Dad's at the Switch

Just Watch! It Happens in Littlefield, Amherst, Sudan, Earth, Springlake— Anywhere You Look Anywhere

PAPA KNOWS BEST—And Junior must wait his turn to take the controls of that new electric train.

It's a safe bet that Pop is going to be the first one playing with that new electric train on Christmas morning. There's something about a train, say toy salesmen, that has an irresistible appeal for practically all males, especially grown-up ones. That's why so many fathers rush out to buy an elaborate electric train for Junior along with his first rattles. This year's trains hold more thrills than ever for railroad fans young and old, say salesmen of one of the big electric train companies. The toy trains are copied from blueprints of real ones, and will do just about everything a full-scale train will do. Latest models puff real smoke, have locomotive whistles and diesel sirens, couple and uncouple automatically. Among new gadgets to add to the system is an automatic gateman, to warn motorists of approaching trains, a new transformer that operates up to four train sets simultaneously on different tracks, derricks, milk cars and even a new station that announces trains. So it looks like a merry Christmas for all living room engineers, both young and old.

Death Penalty Given Foundry Worker In Josh Blocher Murder Case Thursday

Lester Douglas Stevens, 50, Amarillo foundry worker, was given the death penalty, after 20 minutes deliberation by the 64th District jury, at Muleshoe at 7 p.m. Thursday night. He was charged in the August 15 murder of recluse, Joshua Blocher, founder of Progress. Thomas Livesay, 29, who is also accused of the robbery-slitting which netted him and Stevens only 13 cents, will be tried at a later date, on a severance grant by Judge E. A. Bills. He is recovering from an appendectomy at Green Hospital in Muleshoe. Stevens was lodged in Lubbock county jail late Thursday night. Trial testimony was ended at 11:55 a.m. Thursday, after the state had called several members of the grand jury that indicted the defendant, had recalled two witnesses, and the defense had called four reputation witnesses. No indication of appeal or of time of execution was given.

Texas Asked To Increase Sorghum Record Next Year

Lamb county, leading grain sorghum producing county of the nation, for more than one of the past several years, has been asked to increase its grain sorghums production, to an even higher point, as has every sorghum producing county, in several southern states. Texas has been called upon to increase its record-breaking 1950 crop. The Department of Agriculture set the Texas goal at 118,838,900 bushels, out of a national goal of 200,000,000 bushels. Texas has always been a leading producer, normally turning out about 60 per cent of the nation's crop. Last year, production in this state was 148,818,000 bushels but the indicated outturn for 1951, most of which has now been harvested, is 89,794,000 bushels. In 1950, the heavy production was attributed in part to a cotton allocation program which cut cotton acreage sharply and made available to sorghums a good deal of land normally planted to cotton. This year, the cotton goal was big, too, and not so much sorghums were planted. The national crop this year is indicated at 165,805,000 bushels. Kansas and Oklahoma are looked to for the biggest part of the remainder of the 1952 production. The Kansas 1952 goal is established at 39,250,000 bushels. Oklahoma would have a goal of 17,673,000 bushels. Other states, 1952 goals and 1951 indicated production include: New Mexico, 7,568,000 and 3,714,000; Colorado, 4,087,000 and 3,714,000. ## TATTOO TABOO?

What's happened between the soldier and one of the trademarks, the tattoo? Bert Grimm has been a tattoo artist for 27 years and he says he's never seen the like. "I haven't done a real big, classy job on a man since the Korean war started. It's not like it used to be. Service men not only get fewer tattoos, he says, but they do get are just little jobs. Military flags, always a popular design in the old days and in way off. And seldom does Grimm get a call from a man for a blood-dripping dagger. The unclad lass is in an army, too. As for chest-size etchings of bluebirds in full flight, they just seem to have fluttered away. Like the service man today is just too serious-minded to get tattoos," Grimm reports. "Used to be when a soldier had a tattoo he really wanted a tattoo. Now? Mostly serial blood types. Maybe a little-bitty popper or some other whole attitude seems changed." The years, Grimm has inscribed quite a bit of military tattoos. And he has 310 tattoos himself, but he can speak on the subject. His conclusion: A soldier is far less likely to return home sporting a tattoo of Shanghai Lil on his chest than the warriors of the past.

