Phillips '66' Take Sugar Game From Littlefield Panthers Here Sunday

WALK UP 2ND STORY IN 3 VISITS HERE

Phillips Scores 3 And Littlefield 4 In First Inning

Hale, former big leaguer and one of many baseball connoisseurs to town last Sunday with his side performers and made a declaration that they would return and give the locals the very next time. In fact, the two innings of Sunday's game will bear this out in no uncertain terms. Tommy Hall, versatile pitcher for the home club, held the score making com- that not only resulted from his inner defense in a big way to contribute to the run making. The first stanza after Clark man, lofted to Aldridge in the third. Thomas reached first on a bunt. Sammy Hale was hit by a ball, and Littrell, hard centerfielder skied to Hodges for the second put out. Pointer found the situation interesting and slashed out a blow to right, scoring Hale. Jackson's infield was a bad throw to first. Pointer tally for the third. Francis ended the inning by hitting up to Burleson at third.

The home club came back with a war club power and scored three times to put them out ahead of the visitors. It happened when Hale hit a double to left field, singled, and Eddie Miller, short stopper for Littlefield, hit for a homer over the left

We Believe Apologies Are in Order—Two Apologies!

The first and foremost from the Lamb County Leader on publishing no sport page last week. Yes, there was a sport page written, set in type, but by some extraordinary accident that maybe never happened in a newspaper office before, and probably never will happen again, the page that a short time before carried all the sports of the week, besides a lengthy account of the many criticisms made by a certain Lubbock sport writer, very un-sportsmanlike in manner, against the ever cooperative local baseball club, because they did not see fit to enter the tournament sponsored by the Lubbock group, and in addition, "just what the Littlefield baseball club thought of their neighborly neighbors" and maybe it was "hot"—it was smeared all over the entire sport page—well a certain sport writer was the only one to benefit by the sport page not being published. The local boys looked for the "come back" against the un-sportsmanlike attitude of the Lubbock group, which they were rightfully entitled to, but it was not there—we apologize—we certainly intended it should be—as this newspaper has always been behind the locals—and certainly intend to stay there—so if they will overlook the past extraordinary accident we will see that it "just don't happen again."

Now about apology No 2—That should be forthcoming from that well known sport writer who, among other stinging remarks, we believe, is responsible for the following in the Avalanche-Journal paper:

"Just as everything was nearly 'set' for opening guns in the Lubbock Invitation Baseball tournament three clubs counted on heavily to provide attractive baseball decided not to play.

"It happened last night when managers and team representatives met here to work out final details and draw for first round positions. There was no drawing, because an agreement on distribution of finances could not be reached to the satisfaction of the three clubs.

"Efforts will be made today to replace the three outfits which did not choose to cooperate. Having built themselves into title contenders, by their own admission, teams of Littlefield and Sudan, the latter to be combined with Muleshoe, made financial demands of the tournament committee that could not be met, the tournament committee felt, without risking a substantial loss. Amherst, represented by a club director, strung along with Littlefield and Sudan in deciding not to compete.

"The tournament is not 'off' yet indications are that 'times are too good' for tournament baseball, it was gathered at last night's meeting. "We can make more money at home," suggested managers, leaving the impression that baseball, even the sandlot variety played here-ab- out, is going commercial and mercenary in a large way.

"It's going to be a tournament, Elmer, between ball players who have their hands out to catch hot grounders and high flies, not nickels and dollars from the fans; the players in the tournament, Elmer, will have their minds on scoring runs and getting the opposition out, not on the box office and the number of cash customers in the grandstand.

"It's 'make me a proposition,' not 'throw me that old pelota,' now. And if they don't like the proposition, they won't play. But the managers, owners, scouts and 'councils' in baseball may charge themselves with having encouraged those player traits and trends.

"Yep, we'll have a tournament, Elmer, in spite of the 'boycott.' We invited the boys 'up the line' to come in for a peaceful confab the other night, to present their views, exchange ideas, for the purpose of working out a plan fair to all. But we invited suggestions, not dictation! But it was their plan or no soap. So it was 'no soap' . . . and we're still going to have a tournament. For ball players, and for the fans. We'll be seein' ye, we trust."

