UNITED FOR PROGRESS

Not in a long time has Lamb county taken a for-step of such importance as that of last Saturday, by a spectacular majority this county voted in favor of a $60,000 bond issue for road construction, to match $60,000 in WPA funds.

Previous to the voting of the bond issue Lamb county was faced with a relief and unemployment situation that would have been very difficult to solve.

Today, Lamb county is beckoning to those without employment to again pick up their tools and receive a check.

Lamb county, by the vote of last Saturday, established a huge payroll that will bring work, joy, and happiness to large numbers for many months.

Work will start Tuesday. Wherever you live in Lamb county, if you are without employment, you may take the necessary steps to obtain work on these road projects.

The vote last Saturday is truly an expression of the patriotic spirit of the citizenship of Lamb county. The matters of outstanding importance come before the citizenship of the various political subdivisions of the county can always be depended on to put their shoulders to the wheel and give our county another step forward.

TO ENLARGE CITY WATER WORKS

CONSUMPTION OF CITY WATER ON INCREASE

Hope To Give Lower Water Rates For Irrigation Purposes

At a meeting of the City Commission Monday morning it was decided to salvage the old well equipment, and drill a new well near the big new one recently constructed, and to install a new 500 gallon pump in it.

In announcing the decision of the City Commission to carry out these improvements, Mayor L. R. Crockett said:

"We have plenty of water in the new well to possibly furnish sufficient water for a number of years, but we are putting in another well as a safety measure, in case the present well should break down or be held up for repair, we would have the other well for protection.

"Too, the way our water consumption grows from year to year we do not know how soon we might need the well for actual consumption. The City of Littlefield is consuming over 300,000 gallons on lots of days. Now that we have the new ice plant in, it will take an enormous amount of water for it during the summer season.

"Another reason for the immediate decision regarding this new well is the recent check up on volume of water consumed, and the actual cost of power for pumping water, which I found not in excess of 2 cents per 1000 gallons, and the spring season is now close at hand. We realize folks will be ready to start irrigation and beautification of lawns, and we want to give an irrigation rate which will increase the volume of water used, and even at a low irrigation rate we will be able to sell enough additional water over and above our regular consumption to easily take care of the additional expense, and, too, we hope to get enough out of the salvaging of the old wells to install the one new well."

Open House To Be Observed At Local Sewing Room

According to Miss Lula Hubbard, Superintendent of Littlefield and Olton community sewing rooms, the local establishment, which is located in the Littlefield City Hall, will observe open house Wednesday, Jan. 15, from 1:30 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

The public is invited to visit the sewing room, and acquaint themselves with the work being carried out.

Dr. and Mrs. Ira Woods returned Thursday from a ten days trip to Graham, Crafton and Stillwater.

LACK OF HELP RETARDING WPA CITY PROJECTS

Several Government Offi- cials Here Saturday; To Return January 13-14

Lack of eligible men is retarding progress greatly on the City WPA project," according to Mayor L. R. Crockett, who stated that although the street cleaning and culvert project called for 40 men, so far the largest number that have been available for this work have been 13.

He also pointed out there were only 12 women working in the local community sewing room, while this project calls for the employment of 40 women, and that the Olton sewing room is also experiencing the same difficulty, as only seven are working on that project.

According to W. G. Street, Secretary, Mr. Brandenburg, WPA official of Lubbock, was in Littlefield Friday in an endeavor to put more men to work on the projects now underway here.

Mr. Street stated that the fact that those employed were being taken from relief rolls, and were obliged to have been on the relief files of November 1, was in some measure interfering with the organization and putting to work men who were in need of it, but he believed that this difficulty would be overcome.

A. J. Delahanty, Supervisor of Division of Labor Management of the WPA, of Lubbock, A. B. Cherry, District Administrator of the National Re-employment Service, Plainview, and Mrs. Albert Walker, Supervisor of Women's work of the WPA, were in Littlefield Saturday, and met at

TO PLANT 560 TREES ALONG HIGHWAY NO. 7

The Littlefield Chamber of Commerce luncheon meeting Tuesday was presided over by Postmaster W. D. T. Storey, Vice-President, who commended the County on voting the bond issue, and suggested that Littlefield should now lay plans to go forward in a big way, stating he believed "we have a splendid opportunity at this time of expanding."

J. S. Hilliard suggested that the Committee work with the Commissioners in urging upon WPA to get started with the road work.

Dr. Ira Woods spoke on the cooperative spirit of the people in passing the bond issue.

Joe Hale reported that Engineer Orr interviewed WPA officials in Lubbock Monday, and all the County lacked in getting started with the projects was a work order.

He also reported that in connection with Centennial Beautification

BEGINNERS BAND IS BEING ORGANIZED AT LITTLEFIELD HIGH BY A. B. TAYLOR

In accordance with the custom which has prevailed at the beginning of each New Year since Director A. B. Taylor organized Littlefield's first High School Band three years ago, a beginners band is now being organized among the pupils of the public schools.

Mr. Taylor said that 12 or 15 beginners have already purchased instruments and are ready to begin at once, so the organization is well under way. It is hoped that at least 25 beginners will enroll at this time, which, added to the present 25 piece band will make a 50 piece band which any school should justly be proud of.

Those beginning now should easily make sufficient progress to place themselves in the regular band by summer.

Anyone wanting to enroll at this time should see Director Taylor at once, as late starting works a hardship on the individual, on the other members and also on the director.

The organization will be completed by the first of February, after which time no one can be enrolled without extra cost. So get busy, parents. The tuition charge is very small and if you have a boy or girl 8 or 10 years of age or older who is musically inclined, by all means you should start them on an instrument right now.

Mr. Taylor can be seen at the High school any afternoon after 4 o'clock, and he urges that you see him before making any arrangement to secure your child an instrument.