Ignorance of the Law No Excuse

Pay attention to your driving if you don't want to be "one in a million."

As the nation neared the millionth traffic fatality, now due mathematically in the third week in December, the National Safety Council said the vigilance and attention of drivers is the best hope of postponing it.

"Behind nearly every cause listed in the usual accident report—speed too fast for conditions, ran off roadway, ignored traffic signal, or what have you—there is inattention," said Ned H. Dearborn, Council president. "If the motorist had been paying attention to the very serious business of driving in modern traffic, chances are he wouldn't have gotten into an accident situation."

The Council said attention is the basic ingredient of "defensive driving"—a safety creed the Council has promoted successfully among truck, bus and other professional drivers.

Here is how the Council says defensive driving can keep you from being "one in a million":

1. Ignorance of the law is no excuse. Know and obey all laws, signs and signals.
2. Know the condition of your vehicle. Regularly check lights, brakes, horn, windshield wipers, rear view mirrors, tires and steering.
3. Never be distracted from the job of driving by scenery, billboards, people on sidewalks, daydreaming, conversation or lighting a smoke.
4. Give pedestrians the right of way, and be cautious when passing safety zones, school zones, playgrounds, residential areas where children are playing, and parked cars.

5. Enter traffic cautiously from parking spaces, alleys, driveways or side roads.

6. Even though you have the legal right-of-way, always yield if there is any question about the other driver's intentions.

7. Always regulate your speed to the condition of your car, the road, traffic and weather conditions.

8. Keep plenty of distance between you and the car ahead—at least one car length for every 10 miles of speed. The driver ahead may have to veer or stop suddenly.

9. Think ahead for turns. Get in the proper lane at least 150 feet ahead, signal your intent and slow down gradually.

10. In passing, make sure the driver ahead knows your intention, ease out gradually until you are sure there is enough clear distance ahead and don't cut back until you can see the passed car in your rear view mirror.

11. Weaving from one lane to the other on multiple lane roads is dangerous. Stay in one lane as much as possible, signal any changes and use the rear view mirror to keep an eye on following traffic.

12. At rail crossings, never depend entirely on watchmen, gates or automatic signaling devices. Use your eyes and ears, too.

13. Reduce speed at night so that you can stop within the range of your headlights. Use the lower beam when approaching other vehicles.

14. Don't drive if you have had anything to drink, or if you are sleepy or ill.

Your Most Valued Assets... Your Eyes

One of your most valued assets is good eyes. Many people thoughtlessly abuse the eyes and think little about it until trouble comes, declares Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

What can you do to protect your eyes? Avoid unnecessary strain by reading in good position and with sufficient light. If your eyes bother you, have them examined by a physician trained especially in diseases of the eye.

Eye strain begins when you need to use too much effort to focus clearly. If you have normal eyes, you do not need to use the focusing muscles to see clearly at a distance; and when you look at something close, like reading matter, you need to focus only a little. If you are farsighted, your eyes have to focus even when you look far away; and when you read, you have to focus a lot more than a person with normal eyes.

Children have strong focusing muscles, and their eyes do not tire easily or usually need glasses unless they have a large amount of far-sightedness. Then they need glasses to do the focusing and give their eyes a rest. Older people have weaker focusing muscles and usually need glasses for reading when they are about 45 years old. For other specific eye difficulties glasses may be needed.

