied that he had to do it as a matter of principle over mere party loyalty. Most of the delegates shouted approval and assent when the governor asked them to unite in a battle during the next two years to give Texas a greater say in National Democratic Party affairs. On the touchy school segregation question, the convention asked the Legislature to "study and follow the recommendations" of Gov. Shivers. During his campaign for re-election, the governor spoke out emphatically against mixed Negro and white schools and pledged himself to fight efforts to rub out color lines following the U.S. Supreme Court decision. "We urge that every legal means be used to continue our public schools as they are today on the separate-but-equal basis set out in the Texas Constitution," the platform declared. "Negro schools must be brought up to the same standards as white schools so that true educational opportunity will prevail."

Mrs. Read Renamed To Committee Post

Mrs. Norman H. Read of Big Spring was re-elected as one of the members of the state Democratic Executive Committee from the 24th Senatorial District at the state convention of Democrats in Mineral Wells Tuesday. Other committee member from this district is R. M. Wagstaff, Abilene, who was elected to succeed C. T. McLaughlin of Snyder. State Sen. Harley Sadler served as permanent chairman of the 24th District delegation at the convention. Douglas Orme, Big Spring, served on the platform and resolutions committees at the convention. Orme reported that about 12 Howard County delegates attended the convention. All were members of the pro-Shivers or conservative faction of the party. No contest developed concerning the seating of the Howard County delegation, due to failure of the loyalists, who staged a rump county convention, to show up. Mrs. Read was elected to her second term as committeewoman from this district. The term is for two years.

Lower Spraberry Tapped In New Area Between Fields In Dawson

Seaboard Oil Company's No. 2 H. J. Wood, located midway between the Spraberry and Spraberry West fields of Dawson County, will be completed as the first producer in that area from the Lower Spraberry formation. The project was reportedly flowing new oil from the formation today after kicking off Tuesday. A completion in the Sharon-Ridge-1700 area was reported today at Paul DeCleva's No. 2 E. T. Strain. Potential is 44.68 barrels. Locations were spotted in the Moore and Snyder fields of Howard County.

Good, 1,977 from east and 861 from north lines, 15-32-3n, T&P survey, recovered 1,900 feet of sulphur water and no shows on a drillstem test of the Pennsylvanian reef. The test was taken between 8,654 and 8,083 feet with the tool open an hour. Electric logs are now being taken, and the project will probably be plugged and abandoned. Top of the reef is 8,081 feet, and datum minus is 5,592 feet.

Crane

Atlantic No. 1-35 Glass, wildcat in Northeast Crane, is now below 11,377 feet in lime and shale. A test of the Fusselman between 11,463 and 11,520 feet had oil and gas shows. The tool was open an hour and recovery was 1,000 foot water blanket cut with oil and gas and 120 feet of oil and gas-cut mud. Flowing pressure was zero, and the 15-minute shut-in pressure was 77. This project has also shown for production in the Pennsylvanian and Devonian. Location is 350 from south and 2,310 from east lines, 25-43-4s, T&P survey.

Dawson

Seaboard et al No. 2 H. J. Wood, originally on location north of Seaboard No. 1 Vaughn, a Pennsylvanian discovery, is now being prepared for completion in the Lower Spraberry. This project was drilled to the Pennsylvanian at a total depth of 8,201 but no shows. It was low geologically to the No. 1 Vaughn. Operator plugged back to 7,635 feet after setting the 5 1/2-inch casing at 7,655. Perforations were made between 7,484 and 7,390 and between 7,334 and 7,238 feet. They were treated with 500 gallons of mud acid. After a little swabbing, the well kicked off. Flow through a 10-64th inch choke for the first hour was 5.52 barrels of oil. The flowing tubing pressure has remained at a constant 230 pounds. Operator will probably sandblast before completing in the Lower Spraberry. This formation has indicated for production in a number of wells drilled on down to the Pennsylvanian, but the No. 2 Wood will be the first actual producer from the sand. Location is 660 from south and 1,260 from east lines, 24-34-5s, T&P survey. Kimbell et al No. 2 Annie Kirby has been situated in the Welch field of Dawson County. It made 71 barrels of oil in 24 hour pumping test. Gravity of oil is 31 degrees, and the gas-oil ratio is 120-1. Completion was through perforations between 4,798 and 4,872 feet. Pay top is 4,798, the 5 1/2-inch goes to 4,900, and the total depth is 4,930. Elevation is 3,105. Location is C SW NW, 60-M-EL&RR survey.

Glasscock

Hunt No. 1 Houston, 330 from south and west lines, 23-35-2s, T&P survey, is drilling at 2,525 feet in anhydrite.

Creighton, which apparently had a good core in the San Andres. The No. 1 is 330 from south and east lines, southwest quarter, 29-33-1n, T&P survey. Woodson et al of Abilene No. 1 C. W. Creighton, 350 from south and west lines, northwest quarter, 30-33-1n, T&P survey, is preparing Reiger survey, has been finished for 44.08 barrels of oil. This Sharon-Ridge-1700 completion has total depth of 1,735 feet, and the 5 1/2-inch casing goes to 1,690 feet, pay top. Sen. Henry Clay's Favorite PUNCH RECIPE for Congenial Gatherings

WHAT HENRY CLAY didn't know about politicking you could put on the tip of the tail of a coonskin cap. He knew well how to win folks over to his camp and he won them over best when they could partake of some of his well-known Kentucky hospitality. This included a special punch he conjured up himself which went as follows:

Sen. Henry Clay's Kentucky Punch a gill of water 1/2 gill of rum a gill of brandy 1/2 gill of whiskey a small tin of orange peel a small tin of lemon peel a small tin of nutmeg
 a small tin of cardamom

Daniel Webster Said It First

IF YOU were a Senator in the old days, when America was growing like Jack's beanstalk, and all the famous sayings were getting said pretty fast, you had to think quick and talk loud or there wouldn't be anything big and famous left for you to say. Old Daniel Webster thought quicker and spoke up louder and clearer than most of the other talking men of his day, so he got to be the first one to say a lot of famous things. For instance, he was the first one to say, "Liberty and Union, now and forever, one and inseparable." He also was the first one to say something for folks to remember about a certain brand of whiskey. He called James Crow's bourbon "the finest in the world" and all the other prominent citizens who were thinking just that kicked themselves real hard for not saying it before Mr. Webster did.

Fun is the pepper-and-salt of everyday life, and all the really wise men who have lived have used it freely for seasoning.
 —JOHN BULLOCH

What Mark Twain Said About Whiskey, and what he didn't say about the weather!

THERE'S a mud-puddle of confusion about something we think it's high time got settled. Mark Twain never said, "Everybody talks about the weather but nobody does anything about it." Man named Charles Dudley Warner of Massachusetts did. So let's not tag that one on Mr. Twain's pinfeathers anymore. Here's one you can, though: Seems like Mr. Twain, being partial to the particular brand made there, paid a visit to the Old Crow Distillery in Kentucky, ordered twenty-five barrels of Old Crow for his favorite tavern in Elmira, New York, and, on returning would frequently ask the bartender, "Lou, which barrel are we using now?" As we said, he was partial to the brand.

THE MOON and Time for Good Whiskey-Making

ALONG time ago an unknown backwoods distiller happened to get an unusually good run of whiskey after mixing his mash during the first quarter of the moon. From then on, everybody went around saying, the way they did in those days:

"Mix your mash in the moon's first quarter, and your whiskey will taste just like it oughter."

