Banking Legislation Is Given Approval

A steel-flanged banking bill designed to prevent a recurrence of such a financial emergency as rocked the country on March 4, precipitating the bank holiday, was passed last Thursday by the senate with less than four hours of debate.

Revised considerably from the form in which it held the senate in prolonged dispute and filibuster last session, the bill passed without the formality of a record vote.

Provides For Emergency
It carries provisions for both emergency and permanent insurance of bank deposits and calls for severance of banking and investment businesses. Like the bill of the last session, it bore the name of Senator Carter Glass (D-Va.), who led the long fight for the legislation.

The measure has gone into the hands of a conference committee which will reconcile difference between the senate bill and the one

Dr. Knapp Will Be Speaker For Booster Group Annual Banquet

A LETTER
TO THE MOTHERS OF LAMB COUNTY—BY MRS.
C. E. COOPER

Dear fathers and mothers of Lamb County babies:

Our second June Frolics is upon us and it is our hope that it will be much bigger and prettier than last year, although some of the lovely floats in the parade last year cannot be excelled, I am sure. However, we are planning more awards this year and different events all of which will be announced in the Leader next week and we hope to have many more charming little ones in the parade.

If you have a child whom you think attractive or sweet won't you enter it in the Frolics? Remember the floats need not be expensive. A few bolts of crepe paper, a little wagon and some ingenuity in arrangements, and there you are all ready for the parade. Begin saving your boxes now so that you won't have a last minute rush finding material for the construction of the float. Post Toastie cartons and similar paper boxes hold wonderful possibilities.

One of the prettiest floats in a past carnival was "Peter Pan" all in green with his little darker green shadow on the grass at his heels. The float, I happen to remember cost twenty cents in actual money. The little costume the price of a package of green dye for it was made from an old sheet.

Developing the Cotton Industry

THE EDITORIAL PAGE

A New Step Toward Prosperity

STUDYING USES FOR COTTON

Efforts to find additional agricultural and commercial uses for cotton are being pushed by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture. More than a dozen research projects and surveys are under way, and encouraged by past success in this field the bureau is hopeful of discovering a number of new uses for the fiber.

At Raleigh, N. C., the bureau is making a test of the weathering qualities of cotton bagging as compared with other types of covering for cotton bales. Cotton bagging, for covering cotton bales, has proved to be a suitable covering for transporting, for compressing and for withstanding the strains of handling in domestic and export shipments. For a complete appraisal, however, of the usefulness of cotton bagging it is necessary to ascertain the comparative protection to the continent of the bales. Storing cotton in the open is a common practice on cotton plantations and has been responsible for heavy losses on account of weather damage to cotton wrapped in the usual jute covering.

The bureau has continued its study of packaging practices in flour mills of the United States. In the crop year ended June 30, 1932, there was an increase in use of cotton and paper, whereas, the use of burlap and of wooden barrels is on the decline. When the bureau ascertains the service requirements for packages in the industry, it will cooperate in developing cotton fabrics suitable for these containers. A similar survey of containers for packaging feeds and sugar is progressing.

In an effort to develop a suitable and economical cotton fabric for patches on cotton bales the bureau has experimented with three different weights of cotton patching material. Patches from these different patterns were applied to gin pressed bales and tested at the compress. The results of these tests show that cotton patches are practical and economical, and that they give the bale a neat appearance and provide a suitable surface for identification marks.

Cotton barrel top covers to be used by potato, poultry, and other produce shippers have been developed. Test shipments, using barrels of potatoes covered with cotton barrel covers, show that a light weight cotton fabric is both practical and economical. The cotton cover has the added advantage of furnishing a suitable surface for trade marks or brand names.

The bureau is making a technical study of the quality of cotton required by tire, thread, and pyroxylin industries.

GO TO THE CHICAGO FAIR

We have an idea that the new era of spending will begin about the time the Century of Progress Exposition gets under way in Chicago. The official opening is for June 1, and the reports we get are that the exposition will be finished on the 15th, which is not always the case with great enterprises of this kind.

If the Chicago people are guessing anywhere nearly right, there will be five million or more visitors to this great Fair, or about twice as many as went to the Chicago World Fair in 1893, just forty years ago. For one thing, there are more people within easy distance of Chicago. For another thing, travel is easier and cheaper for everybody than it was then. And those who say that the depression is going to keep people away from Chicago ought to remember, or be told, that the summer of 1893 was just such another depression year as that of 1933.

We think the tide of depression has turned, however, and that by midsummer people will again be in a spending mood. The enormous sums that will be spent even half the expected crowd gets to Chicago will go a long way toward making money circulate faster. It will be a good thing for Chicago, where the money will be spent. It will help many Chicago people to get a fresh economic start. They, in turn, will spend the money to pay bills. It will get into the tills of the merchants and will be able to buy more and pay more promptly.

The World's Columbian Exposition of 1893 had a lot to do with getting us out of an economic hole then, and this one of 1933 can easily be the starting point of rapid return to prosperity.

And besides, from all we hear about it, it is going to be one of the great wonders of the world and well worth anybody's time and money to visit.

EIGHT YEARS AGO IN LITTLEFIELD

(Exerpts from Lamb Co. Leader)

Monday was moving day for Littlefield, most of them moving into their new offices in the State Bank Building, and the A. P. Duggan building, both of which are nearing completion.

Attorney E. S. Rowe, City Clerk E. C. Cundiff, J. M. Pope, Drs. Liles and Clements moved into the Bank building. Drs. Simpson and Perkins moved into the Duggan building.

J. P. Akers, manager of the Whaley-Lewis ranch, located about 30 miles west of Littlefield, died Monday night of pneumonia.

Mr. Akers was engaged in shipping cattle when taken sick. Dr. Liles was immediately called, and diagnosing the serious condition of his patient at once ordered him to a Lubbock sanitarium, where he later expired.

The Shaw-Arnett Tolbert Company last week purchased 334 acres of land adjoining Roundup, five miles southeast of Anton, on the Santa Fe railroad. This land will be put into cultivation, this year, and it is the plan of the company to later open a townsite on this property.

The election for $50,000 school bonds for Whitharral, voted Wednesday of last week, carried unanimously. This amount is to be divided, $25,000 of it going for school building purposes at Whitharral, and $25,000 going to the Petit and White Face schools.

J. S. Hilliard former Littlefield citizen and proprietor of the Littlefield Hotel, returned here last week after spending a year in California.