Just what one of our prominent local baseball fans thinks of the above uncanny remarks is contained in the following statement:

"On the sport page of a recent issue of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, there was in the minds of the fair minded baseball fans of this section the most un-sportsmanlike attitude expressed that we have ever seen taken by a sport writer. It all came about through the representatives of the Littlefield, Amherst and Sudan baseball teams refusing to enter into the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal baseball tournament. Just where this sports writer got the idea that we had no option in this thing, he is wrong. The facts in the case are that the tournament would not pay enough for the teams from this section of the country to let us break even on actual expenses, and there is also plenty of people here that feel that the tournament was being staged for the financial benefit of some two or three individuals whom it is reported own the ball park at Lubbock. Anyway we reserve the right to exercise our own judgement in whether or not we are going to enter in any tournament and the fans of this section in general are going to be a long time in forgetting this unwarranted attack on us and the unfair things said about us.

"For the last ten years fans from this section have supported Lubbock athletics, baseball, football, wrestling matches and all forms of sports, and it takes considerable effort for us to even break into the sport page of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal. Time after time we have reported results of games played here and never get a line in the sport section.

"We do not believe that the sports editor of the Lubbock paper expressed the sentiment of the sporting people of Lubbock, and we feel that he certainly owes us an apology. Whether he makes it or not is unimportant. Anyway there is lots that could be said about the treatment we have received from the 'Big City' east of us that will probably be nicer unsaid, but it is very evident that if there is any semblance of friendly athletic relations between Lubbock and these towns that were so unfairly attacked that the overtures will have to come from that direction."

TOMMY HALL IN TRUE FORM FOR 1ST GAME

Muleshoe, Amherst, Pep, Tip Toppers, Littlefield, Sudan In Tournament

Sudan is staging her first annual baseball tournament this week with six teams entered: Muleshoe, Amherst, Pep, Tip Toppers, Littlefield and Sudan. So far the affair gives promise of some high class baseball for the week.

All clubs entered have reinforced their lineups to where you can expect most anything to happen. Some have gone so far as to almost completely renew their rosters with stars from other sections, in hopes of winning the spoils and the tournament. Baseball followers who like the national pastime should be well supplied with their favorite sport on the South Plains this summer.

It hasn't been so many years back when the home club had long road trips to make to find someone who could make things hot for them. Now days things are plenty hot near home.

LITTLEFIELD 9, TIP TOPPERS 1

The club from Lubbock and backed by Jimmie Williams who has a restaurant there, put up a real battle last Monday afternoon in opposition to the locals in the tournament at Sudan. Many hard hit balls were in evidence. Some resulted in stellar fielding plays while others meant runs.

Tommy Hall was quite himself and limited Lubbock to six blows while the Littlefield crew accounted for ten.

Up until the ninth things rocked along in very close fashion on 6-1 terms. But in the ninth inning with Edwards and Burleson on the hash-crocks who had singled, Manager Dick Ratliff jumped on one of Demp Webster's favorite pitches for a long home run over the left center field fence to register an additional three markers and run the total to 9 tallies. Thus the contest ended.

Webster's left handed chunking was very commendable for the losers.

TAHOKA LOSES TO LOCAL BOYS IN NIGHT GAME

Large Attendance Witnesses Game; Score Is 10-3

Wednesday night of last week the Littlefield Panthers had as their foe (on the baseball battlefield) the newly assembled Lynn county club piloted by Steve Larkin, who for a number of seasons has played on the South Plains and is well known in amateur baseball circles. For some time back it is remembered that the Tahoka team has always been one that has had all the car marks of a winner, and this same theory held good last week.