Of course, if there was a spell of cloudy weather that hid the moon, nobody dared mix any mash at all and no whiskey got made that month. Which was probably a good thing, because first quarter or last, half moon or full, the result of all the mashing and yeasting and cooking was most often a distillation fit to fill neither cup nor watering trough.

To all of this moon-made uncertainty, James Crow put an end in 1835 when he brought pure science to the art of whiskey making, and thus became known as the distilling genius who put Kentucky whiskey on the map as the finest made.

Success is the result of animation, ambition, desire—gumption, grit and get-there.

A Letter from a Famous Confederate General

Gen. John Hunt Morgan, in time of peace a southern gentleman, in time of war, leader of the daring band of Confederate cavalry known as Morgan's Raiders, was a particular advocate of James Crow's bourbon. Once, at the conclusion of a letter to a friend in Lexington, Kentucky, he generously offered, "Let me know how I can get some Old Crow whiskey to you. The return mail will carry you a demijohn . . ."

A TOAST

Here's to the three great American birds!

May you always have one on your table, one in your pocket and one in your glass—the turkey, the eagle, and Old Crow!

The Greatest Name in Bourbon

MILDER LOWER-PRICED BOTTLING OF OLD CROW SETS HISTORIC RECORD!

Introduction of lighter, 86 Proof bottling as a companion to the world-famous 100 Proof Bottled in Bond produces greatest demand in history for "the greatest name in bourbon!"

Rarely has any whiskey achieved such tremendous success in so short a time as has 86 Proof Old Crow! Unexcelled in quality, unparalleled in prestige, unmatched in public demand, Old Crow today continues to please those who, like Daniel Webster, Henry Clay and Mark Twain before them, insist on its distinctive character and famous flavor. In the lighter, milder, 86 Proof bottling and the traditional 100 Proof Bottled in Bond, it remains, now as always, the finest Kentucky bourbon ever put into glass!

A WARNING to Counterfeiters, Purse Snatchers and Name Stealers of the 1890's

"Who steals a purse oftentimes steals trash; but who filches the fair name of Old Crow to put on bottles of inferior whiskeys steals more than he can get away with. You may think you can succeed where others have failed. DO NOT TRY. The courts have issued more than eighteen hundred writs and cease and desist against would-be imitators of the Old Crow name and label. Also, no matter how genuine your label may look, you cannot imitate Old Crow's quality, and if the law doesn't find you out the public will."

Famous Whiskey Drinks and How They Got That Way

MANHATTAN: First concocted in an emergency by a bartender, John W. Henderson. The emergency: to revive John A. Hopkins, wounded in a duel at Bladensburg, Md. Henderson filled a champagne glass half full of whiskey, and, merciful agent that he was, tossed in a little syrup and bitters. No one seems to know whether Hopkins survived, but the Manhattan did. Recipe: 3/4 Old Crow, 3/4 Italian vermouth, dash of bitters. Stir with ice. Decorate with maraschino cherry.

Old-Fashioned: More than likely the very first of American cocktails. Quite similar to a Whiskey Toddy, originally. Decorators were called in during the Great Experiment (1920-1933), added vermouth and any convenient fruit. One-time picnic favorite, once again fashionable drinking spots now mix a dozen or so for patrons to take home. Recipe: 1 1/2 oz. Old Crow, 1 lump sugar, dash soda, 2 dashes bitters, twist of lemon.

WARD EIGHT: Originated by a group of Boston politicians active in the district of the same number. Being of a political heritage, it's not difficult to understand that the Ward Eight is a filibustering elongation (but not Plough deep while sluggards sleep, and you shall have corn to sell and to keep.

 —BENJAMIN FRANKLIN

a perfection) of the Whiskey Sour. Recipe: 1 1/2 oz. Old Crow, juice of half lemon, a spoonful sugar. Serve in goblet with finely cracked ice. Decorate with fruit. Serve with straw.

MINT JULEP: This is a discussion we'd rather not enter. For the present problems of the world may be solved, and new ones may arrive to take their places, but the problem never be concluded. To bruise the mint or not to bruise? Silver cup or gleaming glass? Chilled container or room temperature? Garnish with fruit (ugh!) or just the mint? We take just one stand: The bourbon should be Old Crow!

Gulf announces a completely new and different gasoline!

► Now—Gulf refines out the “dirty-burning tail-end” of gasoline—the No. 1 troublemaker in high-compression engines. Result:

a cleaner-burning super-fuel that gives you thousands of extra miles of full engine power... free from knock or pre-ignition.

This lamp is burning the “DIRTY-BURNING TAIL-END” of gasoline which GULF refines out

This lamp is burning NEW SUPER-REFINED GULF NO-NOX, the cleaner-burning super-fuel

Proof:

Instead of trying to fight troublemaking deposits with so-called “miracle-additives”—inside your engine—Gulf believes in preventing them from forming in the first place. That's why Gulf, in making new Super-Refined

NO-NOX, refines out the carbon-forming, “dirty-burning tail-end”—more than a cupful in every gallon. Just look at the plates the Gulf scientist is holding in the unretouched photo above and see what a difference Gulf super refining makes!

Starting with your first tankful, this new, super-refined, super-powered fuel will give you these immediate and lasting benefits:

- More complete engine protection than so-called “miracle-additive” gasolines. Why? Because Gulf refines out the “dirty-burning tail-end” of gasoline, the No. 1 troublemaker in high-compression engines—and then treats this new Super-Refined NO-NOX to give it a complete range of protective properties. It protects every part it touches against harmful deposits—carbon, rust, gum.
- Extra gas mileage. Why? Because new NO-NOX is specially blended for the short-trip, stop-and-go driving motorists do most.
- No knock, no pre-ignition—even in today's super-compression engines. Why? Because the anti-knock power of new Gulf NO-NOX has been stepped up to an all-time high.
- Stall-proof smoothness—no more worries about carburetor icing in chilly weather, or vapor lock on warm days. Instant starts, too—and fast, fuel-saving warm-up.

Road tests show: New Gulf No-Nox actually makes cars perform better than new... even after 15,000 miles!

TRUE! Under all conditions—Gulf test cars showed: Higher-than-new horsepower! Better-than-new on gasoline mileage! And not a single trace of carbon knock or pre-ignition at any time, even on the steepest mountain grades!

COMPLETELY NEW! SUPER-REFINED
New Gulf No-Nox

Spirit Of The U. S. Constitution Is Thing That Makes It Immortal

This is a great political week in the U. S., what with Maine's election and several other states' primaries, but it is also a great week in American history. The U. S. Constitution was signed Sept. 17, 1787, so next Friday will be the 167th anniversary of that great event. Rhode Island alone among the 13 states had neglected to send delegates to Philadelphia to draw up the great document, but the other states selected a total of 65, more than half of whom were lawyers. Fifty-five delegates actually attended, and of these 30 affixed their signatures. Among the 19 who refused or neglected to sign were some notables—George Mason and Edmund Randolph of Virginia and Elbridge Gerry of Massachusetts. Most of the non-signers feared the document gave too much power to the central government at the expense of state sovereignty—incidentally, still a very lively issue among Americans. Many of those who actually signed were unenthusiastic about the new document. They considered it the best that could be worked out at the time, and no more. Five of the original thirteen states ratified it by narrow margins, and several others ratified only with the understanding that a Bill of Rights would be added immediately. So, what is regarded among all free peoples as one of the great landmarks in human liberty was born in controversy and to this day is often the subject of disagreement among us. It was not the words of the instrument that made it great; it was its spirit, and that spirit is unquenchable. President Eisenhower has proclaimed Friday, Sept. 17, as Citizenship Day. Also to be celebrated on that date is what used to be called "I Am an American" Day. Some communities will pass up Friday and stage their observances on Sunday to insure larger attendance. It should be an occasion of rededication to the task of forwarding that "more perfect union" of which the Framers speak. The words may be obscure in spots and subject to different interpretations, but the music is immortal.