J. M. Wood, a merchant from Toole, Texas, was here last week and made investments in a couple of residence lots on th highway.

Home Demonstration Notes

By MISS RUBY MASHBURN
Home Demonstration Agent

Ernesteen Matlock, clothing demonstrator of the Olton 4-H club has remodeled her clothes closet and made two dresses for herself.

"I have 206 White Leghorn Baby chicks," said Irma Lee Vandever of the Olton 4-H club as she gave her report of her poultry demonstration at the last meeting. Irma Lee set 220 eggs and hatched 212 chickens. She is feeding them according to recommendations of the poultry specialists of A. & M. College.
Angie Nell Whitney, bedroom demonstrator of the Olton 4-H club reports that her room has been rearranged and she now has new shades and curtains.

Mrs. C. W. Jackson of the Spade Home Demonstration club reports a well built and arranged clothes closet, room papered, and a slat for each coil of springs in her bed room demonstration.

Lamb county Home Demonstration club women are expecting to have the best time of the year June 8 and 9 at their annual encampment to be held at the Lamb county Fair ground at Amherst. The feature of the first day will be the annual clothing contest of sheer and house dresses made by club women and sheer and school dresses made by 4-H club girls. The stout women will model their dresses in a class to themselves this year and not have to compete with the slender or average type woman. For the first time the dresses will be judged on the person modeling and in place of stressing neat finishes of seams etc. the judges will judge according to color, line and in design suitable to the particular person. All dresses will be modeled. Every club woman and 4-H club girl is invited to be present and wear a dress made by her and for her.

On Thursday, May 11, Lamb county had 68 people present at the one-day short course held at the West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon in cooperation with the Extension Service at A. & M. College. This was the largest number of delegates from any visiting county.

The Friendship Home Demonstration club deserves lots of credit for this good representation from Lamb county. A school bus was secured by Mrs. W. R. Boyd, chairman of the club and 24 people from the Friendship club and community made the trip in this way.

The Annual Farmers Short Course at A. & M. College will be held July 24-28. Demonstrations conducted by specialists will be the feature of the program this year. Each woman and girl who attends will have something definite to bring back to her club and community in better methods of doing the things we do every day. Also new products will be manufactured and the persons attending will have an opportunity to make rural life profitable as well as pleasantly entertaining. The tanning of hides to be made into rugs, coin purses, house shoes, belts, note book covers etc. will be among the many trades learned. Many of the home demonstration clubs are electing a man and woman from the club as delegates in order to get a feature of the adult training, with a 4-H club boy and girl will get training of the juniors.

Contract Bridge

Submitted by Mrs. C. E. Cooper

This is the concluding article in this series of bridge talks. School is over, every one is getting ready for a rest and vacation and the writer of this column feels inclined to do the same. She will be glad to continue answering any questions that come to her over the phone or give any help she can in any problems that may arise in your play.

As a parting message it seems wise to emphasize again the value of the personal equation in the game. A player may be perfect in technique but unless he possesses that knowledge of psychology which permits him to take into consideration the mental attitude of other players at the table his expert technical knowledge will not suffice to let him win all the games his holdings should win.

Study your friends methods as you watch them play and pigeon-hole in your mind for future use, their idiosyncrasies. Remember that almost all players play true to form. If they are daring by temperament they are always daring. If timid by nature, you must be prepared to meet timidity even with rashness sometimes. If they are very accurate technically (rule bound) you must depend upon the mathematical expectancy to gauge the bidding.

No. 1. Our problem was so long last week we had to hold this question over, "When is it Safe to Make a Penalty Double?" It never pays to do so unless you have more than one way of defeating the contract and an expectancy of setting the bid at least two tricks. This is a safety measure. If one of the setting tricks fails you, you still have the other to put him down.

No. 2. Most no-trump contracts are made up of aces, kings and queens. However game can rarely be made with high cards alone and a successful game contract requires intermediate or supporting cards and some suit length.

No. 3. Deal, N. J. is the home of Mr. Hal Sims. Yes, he is the captain of the Four Horsemen and one of the great players in America. I could not say the best.

Lubricated Gas Announced by Gulf Refining

Lubricated gasoline, was announced today by the Gulf Refining Company through O. H. Carlisle, District Sales Manager. The new product is the result of extensive experimentation in the Gulf Refining Company laboratories, and is the answer to the problems presented lubrication engineers by the increased demand of the motoring public for high speed motors.

The new product is being marketed under the slogan "That Good Gulf Gas—Now Lubricated" at no extra cost, Mr. Carlisle pointed out. Salient features of the new fuel, according to Mr. Carlisle, are: correct lubrication of the valve seats and top of the valve stem, which tends to prevent drying and pitting of valves; plus lubrication to the upper part of the cylinder walls, thereby reducing wear on cylinders and pistons as well as piston rings.

Through use of lubricated gasoline it is now possible to design motors with smaller clearance between piston and cylinder wall and also to use tighter-fitting oil rings. In some cases two oil rings are used, all of which reduces crank case motor oil consumption.

Ease of starting with lubricated gasoline is believed assured by the fact that when combustion chambers are flooded with lubricated gasoline in choking the motor valves are less apt to stick, while use of "That Good Gulf Gasoline—New Lubricated" assures longer life for certain parts of the motor such as valves, guides and piston assembly.

AWAKENED WOMAN

by ELINORE BARRY

Eleventh Installment

SYNOPSIS

Joeyce Ashton, poor stenographer, suffered loss of memory in a taxi accident in Chicago. One morning two years later she awoke after a fall from her horse, memory restored, to find herself, Frills, the wife of Neil Packard, California fruit packer. She decided to tell nobody of her predicament but set about learning what could be her life in the interval. In the conversation of her friends letters in her desk she gathered she had been a heartless, pleasure-loving young woman. One letter troubled her was from a woman named Sophie, blaming Frills for giving a home to a baby who was caring for. Could it be baby, Frills wondered! She also found herself involved in an affair with a man named Maitland. In San Francisco, where she went while her husband was away on business, she met Robert Ainsworth, a poet whose name she had always admired. When he returned home, she decided to see him. But this line was dangerous, for Neil was pathetically anxious to see her. Now GO ON WITH THE STORY.

don't forget our date at five this afternoon."

"You bet I won't! Gee, but whoopee! I wish I didn't have to go down to the office. I feel like celebrating."