The management of the Palace has been very fortunate in securing a Road Show of this calibre, in as much as they are coming here direct from Clovis and will appear in Amarillo following the Littlefield engagement. This attraction in addition to RICHARD DIX in "THE ARIZONIAN" will be presented at no increase in admission.

ADDRESS BY A. C. WILLIAMS TO FEATURE OF STOCKHOLDERS MEETING OF LITTLEFIELD FARM LOAN ASS'N

Littlefield National Farm Loan Association is planning to hold the best annual stockholders' meeting in its history Tuesday, January 14, at 3 p. m. The by-laws of the Littlefield National Farm Loan Association provide that the annual meeting shall be held on this day. The Littlefield National Farm Loan Association is a cooperative credit organization and these annual meetings are an opportunity for the members to keep informed of the operations of their associations and to select directors who manage the affairs of the associations for the ensuing year.

According to J. S. Hilliard, secretary-treasurer of the Littlefield association, this meeting is very important and every member of the association who can arrange to do so should attend. Members will hear reports of the operations of the association in 1935, will elect directors for the coming year, will transact other necessary business and will hear a special radio program.

A feature of the meetings will be the radio address at 3:30 p. m. to the 70,000 borrower-members of the 365 associations in Texas, by A. C. Williams, president of The Federal Land Bank and general agent of the Farm Credit Administration of Houston. Radios will be installed at the places of meeting to receive the message. "Coronado" Comes To Palace Theatre Saturday Midnight

Eddy Duchin, whose orchestra is featured in Paramount's new musical romance, "Coronado," which comes to the Palace Theatre Saturday midnight, continuing through Sunday and Monday, finds himself at the age of 26 one of America's favorite dance band leaders.

It has been only four years since Eddy formed his first orchestra to play at New York's swank rendezvous, the Central Park Casino. But mind prevented Eddy from becoming a prominent pharmacist. He is a graduate of the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy and his father a chain of drug stores. It seemed inevitable that Eddy would take the pestle and mortar as his life career.

But he liked to play the piano. Popular music carried a strong appeal for him. He decided to have a go at it. In New York his talents at the keyboard brought him a job with Leo Reisman's orchestra, then playing at the old Waldorf-Astoria. When Reisman moved into Central Park Casino, Eddy went along.

Tuesday, January 14. It is planned to rent the farm. Jack Rowan will conduct the sale with Charlie Clark as clerk. Included in the livestock is a number of fine cows. The sale will start at 10:30 a. m.

A LETTER TO THE EDITOR

ACREAGE CONTROL
 Littlefield, Texas,
 January 7, 1936.
 The Lamb County Leader, has been much publicity giving the cotton reduction Some people think it is way for any fair minded form any opinion on any to hear the merits of So, we are asking you to as the opinion of the who were selected, by of victims of this adjust-am in this county, to go county agent to find out would be any way worked by justice could be meted
 by farmer alike.
 ask you and your readers as fair minded men and believe it fair and just that be allowed to plant and cotton, on the same amount of land than the other farmer?

 Do you think it fair and just that the farmer who followed the advise of those who were supposed to know to reduce his cotton production to conform to the law of supply and demand, long before this adjustment program was inaugurated, should now be punished for doing so?
 If you believe that this is fair and just and that it is democratic, then we must disagree.
 It seems from reading the papers, that the majority of the farmers favor the present adjustment program. But should you reverse the program and give to the farmer who volunteered and reduced his cotton acreage, long before the adjustment program was ever thought of, the right to raise and sell more cotton than the man who would not reduce until the Government paid him to do so, you would see how quick the majority would change sides with the minority. So, there is no use for you, or any one else, to "kid" us any longer, for we know just how this program has worked in this county. We think a great wrong has been done to at least one third of the farmers of this county. Our mission is to right this wrong.

 We are confident of the fact that the Supreme Court will soon render a decision that will place every farmer back on the same equal footing that he was in the past.
 But we understand that there is on foot another scheme, just as vile and vicious as the one we now have, with the same provisions, only it will operate as a state program and not national. So now is the time to put up the fight before they tie our hands and feet by a state law similar to the National Agricultural Act.
 The TRUE STATUS of the American farmer today is;
 The farmer who tried in the past to reduce his production to conform to the law of supply and demand, and who told the truth in giving data, is being penalized in favor of the farmer who did not. So, we appeal to the fair minds of the men and women of this county and state, who believe that honor and justice is worth more than a government check, to join in with us to see that justice will be done.
 We ask every reader of this paper who agrees with this article to please mail a copy of this paper (that is if the editor sees fit to publish this) to some one who is not a subscriber. We suggest you send it to some one outside of the county. For instance, to the Governor of Texas, National Congressman, State Senator, and State Representative. We must have publicity; we can never tell what can be done until we try. You know "From Little Acorns Giant Oaks Grow." We are democrats, believe in the principles of democracy and would like to see that principle applied to any cotton reduction program that would be necessary for the progress of the nation.

President Will Ask Congress To Reimburse Farmers

President Roosevelt reported Tuesday night, according to a Washington dispatch, that his only decision up to that time, as regards the AAA, was to ask Congress to reimburse farmers for the suddenly terminated AAA contracts.
 President Roosevelt told reporters at his regular press conference that he felt the government had a moral obligation to reward farmers for performance under existing contracts through which they had reduced crop acreage.
 He said Congress would be asked as soon as possible to make an appropriation for this purpose and that he had no doubt of its power to do so.

—TODAY'S— FASHION HINTS VERY LATEST By PATRICA DOW

Designed in Sizes; 14, 16, 18, 20; 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 18 requires 4-4 yards of 39 inch material.

SLEEP OR LOUNGE

Pattern 8345—Here is a pair of pajamas which is so cleverly designed that it is equally suitable for sleeping or lounging, depending upon the material used.

Those of us who like to keep very snug and warm when the thermometer is way down, will find this pattern perfect for flannel, either in a solid pastel or in a gay print. Hardier souls will prefer to make it in cotton and may prefer the short sleeves. For a really luxurious effect, this model lends itself beautifully to silk crepe and satin, and it would make a stunning gift in either of these materials.