More At Stake On Quemoy Than Island Of Tactical Importance

For the first time since it was created the National Security Council met outside Washington, in Denver, Sunday and possibly reached decisions of the utmost importance to all American citizens. Did it, or will it, decide that the island of Quemoy just off the China mainland is essential to the defense of Formosa? A great deal, perhaps the difference between a lukewarm and a hot war, will depend on what answer the NSC gave, or will give. Secretary Dulles, as well as President Eisenhower have made it quite clear that Formosa will be defended if the Reds try to attack. But the secretary has turned aside questions whether Quemoy, which has been under shellfire for several days by the Reds, will be defended by the 7th U. S. Fleet and the U. S. Air Force if the Reds try to make amphibious or airborne landings on the island. That, Mr. Dulles, said, is a matter for our military commanders in the area to decide. Present at the Denver meeting was the military member of NSC, Adm. Radford. Undoubtedly he has made his recommendations with respect to Quemoy. What is not known, and which may never be known unless the Reds actually attempt to seize Quemoy, is whether we will sit idly by and let the Reds take Quemoy—if they can—or strike swiftly and powerfully at the first sign of an attempt to invade. The island itself may not be important to the defense of Formosa, but as a symbol it ranks high. Undoubtedly the Reds are trying us out in shelling Quemoy. They want to know just how far they can go without provoking direct retaliation. Little aggressions lead to big aggressions. If the Reds make a serious attempt to take Quemoy, and we stand aside and let them overrun the scanty Nationalist defenses there, it would entail loss of prestige for us, and lead to further aggressions. We are almost compelled to strike back and hit hard under the circumstances. That is a serious thing, as it would mean a direct assault on Red forces and perhaps mainland bases. But it might be unavoidable. Better to strike there than further down the creek.

Washington Calling—Marquis Childs U. S. 'Massive Retaliation' Talk Used By Reds To Scare Europe

WASHINGTON — At the same time that the two major fronts, in Indochina and in Europe over EDC, were being inflicted, the Western Allies were in danger of losing the initiative in military readiness. Or, at any rate, Communist propaganda—the propaganda of the deed far more than the propaganda of the word—was giving the appearance of a Russia resolutely arming for the goal of preserving the peace. The failure of this by any objective standard does not diminish the attraction it exercises for Europeans living in fear of another and totally destructive war. Here for the West, and particularly for America, is a painful dilemma. To talk of the super-destructive weapons in the American arsenal is to encourage a reaction of almost panic defeatism. That attitude—we can do nothing except disarm and make peace somehow through many of the speeches in the French National Assembly opposing EDC and German rearmament. The hydrogen bomb tests in the Pacific last spring, with the fallout of atomic ash on the Japanese fishermen, produced a profound shock in Europe. Taken along with the economies by the Eisenhower Administration in conventional arms, it seemed that America intended to rely more and more on "massive retaliation" which would leave nothing behind but an atomic desert. Communists and fellow-travelers played incessantly on this theme. They got an assist from those in this country obsessed with the potential horrors of atomic war. Russia, while constantly talking peace, in contrast with the many shrill outcries from American generals and admirals and others even less qualified to sound off in public, has continued to build land, sea and air power at an extraordinary rate. This emerges not so much in boastful statements as in accomplishments revealed. Thus the growth of the Soviet Navy is shown in the sober estimates of the British Admiralty. Russia has today approximately 350 submarines, half of them ocean-going. With many fewer submarines the Germans, beginning in 1939, sank over a thousand ships and thereby brought Britain close to starvation and defeat. About the time the Admiralty estimates were published Russian cruisers and destroyers on unprecedented maneuvers along the Baltic coast. The Admiralty estimate puts Russian naval manpower at 750,000, larger than the total of the British Navy at the peak of World War II. Similarly, the Russians in a fly-past displayed their new jet engines, more powerful than any produced in the West. While these are believed to be prototypes not yet in production, they nevertheless created a deep impression. This reporter talked in Europe with the top commanders of the NATO defense force. They are confident that for five to six years the West has an edge in security. They base this on the conviction that the Russians have not yet come close to mastering an air defense to keep out the retaliatory strike of bombers from bases ringing the Soviet Union. Therefore, Moscow will not risk war or the kind of moves that might bring war. This confidence does not mean that these same commanders are complacent about the current trend. The problem of German rearmament, in the wake of the defeat of EDC, raises the question of the defense of the entire northern flank. Without German divisions the two northernmost members of NATO, Norway and Denmark, are in a most vulnerable position. The pull toward neutralism in both these countries is thereby increased. But the immediate dilemma of EDC to one side, the larger concern in the struggle with communism must be over America's capacity for the long pull to stay strong and resolute. Unquestionably, many of the economies effected by the Eisenhower Administration were essential to scale down this overgrown military establishment. When, however, these cut into military strength, there is reason to be alarmed. On the eve of the Manila meeting, where the Southeast Asia alliance was set up, it was announced that three American divisions will be withdrawn from Korea. That may have been a valid military move, but the timing could scarcely have been worse. The returning traveler finds the Republican campaign theme is peace and prosperity. Nobody can be against peace and prosperity. But if this means complacency and indifference, an attitude that says, "We can't settle those quarrels over there, anyway, and look at the French," then the struggle with communism will be lost. If one thing is certain, it is that the aggressive force of communism can be contained only by strength. Weakness, indifference, irresolution—that is the prescription for aggression and ultimately for war.

Sen. Wiley Has Some Ideas To Change United Nations Unlikely To Be Adopted

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Wiley, council's five permanent members. The Wisconsin Republican who is chairman of the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee, has come up with some ideas which seem headed for no place. His ideas—he offers them for study and not as flat proposals for the United States to follow—are aimed at possible changes in the United Nations' way of doing business. When the wartime Allies stitched the U.N. together in San Francisco in 1945 they agreed on how they'd operate, writing their agreement into 111 articles of the U.N. Charter. Foreseeing that some of them might want to change those rules some day, they wrote in a rule for doing just that. It's rule No. 109.

It's a beaut. Briefly, it says none of the rules can be changed without approval of two-thirds of the U.N. members—there are now 60—including all 5 permanent members of the Security Council. The five permanent members are the United States, Russia, Britain, France, and Nationalist China. Rule No. 109 means, then, any one of the five could veto any change. Rule No. 109 also says the U.N. must, in 1955, put on its docket the question of revising the charter. But whether the members go into a special conference to consider changes is left up to them at the time. One of the things which makes Wiley unhappy is that Russia really has three votes in the General Assembly while every other nation, including the United States, has only one. The Union of Soviet Socialist Republics is made up of Republics just as the United States is made up of states but Russia as a whole and two Russian republics, the Ukraine and Byelorussia, are U.N. members. The Ukraine and Byelorussia couldn't be thrown out unless the charter was changed. And Russia could veto that. This veto power in the Security Council is also something which needs study, Wiley says. But no one around here is predicting the United States would ever let the veto power be taken from the final answer. This could be proposed, for instance: Instead of limiting each member, large or small, to one vote, let each member have a number of votes in accordance with its size, population, national income, and the money it spends to help support the U.N. It's hard to see the small U.N. nations going for a proposition that would give the big powers a stronger say and themselves less. So it is difficult to see how a two-thirds majority could be mustered for such a change, even if all the big five should approve. And even though 59 U.N. members approved the weighted-vote formula, Russia could veto the whole business.