"You go along!" exclaimed Joyce, alarmed at the threatened loss of her day of freedom and feeling the need of a rest after the strain of this stormy scene. "I can't have you around all day. I'm going to be busy."

"All right! And say, if anything does come up you'd rather do this afternoon, it's alright, you know. We can go to mother's some other time."

"The date is made. If it's broken, it'll be your doing."

When she got out to the stable big blue car and waited for him to open the front door.

"Don't you want to go in your roadster?" asked Neil in surprise, stopping beside the car.

"No, I don't. I don't like the color of it," retorted Joyce, and suppressing a smile, she continued hastily, "anyhow, I prefer to have you drive today."

Packard got in and started the engine without further delay. They drove down the main street of Manhattan where they were greeted right and left by a bewildering number of people and Joyce was on pins and needles for fear Neil would stop to talk to any of them. After half an hour during which she grew more nervous every minute—what in the world would she say to Neil's mother?

"My dears, I'm delighted to see you both!" exclaimed his mother, holding out her hand to Joyce while she kept Neil's in her clasp at the same time. Joyce shook hands with her and smiled silently.

"Do sit down, children, it's so good to see you," went on Mrs. Packard, beaming happily as she returned to her comfortable armchair in front of one of the windows, "when did you get back, Neil?"

"Last night, mother, and you bet I'm glad to get back," replied Packard.

Neil's mother was a woman in her late sixties, with soft gray hair, and a face pleasantly fresh and clear-skinned. Only in her dark eyes could one read the shadow of past sorrows, mingled with present loneliness and pain. Joyce thought, and when she did not smile her mouth was set in curves of quiet resignation.

"Are you feeling quite well again, my dear?" asked Mrs. Packard after Neil had told about his trip. "Neil said you had had a bad fall."

"Oh, yes, I didn't really get hurt," replied Joyce, "though I suppose I might easily have been killed."

"Yes, it frightens me to think of it," said Mrs. Packard, a shadow crossing her face.

"Frills is looking well, though, don't you think, mother?" asked Neil. "Doc spoke of it to me today. She's been keeping sort of quiet since the accident and getting in a lot of sleep."

When they were outside the house, Joyce, seized by a sudden impulse, said to Neil, "Wait a minute, I'll be right out again," and turning, she went back into the house. Mrs. Packard who had been sitting quietly gazing out of the window, looked up in surprise when she saw her daughter-in-law reappear.

Joyce ran across the room and kneeling beside the chair, she said hastily, before her courage should go back on her, "Do you . . . do you suppose we could be friends, after all? Or do Frills . . . have I been too awful?"

To her dismay she saw Mrs. Packard's eyes fill with quick tears and a flush mount to her forehead. "My dear, my dear, nothing would make me happier than to . . . to be able to be a friend to my son's wife," she replied, her lips quivering, "to have you want it!" She laid her arm gently around Joyce's shoulders.

"I'm coming again soon, alone, and then we'll . . . we'll get acquainted," stammered Joyce. She rose and lifting her head nearer, kissed Mrs. Packard lightly. Then she ran out of the room to Neil.

When they got back to the house Joyce was relieved to find that they had no company.

"Let's see what's on the radio tonight!" suggested Neil. Joyce assented, rather curious to hear. She soon discovered that Neil's idea of enjoying the radio was to spend all his time and effort trying to get distant stations.

Joyce, bored finally at the "superlatives of the unseen speaker who was boasting enthusiastically for the glories of California, got up and said goodnight, hoping that Neil would remain downstairs."

Packard immediately shut off the radio and announced his intention of accompanying her. By the air of happy expectation on his face, Joyce realized that she was about to reap the inevitable results of her friendliness toward him that day.

She decided this time to take no chance of repeating the soap incident and when they reached the bedroom she turned to him and said, "Good-night, Neil, I'm going to read for a while."

"But, Frills sweetheart," he began, detaining her, "you've been so wonderful today and—I love you so! I want you so, dear." He drew her closer into his arms whispering the last words close to her ear. "Such adorable little ears!" he said, kissing them again and again. "I'd be so happy if I were sure of you!"

"Listen, Neil," she said quietly, "won't you, if I ask you as a favor to me and as a return for being what you call reasonable and sensible, won't you please let me sleep in the other room without asking questions and going through this sort of thing every night?"

Her manner evidently made an impression on him for he released her immediately, saying, "I'm sorry, dear. It's just that I love you so." He paused and added hesitatingly, "But—will you come of your own accord when you're ready?"

"Of course," promised Joyce hastily, suddenly extremely embarrassed by the conversation after her momentary self-confidence. She said goodnight again and went off to her room and shut the door.

The next night when they were going upstairs Neil said, "Look here, sweetheart, I hate like the devil to have you sleeping indoors. You ought to be getting all this wonderful fresh air. Let me move your bed out to the other end of the porch. I won't bother you."

"Oh, there's plenty of fresh air in my room with all those windows open," returned Joyce hastily, "really it's just like being out of doors."

"Let me sleep indoors then," he suggested, generously, "and you sleep out here."

"I'm lots more comfortable inside—you're lots more dependent on air than I am," she told him.

Nearly a fortnight later Joyce set off one morning on Rosita for an all-day ramble through the hills. She carried her lunch and a book with her and told Roxie not to expect her back until late in the afternoon.

She laid her arm gently around Joyce's shoulder

Joyce found Sam about to mount the black horse. "Oh, Sam, where are you going?"

"Why, Mr. Packard asked me to take some papers to Jake Anson. It's up beyond Elk Flat in the hills, a good long way from the road, so he told me I'd better ride Barney," explained Sam.

"Well, couldn't I go with you?" demanded Joyce. She was still a little nervous about going out alone, when all the trails were so unfamiliar to her.

"Why sure! I'll saddle Rosita."

When Joyce got back at noon after a two-hour ride, during which she learned much about the country and its possibilities for horseback riding, she was informed by Roxie that she had missed two sets of callers.

Joyce played with Dickie in the garden for half an hour after lunch she retired to her room to rest and read until time for Neil's return. "I'm out to every one, Roxie," she gave definite instructions. "I don't care if it's the Prince of Wales."

At four-thirty she dressed carefully and then waited for Neil to appear. She was pleased when she heard him arriving at ten minutes before five, an evidence that he intended to take no chances of missing their appointment.

When he came in and saw Joyce in the living room, obviously ready to go, his anxious look turned into a positive beam of pleasure and relief.