Erasing the first inning of the contest and thus eliminating five tallies, which would have resulted in a 5-3 score. A hit batsman, two errors, coupled with three hits, was enough to salt the game away for the night. But after things got going the visitors steadied themselves and made a real ball game before it was over. Guy Aldridge, who has had a term under Billy Dish of Texas University, did mound duty for the home club. For the visitors a young flinger who spells his name "Short" dished out a fine brand of pitching to oppose Aldridge. A total of eight hits netting ten scores resulted from the offerings of Mr. Short. The visitors however made a total of five errors that also aided the red caps in their run getting. Seven hits and 3 runs with two errors chalked up to Littlefield players was the sum total garnered for the visitors. The base-hits were well distributed, which did not make any one player outstanding but represented a well played contest with the exception of the first frame. Aldridge whiffed 13 in number, while Short struck out a total of 10 Burleson for Littlefield and Holland for Tahoka hit two baggers, the only extra base blows made. A splendid evening crowd attended the game and found weather conditions most favorable for a fine brand of baseball.

Littlefield To Play Amherst Friday

In the Sudan Tournament, Littlefield will play Amherst at 2 o'clock Friday, which will be the first game of that day's double header.

The second game will be between Sudan and the Tip Toppers. Whichever team wins the game Friday will be favorite to win the finals Sunday.

Applicants For Position Of Supt. Eliminated To 3

At a called meeting of the Littlefield Independent School Board held Friday night, all applicants for the position of superintendent were eliminated with the exception of three.

According to H. C. Arnold, Secretary, a selection will not be made until Dr. Wm. N. Orr, one of the Board members, who is at present on a vacation trip, returns to Littlefield, which will be next week.

TO BUILD FOUR ROOM RESIDENCE

The two room residence owned by C. C. Tremain on West Second street is being torn down and in place of this Mr. Tremain will construct a four room house.

Work started Tuesday on this project.

center field fence, scoring Ballard and Burleson ahead of himself. Manager Ratliff's hard hit grounder was relayed to first by A. Thomas in time to make the put out. Coffman came through with a Texas leaguer to right, advanced to second on Hanks' bounder to second baseman Clark, who elected to get Hanks at first. Then Hodges delivered a sharp single to right, scoring Coffman. Aldridge struckout to retire the side.

Two errors, two walks and five base hits netted a total of nine tallies for the visitors and a very substantial margin to win on and the game still in the second frame. The Littlefield boys came back strong with base hits, mixed with two errors, and counted three more. Burleson blasted out a long homer in this inning. From here on out the teams were well matched and the visitors kept a six run lead the rest of the evening. In fact they left town that way.

Stagg, who relieved Tommy Hall during the dizzy second inning when it looked like their was no justice, did a fine job of pitching for the locals. To match this however Coburn, visiting hurler got better as the game progressed.

The visitors collected a total of 14 hits for 14 scores, with but two miscues charged to them, while the home crew hit safely ten times for eight scores and seven errors marked up against their efforts.

The Littlefield ball club have been winning very handily for some time, but found one of those days with them when everything but the right things happen to spoil the fun as they attempted to shake off the jinx. It would be reasonable to expect plenty of action when these two clubs meet again.

NATIONALLY KNOWN CHRISTIAN JEW TO APPEAR AT METHODIST CHURCH

The Rev. Joseph Cohen, of Charleston, South Carolina, famous Christian Jew, will speak at the Methodist church Sunday morning, and demonstrate the observance of the ancient Feast of the Passover. The Rev. Mr. Cohen will be dressed in the costumes of the days of Jesus, and will explain the ancient Hebrew rite and its relation to the Christian observance of the Lord's supper. The celebration of the Lord's Supper will be observed in connection with the service under the direction of the pastor, Rev. Marvin B. Norwood. All are invited to come and participate.

Mr. Cohen was converted to Christianity at the Star Gospel Mission in Charleston, under the ministry of Rev. Obidiah Duggan, a Methodist minister. Mr. Duggan's son is still superintendent of the Mission. He immediately entered the Christian ministry, taking his theological training at Southwestern Baptist Seminary at Fort Worth. He has recently filled engagements in some of the largest churches of the state, and his ministry has been very fruitful in leading not only his own people, but many Gentiles as well into an acceptance of the Gospel of Christ.

The service Sunday morning will be impressive and inspiring. Those who heard Mr. Cohen at the Baptist church in Littlefield some two years ago will want to hear him again in this presentation of the Passover. Those who did not hear him will not want to lose this opportunity. The Methodist church invites Jews and Gentiles alike to be present in this service, and assures you a warm welcome and inspiring service.