Dog Eats Cigarette Butts Warm

AP Newsfeatures
INDIANAPOLIS—Lady, a khaki colored dog with an unusual appetite, serves as a walking ashtray in the Robert M. Conlon household. Lady eats cigarette butts—warm ones, that is. She loves them and begs for them. And eating them apparently doesn't harm her. She doesn't like cold ones or stale ones. Those that have cooled overnight hold no attraction. But fresh ones, even with a bit of fire in them, are delicious to Lady. The veterinarian who treats Lady says she has a perverted appetite but the tobacco habit doesn't seem to harm her. In fact, he says, as long as she eats fags she won't be bothered by worms. He says her case is "unusual." Lady is five years old, part Boxer and part Great Dane. Mrs. Rosalie Conlon says Lady's habit is a bit embarrassing at times because when guests smoke cigarettes Lady can hardly wait until the cigarettes are discarded, and if a guest should hold the cigarette within reach, Lady will snap at it.

His Fifteenth Cadillac!

Put a man behind the wheel of a Cadillac—and he's very likely to stay behind the wheel of a Cadillac!

Many and many a man is driving his fifteenth Cadillac—and it is not unusual to encounter an owner who goes far beyond that figure.

Naturally, a car must offer many things in order to have such an enduring hold on the affections of those who own and drive it.

It must be as faithful and dependable as a mechanical creation of its type can be.

It must be so pleasant to drive and so easy to handle that the hours at its wheel bring rest and relaxation.

It must be so beautiful and so highly respected that it is a compliment to its owner wherever

And it must be economical, both to operate and maintain—for luxury brings a dual pleasure comes with no extra penalty in cost.

In short, if a car is to have such a hold on the regard of its owners, it must be a Cadillac.

If you have already ordered this distinguished car, and are awaiting its delivery, hold firm to your purpose—for each day brings you closer to your heart's desire.

But if we don't yet have your order, be in and see us today. The sooner you place your order, the sooner you'll have those many things which only a Cadillac provides.

AUTHOR Of the Week By W. G. ROGERS

Gordon A. Harrison kills two birds with one stone in his story of the Allies' invasion of Europe, "Cross-Channel Attack." It is the seventh volume in the Army's ambitious publication program, and it served the author as the thesis for his Ph.D. at Harvard. A native of New York, and a newspaperman before the war, Harrison was an enlisted man and officer in World War II, and later taught English at Harvard. He got his B.A. from Columbia in 1935, his M.A. from Oxford in 1937, and his Ph.D. last year. He is married, lives now in Alexandria, Va., and is at work on another Army history book, this one about the Siegfried line.

The Florida Gators used a total of 68 players in their first seven football games this season.

New Marines' Boss Is Hero Of The Corps

By ROY ESSOYAN

PEARL HARBOR—Lt. Gen. Le-muel C. Shepherd, Jr., will have to give up his surfing and spear-fishing when he takes over as commandant of the Marine Corps Jan. 1, but he won't stop fighting.

Shepherd's fighting career started when he landed in France as a young second lieutenant in the summer of 1917. He has been part of the modern Marine legend ever since—Chateau Thierry, St. Mihiel, Guadalcanal, Guam, Okinawa, Inchon, Chosin reservoir.

Shepherd led the Marines who captured Guam and later commanded the Sixth Marine division on Okinawa. An Army officer who served with them said, "The Sixth was the most professional outfit I ever saw. All they wanted was to attack."

Shepherd turned up at Koto-Ri when the first Marine division was pulling back from the "frozen hell" of Chosin reservoir last year. The word got around: "We're O.K. now. Shepherd's here."

He's Stretching Leathernecks
In between battles Shepherd has kept busy fighting for the Marine Corps. One of his first remarks after he was named their top boss on Nov. 6 was that he would keep fighting to have a Marine added to the joint chiefs of staff.

In his 17 months as commander of the Pacific Fleet Marine Force, Shepherd has earned a few superlatives. He is probably the most travelled high-ranking officer in any of the services—nine trips to Korea, 900 hours in the air, 165,000 miles behind him since July 2, 1950.