"Hallo, Frills, all ready to go? Fine!" and as Joyce got up he approached her with the intention of kissing her. But she stepped aside and made it plain that she preferred to avoid his greeting. To her relief he did not press the matter.

"How's the Duesenberg working?" he inquired as they went out together.

"Oh, it's all right," replied Joyce indifferently. She went up to Neil's —they stopped finally at a charming little bungalow covered with rose vines and surrounded by a garden of beautiful flowers. They entered a friendly, low-ceilinged room paneled in white with wide windows framing a view of distant mountains across the valley.

Mrs. Packard rose to meet them and Neil, kissing her, said gently, "Well, mother, here we are, come to make you a little call, Frills and I."

I suppose that I may claim to be the first Ford Dealer. I not only made cars, but sold them and frequently delivered them myself.

The "drive away" is not new; often I have driven cars from Detroit to towns in Ohio or Indiana or Michigan to make delivery.

There were no good roads in those days, and the people where I drove had never seen a motor car before.

My first really enthusiastic customers were Country Doctors. They were the first to realize the value of dependable transportation to a widely scattered practice.

Even today I occasionally hear from some of those first Ford users.

We had to teach local mechanics how to care for the cars. That is how Ford Service began, which is now found everywhere in the world.

We believed from the beginning that a sale does not complete our transaction with our customer — it creates upon us an obligation to see that our customer's car gives him service. Ford Dealers know their duty to the public in this respect.

I can say of Ford Dealers generally that they have been and are men of character and standing in their communities. Most of them have been with us many years, which indicates that we agree on basic business principles. The Company provides that the methods used to sell the Ford car are consistent with the self-respect of the Dealers who handle it.

The present Ford V-8 is the peak of our 30 years experience. We have never made a better car. Its eight-cylinder engine is powerful and smooth running. The car is admittedly very good looking and has comfortable riding qualities. It is economical in operation because of advanced engine design and low car weight. It is the fastest, roomiest and most powerful car we have ever built.

Rhymes Increase the Good Time At Woman's Study Club Breakfast

The following verses were composed by Mrs. R. E. McCaskill, and presented by her at the farewell breakfast given by the Woman's Study Club in honor of Mrs. B. M. Harrison, Saturday, May 6:

It was a day in May, the winds were still;
I was strolling along to get my fill
Of blooming roses, larkspur, and phlox,
Until I come to a yard full of lovely stocks.
Then looking thru the fence I spied
A woman busy working there inside.
She was pulling up weeds and loosening the ground
Not conscious at all of me being around.
But as I watched her at work I tho't
How she had in the same way brought
Peace and harmony to the Study Club;
How she had never ceased to grub
Out the weeds of discontent;
Of unkind words, or any dissent.
She's watered the club's best interest with tact,
She's covered up every unkind fact
With the soil of Tolerance and Love,
And weeds out harshness with a coo like a dove.
Surely, tho't I, she is in every sense truly a (GARDNER.)

Another member I'm anxious to mention,
And I know her picture will hold your attention.
Tho' she wears a halo of snowy white hair,
The spirit of youth still lingers there.
So human, and wholesome! So ready to laugh!
She needs no words in her own behalf.
Now her name suggests a mean little fighter,
But, "What's in a name," once said a writer.
Not every fighter is a (BADGER.)

Raven of hair, and dark of eye,
She attracts us all as she goes by.
And as she talks her eyelids flutter;
She makes of them a mean old shutter
To cover the windows of her soul.
And—she's quite mysterious in that role.
Her name suggests a furnisher of fire,
And I'm afraid this might draw her ire
For she—(STOKES.)

My husband and I were driving along;
I made the remark that it was all wrong.
For me to do what I'm doing now;
Of what I should say of each one and how
I should describe them. And I mentioned one woman today
And you should have heard what he had to say.
"Why her smile's worth a willion, if it's worth a red cent.
If you'd smile like that I'd be much more content.
With a smile like hers she's sure to be sweet.
The last part of her name is something to eat (HILBUN.)

Austere and grim, and hard-boiled if you please,
And her air was as chilly as a winter's breeze.
Until I saw her one summer's day,
As she came strolling out my way,
Climb a telephone pole, and skin down the trolley
Which the children had made bor their own fun and folly.
Then I realized she was quite a good sport,
Just like I'd heard all the school boys report.
I know you all regard her most highly;
For her name comes from Erin, and of course it is (RILEY.)

I speak now of one whose rare beauty and charm
Is the despair of us all, and I view with alarm
The envy I possess when I think how much less
Attractive am I. And why were the gods so unfair?
That she should be given the lion's share
Of all the gifts. There's brains and there's beauty.
And with all these she's not one bit snooty;
But if we had all her share wouldn't it be a (BOON?)

There is one who labors each day
To help her husband in pointing the way
To the Better Land where we want to go,
When we leave this sad old world below.
They tell us there's where St. Peter waits;
You know where it is—right there by the (GATES.)

I know a person who is temperamental,
That is, 90 per cent temper, and 10 per cent mental!
She's not a nice kitty; she's just an old cat,
She's mean to her neighbors, she's 40, and fat.
Now I wonder who has been the spy
And found out this person is only—I.

Efficiency is her chief attribute,
Besides being courteous, kindly and cute.
She's as true as the stars, and you'll not lose your bet
If you place your money on Mrs. (BARNETT.)

She's a dear little old mousey blonde,
But one of whom we're all very fond.
And they say of her she will not ever fuss,
But always replies, "Well, I'll go ask Gus." (MRS. R. A. DAVIS.)

Don't you think it's a wonderful thing to be
Sincerely interested in all that you see?
Whether a babe in arms, or a barefoot boy,
A young man, or old woman, to her they're a joy.
She sees all their good, and magnifies it.
She'll find something to praise in a simple nit-wit.
She's a help to our town, out club, and to us.
Now can't you guess who I'm trying to discuss?
To help you still more I'll say she is beautiful,
A loving wife, and a good cook, and is dutiful.
Now I know you just can't overlook her;
Well—yes, of course, she's our own Mrs. (COOPER.)

Well, I think there is one aroun
Who is sometimes called a "convention hound."
But I'd be the very last one to scold her,
For she hasn't chick nor child to hold her;
And at the convention she acquits herself well,
Or at least that's what they tell.
Her name, you see, suggests a horse;
Yes, it's Mrs. SADLER, of course.