Note how the trousers are set on a well-fitting yoke, and how they flare gracefully at the ankles. The scalloped bodice, collar and cuffs are most appealing. Because both long and short sleeves are given, this is a good all-year round pattern—one which you should have for use from time to time.

For PATTERN, send 15 cents in coin (for each pattern desired), your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE to Patricia Dow, Lamb County Leader Pattern Dept., 115 Fifth Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Dr. J. E. Nelms Visits South Texas Clinic

Dr. J. E. Nelms, local Chiropractor, returned Sunday evening from a trip to Houston and Galveston. Leaving Thursday of last week he accompanied C. H. Slone, of Lorenzo, to The Hestand Cancer Clinic in Houston for examination and treatment for cancer.

Dr. David M. Hestand, formerly of Dallas, native of Grayson County, graduate of Baylor University, established a clinic for cancer in Houston several years ago, and is getting patients from all over the world. Dr. Nelms stated that going through his clinic and hospital was quite a pleasure and to see so many hopeless cancer sufferers getting well at last.

Dr. Nelms had never been in south Texas before, and to see Galveston and the gulf, the big palm trees, fig trees, beautiful forests with hanging moss, dripping from the large trees was truly a great sight seeing trip for a native of West Texas.

Dr. Nelms was accompanied by H. H. Bryant of Amherst, who is a brother-in-law of Mr. Slone.

Dr. Nelms also visited J. W. Shook, an old friend, at Fort Worth, Texas.

Refreshments of sandwiches and coffee were served by the hostess, Mrs. Lollis.

Legion Membership Drive Continues

Interest in the present membership campaign has not weakened in the least during the past two weeks of holiday observances. Both captains of the two contesting teams are confident of victory. As stated before; The Bolsheviks are defying the Whites, for the rights and privileges of feasting upon red beans which will go to the defeated group. With less than two months remaining in which to decide the winner new plans and special efforts are being expanded to go over the top. Every ex-service man is solicited to become a member for 1936 in this drive for membership.

BELLOMY—

(Continued from page 1) to elect me your commissioner — and this same thought should be uppermost in the mind of any man or woman who offers his or her services for any public office.

Some may think that the duties of County Commissioner "are nothing to speak of and that the most important thing is to draw his salary." But such is not true. In the hands of your commissioner are placed the huge responsibility of handling your money, I say "your money" because every taxpayer pays his share for the purpose of administering to the many and varied needs of the county.

Therefore, I believe the man chosen for this important office should possess some business qualifications. And he should be a man who understands the needs of his precinct and county. He should be a man who stands for the right, and has proven it by his life in the community in which he lives. And he should not be afraid to take a stand on any question when called upon.

He should be a man of good sound business judgment, and a man who can say "no" when he should say "no," and say "yes" when he should say "yes."

All of the high motives and ideals in a man are of no value if they do not come forward to strengthen him for the better discharge of the duties which devolve upon him in the ordinary affairs of life.

In seeking the office of County Commissioner, I believe that I should give some of the reasons why I believe that I am qualified to serve the people of this precinct and county in that capacity.

I have been in business in Littlefield since August, 1925, and was in business previous to coming to Littlefield from Stephenville.

Coming to West Texas in 1899, I have watched this western country grow from a vast unsettled cow country covered with white faces and prairie dogs to the present highly developed agricultural section with its modern towns and cities and rural communities; its splendid railroads and other transportation facilities; its marvelous highways, and a country populated by the biggest hearted class of people on earth.

For 25 years before coming to Littlefield I was engaged in construction work, mostly as a contractor in the building of residences and business buildings. My work carried me over the state from this western country to as far east as Dallas. I feel that my experience in the construction business would be of considerable value to me in carrying out my duties as your county commissioner.

I am making only one promise to the voters; If I am elected I will do my duty without fear or favor, and will handle the affairs of the county as I would my own.

I will devote all my time and energy to the welfare of Precinct No. 4 and Lamb County. I shall at all times keep in mind the importance of economy in handling the finances of the county. I do not believe that any one should be penny wise and pound foolish, but I do believe that sufficient consideration should be given before acting on any matter involving the expenditure of money.

You know that there is a great deal of joy in life in doing perfectly, or to the best of our ability, everything which we attempt to do. There is a sense of satisfaction in surveying a work well done — rounded, full, exact, complete in all its parts — a joyous feeling that the man who leaves his work in a slovenly, half finished condition can never know. Therefore, we should do our best at all times.

I pledge you upon my honor that I will make a clean race, and will not stoop so low as to enter into any mud slinging, so often practiced in a political campaign.

I am making the race strictly on my own merits, and if I am defeated it will be for no other reason on earth than I just didn't get enough votes, and I promise to be a good sport and forget it, and give my support to the man who is elected. In conclusion, let me thank those who have spoken so encouragingly to me since it became known that I would make the race. I earnestly solicit the influence of each and everyone during the coming months, and when you go to the poles in July be sure you leave my name unscratched on the ticket.

Wishing each of you a very Happy and Prosperous 1936, I am, Sincerely, J. T. Bellomy.

have endeavored to render you in the past.

"The office of County Court Clerk is an important office. It has to do with the keeping of the records of legal instruments filed affecting land titles; acting as clerk of the Commissioners' Court, keeping a record of all funds paid out of the county revenue, and making a permanent record of all the business affairs of the county."

"It is highly important that one entrusted with this office should be constantly present to see that all of the many details connected with the office be carefully carried out. I have endeavored in the past to attend to all of the duties of the office in a business-like manner, and to earn the money I have received for my work in the office regularly during office hours, and while there to personally do the work of the office, or superintend it while being done by my deputy. I have at all times tried to conduct the affairs of my office on a high plane and to render you prompt and efficient service as your County Court Clerk. I feel that the experience I have had and the intimate knowledge I now have of the affairs relating to the business of the county better qualifies me for the office and enables me to continue the efficient service I have tried to render as your clerk in the past. I have always been ready and willing to protect the interest of the taxpayers of the county, and shall, if selected as your clerk again, put forth an extra effort to serve you to the best of my ability."