Shepherd at 55 has flown in everything from a jet fighter to a four-engined transport. That includes helicopters. His appearances at the front have become a commonplace. Visits with wounded Marines at Tripler Army Hospital are part of the dilly routine at his Pearl Harbor headquarters.

Everybody Likes Him
The general is friendly and informal. He is soft spoken, hard-working and universally liked.

Shepherd is an Episcopalian and hasn't missed a service since he's been here. His friends say he is devoted to his wife and family, two sons and a daughter, all married.

His tastes are simple—from vanilla ice cream to baseball. He was a polo player in his youth but sold his horses when he left Quantico for Pearl Harbor last year.

About the only things Shepherd hasn't quite mastered yet are surfing, and driving a car. Surfing, as the Hawaiians will tell you, requires years of concentrated experience and, preferably, a Polynesian ancestor. Shepherd can concentrate all right, but behind the wheel of a car, he apparently concentrates on other things.

Man Bites Octopus!
Shepherd however is an old hand at the Polynesian art of spear fishing underwater. During a practice landing in the Pacific War the Seals were temporarily stumped by the appearance of an ugly, giant octopus. Shepherd walked over, picked up the octopus and bit it between the eyes. That was the end of the octopus.

Shepherd joined the Marines right after his days at the Virginia Military Institute. He was in the Fifth Marine regiment in France in 1918, and was twice wounded at Belleau Wood and once again soon after. In World War II he was assistant commander of the First Marine division in the New Britain campaign.

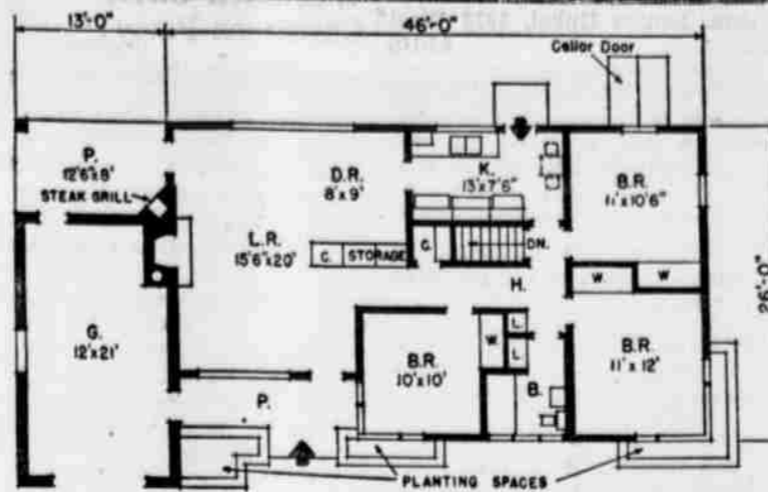

Shepherd was born in Norfolk, Va. His father was a doctor.

LATE BLOSSOMS
HALIFAX, N.S. g—Flowers blossomed in many parts of Nova Scotia in November. Gratton residents picked pansies and buttercups, and others found daisies in bloom.

DRESSING BETTER
SINGAPORE (AP)—Dry cleaning business is booming in Singapore. The explanation is an increased number of persons wearing palm beach, light tweeds, linens and shark-skin suits.

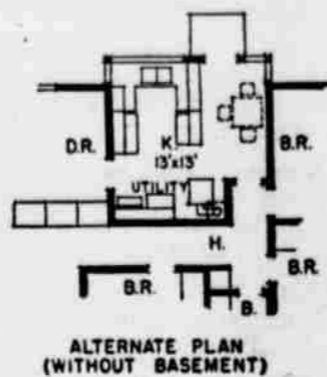

Before the war everyone wore white drill or khaki.

Picture of a man making a smart decision

HERE is a man who's been doing a lot of thinking.

Someday, he's told himself, I'm going to turn in my old car and get a new one.

And he said, still talking to himself, when I do that I'm going to size up the field—give 'em all a real going over.

You see him here at the wheel of a Buick. He hasn't bought it—yet. It's a demonstrator, and he's trying it out.