"Come weal or come wee," but nothing upsets
The poise of this woman, so
Thru the thin years and the fat,
Thru this calamity and that
She walks calmly on.
No greater words than these can be said
Than will be spoken when she is dead.
"She could not believe wrong in anyone."
I know I shall say it when she's gone.
Her home is a place where old friends meet.
Now I'm sure you have guessed it's (MRS. STREET.)

Ah yes! She hasn't much tact that's true,
And she sometimes makes it hard for you.
Altho that seems a sad, sad trait,
I'd rather she'd just tell me straight
Out what she thinks of me,
Than to say it to some one else and be
Deceitful. And rest assured you'll know what she thinks.
And as she talks her eye never blinks,
But after all, don't you believe that shows her
To be the daughter of a real (WISEMAN.)

We have a song bird of whom we are proud.
She won't sing too low, nor yet too loud.
We can almost hear the fluttering of wings;
She's so much like an angel when she sings.
And one wonders how her husband got her!
For she's been made and moulded by a (POTTER.)

This lady's picture I'd love to paint;
For she's like a portrait of a saint.
I'd have 'round her head a halo of glory;
I mean what I say—it isn't a (STORY.)

My name for her is "Old Ready and Steady,"
For she stands ever ready to do what she can
If it's on a reception, or using a frying pan.
She'll serve on committees, she'll stir the stew;
Or any old thing which we have to do.
The Rock of Gibraltar is steady far less
Than this faithful member—(MRS. HARLESS.)

A certain member with the doctor hurried
Out on a call, and became so flurried
That when the father said, "Is it a her or him?"
She replied, "Sir it's neither, it's them." (MRS. COEN.)

This talk was had at a club member's house,
Just a conversation between her and her spouse;
"The years we've been married today, they are light,
And wouldn't you like to celebrate,
My dear," he said; "I will kill the hen
We've been keeping in the pen."
"Why no," said she, "Don't have a fit,
The chicken had nothing to do with it."
"Twas all I could do to repress a snicker
When I heard the story on (KATHERINE WHICKER.)

I wish I knew something I could tell
On this charming member—well,
All I can say is I know her eyes
Are like the autumn leaves, when summer dies.
She wears her clothes with a lot of style,
Along with the face of an innocent child.
I hope I haven't tried to gild her;
The girl whose given name is Wilda (HENDRICKS.)

She's truly a Christian; She lives by her creed.
She will do nothing wrong even tho' one would plead.
She teaches the children the right way to build
Their lives also—this (FAY COGDILL.)

She's new in our club, and I don't know her so well,
But this I do know for I've heard folks tell;
When you want something done just tell her to do it,
She'll get the job over, this (MRS. HEWITT.)

Farewell! The word is like a knell!
The wist man said there's nothing new
Under the sun, but that's not true;
For there is a new pain in every heart,
When we think of her from whom we must part.
I recently heard someone compare
Her to a piece of Dresden ware.
So fragile and dainty, yet with traits like these;
She's a tower of strength—yet anxious to please.
Now she's going away, and there isn't a one
Who doesn't send their love with (MRS. HARRISON.)

Next Governor? Who Will Be The

The politically wise ones are now predicting that the Fergusons will not seek the governorship next year. Recent events give much credence to this suggestion. The Fergusons have failed to put over any of their major objectives since going to Austin this time. They have been check-mated and defeated on every proposition—the sales tax, a five-member highway commission to be appointed by them and at the end of two years elected by the people, the creation of a separate oil and gas commission, these powers to be taken from the present railway commission—all these and other Ferguson proposals have been mercilessly squelched in the legislature. Whether they expect to run for some other office or quit the drive entirely is a matter of conjecture. At any rate, the indications are that they will not run for governor and it is believed that they will lend their support to Coke Stevenson, Speaker of the House of Representatives.

A boom for Stevenson was launched in the House last week. It seems that he made a very astute and popular speaker. His friends say that he knows how to get things done without arousing personal animosities; that he has the happy faculty of winning and retaining the friendship even of those who oppose him. Stevenson is a West Texan, his home being at Junction. He is a lawyer and a ranchman and when at home divides his time between the court room and the saddle.

It also seems certain that Jimmie Allred, attorney general, will be a candidate for governor. Allred is serving his second term as attorney general. He has shown courage and ability in the performance of his duties and has hosts of admirers throughout the state. He too possesses a pleasing personality and is a wonderful campaigner. Jimmie Allred will be a formidable candidate in any man's race.

Tom Hunter announced immediately following the election last year that he would be a candidate again in 1934, and he has been running ever since. Hunter made a remark-ble race last year, surprising many even of his best friends. Whether he will be crowded out next year by his fellow-townsmen, Jimmie Allred, remains yet to be seen.

There has been some talk of both Clint Small of Amarillo and Walter Woodward of Coleman, but it is the general opinion that both of them have been shelved by the other West Texas aspirants.

But not all the candidates will be from West Texas. It is generally conceded that Edgar E. Witt of Waco will be a candidate, and some say that the Fergusons will not be at all hostile to him. There may be a candidate from Dallas, one from Houston, and one from East Texas. Who knows?

In any event we will have plenty occasion to use our poll tax receipts next year.—Lynn County News.

Diphtheria Causes 500 Deaths Annually

Texas loses more than five hundred of its children each year from just one preventable cause, according to Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer. Diphtheria, that ever present menace to children, is responsible for this great loss.

Dr. Brown said that all parents would not allow their children to run in front of trains or automobiles but many allow them to run the danger of contracting diphtheria. Children need not have this disease, as it is easily prevented by a simple, harmless treatment with toxoid.

If you have a child six months old or more, take him to your doctor and ask to have him immunized against diphtheria. Do not wait until your child goes to school, as babies and little children need this protection more than children who are going to school.

The treatment consists of two or three injections of toxoid, according to age, one week apart. Fewer do not protect. The doctor can tell if more are needed to protect the child by giving him the Schick test four to six months after the last treatment of toxoid. It takes that long for protection to develop.

There is no guess work about toxoid, it is a safe and proven preventive. Do not confuse toxoid with antitoxin, the first prevents a child from catching diphtheria and the second, when used in treatment, cures a child sick with the disease, if given early enough. If your child is sick do not wait but call a doctor at once, as this disease develops rapidly.

More Advertising Declared Surest Prosperity Road

The use of advertising media on a more general and extensive scale is the surest way to end the current economic situation and to prevent them in the future, according to Edward A. Filene of Boston, speaking before the New York Advertising Club a few days ago.