"I am entering the race for re-election on my own merits and on the record I have made as your clerk, and if the people of Lamb County see fit to re-elect me to this office, I pledge you that I will continue to render faithful and efficient service to all persons at all times. It is on my record heretofore made as your servant that I earnestly solicit your support in the coming Democratic Primaries to be held in July of this year.

Stanley Doss.

County-Wide Vote On Beer And Wine May Be Held Soon

A petition will be presented to the County Commissioners Monday, asking that a county-wide election on the sale of beer and wine be held in this county.

The election probably will be held on Friday, January 24, it is stated.

WE THINK—

the meat which goes into the dog food and the farmer produces the grain, the meat, the vegetables, the fruit, etc., which the people eat who are engaged in the manufacture of dog food. These people include those who are employed in the manufacture of cans in which to pack the dog food and those who derive appetites from transporting and selling dog food.

We assume from Mr. Curry's remarks that the dog food referred to is entirely of the canned variety, or in the form of nuggets. The foregoing sentence is by way of pointing out that not all dogs are fed prepared food, that is food that is manufactured and placed on the market. There are thousands and thousands of dog owners who purchase the food requirements for their dogs at meat markets and grocery stores. Once again the farmer is benefitted.

Mr. Curry, has it ever occurred to you that there are thousands of people in this country who have steady employment because there are dogs in this world? Great numbers of men and women earn a living by owning dog kennels at which dogs are bred and sold, boarded, and given special treatment for various ailments. Numbers of other men and women are engaged in the preparation and printing of trade publications devoted exclusively to advertising and news about what is happening in the breeding and selling of dogs. Others also receive rent for buildings leased for the conducting of dog shows.

Good dogs must be well cared for because of their high breeding. Great numbers of people are engaged in the preparation and sale of dog remedies, and most veterinarians devote all or part of their time to the doctoring of dogs.

Another thought; Lumbermen sell lumber from which dog kennels are manufactured; other manufacturers produce nails which carpenters use in building kennels.

Dog chains give work to those skilled in the manufacture of chains. Leather workers produce dog collars, and mental workers make the brass or silver "spots" that are part of the manufacture of dog collars. If there were no hunting dogs there would be very little hunting. And hunting produces a market for the manufacturers of firearms and shells.

We could fill two or three columns, Mr. Curry, in further establishing the fact that because there are dogs thousands and thousands of people receive employment.

The great need of this country at this time is employment; in fact, our government is spending millions of dollars to give work.

What would happen to our employment situation if all dogs were destroyed and thousands and thousands of people were without employment?

And, in conclusion, Mr. Curry, we are pointing out that insurance rates are lower for homes in which there are dogs. They protect property and—bless your heart, Mr. Curry—have you ever known a good dog who would not give his life in the protection of his master's children?

P. S. Mr. Curry, we have a $5 dog that money couldn't buy.

LACK OF HELP—

The City Hall in session with Judge Simon D. Hay, Mrs. Paul Bohner, Supervisor of the Olton Sewing Room, and Miss Lula Hubbard, who is in charge of the sewing room here, in an effort to analyze the situation, and find out why all those eligible were not working, and make plans to give employment to those qualified to work on the WPA projects.

The WPA officials came to Littlefield at the urgent request of the City Commission.

According to Mr. Street, Mr. Cherry stated that he "wanted every eligible man and woman put to work." He also stated that these officials would return to Littlefield and spend Monday and Tuesday, January 13 and 14, here, and that they stated "they were going to try to get every eligible man and woman in Lamb County working." They want to meet with all residents who need work at the City Hall on those days.

Mayor Crockett stated that the "City Commission have been working diligently ever since last July in getting these city projects in shape for the benefit of those who need employment, and now, it seems we are unable to secure the necessary help to keep these projects going at full capacity."

Mr. Crockett suggested that all those needing employment register with him, or call at the City Hall, and file their names with Mr. Street, Secretary, before January 13, when the WPA officials will return; and that they also come to the City Hall and meet with these government men on January 13 and 14, when it is believed that some progress will be made towards securing more help. Mr. Crockett assured the Leader representative that he, Mr. Street, and the other City officials would work shoulder to shoulder with the WPA men in an effort to give to the citizens of this City every benefit possible by the WPA work projects. He states that these government men are really working diligently with that purpose in mind.

County Officials To Discuss Abolishing Of Fee System

County officials of this county will meet next week at Olton and discuss the matter of whether or not the salary system of paying county and precinct officials should be adopted in place of the present fee system.

The calling of the Lamb county meeting is an outgrowth of a meeting which was held at Lubbock, attended by county officials of the 30th senatorial district.

Provisions of a new bill are mandatory on counties of 20,000 or more, and may be adopted by county commissioners courts in counties of less population if they wish to discard the fee system.

Lamb county has a population of 17,451, according to the last census.

WPA Administrator Advises Drainage Project Approved

When Mayor L. R. Crockett interviewed the WPA Administrator at Lubbock Tuesday, he was advised the drainage project had been approved, but that the money had not been allotted.

However, Mayor Crockett reported that the Administrator said in case the city was able to get enough labor to take care of the projects that are now underway, and had any additional surplus help, to let him know, and they would rush the project to its final approval.

Mayor Crockett stated he believed the project was being help up to see whether the city was going to have enough labor to take care of all projects now in progress.

Mother Of Mrs. R. Corcoran Dies At Dalhart Saturday

Mrs. Richard Corcoran, formerly of the Spade community, and a correspondent for the Leader, was called to Dalhart last week by the illness and death of her mother, Mrs. W. R. McCarty.

