Traffic Info Reveals All

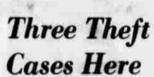

One sure way to find out "little things" about a mayor is for said mayor to be involved in a traffic mishap.

Like, for instance, Mayor J. E. Chisholm Jr., at 7:11 a.m.,

It seems the mayor was driving a 1963 Ford sedan which was in collision with a 1956 Buick, driven by Floyd Johnson of 110 Dallas St., at the corner of W. 8th and XIT Drive.

But the important information gleaned from police records is what the "J. E." means and the

Bookmobile Board Accepts 1968 Budget

In session Monday afternoon, the Multi-County Board of Directors of High Plains Bookmobile accepted the proposed bud-get expenditure for 1968, totaling $13,649. They then recommended each county concerned pass a resolution to accept its portion of the expenditure, which, in total, is identical with the 1967 expenditure.

A breakdown of the total figure lists librarian's salary at $5,000; driver-clerk, $3,600; extra help, $440, making total salaries $9,040; hospital insurance and Social Security, $566; vehicle operation, $960; and other operational expenses including supplies, new books, book replacements, etc., $3,-083; making a grand total ex-penditure of $13,649.

Total expenditures will be divided among the four participat-COUNTY ENTRANT, ing counties in ratio to popula-Lyna Pitts, daughter of tion as shown in the latest issue and Mrs. Kirk Pitts of Plea-Valley, was one of four win-at the District 24-H "Cotof Texas Almanac. Based on this population ratio, expenditure amounts allocated per county would be: Bailey County, $2,620; Cochran County, $1,652; Lamb County, $6,391; and Parmer County, Judge O. J. Mangum commented the usage of these books reflects the percentage of these appropriations. As an example, he said 52,290 books have been checked out in Lamb County in the Bookmobile's 13 quarters of operation. During the 13th quarter, April, May and June, 1967, Lamb County checked out 3,922 books.

He said the Bookmobile is without doubt accomplishing its purpose. For instance, in Littlefield, which has a public lib-rary, only 253 books were checked out in the 13th quarter, while Olton, which has no public library, but of smaller population, checked out 944 books. At Spade 779 books were used.

He expressed that these figures show the Bookmobile is of service where it is needed.

Industry Gained, Acreage Improved

An audit completed by Alvin City $10,499,95 on its note for Webb, Littlefield CPA, reveals installation of water lines. Littlefield Industrial Corporation is a carefully managed "going concern" which has maintained a secure position or industrial prospects for Littlefield.

Although not intended as a profit-making organization, through wise management of funds a net income -- or surplus balance -- of $5,250.24 is shown as of June 30, 1967. Gross income has been $12,763.75 and expense, $7,513.

Part of this "income" was accumulated by placing the corporation's funds on time certificate of deposit, earning in excess of $8,000 interest, until ready for investment.

Keeton Industries, recently acquired for Littlefield through efforts of the corporation, purchased 10 acres of land from the corporation at its cost price per acre.

Hall, secretary-Mancil treasurer of the corporation, said Keeton's obligations are fulfilled to date and, "We are ahead in our payments to Small Business Administration." The SBA provided the major loan involved in securing Keeton Industries here.

Keeton's purchase of 10 acres leaves a balance of 23 acres in the corporation's purchased land and these 23 acres are developed with utilities which reflect in the audit.

In other words, as Hall explained, "We have 23 acres left, developed with utilities, as well as a lease purchase contract with Keeton which will pay 5 1/2 per cent on our investment -- in addition to securing a new business for Littlefield."

After the audit was completed, (Webb's letter is dated July 25, 1967) the corporation paid the Hall said the Industrial Corporation's board, with E. J. Wicker as president and Kenneth Reast, vice-president, has manof readiness for good business aged the corporation "perhaps more carefully than we would have our own businesses."

Careful screening has been used regarding many applications received. Hall explained the corporation "has regretfully had to turn down" several industries where either management or financial structure did not comply with the corporation's requirements.