But the more he tries it, the more he knows he's been wasting a lot of time.

From the moment he looked inside, he said: Here's the room—and the comfort—and the style I've been looking for.

Then he nudged its Fireball Engine into action. It's a high-compression valve-in-head, as you probably know.

He eased out into traffic. Stopped and started for a couple of traffic lights, and said something to the effect that this Dynaflo Drive* is a honey. Why don't they all build 'em this way?

He saw a bump ahead. Place where the pavement had been torn up. Other cars were braking down to a creep to cross it. He held back—rolled right across at regular speed with barely a bobble.

It's hard to believe, he said, but what they say about Buick's ride is right.

Ten minutes later he was out on an open stretch of road. Tried an experimental push on the gas treadle. Boy—what a take-off! You couldn't want more power than that.

Ten minutes more—and he knew something else. You don't really steer a Buick. It just about steers itself. Stays right on the beam on the straightaway. Even straightens itself out after a curve.

To make a long story short—he's found out that nothing else he's tried out can hold a candle—not even a little Christmas candle—to this bonnie beauty.

Back at the Buick showroom, he's going to get one more surprise. The price of a Buick is a lot less than he'd guessed it would be.

Moral: Smart Buy's Buick—right now.

OPS Ceiling Price Set On New and Used Farm Equipment and Repairs

The Office of Price Stabilization has issued a tailored ceiling price regulation covering retail sales of new and used farm equipment and repair parts, the Lubbock district office said.

Price Executive Ted Gehring said copies of the new regulation, CPR 100, are expected soon, although distribution to the retailers will be made from the Dallas regional office.

Previously, retailers of farm equipment and repair parts were covered by CPR 67.

The new regulation, effective Dec. 10, 1951, used the basic price technique of CPR 67, but is designed to meet the peculiar and specific pricing problems of retail sellers of farm equipment.

It is not expected that the new regulation will materially affect the general level of retail prices prevailing before its issuance, OPS officials said, since it is based generally on the historical pricing practices prevailing in the industry.

In general, ceiling prices are established on the basis of manufacturers' current published list prices, f. o. b. factory, plus a handling and service charge of 5 per cent of the list price, and a charge for inbound transportation.

In the case of new farm equipment repair parts, ceilings are established as the manufacturers' list prices, f. o. b. factory, plus either the manufacturer's or wholesale distributor's handling charge and actual transportation cost paid by the seller; or a percentage of the list price equal to the average percentage used by the farm equipment dealer during the period April 1 through June 24, 1950.

If a dealer does not use the price list method of pricing, he may de-

PLAYING SANTA TEACHES JUNIOR HOW TO GIVE

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Children, as well as parents, relatives and friends, are all Santas when they give gifts at Yuletide. According to Prof. Emma D. Sheehy, specialist in psychology and early education at Columbia Teachers College, playing at being Santa is a very real thing for a child—as real as when he believes himself to be Hopalong Cassidy while playing cowboy. "A child's imagination is a precious thing and should be cherished and nurtured. Parents should try to make junior see that there is a little of Santa in each of us and act accordingly."

Unfortunately, says Prof. Sheehy, the child is more often on the receiving rather than on the giving end. Too often parents fail to teach him how to give so that he can experience that inner satisfaction one gets from giving. What the child gives at Christmas, or any other time of the year, says Prof. Sheehy, need not be something valuable in terms of money. "I remember," she says, "when, during the last war, there was a scarcity of safety pins. My little daughter managed to get one and presented it to me Christmas morning all wrapped up in layer after layer of paper, and yards of ribbon. It was something she thought I needed and had gone to great lengths to get me one. It was more precious to me than any object she could have purchased in a store."

One thing to remember, says the professor, is that a child has a very short span of waiting. He can't be expected to buy a gift and hold off presenting it very long. Therefore parents should try to hold off junior's gifts until shortly before Christmas. Otherwise he will lose the "kick" or satisfaction he enjoys in the giving.