Mrs. McCarty cut her right thumb slightly Christmas Eve while cooking. Red streaks that ran up her arm the next day responded to treatment. Later, however, blood poisoning set in, aggravated by a kidney poison. A blood transfusion was given last Thursday night in a last desperate effort to save her. She died Saturday morning.

Services were held Sunday afternoon from the Peoples Funeral Chapel in Dalhart with the Rev. L. D. Mitchell, Baptist pastor, in charge. He was assisted by Bro. Felix W. Tarbet, minister of the Church of Christ, and the Rev. J. M. Carpenter, pastor of the First Methodist Church in North Dalhart. Interment was made in Memorial Park cemetery. The funeral was one of the largest ever held in the city.

Ruby Laura Lloyd was born in Alabama. With her parents she came to Central Texas when three years old. She was married to W. R. McCarty in 1900 and they came to West Texas in 1908. They moved to Aberrath in 1916 and to Dalhart in 1930. Mr. McCarty is a veteran West Texas peace officer, being particularly well-known in Lubbock, Stamford, Amarillo and Borger.

Surviving besides her husband are two daughters, Mrs. Corcoran, now of Lubbock; and Mrs. Clarence A. Echols, Quemado; two sons, A. F. (Bill) McCarty, Lubbock, and John L. McCarty, editor of The Dalhart Texan.

Mrs. McCarty was a lifelong member of the Baptist church. Her life exemplified her religion. She gauged her life by Christ's teachings, declare those who knew her best.

Lamb County Is Granted State Owned Stallion

Through the efforts of the County Agent and W. H. Cunningham for the Littlefield Farm Association, a State owned stallion is now stationed in Lamb County for the benefit of the farmers and stockmen of this county.

The horse was received a few days ago and is now for service at the B. D. Birkelback farm, 2 1-2 miles Southwest of Littlefield. The horse is a registered Belgium Stallion, 3 years old and weighs about 1700 pounds. He is considered one of the best stallions in Texas and the farmers and stockmen of Lamb county are fortunate in having such a high class animal in their territory. The farmers and stockmen of this county are urged to go see this fine horse and to take advantage of this breeding service.

LITTLEFIELD MAN STUDYING PLANTS AND FLOWERS

E. Chisholm's Small Greenhouse Is His Laboratory

EXPERIMENTS IN CROSS-POLLINATION ARE BEING CONDUCTED HERE

As we go about our daily life we are very busy with our own affairs, and it is only natural that we give little thought to what those around us are seeking to accomplish.

This is very true, even in a city as small as Little-

We will venture to state that there are exceedingly few people living in and around Littlefield who know anything in our midst there is a young man who is actually trying to make this old world a more beautiful world for present generations and those who may inhabit this world when all of us now living have passed into the next world.

1000 Varieties of Plants

Throughout his entire life of 21 years, J. E. Chisholm, Jr., son of J. E. Chisholm, Jr., and Mrs. J. E. Chisholm of this city, has found plants and flowers more interesting than anything else that has attracted his attention.

The rear of the lot of the Chisholms is a small greenhouse and is constructed of wood and glass — mostly glass — there are almost 1,000 plants in 30 different varieties — living, blooming, evidence of J. E.'s interest in flowers and plants. J. E. is a graduate of the Littlefield High school, and studied one year at Texas Technological college. That year was devoted to flowers and plants, and J. E. hopes to continue his favorite study at some northern college at a not distant time.

Making Interesting Experiments

His greenhouse is his laboratory, and there J. E. is undertaking some interesting experiments in cross-pollination. He has crossed six species of snapdragon, and has successfully grown two new varieties of flowers just placed on the market. One is Lieb's winter marigold, a small marigold whose color varies from yellow to dark brown; the other is the World Beauty petunia, a glossy-leaved plant whose blossom resembles a pink carnation.

Another experiment is that of growing plants in pure sand, using only inorganic fertilizer.

An especially interesting plant in J. E.'s greenhouse is the Bryophyllum, which propagates like the cactus. Sprouts grow from the leaf instead of from the stem. As many as 30 individuals can be obtained from one small leaf.

We suggest that some day when you have plenty of leisure that you visit J. E.'s greenhouse; you will be instructed and entertained, and you will come away feeling that there is really very much more in life than the everyday pathway which we all tread.

Small Greenhouse Contains 1000 Plants in 30 Varieties

At the top is an exterior and partial interior view of the greenhouse of J. E. Chisholm, Jr., located on the rear of the lot at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Chisholm. At the bottom, left, is an interior view, and at the right is Mr. Chisholm.

Funeral Services Conducted Sunday For Mrs. L. Lam

Funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon, January 5, at 3 o'clock at the Sudan Baptist church for Mrs. Ledger Lam, 20, who passed away at a Lubbock Hospital Saturday morning following an attack of pneumonia.

EDUCATION IN THE MOVIES

Ever since motion pictures were first shown, there has been a great deal of talk about "educational" value. To many well-meaning persons, "education" means "something they teach you in school," and the very word is, therefore, repulsive. That is why most of the efforts to produce and present pictures bearing the "educational" label have been failures. People don't go to the show to be educated; they go to be entertained.

But what, after all, is education? Is it not the wide knowledge of history, of manners and customs, of the world and its people, which the motion pictures of these days are so increasingly giving everybody? The movie is proving that education can be entertaining.

Probably nobody would have gone to see a movie based on Carlyle's "History of the French Revolution," but how many millions have seen the films of Dickens's "Tale of Two Cities" and the Baroness Orczy's "Scarlet Pimpernel?" And who shall say that they have not absorbed all the history of that crisis in human affairs that anyone needs to know? They have been educated without realizing it.

Charles Laughton's "Henry the Eighth" gave even students of English history a new and realistic appreciation of "Great Harry," his times and his determination to free England from foreign domination. And the list of such pictures might be extended indefinitely.