He further explained the corporation must avoid being placed in a weak condition by accepting "just anything," and must remain in position to handle "good things" that come along. The auditor's balance sheet (keeping in mind $10,499,95 now has been whittled from the note to the City of $25,499.95) reads as follows:

ASSETS: Cash in Bank -- $19,223,36; Note Receivable -- Keeton, $297.600.26; Land, $42,558.79; Prepaid Franchise Tax, $126. 50; Total Assets, $359.508.91. LIABILITIES AND NET WORTH:

Rev. Wallace D. Eason, pas-tor of the youngest church in town, Bible Missionary Church, located at W. 6th and Sunset, has served the church two years and one month, nearly the entire life of the church. The church was organized in May prior to his arrival in June. He says he enjoys working with people and especially enjoys hospital visitation. Rev. Eason felt led to the ministry as a high school sophomore and when he graduated from high school at Bonner's Ferry, Idaho, he entered Bible Missionary Institute in Rock Island, Ill. He studied there three years and received his Theological Certificate. During his second year at the Institute, he and his wife, Mae, were married. She also was attending the Institute.

After receiving his certifi-cate, he pastored a church in Dodge City, Kans, for two years, followed by a pastorate in Millersburg, Ky. From there, he went to Indianapolis, Ind., as assistant pastor of Trinity Bible Missionary Church and came to Littlefield in June, 1965, During the same month after Interwoven with these characteristics, giving them strength, flexibility and enduring impact, are acute awareness and concern for the creativity within the mind of a viewer.

And these qualities have produced a distinctive technique. In keeping with the tradition that watercolors are regarded as the poetry of painting, poetic delicacy is highly predominant in Mrs. Hewitt's work. Yet, paradoxically, she produces this effect with a definite boldness both in technique and color interpretation. When one views a finished work of Naomi Hewitt's, the portrayed object is clear and true -- but it is achieved through the fewest possible strokes and in borderline tones of color. Why? In order for the crea-

To Naomi Hewitt, creativity an intangible entity that should not find both its beginning and ending in strokes on paper or canvas but should be treated as a seed planted in the minds of viewers -- to grow into rich and varied fulfillment according to imaginative qualities of each mind.

In other words, Naom! Hewitt's paintings find their mainspring in a warmly human desire for creative self expression and in recognition of the universality of this need. Instinctively, perhaps subconsci-ously, she also provides such an outlet for others who may

As she expresses her beliefs, "A painter should subordinate reality and express design, concerning himself with his immediate work. As mentioned earlier, Naomi Hewitt has many interests, and one of the most outstanding of her projects is sponsoring annually an art contest in high school and junior high. She presents cash prizes and arranges for all entries to be exhibited one month.

The Swingers

By Amy Turner

TO SWING is the thing, man, but don't be surprised if the dullards begin demanding equal time.

mean this thing has passed one-sided and is beginning to get a little ridiculous. Take a look at your average TV commercial; Beautiful girls dart across the screen, wearing long hair and bikinis. Handsome young men smile at them. The men wear muscles. The music has a throbbing beat and everyone is with it.

There is adventure, suspense, shadows ... in short, this is an orgy, dear, right here in your own living room.

But what are these people having such a ball consuming? Would you believe Coke, ginger ale? Really, somebody must have flipped his beanie.

How many swingers do you know who get their kicks drinking ginger ale

BUT THERE you are. How many mousey stenographers do you know who bought Thunderbirds and suddenly had 56 beautiful bachelors panting at their hubcaps?

How many lives-of-the-parties do you know who wouldn't even have been invited if someone hadn't told them YOU HAVE

I could cite a hundred more examples but I'm sure you get the idea; If you want to be in, if you want to swing with the Sinatra-types, if you want to got to heaven on a surfboard, you must buy (write in most anything, from breaklast

The Madison Ave. boys who write the ads are convinced that Plain Joe Public yearns to join the Jet Set. So every sales pitch is made with a jazzy twist. It's the night people, the you're-only-young-once bunch who are portrayed in ecstasy, conquering the social world and attaining everlasting happiness, and all because they use a certain product.

THIS IS obviously unfair to the dullards who haven't swung since grandpa's gate busted. They buy products, too, and they have a right to have their story told on TV. Actually, the people who drink Cokes for kicks can be found at church suppers, or in libraries, or at the PTA. But who wants to be identified with these drags? The only their equal time. The FCC says stations that carry cigaret advertising must now provide a "Significant amount" of free time to spot announcements warning of the hazards of smoking.

Which brings us to the hazards of swinging: Hangovers, missed work, angry wives and husbands, grass stains, rash promises, sûnburn and scarlet letters, to name only a few.