Reds Had Greatest Spy Ever, One Richard Sorge

By RELMAN MORIN (For Hal Boyle) NEW YORK (AP)—One of those quiet-spoken intelligence agents came in the other day to ask me some questions about an old friend. Ever hear the name, Richard Sorge? Richard Sorge was a spy, a Communist spy, a true genius in that desperate trade. For my money, he was the greatest of them all, a man who made Mata Hari look like a little girl playing cops-and-robbers. He got his hands on two of the most vital pieces of information in the history of our time, and succeeded in transmitting them to the Kremlin. One was Hitler's intention to tear up the nonaggression treaty with Russia and launch his attack in June, 1940. Sorge had the correct date and some of the troop dispositions. The other was Japan's timetable. He seems to have had advance information about Pearl Harbor. He had previously organized, and was directing, an espionage network operating all through the Far East. It may still be operating there and here. Some U. S. top intelligence people fear so. Through his agents, many of them in very high places, Sorge reached into every chancellery from Japan to Java. He knew some of the deepest secrets of the great powers. Nobody ever served the Reds better—even his own country. Richard Sorge was a German. I knew him in Tokyo as a fellow correspondent. That was merely part of his "cover," of course, although he actually worked at the job. He never let on the extent of his information, but he must have had many a lusty laugh at the rest of us. He made a wonderful companion, gay, amusing, a fascinating talker. He liked food, liquor, late hours and the ladies. In fact, the story is that it was a girl who brought him to destruction, but I am not too sure about that. He had a perfect facade for his job. As a newspaperman, and a very presentable one, he had entered everywhere. As a German, he was highly persona grata with Japanese officials. More important, he had become a pet of the German Embassy. In part, this was because of his brilliant record in World War I. He came through covered with medals, and the old German army was something less than lavish with them. He became a close confidante of the German ambassador in Tokyo—so much so that when World War II started, the ambassador made him the Embassy press officer! In that post, he had access to the Nazis' top secrets. He was equally well fixed for getting information about Japan. One of his lieutenants had been the private secretary to the Prime Minister. After Pearl Harbor, Sorge requested a transfer. He told the Kremlin his usefulness in Japan was ended. Apparently, he never got an answer. Why, nobody knows. While he was waiting for it, according to the story, one of his girl friends gave him away in a fit of jealousy. He was arrested and executed.

Horse Trough, There For Stock, Also Provided Town Its Forum

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald—Editor's Note.

Whatever happened to the horse trough? Only little more than three decades ago, most any respectable community had one smack dab on the square. Then the automobile age moved out of its swaddling clothes and suddenly the public watering place wasn't there any more. Tourist courts came along to take the place of the wagon yards, and by the same token the service station took the place of the watering trough. Neither of the successors has yet produced the color and casual atmosphere of the original. By the time most counties were organized in this area, the watering trough was provided about as quickly as the courthouse. There was, of course, sound reason for this because virtually all transport depended upon the noble horse. In fact, it has been pointed out that many of the town locations in the area were dictated by the distance between watering holes or wells. Aside from slaking the thirst of horses and their hybrid cousins, the mules, and the few oxen that were utilized in the early days, the watering place served other useful purposes. For one thing, it was a gathering place. While horses were unhitched and eased to sniff and mouth the water, men found time to sit down and talk a spell. They bit off a chew, tamped down a pipe full of PA or rolled cigarettes of Bull Durham, RJR (Run Johnny Run) or Dukes Mixture. While herds obviously weren't routed through the village, family milk cows and a few miscellaneous cattle were driven to the trough. And people, before those fancy float valves fixed the water level automatically, came to the water trough's hydrant to get drinking washing and coffee water. Duckings, sometime in fun and sometime in vengeance, were not uncommon. Many a wayward soul, weaving from the abundant saloons, brushed out some of the cobwebs by plunging the head into cold water. At first troughs were made out of wood, cypress mostly. Then there were the galvanized iron tanks with rolled edge, and finally the more durable concrete numbers. Designs seemed to favor the oval or circular among tin and cement, while the wooden ones were long and narrow. All of them collected bits of moss in time and generally they came up with some gold fish. Many a community—and this was the case in Big Spring—had rather ornate watering places on the square. The one here had a little ornamental effect in the center so that water billowed down into the tank. It was the nearest thing to a fountain this side of heaven or Fort Worth. Come to think of it, this is probably the thing most missed about the watering trough. In all of West Texas I can't recall a fountain right off. Those watering places weren't much for beauty, but they did give us the illusion of a fountain in the plaza, and we lost something when they went out. —JOE PICKLE

These Days—George Sokolsky

Retaliation Policy Best Choice For United States In Cold War

Four ways are open to the United States: 1. To accept the initiative for war on the assumption that the country that strikes first will have the greatest advantage; 2. To wait until we are hit and then to retaliate in full force; 3. A continuation of conferences with the object of delaying a shooting war as long as possible in the hope that something will happen—anything will happen—which will so weaken the Soviet Universal State that the necessity for war will have passed its historic moment; 4. Total isolation without any attempt at meeting the pressing international problems.

party because he insisted that it be an American, not a Russian, party. The "containment policy" ignored infiltration as a method of war and therefore was inadequate. The "retaliation policy" comes close to reality but can only be tested by use—and use of it would be a fighting war on a universal scale. Nevertheless, it would be a safer guide for the United States if it were clear that there is a point beyond which we shall retaliate.

Dean Acheson adds to these a fifth possibility, namely, the maintenance of a balance of power. These are his words: "So it became increasingly plain as our third postwar debate on foreign policy in half a century went on that the United States was, and must remain, in and of the world, and that co-existence of the victors and the maintenance of peace demanded the re-creation of a balancing power to the power of the Soviet system."

Agriculture Secretary Benson plans to subsidize milk-drinking in the schools. Slogan: "A glass of milk with every book will take Ezra Benson off the hook."

The historic error in the Acheson thesis is that he disregards the fact that the United States is the target for destruction by the Soviet Universal State. Great Britain can attempt to maintain the balance of power because it stands between the United States and Soviet Russia. As a matter of fact, Great Britain has accepted that role and thus has, in reality, become a neutral power which was fully evident at Geneva. Great Britain is assumed by Nationalist China to have prevented Formosa, the Republic of Korea and Japan from being invited to attend the Manila Conference where they rightly belonged.

The American Medical Association says there's one doctor for every 730 Americans. Thanks to the doctors, we're the smartest people on earth. We always know what we're doing that's killing us.

This way is not open for the United States to attempt to maintain a balance of power because it is the United States which is the principal objective enemy of the Soviet world. In a word, Dean Acheson's concept fits the year 1947 but not 1954. In 1948, the Soviet Universal State was moving in the direction of consolidating its power in China and Germany and the United States was building a coalition in Western Europe which became NATO and sought to build a European Defense Community by treaty. The United States has been defeated in these efforts, principally by Great Britain and France and by its own military failure in Korea.

Atomic Chairman Strauss says H-bombs haven't affected the weather. The weather isn't worse. It's just that ever since people quit picking on the administration, there isn't much else to talk about.