As for travel, is there an American of any age who does not know all about the native customs of the Island of Bali, or felt the allure of the South Sea islands? There is no interesting part of the globe to which we cannot travel, while sitting in our comfortable theatre chairs. We meet King George of England face to face and hear him speak—our first realization of what is meant by "The King's English." We see the President and his wife in the intimacy of their home; the great and famous figures of the whole world come to entertain us. Grace Moore and Lawrence Tibbets come and sing for us. We board the China Clipper and fly across the Pacific. There is no corner of the world which the movie camera has left unexplored, no thrilling event which it does not capture as it happens and bring to our theatres for our entertainment and instruction.

If all of that is not education, what is it?

AIRPLANES FOR THE ARMY

The new Chief of Staff of the United States Army, General Malin Craig, has come out for a military air service "second to none". That is a program that will be welcomed by all who have felt a sense of shame that America, where aviation was born, has so steadily lagged behind the rest of the world in developing and utilizing the airplane for military purposes.

This country leads the world in commercial aviation. That leadership has been a growth of less than ten years. Before Lindbergh's historic flight across the Atlantic, America was being out-distanced by all the countries of Europe even in commercial flying. The development since then has been done by private initiative and private capital, with a great deal of valuable cooperation from the government, to be sure, but with very little financial assistance from Uncle Sam.

But while we have forged ahead in commercial aviation, our military equipment of planes and trained personnel has continued to lag behind those of other nations. The Navy has been better cared for in this respect than has the Army.

Nobody wants the United States to get into another war. Yet there is always the chance that we may be forced into one, a chance that is perhaps not as remote as it seems, in the present disturbed state of world affairs. It would be a pity if we had to go to war, as we did in 1917, with practically no military airplanes fit for service and up-to-date enough to be useful against the enemy's equipment.

More power to General Craig.

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold
 Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.
 How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs is one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxins.
 Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the system. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.
 Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

FINAL INSTALLMENT

Mechanically Ben made an effort to rise, but could not manage it. "Must have hit on my head," he mumbled thickly, and raised groping fingers. Then he sat up. He knew now that he had not fallen into a pit. "Where are they? What's—happened?" Betty was sobbing wildly; her hair hung in a cascade about her shoulders; she was clad only in her night-dress, and it was soaked with the water she had poured over Ben to revive him. Beside the open door to the hall lay the wreck of a chair; two of its legs were splintered, broken off; Ben realized more clearly now what it was that had crashed down upon his head. With an effort he scrambled dizzily to his feet. Water was trickling into his eyes and blinding him; he brushed it away, then discovered, to his great surprise, that it was not water at all, but blood, his own blood. His head felt twice its normal size; his brain did not function clearly and his limbs refused to obey him. Betty's voice came to him as if from a long distance; she was telling him something, trying to make him understand that they were alone in the house and that their assailant had fled. When this became plain to Furlong, he sat down. It was some time before the girl succeeded in stanching that flow of blood wound, for she was scarcely in condition to render help to anybody. By the time her task was completed Ben had managed to get a pretty clear idea of what had happened. She had been awakened by a sound and had realized that somebody was in her room; she had uttered a frightened challenge, only to feel groping hands upon her, to find herself in the grasp of some unseen person. She retained no very clear recollection of anything after that; the rest was a hideous nightmare. Not until the miscreant had bolted out of the house and she had finally managed somehow to strike a light was she made aware of the reason for his flight. Then she had stumbled over Ben and had realized that it was his voice she had heard calling to her, that it was the sound of his coming that had interrupted the attack. His plight had done a good deal to bring her back to herself, but now she threatened to again abandon her self-control.

Furlong checked this by saying; "Betty Durham! You've got nothing on but your nightie!" It was some time later when the girl emerged from her room, dressed after a fashion, to find her deliverer waiting in the kitchen with a scowl upon his face. "You got a gun?" he inquired, harshly.

"No, Ben. Why?" "I'm going to kill Maddox." For a moment Betty stared at the speaker; with shaking fingers she plucked at her dress. It was in a thin, reedy voice that she said; "It wasn't Maddox." "How do you know?" "Oh, I know! It wasn't Maddox." "Are you sure?" The girl nodded, and Ben bowed his throbbing head in hands. "I'm glad," he groaned. "Providence certainly brought me back. It wouldn't happen that way once in a thousand times. Whoever it was, I'll find him."

Both the man and the girl were in a wretched condition. The rest of the night they sat together, watching the clock and listening for a possible return of the marauder, waiting for the day to break.

It was shortly after they had finished breakfast that Furlong was surprised to discover signs of activity, movements, goings-on at the well which caused him to stare fixedly, then to announce, incredulously; "Say! I believe Maddox is fixing to shoot the well!"

Betty took her place at his side. "Why—he can't! He dasset! The powder men won't be here till tomorrow."

"All the same, he's doing something queer. See those cans—those shiny things?"

"You couldn't hire Tiller to touch nitroglycerine. He's scared of it—"

Ben uttered an oath. "I tell you he's filling those cartridges. He's crazy! You've got to stop him!" Betty turned white; she shook her head. "I won't go near the place."

It's—it's Aunt Mary's well." "Then I'll stop him. Why, it's ten to one he'll sear the rock, ruin the whole job and—Damned if I don't believe he's trying to do that very thing!"

Furlong started for the door, but Betty clung to him. When he pushed on past her she followed him. Together they hurried across the field and took the path through the mesquite. As they went the girl continued to implore him not to interfere.

Halfway to the drilling camp they met the engineer hastening towards the farmhouse, and the latter announced, breathlessly; "Tiller's gone plump of his nut! He's goin' to shoot the well himself. You better stay clear."

Furlong dashed past the speaker and emerged from the shelter of the bushes in time to see Maddox gingerly swing a long, cylindrical tin over the well mouth and guide it into the opening. A new manila rope had been run through a block on the derrick, and with this he lowered the charge.

Ben yelled at him; he waved his arms. Maddox glanced over his shoulder, then let the line slide smoothly through his hands.