When taking junior to buy his gifts, try the neighborhood stores first, warns Prof. Sheehy. Avoid the large downtown stores as much as possible. All too often such shopping tours leave mother, as well as junior, nervous and tense.

Junior may not always like the gifts he receives, says Prof. Sheehy, and it is up to the parents to prepare the givers for such a reaction. Oftentimes he is too young to appreciate a gift some adult gives him because it was one the donor had never received as a child and which he felt should be given to junior. In this case, the donor should realize that the satisfaction he derives from purchasing and presenting the gift may not always be shared by junior. It is up to the parent to set such gifts aside for future enjoyment and development.

Above all, concludes Prof. Sheehy, do not deny junior the opportunity of carrying out gift-giving in his own way. If he is not willing to present the gift, don't push him to do so. In time, as he observes the customs practiced by the family, he will come to do willingly the things approved by the whole group.

The Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, endowed by steel man Andrew Carnegie to work for the abolition of war, is constructing a 12-story building a short distance north of U.N.'s headquarters in midtown Manhattan. The new building, due for completion by the end of 1952, will follow lines similar to U.N.'s skyscraper. Its First Avenue facade will be glass, banded by metal mullions, and its sides limestone. Within will be conference rooms, lounges, offices and a large meeting hall for public gatherings. Besides the Carnegie Endowment, the new building is expected to house governmental, non-profit and doing international work.

"The Carnegie Endowment some time ago to be part of its activities in the United Nations in the manner," says the president, Dr. Joseph P. Kamp. "We study and analyze activities, publish studies completed and work to public to an understanding of U.N. is doing."

Information For Veterans

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Q—I'd like to get a GI business loan to set my brother up in the shoe repair business. He's not a veteran, but I served in World War II. Is it possible to obtain a loan for this purpose?
A—No. Under the law, you must devote your personal labor or supervision to the business enterprise. For a business in which you will not participate.
Q—I was hurt in a railroad accident recently, as I was on my way, under orders, to report for induction into the armed forces. Being permanently disabled, I was not accepted for duty. Am I eligible for GI insurance that's available for GI disabled Korean veterans — even though I've never been in uniform?
A—Yes. You may be eligible for GI insurance, but you must apply for it within one year from the date you suffered your disability. Get in touch with your nearest VA office as soon as possible, in order to get full details and take the necessary steps.
Q—I'm in active service, and the VA has taken over payments of my $10,000 commercial life insurance policy under the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act. How long after my discharge will VA continue to make those payments?
A—VA will make your payments up to two years after your service has ended. But remember, you'll have to repay VA for all the money it paid out in your behalf.

Personnel Survey For Reservists Is Declared Outstanding Success

First week of the Air Force Personnel Survey at Lubbock for reservists was declared this week a great success what with 135 men appearing before the interviewing board at headquarters in Lubbock, 710 N. College.

So great a success was the first week's results, that nine more counties have been added to the "Project Lubbock," according to Lt. Col. Harlan Hodges, commanding the 9172nd VART Group here and project officer. This makes 18 counties, comprising a group of 768 Reservists expected to complete the survey.

"The survey is to determine new skills, help the individual with his records, his new capacities, his employer and all in all, give to the Air Force some workable knowledge of Reservists in this area," Colonel Hodges said.

"In no way is this survey set up to recall men into the Air Force," he said. Interviews are taking about one hour on the average. It is being conducted here by volunteers of the Lubbock VART unit with the help of a few military men from the 14th Air Force, Robins Field, Ga. Lubbock is the first city to be selected in the United States for the project, an experiment which has called for "all eyes" on the area.

Reservists are urged to contact AF Personnel Survey, 710 North College, Naval Reserve Training Center, attn: Capt. J. H. Ackley, liaison officer, for information. The counties included in the survey are: Bailey, Borden, Cochran, Crosby, Dawson, Dickens, Floyd, Gansley, Garza, Hale, Hockley, Kent, Lamb, Lubbock, Lynn, Motley, Terry, Yoakum.