Declaring that good advertising, with all it implies, will show the way and lead toward a height of prosperity such as the world has never known, Mr. Filene held that a "good advertisement is just as productive of social and economic values as a good potato patch or a good clothing factory."

Advertising is not a distinct step which is separable from the rest of the economic machinery, but merely is a cog in the wheel and a necessary part of the whole, he continued. Advertising, linked with mass production and distribution, he said, "all help to get bread and butter and other things, the necessities of life and the luxuries of life, which should be available to everyone from those who produce them to those who need

DISTRESS AFTER MEALS Relieved By Black-Draught

"I had sour stomach and gas," writes Mr. Jess Higgins, of Dawsonville, Ga., "and often I would have bilious spells. I read about Theford's Black-Draught and began to take it. It relieved me of this trouble. I keep it all the time now. I consider it a fine medicine. I take a pinch of Black-Draught after meals when I need it. It helps to prevent sick headache and to keep the system in good order." Get a package at the store. Try it! Now you can get Black-Draught in the form of a SYRUP, for CHILDREN.

Modern Food Store Joins Red and White System

STORE REMODELLED; FORMAL OPENING SET FOR TONIGHT

Special Prices Announced For Friday And Saturday

Another Red and White grocery store will be formally opened in Littlefield Thursday night at 8 o'clock. The Modern Food Store, operated by Payne Wood will formally announce the joining of the Red and White organization at that time with a two-hour open-house party. Various forms of entertainment have been arranged, together with the giving of several prizes.

A huge food sale carrying special prices has been announced in a page advertisement in this week's issue of the Leader. The special sale will run through Friday and Saturday.

Mr. Wood has lived in Littlefield for the past several years. Moving with his parents in 1923 he entered the Littlefield schools, and was graduate of the local high school in 27. He was employed by a local dairy concern on finishing school till 1929, at which time he opened Friendly Grocery & Market. Mr. Wood changed the name of the store a few months ago to the Modern Food Store.

Many Repairs Made
The Modern Food Store was moved to the Cooper building next to the National Bank early last month. The entire building and front has been repaired and rearranged making a store modern in every respect.

Mr. Woods announced that another feature to the convenience of the store was the back entrance. Ample parking space is also available at rear of the store.

Modern Refrigerated Market
Kenneth Houk, formerly associated with Mr. Wood in the Friendly Grocery & Market, is in charge of the market of the new concern.

The market has frigidaire mechanical refrigerating equipment throughout. Other than an electrical Sealed display case, the market is equipped with an electrical refrigeration storage box.

Every precaution is taken in the market to insure complete sanitation.

Explains Red & White System
In explaining the new organization, Mr. Wood stated that the Red and White system was not in any way connected with the chain stores. It is an organization of thousands of red, home-owned stores joined together merely to take the advantage of co-operative buying.

Mr. Wood added that the new store was completely home-owned and was not in any way connected with outside interests.

She says when in doubt, test your juice for pectin content by using the Epsom salts method, then add sugar accordingly, and you will have better success in making your jelly. Add sugar slowly to boiling syrup and boil rapidly until it "sheets" from the spoon to wooden spoon preferably, and pour immediately into warm jelly glasses. Cool, cover and store in a dry, dark, cool place.

Many Advantages Offered Farmers At Short Course

The A. & M. Short Course will offer a new deal to the farm men, farm women, farm boys and farm girls of this summer...

Under a tree will be a sorghum mill going full blast with syrup expert and chemist on hand to show the farmers how to sample, taste and treat their syrup to make it lighter or to take the 'sting' out of it...

Tolling over yonder vat will be a group of interested farmers learning art of tanning their hides (that have been thrown away heretofore) to quality leather that may be used for harness or a hundred other uses of the farm.

Bent over a bench over there will be another group of interested farmers learning how to make their own dress from hamstring to brichen; seated over to one side will be men and girls stamping leather and turning the art of making saleable their goods from hides tanned by farmers.

Down in the creamery, those boys created in selling fancy country butter, will be giving the old churn their extra lick to make the butter fine, while the women will be learning how to make a better quality of stage cream and commercial ice cream.

Over there in the textile mills and the whirl and swirl of the looms men will be carding cotton, wool, mohair, while farmers will be learning how to shear, tie and grade wool, and just imagine some of the wool blankets made from your wool!

The poultryman and home industrial workers will be drilling visitors the proper method for killing, eviscerating, boning, and canning of fowls, down in the meats laboratory. Across the hall the meats men are killing, cutting and curing meats while the women will be canning some of the products.

Others will be making grape juice on a commercial scale in a small farm set up especially for this farm use. Still in another room expert station folks will be showing how to process figs to keep them for months at a time, and how to handle various kinds of fruit.

This Short Course was designed for farm folks that want to know how to do things and are going some, stated the county agent. There will not be an idle moment, as there will be inspirational talks in the evening with most of the afternoon given over to making things as outlined above, with the night filled with entertainment. Farm folks can't get to miss the 'new deal' in short course at A. & M. College on the last week in July, July 24 to 29.

It further is provided that the Legislature, by a favoring vote of two-thirds of the total membership of both the Senate and the House of Representatives, may authorize any county, having a population less than that above specified, to proceed hereunder for the adoption of a Charter; however, as a condition for such authorization, it is required that notice of the intent to seek Legislative authority hereunder must be published in one or more newspapers, to give general circulation in the county affected, not less than once per week for four (4) consecutive weeks, and the first of such publications shall appear not less than thirty (30) days next prior to the time an Act making proposal hereunder may be introduced in the Legislature. Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to authorize the adoption of a Charter provision inimical to or inconsistent with the sovereignty and established public policies of this State, and no provision having such vice shall have validity as against the State. No Charter provision may operate to impair the exemption of homesteads as established by this Constitution and the Statutes relating thereto."

"(3) a. In any event, in addition to the powers and duties provided by any such Charter, such governing body shall exercise all powers, and discharge all duties which, in the absence of the provisions hereof, would devolve by law on County Commissioners and County Commissioners' Courts. Further, any such Charter may provide for the organization, reorganization, establishment and administration of the government of the county, including the control and regulation of the performance of and the compensation for all duties required in the conduct of the county affairs, subject to the limitations herein provided."