"Take my tip an' don't go too close," the engineer shouted. "He ain't no powder man an' that well's makin' gas. She blows off every few minutes."

Betty seconded this warning in frantic tones of appeal; "Let him go, Ben. He knows what he's doing. You've got no right stopping him. You'll just make trouble—"

"It's none of my business," the latter agreed, impatiently, something crooked—" He speaking; then he seized Betty and whirled her around with the command, "run! get back!" They were still perhaps a hundred yards from the well, but Furlong's practiced eye had seen something that suddenly raised the hair on his head. That rope from which he suspended the heavy charge of dynamite no longer hung vertically, but no longer ran over the block into the casing; instead it was falling in loops about Maddox. It was coming up out of the well!

Maddox himself was alive to what had happened. That which he most greatly feared had come upon him, and he also turned to flee. But the platform was slippery or else he tripped over the rope and fell. The others heard his cry of terror. He quickly regained his feet, but to Furlong it seemed as if his movements thereafter were maddeningly slow and deliberate.
The engineer's apprehensions had been well grounded. Once again gas had been released far down in the earth, and now, like breath forced from the lungs of some tortured giant, it rose, propelling the smooth-

CHEVROLET DEALER SPEAKS BEFORE STUDENT BODY
L. C. Hewitt, local Chevrolet agent spoke before the student body Thursday on "Retail Automobile Business as a Vocation."
Mr. Hewitt stated that in the retail business one should first of all choose a product that would be in a large measure "sell itself." The ability of mixing in all classes of people and making acquaintances easily, he also stated are of prime importance to successful salesmanship.
The speaker divided the auto business into four major sections, namely, new car sales, used car sales, service department, and parts and accessories.
A poor way to make a satisfied customer is to misrepresent the true condition of the machine, he stated an efficient service and parts department are necessary in keeping customers.
While it is impossible to learn any business, one should look ahead and select and prepare so he will be better equipped in his chosen vocation.

ly fitting cartridge of nitroglycerine ahead of it as a pea is propelled out of a pea-shooter. It was a phenomenon by no means unusual in a well as unstable in its balance of forces as this one. In fact, under like conditions none but a madman would have dared to risk Maddox's maneuver.

The latter had not put fifty feet behind him when up out of the well mouth shot the gleaming tin cylinder. Directly above and in its path hung the massive forty-foot steel bit suspended from its wire cable.

What happened next the observers were never able to agree upon, but the world dissolved into an inferno of smoke and flame and the suddenness of it rocked the sky, upheaved the earth. The two came together with a cataclysmic roar. Furlong and Betty Durham were tossed headlong, flung down like straws. When they scrambled to their feet, dazed, shaken, terrified, it was to find themselves enveloped in a mighty dust cloud. The eighty-foot tower of heavy timbers was gone; in an instant it had utterly vanished. Where it had stood was a shallow, smoking crater. Splinters of planking, debris of every sort, were scattered far and wide; particles of earth and gravel were raining from the heavens with the sound of a heavy hailstorm; nothing in the neighborhood of the well remained except the boiler and engine, and the former lay upon its side. Even the bushes had been whipped out, uprooted, shaved off as by a sweeping scythe.

The afternoon Furlong's friend, the engineer, came over to the farmhouse with a considerable bundle in his arms.

"How's Betty?" he inquired.
"She's all right, but pretty well bruised, of course."
"Well, I guess there's nothin' more us boys can do, so we're goin' in to town."

"Here's all of Tiller's stuff that we could find. I reckon you better look after it."
"Anything besides clothes?"
"Not much. A few letters an' things we found in his bunk. Miz Durham can keep 'em in case he's got relatives. There's one suit of clothes that would fit me. No use to throw 'em away. Say! It's funny how scared he was of powder. It musta been a hunch."

Shortly after the engineer had left, Ben came to Betty with a queer light in his eyes. In his hand he held a soiled sheet of foolscap paper.
"Feel strong enough to stand another explosion?" he inquired with an effort to suppress his agitation.
"Well, the queerest thing—! This farm doesn't belong to your aunt Mary, after all; it belongs to you!" The girl gasped; she voiced some breathless query, but Ben ran on; "Your uncle Joe left it to you, just as he promised. He left everything to you, except a thousand dollars to her. This is his will and Maddox had it. I guess it's a good will, even though your uncle wrote it himself. Anyhow it's witnessed by two people—Maddox and another. From the date I figure it must have been signed a day or so before he was killed."

"Where did it come from? How did Maddox—?"
"I've figured that out, too, Mr. Durham must have had it in his pocket when Maddox found him. That would explain everything—how he made your aunt do just what he wanted and why she didn't dare to fire him."
"That's why she said I'd have to marry him! That's why—Oh, Ben!" Betty rose suddenly and clutched Furlong. "I knew she was a mean, selfish old thing, but I never thought she was so—wicked. This oil is a curse to poor people. I hate it!"
"Why, Betty!" Furlong exclaimed. "You're the wicked one to quarrel—"
"She's the only kin I've got left and I'll try my best to love her. But she was so greedy for quick money that nothing mattered. Maddox, too! It made beasts of them. I almost wish we'd never heard of oil." After a moment the speaker continued, more quietly; "I lied to you last night. It was Tiller who came here." Furlong's body stiffened, he breathed an oath, then he muttered; "I thought so. Why didn't you tell me?"

"What's more, she knew he was coming! They arranged it. She as good as sent him! That's how he got the kitchen key."

This announcement the man greeted with the growl of an animal. He began to pace about the room; his face had grown black and threatening; his fingers were working as he stormed.
"Wait! Wait till she gets back here!"
"You can't lay your hands on a woman—"
"Can't I?" he breathed.
Betty shook her head; a moment, when a new expression slowly crept into her eyes; her chin set itself firmly. "No!" she declared. "But you can lay 'em on her trunk and drag it out here where I can pack it."
"I sure can," Ben agreed. "And what's more, when you get it packed I can lug it out to the gate where it will be nice and handy for her." As he finished speaking his frown disappeared; it was replaced by a grin and he said; "Say, Betty! What'd you think? I'm going to marry an heiress, after all."