The public should be warned what evil lurks beneath the gaudy tinsel and raunchy music of the hep commercial. A person could get burned at one of those swinging weiner roasts on the beach.

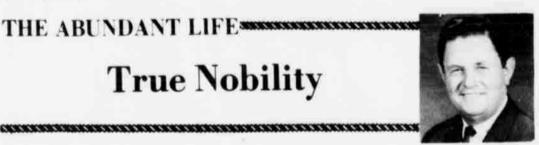

THE PUBLIC also should be shown the happiness and good health, not to mention safety, which can be the reward of the square who goes to bed early, gets the first worm, counts his change, sings in church, wears rimless glasses and REALLY gets his kicks from a good cup of coffee or straight Coke.

Let it be known that some of my best friends are swingers but fair is fair and the non-swingers are getting a bum deal

Besides, at my age, it's just too darn exhausting to try to keep up with all that

True Nobility

THE BROAD CONCEPT of nobility is one of the best ways we know to present the great potentialities of mankind, as well as one of the best ways to describe the full value of Divinely approved human character-

Nobility, in the true sense, is not an accident of birth; but is acquired in much the same way character is acquired. In fact, it includes good character.

This nobility is not a position of special privilege or power, but refers to a way of life that depends upon the quality of one's

W. H. Dollinger said, "No man can ever be noble who thinks meanly or contemptuously of himself, and no man can ever be noble who thinks first and only of him-

Regardless of our financial, social, educational or family status, we can control and use and direct our lives so that we can belong to the true nobility.

NOBILITY is not the birthright of just a select few, but true nobility is attained by wise choices and right actions. It is, from this standpoint, available to all people. Of course, there is a sense in which all humankind is of noble birth. This is true on the basis that all persons are made in the likeness of their Creator, and endowed with great possibilities for ennobling experiences and accomplishments. Of course, there are many people who do not accept this view as being true.

Their rejection, however, does not make it any less true.

IN THE FIRST PLACE, man's rightful position in the Divine order is an exalted one. Even though there are many ways in which men degrade themselves and each other, mankind is born to be noble. The inherent dignity and worth of the individual is briefly, but fully stated in the following, "You (God) have made him (man) a little lower than the angels, you have crowned him with glory and honor."

True nobility, then, has nothing to do with one's rank or position in relationship to that of his fellowmen.

It refers to man's real worth and his honest efforts to fulfill his mission on earth (to glorify God) by living the dignified and exalted life which his Creator offers to him.

THE WAY TO TRUE nobility is the same for all people.

It is found in our full recognition of the sovereignty of God, by doing His will; in the full acceptance of the worth and dignity of our fellowmen; and in the understanding of our own value.

These are things we learn, and since these are the basic elements of true nobility, it is apparent that it is available to all of us. Nobility may be found in all stations of living. We see it in high places, occasionally, and we see it in the more ordinary and the humble places, too.

If we put the transcendent values, which are known to us, in first place above the mundane values which must never be first, we will move into the open area of personal

This is much to be preferred to the prevalent, present-day degrading concepts and

IN VIEW of our origin, we are born to be noble but nobility is contingent upon the wise management of our lives.

A License To Steal

DURING the ugliest hours of Detroit's July riots a Negro factory worker sat on his front steps listening to the gunfire from Twelfth Street.

"That's not civil rights," he said, "That's not racial; that's just people who want some-thing for nothing. They just want to steal."

He was right of course. Even President Johnson, reluctantly and tardily ordering troops into the city, said, "Pillage and looting have nothing to do with civil rights."

Yet is it not two generations of free handouts by Big Government which whetted this public appetite for "something for nothing"?

IN DETROIT, frenzied mobs invaded private property and took what they wanted. For 30 years our Government has been a Robin Hoodlum, taking by force from the rich to give to the poor. Is it any wonder the progeny of that philosophy feel licensed

To the infantile intellect there is no difference between "soaking the rich" directly or indirectly. And whether it is done in the name of "welfare" or at the point of

The so-called "backward nations" have made less progress in the dozen years we have been helping them most than in the 12 years theretofore. And indeed they, too, bite the hand which feeds them.

This is not to say the hungry, the handi-capped and the infirm should be turned away. The poor, the Bible says, we will always have with us.