OPEN AIR REVIVAL TO BEGIN AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH SUNDAY

A two weeks' open air revival meeting will open at the First Baptist church Sunday morning, August 1, with Harry W. Minor Jr. of Pampa, conducting the opening service.

Rev. Willis J. Ray, pastor, who will close his revival meeting at Rule Sunday morning, will arrive in Littlefield Sunday afternoon and take charge of the evening service.

Services will be conducted twice daily, at 10 a. m. and 8 p. m. Rev. Ray doing the preaching, with Mr. Minor conducting the singing and the work with the young people.

Mr. Minor will arrive from Pampa Saturday afternoon, and will use as his message at the eleven o'clock hour, "The Standard of Christian Living." He is a fine young man, and the congregation will enjoy hearing him. He will have charge of the singing for the two weeks.

Rev. Ray will arrive home in time to preach during the evening hour, and will use as his text, "The Book." B. T. U. will start at 7:30, and the evening service at 8:30.

The public in general are invited. Services will be held in the open for convenience on the lot just east of the church building.

REVIVAL MEETING TO BEGIN AT METHODIST CHURCH SUNDAY, AUG. 15

The revival meeting at the Methodist church will begin August 15. Services will be held on the grassy church lawn, where they will be out-of-doors in the cool. Everyone is invited to make their plans to attend this revival.

The revival will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. Marvin B. Norwood, and the workers of the local church. Rev. Norwood has had unusual success in the evangelistic field, both in meetings in his own pastorate and in assisting his fellow pastors. Once more than fifty persons united with the church on profession of faith in a revival where the noted evangelist Burk Culpeper had been scheduled to preach and was unable to come. Frequently whole families have been brought into the fellowship of the church, homes have been reunited, drunkards reformed and sinners redeemed.

The success of any revival, says Rev. Norwood is getting everybody to work. Littlefield needs a revival. The Methodist church invites men and women of all faiths to come and help make this a better community in which to live.

DRIVERS URGED TO USE CARE IN PARKING AUTOS

Many Accidents From Lack Of Warning When Leaving Curbs

Mayor Pat Boone stated Tuesday that a number of accidents had been caused recently by parties not parking at the curbs properly, and then backing out without the proper signal, or taking due care. He said that as a consequence of carelessness in backing out from the curb he noticed a couple of accidents Tuesday, where damage was done to the cars.

Mayor Boone urges all those finding it necessary to park on the down town streets, especially, to park in the correct manner, giving each car sufficient space, and asks that all drivers give the necessary warning and exercise the proper care when leaving the curb to drive away.

A FAVORITE FOR SPRING

Pattern 8957: Set your heart on this vivacious, temptingly young fashion and others will set their hearts on you! A newer, gayer style you couldn't imagine; what with tiny tucks at the waist to accentuate the softly fulled bodice and a new, saucier peplum—it is truly CHIC. The very last word. The gracefully flared skirt does its part too. And the entire effect is definitely in line with the pronounced trend toward distinctly feminine accents.

Silk prints, alpaca, crepe, pique or taffeta—any one of these will do splendidly as the material medium. Complete step-by-step instructions accompany each pattern.

The State Wide Tax Survey

Wide Tax Survey was in December 1935. In general is to establish regarding land valuations, correct acreage, a complete history of tracts. This survey is project, and is sponsored by the Tax Board.

There are six work-projects. When the work is completed, all workers were classified. Since that time, there have been made, and now classified ranging from unskilled group to Professional division.

A few people who belong to this type, since it is a short while, but a waste of government. There are, however, offer favorable criticism in its completion.

The beginning this work is chiefly to assist the Commissioner's department by providing information regarding unclassified and establishing records for the tracts. The failed owners to render their taxes produces a diffialso placed on the card dealing with the various tracts. Each card worked has the description of the land including original grantee, patented, abstract number, block number, section number and number of acres.