Supreme Court Rules AAA Program Is Unconstitutional

The Supreme Court Monday ruled

Women Who Have Pains Try CARDUI Next Time!

On account of poor nourishment many women suffer functional pains at certain times, and it is for these that CARDUI is offered on the record of the safe relief it has brought and the good it has done in helping to overcome the cause of womanly discomfort. Mrs. Cole Young, of Leesville, La., writes: "I was suffering with irregular... I had quite a lot of pain which made me nervous. I took CARDUI and found it helped me in every way, making me regular and stopping the pain. This quieted my nerves, making my health much better." If CARDUI does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

that the entire AAA program was unconstitutional.

In an opinion read by Justice Roberts, the original adjustment act was declared to be "an invasion of states rights" and beyond federal power under the "general welfare" clause.

If the farm aid legislation were valid, he said, it would be possible for congress "to regulate industry in its most meticulous forms."

BORAH DECLARES LIBERAL PLATFORM

Senator Borah of Idaho has formally declared that his 1936 objective would be a liberal Republican platform, and that he would cooperate fully with plans of any progressive groups endeavoring to line up convention delegates pledged to his own candidacy.

"My primary objective," Borah said in a formal statement, "is a convention of liberal delegates which will write a liberal platform and name a liberal candidate. To that end I shall devote my efforts."

"If in any state or district the liberal forces think it shall help the liberal cause of pledge the delegates to me, I shall cooperate fully with that plan."

"If, however, it is thought better to pledge the delegates to some other liberal I shall cooperate just as fully. In other words, inflexible as to the objective, flexible as to the tactics."

Borah added that as he saw the political situation in this country "a man would be seeking political immolation to take a nomination upon any other than a liberal platform."

President Delivers Annual Address To Congress Friday

President Roosevelt Friday night made his annual address to Congress, declaring that the nation is approaching a balanced budget, that Treasury revenues are increasing, and that relief burdens are diminishing.

Slashing at critics of the New Deal in a manner not heretofore resorted to, the President denounced what he called determined groups—"entrenched greed"—which he said were seeking to regain domination of the national government.

"I recommend to congress that we advance; that we do not retreat," he said.

The president spoke from the reading clerk's desk below the dais of Speaker Byrns. Grouped in front of him were the members of his cabinet, and behind them the members of the senate, gravely listening. House members filled the rest of the chamber.

In the galleries, crowded to overflowing, sat only those fortunate enough to obtain tickets for admission to the glittering event.

Of strictly domestic problems, he said the nation was approaching a balanced budget; that treasury revenues were increasing; relief burdens diminishing; and increased taxation neither advisable nor necessary.

Although the problems of neutrality and international relations occupied the major part of his address, his audience was even more intent upon the passages which might be applied to the bitter presidential campaign just in the offing.

Mr. Roosevelt did not disappoint them. Disposing of the neutrality question, he quickly challenged his critics to seek "complete repeal" of the long list of New Deal enactment. "The way is open to such a proposal," he added.

"Let those challenges be met. If this is what these gentlemen want, let them say so to the congress of the United States. Let them no longer hide their dissent in a cowardly cloak of generality. Let them define the issue. We have been specific in our affirmative action. Let them be specific in their negative attack."

They themselves, he added, do not want to return to "that individualism of which they prate, even though the advantages under that system went to the ruthless and the strong." They realize, he said, that in 34 months the New Deal has built up new instruments of public power.

"In the hands of a people's government," he added, "this power is wholesome and proper. But in the hands of political puppets of an economic autocracy such power would provide shackles for the liberties of the people. Give them their way and they will take the course of every autocracy of the past — power for themselves, enslavement for the public."

"Their only weapon is the weapon of fear. I have said; 'The only thing we have to fear is fear itself.' That is as true today as it was in 1933. But such fear as they distill today is not a natural fear, a normal fear; it is a synthetic, manufactured poisonous fear that is being spread subtly, expensively and cleverly by the same people who cried in those other days—'save us, save us, else we perish'."

The point has been reached, he said, where the people of the Americas must take cognizance of growing ill-will, of marked trends toward aggression, of increasing armaments—a situation which has in it many of the elements that lead to the tragedy of general war."

In such a war-threatened world, he continued, the United States has sought to play the part of the 'good neighbor,' discourage mounting armaments, and encourage the peaceful solution of disputes among all nations.

"We have sought by every legitimate means to exert our moral influence against repression, discrimination, intolerance and autocracy and in favor of freedom of expression, equality before the law, religious tolerance and popular rule."

"In the field of commerce we have undertaken to encourage a more reasonable interchange of the world's goods. In the field of international finance, we have, so far as we are concerned, put an end to dollar-diplomacy, money-grabbing and speculation for the benefit of the powerful and rich, at the expense of the small and the poor.

"As a consistent part of a clear policy, the United States is following a two-fold neutrality towards any and all nations which engage in wars not of immediate concern to the Americas. First, we decline to encourage the prosecution of war by permitting belligerents to obtain arms, ammunition or implements of war from the United States; second, we seek to discourage the use of belligerent nations of any and all American products calculated to facilitate the prosecution of a war in quantities over and above our normal exports to them in time of peace. "I trust that these objectives clearly and unequivocally stated be carried forward by congress and the president."

Announcement—

We have purchased and placed in service a New Ambulance and Funeral Car — the most modern in such service obtainable.

In the operation of our funeral home we have kept uppermost in our mind the doing of those things which strengthen the sympathetic, dignified service which we seek to render, and the addition of a New Ambulance and Funeral Car is our most recent step.

Our Funeral Home is located in a separate building, off the main thoroughfare; is adequately furnished, and offers those surroundings which are so desirable in time of greatest bereavement.