"b. A Charter hereunder may provide that Judges of County Courts (including that County Court designated in this Constitution), and Justices of the Peace be compensated upon a salary basis in lieu of fees. The jurisdiction of the County Court designated in this Constitution, and the duties of the Judges thereof, may be confined to that general jurisdiction of a probate Court which elsewhere is defined in this Constitution. The office of Justice of the Peace may be made either elective or appointive. Other than as herein provided, no such Charter shall provide for altering the jurisdiction or procedure of any Court. The duties of District Attorney and/or County Attorney may be confined to representing the State in civil cases to which the State is a party and to enforcement of the State's Penal Code, and the compensation of said attorneys may be fixed on a salary basis in lieu of fees."

"c. Save as hereinabove and hereinafter otherwise provided, such Charters, within the limits expressed therein, may invest the governing body to be established for any county electing to operate hereunder with the power to create, consolidate or abolish any office or department, whether created by other provisions of the Constitutions or by statute, define the duties hereof, fix the compensation for service therein, make the same elective or appointive and prescribe the time, qualifications and conditions for tenure in any such office; save, that no such Charter other than as hereinbefore authorized, shall provide to regulate the status, service, duties or compensation of members of the Legislature, Judges of the Courts, District Attorneys, County Attorneys, or any office whatever by the law of the State required to be filled by an election embracing more than one county. Excepting herefrom nominations, elections or appointments to offices, the terms whereof may not have expired prior to the adoption of this Amendment to the Constitution, at such time as a Charter provision adopted hereunder may be in effect (save as to those offices which must continue to be elective, as herein elsewhere specified), all terms of county officers and all contracts for the giving of service by deputies under such officers, may be subject to termination by the administrative body of the county, under an adopted Charter so providing, and there shall be no liability by reason thereof."

"d. Any county electing to operate hereunder shall have the power, by Charter provision, to levy, assess and collect taxes, and to fix the maximum rate for ad valorem taxes to be levied for specific purposes, in accordance with the Constitution and laws of this State, provided, however, that the limit of the aggregate taxes which may be levied, assessed and collected hereunder shall not exceed the limit or total fixed, or hereafter to be fixed, by this Constitution to control counties, and the annual assessment upon property, both real, personal and mixed, shall be a first superior and prior lien thereon."

"e. In addition to the powers herein provided, and in addition to powers included in County Home Rule Charters, any county may, by a majority vote of the qualified electors of said county, amend its Charter to include other powers, functions, duties and rights which now or hereafter may be provided by this Constitution and the statutes of the State for counties."

"(4) Any county operating hereunder shall have the power to borrow money for all purposes lawful under its Charter, to include the refunding of a lawful debt, in a manner conforming to the General Laws of the State, and may issue therefor its obligations. Such obligations, other than those to refund a lawful debt, shall not be valid unless authorized by a majority of all votes cast by those resident qualified voters of the area affected by the taxes required to retire such obligations, who may vote thereon. In case of county obligations, maturing after a period of five (5) years, the same shall be issued to mature serially, fixing the first maturity of principal at a time not to exceed two (2) years next after the date of the issuance of such obligations. Such obligations may pledge the full faith and credit of the county; but in no event shall the aggregate obligations so issued, in principal amount outstanding at any one time, exceed the then existing Constitutional limits for such obligations and such indebtedness and its supporting tax shall constitute a first and superior lien upon the property taxable in such county. No obligation issued hereunder shall be valid unless prior to the time of the issuance thereof there be levied a tax sufficient to retire the same as it matures, which tax shall not exceed the then existing Constitutional limits."

"(5) Such Charter may authorize the governing body of a county operating hereunder to prescribe the schedule of fees to be charged by the officers of the county for specified service, to be in lieu of the schedule for such fees prescribed by the General Laws of the State; and, to appropriate such fees to such funds as the Charter may prescribe; provided, however, no fee for a specified service shall exceed in amount the fee fixed by General Law for that same service. Such Charters as to all judicial officers, other than District Judges, may prescribe the qualifications for services, provided the standards therefor be not lower than those fixed by the General Laws of the State."

"(6) a. Subject to the express limitations upon the exercise of the powers by this subdivision to be authorized, such Charters may provide (or omit to provide) that the governmental and/or proprietary functions of any city, town, district or other defined political subdivision (which is a governmental agency and embraced within the boundaries of the county) be transferred, either as to some or all of the functions thereof, and yielded to the control of the administrative body of the county. No such transfer or yielding of functions may be effected, unless the proposal is submitted to a vote of the people, and, unless otherwise provided by a two-thirds vote of the total membership of each House of the Legislature, such a proposal shall be submitted as a separate issue, and the vote within and without any such city, town, district, or other defined governmental entity, shall be separately cast and counted, and unless two-thirds of the qualified votes cast within the yielding defined governmental entity, and a majority of the qualified votes cast in the remainder of the county, favor the proposed merger, it shall not be effected. In case of the mergers hereby authorized, without express Charter provision therefor, in so far as may be required to make effective the object of the proposed merger, the county shall succeed to all the appropriate lawful powers, duties, rights, procedures, restrictions and limitations which prior to the merger were imposed in, or imposed upon, the yielding governmental agency. Particularly, it is provided that the power to create funded indebtedness, and to levy taxes in support thereof may be exercised only by such procedures, and within such limits, as now are, or hereafter may be, provided by law to control such appropriate other governmental agencies were they to be independently administered. Such mergers may be effected under proposed contracts between the county and any such yielding governmental agency, to be approved at an election as hereinbefore provided for. In order to increase governmental efficiency and effect economy the county may contract with the principal city of the county to perform one or more of its functions, provided such contracts shall not be valid for more than two (2) years."

"b. In cases of the partial or complete merger of the government of a city operating under a Home Rule Charter, with the government of a county operating hereunder, those city Charter provisions affected thereby shall cease to control, and the county Charter provisions shall control."

"c. When any embraced incorporated city or town elects to merge its governmental functions with those of the county under the provisions hereof, such Charter may provide for defining or redefining the boundaries of such cities and towns, provided, however, that in defining or redefining the boundaries of such cities and towns, such boundaries may be extended only to include those areas contiguous to such cities as are urban in character; and as to such cities or towns and for the benefit thereof the county, in addition to the primary city and county tax herein authorized and any other lawful district tax, may levy and collect taxes upon the property taxable within such city or town as defined or redefined, within the limits authorized by Sections 4 and 5 of Article XI of this Constitution, (or any Amendment thereto) for incorporated cities according to the population, provided that no tax greater than that existing at the time of such merger or for any added purpose shall be imposed upon any such city or town unless authorized by a majority of all votes cast by the resident qualified voters of such city or town."