The second phase consists of the rural inspection of tracts. Workers make a survey of thirty or forty tracts per day. Their success in making these inspections depends upon the distance from the work center and the available persons to relate the needed information. Men who furnish cars for this work are allowed four cents per mile travel order, this order is not to exceed thirty dollars per month. Two cars have been used on this project. There are now approximately 350 tracts to be inspected by the field men. These tracts are south of Littlefield. The inspection consists of describing and classifying improvements on farms the land types, acreage devoted to feed crops, money crops, number of acres terraced, acres that should be terraced, land occupancy, and the nearest market, school and church.

With this information on the card, the workers are then ready to make a final check of the work. They compare the information secured from the field inspection with the record information and complete their survey. The work is now handed to the typist.

The sheets that have been finished by other workers are typed along with the master sheet. There are two sheets typed of each tract, one for the county unit and one for the state. After they have been typed they are arranged in their respective sections or leagues and filed away until the entire project is completed. These cards will then be turned over to the sponsors for the uses they may derive from them.

With a three months' extension of this work, the project will be finished. Although the workers were inexperienced in this type of work and proceeded at a gradual rate, the work has been a very beneficial to them. From an educational standpoint, it is a leading project. The entire personnel of the survey appreciates the cooperation of the county officials who have kept this work going.

close of work July 23, the workers were transferred to school adequacy survey. Those who were: Elberta Ratliff, Al-Meeks, and Moses W. To that date we had nine remaining workers are Muse, Olton, R. L. Williams, Fred Owens, Fieldton, Claude S. Rucker, Olton, Win-Douglas, Olton, Mrs. Ruby Olton, Mrs. Dudley at this County Manager of this survey pay roll for this group approximately $250 per month.

There are four phases, construction of this work. The phase deals with the checking the deed records for information regarding each tract of land in county. (There are 4265 tracts in Lamb county). This covers deed records from 1936 inclusive, and is obtained from the tax rolls. The volume page of the recorded pur-chaser of the particular tract and holder with the Deed of volume and page recorded are the girl is, or the other man. He goes to the girl's apartment and finds the two together. Of course, he says they were both dead when he got there. But if you knew just that much and didn't know any more, whom would you suspect?

"Now, I don't suspect Archie Doane any more than I suspect anybody else. But I'm a policeman. Friendship cuts no ice with me in a murder case. Get my point of view?"

"Of course, you have to look at it like that, Inspector," Henderson agreed. "But it doesn't sound like the sort of thing Archie Doane would do. Does it to you, Frazier?"

"No, it doesn't," the Assistant Attorney agreed. "He was awfully upset, though, tonight, about Miss Lane."

SECOND INSTALLMENT

"I agree with Doane," said Henderson. "I'm funny that way, but the sight of bloodshed, or even the thought of it, turns me sick at my stomach. You gentlemen, in the police and the District Attorney's office, and practicing criminal law, naturally take it as part of the day's work. I'm going to have another drink before we get back to the business of the evening. Will you join me?"

"I'll talk nothing but poker from now on," granted the Inspector. "It's a cold, dark night and I crave excitement."

"The excitement begins right now, Dan," said Max Michaelis. "Table stakes, all jackpots, I believe. Then I'll take the lid off this one."

He shoved a stack of blue chips into the middle of the table and the game was on. "Poker isn't a game of cards; it's a game of human nature," was one of Dan Flaherty's aphorisms. After a few hands had been played he could tell more about the character of the others at the table than an ordinary man would learn by months of intimate association. With the poker technique of Martin Frazier, Archie Doane and Max Michaelis he was already sufficiently familiar to estimate almost to a two-spot the probable contents of their hands, by their expressions and manner when making their bets. Michaelis' friend, Williams, and the host of the evening, Elmer Henderson, were strangers, and the veteran detective gave his closest scrutiny to them.

Williams, he speedily decided, was a long-chance player, a victim of insatiable curiosity who cared little whether he won or lost so long as he got action for his money. Henderson, however, puzzled him.

Twice, when Flaherty was certain the other was bluffing and bet heavily upon that belief, Henderson fooled him by showing the winning hand. Yet more than once, when the Inspector had foiled a good hand of his own, convinced that the inventor held higher cards, the other had laughingly shown a worthless hand as he raked in the pot.