But politicians, buying the votes of the lazy with the disproportionate taxes of the industrious, have made "the payoff" a way

THE JULY "Black Power" conference in Newark, New Jersey, concluded with a resolution demanding a "guaranteed annual wage for all Negroes,"

"If America don't come around, then black people are going to burn it down." Ironically, on the charred doorway of a looted and burned business building in Detroit, midst hundreds of square blocks

DEAR EDITOR

Distinction Not Claimed

Dear Mr. Turner; In reference to a recent letter to you regarding the "founder" of the Wildcat Band, please be advised that I have never claimed this distinction. I would rather think as an educator, that the first school band in Littlefield was founded by the Superintendent of Schools with the backing of the Board of Trustees. I agree that Mr. A. B. Taylor was probably the first director to be employed by the Schools.

My only claim was the rejuvenation of the band after World War 11. I moved to Littlefield in Sept. of 1946, and had 21 inexperienced band members with obsolete equipment and very little music to play --Uniforms? -- White coveralls.

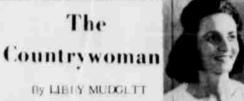

The growth and success of the bands since that time has been due to many factors -Splendid help and cooperation from the students, an administration that was truly interested in cultural values for the student and the town, and a very active Band Boosters Association.

It was indeed a pleasure working with the above mentioned groups, and I shall always remember and appreciate the many friends and patrons that had such an important part in building one of the finest School Bands in the State. Many hundreds of Wildcat Band "Exes" that have played in the bands since 1946 will bear me out in the above statements.

In their recent letter to you, Mrs. Maner and Mrs. Smith are apparently inferring that I claimed to be the founder of the To set the record straight, I have never made such a statement, and neither do I claim to be the only director that has attained honors with the Band.

I would appreciate your publishing this, as I am sure many "Exes" of the Wildcat Band will be looking for an answer to Mrs. Maner and Smith's letter.

Sincerely Don R. Hays San Angelo Public Schools

SHE NOTES that weeds grow daily with no encouragement or cultivation whatsoever. No matter how many times they are disced, rotary hoed or knifed, they soon spring back up --- like bad traits.

On the other hand, crops need constant cultivation, encouragement and loving care --- like good traits.

Think of the wonderful crops and great characters we could all have if the weeds and bad traits didn't require so much time and energy being eliminated.

SHE READS of horrifying riots in the many cities all across the nation.

She wonders how many of the rioters would have had the energy or inclination to act in such a manner if they had hoed in a field all day long; driven a tractor in the summer heat; moved endless miles of irrigation pipe; or fought in a war many miles across an ocean.

'Many Thanks'

Dear Bill;

Would you please convey my thanks to all the nice people in Littlefield that helped me out in the Pony League District Tournament. It would be useless to try and name each one that did help but President Arthur Sumners and Bobby Short that were on the committee with me know who they are. Also Walter Birkelback took good care of the grounds and Dr. Nace sure kept the foul balls coming back in.

The Borger people told me that they really enjoyed the hospitality and sportsmanship of the Littlefield fans and players. The Castro County boys are also very happy to have had a chance to play on your fine

Pony League field. Thanks for all the publicity that your paper and KZZN gave us. It always helps to keep things going on time when people are well informed. Orville Blair, Randy an item about the weather. According to it, the odd weather w had this summer such as unseasonably days and too wet in some places and dry in others has been blamed by a west bureau expert on the jet streams, the up air wind patterns above 10,000 feet.

One jet stream flows from Alaska a northwest Canada over the Great La region and then toward the Northeast. other comes in from the Gulf of M crosses the southwest, and turns east

The weather expert went on to say the streams explain this sum ner's weather, when asked about how to explain the streams, he said "We don't know the !! answers. They're never normal."

I have thought this over and I belief what he's saying is that he doesn't und stand the weather either and that it is never normal. I LEARNED two things this weekend.

I learned that bric-a-brac is the material substance of a home. Pretty little oddsand-ends, colorful pillows, houseplants blooming here and there. Without these a house is -- well -- just a house.

My mother and I made the final trip to Paducah this weekend (one of many) to strip our home -- of nearly 30 years -- down to nothing by basic furniture. (As of Aug. I, another woman and her daughter are renting it furnished.)

I WALKED through that house Sunday morning. There was the same beautiful long-loved furniture. But somehow it WASN'T the same. For the first time in all these years it didn't smile and say, "Welcome home, Honey."