Let us now analyze the ways that are open to this country. To take the initiative for war is offensive to American public opinion and although the President can bypass the Constitutional authority of Congress, as President Truman did in the Korean War, it is doubtful whether President Eisenhower would do anything of the sort. Therefore, the method of retaliation is really the first one open to this country. But the method of retaliation requires a fixed policy, a demarcation on a map of the American sphere of authority beyond which the Soviet Universal State may not move a toe without the peril of retaliation. The United States has no such fixed policy. Is it the Riber Elbe in Europe? Is it the 38th parallel in Korea? Is it 12 miles off the China Coast? Is it the line of islands running from Japan, through Formosa, the Pescadores, the Philippines, to Australia and New Zealand?

The original "containment policy" of Harry Truman was vitiated by the Korean and Indochina wars, although Soviet Russia moved no further in Europe except by the process of infiltration. But to Soviet Russia, infiltration is a weapon of war. The Communist parties of France and Italy are Russian parties, directed by the Kremlin. Ruth Fischer, once one of the top leaders of the German Communist party, in her book, "Stalin and German Communism," establishes beyond doubt the breakdown of independent national Communist parties and their incorporation in the Russian state system as instruments of infiltration. Earl Browder was thrown out of the American Communist

9 States Generally Rename Incumbents

By The Associated Press
Republican Sen. Robert W. Upson of New Hampshire was the most notable casualty yesterday as primary warmups in nine states produced party candidates for the November elections.

Otherwise, congressional incumbents weathered the preliminary skirmishing—the biggest batch of primaries this year. Voters in New Hampshire, New York, Vermont, Massachusetts, Wisconsin, Colorado, Utah, Minnesota and Washington picked nominees for five Senate and 92 House seats, for six governorships and a host of other state and local offices. The vote was reported light in several states.

The selection of candidates for the Nov. 2 balloting will be completed later this month with a primary in Rhode Island and conventions in New York State.

Upson, 70, was defeated by veteran U.S. Rep. Norris Cotton, 54, in a three-way race for the GOP nomination to serve the last two years of the late Sen. Charles W. Tobey's six-year term. Running third was Wesley Powell, a 27-year-old attorney who four years ago came close to unseating Upson in the primary. In recent years, Republican nomination has meant election in New Hampshire.

Upson, who has been serving under appointment since Tobey's death last year, was the second U.S. senator to suffer defeat in a primary this year. The other was Sen. Alton Lennon (D-N.C.). House incumbents also have been beaten in bids for renomination.

In another contest that drew national attention, former Democratic Rep. John A. Carroll, 53, won his party's nomination for the Senate from Colorado. He dented Mayor Quigg Newton of Denver. Carroll formerly was an adviser to President Truman. He will face Lt. Gov. Gordon Allott, who was unopposed for the GOP Senate nomination.

Sen. Edwin C. Johnson now holds the seat for which Carroll and Allott will vie. Johnson chose to run instead for governor of Colorado and he was unopposed in the Democratic primary. Johnson's opponent Nov. 2 will be State Sen.

Donald G. Brozman, the only candidate in the GOP gubernatorial primary.

Other highlights of yesterday's primaries: Wisconsin — Fred R. Zimmerman, 74-year-old foe of Sen. McCarthy, built up a commanding lead in his try for Republican renomination as secretary of state.

Utah — Mrs. Reva Beck Bosone, red-haired veteran of two House terms, won an easy victory in her quest for the Democratic nomination in Utah's 2nd District and a crack at Republican Rep. William A. Dawson, who unseated her two years ago. Dawson was unopposed for renomination.

Massachusetts — A veteran member of the Bay State Legislature, Robert F. Murphy, won the Democratic nomination for governor in his first try at statewide office. Supported by the State Democratic Convention, Murphy decisively defeated Francis E. Kelly, a Boston lawyer who has served as lieutenant governor and attorney general. Murphy will face Republican Gov. Christian A. Hester, who was unopposed for renomination.

Sen. Leygett Saltonstall had no opposition in the GOP primary and he will be opposed in November by Foster Furcolo, state treasurer and former Congress member, who outran two opponents for the Democratic Senate nomination.

Vermont — A comparative newcomer to state politics, Joseph B. Johnson, won the Republican nomination for governor of Vermont, a traditionally solid GOP state. Johnson, a 61-year-old industrialist, will have as his running mate the first woman ever nominated for lieutenant governor in the state's history. She is Mrs. Consuelo Northrop Bailey, speaker of the Vermont House of Representatives. Mrs. Bailey came out on top in a three-cornered fight.

Minnesota — Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn) held a strong lead over two opponents early today and Val Bjornson, Republican state treasurer, seemed well on his way to winning the GOP Senate nomination. Bjornson, too, had two opponents.

Republican Gov. C. Elmer Anderson was renominated without a fight. In the Democratic-Farmer-Labor contest for the gubernatorial nomination, Orville Freeman, a Minneapolis lawyer, was outdistancing Paul Rasmussen, a state railroad and warehouse commissioner.

New York — Rep. Stuyvesant Wainwright 2nd, a fervent supporter of a top-heavy renomination of President Eisenhower, won a victory over Republican William P. Shea, an avowed backer of Sen. McCarthy. Wainwright frequently has criticized the Wisconsin senator. Three other Republican congressmen who had opposition also were renominated without difficulty. They were Reps. Edmund P. Radwan, Ralph A. Gamble and W. Sterling Cole. Cole is chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee.

Washington — In a slim turnout, Washington State voters picked nominees for the state's seven congressional seats. Main interest centered on a four-way race for the Republican nomination for congressman-at-large. There, former State Rep. Al Canwell appeared headed for a runaway triumph over his three opponents. Democratic Rep. Don Magnuson, the incumbent, was unopposed.

Hugh B. Mitchell, a former U.S. senator and House member, won Democratic nomination in the state's 1st District. He topped two opponents. In his comeback try, Mitchell will try to unhorse Rep. Thomas M. Pelly, who was renominated without opposition.

Big Spring Phillips Employe Is Honored

Sherba Berger, Big Spring, is among 109 Panhandle and West Texas-New Mexico employes honored Tuesday evening by the Phillips Petroleum Company for long service.

The presentation was in the Beuena Vista cafeteria in Borger and honored those completing 25, 30 and 35 years of service during 1954.

Paul Endicott, president of Phillips, made the principal speech, and E. H. Foster, Amarillo, chief attorney, was master of ceremonies. W. W. Keeler, vice president of the company, made the actual awards.

Other awards went to D. E. Partridge, W. F. Mann, R. C. Mason, C. E. Thomas, A. L. Kinchen and G. T. Waldrop, Odessa; W. M. Greenfield, H. R. Black, J. L. Brumbeulow, and J. R. Phillips, Goldsmith; V. T. Patterson, Midland; J. H. Williams, Crane; D. W. Wells, Penwell, and T. G. Lasater, Fullerton.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

Scene in Toronto during the past century. The building, St. Lawrence Market, still stands.

TORONTO, Ont.—There are different ways of telling the size of a city, and it is well to explain what is meant when a figure is given. Toronto, for example, had 673 thousand people inside the city limits when a census was taken three years ago. At the same time the suburbs, or satellite towns, around Toronto had 442 thousand people. Putting those figures together, the population of greater Toronto was 1,115 thousand.

Greater Montreal has more people, but some persons expect Toronto to take first place. A local taxicab driver said to me: "With all those people coming here from Europe, and with the St. Lawrence Waterway, Toronto is going to be the biggest city in Canada." The latest official estimate places the population of Canada at a little above 25 million. Since the present century opened, the number has almost tripled. Some experts expect the total to reach 25 million by 1975.

Immigrants of the past decade have come chiefly from Germany, England, Italy, Holland and Scotland. More than half of the new citizens are settling in Ontario. Figures about the racial origins of Canadians were gathered three years ago, as a part of the census. These show that 48 per cent of the people were of British stock, and 31 per cent were of French stock.