Dan Flaherty's respect for the slender young inventor mounted rapidly as the game went on.

Archie Doane, however, was not playing in his usual form. It was clear to Dan Flaherty that something was worrying the actor. It was not hard to guess that his thoughts were upon Lydia Lane and the possibility that the rendezvous which had kept Stephen Fitzgerald from joining the party in Henderson's bungalow had some connection with her absence from her own apartment. Doane was playing mechanically, without enthusiasm, seldom backing his hand and then, as often as not, laying down what would have been winning cards. His customary brilliant and courageous style of play was noticeably absent and Flaherty was not surprised when, after an hour and a half, he announced that he had had enough.

"Don't let me break up the game, gentlemen," he said. "There still will be five of you. I'm not up to it tonight, that's all."

He settled for the several hundred dollars' worth of chips which he had lost, took a final drink and said good night.

Henderson escorted Doane to the elevator.

"Archie's worried about his girl," said Flaherty, as soon as the two were out of earshot. "He isn't any too sure of her."

"My guess is that Henderson's a bit touched in the same quarter," suggested Frazier. "He was pretty quick to come to her defense, when I made that bad break a while ago."

"I'm not on," said Max Michaelis. "Who's the dame?"

"I forgot you weren't here," Frazier apologized. "I made a fool break about Lydia Lane and both Henderson and Archie snapped me up. If Henderson isn't sweet on her, then I'm a bad guesser. But Archie announced he's going to marry her."

"Lydia Lane, eh?" echoed Max Michaelis. "Well, there are plenty of 'em in the pictures with worse reputations than her's. I don't know much about her as a matter of fact, except that she's a good looking and never has been mixed up in a public scandal, Archie ought to know what he's about."

"But Henderson seems to be a good sport in love as he is at cards," he continued. "If you're right, that is, about his having had aspirations in the fair Lydia's direction. A game little chap, I should say. Sensitive and high strung, but certainly under splendid self-control."

"He's a great poker player, all right," granted Dan Flaherty.

"He sure plays 'em hard to figure," Michaelis agreed. "He's had me fooled a dozen times."

Henderson rejoined them and the game was resumed, with the stacks of chips in front of the host of the evening steadily increasing.

"My lucky night, I guess," he said, after he had raked in another big pot, half an hour or so after Archie Doane's departure. "It's eleven o'clock, and that's drinking time. Deal me out this hand, please. I told my man he could go down to play pinochle with the night watchmen in the basement, and I'll have to find the whiskey myself."

"Yes, he's a good poker player, in spite of his calling it luck," said Frazier, after Henderson had left the room. "I told you he was, didn't I, Dan?"

"I'd like to sit in with him when his luck's out, before I committed myself," responded the detective. "He's a good winner, but I've a hunch that he's the sort that would turn vicious if he lost when losing really meant anything to him. Rolling in money just now, and doesn't care whether he wins or loses at cards."

Max Michaelis nodded approvingly and seemed about to make some comment, when Henderson reentered the room. They had another round of drinks and resumed their game. Somewhat less than half an hour later the telephone rang.

Henderson answered the call. "It's for you, Inspector," he called, his hand over the transmitter. "Are you here or not?"

"I'll answer," said Flaherty, rising. "I always leave word at Headquarters where to get me. They wouldn't call unless it was something important. Hello! Inspector Flaherty speaking."

"What? The hell you say! . . . Where are you now?"

There was a long silence in the room. Max Michaelis, watching the Inspector's face from where he sat, saw it grow tense as the Inspector listened. Then Flaherty's voice again.

"Both dead! All right; stay right there. Don't touch anything. I'll be right over. What's the address?—Okay, Archie. . . . Don't lose your nerve. . . . What's that? . . . Sure, I'll bring him with me."

Dan Flaherty turned from the telephone with what Max Michaelis often termed his "Old Sleuth" expression on his face.

"Get your coat on, Max," he said. "There's hell to pay, Lydia Lane and Stephen Fitzgerald have been killed in the girl's apartment. That was Archie Doane phoning. He found 'em."