Baylor beat Texas, 28-10, in the first football game played in the Longhorns' Memorial Stadium back in 1924. But since that day the Bears have won only four of 14 games there.

Happy's signs say "PRIVATE PROPERTY, GOOD HUNTING, BUT BE CAREFUL."

"Don't hunt myself," Happy says, "but there's plenty of game on my property. I tell the hunters where the best spots are—away from where I'm working and where nobody else is hunting. It works out pretty well all-around."

From where I sit, Happy has once again shown why he gets along with everyone and why everyone respects him. ## TEEN TALK

By VIVIAN BROWN

AP Newsfeatures
If teachers would like to have one subject upon which students would concentrate their best efforts, it probably would be a course on boy-girl relationship. So popular has this topic become that the federal bulletin "Home-making and Family Living" offers many suggestions in respect to conducting such a course. While it is reasonable to assume that some students might have a better understanding of boy-girl relationships than teacher, nevertheless much can be learned by the exchange of ideas between teacher and class. The booklet emphasizes the dating problem, saying that one teenager "... is faced by the dismaying lack of dates. Another runs into difficulties with parents. It may be group dating, double dating, single dating, going steady, courting, a blind date, a pick-up or a Dutch treat. . . ."

While it emphasizes that "there is usually no set of rules on getting along with others" the purpose of a course of this kind, according to them, is to help young people to understand themselves. Some good suggestions for class discussions are:
Should boys and girls be allowed to choose their own friends?
Why are some students popular while others are either unpopular or ignored?
Why is it that some girls are popular with boys and not with girls?
How to make friends with the opposite sex.
How to be happy when alone.
When you see a boy you like, how do you get him to notice you?
Should a boy meet a girl's parents on the first date?
What is the responsibility of an escort on a date?
Should a younger brother or sister be permitted to go every place we go?

on boy-girl relationship. So popular has this topic become that the federal bulletin "Home-making and Family Living" offers many suggestions in respect to conducting such a course. While it is reasonable to assume that some students might have a better understanding of boy-girl relationships than teacher, nevertheless much can be learned by the exchange of ideas between teacher and class. The booklet emphasizes the dating problem, saying that one teenager "... is faced by the dismaying lack of dates. Another runs into difficulties with parents. It may be group dating, double dating, single dating, going steady, courting, a blind date, a pick-up or a Dutch treat. . . ."

Volunteer workers manned trucks and hauled more than 500 loads of trash to be destroyed in ditches dug by bulldozers. teachers are:
Have students write autobiographical sketches showing how and why certain friendships have influenced their lives.
Have students watch for, attend, and discuss commercial movies which highlight relationship situations of interest to them.
Whenever personal problems are involved in classroom discussion, young people should be wary of abusing their own dignity. While it is fine to discuss certain aspects of boy-girl relationships, you should not give the impression that you are totally inadequate in coping with other human beings.
Also the "confession" type of discussion is silly since there is nothing to be gained. For example—you might bring yourself to tell others that your family does not understand you or that you can't convince Mom or Dad that you are entitled to late hours—those little gripes are human. But further discussion of family differences or opinions is not necessary, and there would be no point in imparting to others personal family gossip. Panel discussions on date behavior, movies, manners and etiquette are suggested in the booklet. One way teachers can be helpful is in helping pupils write invitations, greetings, refusals, acceptances and thank-you notes, evaluating them for appropriateness, style and graciousness. The importance of these discussions should be to help you in arriving at decisions in respect to your own problems, and in evaluating things in the light of your own experiences. Whatever happens don't accept ideas which seem off the beam even though the majority is in favor. Merely use opinions of others to arrive at a definite conclusion in respect to your own ideas.