When the British figure is divided, we find that 26 per cent of all Canadians were of English ancestry, while 11 and a half per cent were of Scottish and 10 per cent of Irish descent. Only a very

Colorado Voters Take A Long Look

ASPEN, Colo. (AP)—Eighty Pitkin County voters in yesterday's primary election looked clear across the country for their favorites in the race for congressman from Colorado's Northern District.

They wrote in the name of Republican Rep. John P. Saylor of Johnstown, Pa. Cards had been circulated prior to the primary naming Saylor as "Pitkin County's best friend in Washington in the water diversion fight."

Saylor, a sharp critic of upper Colorado River development, signed a minority House committee report condemning the project. Pitkin County residents object particularly to the proposed Frypan-Arkansas diversion, which would take water from the Frypan River in Pitkin County over the Continental Divide into the Arkansas River on the eastern slope.

The Frypan project bill died in the House.

Eisenhower Begins Trout Fishing Trip

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower sets out today for a Rocky Mountain trout stream on what aides described as five or six days of all-out vacation.

The President arranged an early start on a 70-mile drive northwest across the Continental Divide to Fraser, Colo., at secluded Byers Peak Ranch high in the Rockies.

Eisenhower got in three days of fishing there two weeks ago with former President Hoover, but the stay was interrupted by quite a bit of official business.

This time, Presidential Press Secretary James Hagerty told newsmen, "there is going to be no business if we can help it—it's an all-out vacation."

At the time of that census, 4 per cent of the Canadian population was of German origin and 3 per cent of Ukrainian origin. Holland

Melvin Talley, a native of Brady, who has been discharged from the Army after 10 years service as a clerk-typist, has accepted a similar job with the Area Office of the Soil Conservation Service in the basement of the Big Spring Post Office.

Part of Talley's time will be spent traveling visiting the various unit offices in the area. He and Mrs. Talley have one child. Also joining the Big Spring unit office of the SCS is Olin Mitchell, a graduate of Sul Ross College at Alpine. For the last 60 days he has been working at Plainview with Grady Lane, work unit conservator there, who was promoted to that post from the assistant's place in the Big Spring office several weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell have two children and have established their home here. Mrs. Mitchell is making a complete recovery from a bulbar type polio attack she suffered a few months ago. She was treated at the Plainview Polio Center, and for a while was regarded as being very seriously ill.

The pink bollworm infestation in the area is just about what it was at this same time last year, according to Bert Badger, field inspector for the Texas State Department of Agriculture.

He describes the situation as "general but light."

An interesting point right now is the fact that many of the worms are very small, just large enough to bore into the bolls, and when they're this size they're the same color as the lint. Moreover, they make a hole so small going into the bolls that these holes can't be discovered without a rather powerful magnifying glass, and frequently these holes quickly close up and there isn't even a trace of the worm having gained an entry. In such cases the fact that he is in the boll can be definitely determined by a little trail he almost inevitably leaves on the inside of the green hull before he strikes out through the lint for the seed.

It takes a trained man to find the worms, or evidence of their presence, in a green boll. Badger hasn't yet started inspections of gin trash. He's waiting for the ginning to become a little heavier. He thinks that before too long there will likely be a gin trash machine brought in here to speed up these inspections.

In the meantime there is a four-pronged attack being launched against the pink bollworm menace, which has become the most serious of all insect threats to the state's cotton industry. From College Station comes the word that every possible weapon is being used by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station in co-operation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture's entomology research branch. Each year the pink bollworm costs Texas cotton farmers millions of dollars.

"Our research program includes mechanical farming equipment, cultural practices, chemicals and nature in an effort to control the pink bollworm," says Director R. D. Lewis of the Texas Experiment Station. "Texas has taken the lead in certain phases of pink bollworm research that extends throughout the southern cotton growing states."

Lewis explains that stalk destruction is the best known control method for pink bollworm. While commenting that some chemicals will give control, he says that due to the insect's natural habits it is difficult to apply chemicals to areas in cotton bolls where the worms are present. Gins in many areas treat seed and gin trash of harvested cotton to further control spread of the pink bollworm, which is said to have come from Mexico.

The Texas A&M research program now under way includes development of a power-operated stalk shredding machine which will kill a high per cent of pink bollworms present during the shredding operation. Agricultural engineers are in the process of building a sprayer or duster to apply insecticides more thoroughly, reaching the base of cotton bolls and destroying the worms.

Chemical control of the insect is difficult because the moths lay eggs at the base of bolls, sometimes under the edge of the calyx. As the worms hatch they bore directly into the boll. If not killed the worms become moths.

Farmers will be interested in knowing that concentrated efforts are being made in the research laboratories to find a cotton variety with possible characteristics that will be resistant to pink bollworms.

entirely or that will reduce damages from this insect. Lewis says the scientists also believe that chemical defolants applied to cotton plants to remove foliage will be of benefit in stopping, in some measure, the development of the pink bollworm. Chemical compounds are being tested in the search for one which will "chemically terminate" plant growth, thus allowing harvest of the cotton and at the same time stopping the development of future pink bollworm infestations. Success of any one or a combination of the tests will mean extra profits to Texas cotton farmers who lost an estimated $28 million during the 1933 season when wet weather prevented stalk destruction, allowing an extra fall growth of cotton and an increase in the pink bollworm population. All practices thought to be effective are being tested thoroughly in wide scale field experiments. The major part of the Texas A&M Extension Service Research, over and beyond field inspections, is being conducted in the Rio Grande Valley, at Port Lavaca and at College Station. The Big Spring field inspector, who has had a pink bollworm moth trap set up at the Experiment Field Station at the north edge of Big Spring, says he has trapped a considerable number of these moths.

THP Chief Says Traffic Deaths Can Be Reduced By 1,000 Yearly

A pistol marksmanship demonstration was highlight of the Rotary Club program at which W. J. Elliott, chief of the Texas Highway Patrol, was principal speaker Tuesday.

In a brief address, Chief Elliott called for expansion of the THP force to 1,200 men. "If you'll give me that number, I'll reduce traffic deaths in Texas by 1,000 per year," the veteran officer asserted.

Staging the shooting demonstration in the Settles ballroom was a Capt. Don Lawrence, also of the Austin headquarters of the Highway Patrol. Capt. Lawrence, who is in charge of the firearms training for THP officers, fired approximately 30 shots at fixed and moving targets.

Firing at targets as thin as a piece of string and as intangible as a candle's flame, Capt. Lawrence missed with only one shot. The "miss" grazed the edge of a dime-sized disc of wood.

In one of the exhibitions, the firearms expert split a .38-calibre bullet on the blade of a hatchet, breaking clay pigeons on each side of the ax with pieces of the slug. Unorthodox shooting included firing with the pistol upside down, with the trigger squeezed with the little finger, and with the captain facing away from the target and sighting with a mirror. Hits were scored on each demonstration.

Chief Elliott, a member of the Texas Highway Patrol since its establishment, urged Rotarians to contact state representatives and senators if they desire more from the Highway Patrol.

He said patrolmen now work from 10 to 15 hours per day, giving one and a third times the service that they're paid for. "We can't ask them to do more," Chief Elliott said.

The Highway Patrol chief said his officers must patrol 62,000 miles of state and federal highways and 190,000 miles of other highways. A third of the force is concentrated on Highway 80. Traffic mishaps take about 2,500 lives, injure 75,000 and result in economic loss amounting to $80,000,000 each year, he said.