"Lydia dead!" gasped Henderson. He turned white and seemed about to fall from his chair. Frazier's hand on his shoulder steadied him.

"Murdered?" cried Williams. "After what we were talking about, too?"

"Archie found them?" Frazier of the District Attorney's office spoke almost simultaneously with the other two.

"Yes, and he wants you to come with me, Max," replied Inspector Flaherty, addressing Michaelis again. "You might come, too, Frazier. No use guessing what's up, but it looks like a double murder, and . . . well, Archie's in a difficult position."

He turned to the telephone again and dialed Spring 31000 while the others, stunned, could only sit and stare at each other.

"Inspector Flaherty speaking," they heard him say. "Let me speak to Larkin. . . . Then give me anybody who's in the Bureau. . . . Homicide Bureau? Is Detective Martelli there? . . . Tony, this is Inspector Flaherty. . . . I'm uptown. . . . Get hold of the Medical Examiner or his deputy right away. You go with him to 213 West 59th, Miss Lane's apartment."

He turned from the phone to the others. "What floor's it on, any of you know?"

"On the roof," replied Henderson, setting down the glass which he had just drained. "Penthouse apartment."

"It's one of these penthouse ap-partments," said Flaherty into the telephone. Take a camera man and a Bertillon man with fingerprint equipment, along with you. You'll find a fellow named Archie Doane there—at least, I think you will. Don't ask him any questions, but just see what there is to see until I get there. I may be there ahead of you, but if I'm not, don't let Doane go without word from me. Better phone the precinct and have 'em send a uniform man to hold anybody who tries to leave the building before you get there. Tell them at the precinct the instructions are to let nobody in or out without orders from me. Got that? . . . And, Tony. . . ."

"You don't really suspect Archie did it, do you, Dan?" Max Michaelis interrupted. The Inspector waved his hand for silence. "I suspect everybody in a homicide case, and you know it," he said gruffly. Then to the man at the other end of the telephone wire he gave final instructions.

"Call the police garage and have them send a closed car for me, right off. I'm at Fifty-sixth just off Fifth Avenue, Highart Film Building. I'll be waiting in the main lobby, downstairs. Make it snappy, now, Tony." He hung up and rejoined the others. "No use trying to get a taxi this time on Saturday night, in this storm," he said. "We'll have time to cash in on the game before the car gets here."

"It's stopped snowing," said Williams, who had pulled the curtains aside and was looking out over the white-shrouded roofs of the city. "The storm's over. See, the stars are out. Everything looks so peaceful and pure—and two people have been murdered! Even though I never met Fitzgerald or Miss Lane, and only met Mr. Doane tonight, it—well, it gets me."

"It's got all of us," said Max Michaelis. "We all know Fitz—knew him, anyway—and we all love Archie. And Henderson, here . . . feeling better, old man? Want to have one of us stay with you?"

"Come along, if you like," said Dan Flaherty, with gruff kindness.

The inventor shuddered. "No, thank you, I couldn't stand it. Even if I didn't feel as I do about Miss Lane, I would go to pieces and be a nuisance. The rest of you go on. Don't mind staying with me, anybody. I'll be all right. But I hope . . . I hope it isn't Archie . . . that did it, I mean. I thought from the way you spoke, Inspector. . . ."

"Well, look at it as I've heard of anybody else."

Judge Crockett also added: "We understand this boundary line dispute has been brought about by a survey made by a Lubbock architect. In order to check the survey, which is said to claim that Lamb county's west line should be moved some 400 varas east of the present established corner, Jeff Williams, surveyor, who has been employed by Hockley county, has also been engaged to represent Lamb county."

To Start Measuring Land In Compliance With Farm Program

Within the next few days, according to Donald Turner, County Agent, those in charge of the work will be ready to start checking compliance and measuring land for the 1937 agricultural conservation program.

Before they can start this work, however, it will be necessary that they have certain information from each producer. For this purpose producers are asked to send the following information to the County Agent's office; Work Sheet Numbers; whether or not farmer is complying with the 1937 program; and if all government acres planted.