Food to go into the baskets will include meat, fruit, candy, nuts, corn, string beans, potatoes, coffee, chocolate, celery, cranberry sauce, flour, salt, sugar, lard and baking powder.

Not all baskets will be of equal size and equal portions. Large families will receive heavier laden baskets. Some stores are reported as having proffered to furnish basket ingredients at a discount.

Lieutenant Bob Hall and his wife, who is his assistant are also readying plans for the annual Christmas tree and Christmas party to be held at the Salvation Army again this year.

The Christmas tree and gift giving for the children, with Santa Claus on hand will be held on Christmas eve, at 7:30. The Christmas program will be held on Sunday night at 7:30, in the form of a religious pageant, "The Holy Night," with a cast of 29 adults and children, portraying the various parts.

You Can't Give Your Children The Moon But You Can Let Them See Santa Claus And His Four Prancing Reindeer In Littlefield, December 12

The old saying about giving your child the moon has almost been reached by a man who furnished his children real live reindeer along with Santa Claus four years ago. And he has been furnishing them for other children each year since.

Boys and girls, and adults, too, will get to see the Arctic reindeer here on the afternoon of Dec. 12 at 3:30, when Grady Carothers, Goldthwaite, Texas, ranchman, bring them to the city for a Christmas parade.

Real Reindeer Coming Here

Dancer, Francer, Donder and Blitzen are all primed for the trip here, their owner declared. They'll prance down the street and pop their ankles in tune with the sleigh bells and Santa Claus will be waving to all his friends as they pull the sleigh. In fact, Santa will be busy for he will be driving the reindeer as they make their way down the street that afternoon.

Meanwhile, Comet, Cupid, Vixen, and Dasher will be in another city in another parade. Rudolph, the Red-Nose Reindeer, who bears the title of "George" will lead the parade. The name of "George" was given him by the Eskimos. In fact, all of Santa's reindeer bear a pet name their Bering Sea friends have given them.

Some 6,000 miles separate the Texas reindeer from their native homeland, but they thrive at the Carother's ranch in Central Texas. The only concession their owner makes for them is to provide a large fan in their corral. It is used only on the warmest days when no breeze is stirring.

See Parade, Santa Urges

Santa Claus has especially invited all his young friends in this section to be present for the parade. Mothers and fathers likewise have the same invitation. "I want to see everyone possible on my trip to your city," Santa says.

The local sponsor, Littlefield Chamber of Commerce, assures the people that all arrangements have been made to provide the greatest event ever to come to this city. There's never been anything like it.

"No boy or girl, or adult for that matter, can afford to pass up this opportunity of seeing Santa Claus driving his live reindeer down our city's streets," the sponsor said.

Talk To Santa

To top it all off, Santa Claus promises to take time to listen to Christmas requests and wants to see every boy and girl for miles around and talk to them about Christmas.

Except for practice sessions, the reindeer have been resting all summer. They are ready to get into their shiny new harness and pull Santa's sleigh down the street. At least that's what Dancer was overheard to tell Comet a few days ago. No matter how cold the weather the parade will be held on time. In fact, the colder the weather and the more snow is flying pleases Santa and his reindeer. It reminds them the more of the deep snow and raging blizzards in Alaska, their homeland.

Watch For Santa

Just how the parade will form and where Santa and his reindeer will emerge before they begin their long procession remains a dark secret. Their plans are well mapped out, but the Jolly little Elf likes secrets.

As the moments wear away patience grows thin and suspense grows on the crowd. Suddenly,

Santa in his sleigh, the bells jingling out "Merry Christmas" will materialize from out of nowhere, and the reindeer will be pulling the sleigh as they prance and shake their huge antlers.

That's Christmas spirit. You can see it in this city when the afternoon of Dec. 12 rolls around.

Alabama's varsity football team is largely a home grown squad with 31 members of the Crimson Tide hailing from the Cotton State.

The Duke basketball team will play 16 Southern Conference foes and will be at home for 13 of the 24 games scheduled for regular season play.