He said the department is using radar in a limited manner in the enforcement of traffic laws. This increases the need for men, rather than lowers requirements.

Elliott said his department could train and put into service 200 men each biennium, if the Legislature would provide funds for the additional personnel. He said such a program should be continued until the force reached 1,200 men. Including the chief, the THP now consists of 315 men.

The Highway Patrol chief also described the various demonstrations of marksmanship, as they were presented by Lawrence. The targets were set up before a steel encased backboard. Regulation ammunition was fired from 22, 38, and 45 calibre pistols.

McCarthy Censure Panel Backs Staff Unanimously

By G. MILTON KELLY
WASHINGTON (AP)—Members of a special committee weighing censure charges against Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said today they hope to complete the framework of their report by the week's end.

The six-senator committee, headed by Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), yesterday unanimously rejected McCarthy's challenge of the impartiality of its legal staff.

The group expressed "absolute confidence in the fairness" of E. Wallace Chadwick, chief counsel Guy G. de Furlis, his assistant, "and all other members of the legal staff."

McCarthy had said Chadwick and De Furlis had acted as "prosecutors" at the committee's nine-day hearings, and he suggested the group hire new lawyers to help draft its report to the Senate.

Watkins announced the decision at a news conference following day-long closed conferences with his committee, but he declined to talk about what form or tone the report may take.

As the committee returned to the job today, other sources said language the group employed in announcing the vote of confidence in the legal staff fits into plans to have the six committee members sketch the broad outline or framework of the report, then let the lawyers fill in the details.

The Senate has agreed to return to session later this year to consider, in the light of the committee's findings, a censure resolution aimed at McCarthy by Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.) and 46 overlapping charges Flanders and Sens. Fulbright (D-Ark.) and Morse (Ind-Ore) filed in support of it.

HYDRA-MATIC GMC TRUCK OWNERS REPORTING!

"Far better gas mileage—"

"Only Hydra-Matic GMC's for me—"

NOW—as mileage piles up on Hydra-Matic GMC trucks in service—the pay-off is looming large on the books of their cost-conscious owners. Reports are pouring in from farmers and florists, from diaper services and milk companies, from wholesale butchers and bakers and paper box makers, from owners and rental operators all over the land. They sum up to one conclusion:

Marciano Picked To K. O. Charles

NEW YORK (AP)—The Marciano-Charles heavyweight title fight was postponed 24 hours today because of weather conditions. By MURRAY ROSE NEW YORK (AP)—Determined Eszard Charles gets a second crack at heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano in Yankee Stadium tonight and the odds are 1-5 that he'll get whipped again. The 33-year-old ex-champion from Cincinnati went the full 15 rounds with the powerful Brockton blaster last June 17 but the return figures to be a short and explosive battle. Most of the experts feel that Charles will have to shoot the works quickly in the hopes of stopping the ever-pressing champion and that, instead of scoring, he will be chopped down by Marciano's savage swings. The pick here is Rocky by a knockout within eight rounds. The betting is 5-12 that the 30-year-old champion will stop the perennial challenger and wreck his unprecedented third bid to become the first ex-king to retain the heavyweight throne. You can get 6 to 1 if you think Charles will stop Marciano. They'll start swinging at 10:30 p.m., EDT before some 46,000 fans. Promoter Jim Norris, encouraged by a brisk ticket sale yesterday and by a favorable forecast of "fair and partly cloudy at the worst," still hopes to get $325,000 and upwards at the gate. The last one lured 47,385 of the faithful and grossed $545,092. If the fight is postponed by rain, it will be held Thursday.

Giants Defeat Braves; Brooklyn Tops Redlegs

By ED CORRIGAN AP Sports Writer As the National League pennant chase rushed to a climax, it became more and more evident today that the three-game Brooklyn-New York series next week would decide the winner. Milwaukee, for all intents and purposes, is out of the running. The Giants took care of that little item last night with a 3-1 victory over the Braves. With 12 games to play, the Braves are five and a half back, a virtually insurmountable margin. Milwaukee, for all intents and purposes, is out of the running. combination of two Cleveland victories or two losses by the New York Yankees and the Indians are the new league champions. The Yanks, meanwhile, continued to play it out by crushing Detroit, 11-0. Baltimore beat Boston, 3-1, and Philadelphia shut out Chicago, 1-0, in other American League action.

BALTIMORE AT LAST LURES PAUL RICHARDS

By JAMES DAILEY CHICAGO (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles finally have squeezed loose from the Chicago White Sox a member of the fabulous Lane-Richards combine. Sox Manager Paul Richards quit yesterday and accepted terms to be combination general manager-field manager of the Orioles. He was succeeded immediately by Marty Marion, Sox coach and former St. Louis Cardinals and Browns manager.

But the Orioles since their conversion from the St. Louis Browns last winter have appeared determined to lure one or the other of the successful Sox combination for their own. Richards is to leave Chicago today for his home in Waxahachie, Texas, for a short rest before formal signing of papers in Baltimore Sept. 24. He said he had accepted the general manager position but he seemed uncertain about his field duties. In Baltimore, Orioles President Clarence W. Miles said Richards definitely will direct the Orioles in the field, replacing current Manager Jimmy Dykes. Marion will finish out the season at the helm of the Sox and sign a one-year contract to manage them in 1955.

Potashers Take NuMexers, 8-3

ARTESIA, N.M. (AP)—Carlsbad's hammering Potashers led the Longhorn League final playoff today as they squared off against the Artesia NuMexers in the second game of the 7-game series to decide the pennant. Clouting five pitchers for 12 hits and using 9 walks by those hurlers to advantage, Carlsbad whipped Artesia, 8-3, in the series opener here last night. The Potashers slammed four Hank Williams started for Carlsbad but threw his knee out of joint in a collision at first base in the third inning. He was relieved by Dario Jimenez. Williams will be out of action for several days. Bob Weaver, who had a 21-9 season record, will open tonight for Artesia. Carlsbad will use Bart Dimattio, who had a 14-8 record.

Steers Showing No Fire In Workouts This Week

They hit hard enough, they ran hard enough once they got going, and they could perfect their blocking and defensive assignments almost any day. But the coaches were worried and befuddled after two days of workouts by the Big Spring Steers this week. They were singing a little refrain to themselves. "Oh where, oh where has the old fire gone." Railbirds figured the coaches had pretty well put their fingers on one of the most sadly lacking elements of the 1954 Steers. Except for occasional spurts by the second stringers as they rallied to stop offensive charges, there was little or no chatter. When the ball was put in play at a different point, the squad walked over slowly and methodically.

Tech's Wilson Has To Give Up Football

LUBBOCK (AP)—There'll be no more football for Elmer Wilson, who was one of the most popular players at Texas Tech. Wilson, who lettered three seasons at halfback and quarterback, has given up the game on doctor's orders. He suffered a concussion in a workout and examination showed permanent injury would be risked if he played any more. From the time he entered the West Texas State game in 1951 as a freshman and raced back 80 yards with a punt the first time he touched the ball, Wilson was the crowd's favorite. But the 5-foot-4 youngster will be connected with football only as a spotter for the radio announcers in the future.

Litman Is Star As Brooke Wins

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Alex Litman must work on the theory that age, too, must have its sting. The sergeant from San Angelo, who at 34, is the oldest sprint champion in the nation, also is some shaky at a football player. Brooke Army Medical Center's all-around athlete scored three touchdowns in the opening football game of the season as the Comets beat Southwest Texas State College, 34-13.