I went through every room. I looked at everything. But not once did I feel it was looking back at me. Something was wrong.

THEN I KNEW.

All the bric-a-brac was gone. Every beloved little figurine or knicknack -- each with its own personal memory and origin in our lives -- was gone. And with them had gone the material expression -- the visible personalities -- of the family that once had made this house our home.

For the first time in my life I stood in the living room of the house that had been our home and felt nothing but loneliness.

BUT -- BY NOW a new family has moved old friends who know and love that house, their bric-a-brac is giving the furnition back its smile, and colorful odds-and-es are replacing the loneliness with their ince intangible sunlight.

PROUD PEACH PICKER -- Mrs. L. D. Standaford, gathered peaches measuring nearly a foot around from her small peach tree at 965 W. 3rd St. this week. The one in the pan, on the right, measured 11 inches.

THEY'RE HERE SOMEWHERE! -- Glen Mills looks over his young soybeans five miles east of town as they try to grow in the shadow of thick weeds that has recently engulfed the field. Moisture measuring up to two feet recently has made it impossible for most county farmers to wage a winning fight to clean up their land.

IN TALL COTTON -- This irrigated field of May cotton about a mile northeast of town promises to be tall in time. It is one of the few crops in that area that escaped severe hail -- and replanting -- earlier this season, Surrounding fields generally suffered more as storms skipped through the region in June and July. The large leaves are being inspected by Asst. County Agent Sam Kuykendall.

STAMPEDE FOR FEED -- This stock, on Les Lichte's farm about two miles east of Littlefield, is evidence of what some farmers say is a growing and significant trend toward diversification in the county. Lichte got into the small-time cattle tasiness last year in an experimental effort to make better use of his land. He also plans to run cows on diverted acreage this November.

Sam Nafzger came to America from Switzerland in 1887. He first settled in Green County, Wisconsin, where he later met Miss Margaret Zurphlu who came to America also from Switzerland in 1893. They were married June 14, 1900. In the latter part of March, 1913, they and their five children, Arthur, William D., Margaret, Paul and Esther, came to Texas. They were met at the train in Plainview by Bob McQuillan, who brought them to their new home south of Olton, land which Nafzger had bought on a previous trip in 1908.

Bob McQuillan was sheriff of Lamb County at that time and wned one of the two or three cars in the i What a blustery welcome we received! Such a sandstorm was unbelievable! By the time we reached our home we were minus two new hats, Poor Bill and Paul didn't hold on to theirs! Vividly in our minds even today are the trips we made to church. We rode in our pretty surrey with its pretty cushions and purple fringe, which we had shipped to Texas. The trip of ten miles each way was a special thrill to Mother, who taught us to love the wide open spaces. She pointed out the wild flowers all along the way. On these trips we sang hymns, "Texas Land, Sweet Texas Land," and there was one cowboy song which Mother sang that brought tears almost by the cupful

COWBOY SONG Once in the saddle I used to feel tipsy, Once in the saddle I used to feel gay, T'was first to card playing then to hard drinking -Got shot in the breast and now I must die.

Go write me a letter to my gray-haired mother And one to my sister, my sister so dear, But then there is another one who is dearer than Mother And how she would weep if she knew I was here.

Go bring mesome water, a cup of cold water the poor fellow said, And ere they had brought it, The spirit had left him and gone to his master, The poor Cowboy was dead.

So beat the drum slowly and play the fife lowly, And play the dead marches as you're passing along.

And then to the graveyard and place the sod o'er me, I'm a dying cowboy and I know I've done wrong.

The trips to market at Plainview were not so easy. Marketing hogs and grain meant a two-day wagon trip. For these trips we bought Dad heavy felt boots to keep warm. He would always stay at Colonel Nash's for the night. Next day they would load up with coal and supplies and start the thirty-mile journey home. Most of our shopping was done from Sears, Roebuck and Co. and Montgomery Ward catalogues. A snow storm at Christmas was a catastrophe -- it meant the mail carrier couldn't bring out the packages. But we saw it through happily. The children were made happy with decorated cookies, garlands of popcorn and cranberries on an old branch covered with snow (made of cotton batting).

Visiting with neighbors was rather seldom, but when we did the visits were treasured for months.