"Day At The Races" To Be Featured At The Palace Theatre

"A Day At The Races"—brings the Marx Brothers—Groucho, Harpo and Chico—to the Palace Theatre starting Saturday midnight and continuing through Sunday and Monday, in what is described as the maddest, merriest, most amusing piece of Marxmania that these inimitable comedians have ever delivered to an expectant public.

Directed by Sam Wood, who filmed the last Marx Brothers triumph, "A Night at the Opera," the new picture boasts a stellar cast of supporting names, including Maureen O'Sullivan in the feminine lead, and Allan Jones, who sings several new song hits, among them "On Blue Venetian Waters," "Tomorrow Is Another Day" and "A Mes-

Your tongue may be coated, your complexion bilious and your bowel actions sluggish or insufficient.

These are some of the common symptoms of biliousness or so-called "liver," so prevalent in hot weather. Don't neglect them. Take tablets, the improved calomel pound tablets that give prompt relief. # But It's True

A RABBIT BELONGING TO TERRY MOUNT OF HOUSTON, TEXAS, SLEEPS WITH ITS MASTER, EATS NOTHING BUT CRABMEAT, AND ATTENDS CHURCH ON SUNDAYS!

A PIECE OF ICE HAS BEEN PRESERVED IN THE SAME SHAPE FOR 12 YEARS BY PROFESSOR JAMES McCaffrey OF BOSTON COLLEGE... HE BELIEVES IT MAY BE KEPT THE WAY IT IS INDEFINITELY...

HAROLD McPHERSON OF LONDON, CANADA, HAS EATEN NOTHING BUT PEANUTS FOR THE LAST 22 YEARS - HE IS NOW 77 - AND HEALTHY!

WILLIAM T. TILDEN - FAMOUS TENNIS STAR, WAS ONCE AMERICAN PING-PONG CHAMPION.

The block of ice was used in connection with a law suit three years after it had been taken from a sidewalk. Then Professor McCaffrey kept it in condition just for fun. It's all a matter of maintaining the same temperature.

Mr. Mount's rabbit has the intelligence of a dog, actually hops into church with its owner, sits beneath the pew. Its liking for crabmeat is apparently due to eccentricity, which is something one might expect to find in such a rabbit.

FARMS SELECTED TO CARRY OUT FARM DEMONSTRATION IN COUNTY

The four farms that have been selected to carry out the whole farm demonstration in Lamb county belong to Floyd Dyer of Spade, I. V. Fent of Olton, C. A. Thomas east of Amherst, and W. T. Clayton of Spring Lake. The purpose of the demonstration is to assist the families to develop a practical, progressive example of improved farm management and home making, and to demonstrate the results for the advancement of the community. This method is to improve the farm as the farmer would like to have it improved. This depends on his needs which may be land terracing, home orchard, yard improvement, better barn, trench silos, or improved dwelling. The time that it will take to develop this may be from one to ten years but five years is about the average time.

This method prevents one-sided development of the farm and will lead to economic security. This will be done with the aid of the county agent and home demonstration agent.

Home Demonstration Notes

By Mrs. Perry, H. D. Agent

4-H CLUB GIRL GROWS VEGETABLES

Dorothy Gordon has planted 1540 feet of garden in which she has beans, peas, onions, beets, lettuce and carrots. With turnips, beets and radishes that she will plant in her fall garden she expects to have more than 200 pounds of vegetables other than green leafy or yellow ones for each member of her family. Part of these Dorothy expects to can with her mother's help, part will be used fresh and part such as onions, turnips and beets will be stored for winter's use.

Dorothy is a cooperator of the Littlefield Junior 4-H club.

CANS FRUIT FROM ORCHARD

"I have canned 242 containers so far this summer and most of it is fruit from our orchard," Mrs. Henry Myers told the Blue Bonnett Home Demonstration club Thursday afternoon.

If the farm people are to have fruit twice a day as advised by the nutrition specialists, Mrs. Meyers believes it is necessary to raise fruit on the farm. The Myers orchard in spite of hail this year has produced enough cherries, plums and peaches to more than fill the quota of cans that Mrs. Myers had set for her family.

Plums, cherries and peaches are the best for this county and the later varieties are more apt to escape the late freezes.