The Clovis Pioneers put Amarillo on the block and chopped away for 19 runs last night to take a 19-1 victory and move into a 2-2 tie in the best of seven series in the West Texas - New Mexico League. Meanwhile, the tilt between Pampa and Abilene was postponed due to Monday night's bus accident when the bus carrying the Pampa team was involved in a collision with a truck. Only manager Herschel Martin remained in the hospital with broken ribs. Pitcher Sam Williams, who suffered a badly bruised arm, was released earlier.

New Break Between Winter Golf Tournaments, PGA Appears

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Golf tournaments along the winter trail probably will all pull away from the PGA and operate as invitational affairs because the golfers association has failed to sign contracts as agreed upon, M. P. (Monk) Wilson, president of the Winter Golf Spenders Assn., said today. A new break between the PGA and the Spenders opened yesterday when the PGA announced a rival tournament at Los Angeles to the Junior Chamber of Commerce-sponsored Los Angeles Open. The PGA made the move when the Junior Chamber of Commerce refused to raise its prize money from $20,000 to $25,000 and its fee for operation of the tournament below from $2,000 to $2,500. Wilson said an agreement reached with the PGA here in February during the Texas Open was that 10 tournaments along the winter tour would get 3-year contracts and keep their purses the same, with the provision that each tournament would contribute $2,000 to the PGA for two years. The next move came at Fort Worth in May where, during the Colonial National Invitation Tournament, the PGA announced it had signed Bob Leacock of Kansas City as schedule director. Leacock said he would arrange a schedule, try to agree with the winter sponsors but, failing that, go ahead with his own plans for tournaments. Wilson replied that his association had a contract with the PGA but would listen to any reasonable change. The changes the PGA now wants to make are too drastic to accept, Wilson said. "We plan to make all our tournaments invitational affairs," Wilson

Houston Wins Opener

HOUSTON (AP)—Home runs were the big show last night as Houston beat Fort Worth, 4-3, in 11 innings to take a 1-0 lead in the final playoff of the Texas League. Weaver announced also that all Webb Air Force Base personnel are invited to become members of the Quarterback Club. Honorary membership cards will be issued to all Air Force personnel desiring them and airmen are invited to participate in activities of the organization. Wayne Bonner, assistant football coach, was a guest at last night's meeting.

Member Drive Slated By QBC

An intensive membership campaign was mapped last night by the Big Spring Quarterback Club. Plans call for the placing of "self service" boxes in various stores around town for the convenience of persons desiring to join the organization. Membership blanks may be filled in and left in the boxes. R. H. Weaver, co-captain, explained. Movies of the Big Spring-Andrews game, slated for showing at the meeting, did not arrive from the processor, Weaver said. As a result, the film will be shown at the club's meeting next Tuesday.

Stagg, 92, Knocked Down, Gets Up Quick

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP)—Amos Alonzo Stagg, hardy 92-year-old dean of American football coaches, was knocked out in a practice session at Stockton College Monday—but was on his feet and bounding about before doctors and an ambulance reached the field. Stagg said he was not hurt although he was unconscious five minutes after a charging center bowled him over. "You don't have to worry about me," Stagg told players and coaches as he opened his eyes. "I know how to take care of myself." Then he drilled the squad another 90 minutes.

American Trio Freed By Reds Enters Hong Kong Thin, Pale

By FRED HAMPSON
HONG KONG (U)—Looking thin, pale and ill after 18 months in Communist Chinese captivity, two American correspondents and a ship captain from Brooklyn crossed into British Hong Kong today.

One of the trio, National Broadcasting Co. correspondent Richard Applegate, 37, of Medford, Ore., told a news conference that after months of solitary confinement in a Canton jail and long hours of questioning, he had admitted the Americans waged germ warfare in Korea.

"I thought they either would leave me in that prison until I rotted or that they would kill me," he said.

The Reds released Applegate, International News Service correspondent Donald Dixon, 25, of New York, and merchant mariner Benjamin Kramer at the Lohu border bridge. A U. S. consulate car brought them the 40 miles to the Peninsula Hotel at Kowloon, on the mainland across from Hong Kong.

Applegate gave this account of his grilling about the alleged germ warfare in Korea, which he said began after the Reds found out he had been a war correspondent in Korea.

The first time he was questioned, he got angry and shouted back. "That's a lie. There were no germs dropped in Korea."

The Communist interrogator pounded the desk and yelled,
"You lie! You lie! If you don't tell the truth, we'll kill you. Go back to your cell and think a while."

After long hours, Applegate continued, he began to confess to the germ warfare but the Reds quickly challenged: "You lie. Your confession is different from the American files."

"I could not confess what they wanted because I didn't know what they wanted, until they let a translation of Russian stories get into the cell. I knew then what they wanted to hear and I gave it to them. After that I started confessing to being in Chinese waters and everything else they asked."

"I found out the Reds wanted me to lie as I lied plenty. I lied 17 pages of lies. They told me that even the wind from Hong Kong contained germs. I agreed."

All three men smiled and then laughed almost hysterically as they stepped from the consulate car to be greeted by almost 70 reporters and cameramen. "Well, I see the newsmen make the news today," Applegate shouted in his usual battering manner.

Applegate said at the end of the news conference he believed the Communists had benefited the Chinese materially by halting graft, opium smoking and drug traffic

"but all at the expense of the personal liberty of the people."

"China is a police state—as far as I could see it was no different from a fascist dictatorship. Before this happened to me I was a reporter, and as a reporter I tried to stay neutral in the cold war between freedom and communism."

"But I'm not neutral any more.
I'm going to get into it. I'm going to fight that tyranny any way I can from now on."

The trio had been captured by the Reds March 21, 1953, while sailing Applegate's yacht to the Portuguese colony of Macao.

The Reds did not admit that they were holding the three men until last May at the Geneva conference. Former British Prime Minister Clement Attlee, during his recent visit to Peiping with a Labor party delegation, interceded with the Red officials on their behalf after receiving an appeal from Applegate's mother.

Loving Named To Association Post

FORT WORTH (U)—The Texas Package Store Assn. continued its convention here today with Charles J. Dalley, San Antonio, presiding.
Dalley was re-elected president this week when the association named its officers for the ensuing year.

Other officers elected were Joe
A. Arp, Houston, re-named vice president; Roger Sloan, Kilgore, vice president; and Bernard Lin-nan, Fort Worth, re-elected secretary-treasurer.

New directors chosen included:
Bill Loving, Big Spring, Walter
Silvers, Houston; Waller Wukasch,
Austin; Raymond McNabb, Corpus Christi, and John Nelms, Dallas.

Today's Traffic Fines Total $60

Six people who received traffic tickets were fined a total of $60 in city court this morning by Acting Judge Grover Cunningham Jr.

Top fine was $15, and it went against a man who admitted speeding. Fines of $10 each were levied against two men running stop signals and two men ticketed with creating excessive noise without mufflers. Another who ran a stop sign drew a $5 penalty.

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—Police are holding a 27-year-old nattily dressed bookkeeper who, they say, has admitted four loan company holdups and has spent part of the loot to buy riding horses.

Det. Insp. Algis Skonieczka identified the man as Gregory Beery, Rd 1, Girard, Pa.

The Lake City Finance and Loan Co. in Erie and neighboring Conneaut, Ohio, has been the victim of the holdups in which a total of $2,082 was taken.

rested Beery. Skonieczka said Beery told him money from the first holdup was used to buy three riding horses. Part of the additional loot went for clothes, he added.

Beery was charged with four counts of armed robbery.

The percentage of U. S. children between 5 and 17 not attending any school increased from 12.7 in 1951 to 13.2 in 1953.