"d. Areas urban in character though not incorporated, under appropriate Charter provision may be defined as such by the governing body of the county; provided, however, that no portion of the county shall be defined as an urban area unless it has sufficient population to entitle it to incorporate under the then existing laws of the State; and no such urban area, when created, shall be vested with any taxing or bonding power which it would not possess if it were operating as a separate incorporated unit under the then existing Constitutional and Statutory provisions of this State; and provided further that the governing body of the county for the government of such areas shall have and exercise all powers and authority granted by law to the governing bodies of similar areas when separately incorporated as a city or town, and such areas shall be subject to additional taxation within the same Constitutional limits as control taxation for a city or a town of like population. Likewise such Charter may provide for the governing body of the county, subject to existing Constitutional and statutory provisions to define, create and administer districts, and have and exercise the powers and authority granted by the Constitution and laws relative to the same."

"(7) No provision of this Constitution inconsistent with the provisions of this Section 3, of Article IX, shall be held to control the provisions of a Charter adopted hereunder, and conforming herewith. Charters adopted hereunder shall make appropriate provision for the abandonment, revocation, and amendment thereof, subject only to the requirements that there must be a favoring majority of the vote cast upon such a proposal, by the qualified resident electors of the county; and, no Charter may forbid amendments thereof for a time greater than two (2) years. The provisions hereof shall be self-executing, subject only to the duty of the Legislature to pass all laws (consistent herewith) which may be necessary to carry out the intent and purpose hereof. Further, the Legislature shall prescribe a procedure for submitting to decision, by a majority vote of the electors voting thereon, proposed alternate and elective Charter provisions."

Section 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to the qualified electors of the State at an election to be held throughout the State on the fourth Saturday in August, 1933, at which election all ballots shall have printed thereon the following:

"For the Amendment to Article IX of the Constitution of Texas, adding Section 3, providing authority for the adoption of a Home Rule Charter by the voters in counties having a population of sixty-two thousand (62,000) or more, to effect more efficient and economical government within such counties, and to authorize mergers of separate governmental agencies within such counties as may from time to time be authorized by vote of the people therein."

"Against the Amendment to Article IX of the Constitution of Texas, adding Section 3, providing authority for the adoption of a Home Rule Charter by the voters in counties having a population of sixty-two thousand (62,000) or more, to effect more efficient and economical government within such counties, and to authorize mergers of separate governmental agencies within such counties as may from time to time be authorized by vote of the people therein."

"Each voter shall scratch out one of the above listed clauses on such ballot, leaving unscratched that particular clause which expresses his vote on the proposed Amendment to which it relates."

Section 3. The Governor of this State is hereby directed to issue the necessary proclamation ordering an election in conformity herewith to determine whether or not the proposed Constitutional Amendment set forth herein shall be adopted, and the Governor shall have the same published as required by the Constitution and laws of this State.

nursery rhymes can be easily portrayed. Little Miss Muffet would be so sweet eating her curds and whey perfectly unconscious of the huge spider dangling beside her. Red Riding Hood is also a favorite but the success of the float may depend upon a rehearsal on the part of wolf by the police dog who is to enact it, to be certain that he will stand still upon the float. There's Jack Horner and Tom, Tom the Piper's Son—There's Goldie Locks and Mary, quite contrary—and Jack in the box (one of the cleverest I have ever seen, by the way) in fact there is no end to the easy inexpensive floats you can arrange and we do hope that no little one will have to miss a chance at the prizes because you haven't time to plan and build a float.

Call upon any of the committee if you need help—that's what they are for.

It has been decided to let every mother entering a child in the parade choose her own attendant. Please choose a young girl or boy and if at all possible have them dressed in white so that they will not spoil the color effects of the floats.

Next week we will have all the arrangements complete and will be able to announce the different events through this paper.

passed by the house recently. The two are similar except for slightly different deposit insurance provisions.

While the legislation has not been made part of the Roosevelt program, its backers hope the president will see his way clear to sign it. An amendment providing for the insurance of deposits in all banks for one year, beginning July 1, after which time the Glass permanent insurance fund would begin to operate, was put into the bill at the request of Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.)

It also was approved without a roll call. It provides for the insurance of deposits up to $2,500 in federal reserve member banks and state banks certified by state authorities to be solvent.

Fund Would be Assessed

The participating banks would be assessed one-half of one per cent of their total deposits to set up the fund. They could be assessed an additional sum if necessary after January 1, 1934.

During the life of the fund, which the treasury would back with an appropriation of $10,000,000 no participant could pay more than 2 1-2 per cent on insured deposits.

The Glass insurance clause, to become operative July 1, 1934, creates a corporation with assets approaching $2,000,000,000 to guard deposits in reserve member banks and to speed up the liquidation of closed institutions.

First $10,000 Guaranteed

The first $10,000 of a deposit would be fully guaranteed; all from $10,000 to $50,000 would be insured up to 75 per cent, and all over $50,000 by 50 per cent.

The corporation would be capitalized by subscription of $150,000,000 from the treasury; half the reserves of federal reserve banks, and one-half of one per cent of the deposits in member banks.

Another major provision of the measure, and one which has been opposed by J. P. Morgan in the present banking committee investigation, provides that private banking houses shall not do both a deposit and investment security business, and that if they continue to accept deposits they shall subject themselves to federal examination.

Other major provisions would: Stop payment of interest on demand deposits;

Permit the reserve board to limit interest on time deposits; limit to 25 the number of directors a national bank might have;

Admit Morris plan and mutual savings banks to the reserve system. Prevent interlocking directorates between private and commercial banks.

The Real Reason Why-- CRYSTAL ICE --Is Better!

For years the ice industry has spent millions of dollars in an effort to make ice that would be absolutely free from all chemicals. An Ice that would be made from raw water alone . . . not distilled.

We truly believe that, in the most recent years, this has been accomplished. We truly believe that with the aid of our modern machinery, modern methods, capable engineers, we are making an ice that is unsurpassable in every detail.

No chemicals whatsoever are used . . . no distilling of the water . . . but just pure, tested, raw water frozen to a crystal. There's no chemical taste. We are convinced that its better for all refrigeration purposes, . . . because it's odorless . . . it's colorless . . . and it's tasteless.
